Should Jeby be crowned he will be the first Jewish champion in this class since the reign of Al McCoy, who won the title from George Chip, April 7, 1914. If Frankie be awarded the "dukedom" he will be the first scrapper of Italian descent to wear the crown in 12 years. His predecessor was the Italian Johnny Wilson, who outpointed Mike O'Dowd for the honor.

CAMPBELLFORD JUNIORS BEAT BELLEVILLE 6-4

Runnions and Bush Score Winning Goals in Overtime Period.

TURNER IS STAR.

Mill Town Fans See Junior O. H.A. Teams Give Brilliant Exhibition.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Completely wiping off the map the blanking that Belleville gave them last week when they played in that city, the Campbellford Juniors shone forth as superior wielders of the hickory last evening when, after thirty minutes of overtime play, they put the Belleville outfit to route with a 6-4 count after ninety minutes of some of the finest and fastest hockey that has been seen in the Mill Town for some years. Playing in the Campbellford Arena in the Junior O.H.A. fixture, they staged a game that was fast and clean, and one which at times the visitors were unable to keep up with.

The Belleville boys came back to the bush town with the idea of a sure win, but got the surprise of their life when, after the first period, they had to fight for every inch of the ice and were outskated and outclassed during most of the play. The first period was the hold-up for the Maroons, three goals being counted against them. Oddie was in the nets for this session but was slightly off his game, although the first counter was difficult to see owing to the obstructions in front of the net. The second two, however, he misjudged, which gave the visitors the edge on the play.

Turner, however, took the nets for the rest of the game and played a splendid game of goal-tending, only one counter getting past him in seventy minutes of play, and this despite some furious shooting and crowding on the part of Belleville, when they realized they were up against a team that their previous win had made them under-estimate.

The whole of the play after the first period was fast, and some of the finest exhibitions of stick-handling and back-checking were seen by the large crowd of fans.

Play Brilliant Game.

This was common to both aggregations, and showed that despite the heavier line-up of the visitors, honors were even when it came to real play, with the balance of speed on the Maroons side. Rigby and Barriage were the playmakers for Belleville, the former playing a very strong game of defence, with occasional rushes which were formidable. Barriage at pivot, with the assistance of Goyer, were a fast pair and kept the Campbellford defence working hard. This, however, contrary to the last game with Belleville, was one of the many bright spots in the Maroons' play, K. Oddie and Milne making a sure-fire team in front of the nets. Runnions, Bush and Lambert starred for the Maroons, Bush developing speed that the Belleville players were unable to keep up with. This proved a hindrance on several occasions for he outskated his team-mates with the puck, and passed without a man to pass to. As in previous games, Bush and Runnions played much together, and these two as a counting combination cannot be beaten in the group. Of the six goals scored in the game, Runnions counted three, Bush two, the other going to Lambert.

The first session was slow with Belleville holding down the count. Play at no time reached the point of being fast although the visitors were the aggressors, the Maroons feeling their way and doing what they could to keep the invaders off their net. The first count was made by Belleville when Barriage netted the puck from the blue line seven minutes after play. This sent the Maroons to their end for some defensive play which see-sawed for the next ten minutes when Goyer for the visitors came across with another counter from the centre, a lone play. From the face-off, Lambert made a drive on a pass from Runnions and netted the first Campbellford count Belleville scoring their third tally one minute before the puck. He had a clear run however for Oddie was off the Maroon's defense, being penalized for tripping.

Turner In Nets

With Turner in the nets for the second period the Maroons started to play hockey and despite the fact that the visitors took the offensive they came up against a stone wall.

Repeated attacks by Rigby, Barriage and Goyer failed to net them any counters and as far as they were concerned the session was scoreless. Heavy checking prevailed and although Rigby had tried to use his weight in the first period to overcome the Maroon's defense he was badly shaken in the second round for Oddie altered his tactics and proved all a match for him. Several very dangerous scrums were staged in the Campbellford house. Runnions started the Campbellford counting with three minutes to go, landing a pretty shot in the Belleville net from a pass from Bush. One minute later, almost from the face-off, he tied the score with another count from one of Bush' passes, the gong ringing on a 3-3 tally.

The third session opened in good style with both aggregations fighting hard for the counting tally but the Maroons more than holding their own. Bush got the Maroon's a one goal lead three minutes after play started with a beautiful lone play, and from then on it looked like a sure win for the entertainers. With one minute to go however Belleville evened the count when Howie made a tally from a pass from Harvey, who was behind the Campbellford net.

A. Scoreless Period

The overtime periods started and after the first ten minutes of play it looked as if the game would end in a tie, for neither aggregation were able to obtain any advantage although play ranged from one goal to the other. The speed of the game increased and the fans were worked up to a pitch of excitement which they were unable to control. Runnions gave the Maroon's their winning lead with six minutes to go when he netted a counter after a scrimmage in front of the Belleville net on a pass from Lambert. Two minutes later Bush with a lone play cemented this lead, the final bell ringing on a 6-4 win for Campbellford.

This win gives the Maroons a good chance to get in the play-offs with two wins and one loss to their credit. They have yet three more games to play, one with Trenton, which they can assume a win, as they have already shown their supremacy over that outfit, and two with Madoc, the as yet unknown quantity. At present it looks as though Campbellford will be matched against Belleville in the pay-offs, when home and home games will be staged, goals count. The next game the juniors play is against Madoc on Tuesday the 17th, which will be staged at Campbellford.

TWO WHITEWASH DECISIONS FEATURE OF CHURCH HOCKEY

Knox Midgets Win 8-0 While St. James' Juveniles Cop 9-0 Victory.

ALL SAINTS' WIN 3-2.

Two one-sided coats of whitewash featured the four Church Hockey League games played last night at All Saints' rink on fast ice. Knox Midgets wielded the brush freely to plaster All Saints with an 8-0 defeat, while it was 9-0 for St. James' Juveniles over St. Andrew's. The junior game between George Street and Trinity Juniors went to the former, 6 to 2; and the last game saw All Saints' Intermediates take a neat 3-2 decision over George Street.

The Midgets opened it up, and it soon became a walk-away for the Knox boys, who showed smart rushing, good teamplay and deadly marksmanship. The Saints tried hard and were outlucked on several near-scoring occasions, but they were generally outplayed most of the way. The goalie and forwards were particularly effective for the winners. The teams:

Knox.—Goal, Graham; defence, LeClair, Laing; centre, Williams; wings, Lucas, Johnson; alternates, Cunningham, McDonald.

9-0 Whitewash

St. James' Juveniles rode high, wide and handsome over and through St. Andrew's to pile up a 9-0 win. It was a good game for one period, but the victors had a big edge the last two, boring through time and again on one and two-man rushes. Leggott and Spencely each tallied in the first; Leggott got two and Heal one in the second; Leggott countered twice more, Heal one and Smart one in the third. Heal and Leggott were easily the best offensively. The teams:

St. Andrew's.—Goal, Killingbeck; defence, Mowry, McKone; centre, Shields; wings, McPherson, Allen; alternates, Phillips, Johnson, Doherty.

St. James.—Goal, Piercy; defence, Grose, Leggott; centre, Heal; wings, Spencely, Smart; alternates, Lawson, Welsh, Dinsdale.

Referee, H. Fisher.

Play Close Game

The Junior fixture was closer, though it was a strong last-period rally that gave Trinity its two goals, the George Street outfit having piled in three in the first, two in the second and one more in the last chapter. Parnell, Kingdon and Heard got the first trio, L. Cassie and Kingdon each tallied in the middle go, with the last one being chalked up by Heard on a long shot. Armstrong, aided by Hamley, bulged the hemp for the first Trinity score, with Hamley taking Huffman's corner pass for the other one. The teams:

Trinity.—Goal, Mattice; defence, Davern, McBain; centre, Head; wings, Armstrong, Hamley; alternates, E. Huffman, Hayes, and B. Huffman.

George Street.—Goal, Sloan; defence, Parnell, Lesurf; centre, Kingdon; wings, Stabler, Heard; alternates, L. Cassie, I. Cassie and Taylor.

Referee, H. Fisher.

Win 3-2 Victory

The Intermediates wound the hockey session up in fine style, putting on a fast, exciting game that was always in doubt. All Saints got two in the first and one in the third, McCullough getting all three markers. Tuck put one in for George Street in the first, and Bothwell got one in the second. The score was tied till five minutes before the end of the third. It was a lively argument, marked by hard work and good defensive hockey in the later stages. Aside from the opposing goalies and McCullough it would be hard to name an outstanding star. The teams:

George Street.—Goal, Seabrook; defence, Ramsay, Huggins; centre, Tuck; wings, Payne, Bothwell; alternates, Routley, Taylor.

All Saints.—Goal, Hope; defence, Sanders, C. Frost; centre, B. Frost; wings, Dyer, McCullough; alternates, Hall, Goodson, Hughes, Olaveson.

Referee, H. Rehill.

The Strangler Wins "Tiger" Dula Match

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13 (C.P.)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, recognized in many parts of Canada and the United States as world's heavyweight champion, won a decision from Tiger Duala, massive East Indian, without pinning down his opponent for a fall.

The East Indian last night attempted a flying tackle at Lewis in the fifth round, missed and knocked himself out to give the Strangler the verdict.

There is something new under the sun in the shape of the double-deck earring. It is built somewhat on the plan of a horseshoe, with a decorative bulb at each end, one to wear above the ear and one below. They are joined by a fine gold wire which fits back of the ear and holds the earring in place.

LEYLAND AND WYATT PILE UP VISITORS' TOTAL FOLLOWING DISASTROUS INNINGS OPENING

Former Bats 83 While Latter Adds 78 Runs For Impressive Score.

Record Crowd Sees Match.

Australians Give Sterling Display With Brilliant Catches and Keen Bowling.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 13 (C.P. Cable).—England had scored 236 runs for seven wickets at close of play to-day in the third test match with Australia for the coveted "ashes." Leyland and Wyatt brought up the visitors' score after a disastrous opening in which four wickets fell for 37 runs. Leyland batted 83 and Wyatt added 78.

Forty thousand persons, a record crowd for these grounds, saw the English team collapse at the outset of the inning. England's leading batsmen fell by the wayside in the face of brilliant catches and keen Australian bowling. Just before lunch, however, Maurice Leyland, Yorkshire professional and R. E. S. Wyatt, the vice captain, settled down, and the score gradually mounted.

Visitors Bat First

D. R. Jardine, the English captain, won the toss and the English batted first. Herbert Sutcliffe, noted first wicket batsman, was accompanied by Jardine, and the two faced the bowling of T. Wall and W. J. O'Reilly. Only four runs were scored after 30 minutes play and then Wall sent down a poor length ball which Jardine tried to turn to leg. The ball took his leg stump for the first wicket.

W. R. Hammond, Gloucestershire professional who has been considered one of the best bats in England, was out with only two runs when he kocked Wall into the alert hands of W. A. Oldfield, the Aussie wicket-keeper. The score was 16 for two wickets.

Sutcliffe was caught by Wall at silly mid-on off W. J. O'Reilly's bowling when he had scored nine.

L. E. G. Ames was out for three runs when H. Ironmonger bowled his wicket after he had been in with Maurice Leyland for 20 minutes. The score was 30 for four wickets.

R. E. S. Wyatt then joined Leyland, who had been batting stolidly and carefully and the two began to make a stand. Their enterprising batting completely changed the outlook.

C. V. Grimmett, then replaced O'Reilly on the Aussie bowling side and Wyatt and Leyland opened out. Wyatt smashed him to leg repeatedly and then swept him over a square leg into the pavilion for a six.

Onslaught Continues

The heavy batting continued when Leyland sent Ironmonger to the boundary for four two consecutive times. When play was adjourned for tea the English total was 154, with four wickets down.

After the tea interval O'Reilly resumed bowling. Maurice Leyland survived a leg-before-wicket appeal, and on the very next ball W. J. O'Reilly clean bowled his leg stump. Leyland was out with 83, with the score standing at 186 for five.

With his score at 78 Wyatt jumped out and drove Grimmett into mid-off, where V. Y. Richardson clung to the ball, amid the resounding cheers of the crowd. The score total was 196 for six wickets.

C. V. Grimmett took G. O. Allen's leg stump after he had scored 15 runs.

Edward Paynter, Lancashire professional, and Hedley Verity, English bowler, were at bat when play was closed for the day, with the score standing at 236 runs for seven wickets.

Tommy Paul Risks His Title To-Night

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (A.P.)—Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N.Y., will pitch his world featherweight championship into the Chicago stadium battle pit to-night against a southpaw, Freddie Miller of Cincinnati—and the old "Friday the 13th" superstition.

Notwithstanding the notion that Friday the 13th is supposed to be unlucky and that lefthanders only complicate situation, Paul probably will be a slight choice to retain his title, possession of which is limited to States holding membership in the National Boxing Association in the 10 round bout. In his last engagement, Paul boosted his own championship stock by punching out a clean decision over Fidel La Barba, who a short time before, had been edged out by Kid Chocolate, holder of the world championship as far as New York is concerned.

Team Pilot Appeals To Sporting Public

The Hockey Public, through the Sports Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you publish this little appeal to the hockey following of Peterborough to-day? I wish to ask them to come out and support our hockey team as they did in the past. I have been absent from O.H.A. hockey for several years, but feel that we have a good team this winter, and one deserving of support.

We started the season with nothing, but did not appeal to the public for any financial assistance, being dependent entirely on gates to cover our heavy expenses of new equipment and trips to Orono, Port Hope, and Bowmanville. The admission is lower than ever at the Brock, and I think the hockey is exceptionally good this season. We have a team composed entirely of local boys, strictly amateurs, and on behalf of them, I ask for a good attendance, particularly at to-night's game, as the first few gates are very important to our existence. We will do our best to give local fandom good, clean and exciting hockey in return for their support, vocal and financial.

Thanking you, I am, sincerely,
EDDIE WRIGHT,
Manager of the Intermediate Team

HOCKEY OUTFITS AT FULL STRENGTH

Orono and Intermediate Petes Will Give Fans Plenty of Action To-night.

Orme Gamsby's Orono Ramblers play the Petes at the Brock to-night in an O.H.A. intermediate fixture at 8.30. It is the opening game at home for the local intermediates, who won their first tussle away last Monday. They hope to make it two straight to-night in order to keep pace with the fast-travelling Bowmanville squad. Orono will be at full strength for this affair and Manager Gamsby, colorful and tricky veteran manager of the Ramblers, is convinced his team can lick the Petes right on Peterborough ice.

Skating races for boys sixteen and under will be run off between periods for two prizes, first being a sweater by Albion Knitting Company. Chris Graham and R. M. Glover will be judges, with Dr. Harold Long acting as starter. The puck will be faced by Percy Bond, president of the O.H.A.

Jim Gillespie will take care of the goal-tending job, with LeBarr, Howe andn Weir on defense. The first front line is composed of Ellis, Dallin and Dundas; with Jarvis, Creighton and Hatton on the alternating wall. Manager Eddie Wright has the boys in the pink and clicking in midseason form with their rushing, passing and checking. He believes the Petes are headed somewhere this season if given decent ice and the support of the fans.

The ice should be real fast to-night and give the Petes a chance to open out as they did in their first game away from home, during which they looked like a senior squad in action. The Orono boys are quite willing to mix it so to-night's contest promises not only speedy and clever hockey but hard playing as well, with the rivalry quite marked.

Bill Herd President Of Boys' Hobby Show

The following officers for 1933 of the Peterborough Boys' Hobby Show were elected at a meeting held last night in the Y.M.C.A.: President, Bill Herd; vice-president, Gordon McIntyre; advertising committee, Vince Holmes and Allan Holmes; secretary, Bill Wheeler; treasurer, John Langley. The honorary president is Dr. H. M. Yelland, chairman of the Boys' Work Committee; honorary secretary, G. H. Roper; promoter, Jim McClenaghan.

A meeting of all last year's directorst and executive members will be held at a dinner in the Y.M.C.A. Saturday at 12.15, when plans for 1933 will be discussed.

C.C.I. CAGERS VICTORIOUS

COBOURG, Jan. 13—The C.C.I. senior boys and C.C.I. senior girls basketball teams put on exhibition games of basketball with the Invictus Club and the Sorores girls at the collegiate institute gym, thte proceeds of which were to be devoted entirely to the local relief fund. The C.C.I. teams were the victors in both games The scores were 56 for the C.C.I. boys and 53 for the Invictus, and 36 for the C. C.I. girls and 26 for the Sorores.

(By C. J. P.)

The local intermediate O.H.A. season will be officially opened with the time-honored ceremony of facing off the rubber this evening at 8.30 up at the Brock. Orono Ramblers and the Petes will tangle in this game, and if the gabby and foxy Orme Gamsby isn't talking through his chapeau, the local lads will find a mighty strong bunch of visiting pucksters in their hair before the last gong. The Petes are at full strength, too, and with good ice should show their real form They are powerful checkers, fast skaters and have perfected a pretty style of combination this season. It ought to be a smart hockey game.

* * * * * * *

Prexy Max Swanston of the E.P.L. said: "Absolutely!" when asked if his loop would accept Eddie Wright's challenge to a benefit game for George Merrett. He had his left eye badly injured in a game in Lakefield last week, and while he can see light from darkness with it and even see moving objects, the eye will never regain ordinary sight, we understand. The different East Peterborough League managers will all be at the Brock next Wednesday and their all-star team decided then.

* * * * * * *

Another suggestion on this matter, coming from Pete King, was that an abbreviated ice-lacrosse game might be played between a local team and one from Norwood, in addition to the hockey game of the Petes' intermediates and the E.P.L. all-stars. It might be a good idea to run such a game for, say, half an hour in two fifteen-minute frames. And also, have skating races or some other entertainment put on between the hockey periods. Make it a real attractive evening up there in about two weeks' time, and this coupled with the fact that hockey fans and others who remember what a fine fellow—as well as a good player—Merret was, should jam the arena

* * * * * * *

The Bowmanville intermediates will come to Peterborough the 23rd, that's a week from next Monday. It is the game postponed December 30th, and arrangements between the two managers yesterday resulted in this date being picked. The Bowmanville pucksters are the ones to beat for the group title, those in the know claim, so the Petes better work hard, to be ready for them. Of course, we go there the 16th.

* * * * * * *

The local juniors are playing down there this evening, it being their third game of the season and the first away from home. Let's hope they repeat their score of the other night here against this same team. They go to Port Hope next Tuesday night and to Cobourg the 23rd, winding up the schedule here against Cobourg the 25th. We're calling the Petes to win their junior group section and maybe go quite a bit further this winter.

* * * * * * *

It's Westclox at Norwood and Carters at Lakefield in the E.P.L. this p.m., with a City League game between St. Peter's and Norwood being played on the latter's ice, too. Rotary and P.C.I. meet in another City Loop tussle after tonight's O.H.A. setto at the Brock. And the School Hockey League tears aside the curtain tomorrow at All Saints' rink, King Edward and King George meeting at nine, Central and Queen Mary at ten, and Queen Alex vs. Prince of Wales at eleven bells.

The fair hoop hunters or in other words, the girl basketeers, go into action in a big way again tonight at the Y.W. four games being played in this order: "Y" Intermediates vs. "Y" Seniors at 7.00 C.G.E. Juniors vs. Wohelos at 7.45, Westclox and Blue Petes at 8.30, and C.G.E. Juniors vs. Wohelos at 7.45, Westclox and Blue Petes at 8.30, and C.G.E. against St. Paul's at 9.15. The lone affair Monday is at 8.30 between Senior School and Westclox Juniors. Here's the church cage games at the "Y" tomorrow evening: 6.00, Trinity juveniles vs. Knox; 6.35, George Street A vs. St. Paul's juveniles; 7.15, Knox juniors vs. St. John's. Lots of action this week-end among the "bounce 'em and shoot gals and boys".

For the first time in a number of years, the Neill Trophy for curling in this district leaves Peterborough. F. Kempt's Norwood rink captured it last night in the finals over Alex Kay's squad in keen competition. This same Norwood skip was the last out-of-town winner, too. The district tourney saw some classy curling and mighty close playing between different local and outside rinks, sixteen being entered. They had a break this year, good ice being in for all games, and the tourney finished up at the right side of midnight yesterday.

Here's what one sportswriter had to say recently after parking beside a half-pint-sized chap who was viewing his first hockey game with slightly glazed eyes: "At times he shuddered when a husky defence man 'heisted' a puck carrier or ironed out a protruding Adam's apple with a yard or so of hockey stick. He stuck it out till the final bell and then, bracing himself on the back of the seat, pronounced a judgment, which only could have resulted from sober reflection and calm deliberation. "It looks," he said judiciously, like a game that would be very trying for any one just learning to skate!"

* * * * * * *

Private reflections: Your bleacher fan is a regular sports encyclopedia; he never misses a game and can rattle off facts about the players like a machine gun in high . . . . Wonder if the Yank writers will lay off knocking the N.H.L. screwy playoff system now that the International Baseball League has adopted the same idea to ladle up the gravy . . . . Boxing seems to be in the doldrums around here the past month or more . . . Clarence Rowland, president of the Albany ball club, in charge till a buyer is found, says the job is a Kathleen Mavourneen—it may be for years and it may be forever! . . . . And as Orme Gamsby cracks to us a few days ago, 'What's all this talk about the technocrats? I'll take mine straight any day."

Cobourg Definitely Out Of O.H.A.

Failure of any Cobourg representatives to attend the O.H.A. subcommittee meeting in order to file an application for re-entry in the intermediate series, is taken as proof that Cobourg is definitely out of O.H.A. competition for this year.

It is alleged that W. S. Edwards, president of the hockey club and owner of the Cobourg tannery, was the man who blocked the proposed re-entry of the easterners after they had withdrawn owing to the Ethier boys being declared ineligible because of residential rules.

Interviewed over the long-distance telephone Mr. Edwards denied that he had used his position as owner of the tannery to exert any undue influence over anyone who might want to continue the hockey team.

"There was only one man on the executive and the hockey committee who disagreed with the decision of the club to drop out of the O.H.A. He was supposed to attend the meeting of the association but when the time came this man decided to forget the entire matter and abide by the decision of the majority," Mr. Edwards stated. "We will be back with the O.H.A. next year and there is no hard feeling whatever. Stories to the effect that the Ethier boys have lost their positions with me now that there is no hockey are erroneous," he said.

SCREEN ODDITIES

by Captain Roscoe Fawcett

CECIL B. DEMILLE HAS THE REPUTATION OF ALWAYS HAVING LAVISH BATH SCENES IN HIS PICTURES BUT ACTUALLY HE HAS USED ONLY 7 IN THE 56 FILMS HE HAS MADE. (Copyright, 1933, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) 12-30

Many humorous references have been made about Cecil B. DeMille as "the bathtub king of the movies" because of the elaborate bath scenes he has had in his films. Although he is noted for his directorial genius, oddly enough his bath sequences are most often remembered. Actually he has had such scenes only in "Old Wives for New," "Male and Female," "Saturday Night," "Don't Change Your Husband," "Madam Satan," "Dynamite" and his recently completed "The Sign of the Cross"—a total of seven pictures out of the fifty-six he has directed.

* * * * * * *

A variety of diversions are engaged in by players while on the set during the waits caused by changing scenes, placing of cameras and lights and other delays necessary to production. On the Radio studios lot Betty Furness, Phyllis Fraser and other young players engage in knitting to pass the time. Phyllis is knitting a throw for the chaise longue in her room while Betty is knitting a blanket for an anticipated niece or nephew.

Although Jean Hersholt appears on the screen in a wide variety of roles, he has worn the same pair of shoes in seven of his pictures The shoes are of the "Congress gaiter" style and were seen in "Old Heidelberg," "The Old Soak," "Abie's Irish Rose," "Alias the Deacon," "Give and Take," "Transatlantic," and are now being worn for his role in "Flesh" with Wallace Beery.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

PETER TAKE A HINT.

Peter Rabbit was what is called absent-minded. When people are thinking of something so hard that they fail to hear when spoken to, or they do things without really knowing what they are doing, they are said to be absent-minded. That is the way Peter was when he reached the dear Old Brier Patch after his talk with Tommy Tit the Chickadee about Welcome Robin. He was so absent-minded that little Mrs. Peter spoke to him three times without making him hear. Finally she bumped him on his wabbly nose. He paid attention then.

"Is anything the matter with your hearing, Peter Rabbit?" she demanded. "If you can't hear any better than you seem to be able to you have no business to put a foot outside the dear Old Brier Patch. Now wake up and tell me what ails you."

Mrs. Peter spoke sharply.

Peter grinned. It was a sheepish grin, for the truth is Peter felt rather foolish.

"I was thinking, my dear, I was thinking, that was all," said he. "I was trying to puzzle out what Tommy Tit meant about Welcome Robin. Now listen, my dear, and see if you can make head or tail of it."

Then Peter told her all about how he had overheard Tommy Tit say that Welcome Robin seemed to be in good spirits in spite of the cold weather; how he had followed Tommy and begged him to explain, and how Tommy had teased him and finally told him to go down to the swamp where the cedar trees grow.

"Is there anything the matter with your hearing, Peter Rabbit?" she demanded

"Tommy Tit talked just as if he had seen Welcome Robin recently, but how could he if Welcome Robin is in the sunny Southland? What do you make of it, my dear?" concluded Peter.

"Nothing!" replied practical little Mrs. Peter rather sharply. "Tommy Tit was just trying to have some fun at your expense. Those ears of yours are going to get you into real trouble one of these days. Welcome Robin's affairs don't concern us. If he is in good spirits I am glad of it, but I don't care a flip of my tail where he is. There is one thing sure and that is that he isn't here and he won't be here for many a long week."

"What do you suppose Tommy Tit meant by telling me to go down to the swamp where the cedar trees grow?" interrupted Peter.

"I don't know and I don't care," snapped little Mrs. Peter crossly. "You take my advice and keep away from there. It is no place for you. I should be worried to death if I thought you were going way over there. Now forget Welcome Robin until it is time for him to return."

But this was easier for her to say than for Peter to do. He just couldn't get Welcome Robin out of his head. He puzzled and puzzled over the matter. He looked out over the snow-covered Green Meadows to the glistening white trees of the Green Forest. "If Welcome Robin came back now he would starve to death," he muttered. "Welcome couldn't live a day in this weather. I wonder what there is down in that swamp where the cedar trees grow. I believe Tommy Tit meant something. It was a hint! That's what it was—a hint. In spite of Mrs. Peter I'm going down there this very night, so there!"

Peter did just that thing. As soon as jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had gone to bed behind the Purple Hills and the Black Shadows were creeping everywhere, Peter started for that part of the Green Forest which is called a swamp, and in which the cedar trees grow.

What Today Means to YOU

by MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN"

If January 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7.30 a.m. to 8.50 a.m., from 11 a.m. to 12.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 9.30 a.m. to 10.45 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Family relationships should prove productive of great happiness on this day; very little friction should be apparent in the home. Plans of a business nature formulated on this day may quite possibly meet with opposition from an unexpected source. Do not rely too much on others.

Born on December 13th, the child will be inclined to be overcautious; he will tend to be hesitant in his thought and actions. Once started along a certain line of activity, he will display great tenacity of purpose. A will to win will carry him far. His interests will be varied and he may encounter difficulty in finding his life's work.

If January 13th is the date of your birth, you probably allow yourself to be too greatly influenced by your friends; neither your thoughts nor your time are your own. You are a person of many fears; fears of sickness, of financial difficulties, fear of public opinion, etc., you allow to take too prominent a place in your life. You think a great deal about the material things of life; money you are inclined to make your god. All of your energy is expended in attempting to satiate your material wants; you pamper yourself.

Born on January 13th, you would seem to have possibilities were you to pursue a career in one of the arts. Newspaper work, or writing in some form or other would probably offer a commercial outlet for your talents. A practical mind, progressive in nature would lend itself to a career in some phase of banking, either investment or commercial. Your inquisitive nature, your curiosity about people and things, your ability to intelligently grasp and correlate facts, these qualities would seem to make it possible for you to follow successfully work of a research or investigatorial nature. Women born on this date enjoy gay surroundings, and are often inclined to neglect their more serious and practical duties in order to follow a gay social life.

The members of the King's Own Mission Band met at the parsonage on Sunday afternoon. A recitation was given by Enid Nicholl and the chapter in the study book was taken by Mrs. F. Birney. The band reorganized with the following officers: President, Enid Nichol; vice., Billie McBride; secretary, Francis Coey; treasurer, Roberta Webb; Friend secretary, Mabel Webb; mite box superintendent, J. D. McBride. The program committee for the next meeting is J. D. McBride, Albert Parsons and Jack Stewart.

Indigestion, Gas

IF you're troubled with stomach distress, gas, and your blood needs enriching, there's nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart of 129 S. Caroline St., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I used to have such awful stomach distress, I had indigestion most all the while, and was continually bloated with gas. At times I had heartburn that made me feel miserable and I would become dizzy-headed frequently. But Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery built up my system and entirely rid me of the stomach distress, I am pleased to speak well of the 'Discovery' as I have had no stomach trouble in years." Sold by druggists.

HOUSE PASSES ITS FARM BILL

Establishes Minimum Prices Approaching Pre-War Parity on Seven Commodities.

NEXT MOVE SENATE'S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (C.P.).—Chief provisions of the Emergency Farm Bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate are:

Establishes minimum prices approaching the pre-war parity ratio of seven commodities—wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs, rice, dairy products and peanuts.

Levies a processing tax to make up the difference between this level and actual farm prices, distributing the proceeds to farmers on their percentage of the domestic consumption.

Requires beneficiaries to reduce acreage and production, or in the case of dairymen, not to increase their output.

Increases tariffs by the amount of the processing taxes.

Levies the amount of the cotton tax on silk and rayon.

Provides for administration by the Secretary of Agriculture and continues for a second year only by presidential proclamation.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer although a pen name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter.

To The Editor of The Examiner,
Sir:

The depression drags on, and in spite of all the well meant efforts to raise ourselves out of it by cheering and forced merrymaking and forced spending, it continues and conditions and the number of unemployed instead of decreasing are on the increase and conditions get worse and the more thrifty of the people who had a few hundreds of dollars saved up for a rainy day and since being unemployed have lived on the same gradually get to the end of their resources and are forced into the class that need relief from the public treasury.

The sad part is that so far there has been no concerted effort to work out a plan that would have any hope of permanent success towards lifting the world out of the industrial slough of despond into which it has fallen.

It is universally admitted that the main cause of the stagnation of trade is the diminished and diminishing purchasing power of the mass of the people (this itself has a cause of course and I will deal with it presently) then let me ask what permanent relief can be looked for from such things as for instance revision of the tariff? If the people in other countries have lost their power to purchase and the people in Canada likewise, how on earth can they help one another to any appreciable extent?

Granted some industries may be benefitted here and some there, it will be at the expense of some other part of the world and may have reactions and repercussions that will completely nullify any good that may have accrued. To my mind the trouble is too deep to be remedied by a mere juggling of the dregs of trade that remain. I think the first thing that should be done is to study the basic cause of the depression and by the use of the best brains in the country without party bias or prejudice seek earnestly and sincerely for a permanent remedy.

The questions to be answered are: 1. What is the fundamental cause of the depression; 2. What alterations in our system of living will be necessary to effect a permanent cure?

In my opinion the causes of the present condition are two-fold, moral and physical. Let me take them in that order. Moral, the world has forgotten God and have set up Gods and ideals of their own, gods of sport, of pleasure, of wealth and selfish pride and greed, these are the lines on which the bulk of the world's business is run on today. The highest acclaim and the largest prizes of wealth and fame are accorded not to men and women who live the most noble lives, but to those who excel in sport, or who whatever their character, are able to minister to the (often perverted) appetites of the people for pleasure. The world will never recover a sane, happy, useful condition until it wholeheartedly turns to God, puts away its selfishness and sin and cultivate ideals of true nobility and clean and healthy living.

Physical—the physical cause of unemployment is of course due to the fact that machines have displaced manual labour. Our large industrial leaders forget when they feverishly replaced men with machines in order to reduce the cost of production and thus make possible larger dividends that while the ingenuity of man could invent machines to do the work of many men, that these machines would have no purchasing power, and that the men who were displaced would lose their purchasing power and thus while they were multiplying the volume of goods they were at the same time reducing the outlet, thus inevitably causing the jam which is the condition at the present time.

Now what is the remedy. First, there is no reason that manual labor should again be used to do the work that machines can do much better and quicker and I do not think this will ever be. The remedy lies in a more equable distribution of the wealth produced if this can be worked out satisfactorily there will be work and happiness for all, for the majority would have their living conditions raised, and this would entail a lot of new homes, improved sanitation, better clothes, etc, thus making employment. I am no Red Communist in the sense that I want a forcible overthrow of governments, but a person is blind indeed who cannot see that the time is approaching when it will no longer be possible for one man to have millions of dollars which he cannot spend, while millions of other men are on the verge of starvation. The remedy can be accomplished in two ways, voluntarily and gradually or forcibly and with bloodshed.

The pity of it is that history teaches us that the ones interested and in power will not see and bow to the inevitable until too late. The French and Russian revolutions as well as numerous other events point the same moral. What should be done? Of course the question is too large and complex for any scheme to solve the whole question at once, but there are one or two things that would in my opinion help a lot and at once. I would have a compulsory retirement age for both men and women of all classes, say 65 or if necessary even 60 on a pension if needed to be given as a right without question or stigma. This would automatically open up positions for a great number of younger men who are now unemployed. Then I would prohibit the holding of more than one permanent position by one man. This could start right here in our city, where many educated men in the city are without employment I do not believe the citizens will support this condition, of two permanent jobs. Then there is the question of transport, large trucks with trailers carrying loads which should be divided into four or five truck loads and which are a dangerous menace to the safety of life and property on the road. This, if prohibited would open up jobs for several drivers, etc. immediately, as well as making the highways more safe. I am afraid, Sir, I have already exceeded the latitude allowed as to the length of a letter to the Press, but the magnitude of the question must be my apology.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours faithfully,
GEORGE LEADER

AN OPEN LETTER TO E. A. PECK, M.P.

Kidderminster, England.

Dear Sir,—You have in your city of Peterborough a carpet factory, where I was employed for about eighteen years. In this factory there is installed the most up-to-date machinery for the manufacture of carpets, coupled with the best skilled help it is possible to get; and yet during the past three years at that factory has been anything but good. Hundreds are, or rather were, on the pay-roll, and it is a shame to see such a modern equipped factory not working full time. Trade became so bad during the last twelve months that I reluctantly had to look elsewhere; hence, I am in England. The carpet trade in this country is good. Of course, I know you will say at once "that is because of the export trade." But let me point out that the cause of the "boom" over here is the decline of the "import trade." Owing to the heavy dumping of rugs and carpets into England from Germany, Italy, Belgium and France etc., prior to the advent of protection, real high wages were never paid in England because of the cheap labor employed in these foreign countries. Now the protective tariff keeps a lot of this unfair competition in its place. This improvement to date has been necessarily small, but hopes are expressed that 1933 will gather force. Carpets and rugs imported during the past eleven months declined in quantity from 8,800,000 square yards to 2,900,000 square yards. Meanwhile, Empire preference in carpets is steadily increasing. I may also state that since this "dumping" was stopped, wages in England have increased. In fact, from personal experience weavers can earn on wide looms $35.00 to $40.00 per week. This statement may be challenged, but I am prepared to wager any sum of money about it, and furnish proof. The living here is just about the same standard as Canada. Before I left Canada a few months ago I was in Toronto, and noticed that the stocks of imported foreign rugs and carpets were in the majority in all the large departmental stores. And yet the same old display card was hanging up, "Buy Canadian Goods." The real slogan should be: "If the Wholesaler and the Retailer buy out of our Country, what is going to become of our Country?" Everyone goes to the cheapest market, and if the merchants, etc., do it, what do you think the customer is going to do? Personally, I think all the employees in the carpet trade not only in Peterborough, but in the Dominion, would like to see a little more duty put on the foreign carpets and give the Canadian manufacturers a fair chance to meet competition, and pass it on to the employees. Finally, I would like to hear of Mr. Peck, M.P., pushing this thing, and getting at least one industry in Peterborough back to normal.

Yours truly,
C. ROBINSON.

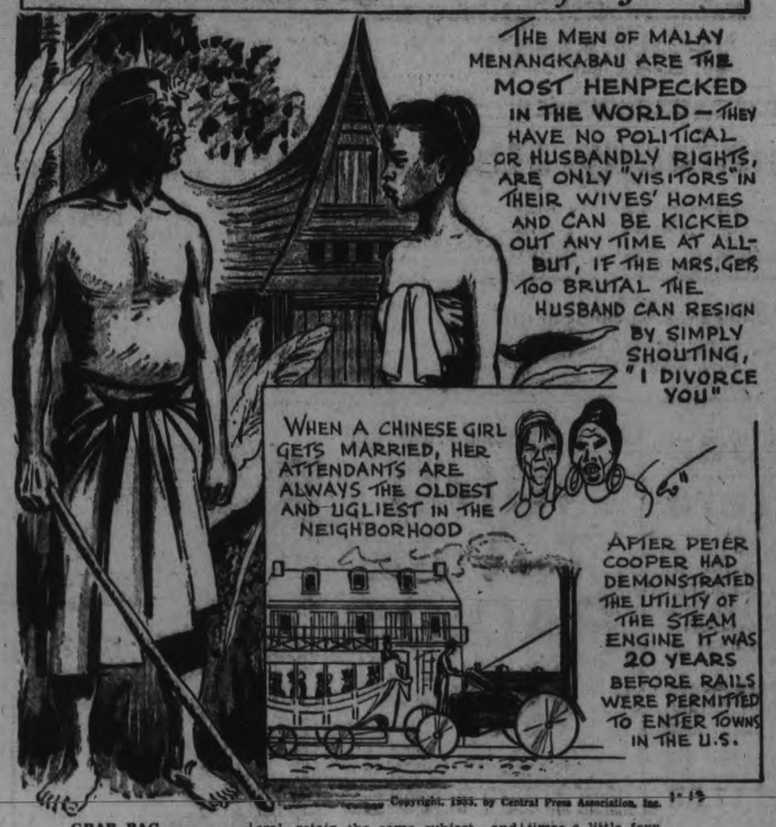
SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



GRAB BAG

How long do camels go without water?

Does the male gorilla sleep on the ground?

What are young seals called?

Correctly Speaking—

Avoid abrupt change in the point of view within a sentence. In general, retain the same subject and the same voice throughout the sentence.

Words of Wisdom

All the reasonings of men are not worth one sentiment of women.—Voltaire.

Today's Horoscope

Persons born on this day are apt to be shrewd, cunning, and sometimes a little foxy.

Answers to Foregoing Questions

1. When crossing the desert camels are expected to carry their loads 25 miles a day for three days without a drink.

2. He generally sleeps at the foot of a tree to guard his family against the leopard. This is virtually the only foe the gorilla fears.

3. The young ones are called pups.

Exports For Nine Months Totalled $379,369,280, Imports $325,529,681.

OTTAWA, January 14 (C.P.). — Canada had an export surplus of $53,839,599 for the first nine months of the fiscal year, it is reported by the Department of National Revenue, but exports and imports dropped sharply from last year's totals.

In the nine-month period ending December 31, Canadian exports totalled $379,369,280, compared with $461,797,241 last year. Imports of foreign goods had a value of $325,529,681, compared with $451,355,105 last year.

December Totals.

For the month of December, exports totalled $42,615,796, compared with $53,255,476 for the same month in 1931. Imports for December had a value of $29,025,434, compared with $40,289,795 the year previous.

ROCKET FLIGHT EASY TO PLANET

But, Prof. Piccard Claims, Enough Fuel Cannot Be Carried to Return.

LOOK TO COSMIC RAY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (C.P.).—Professor Auguste Piccard said yesterday that men may fly to other planets in rocket planes in the future, but they will not be able to come back.

It would take 20 tons of explosive to shoot a one-ton rocket plane away from the 'pull' of the earth's gravitation and get it well started on its way to another planet, and 10 more tons would be needed to act as a braking force when the rocket returned to earth. Carrying so much weight would be impracticable for rocket planes, he said.

Study of the cosmic rays, for which Professor Piccard made his two famous balloon flights into the stratosphere, and for which he may make another flight from Hudson Bay, may help unlock tremendous energy in atoms, however, he explained, and use of this energy might overcome the difficulties of sending rocket planes on "round trips" to other planets.

Japan Denies Designs On Philippine Isles

TOKYO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—President Hoover's reference to the grave dangers of a foreign invasion if the Philippines were freed was described by a foreign office spokesman today as "non-sensical" if he meant such a menace came from Japan.

The spokesman added such intimations disclosed a total misunderstanding of Japan's fundamental policies in Eastern Asia.

"Before the Philippines are freed at least a decade will elapse in which Japan's motives in Manchuria will become clearer to the American people," he said.

Commenting on President Hoover's assertion that neutralization would be a feeble assurance of the islands' freedom unless American guarantee it, the spokesman asserted that if the United States, Great Britain and Japan signed a neutralization treaty it would be "the strongest possible guarantee of the Philippines safety and independence."

GOVERNMENT DEFEATED.

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 13 (C.P.).—The Government of Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris was defeated in parliament, 109 to 91, this morning, and thus was removed from power after existing 10 weeks.

MAKING YOUR DOLLAR WORTH THREE

By Your Contribution to the Relief Fund

For every dollar contributed by citizens to the city's Relief Fund the government will give two dollars.

That is the basis of assistance in direct relief received from the provincial and federal governments.

The dollar you give has only the buying power of one hundred cents while it is in your hands, but when you transfer it to the Relief Fund it immediately acquires the equivalence of three dollars in buying power, to be used for food and fuel and other essential requirements or so many people in the community today.

One thousand dollars as a donation to the fund becomes with the government's supplement three thousand dollars.

This multiple effect of the Relief Fund should appeal to every citizen of Peterborough whose heart is moved by the actual want of so many of his neighbors unable to turn a hand for themselves.

The man whom fortune has favored the most can make a splendid contribution when he realizes that his cheque for $500 or $1,000 swells the Fund by $1,500 or $3,000, as the case may be.

His "giving power" is trebled by the government's plan of assistance in direct relief. And this scheme is manifestly an inducement to generosity because it brings to the community's Relief Fund so much more than the amount of the personal contribution.

But, the threefold amount becomes in its eventual effect the gift of the individual citizen.

AND EVERY DOLLAR WHICH HE CAN AFFORD TO GIVE, BUT WHICH HE WITHHOLDS, ACTUALLY DEPRIVES THE FUND OF THREE DOLLARS.

This emergency Relief Fund is directed by the City Council in the name of the entire community. Contributions should be sent to Frank Adams, city treasurer.

CANADA HAS DEFICIT OF $28,484,403

EXPENSES $278,12,582.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 (C.P.)—Canada's ordinary revenue for the nine months ended Dec. 31, totalled $250,328,179, a statement issued to-day by the Controller of the Treasury showed. In addition there were special receipts and credits, as well as receipts from capital of previous years bringing the total revenue up to $250,933,920. The total current expenditures were $278,812,582 for the same period.

The foregoing shows a deficit of $28,484,403.

In addition to the current expenditures, other expenditures for the nine months' period follow:—

Unemployment and farm relief.

MAYOR OUSTED BY MAGISTRATE

CASE IN CAMERA.

BURLINGTON, Ont., Jan. 14.—(C.P.)— Authority clashed during the hearing of a case of Magistrate Walter Barr in police court here. The case involved two brothers and their families from the township in view of certain evidence the magistrate ruled the court must be cleared.

After some evidence had been taken, Mayor John O. Ryckman entered the room and sat down. The magistarte stopped proceedings and informed the Mayor the case was in camera and he must leave. Mayor Ryckman refused to withdraw, whereupon police were called and instructed to take action.

Mr. Ryckman, however, 'phoned W. I. Dick, Crown Attorney, for a ruling. Mr. Dick spoke to the Mayor over the telephone and then the latter withdrew from court.

Later in the day, Mayor Ryckman, presiding over a meeting of the Water Commission, said: "I'm a higher authority than Barr — I can suspend him. I'm chief magistrate. If they insist, I'll take it up with the Attorney General."

CAME BY 'PLANE TO BEDSIDE OF DYING MOTHER

Mrs. E. H. Brandon, New York, Unable to Reach Bedside in Time.

CHARTERED AIRPLANE.

Pilot Had Great Difficulty in Finding a Landing Place.

Zooming out of the south eastern sky, and the mists of early morning, after a five-hundred mile race against time, a large Fairchild cabin plane hovered over Millbrook while the pilot sought in vain for a suitable landing spot.

The plane chartered in New York City by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brandon had started on its long journey at about three o'clock this morning, three and a half hours after Mrs. Brandon had received a telephone message from Dr. A. H. Turner of Millbrook that her mother, Mrs. Samuel J. Hunter was seriously ill.

Even as the plane circled over Millbrook, and wheeled around to ultimately come to rest on C. J. Hancock's farm on the Second Line of Smith Township, Mrs. Hunter passed away. Her daughter and son-in-law arrived at the homestead located about a mile and a

WINTER HALTS SINO-JAP WAR

Nipponese Troops Retreat to Chinchow, Leaving Pass in Garrison's Hands.

TRUCE ONLY TEMPORARY.

(By the Associated Press).

Winter has imposed a truce for the moment upon the troops in North China. Only minor skirmishes along the Jehol border had been reported to-day and even these were described in Japanese sources as "imaginary."

Word from Manchuria said reinforcements were arriving in Jehol to strengthen the Chinese command and General Tsai Ting-Kai, hero of Shanghai, has renewed his offer to throw the 19th Route Army against the Japanese.

Japanese forces which captured the Chiumenkow Pass through the great wall last week were said to have withdrawn to Chinchow, Manchuria, leaving a small garrison at the Pass.

In Geneva members of the League of Nations Conciliation Committee of 19 gathered to formulate a course of procedure for its meeting on Monday. Meanwhile negotiations for a peaceful settlement at Shanhaikwan appeared to have made no progress.

ARSENAL TEAM IS ELIMINATED IN THIRD ROUND

Newcastle United, Cup Holders, Beaten in Competition to-day.

26 TEAMS ADVANCE.

Arsenal's Reverse at Hands of Walsall is Surprise of Third Round.

LONDON, Jan. 14 (C.P. Cable)—Newcastle United, cup holders, and Arsenal, finalists last year, both were eliminated from English Cup competition in third round play to-day.

Arsenal went down to defeat, 2-0, before Walsall, a Third Division Northern Section side; Newcastle were defeated, 3-0, by Leeds United.

26 Teams Advance

Twenty-six teams won the right to the fourth round play; six of the 32 contested games ending in draws. Eight First Division teams were tossed out of the competition in upsets headed by the defeats of Arsenal and Newcastle. In 1st Division matches, Leicester, Liverpool, Wolverhampton and Newcastle were put out, while in inter-division games Preston North End, Portsmouth, Chelsea and Arsenal swallowed defeat.

Everton took Leicester, 3-2; West Bromwich defeated Liverpool, 2-0; and Derby County made it 6-3 over the Wolves. Preston bowed to Birmingham, 2-1, and Grimsby Town took Portsmouth 3-2, in the pair of games won by Second Division outfits over First Division sides. Third Division teams were victorious over First Division aggregations when Brighton beat Chelsea, 2-1, and Walsall took Arsenal.

Bows to Corinthians

West Ham United bowed the famous Corinthian amateurs out of the picture with a 2-0 count, while Huddersfield beat Folkestone, 2-0, to eliminate the only remaining team not of the main divisions of the league.

Though strange things happen in cup competitions the elimination today of Arsenal was wholly unexpected. The First Division leaders with a record of 17 wins, 5 losses and 3 draws in their league schedule, were considered odds-on favorites over Wallsall, who have won only 9 games and are half way down the Third Division Northern Section standing.

Newcastle's defeat, although it came as a shock to supporters of the great cup battlers, was not so unexpected. They are tied with Leeds in the First Division standing and have similar records in the season's campaigning.

Six replays will be necessary to complete the quota of 32 teams who go into the fourth round. Games between teams who drew to-day probably will be arranged in the next few days.

Attorney General Makes Statement In Stubbs' Trial

Hon. W. J. Major Had Previously Held Accused Judge's Court Was Recognized By Criminals As Place Where They Would Get Lenient Treatment.

CLAIMS HE HOLDS NO PERSONAL ANIMOSITY TOWARD JUDGE—CASE MAY LAST 3 WEEKS.

WINNIPEG, January 14 (C.P.). — Endeavoring to support his charges of judicial misconduct against Judge Lewis St. G. Stubbs, Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General, to-day underwent further cross-examination by defence counsel before Mr Justice Frank Ford, inquiring into the complaints.

Maintaining there was no personal animosity as far as he was concerned between the accused jurist and himself, witness contended Judge Stubbs had done many things unbecoming an occupant of the bench.

Testimony given yesterday was all gone over again and the Attorney-General objected to a bombardment of further questions from E. J. McMurray, counsel for the Judge, who sat silently at the counsel table throughout the proceedings reading from the law books piled in front of him.

For a while he sat beside his daughter and friends in the grilled front prisoner's box where they had been fortunate enough to obtain a seat in the crowded court. As he left he walked over to the crowd pressed behind the brass rail and motioned a big roughly dressed chap with a knotted blue handkerchief about his neck.

Smilingly, he escorted him to the box and showed him a seat beside his daughter, an attractive looking law student.

No "Conviction Judges"

Mr. Major denied to counsel there were any judges in Manitoba recognized as "conviction judges." He previously held Judge Stubbs' court was recognized by criminals as a place where they would be leniently dealt with.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 14.—(CP)—The inquiry into charges of judicial misconduct against Judge Lewis St. G. Stubbs will occupy at least three weeks, Mr. Justice Frank Ford, conducing the commission, was told by the judge today.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

TOLEDO.— Sally Adams, 34, a store clerk, was shot and killed in a chain grocery store here to-day, and a short time later the body of A. D. Cameron, 50, was found in his automobile a short distance from the hospital where Mrs. Adams was taken. Cameron had committed suicide, police said.

The double killing was the result of a love affair, police announced.

WORSHIPS AT OMAR MOSQUES DISGUISED AS TRUE BELIEVER

Burnt Cork, Scarlet Dye Aid Van Paassen in Dangerous Mission.

MOSLEMS AT PRAYER

(By Pierre Van Passen. Copyright.)

JERUSALEM, January 17. — Disguised as Hadjihs, that is to say, as true Moslem believers, our faces and hands smeared with burnt cork, our fingernails tinted scarlet, with the hoods of our long white garments pulled down deep over our blue eyes, a British officer and I attended the Friday morning service in the Mosque of Omar, which, next to the Kaaba in Mecca is the holiest place in world-Islam.

Pierre van Paassen

The British officer belonged to the Intelligence Department. His task was to find out the reaction of the Palestine Arabs towards the new revolt which is brewing in the desert against the authority of King Ibn Saoud, the one-eyed Puritan reformer of Mohammeranism. Not an inkling of what the Arabs feel on the subject can be learned in the coffee-houses, where the presence of an unfamiliar visitor dries up the gossip and conversation at once. It is only in the mosques that they do feel free to discuss political movements because no "dogs" of unbelievers would dare to be present.

We sat in rows on the gorgeous Persian carpets on the floor, after having washed our feet at the fountains in the gardens around the mosque. Beggars in rags, princes, porters, noble sheiks in silk burnouses with the faces of Abraham and Isaac, fierce Bedouins from across Jordan, their lips and noses scarred by wounds, town merchants, warriors of the wild tribes, who wander in and out of Jerusalem, all sat silently, their slippers by their sides and their hands upturned in the attitude of prayer.

Enter the Mollah

Suddenly a tall mollah with the magnificent beard of an Assyrian bowman, his garments spotless white, appeared in the pulpit. In the blinding sunlight that streamed through the windows set in porcelain, he looked like an apparition from a fairy tale. His eyes flashed fire as in a gesture of impatience he jerked a prayer shawl over his head. And then with a hoarse shout of rasping consonants he called the believers to prayer.

With a jerk the assembly jumped

RANGERS HOLD DIVISION LEAD SCOTTISH LOOP

CELTIC FALLS 1-0.

All Three Leaders in Second Division of League Are Returned Victors.

GLASGOW, Jan. 14—(C.P. Cable)—Rangers and Motherwell kept in stride at the top of the Scottish League first division today as both leaders registered wins. Playing at East Stirlingshire's grounds, Rangers came away with a 3-2 victory while Mothewell scored the only goal in a home tussle with St. Johnstone.

Both now have 42 points to their credit but Rangers have a better goal average than their rivals for leadership.

Celtic fell before Falkirk's stout defense, losing in a one-goal game and dropping back to a position four points behind the leaders. Hearts edged up with a point gained in a 1-1 draw with Ayr United and now are only one point behind Celtic.

Aberdeen's loss to Airdrienians 2-0 also served the Hearts well, leaving them three points ahead of the fourth place team.

All three leaders in the second division won their games, leaving their positions unchanged. Hibernians took Dunfermline 3-1, Queen of the South defeated Edinburgh City 4-1 and Stenhousemuir won from East Fife 2-1. Dunfermline's loss left them still in fourth place

Welfare Board Bars Orillia Press, Public

ORILLIA, Jan. 14—(CP)—Representatives of newspapers, as well as the public, will be henceforth excluded from meetings of the public welfare board, it was decided, by passage of a motion, at the gathering of that body held last night. The motion was brought in by Mrs. George Blackstone, and seconded by Alderman H. A. Burnet, and did not pass until after it had been subjected to severe denunciation by Alderman W. M. Cramp, the other representative of the town council on the board.

"Considering that we are handling public funds, I feel the public have a right to know how every penny is spent, and I am surprised that such a thing as excluding newspapermen, or anybody else, should even be suggested," exclaimed Alderman Cramp.

Mrs. Blackstone, in explaining her attitude, stated she was actuated by a fear the newspapers might publish details of individual cases which came up for consideration. "Also, it is not in the public interest to have the stand taken by members of the board on each issue published in the newspaper," she said.

SONS OF IRISH FARM LEADERS JOIN COSGRAVE

Davitt, O'Mahony Plead For End of Economic War With Britain.

LOSES GROUND STEADILY.

Charge De Valera's Tactics Bringing Ruin, Desolation to Country.

(By George Hambleton—C.P. Staff Writer).

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 14 (C.P. Cable).—In the shadow of the old Celtic cross in County Heath, Dr. Davitt, a son of Michael Davitt, founder of the Land League, stood by the side of William T. Cosgrave, former President, and pleaded for an end of the economic war with Britain.

On the platform also stood the younger O'Mahony, a son of Pierce O'Mahony, who was defeated by Michael Davitt in one of the fiercest political struggles in the Land League days.

Before a huge crowd to-day the two Sons shook hands.

Both of them are candidates in the Cosgrave party, Davitt in Meath and O'Mahony in Wicklow.

"I believe," said Mr. O'Mahony, "that if our fathers were live today they would bless us both for uniting in the cause of our country's agricultural industry. The Fianna Fail has accused Mr. Cosgrave of not being nationally minded. We have a treaty not dreamed of by Parnell, Davitt or Redmond, and when the Fianna Fail says the Cumann na Gaedheal has gone over to England they know they are telling a lie.

"De Valera says one moment he is a Republican and the next that he is for a commonwealth. The truth is that nobody knows where he is," he concluded.

No More Nonsense

And through the country, particularly the stricken farming districts, Mr. Cosgrave is carrying the message of ending the economic warfare. "We want no more nonsense," he exclaimed in Meath. "We want economic peace and the

$100,000 LOSS IN CHURCH FIRE

Flames Threaten for Time to Wipe Out Whole Quebec Village.

SCANT FIRE APPARATUS.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Jan. 14.—(CP)—The parish church of Ste. Genevieve de Batiscan was completely destroyed by fire early today. The flames threatened the rectory and parochial hall, and with scant fire fighting apparatus available, it was feared for a time a conflagration might develop in the village.

The fire was discovered at 6 a.m. by the section, A. Bernier, in the floor of the vestry. Citizens of the parish fought the blaze with pails and a small half inch hose. An appeal for help was made to Ste. Anne de la Perade to Mayor Auguste Baribeau, who responded immediately. Owing to difficulty of finding a truck for the gasoline pump, the La Perade firemen were delayed and by the time they reached the scene of the blaze the church was a raging inferno.

Their efforts to prevent the fire from spreading were successful, however, and a short time following their arrival all danger of a conflagration had ceased.

The Ste. Genevieve church was built in 1870. Losses are estimated at $100,000, and it was insured to the extent of $45,000.

Defective electric wiring is believed responsible for the fire. A few statues, the Way of the Cross and the Holy Sacrament were saved.

OPENING BUREAU WHERE CITIZENS CAN AID NEEDY

All Kinds of Household Articles Will Be Accepted for Unemployed.

OPENS ON MONDAY.

Many Homes Are in Need of Clothing and Furniture.

Many an article that is regarded in the average household as unfit for use can be put to good service just how in homes where cash is scarce and there are many mouths to feed.

For instance, it is astonishing how many houses need floor mats and window curtains. There are homes without number where the family goes cold through the day and night because they can't get an extra heater, or where cooking is done on a Quebec heater with only one lid to serve the cooking needs of seven or eight people. There is a little family in this city right now, living in an old street car, who need very badly a small cookstove and who are getting along with the help of an inadequate little heater.

Chairs are often asked for and many a tired mother would like a rocker, for example, rather than have to sit on a stiff upright chair or on the side of the bed, while feeding her baby.

Then there are tables and small affairs like tea-kettles and cooking pots and dishes. Knives and forks and spoons are scarce in many houses. They drink out of old tin cans in more than one home in the city of Peterborough.

Mattresses are needed and every day requests come in for them. In houses where the mother is anxious to preserve the health of her family, they often have to burn mattresses after illness, and dirty houses are another prolific source of trouble where mattresses are concerned.

And then there are baby carriages. How is the infant going to get out for fresh air if he hasn't a carriage or stroller to ride in? The answer is, he doesn't get out and another cases of rickets develops itself.

If there are any unused articles lying around the house, please hunt them up and send them along to the Canadian Department Stores old Groceteria, on Geore street. It is opening on Monday as a bureau for the housing of such things, as well as clothing of any type, food stuffs, canned goods and vegetables. This is in connection with the campaign for relief that has just commenced in the city.

LIBBY IN FAVOR OF SETTLEMENT

Ready to Accept "Comparatively Modest Sum" For Self and Son.

REST TO ENDOWMENT.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 14. — (C.P.).—Possibility of a settlement without litigation of the claims of Libby Holman Reynolds and her infant son to a share in the Smith Reynolds' fortune was seen yesterday in a statement by her father that she was willing to accept a "comparatively modest sum."

Alfred Holman, Cincinnati lawyer, father of the widow of Smith Reynolds, found fatally shot in his North Carolina home, said his daughter has offered "to relinquish her child's right to the inheritance, as far as she legally is able, and her own share as widow, save a comparatively modest sum in each case."

The statement, addressed to the press, expressed hope that the remainder of Smith Reynolds' patrimony may be devoted to public uses through an endowment to the memory of young Reynolds and his father, R. J. Reynolds.

Presbyterial Meets In City Next Week

The fifth annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial Woman's Missionary Society of Canada will be held at George street United Church on Tuesday and Wednesday next, January 17th and 18th.

Mrs. A. I. Brown of this city is president will preside during the opening sessions. The election of officers takes place on Wednesday morning.

The meetings at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning and cease at 12:30 for lunch. The annual reports will be read, commencing at half past two o'clock and an address by Miss E. Dunoon will be given the same afternoon.

On Tuesday evening, an address will be given by Miss MacKintosh, W.M.S. Travelling secretary.

The sessions on Wednesday open at 9:15 in the morning, when there will be reports of various sorts presented and an address by Mrs. C. M. Scott. The election and installation of officers will also be a feature of the morning.

Wednesday afternoon will see the closing of the meeting, when reports will be finished and various concluding business attended to.

BETWEEN BOOK ENDS

The recent successful revival of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" in New York by Walter Hampden prompts us to wonder why that glorious play is not more widely read. It is unfortunate that the popular fallacy of a play demanding great mental effort on the part of its reader, has prevented more readers from enjoying this vigorous form of literature. It is the more remarkable that this tale is not more widely known when we think of the universal favor that his compatriot at arms, Musketeer D'Artagnan and his three famous friends enjoy. For in this "Cyrano de Bergerac," the same great gasconading, the uproarious swashbucking, the same gallantry and careless chivalry—in a word, the same Gascon spirit runs riot. Through five acts this gallant poet, dramatist, swordsman and gentleman with the great nose—"a crag—a peak—behold the nose that treacherously destroys the beauty of its master—and is blushing for the same," moves as all true lovers of romance dream of in their highest flights of phantasy. He boasts that he can stand against a hundred men; and he does. He composes tender rhapsodical letters to the object of his love—for his handsome but unsinging friend to woo her with. The Balcony scene in act three is comparable in all literature to that in "Romeo and Juliet." In act four, in the starving Gaston camp before the beseiged city of Arras, Gallantry flourishes as it does nowhere on this earth. The last act climbs to the sublimest heights of flaming chivalry.

The whole is a magnificent symphony of tragedy, comedy and nobility; seasoned with a wise and worldly philosophy and wit. We give you "Cyrano de Bergerac"—the fullest exquisite flower in the blazing garden of Romantic Literature.

"INVITATION TO THE WALTZ" by Rosamond Lehmann, 1932. Miss Lehmann's earlier novels, "Dusty Answer" and "A Note in Music" have shown the quality of her art, its delicate appreciation of moods, and feeling, its insight into the springs of behaviour, its delight in beauty, and the shimmering grace of its prose. This new novel is a slighter tale; the story of a few days in the life of a girl of 17. Miss Lehmann has successfully caught the burnished glow of that evanescent period, its heightened susceptibilities, its quickened emotions, its alterations of delight and despair. All through this book her smiling tenderness depict with deft and humorous strokes the little sum of nothing that makes up a girl's world at 17.

It opens as Olivia Curtis wakens to congratulations on her seventeenth birthday and ends a week later in the morning after her first ball. All that intervenes serves as introduction to that great event and yet nothing of its simple incident but is essential to the portrayal of Olivia. Such is the kingdom of girlhood.

H.R., a librarian in Detroit, amused by the old story of Wordsworth borrowing books from Southey and cutting the pages with a buttery knife goes it one better. A book came back to the Detroit Public Library with a strip of breakfast bacon laid between the leaves as a marker.

With the Old Year recently laid away, we gird up our inkpot to make our selection of the most important novels of 1932, from the literary viewpoint. These we choose from the English authors—being unordered as to comparative merit:

"The Fountain" by Charles Morgan.
"Invitation to the Waltz" by Rosamond Lehmann.
"Inheritance" by Phillys Bentley.
"The Shadow Flies" by Rose Macaulay.

From America:—

"The Sheltered Life" by Ellen Glasgow.
"God's Angry Mann" by Leonard Ehrlich.
"1919" by John Dos Passos.
"The Store" by T. S. Stribling.

And from the Continent, through translation:—

"The Burning Bush" by Sigrid Undest.
"Josephus" by Lion Feuchtwanger.
"Young Woman of 1914" by Arnold Zweig.
"Saint Saturin" by Jean Schlumberger.
"The Strange River" by Julian Green.

Although 1932 saw the publishing of no first rank novels, we had an abundance of splendid, competently written second class work. And the publishers' lists of coming books, promise us rich and pleasing fare to fulfil our wish of "Good Reading in 1933."

43 Captured In Raid Fail To Raise Bail

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (C.P.). — Forty-three men who were arrested at a meeting of unemployed Thursday are still in custody to-day, due to their inability to raise the $200 bail which had been demanded of each when they appeared in court yesterday on vagrancy charges.

James Beatty, who was charged with advocating violence under Section 98 of the criminal code and was remanded on $2,000 bail, was released last night. Bail was found for him and he returned to the city hostel for accommodation.

It is reported, too, that George Baker, the other man charged under Section 98, was also released on $2,000 bail.

INFORMER LOSES SWEEPS CLAIM MUST PAY COSTS

SUPREME COURT RULING.

Carp Farmer Sought $41,800 Won By Ottawa Man on English Derby.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 (C.P.).—Purchase of a lottery ticket in a foreign country is not an offence against the criminal code of Canada and an informer cannot recover the profits of the holder of a winning ticket, Mr. Justice W. H. Wright ruled in Supreme Court of Ontario here yesterday. He dismissed with costs the action of James E. McBride, farmer of Carp, Ontario, who sought to recover $41,800 which Elbert N. Soper of Ottawa won in the Irish Hospitals' sweepstake on the English Derby last year.

The case turned on the fact the ticket had been purchased in France. The judge upheld the contention of Mr. Soper's lawyer there had been no breach of the Criminal Code because the transaction took place outside Canada.

Section 236 Of Code.

McBride sought the money as an informer under sub-section 3 of section 236 of the code, which reads: "Every sale, loan, gift, barter or exchange of any property by any lottery, ticket, card or other mode of chance depending upon or to be determined by chance or lot is void, and all property sold, exchanged, bartered, etc., is liable to be forfeited to any person who sues by action or information in any court of competent jurisdiction."

The action was the first of its kind to come on trial, although in a number of instances court proceedings have been started under the section. For this reason it was followed with close interest throughout Canada.

"The ticket was purchased in France and not in Canada," said Mr. Justice Wright in dismissing the action. "So there is no violation of the Act. The defendant did nothing in Canada which would bring him within the prohibition of the section and is not guilty of any offence."

PLANES TO SEEK LOST HINKLER

HEADED FOR AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(C. P. Cable) —Friends of Bert Hinkler, British trans-Atlantic flier missing on a projected flight to Australia, conferred today on a plan to launch a subscription fund and send an aeroplane to search for him.

With financial aid already promised by Arthur Whitelaw, wealthy Australian living in London, the plan, if carried out, would send Capt. Hope, associate of the missing pilot, across Europe on the route Hinkler is believed to have followed.

Meanwhile the News Chronicle published a story purporting to reveal Hinkler was hard up financially and that his projected record-breaking flight to Australia was an attempt to recoup losses he had suffered in furthering aviation enterprises.

At a village near Southampton, the News Chronicle said, there is jealously guarded a tiny two-seater amphibian monoplane with which Hinkler hoped to startle the world.

He designed the little ship himself, the newspaper continued, and attempted unsuccessfully to obtain financial backing in England and the United States which would have enabled him to start mass production.

INTOXICATED DRIVER LOSES PERMIT FOR YEAR

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 13. — (C.P.).—A fine of $100 and costs, for having liquor in an authorized place and one of $25 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident were imposed on Kenneth J. Winegardner, 19, London, by Magistrate J. R. Blake in the County Police Court to-day.

On a further charge of driving a truck while intoxicated, the youth was let out on suspended sentence on a promise not to drive a motor-vehicle for one year and to abstain from intoxicating liquor for two years.

PLACED STUMPS ON HIGHWAY

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 13.—Russell Peever and Roy Curtis, two young men of Marmora Township, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Casement to causing a nuisance and endangering the lives of the travelling public. They were given a year's suspended sentence. They placed some rails and stumps on the highway, near Marmora. They had to pay the costs.

Bus and railroad transportation companies are facing a formidable competitor in the low-priced airplane; an "air flivver" costing only $400 has just been placed on the market in England.

Cause for Worry

DETROIT, Jan. 14 (C.P.). — A man who looked as though something was worrying him deposited a watch carefully on the sidewalk, then left there hastily.

A passer-by was unable to understand the strange proceedings—until he took the watch to police headquarters and discovered it was the one stolen by a pickpocket a few days ago from Detective John Dillon.

DR. A. J. MADILL IS RE-ELECTED FOR THIRD TERM

Horticultural Society Holds Annual Meeting in Public Library.

CUPS ARE PRESENTED.

J. S. Hall of Toronto Gives Illustrated Lecture Showing Beautiful Gardens.

Dr. A. J. Madill was re-elected president of Peterborough Horticultural Society at the annual meeting held in the lecture room at the Public Library last evening, and enters upon his third successive term of office.

The report of the Nominating committee, prepared by H. L. Beal, J. Edgar and F. Biddle was adopted in its entirety, the officers for the ensuing year being:

Honorary Presidents— Mayor R. Denne and W. H. Young.
Honorary Vice-President — Alderman Walter Stocker.
President—Dr. A. J. Madill.
1st Vice-President — R. M. Glover.
2nd Vice-President — F. H. Dearborn.
Directors—(2 year term) Messrs. J. S. Bell, J. A. O'Brien, J. S. Mason, George Benton and D. Melton, and the following with one year terms to complete: Messrs. John Edgar, F. Biddle, R. A. Wainman, E. Bradshaw, and H. L. Beal.
Auditors— F. Holmes and Ald. Stocker.

The President expressed regret that S. T. Harris had decided not to again accept the secretary-treasurership of the Society. "I could wish for no better secretary to stand by me during the coming year, and I am sorry to learn that he wishes to drop out," he stated.

Appointment of another secretary-treasurer was deferred until the first meeting of the Board which is to be held in the offices of the Provincial agricultural representative on January 26.

The financial statement for the year ending Decembr 31, 1932, presented by the treasurer showed a credit balance of $2.17 with total receipts for the year of $528.57 and an expenditure of $526.40. Reduction of the government grant, which last year amounted to $104 was given as the reason for the small credit balance, although in view of present conditions it was considered highly satisfactory that the year had ended on the right side.

Of the monies expended last year $36.25 was used by the Society on

SWAIN 78 PAYS FOR LOVE AFFAIR

Judge Awards $5,000 to Maid of 50 in Breach of Promise Action.

OLD SCHOOL CHUMS.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 14 (CP)—Miss Sarah Margaret Hoy, aged 50, was awarded $5,000 damages yesterday by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in Supreme Court, after a decision in her favor in the breach of promise suit which she brought against Albert Blain, aged 78. Both are residents of Vancouver.

The evidence stated that Miss Hoy knew Mr. Blain as a school chum of her father, who was chief of police in Prescott, Ont., for 20 years. Following a meeting in Winnipeg, they renewed the acquaintance on Blain's arrival in Vancouver, and in November, 1927, he proposed marriage, according to Miss Hoy, and she accepted.

Blain, according to the evidence was particularly affectionate when the lights were out, and Miss Hoy's father was absent.

Blain insisted he had always taken the position when friends inquired about the possibility of marriage that it was a young man's game and that he was too old.

Under cross-examination of plaintiff's counsel, J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., the defendant admitted hugging and kissing Miss Hoy.

In the course of the engagement, according to Miss Hoy, Blain bought two houses with the intention of setting up housekeeping, with her as housekeeper, but she insisted upon a wedding.

GENIUS OF SIR WALTER SCOTT DESCRIBED BY PROFESSOR DALE

Second of Series of Lectures is Given Under Auspices of Supper Club.

SCOTT WORKED HARD.

Sir Walter Scott, writing to order and acting on the advice of his publishers, marred to a great extent two of his novels: "St. Ronan's Well" and "The Heart of Midlothian." In the first book, he deleted a tragic occurrence which had a great deal to do with the character of the heroine, as drawn in the story; and in the second, he altered the ending to conform with the notions of morality which obtained in the day in which he lived. In neither case, was he fully convinced, and in both, the plan of the tale was distressingly marred.

So asserted Professor E. A. Dale of the University of Toronto, speaking on "The Genius of Sir Walter Scott," last night, in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium, in the course of the second lecture in a series planned by the Friday Night Supper Club, under whose auspices the meeting was held.

It was an extremely scholarly and informative lecture, which dealt partially with the personal character and life of Sir Walter Scott and partially with the characteristics of several of the Waverley novels.

"We have at the present time a tremendous amount of knowledge about Sir Walter Scott, gathered from many sources, and yet with all this, which the most critical minds of the time have looked into, we have as a result a character which stands out as one of the most solid and fine in the realm of biography. The reason that we find such interest in the writings of Scott is because we have such a deep respect for the man himself, and because he exerts such a deep fascination on those who study him. There may be those regard his novels as ridiculously romantic and his poetry as uninteresting—I know there are such people—but they will still have a great liking for Scott the man. They will find him a very companionable human being."

Worked to Death

Scott was born in 1771, in Edinburgh. His first literary effort was "The Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border," a collection of border ballads, and then came his first great narrative poem, "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," published in 1805.

"Waverley," the first of a series which were known under that name, was published in 1814, anonymously, and for a long time, the author resisted the identification of Scott the poet with Scott, the author of "Waverley."

Through his writings, Scott amassed much wealth and established himself in the magnificent home of Abbotsford. But he united with writing the career of a publisher and printer, and, being both headstrong and rash, became involved in finacial troubles which brought him in 1826 to the brink of disaster.

For years thereafter, he committed a slow suicide through his unremitting toil, for he was resolved to avoid bankruptcy and to do sufficient literary work to pay all his debts. These were finally wiped off, shortly after his death.

"Scott's novels are remarkable for their very deep historical knowledge, their understanding of the motives that govern human life and for their fundamental, sound knowledge of human nature. Scott was one of the four-square characters. He combined sound common sense with the highest type of idealism. While using historical facts as the basis of many of his tales, he was conscientious as a historian, and went to the trouble of adding many footnotes to guide the reader to the complete sources of information in the matter.

"A great deal of Scott's work is rather wrongly called historical fiction, because in much of it he was writing of his own experiences or of the experiences of people he knew intimately—he was writing of the traditions and memories of people who were still living—so that much of what he wrote was really autobiographical, and it is absurd to call it historical fiction. Many of the greatest novelists have done this rather than write about purely contemporary scenes and people."

Trio of Best Works

The professor went on to review the stories which made Sir Walter Scott famous. His first full-length novel was "St. Ronan's Well," in which the deleting of a certain tragic occurrence caused a deletion also of much of the interest in the original story.

Declaring that the greatest of the novels were, in his opinion, "Guy Mannering," "The Antiquary" and "The Bride of Lammermoor," the speaker outlined briefly the main characteristics of these tales, first drawing attention to the fact that Scot lived and wrote in an age that demanded of its fiction writers a great deal of false and exaggerated sentiment. That was the fashion of the time, following the vogue set by the Rousseaulites of France and their English imitators. But Scott rebelled against excessive sentimentalism and was still able to write tales that achieved instantaneous popularity.

"Rob Roy" was largely a tale of character and adventure, depicting incidents still fresh in the minds of the people of the day.

Professor Dale characterized "The Heart of Midlothian" as one of "the great tours de force in the whole history of fiction." He dubbed it "one of the most fascinating and most successful pieces of prose ever written," confining this praise, however, to the first part of the novel, while regarding the last portion as distressingly marred by the acceptance by the writer of the publishers' decision to make the ending conform to the moral standards of the day. Jeanie Deans, who was so marvellously portrayed in the beginning and who stands out as a character of honesty, sincerity and affection, a plain, simple woman of unlimited strength of character and courage, had erred, and Scott was made to bring to her the retribution that the publishers felt should be meted out to the wrong-doer.

"But that, while good Old Testament morality, was not good New Testament morality, and Scott felt the weakness of that moralizing ending."

Mystery Tale

In "The Antiquary," the professor said that Scott had included his own character in the delineation of the old collector. Later, came "Redgauntlet" and "The Bride of Lammermoor."

"In 'Redgauntlet' you have a satisfying mystery which does not disappoint the reader like so many of the modern mystery tales. In them you often find that the cat, when let out of the bag finally, proves to be a very ordinary tabby indeed."

In "The Bride of Lammermoor," Scott, declared the speaker, demonstrates that touch of Shakespearian insight which caused him often to be compared with the great English playwright, much to his own annoyance, as he declared he was unworthy to tie the shoestrings of the immortal bard of Avon. "But Scott is really a prose Shakespeare. He is second to Shakespeare. He is second to Shakespeare in the delineation of character."

"The Pirate" was a romantic tale of the Northern islands which the writer had visited. "Old Mortality" showed the good and bad points of the Covenanters; "The Abbott" had for a fascinating central figure the romantic Mary, Queen of Scots, while "Waverley" dealt with "the '45" and the days of Prince Charlie. "Ivanhoe" and "The Talisman" were historical romances, rather than novels, "Kenilworth" dealt with the days of Queen Elizabeth, rather as an antiquarian description than as tragic fiction, and "The Fortunes of Nigel" had historical narrative in ascendance over the plot of the tale.

"Scott," said the professor, who concluded by reading a brief excerpt from the trial scene in "Waverley," "has a glow of excellence, rather than a sharp point of flame. Therefore his worth is perceived through long reading, rather than through brief quotation."

C. A. Salmonsen, director of the Friday Night Supper Club, opened the evening's program and voiced an eloquent appreciation of the lecture. F. J. A. Morris, whose articles on Sir Walter Scott were widely read in recent issues of The Examiner, introduced Professor Dale.

Mr. Salmonsen announced the third lecture of the series for February 3rd.

Missing—$35,000

Who robbed Betty Compson, blonde film star, of jewels worth $35,000, is a question Hollywood police have been trying to answer. The actress said she had been bound, gagged and robbed of her jewels at her luxurious mansion while playing bridge. She was told in an anonymous phone call, the stolen gems would be returned if she did not insist on a police investigation.

AIM TO FORCE HITLER'S HAND

Von Schleicher Hopes For Nazi Support by Backing Strasser.

HAND OUT PRUSSIAN POST.

(By Tom Wilhelm)

BERLIN, Jan. 14 (C.P.)—Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher's seizure of a split in the National Socialist party ranks to name Gregor Strasser, former Nazi organizer, as Chancellor and Commisar of Prussia, thereby forcing Adoph Hitler to decide to support the Cabinet or risk new elections, was anticipated in to-day newspapers.

Strasser's appointment was visioned as part of the present Chancellor's plans to build a concentration cabinet from the Nationalists, through the Centrists, to the National Socialists.

Strasser having openly broken with Nazi leaders, the newspapers said the Government expected at least toleration from the Nazis because Strasser was still ostensibly a party member.

Hitler, the Nazi chieftain, who refused the post reported planned for Strasser, was expected in Berlin Monday to make a decision which, if against the Cabinet, was almost certain to bring dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections, which were impractical in view of the Nazi's split and the empty party "war chests."

Leningrad Instead of Petrograd Reveals How Thoroughly Russian Life Has Been Influenced by Lenin

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

LENIN is not his family name. Vladimiir Ilyich Ulianov is the indication by which he ought to be known. His father was a land owner in the state of Simbirsk. Ulianov had the best of educational advantages. At the Simbirsk High School, or as the Russians designate the gymnasium, he began his career as a serious student. His record at this school attracted the attention of the school masters. He won the honor of being one of the brightest of students. This reputation preceded him to the University of Kazan. He did not accept without question the positive statements of his university teachers. Nor can any student in Canadian schools if he has brains. Memorizing and swallowing all told him in class-room will never make a scholar. Often Ulianov grew violently angry with the text books. He accepted but few books as authoritative.

While in the University of Kazan he became a rabid revolutionist. To him the despotism of the Czar was a prison for the Russian people rather than a government. For his outspoken radicalism he was sent to prison. This procedure did not silence him. Freedom, justice, inflamed as with a passion his soul. Never again would he keep his peace as the price of liberty.

After prison he was exiled. He went abroad and spent the greater part of his life far away from his own Russia. Many of Europe's heroes have been exiles. Exile made venomed radicals of some of them. Exile softened the heart of Victor Hugo. He wept over the sad fate of his native land. Exile made a great Italian of Dante. But exile made a destructive revolutionist of Ulianov.

As an exile the pen became the sword of Ulianov. Geneva was his exile home. In this city he was first known as Ilyin. His pen never could keep pace with his ideas. What he wrote found its way back to Russia. These writings rocked the Russian throne. For his own safety he found it necessary to change the pseudonyms under which he wrote. After Ilyin the name of Tulin, and finally that of Lenin. Lenin was the pseudonym under which he wrote his most powerful revolutionary journals while in Geneva.

In 1905 when the Russian revolution had become a reality that the Czar could not cope with, this Lenin was in Petrograd. Lenin was an observer, rather than a participant in the revolution in the early stages. He studied the effect upon the Russian people of his revolutionary propaganda.

A great surprise it was to him to see the proletaria and the intelligentia so closely allied with the Czar and the army take the lead in a revolution. The workmen of Russia regarded the upper classes with suspicion, and mistrust, and hostility. In political philosophy at the beginning of his career as a revolutionist Lenin was a thorogoing Markian.

Lenin was fortunate having a remarkable young man for his classmate at Kazan University. Apollion Korinfsky, the poet, was his most intimate companion. Korinfsky was depressed by the gloomy moods of Ulianov. The poet failed to form an intimate friendship with him. Ulianov persistently kept to himself. In the common games he took no part. One thing Kerinfsky says he never could forget. He never would help another student out of class-room difficulties. Outside the class-room he was just as self-contained. He would not help another student to think out the problems. This was one of the reasons why not one of the students had any love for him. Nor was there any disposition among the students to tease him. He was a strange personal complex. In friendship he was cold. But to cross his path was to draw fierce wrath. Eight years he spent at Kazan. During his last semester at the university he was as cold and as fiery as he was discovered to be in his first. In research study he received honors, and was looked upon as a progressive student. In character he became set. He was straight-forward, cruel and utterly lacking in affection.

While at the university he refused resolutely to be a party to any kind of escapade. He was too serious to be healthy minded. A little fun now and again is relished by the best of men. A little fun in the student life of Ulianov would have been to him a safety valve. The more serious a man is the more fun he needs to keep a right slant on life, and its responsibilities, and obligations. The fun side of life needs sane development and education. Without it life is sure to be one-sided. We are on the way to the real Ulianov.

WEEKLY BIBLE LESSON

JESUS AT WORK. MARK 1:21-45.

JESUS at work makes great reading. He was right around among the people. He was greatly interested in their conditions. He desired to help them to better things.

To do this He began to teach and to heal them—to put them right in mind and body. That was the sum total of life—to know the truth and possess health.

The business of Christianity today is the same. That is why we back the school and the hospital. In our missionary work we send both the preacher and the doctor—the teacher and the nurse.

We must not forget that Jesus fitted into His day and met the people as they were; so we in our day must meet the people and the conditions as they are, and use our common sense.

The lesson for to-day opens with Jesus in the synagogue at Capernaum. At the northwest corner of the sea of Galilee the ruins of this building are to be seen and many a tourist lingers among the stones with a holy awe in his heart as he thinks of this gospel scene when the Son of God talked with men and let them feel His healing touch.

They were surprised at the way He taught. He departed from the methods of the rabbis and spoke as one who had the authority to speak for himself. So He had. His was the final voice in the revelation of God. That is why we like to turn back and read again and again what He said.

In the synagogue was a sick man. He was sick in spirit. An evil spirit controlled him. Just how this was done we are not sure. To-day we have insanity epilepsy and nervous diseases which dominate the normal state of those possessed. An angry or drunken man loses the mastery of himself and says and does things he would not even think of when he is himself.

The great thing about it was this, Jesus was able to handle the case and restore the man to health. He was mightier than the power of evil and forced the evil spirit to obey Him.

When the meeting in the synagogue was over He went home with Simon and Andrew where He healed the Mother of Simon's wife who was sick with a fever.

Reports about Him and His cures spread rapidly. There were great gatherings of sick folk and He healed many. There is no record of anyone being refused nor of any case not responding to His treatment—He was indeed the great physician.

Early, very early the next morning, He went out to a quiet place and met God.

Meerschaum, used in making fine pipes, is a mineral drug in Asia Minor. It is cheese-like in consistency when first mined, but hardens rapidly when exposed to air.

The One Talent

Some of Jesus' parables were related in order to give his disciples and others, in terms of human apprehension and experience, a clear idea of what the kingdom of heaven is like. The story of the talents was told after this manner. It begins: "The kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability."

The only thing that was necessary for each of these servants to do in order to obtain the regard of the faithful was to use, to the best of his ability, what was committed to his care, whether great or small. In "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany" (p. 195) Mrs. Eddy says, "To do good to all because we love all, and to use in God's service the one talent that we have, is only only means of adding to that talent, and the best way to silence a deep discontent with our shortcomings." "The one talent that we all have," the privilege of loving all and doing good to all—may become of priceless worth in the service of God and man.

Had the servant in the parable loved his master and those about him sufficiently to want to do good to all, he would have been kept so joyously busy that he would not have thought of burying his one precious opportunity of service. Such mental characteristic as fear, resentment, lack of confidence, self-pity, hatred, jealousy, ingratitude, and unfaithfulness—all handicaps to success—love and good works would have healed.

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR JANUARY 22.

IF you asked me, I would call this story of the paralyzed man and Jesus, a lesson on the three F's. How do you mean? says you. The three F's are Friends, Faith, Forgiveness. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and need is a test of true friendship. It's a great thing to have friends, but a still greater thing to be a friend. You know what the Scripture says: "He that would have friends, must show himself friendly." Those four friends who brought the sick man to Jesus were a good deal nearer to the Kingdom than the selfish people who crowded the house to hear and see the Saviour and wouldn't let them through. I'm glad they had enough sand and git-up to do a sort of daylight burglary, and I just hope a few bits of tile dropped on the heads of the folk who wouldn't make room for the sick man.

But the strangest thing to me is that the sick man got healed because of his friends' faith. It says: "When He (the Saviour) saw their faith." We owe a good deal more than we think to other people's faith for us. Mothers' prayers and fathers' trust, for instance.

And then there's forgiveness. Real forgiveness, forgetful forgiveness. The world needs lots of it. Not the sort that says: "I forgive but I'll not forget." That ain't forgiveness at all. It's just patching things up. God says: "I will blot out thy sins and remember them no more." When God forgives, he forgets, and so should we. Don't forget that there are two "forgives" in the Lord's Prayer. I've told you before that while it takes two to make a quarrel, just one can make it up by a whole-hearted forgiveness. So here you have three big F's: Friend, Faith, Forgiveness.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

Jesus at Work

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Mark 1:21-45

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Copyright, 1933, by Central Press Association, Inc.

After Jesus had been rejected by his old neighbors at Nazareth he made Capernaum his home. On the very next Sabbath he taught in the synagogue and cast an evil spirit out of an afflicted

Coming into the house of Simon he was told of Simon's wife's mother who was ill of fever. Jesus rebuked the fever with the same authority he had exercised on the evil spirit and the woman was healed at once.

At sunset a great crowd gathered before the door of the house where Jesus was staying. They came bearing all manner of sick and afflicted folk whom Jesus healed by the touch of his hand.

Where Jesus received such authority for teaching and healing was learned by his disciples next morning before daylight. They found him out in a lonely spot praying to his Father for strength.

IT'S OUR MONEY.

While the Sturgeon Falls relief probe is still subjudice, enough has been revealed to indicate that a good many people in that town have been suffering from that strange delusion under which so many others throughout the country would seem to be laboring, namely, that the money that governments spend is obtained out of the thin air and not out of the pockets of the people.

Only such a belief would explain the apparent readiness on the part of Sturgeon Falls residents to exploit the relief funds.

The general attitude seems to have been, "This is on the Government; let's get it while the getting's good."

If they had stopped to consider the fact that the relief money was being paid by the people of Ontario and of the Dominion, and was not simply dug up at will out of some mysterious treasure trove, it is to be imagined that assistance would have been distributed a good deal more circumspectly, and the present headlines in the newspapers would not have materialized.

There are a good many folks who do not live in Sturgeon Falls who have the same misconception of the source of Government funds; they seem unable to grasp the fact that the Government is only ourselves and the money it spends is our money.

MISREPRESENTATION.

With a complaint voiced by J. Fred. Reid, M.L.A. for Windsor West, in addressing the Essex County Auto Club the other night, The Examiner wishes to place itself on record as unanimously endorsing what the Windsor member said.

"It's a crime and a shame," declared Mr. Reid, "the way these camps along the highways attempt to lure tourists by promises of good fishing and hunting which they are unable to fill. I think that is something which could and should be dealt with by the Ontario Motor League."

This is a matter to which attention has been more than once called in these columns.

Not only highways camps but summer resorts and other interests have been guilty of misrepresentation in regard to fishing possibilities.

Literature describing rivers and lakes as teeming with game fish is distributed by the ton, and in a good many cases the glowing reports are utterly discounted by the actual facts.

To bring ardent fishermen into a district where it is almost impossible to catch the legal "bag" is the worst kind of advertising, inasmuch as every disappointed visitor goes home and spreads the story of his experience to his friends.

Our lake resorts have many advantages that could be exploited to the limit, but The Examiner has never been able to see any reason why in this matter of fishing facilities the picture should be unduly colored.

Mr. Reid is quite justified in his protest, and it will be echoed by all who know the actual conditions.

THE CALL FOR HELP.

Peterborough citizens who have the means to contribute to the relief fund are urged to lose no time in sending their donations to the city treasurer, Frank Adams, who is treasurer of the campaign which opens Monday.

At this late stage in the depression there is surely no need of stressing the fact that it is essential that a substantial portion of the city's share of local relief expenditures should be secured by voluntary subscriptions from those able to help.

Some 650 Peterborough families are at present dependent upon public assistance to enable them to keep body and soul together.

A third of the cost of taking care of these depression casualties must be met locally, while the remaining two-thirds will be paid by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

The city's share must be paid, and if it is not secured voluntarily from those who are in a position to donate to the fund, the money will have to come out of the civic treasury, and many citizens who are having a difficult time paying their taxes and keeping a roof over their heads will be hard hit.

It has been the experience of every other community that has staged a drive for relief funds that the objective has been readily subscribed, the more fortunate portion of the population unhesitatingly coming to the rescue.

There is no reason to feel that Peterborough will not measure up to its responsibility now that the issue is squarely up to the citizens who have the means to do something for others who have felt the full force of the depression.

A TRAGEDY OF THE TIMES.

Many people will agree with the Ottawa Journal that the transiency of large numbers of young Canadians who are without jobs and have as a result become veritable tramps, is one of the tragedies of these times.

Newton D. Baker, American statesman, recently revealed a similar situation in the United States when he declared that more than 300,000 young men, unable to secure work, had taken to the roads and had become a veritable army of pathetic hoboes.

The evil consequences of young men, many of them well educated and originally ambitious, being driven by unusual conditions into a life of wandering round the country, depending upon their wits and their ability to beg to keep them alive, are readily apparent.

What will become of these men if they are allowed to continue such an aimless career?

Can anything else be expected than that these young Canadians will rapidly degenerate into a mob of no-goods, drug addicts, users of Canned heat and rubbing alcohol, preferring to beg and perhaps to steal rather than to seek work?

The Ottawa paper says in reference to this distressing situation that there must be a way out.

"We solved harder things in the war," says the journal. "We solved them then because we felt our future was at stake, that no price could be too high to make it secure. May it not be true, therefore, that something of the same feeling now, with something of the same courage, would produce the organizing power necessary to take our young unemployed men and provide them with some useful work, rescuing them from demoralization? Is there no plan, no possible scheme, under which they could be organized into units, placed into camps under control and discipline, taught at least the habit and the virtue of work?"

NICK CARTER.

An obscure little paragraph tells of the death in New Bedford, Mass., of Frederick W. Davis, who (so it is said) was the author of "Nick Carter." We somehow seem to remember that the author of Nick Carter died once or twice before, that, in fact, he has shuffled off as often as that "last survivor of the Crimea," or as many times as that old Abyssinian King who used to pass out as regularly as news was scarce in the prosaic "nineties." Nevertheless, and whether the great sleuth is merely dead again, or yet, or for the first time, the story brought back memories.

For to those of us who grew up in the "mauve nineties," when there were no talkies or radio, or airships or motor cars, and when many of us did our reading by a coal-oil lamp, "Nick Carter" was a name to conjure with. It was the day of the "dime novel." Conan Doyle was writing then, and Sherlock Holmes was at his best, and Rider Haggard was giving us "She," and Marie Corelli was enthralling us with her "Romance of Two Worlds." But while we read them all, and also Horatio Alger, not to mention Frank Merriwell, who in the ninth inning invariably drove in the winning run after two strikes were called upon him with two men out, it was "Nick Carter" to whom we gave our all.

Our oldsters didn't like him. They told us that his adventures were trash, that if we kept on reading him we would lose our taste for Thackeray and Dickens, or for Jane Austen and Scott. Yet despite all these admonitions, and a lot more (the sort of thing we ourselves now say about jazz and some talkies—how people forget?) it was Nick Carter we read, even though we had to do it in the attic, or perhaps out in the barn, or on our way to and from school.

He was a great detective—or so we thought. Through a long gap of years we can still remember some of the cases that he solved, told under such stirring titles as "Tracked Across the Atlantic, or Nick Carter after the Smugglers." Sherlock Holmes was the better man, especially when it came to deduction; and maybe Nick couldn't have held his own with Edgar Wallace's men, or with some of Oppenheim's, or with Charley Chan. But what thrilled us about Nick (perhaps in those quiet, far-off days boys were more easily thrilled) was his ability to face incredible situations, always emerging on top. Into dungeons he went, and smugglers' caves, and pirates' dens, and even on to hastily improvised gallows, but always, and always on the last page, he confounded and scattered his enemies, or took them to jail. Crime never paid when Nick was around.

Somewhere in the early nineteen hundreds he (also his brother Chick) retired. It was a new world. The movie had come, and with it a new kind of bandit and new wild west men and lovers, and there were no more cases for Nick, just as there was little left for Bertha M. Clay and Victoria Cross and May Agness Fleming. They had had their day. It was the day of the crinoline and candle, a love-making in the covered buggy, of the hat-pin and the hair-pin, of under petticoats and long, long skirts. The world then hadn't heard of "complexes," or of "psycho-analysis," or of "jazz" and "flappers" or of many other such things; and when they came, and with them all the new and wonderful and complex things of these times, then old-fashioned people like Nick, forgotten or out of date, just got ready to die.

Yet we are glad, after all these years, to have not missed this paragraph about the death of "Nick Carter." It has brought back a lot of memories in years which, whatever they may have lacked, were in many ways wholesom and brave.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Bennett's silence in regard to the Russian barter deal will be looked upon by a great many people as a mistake in political strategy.

Apparently Monday's unemployment demonstration scheduled for Toronto has been nipped in the bud. The police had the first move.

Calgary will not begin to realize fully her mistake in refusing to pay her obligations until she seeks to secure more credit.

Mr. Slaght's attack on the Hydro administration would be more convincing if the public did not remember that he was the opposition counsel during the probe. That was the place for him to have done his stuff, not on the platform afterward.

Even horses were on relief in Sturgeon Falls, it transpires. At that we have seen a few race horses that were in real need of help.

So far the probe has disclosed the fact that at least there was nothing niggardly in the dispensation of relief in Sturgeon Falls.

Premier Henry says he has never even thought of an election. Gracious, doesn't the Premier ever read any of Mitch Hepburn's speeches?

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

It is time, many folks think, that Walt Stocker got his Christmas trees in the park took down and added to the brush pile in Confederation Sq.

There was a touching scene at the town meeting last Mon. nite when R. Denne, our worthy Mayor, and Fred Tuggey kissed and made up. Even Jack Fitzpatrick turned his head aside to wipe away a tear.

Rotarians from Toronto, west of here, is visiting this berg Mon. nite per special train and them and the local lads is expected to have a large evening when they meet at Graham's Hotel.

Doc Gamsby, the shrinking violet from Orono, west of here, who hates publicity like Gordon Sinclair does, was a visitor in our midst Fri. nite, Doc bringing along with him what he fondly imagined to be a hockey team.

Perce Bond, our well known druggist and boss of the O.H.A., is busy these nites opening new rinks and such all round the country. Perce is getting to be quite a traveller, but so far aint showed no signs of wanting to write a book about his experiences.

The village curlers perked up a lot this week, cold weather arriving in time to let the lads battle it out for the Neill Trophy. All and sundry report a good time, and hope for some more before the ball season arrives.

The village council picked their committees last Mon. and the boys is advised to shave their estimates twice over, if the villagers is expected to pay all their taxes this year. Cut till it hurts, lads, say we.

Jack Purcell, of Toronto, west of here, give the folks a badminton exhibition here this week and most of the village players has decided they's a few points about the game they aint mastered yet. Keep on trying, say we, Rome wasn't built in a day.

Aggie MacPhail is expected to give a talk in this berg in the near future, but so far neither the Tory or Grit executive in this village has been asked to act on the reception committee.

HON. AND REV. H. J. CODY
President, University of Toronto, Educationist, Clergyman

This is the signature of a man with studious mind and spiritual inclination and what at the same time has so much executive and administrative ability that he is impelled to seek outlet for it in action as well as exhortation. His inherent ambition for personal success he has transferred to the service of the causes which he espouses. Whatever he takes in hand he naturally enlarges and develops to mature proportions, comprehending every detail, overlooking no possibility. He is brilliant and at the same time thorough going and painstaking. He is purposeful and consistent in the pursuit of his purpose. He is a person of sincerity, rectitude, integrity. He commands the confidence and retains the loyalty of those he leads. He is decidedly a disciplinarian, governed by mentality and sentiment subordinated, but he is a tolerant disciplinarian, withal.

CONVERSATION WITH A CAT.

Man in the House—Cat, you're a good-for-nothing old loafer.

Cat in the House (yawning)—Not me. I'm good enough for what I want to do.

Man—But you sleep all the time. You come in the house and what do you do? First, you look under the kitchen stove to see if any food is there. Then you go to the fireplace to see if there's a fire. If there is, you stretch out and snooze. You don't say a word to anybody, you don't rub against any legs, you don't even purr. You sleep. You don't earn your board and room.

Cat—Well, what would you have me do this cold weather? Jump around the house, get in your way, knock things over, yell to be let out, yell to be let in again? Isn't snoozing better than that?

Man—Well, maybe you're right. Maybe it is. But why don't you show a little more interest in human beings?

Cat—I've tried. When I hear you people coming home I run out to the front steps and greet you pleasantly, showing my affection. When you're working in the yard, I hang around, don't I? And sometimes I leap onto your lap—and then I hear you saying that I just do it because I'm cold. That's not giving me any breaks, is it?

Man—Say, what's the idea? Did I start this out or did you? All I said, in a kidding sort of way, was that you were an old loafer. Don't make any mistakes—we like you. I'll take it all back. We like your dignity. We like your intelligent good nature—no matter how much the kids rough you up and maul you around, you never scratch them. We like the bold way you drive all dogs off the place. We like your health, we like your grace, we like your magnificent animal beauty. As a matter of fact, we like your calm refusal to learn any tricks or do anything you don't want to do. You can board with us as long as you want. I'll never say another word....BUT WHAT'S THE IDEA of falling asleep while I'm talking to you? If you get any closer to that fireplace you'll get your whiskers burnt, and how'll you like that?....What an animal! What an insolent cat! What a loafer!

For Monday, January 16

THE ASTRAL activities holding influence upon the affairs of this day are most encouraging for progress, promotion and a generally propitious state of affairs. The energies will be found highly spurred to initiative and enterprise, accompanied by the power to impress employers and those in places of prestige and authority. It is a time to seek honors, preferment and substantial assistance from these. Also speculation, chance and investments may prove lucrative.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of progress, profit and personal preferment from those in position and power. Push to high goals now. A child born on this day should be energetic, aggressive, resourceful and ambitious and should reach an advanced position in life through the influence of those in power as well as through their own capacity.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 16

As soon as he had received the coroner's report Jere Kane returned to the scene of the murder. A genial-faced Irishman who introduced himself as Detective O'Hara admitted him. After a few brief preliminaries Kane asked the Chivington be brought down.

Presently, the old man pottered into the room. His face lighted when he saw the amateur detective.

"I'm glad you've come," he said fervently.

"What sort of mess was that you got into last night?" Kane asked good naturedly. "That isn't like you, Chivington."

The old man looked inquiringly at the detective. Kane nodded and asked O'Hara to leave them alone. When he was gone:

"I feel I can talk to you, sir. But those officers——" He shuddered.

Kane motioned him into a chair but he himself remained standing. Shortly:

"Now, tell me, Chivington, about that gun. What were you going to do with it."

Kane voice was smooth and easy. The servant's gaze shifted uneasily. Then:

"I knew they wouldn't believe me, so I told them it was the master's gun. It wasn't, Mr. Kane. I—I found it." He looked appealingly at the other man. "I swear I did."

"Where?"

"In the driveway near the street. It was lying in the gutter. I stumbled over it, as I was coming back to the house."

"What did you do with it?"

"The sergeant took it when it fell from under my coat."

Kane called O'Hara. When the detective shuffled in he seemed to divine what was wanted, for he had th gun in his hand. He muttered something about James having turned it over to him to be given to Kane but that it slipped his mind.

Taking the gun, Kane dismissed him. He turned to Chivington. "Is this the weapon?"

The old man nodded. It was a .25-caliber revolver. Hasty examination showed that it had been fired but once. The serial number had been filed off.

Carefully wrapping it up in his handkerchief, Kane stuck the gun in his pocket. He did not for a moment think that he would be able to find any fingerprints on it, at least, none tha would aid him in his investigation. Too many had handled it—Chivington, James, O'Hara and himself.

But he wanted to study the muzzle o that gun under a microscope. If it was the gun that killed Richard Bailey a powerful glass would reveal it.

"Chivington," his voice was not unkind, "how long have you been in Mr. Bailey's service?"

The old man's eyes seemed to light with pride. "Twenty years, sir," he replied. "I came from England with him. I was his valet, sir, when he was a star on the London stage."

"And you have been with him ever since?"

"Yes, sir. I have seen him every day since. Why, sir, he was just like a son to me. He was an artist, and you yourself know how irresponsible such persons are. He needed me."

He was about to ask about the director's numerous love affairs but decided to spare the old man that embarrassment. Instead:

"At what time did you return home last night?"

"It was about a quarter past nine."

"What did you do when you first arrived?"

'I went to my room and deposited my hat and coat. I brushed up a bit—one can get disheveled at the beach, you know, sir—and then I went to the den to see if the master wanted anything. I found him—" a sob shook his bent and aging body"—lying on the floor, as you saw him."

"Did you see anyone at or near the house when you came in?"

"No, sir."

"Now, about your midnight walk—you couldn't sleep——"

"Of course not, sir, under the circumstances," Chivington interposed. "How could I?"

"I understand," with constraint. "Now, tell me, just what happened."

"I was lying on my bed—I didn't bother about undressing, I was too distraught—when I thought I heard someone outside. As quietly as I could I raised my window and looked out but I could see no one.

"I decided to come down and investigate. The officer was asleep and I decided I would not disturb him. You see, I thought I might just be jumpy and I didn't want him to make sport of me. So I slipped outside. As I stepped out onto the front stoop a dark figure darted away from the house——"

Kane grew impatient. The old man was talking so slowly, so deliberately. "Yes, yes," he snapped, "go on."

"I thought of calling the officer, but I feared the prowler would get away. So I gave chase, but he easily outdistanced me. He ran out of the yard and turned down the street toward Highland avenue. Once he stumbled and fell down, but he scrambled to his feet and raced off."

"Can you describe him?"

"Only slightly, sir. He seemed to be a young man and he wore an old suit of clothes. He had a cap pulled far down over his eyes——"

"Yes, and then what did you do?" Kate cut in.

"I decided to return to the house and awaken the officer. But as I turned into the driveway my foot struck against something—it sounded like metal as I stepped on it—and I nearly fell down. I looked to see what it was and I found that gun.

"I picked it up and looked at it as best I could in the dark. I didn't know what to do, sir. I didn't know whether to give it to the officer and tell him that I found it or wait and give it to you—I knew you would understand, sir—and tell you the whole story.

"I decided on the latter course. I stuck it under my coat—well," with a shrug, "you know the rest."

"Chivington," his voice was coaxing rather than threatening, "did you know of any enemies that your master might have had?"

"He had no enemies that I know of," fervently. "He was a man loved by all who knew him and he would go out of his way to assist those in need."

Thoughtfully, staring at the floor, Kane rubbed his chin. His other hand crept into his coat pocket; his fingers touched the forgotten diary.

That was it; why had he forgotten the diary? He fingered it for a moment, the while his eyes studied the face of the old man. Was Chivington telling the truth?

What an absurd thought. Of course he was. Chivington was as honest as any human could be. He was devoted to Richard Bailey. What purpose would he have in seeking to hide the identity of his master's slayer?

But one more test. Kane knew the answer—the true answer. He had found it as he glanced through the diary this morning.

"Chivington," he said slowly and with emphasis, "What was Mr. Bailey's financial condition?"

The old houseman's face clouded. Then: "We always had the best of everything," he said, almost boastfully, but then, as he went on, his voice dropped to one tinged with embarrassment, "but of late months the struggle has been a hard one. He was in debt—and needed money badly."

Chivington buried his face in his hands and his old body shook. He was a proud man and it hurt him to have to disclose that secret. He had tried so hard to aid his master in keeping up appearances, for in th Eden that is Hollywood the one demand is: "Keep up appearances at all costs."

Kane looked down on him with compassion in his eyes. But he was jubilant that his first impression of him was correct. It added to his own confidence, inspired him with new vigor to get to the bottom of this affair.

There was one more question he wanted to ask. He had formed his own opinion, but he wanted Chivington's. The prowler that he had seen resembled in description the one who had fled from Nanette LeRoi's cottage earlier in the evening.

Here, he thought, was the link between the two attacks, one of which proved fatal, the other of which showed either haste or bad marksmanship. If he could get confirmation of his theory—

"Chivington," he said, and he spoke slowly for emphasis, "do you think that prowler was a woman?"

BUYING SMUGGLED GRAPES

WINDSOR, Ont. — Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating allegations one or more Border Cities stores have been buying smuggled grapes. Stanley J. Wells, Lasalle, caught landing at Ecorse, Mich., told United States customs officers he was smuggling grapes into Canada on regular trips. He is held on a charge of entering the United States illegally and faces a hearing on January 23.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A TRUE CANADIAN KNIGHT

ON THIS DATE in 1921 there passed from earth as truly a knight as ever lived in Canada, Sir William Gage, the founder of the war upon tuberculosis, the white plague. Born at Brampton, September 16, 1839, he entered Toronto University with the intention of becoming a doctor; but the atmosphere of the operating room was too much for him, and he had to abandon his ambition, a lucky thing for thousands of Canadians, for if he had practiced as a surgeon he might never have his interest riveted on the disease which claims so many victims each year, not so many now, thanks to his benevolence. After being a school teacher for a few years he entered the employ of Adam Miller & Company, at that time the largest publishing house in Canada. He had not been there long before he noted the frequent sick absences of his fellow employes and out of his own thin pocket financed a free dispensary for the workers (which, incidentally, developed into the present Western Hospital). Convinced that sunlight and comfort were the first essentials in the war upon tuberculosis, which was the chief ailment amongst the workers, he (by that time had secured control of the business and was, therefore, financially able) decided to establish a sanitarium and purchased the necessary land two miles from Gravenhurst. He gave $30,000 himself and, with an equal amount from the Hart A. Massey estate, proceeded with the construction of the Muskoka Ottawa Sanitarium. On Apr. 23, 1896, the national Sanitarium Association was incorporated with Lord Strathcona as president and Mr. Gage as the chairman of the executive. The Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives followed; the Western hospital in September, 1904, (the first of its kind in the world); the King Edward Sanitarium in 1907; the Queen Mary Hospital for consumptive children in 1913; and later the free dispensary in Toronto (the Gage Institute). Over 25,000 patients have been cured in these agencies, the success of which led to the opening of sanitaria all over the Dominion. Few men so worthily earned the honor of knighthood.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, January 14 (C.P.). — Nothing exciting developed in the closing session of the week on the Toronto Stock Exchange, Ford was a little weak, Dominion Stores absorbed considerable selling, and Consolidated Smelters pulled up 2 points, while the general tone was firm in quiet trading.

Smelters drifted down to 58 yesterday, but was back to 60 to-day.

C.P.R. held unchanged at 15¾, while Brazilian was up a fraction at 9⅛, and Nickel unchanged at 9.

Oil shares showed no change, B. A. holding at 8 and Imperial at 9⅛, and Supertest steady at 13½

There was quite a flurry in Gypsum, with the price churning about in fairly active trading, but the price closed unchanged.

Brantford Cordage Preferred and Dominion Motors both recorded small gains.

WALL STREET

(By Claude A. Jagger, A.P. Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—The stock market readily absorbed week-end profit-taking in to-day's short session, and closed with a steady tone.

Leaders yielded from fractions to a point for a time, but the list stiffened in the late dealings, influenced in part by buying of the tobaccos. The close found most changes narrow, but a few issues were up or down as much as a point. The turnover was only about 350,000 shares.

Proctter and Gamble reduced the quarterly dividend to 37½ cents, from 50 cents, and that issue lost about a point. The dividend action, however, had been in part anticipated by the sag in that issue earlier in the week.

Continental Can, which has recently appeared to reflect considerable professional bullish activity, lost about a point, as did Chrysler and Borden.

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 14 (C.P.).—Disappointing export business negatived strong bullish sentiment on the Winnipeg Grain Market this week, causing wheat prices to lose a part day rest at levels, 1-1¼ cents under of last week's advance. Values to the same day a week ago, lopping off nearly one-third of the 3¼-cent gain. Chicago interests furnished most of the leadership during the period.

Bullish enthusiasm sent wheat prices higher at times, but failure of foreign importers to follow the recent advance brought out a reactionary tendency. May delivery closed the six-day period Friday at 46 3-8, after being as high as 49 cents. October future closed at 48 5-8, and July at 47 1-8.

Prospect of a serious winter-wheat shortage in the United States and the Sino-Jap conflict in the Far East were among the factors put forward by traders favorable to higher prices, but lack of demand for Canadian wheat dampened the enthusiasm and upswings were soon lost.

No estimate was given of the week's export, but it was known to be extremely disappointing.

Cash wheat trading was dull, reflecting the lack of interest in overseas shipments. Coarse grains closed the week fractionally lower in sympathy with wheat.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (C.P.)—The Standard Mining market maintained a firm tone in to-day's short session. McIntyre, falling back 40 to 21.50 was the only stock of the high-priced group to show weakness. It rallied before the close.

Lake Shore held steady at $33. Hollinger at 6.15, Dome at 13.95 and Pioneer between 4.40 and 4.50.

The base metal group was again quiet and moderately unsteady. Nickel at 8.95 was down 15 and Noranda at 19.85 was down 5.

Buying in Eldorado dropped off but the price held within a cent or two of the previous close. Mining Corporation was a little lower at 1.45.

The Soviet Union has the largest Arctic frontier of any country in the world.

SMITH ELECTED IN HALDIMAND

Recount Gives Grafton Man Two Vote Margin Over W. Hoskin.

FIRST DEFEATED BY 1 VOTE

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 14 (C.P.). —James Smith, Grafton, was declared elected Reeve of Haldimand Township by Judge L. V. O'Connor to-day, following the recount held at Grafton yesterday. Smith applied for a recount, following his defeat by W. Hoskin, by one vote. Smith claimed that the returning officer had disallowed three ballots, marked in his favor. Following the recount yesterday, the ballots were again examined by Judge O'Connor in chambers this morning and credited to Smith, electing him by two votes. J. B. McNicoll acted for Smith and A. R. Willmott appeared for hoskin.

Some Rights Left

LONDON, Ont., January 14 (C.P.). — Someone dug through a dusty file here and found pedestrians "or foot passengers" have been protected for decades from the danger of being run down by baby buggy pushers. The ancient by-law specifies "foot passengers" have right of way on London's sidewalks, and if there is a question of elbow-room, the baby buggy must detour and let the walker pass.

Little Incidents in the Lives Of Famous Canadians

By J. H. MOSGROVE

MAJOR CROZIER, R.N.W.M.P.—MAKES AN ARREST ON POUNDMAKER'S RESERVE

They came—men, women, children—and dogs, from the reserves of Little Pine, Strike-him-on-the-back, Mosquito, Moosomin, Skinny Man and Bear Head; a motley crowd in paint and feathers, in blankets and goose-quilled jackets to Big Bear's Thirst Dance on Poundmaker's reserve.

There was revelry on the reserve. All night under the spectral light of a June moon in 1884, camp fires gleamed and tom-toms drummed monotonously. Across the plains the wailing chant swelled higher, lounder and sterner to become a deafening cry, then to cease abruptly, making the stillness that followed like death itself.

One of the wildest and most independent of Indians, crafty and wily in diplomacy, cruel and treacherous in war, was Big Bear, who had come to hold the Thirst Dance. In one way or another he evaded the American cavalry and seeking a refuge in Canada took up a reserve near Fort Pitt. As the months wore on, however, the inherited nomad existence of roaming at will ever plains again surged through his blood and, dissatisfied with his lot, he moved with his following to Poundmaker's reserve on Battle River.

The Indian Department did not favor the crafty chieftain's move nor the idea of his taking up land, but in that of his own district. So a detachment of R.N.W.M. police came down from Battleford to Poundmaker's to watch the progress of events and keep an eye on the visitors during the ceremonies.

All Was Peaceful Until—

Morning came, and the sun was yet to rise when the dancers and the motley throng temporarily deserted the reserve for a more commodious spot near the river's brim. Behind them followed the police. Except for the tread of feet and the beat of drums the scene was peaceful enough, and the dance was wearing itself out in harmless chants when a bombshell startled everyone into life.

Big Bear's tribe had, on coming to Poundmaker's, cunning set up their encampment near Instructor Craig's quarters, and by gesture and expression had more than once asked for food which was as often as requested refused. This developed into a bitter enmity between the federal agent and the intruders.

While the hollows rang to the cries of savage triumph, two of Big Bear's braves, bold and devising, entered the government storeroom and demanded food of Craig. Being refused, they declined to accept the decision. One of them, "Man-Who-Speaks-Our-Language," caught up an axe handle that stood near the door and struck Craig over the arm with it. The instructor was not injured, but the insult demanded punishment and he took the matter before the police.

The incident was full of grave consequences. To make an immediate arrest was the code of justice, but to do so in the midst of a crowd of fanatical, howling savages was to invite fury and pandemonium. The matter rested temporarily. The chiefs were told about the assault, and the dance went on unmolested.

Were All Disguised

Next day Major Crozier determined to make the arrest at once if the culprit could be spotted. It having been reported that he was among the dancers, the police enlisted the service of Craig, and mingling with the throng pushed their way through the circle of the dancers who showed not the slightest concern to their intrusion. The drums still beat. The chants were as wailing as ever. The performers still bobbed up and down and tooted upon their goose-bones whistles with unmoved placidity. Painted and dressed out of all recognition, the police search was without result. However, as the officers left the ring of whirling savages a howling mob accompanied them, some on horses, others on foot showering them with every insulting epithet in the Indian tongue.

The dance was to finish after sundown and the chiefs had given their word that on the following morning the Indians, including the two malefactors, would come before the police, that the officers should have every chance of identification and of making an arrest.

Reinforced during the night by an additional detachment from Battleford, Major Crozier took up his headquarters in Instructor Craig's residence, putting the shack in a state of defence, barricading the doors and windows, and making bastions of two corners with bags of floor. The night passed in alarm. Early next morning the uproar from the direction of the camp proclaimed the Indians were coming. Leaving a guard over the improvised fort, Crozier with a strong following marched forward to make the arrest. The Indians advancing martially, halted upon a rising knoll about a quarter of a mile away. Poundmaker and Big Bear came forward, offering themselves as hostages, but their good graces were declined.

Crozier drew fearlessly closer to the encircling horde, and through Interpreter MacKay called for the culprit to surrender, declaring that he should have a fair trial and punished accordingly, and that he would not be hanged for such an offence. "Step out and say that you are the man wanted. That you will stand your trial. It will be over in a short time."

For a moment there was silence. Then with dignity and courage an Indian with face dark, cold, and changeless stepped out from the throng and without emotion declared he would not suffer arrest. An instant's breathless hush settled over all. Then came a surging forward of the Indians and fierce murmurs of dissent. The command was given to make the arrest and the culprit, surprised at the determination of the law, endeavored to flee, but the officers near him seized him, while the other closed about him.

Struck powerfless with amazement by the sudden action, the Indians stood as though turned to stone. Contrary to belief the arrest had been made without a shot being fired.

Their courage slowly returning, the Indians worked themselves into frenzy and, howling and yelling, dashed their ponies against the police cordon in the hope of terrifying the officers into firing. Threats were made. Savage vengeance hurled. Everything was done except firing of a gun. Several of the police had been disarmed in the melee, but upon the wiser council of older braves the guns were returned. That evening as the sunset came, the police with their prisoner took the trail back to Battleford. No Indians followed.

Crozier's action had offset the rebellion one year and saved the settlement of Battleford from an impending massacre.

Number 13, Played Most Prominent Part

The smiling young Scotsman who addressed members of the local Horticultural Society last evening wondered what significance the date held for him. It was Friday the 13th, and he pondered upon the outcome of his visit here on that date in view of the fact that the figure 13 has played a not unimportant part in his life.

He was on active service during the War with the 13th Brigade, and was in Platoon 13. After being wounded he was removed to the 13th General Hospital, and at the conclusion of the war he found himself on the train riding into Toronto in car No. 13.

CITY OF CHANGTU BATTLE CENTRE

HEAVY CIVILIAN TOLL.

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (C.P.). — Civil fighting in Szechwan Province in Western China has turned the provincial capital, Changtu, into a battlefield, according to letters received at foreign mission offices of the United Church of Canada here. Many cities in the western half of the province had also suffered, the letters said.

From Luchow, scene of a siege with severe bombardments, Rev. A. C. Hoffman, Toronto, reports modern weapons were brought into the province and aeroplanes used in bombing operations for the first time when the armies from Eastern Szechwan swept up to the city almost unopposed.

In order to prevent the city's destruction, Mr. Hoffman and other missionaries went to the enemy camp to plead for a cessation of hostilities after the siege had continued for a month. Among the attackers Mr. Hoffman found officers whom he knew, and was able to arrange terms for the surrender of Luchow. The city was occupied by the invaders without burning or looting.

Doctors, Nurses Busy.

Dr. Ian C. Revelle, Kingston, Ont., in charge of medical work at Luchow, assisted in the negotiations. From the first air bombing a month earlier he and Chinese nurses at the mission hospital had done heavy duty. Many wounded, mostly civilians, were brought to them after each bombardment by artillery or aircraft.

At Chengtu, the capital of Szechwan, street firing behind barricades blocked traffic and 500,000 people had to stay close to their homes for weeks, the letters continued. There is a foreign community of 200 in Chengtu, mostly missionaries. None were killed or injured during the fighting. It is estimated 10,000 soldiers and civilians were killed or wounded.

British market opened to our goods.

"We have computed that the losses to the farmers through the economic warfare are at least twice the amount they were paying in annuities. It is unfair and unjust to ask them to do so," he continued.

"Michael Davitt led the farmers to victory in the land war. To-day the farmers are faced with another great crisis, nother Davitt has come forward and joined the front rank of the fight to save the farmers from the new menace that is threatening to destroy their industry and bring ruin and desolation upon their homes," declared the former President.

Mr. Cosgrave warmly repudiated the charge of the Fianna Fail, that he had paid the annuities to Great Britain under a secret agreement not submitted to the Dail. "The undertaking," declared Mr. Cosgrave, "was inspired in the first Appropriation Act passed by the Dail on August 8, 1923."

No Secret Actions

"Neither my government nor any other government of this state would pledge the people of this country to the payment of a single penny unless parliament voted the money; unless parliament told the people what the money was for and to whom it was to be paid," he concluded.

The farmer candidates, who many think will likely hold the balance of power in the next dail, are urging the end of the economic war no less strongly than the Cosgravelites.

P. F. Baxter, who is opposing Eamon DeValera in Clare, told the electors there was no patriotism in a leader's trying to press the people to commit suicide by economic warfare. "Unquestionably to return DeValera will be locking the door against peace with Britain and throwing the key away. The day the government is changed the price of cattle will go up from £2 to £5 a head," he concluded.

COLLEGIATE SAFE ROBBED.

BRANTFORD.— The safe of the Brantford Collegiate was found broken into this morning and $22.50 was missing. The auditorium was in use for an outside function last night and it is thought youngsters wandered from the gathering, gathered tools in the shops and pried the safe door from its hinges.

BOOM IN SMUGGLING.

SARNIA.— Alleged slackening of the vigilance at the border following the civic elections was stated in some quarters to-day to have resulted in an increase of liquor smuggling in this district. It was stated a number of young men from both sides of the border were engaged in the traffic.

LOVE TRAGEDY.

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Michael Schultz, 40, a restaurant proprietor, shot and critically wounded a woman employee to-day and then killed himself. Police said they believe Schultz shot Mrs. Mary W. Heigle, 35, a widow, after she had spurned his pleas that she marry him.

half east of Millbrook by automobile from Peterborough, just too late by a mere matter of minutes to see their mother before she died.

Cavan Pioneer

The late Mrs. Hunter a descendant of old pioneer stock was 83 years of age. Before marriage she was Blanche Armstrong the family homestead being located quite near to the Hunter homstead in Cavan Township where she died.

Besides her husband Mrs. Hunter is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. H. Brandon of New York City, and Miss Alma at home; two sons, Eric who resides on the homestead, and Aubrey of Cavan Township; one sister, Mrs. David Deyell of Toronto, and one brother, Harry J. Armstrong of Millbrook.

The funeral is to be held on Sunday at 3 p.m., with services at the residence conducted by Rev. H. R. Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and interment at the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Pilot A. C. Bussey of the United Air Services was seen by The Examiner just after he had gone through the formalities at the local customs office. He looked very tired after his long flight, a large portion of which was undertaken in the dark.

Stopped at Buffalo

He had left New York City Airport at 3.30 a.m., he stated, and had stopped at Buffalo en route to notify the Customs authorities at Peterborough by long distance telephone of his coming. His route from Buffalo lay across Lake Ontario. The journey had been a cold one, he stated.

Pilot Bussey said he had been engaged in commercial flying for ten years. It was the first time he had undertaken a trip into this district, and he acknowledged that he had found considerable difficulty in locating a suitable landing field. He had failed, due to the poor visibility, to see a smoke signal that had been prepared to indicate a safe landing at Smith Milburn's farm on Chemong Road.

He had intended to make a landing at Millbrook, he remarked, but not finding a suitable field in which to light, he had flown up to Peterborough and circled over the immediate district surrounding the city for about ten minutes before he decided to land on the Hancock farm. The landing was made without difficulty, but Pilot Bussey did not contemplate leaving his machine there. He was, he said, intending to move it over on to the Lang field on Port Hope Highway.

"Lifer" Sends Appeal Pension Association

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 14 (C.P.).—A pathetic plea for help has come from a life prisoner in Marquette, Mich., Federal Prison, to the Canadian Pensioners' Association.

Raymond Blandon writes he has served 11 years of a life sentence. He asks aid in getting a pension so he can get artificial supports made necessary by a leg injury. He says he served in the 70th and 21st Battalions, and offers the pension to the association to carry on their work. He does not say why he was sent to prison.

The association will seek more information about Blandon and try to get him some aid, although a pension is out of the question because he is a prisoner.

HISTORIC OLD FRENCH CASTLE IS DESCRIBED TO LYCEUM CLUB

Fontainebleau Has Ever Been One of World's Famous Places.

LECTURE ILLUSTRATED.

"Fontainebleau — the Castle and the Forest," was the subject of an extremely interesting address given yesterday afternoon in the studios of the Conservatory of Music to the members and friends of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association, by Mlle C. M. lePrevost of Toronto, who came to Canada nine years ago from her native city of Paris, France, and who teaches French at the University of Toronto and at St. Joseph's Academy.

The address, which was illustrated by many fine slides, was delivered in English with a captivating French accent whih added much to its interest. It gave a graphic and comprehensive review of the history of famous Fontainebleau, whose name as explained by the speaker, combines the two French words for "fountain" and "water."

Rich in historic and architectural interest, Fontainebleau has ever been one of the world's famous and romantic wonder places. It is forty miles from Paris. The town has 15,000 inhabitants with 3,000 of a military population, for a famous military school is stationed there, also a monument to the French painter, Rosa Bonheur.

The Palace of Fontainebleau was built by Louis the Twelfth in 1162. Many of the famous monarchs of France dwelt there and Napoleon the First made it a favorite summer resort. Thomas a Becket, the Archbishop of Canterbury, dedicated there one of its chapels while finding a refuge in France.

Mlle le Prevost reviewed briefly the history of the Palace, through the rooms of which walked in turn Madame de Maintenon, Madame de Pompadour, Marie Antoinette, and the Empress Josephine, as well as many lesser women of the court.

The Old Guard.

The showing of the slides, which were operated by V. R. Henry, opened with the farewell by Napoleon to his Old Imperial Guard, on March 31st, 1814, when foreign powers were entering Paris and the star of the Corsican was nearing its eclipse.

Then came pictures of the architectural beauties of the place: The Golden Door built by St. Louis in the 13th century, with its gilded arches; Holy Trinity Chapel, where the morganatic marriage was celebrated of Louis 14th and Madame de Maintenon; ten "home of Napoleon's hat," showing the lovely white satin cushion which forms a resting-place for the tricorne worn by Bonaparte during his stay on the island of Elba; the bedroom of Napoleon, with the litt'e cradle of L'Aiglon beside the royal couch; the Council Hall and Throne Room, where the hangings over the dais showed the profuse embroidery of golden bees, the symbol used so often by Napoleon, because, said the speaker, he admired the Florentine family of Barbarini, whose emblem it was; the boudoir of Marie Antoinette, used later by Josephine and Marie Louise of Austria; the library, with its 35,000 books; the Gallery of the Stags, where lordly stags' heads with spreading antlers formed wall decorations above the pilasters; the beautiful Buhl clock, the hall of St. Louis, with its marvellous glittering chandeliers and superbly ornamented ceiling; the jewel box (like a bureau in size) of Marie Louise, wife of Napoleon; the gallery of Henry the Second, with its polished walnut ceiling and mahogany floor; the gallery of Francis First, with his heraldic emblem, the winged salamander, as a recurrent ornamental device; the Pope's quarters, where Pope Pius Seventh was kept as a prisoner for nineteen months, by Napoleon; the famous Gallery of the Plates, where marvellous china plates were set into the walls and a picture of Jeanne de Poitiers centered the wall; the two rooms called the Chinese Museum, where beautiful works of Oriental art are stored, and the slide which showed the reception in 1861 of Siamese potentates, by Napoleon the Third and the Empress Eugenie.

A brief allusion was made to the historic Forest of Fontainebleau, which has 41,000 acres and a circumference of fifty-six miles.

A sincere vote of thanks to the speaker was voiced by Mrs. F. C. Neal, who presided during the absence of the president, Mrs. W. Blackwell, suffering from a slight indisposition.

Mrs. L. J. Pettitt announced that the Dramatic Club will meet on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. E. Connelly, King Street, on January 26th.

Tea was served later.

Privileged

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 14. — (C.P.).—When a taxi driver is pinch-hitting for the stork is he privileged to run through red traffic lights?

Police Judge Joseph Clifford thinks so.

Bud Schell, 24, a cab driver, was arrested for crashing a red light. He said he went through the light because he was carrying an expectant mother to a hospital. His Honor said the $5 fine would be suspended.

to its feet. The palms of his hands turned upward, the mollah intoned a prayer. The prayer was a shout. He implored Allah's blessing on the swords of Ibn Saoud's rebellious opponents. His prayer was recited in a ringing voice wherein the notes of defiance and anger predominated. While he prayed, his body swayed slightly to and fro. The Arabic sentences crackled forth with the staccato of a machine gun. Every word seemed like a spark that set something inside of you aflame. Suddenly he ceased speaking, although his upper body went on swaying rhythmically. As he was silent, the congregation replied with a murmured "Ameen!"

Another prayer followed. This time the mollah bellowed it out. From the distance where I stood I could hear his breath come in cough-like gasps. He had his fierce eyes steadily fixed on the ceiling, immobile like two jewels of jet black. His long, fine ivory fingers with their scarlet finger-tips tugged nervously at the green silken banner which hung over the sculptured pulpit.

The voice had struck a barbaric note. Without knowing a word of Arabic, you could feel that this was a call to arms. It was a shrill, dissonant blare like that of a trumpet sounding the advance. The "ameens" of the crowd, which had been mere deep growls, were rising to a higher pitch. The mollah was swaying frantically now. His nostrils dilated and his eyes were shooting fire. You felt the atmosphere grow electric. The "ameens" of five thousand men of Islam came like the roar of breakers in the hour of tempest on a rocky shore.

Walls Tremble

Like massed thunder it rolled under that huge dome. The walls trembled with it. The silver lamps on high tinkled with the reverberation of the voices. You not only heard the prayers, you felt their magic, like hypnotism, or more yet like a new wine coursing through your veins. Cautiously I glanced at my neighbors, the Arabs. They were oblivious to their surroundings. Their eyes had become bloodshot through the fixed staring. Their tongues were cracked through failure to swallow. The heat was terrific in the mosque, as if a thunderstorm was brewing in midsummer.

"He is praying for the shah of Persia," whispered my British companion. Praying no doubt that the shah, who is "The Shadow of God on Earth," may have strength to withstand the British government in the dispute over Anglo-Persian oil. The mollah was yelling at the top of his voice, harsh, crackling words like bagpipes and drums and fifes playing the attack. The crowd bellowed its "ameen" over and over again.

Suddenly the mollah stopped his praying. He came down from the pulpit, wiped his face on his robe and stood in a corner. His body went on swaying like a wound-up automaton. The congregation sat down on the carpets and folded its legs, while another ulema or teacher climbed into the pulpit, who began to explain why the Woheidas were in revolt against Ibn Saoud and why the shah of Persia was in the right in his dispute with the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. He was a soft-spoken man with a green turban. His gestures were gentle and expressive. He had his silent audience hanging on his lips.

In the afternoon of that day, six armored cars rolled out from Ramleh in the direction of the Arabian desert, and a flock of scouting planes floated off in the direction of the Persian gulf.

Throw OFF That COLD!

Some men and women fight colds all winter long. Others enjoy the protection of Aspirin. A tablet in time, and the first symptoms of a cold get no further. If a cold has caught you unaware, keep on with Aspirin until the cold is gone. Aspirin can't harm you. It does not depress the heart. If your throat is sore, dissolve several tablets in water and gargle. You will get instant relief. There's danger in a cold that hangs on for days. To say nothing of the pain and discomfort Aspirin might have spared you! All druggists; with proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism.

Reports were presented by the chairmen of the various committees covering every one of the many activities of the Society during 1932. It was learned that the present membership stands at 312; while the Junior Horticultural Society, under chairmanship of F. H. Dearborn has a membership of 469.

Presentation of Cups.

The Kiwanis Cup won by S. S. No. 2, North Monaghan (May's and Confederation Schools), in the junior section, for the third year in succession was presented on behalf of the club by President J. B. Nelson, and was received on behalf of the schools concerned by Principal W. J. Stacey.

J. S. Mason was recipient of the cup awarded in the gardens and lawns competition. The cup presented by Secretary Harris was originally the T. E. Bradburn Cup. It was won outright in 1929 by Mrs. J. W. Bell, who kindly gave it back for competition in the amateur class.

The J. S. Bell "Beautification Cup" was won by a Mr. Newton who resides at Monaghan road and King street. He was not present to receive the award, but the audience had an opportunity of seeing a lantern slide of the attractive front garden with which Mr. Newton won the cup.

The feature of the evening was an illustrated lecture given by J. S. Hall of Toronto, under the auspices of the Ontario Horticultural Association.

Entertaining and educative, the slides constituted an object lesson in the care and cultivation of house plants and lilies, and also provided enchanting glimpses of beautiful Canadian gardens, not the least of which was the lecturer's own wonderfully laid out garden at his home in Toronto. The views also included delightful slides of the stately and immaculate lawns, flower beds, shrubberies and sunken gardens on the estate of Colonel R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa.

A Versatile Scot.

Mr. Hall delivered his lecture in a capable manner, speaking with a decided Scottish accent. He described himself as being a plumber, but his intimate knowledge of horticulture revealed that his love of flowers and flower culture, meant something much more to him than a mere hobby.

Besides being a plumber and a horticulturist, Mr. Hall provided ample proof that he is something of a photographer, an artist and a lecturer. The slides, scenes of exquisite beauty in their detail and coloring, were made by himself. They conveyed more forcibly, probably, than anything else could do, the worthwhile results that might be obtained by anyone who is prepared to spend a brief portion of time daily in the beautification of their garden, and also stressed the value of membership in a horticultural society where information and advice is to be obtained for the asking. The lecturer mentioned that it cost but a third of a cent a day for membership in the horticultural society.

Mr. Hall who had over fifty varieties of lilies in his own garden, stated that eighteen of the varieties were native of Canada. He had obtained a number of his lilies on Manitoulin Island where, he said, they were to be found growing wild.

He gave his audience much valuable information concerning the proper methods of potting house plants, and also relating to the planting of bulbs. Large bulbs, he stated, did not mean a thing to him. He favoured the small, firm bulb. He warned against planting bulbs to deep, and gave examples of the results that might be expected from such a practice.

SPRINGVILLE W.M.S. LADIES LAY PLANS

Officers Give Various Reports Closing Books for Year—Fine Addresses.

(Examiner Correspondence)

SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Harry Clark was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the ladies of the W.M.S. when they met at her home for the regular monthly meeting. The attendance was 16. The program verged from the usual order when Rev. S. H. Moyer pastor of the church gave an interesting, as well as educational, address on the second chapter of the Study Book, "The Making of Canada."

Mrs. A. Hunter, president gave a beautiful introductory address suitable in thought for the New Year. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. O. Murray. Mrs. Wm Whitfield followed these by a lovely poem.

Reports were read by the officers of all matters pertaining to the auxiliary thus closing the books for the year 1932. The lunch committee was appointed for February consisting of Mrs. O. Murray, Mrs. E. Kelk and Mrs. Neal. An invitation was extended by Mrs (Rev.) Moyer for the meeting to be held at the manse. Mrs. A. Hunter whose birthday falls in February will be in charge of the program.

A letter received from Mrs. Geo. Patton was read by the president, expressing her thanks and appreciation of the quilt sent to her from the society for relief purposes, also other articles of clothing enclosed by Mrs. Wm Whitfield.

The ladies are now planning to make more quilts for the same cause. Mrs. H. Brown extended her sincere thanks to the auxiliary on behalf of little Jack, for remembrances sent to him during his confinement to the hospital for many weeks. The meeting was closed by prayer led by Mrs. (Rev.) Moyer.

Lunch was served by the hostess Mrs. H. Clark to whom a vote of thanks was heartily extended. The Ladies' Aid held a short meeting during the lunch hour. A concise report of the finances of the year was read by the treasurer, (Mrs. Wm. Whitfield). Business discussions were held over, to be continued at the annual meeting to be held in the church Thursday afternoon Jan. 19.

LEGION APPOINTS 1933 COMMITTEES

Reg. McCullough Takes Chair As President of Campbellford Branch.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Installation of the 1933 officers was featured at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Branch No. 103, Canadian Legion, held on Thursday evening in the Armouries, Campbellford. Past President J. D. McEachern opened the meeting and handed to the newly-elected head, Reg. McCullough, the chair of office. G. A. Ironside took his place as secretary of the organization, succeeding E. H. Lewis, who retired from that office.

The meeting was given over to the election of committees and a discussion on the financial situation of the branch and the present relief situation.

Committees appointed for 1933 are as follows: Pensions, J. D. McEachern, N. Alex MacColl and Free Clark; Entertainment, T. J. Dutton, W. Sutton, G. H. Free; Warkworth—R. Denham, K. Zufelt; Employment, R. J. Locke, A. T. Linton, G. C. Bromley; Finance and Relief—Both of these committees will be appointed at the first executive meeting which will be called immediately.

The auditors' report was submitted by G. H. Free, and passed by the meeting, it being found correct. Two recommendations were made, however; one that a committee be appointed to look after loans and to see that all loans were handled by a note, and that a committee be appointed to take an inventory of all the legal property of the Legion. It was decided that one committee handle these two phases of the recommendation, the executive to handle this appointment.

The treasurer, G. A. Thompson, gave a statement of the finances as they stand to date.

WARSAW

Hilliard Clements and Theodore Douglas went to Hastings on Thursday.

Mrs. Patrick M. Murray has returned after a six weeks' visit with her daughter at Bancroft.

Mr. Bushie is spending the winter with Fred Parcels. They are getting out wood.

Mr. E. Hawthorne is spending a week visiting old friends in and around Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. David Miller lent their home on Wednesday evening to the United Church choir, and members of their families, for their quarterly social evening, which was also the choir's annual business meeting. The members of the committee provided games, crokinole, dominoes, lost heir, checkers and chess. The committee served supper. Those present seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mrs. Cherry has returned to her home in Buffalo, after spending a fortnight with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen.

THROWN FROM RACK FARMER IS INJURED

Sherwood Scea of Trent River Recovering.

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 14. — Mr. Sherwood Scea met with a painful accident on Monday while drawing hay with his team of horses from one barn to another on his farm. The horses became frightened by the hay rack and started to run, one horse stumbled against a stone and fell, throwing Mr. Scea to the ground causing a severe gash in his head necessitating medical attention and three stitches had to be made. Mr. Scea is 73 years of age and up to the time of the accident enjoyed good health but is making a good recovery from the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Umphrey and son Jimmie attended the meeting of the public school teachers association of Seymour Township, held at Norham school Friday night.

Mrs. George Dart of Toronto (formerly of Havelock) has purchased the residence of Mr. Fred Scott and expects to take possession by January 20th.

Mrs. Fred Nancarrow has returned to Toronto after spending a few days visiting her brother, Mr. H. H. Pollock.

JOINT BANQUET IS HELD AT HASTINGS

Mothers and Daughters of Trinity United Church Gather at Social.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Jan. 19.—About one hundred ladies sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the basement of Trinity United Church recently, the occasion being a Mother's and Daughters' get-together night, the first of its kind to be held in the church and judging by its success it will likely prove an annual event. After the ladies had prepared the tables they sat down and were served by several young men of the congregation.

Mrs. Alfred Metcalfe acted as toast mistress for the evening and after all had done ample justice to the good things to eat, the program opened with all singing one verse of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds". Miss Jean Sherwin proposed the toast to the King and was responded to by all singing the National Anthem.

The toast to the church was proposed by Rev. H. J. Bell and responded by singing of "The Church's One Foundation". The toast to the Mothers was proposed by Miss Wilhelminia Rusaw and responded to by Mrs. A. Metcalfe. The toast to the daughters was proposed by Mrs. C. Hoard and responded to by Miss J. Lamb.

The toasts were followed by the speaker of the evening, Mrs. (Rev.) Rowland of Stirling, who gave an excellent and inspiring address to those present, her subject being the "Open Door to Friendship".

Miss M. Scriver followed the address with a delightful piano solo and Mrs. G. Fox gave an appropriate vocal solo. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Rowland and the evening closed by all singing doxology.

Ladies' Aid

With a large attendance of members present the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met in the school room of the church on Monday afternoon for the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Harold B. Wilson; first vice president, Mrs.W. H. McMillan; second vice president, Mrs. Wm. Whitred; secretary, Mrs. Scott Fife; treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Spooner.

The financial rebate for 1932 was read showing that the ladies had a very successful year.

FLEETWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Werry, Fleetwood, were host and hostess to about 25 young people of the vicinity on Tuesday evening for their Y.P.S. meeting.

The preliminary part of the program consisted of the singing of familiar hymns, prayer, and Scripture reading under the leadership of the president, Miss Ida Shea.

The Society extended a warm welcome to Rev. Mr. Scott and his wife, who added items of interest to the gathering.

The topic for the evening was capably discussed by Leonard Welsh.

Bill Ridout gave a reading appropriately chosen in connection with the topic as also did Clarence Lee.

Miss Ida Shea rendered a beautiful piano solo which was highly appreciated.

Mrs. Scott favored the gathering with a well chosen solo given in her usual pleasing voice.

The meeting closed by all joining heartily in singing an appropriate hymn.

The next regular meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Staples, who were prevented cember owing to illness in the family from acting in this capacity in Deily.

NORWOOD

Miss Bertha McConnell of Toronto has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harvey Lobb.

Mr. John Walker, Queen street, who has been visiting in Galt with his son, Mr. Edward Walker, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Buchanan, and Mrs. William Buchanan went to Wareham on Tuesday to attend the funeral of the former's father, Mr. Charles McMillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry announce the engagement of their daughter, Pansy S. to Mr. Oliver Stinson of South Dummer, the marriage to take place in January.

Mrs. E. Green of Vancouver, B.C., has been a visitor at the home of Mrs. W. J. Rork.

Weddings

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Jan. 14.—A wedding of much local interest was solemnized by the Rev. A. S. Cleland at the United Church parsonage on Jan. 2 when Agnes Jessie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming, Hastings road was united in marriage to Wesley Gerald Ointment of Asphodel. Miss Eileen Ointment, sister of the groom attended the bride. A host of friends extended their congratulations and good wishes.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN FRY

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — The funeral of the late Mrs. John Fry was held yesterday afternoon from the residence of her brother, Thomas Watson, Seymour Township, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, where service was conducted by the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, interment being made in Burnbrae cemetery. The pallbearers were: Andrew Hay, Thomas Hay, Bert Hay, Lorrie Hay, H. Watson and J. A. Murray.

The deceased lady died on Wednesday, aged 76 years. Born in Seymour township, as Elsie Watson she married John Fry in early life, and has lived in the district all her life. Her husband predeceased her in 1922.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. J. Russell of Foxboro and Mrs. H. Watson of Seymour; and two brothers, Thomas and James Watson, both of Seymour.

MRS. G. FETHERSTON

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14.—The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon from the residence of her nephew, Mr. W. G. Morrison, Chippewa avenue of the late Mrs. George Fetherston who died on Tuesday, after a short illness. The funeral service was in charge of Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., of the United Church and was very impressive. Instead of singing, Mr. Archer read two favorite hymns "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Blessed Assurance, Jesus Is Mine."

The pall bearers were: Messrs W. J. Charlton, T. Crawford, A. Davis, A. Hunter, H. Hunter and W. H. Stabler. Interment was made in the Lakefield cemetery.

Esther Morrison was born at Plainfield near Cobourg seventy-four years ago and was married in Cobourg to George Fetherston and went to reside in Chicago where she remained for thirty-five years, returning to Canada fourteen and a half years ago. Since then she has resided in Lakefield where she had made many warm friends. She is survived by one brother, Hugh of Lakefield and her nephew, Mr. W. G. Morrison of Lakefield, and a niece, Mrs. C. O. Northey of Peterborough.

Helen Costello Wed Secretly January 6

HAVANNA, Jan. 13 (AP)—Helene Costello, sister-in-law of John Barrymore, and Arturo Del Barrio, member of a prominent Cuban family, succeeded in keeping their "secret" just six days. An entry in court records to-day disclosed their marriage on January 6.

The "former" movie actress—the "former" is her own adjective—was married to Del Barrio by Notary Ricario Biurrun in the apartment of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Cora Del Barrio. Miss Costello has been visiting the mother since early in December.

Only members of the Del Barrio family were present. It had been intended not to announce the marriage for some time.

Peterborough Will Play Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — An exhibition game of hockey has been arranged for Monday evening between the Campbellford Intermediates and Peterborough, this being the return game scheduled for Christmas week and which was called off owing to lack of ice. As these two teams have both been in action in their respective O.H.A. groups and have done good work, a fine game should be staged, which will not only develop speed but show some real technique. The clash will be staged in the Campbellford Arena.

TAKE NO CHANCES On Worms!

If your child has high fever, vomiting spells, takes convulsions or fits, grinds teeth—beware of worms; they are much more common than most mothers think.

Many mothers write about MOTHER'S FRIEND. Read their happy letters:

R. L. MULVENEY

SEVERAL WORMS!

Find enclosed $2 for more of your valued Mother's Friend. After giving the first dose my children passed scores of worms.—Mrs. R. J. Nevas, Niagara Falls, Ont.

"FLU"

I used Mother's Friend before and gave it to the children after the "flu," and it did them the world of good. — Mrs. Thomas Rogers, Jessopville, Ont.

COLDS

I have found the two bottles of Mother's Friend which I have used to be of great value in cases of feverishness and colds.—Mrs. J. La Rocque, Goderich, Ont.

LIFE SAVED

Send me another bottle of Mother's Friend. You know, my little girl asks for your medicine whenever she is not feeling well. I can say it saved her life.—Mrs. Ira Thompson, Belleville, Ont.

WONDERFUL!

Send me one bottle of MOTHER'S FRIEND. My little girl's general health has been greatly improved since taking your wonderful medicine.—Mrs. W. A. Dawson, Norwich, Ont.

NIGHT WETTING

With greatest pleasure I endorse "Mother's Friend." A little daughter of 7 had responded to nothing before to relieve bed-wetting. After one-half bottle she ceased, but for safety I am giving her the third for benefit of her undernourished condition. She improves each day, and it is such a pleasure to encourage others to try a most reliable remedy.—Mrs. A. C. R., Russell Hill Road.

Mothers! Take no chances. Give MOTHER'S FRIEND even if you only suspect worms. It is so good for children—good for adults, too! No other medicine is required, as it is a splendid tonic, physic and appetizer, and acts on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Do not delay. Go to your favorite druggist and get a bottle of MOTHER'S FRIEND. And give it to your children as directed. Just watch how they improve and get healthy and well.

Mother's Friend is now on sale at most drug stores. The price is $1 for generous-sized treatment. If your druggist should be out of stock have him order it for you. Also obtainable at Tambiyn Stores, I.D.A. Drug Stores and T. Eaton Drug Dept. If you live outside the Province of Ontario send your order direct to R. L. Mulveney's Remedies Limited, Toronto, Canada.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14. — Lower price trends were experienced on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Fresh graded eggs in carlots or less were a cent lower, extras selling at 31 cents, firsts at 27 cents, and pullets at 26 cents a dozen. Storage eggs in carlots or less were firm at 22c to 22½c for extras, 20 to 21 cents for firsts and 19 cents a dozen for seconds. To retailers eggs in cartons declined a cent a dozen. Receipts were 604 cases.

No. 1 finest grass butter lost a quarter of a cent at 21 to 21¼ cents a pound for carlots or less. Receipts were 77 boxes.

New Brunswick or Prince Edward Island Green Mountain potatoes per 80-pound bag were five cents lower at 90 cents. Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag held unchanged at $1.

Cheese prices were steady to slightly higher, current Ontario white being quoted at 8¼ to 8½ cents; current Ontario colored at 9¾ cents, and early Ontario make at 10½ to 11 cents a pound. Receipts were 105 boxes.

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat 40c to 43c; oats 20c to 22c; barley 33c to 35c; corn 33c to 35c; rye 30c to 32c; buckwheat 27c to 29c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Unloading of a recently acquired holding of future deliveries did much to give the wheat market a set-back of about a cent a bushel yesterday.

Trade comment indicated House adoption of the agricultural allotment bill had failed to stimulate wheat buying, and instead had disturbed confidence of many speculative owners. A restraint on selling, however, was numerous expressions of belief that the allotment bill would never become a law.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅜-1c under Thursday's finish, corn ¼c-½c down, oats ¼c-¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 20c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 14. — The wheat market wavered momentarily yesterday, then drooped to fractionally lower levels. European purchasers were still holding aloof, and, with a lack of interest in "outside" pits there was no incentive for a rally to higher ground. Prices closed ⅛c to ⅝c lower than the previous day's final figures.

May stopped at 46⅜c, July at 47¼c, and October at 48⅝c.

Export news was not encouraging. New York reported 400,000 bushels marked for export, and Vancouver indicated fair business, but no confirmation of actual transactions could be obtained

Views of Broomhall.

Broomhall believes European countries have eaten into their domestic supplies to a greater extent this season, and that a good demand will be seen in the spring months.

He believes, also, that Canada will get a fair share of the business, despite the heavy loadings that will take place at Argentine and Australian ports.

Trading in cash wheat and coarse grains continues at a slow pace. Spreads were practically uncharged from the prebious close.

Week Of Prayer Held In Norwood Churches

NORWOOD, Jan. 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — The closing meeting of the week of prayer was held on Friday night in the United Church.

The pastor, the Rev. A. S. Cleland, presided. The lesson was read by the Rev. O'Conor-Fenton, and the topic, "Home, School and University," was given by the Rev. G. E. Downing of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Downing's excellent address touched many points on the home, and was listened to with deep interest by all present.

The third meeting of the week of prayer series was held in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening, and was well attended. The Rev. O'Conor-Fenton, rector of the Anglican Church, presided in the absence of the Rev. A. C. Reeves, who was confined to his home through illness. The Scripture reading was given by Rev. G. E. Downing.

Rev. A. S. Cleland of the United Church gave a very instructive address on the topic, "Missions," in which he traced the missionary tendencies of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Isaiah and the lesser prophets down to the birth of Christ.

After a season of prayer, Rev. O'Conor-Fenton pronounced the benediction.

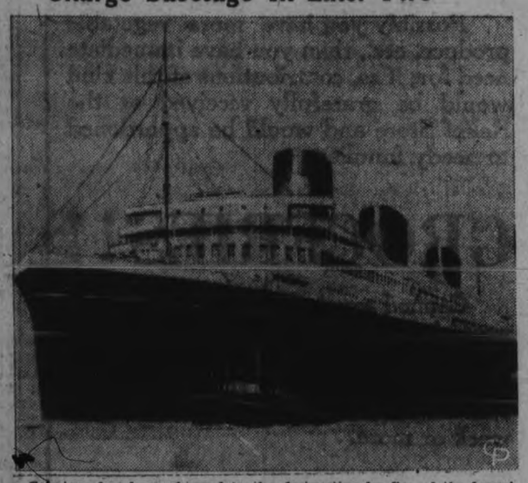
Hollywood Welcomes Her Return

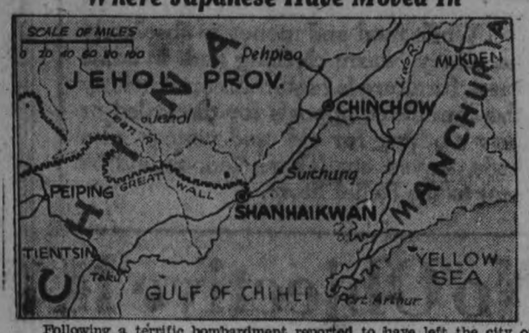
Hollywood is welcoming Merna Kennedy back to the screen after a vacation. The vivacious actress captured the lead in "Laughter in Hell." Her stage experience began at the age of nine.

Charge Sabotage In Liner Fire



Sabotage has been charged in the destruction by fire of the luxurious South Atlantic line L'Alantique, above, the fourth fire in recent years which has brought a severe loss to the French merchant marine. Thirty members of the crew were reported lost in the latest fire. The ship, carrying only a crew, taking it to a drydock for overhauling, was a total loss, drifting in English channel.

Where Japanese Have Moved In



Following a terrific bombardment reported to have left the city of Shanhaikwan in smoking ruins, Japanese troops occupied Chinese territory inside the Great Wall in North China. Here is another map showing the present war zone, and area Japan seeks. The Japanese gained control by capturing Shanhaikwan of the Mukden-Peiping railway and entrance to the rich province of Jehol.

Chinese Army Meets Jap Advance

Once again a new year starts off with rumblings of war from China and Japan. It was just about this time last year that the Japanese army made its entry into Shanghai. This year they have started off by capturing Shaishaikwan, an important city of 80,000 people, just outside the province of Jehol, Manchuria, but in China proper. It is reported that more than 1,000 Chinese were killed in the battle. Reports also state that the Japanese army has taken over part of the Great Wall of China. In the above scene is shown the new battleground. The Great Wall can be seen quite distinctly. Inset is Marshall Chang Hsiao-liang, commander of the North China forces, who has been notified by the Japanese authorities that he will be held responsible for developments arising from the battle of Shanhaikwan.

Mollisons to Fly Atlantic Together?

Tired out by her recent record-breaking flight to and from South Africa, Mrs. Mollison, known better, perhaps, as Amy Johnson, intrepid British flier, is seen resting at St. Moritz with her husband, also a famous aviator, who made a solo flight westward across the Atlantic this year. The Mollisons will rest at the famous winter resort for several days before returning to England. And now it is reported that they are going to fly the Atlantic—together.

Second Set of Twins Makes Four Babies in 1932

For the fourth time within a year, Mrs. Marie Colson, 25, of Chicago, is a mother. She gave birth to a second pair of twins. Left, James and Jean Colson, born last January 10, exchange greetings by phone with their new brother and sister, shown at right, with a nurse in a Chicago hospital.

This Is Where Body Of Calvin Coolidge Rests

In this little graveyard at Plymouth, Vt., birthplace of Calvin Coolidge, the body of the former president rests beside those of his son, Calvin, Jr., who died July 7, 1924, and his father, John Coolidge, who died March 16, 1926. Also shown above is the Edwards Congregational church at Northampton, scene of the funeral services, and the Rev. Albert J. Penner, who officiated.

FARMERS!!

Possibly you have more vegetable produce, etc., than you have immediate need for; if so, contributions of this kind would be gratefully received at the Relief Store and would be apportioned to needy families.

GROCERIES!!

Canned goods; in fact any edible necessity may be left at the Relief Store and will be carefully distributed as needed. Suppose you supply a basket suitable for an average family for a week or more.

CLOTHING, Furniture, Etc.

While food and money is absolutely necessary, warm clothing and in some cases furniture is required, consequently the committee appeals for discarded or new clothing for old and young; also beds, stoves, etc. These, too, should be sent to the Relief Store.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

"The problem of relief for our unemployed fellow-citizens is assuming very serious proportions, and at a meeting of representative citizens together with your City Council it was unanimously agreed to make an appeal to those able and willing to make donations of money, produce, clothing, etc. I would like to impress upon you the immediate need of upwards of 650 families totalling about 3,000 individuals who through no fault of their own have of necessity to appeal for relief.

Oshawa, Brantford and Ottawa have recently gone over the top in similar appeals, and Peterborough I know will be no exception in supporting such a worthy cause. It should be remembered that for every $1.00 contributed and spent the Dominion and Provincial Governments will augment this by $2.00.

Give all you can and stand behind the committee to tide the needy over these backward times.

Kindly make your contributions to Frank Adams, City Treasurer.

ROLAND DENNE, Mayor."

Police Court

"I just ask him, the lady, for a pair of shoes. When him say, No, I say I veree sorry. That was all," Roger Carpenter, French-Canadian youth, charged with begging, explained to Magistrate Langley in Police Court to-day.

Police, however, state that Carpenter entered a home on George Street and frightened a woman by his insistent demands that he be provided immediately with a pair of shoes. On his plea of guilty, he was remanded for a week for sentence, until police learn his record.

His chum, Leo Hall, of Rockland, Ontario, pleaded guilty to vagrancy, and was also remanded for a week for sentence.

Spotlight Again On Irish Politics

Surprise after surprise has become the daily routine of news from the Irish Free State, where President de Valera (LEFT) holds sway. When a vigorous protest from Labor members threatened his supremacy when he passed a bill to cut the pay of civil servants, de Valera dissolved the Dail and called for a new election on January 24th, with the first new congress to meet February 8. Meanwhile the Labor members have patched up their quarrel with de Valera, and his party is again strengthened. But former President Cosgrave (RIGHT) is losing no time in telling the electors of the failings of the Fianna Vail (de Valera's government) and is waging a vigorous battle to regain the reins of government. Meanwhile, Danie Buckley, newly appointed governor, sits back and watches the fun, hoping, probably for de Valera who gave him his present job.

STURGEON FALLS PROBE ADJOURNED TO MONDAY

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., January 14 (C.P.). — Judge J. M. Hall, commissioner inquiring into alleged irregularities in relief distribution here, rested to-day after three days of delving into the administration of relief funds. The inquiry will resume on Monday.

Indications now are that the hearing will occupy the greater part of next week when, as W. H. Williams, K.C., commission counsel, said yesterday, "I'll land some big fish," in announcing several town councillors will be called to the stand.

FLU

Demands
A Real Remedy

Inhalants, ointments, and gargles may bring relief sometimes, but when 'FLU is striking victims down right and left you want a sure-fire remedy that never fails. That's BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE.

BUCKLEY'S is not a mere soothing syrup that temporarily deadens the symptoms, but a secret blend of medical ingredients that loosens phlegm, stops the cough, spreads a moist healing film over the throat membranes, and rids the system of excess acids. Get a bottle to-day at your druggists. It may mean all the difference between a slight cold — better to-morrow — and a serious attack of 'flu or pneumonia.

For your health's sake, demand the genuine. Cheap substitutes are numerous.

COMPOSERS WHISTLE TUNES RICHARD BENNETT DOES REST

Prepares Musical Comedy Parts For 30-piece Orchestra in 72 Hours.

DUAL PERSONALITY.

(By Robert St. John, A.P. Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, January 14 (A.P.) —Composers flock to Richard Bennett. They whistle a tune or two for him. In 72 or 84 hours Bennett hands them back 100 pages or more of score, ready for a 30-piece orchestra.

Thus musical comedy is born.

Seldom does Bennett appear in the limelight. Yet six of the current Broadway shows contain his work. Once he did 22 shows in a season. His hits of the past include "Rose Marie," the "Showboat" and "Stepping Stones." Producers say he has few peers on Tin Pan Alley.

To-day the slim, blonde young man sat before a drawing board in a barren office and told how he does it. He talks reluctantly because he is a dual personality; he is afraid the activities of Richard Bennett will prejudice great musicians against Robert Richard Bennett, his other self.

Robert Richard Bennett is the name he reserves for his serious work—the opera he is writing; the concerto Dr. Howard Hanson put on in Rochester, N.Y., and expects to take to Europe; the compositions which won him the Victor Prize; the work he does for Fritz Kreisler.

This Is How.

But the musical comedy music—this is the way it is done:

Sixty per cent. of the composers come in without a note down. Many of them, Bennett explained, like Irving Berlin and Vincent Youmans, can't write music, or don't; they just conceive it.

They either hum it, whistle it, or pound it out on a piano. When Bennett gets the melodies in mind, he asks what men are going to be in the orchestra; he watches some chorus girls rehearse a dance, then he goes home.

He does his best work, he explained, when he is listening to organic music or when his wife is reading to him. The only thing that really annoys him is his daughter practising on the piano.

PLAY IS REPEATED AT MARK STREET

St. James' Church Bible Class Puts on Play, "Home Ties."

The repetition of the play, "Home Ties," by the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Church was a well attended and successful event of last evening at Mark Street United Church.

The Rev. C. D. Daniel acted as chairman and between-act specialties included a duet, "The Little Church in the Valley," sung by Mrs. Moynes and Mrs. H. Turner, also a fashion parade showing the school girl of to-day and one of half a century back.

Those taking part in the performance of the play were Mrs. P. Vannest, Mrs. E. Wood, Mrs. H. Turner, Mrs. McAdams, Miss M. Baldry, Messrs. H. Turner, F. Hitchin, R. Kitchen, M. Drysdale. Mrs. H. Turner was directress. Mr. W. Wood was in charge of scenery and properties, and Mrs. R. Payne had charge of the intermission entertainment.

CLOSE GAMES FEATURE OF GIRLS' LOOP

"Y" Seniors Take 10-2 Decision From Intermediates in First Game.

C.G.E. JRS.--WOHELO 2-2.

Close games featured the second games of the City's Ladies' Basketball series at the Y.W.C.A. last night.

In the first encounter the "Y" Seniors played against the "Y" Intermediates. J. Harvey scored the first basket for the Seniors, and this was followed closely by D. Paterson who tallied for the Intermediates, tying the score.

In the second quarter the Seniors started off with a rush and tallied two baskets put in by E. Armstrong and I. Davidson. At half time the "Y" Seniors led "Y" Intermediates 6-2.

In the second half the Seniors went out and soon piled up a comfortable lead. E. Armstrong and I. Davidson scoring one more basket each. The final score, "Y" Seniors 10; "Y" Intermediates 2.

Line-ups—

Y Seniors — forwards, J. Harvey, E. Armstrong, I. Davidson; centre, H. Cole; defense, H. Jackson, O. Elcombe, J. Allin, S. Levine.

Y Intermediates—forwards, S. Ecobichon, A. Thompson, J. McConomy, B. Simpson; centre, D. Paterson, E. Lynch; defense, L. Magee, J. Dawson, A. Johnson.

Referee—Russ Kitchen.

Battle to Tie Count

The C.G.E. Jrs. and Wohelo Club played the second game. In the first half, O. More scored for the Wohelos but the C.G.E. started a brilliant offensive game and evened the score with a basket by L. Giardino. By a foul off E. Hodson, D. Seabrooke scored another point for C.G.E. The Wohelos came came back strongly and took the lead by a basket put in by T. Vivash. Half time, Wohelo 4; C.G.E. Jrs. 3.

In the second half Wohelo started off with a basket by S. Vivash. N. Pearson tallied another for C.G.E. and by a foul off O. White. Z. Thomas evened the score for C.G.E. Full time score, C.G.E. Jrs. 5; Wohelos 6.

Three minutes of overtime were played but without a change.

Line-ups—

Wohelo—forwards, T. Vivash, O. Dore, O. White, B. Flynn; centre, E. Hodson, O. Gillespie; defense, A. Livingstone, L. Ellis, T. Stanicker.

Westclox Wins 8-4

Westclox Srs. and Blue Petes played the third encounter. Only one basket was scored in the first half and H. Bradley scored for Blue Petes. In the second half the play was fast, although the combination and passing at times was erratic. The Westclox Srs. entered the period scoreless and staged a good offensive and scored four times, holding the Blue Petes to one more. H. Bradley scored the second basket for the Blue Petes. The four baskets for the Westclox were put in by G. Robinson, D. Webb, M. Mortimer and C. Mason. The score at full time, Westclox Srs. 8; Blue Petes 4.

Line-ups—

Westclox Srs.—B. Thirnbeck, G. Robinson, C. Mason; centre, M. Mortimer, G. Hardill; defense, D. Webb, H. Joyce, G. Mortimer.

Blue Petes—forwards, H. Bradley, V. Huffman, B. Hopwood; centre, P. McClellan; defense, R. Allan, A. Davis, C. Caddy.

Defeat C.G.E. 6-2

The last game was played by St. Paul's and C.G.E. The game was closely contested throughout and only a few points separated the teams at any time. The C.G.E. led the Saints in the first half by a basket scored by M. Hodson. In the second half the St. Paul basketballers faced the brilliant teamwork of the C.G.E. and with great difficulty piled up a four point lead. T. Patterson scoring the first basket and J. Howson the last two. Full time, St. Paul's 6; C.G.E. Srs. 2.

Line-ups—

St. Paul's—forwards, T. Patterson, C. Legon, S. Jackson; centre, V. Davidson; defense, E. Morrow, J. Howson, J. Cowan.

C.G.E. Srs.—forwards, M. Hodgson, L. Coursey, H. Peryer; centre, M. Amyotte; defense, M. Hallihan, M. Burnley, B. Cappizoli.

Referee—Joe Cooper.

The Sr. Sch. Girls will meet the Westclox Jrs. on Monday at 9.30.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

MILLBROOK

The Elimination of Waste in our Household Economics, was a topic discussed at a recent Institute gathering, with many practical ideas jotted down in convenient note-books, and much constructive criticism advanced on ordinary housekeeping methods that had previously been considered "above criticism" by several homemakers present until shown in the new light poured upon them that afternoon.

"Just as an instance," said the leader for the day, "we pour away down our sinks the water in which potatoes and other vegetables have been boiled, and thus deliberately waste valuable mineral products which our systems actually need. It is a habit comparable only to the action of the servitors of Sir Walter Raleigh, who you all know brought tea first to England, who brewed the beverage, poured off the liquid, and ate the leaves, ignorantly thinking this the proper way to serve the new 'vegetable.' But we have not the excuse of ignorance for our action for repeatedly we have been told of the health value of the water in which our vegetables have been cooked, and if we persist in running along the old rut and refusing the new knowledge we are actually denying ourselves and our families that which will help us to keep fit, and able to enjoy life."

"The very iron and soda available in fruits and vegetables are at our hand all the time, if we but learn the right way of eating and enjoying the food that should be on our tables, yet how many of us instead run off to the drug store and buy tonics that are not nearly as readily absorbed by our systems, and many of which contain a large percentage of alcohol, thus keeping up the patent medicine trade, spending money (far more than we need) for that 'which satisfieth not' and which may in the end proce actually injurious to our health?"

In answer to a query from one member regarding the service of pancakes for her husband's breakfast, "who likes them just smothered in either maple or corn syrup," the leader's reply was emphatically against such a meal with which to begin the day, particularly if two or three cup of strong coffee were the usual accompaniment. A counter question developed the fact that the said husband was troubled with headaches, and "a heavy feeling that often makes him not want to come home from the store at noon for lunch," and the wife was commended to substitute a breakfast with orange or grapefruit as a first course, followed by cereal, or at least with bacon and toast: "coffee, if you will, but do not make it too strong," and stewed fresh fruits, marmalade or jam—but no pancakes sodden with syrup for the day's beginning."

"I believe the craving for real nourishment was responsible for one man of my acquaintance turning to drink," declared the speaker, "at any rate I know his wife had no proper idea of feeding her family, and indeed did not stay home long enough to prepare suitable meals. Indeed her children were noted in the neighborhood as 'bad boys,' and more than one of us thought if they had had meals that were nourishing, and not merely filling, they and their father too would not have been driven to practical desperation."

"Well, I have found that it is wasteful and altogether unnecessary—if not really harmful—to cover onions, peas, beans, or even potatoes with a heavy white sauce," another contributed. "A talk with a woman who is a graduate in household science convinced me that I was only wearing out intestinal organs in an effort to make the good look better by this addition. The effort to extract the really energizing material from the whole was increased, and the food value not made any higher, so I quit; also I believe that we make an error in covering grapefruit with sugar, and thus lessen the helpfulness of the alkaline juices—a bit of honey is better if we must sweeten the fruit at all."

Time was up all too spon for the very helpful discussion, but in closing the members were adjured to 'remember that onions, boiled, fried or raw, served homehow, are good to use in times when 'flu is prevalent,' and also told that this homely vegetable helps materially to stir the gastric juices, aid elimination, and so make no small contribution to general health.

"If you want steady muscles and nerves under control use plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, for the lime they contain will bring about this desirable result. And do not forget that whole wheat is far more nourishing, and richer in mineral matter, than the white bread that is 'refined' to the point of being almost no proper accompaniment, in bread or biscuits, for a meal at all."

WARSAW.

How many of us realize the full value of eggs as food? They seem light and easily taken, but they do supply much nour shment and energy. Here they are considered best lightly cooked. The Japanese, a very hardy race, use many eggs boiled, as I was told by a Japanese girl, "hard, hard, oh so hard, three-quarters of an hour at least, better an hour."

Perhaps eggs raw have their greatest value, and as such how many of us realize their great blood purifying functi n? For this the yolk is the principal agent.

The white supplies food. A doctor has been known to order two dozen eggs a day, and that to one who dislikes eggs, but they took them, and for three weeks without a murmur. These eggs had to be given every two hours, day and night. They bought it was one egg each time, and certainly it would never do to bring an eggnog every time or even at a certain time each day.

The big thing in giving such a diet is to have it always look nice, and spring a variety. Many like to heat the egg until the white is a foam. Thus the white is often lost, and in most cases not so palatable as when beaten just to foaming po nt. The heating should be in a separate vessel from the glass in which it is served. A pinch of salt, and a teaspoonful of sugar are generally liked. Eggnog is generally made with milk, the egg beaten into the milk, and sometimes doctors order brandy or sherry, but these should not be used unless the doctor absolutely orders them. Even with the salt and sugar the mixture is apt to taste flat, so flavor with a little vanilla or other liked flavoring, nutmeg. If there is a heavy egg diet, or even if only one, two, or three are given daily, the whole milk may be too strong; make it half or even less of milk, and the rest water; or the glass may be filled with just water beaten in, flavored in some way every time. It may be cold or warm, but as the raw egg is required it must never be made very hot. All kinds of fruit juices may be used, prune juice is splendid. Thin cold gruel, cocoa, postum. In fact, use any fluid that may be liked, and permitted. Even if giving one or two a day, try to have a variety, and alway: have the tray look nice: it makes the food much more appetising.

Very often farm men really are tired and weak. A raw egg beaten to make a glass full, with almost anything, will tone them up wonderfully. With the other food a farmer usually wants one or at most two extra eggs is all that is good for him.

Beat eggs fresh. Never try to beat even one two hours ahead. Children sometimes prefer raw custard to baked; let them have it. It will do them more good.

Do not try to give over two or at most three a day, unless the doctor orders it. Remember they are more powerful than they look.

MARMORA W.I.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, January 14. — The January meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Kerr, Jr., with Mrs. Eugene Brady occupying the chair. Due to sickness affecting so many homes just now the attendance was a little below the average.

A discussion on the proposed Handicraft Class was held. It is now expected that the class will be held on the latter three week days of next week. The making of lamp shades, rugs and home dyeing are features of an instructive course. The members of the Institute appreciate a donation of $25 received from Mr. W. F. Bowen for relief purposes. It was decided to use this in conjunction with the municipal council under the government relief scheme. The program was as follows:

Current events, prepared by Mrs E. C. Prentice, and read by Mrs. F. R. Wells.

Paper on "Education," given by Mrs. Robert Phillips.

Humorous reading by Mrs. W. Kerr, Jr.

Contest.

Mrs. James Bailey of Eldorado the district president, was present, and gave a very helpful talk on Institute matters.

The committee in charge, Mesdames Gould, Wells, Gordenier and Sopha, served an excellent lunch.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The child of from three to five years who shows lassitude and a lack of interest in play, possibly complains of a little sore throat, possibly has a little fever—once more at this season let us remind ourselves of the necessity of determining early whether a child with such symptoms has diphtheria or not.

Diphtheria, according to the text books on medicine, is particularly likely to occur in epidemic form during dry seasons. The dry, mild winter which often prevails up to the present time in most part of the United States emphalizes the necessity for this warning.

There are three points which all parents must remember about diphtheria:

First: That the early symptoms may not suggest a very serious illness. The temperature may not be nearly as high as in tonsilitis; the child may not seem to be nearly as sick. That is why I emphasized in my opening sentence the child who just seems to be listless and not interested in play or activity, with a mild temperature, may or may not complain of a sore throat.

Second: The great importance of instituting antitoxin treatment early. There can be seen by comparing the deaths which occurred when antitoxin was administered on the first, second or third day of the disease. If administered on the first day, one patient out of a hundred died; if administered on the second day, three patients out of a hundred died; if administered for the first time on the third day, seven patients out of a hundred died; if administered for the first time on the fourth day, eleven patients out of a hundred died. The answer is quite simple—the earlier the antitoxin is administered, the better the chance for recovery.

Third: That in antitoxin we have one of the great remedies of the world which has converted what was once one of the most fatal of all diseases into a comparatively safe disease.

In 1890, before antitoxin was discovered, 117 people per 100,000 population died. In 1932, in the same places, under the same conditions, six people per 100,000 population died of diphtheria. The difference is due only to one thing—the introduction of the use of antitoxin.

Every year I get a letter from some bereaved parent or grandparent with the following tragic story:

"Our little child (or grandchild), four or five years old, seemed to be listless and tired of play. We thought there was nothing the matter with her except fatigue. We allowed her to go for two days before a doctor was called. He found she had diphtheria. She died the next day. Please let people know the dreadful consequences of neglecting such a condition."

Professor McKinnon Speaker At Stirling

STIRLING, Jan. 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Tuesday, January 10, the regular meeting of the Welfare club met in the community hall. After reports of the various committees (including that of relief committee which supplied over twenty families with food and clothing at Christmas, G. L. Clute sang a solo, "Garden of My Heart."

The guest speaker, Prof. McKinnon, professor of hygiene at University of Toronto, was introduced by Dr. Pedly, and gave a splendid address.

After this talk, Mr. G. Clute sang a most appropriate humorous song, "Some Little Bug Will Get You Some Day."

Charles Allen gave as an instrumental solo, "Stepping on the Ivories," as concluding number on the program.

The first telephone exchange in Maryland was opened in Baltimore on Jan. 1, 1879.

MANY NEW PLAYS.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Hugh Walpole has dramatized his novel, "The Cathedral," which made no small stir when it was published some 10 years ago. This is his first effort at stage work, and the Embassy Theatre, one of the "little" theatres of the suburbs, has been enterprising enough to give the play its first production. From the reception accorded to it there seems every reason to believe it will move to the West End.

It is always something of a risk to make a play out of a novel. Archdeacon Brandon, the leading character in "The Cathedral," though, is certainly a character of sufficient dominance to give force to a drama of social life. Hugh Walpole goes very much ahead of the track first laid by Anthony Trollope in depictions of life in a cathedral close. In place of Trollope's figures, who mostly were notable for their jealousies and bickerings, we have an ambitiously arrogant Archdeacon who passes to a complete fall, physical, mental and social, following his losing battle with the enigmatical Canon Ronder.

Balliol Holloway, one of the best of our Shakespearian actors, gives a remarkable performance of the Archdeacon, and Francis Sullivan's suave Canon Ronder is admirably done. The period of the play, like that of the novel, is definitely fixed around Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, so those who do not like to think that the great houses of the Faith in England are in the hands of such disagreeable characters may console themselves with the thought that cathedral chapters in the last 35 years have probably mended their manners.

Theatres in London have been enjoying a revival of patronage lately, though probably there will be a falling-off in attendance immediately before Christmas. An interesting explanation of the increased interest shown by the public towards things theatrical is offered by C. B. Cochran. 'The "talkies" have done to the theatres an immensely good turn," he says. "When the film ceased to be content with appealing to the eye and began to interest its huge audience in dialogue and the sound of the human voice it reminded the elder members of something that had once enjoyed and had for a while deserted for a new toy," says Mr. Cochran. "It instructed a younger generation, many of whom had never been inside a theatre or known what the attractions of flesh and blood acting might be in the delights that lay in store for them.

New Enterprise.

New vigor and enterprise enthuse the theatrical industry of to-day, bringing with it a new confidence which is moving mountains. Young authors and artists and new methods are getting their chance and taking them with both hands." Non-Stop Variety, though, has suffered its first big failure. Daly's Theatre, where George Edwards had so many of his triumphs in musical comedy, is returning to normal fare after five months of Non-Stop Variety. The experiment cost the promoter $100,000, his opinion now being that London declines to give up tea-time for a show, or to sit through a final house that lasts until midnight.

None the less there are still seven theatres where a Non-Stop program is produced under various labels. Daly's will now have a revival of that roaring farce, "Tons of Money," which will be given twice nightly. Another interesting revival is "Potash and Perlmutter" at the Gaiety. Martin Harvey is coming to the Little Theatre at Hammersmith with "The Bells," that full-blooded melodrama over which the grey-haired wag their heads when they recall Henry Irving's presentation of Mathias.

The Liverpool Repertory Theatre reports an increased public demand for comedy; unfortunately they find that the supply does not come up to the demand so far as their own theatre is concerned. "The Merchant of Venice," is a comedy, but it seems that the Festival Theatre at Cambridge has made altogether too much of a comedy in their presentation of it. Shylock and Tubal fishing in a canal, players brought on and off the stage in hobby-horse gondolas, and, when Portia sends one of her waiting maids on a quick errand, the girl takes a swim in the canal in a modern bathing costume. And Portia delivering the Quality of Mercy speech from a swing. What next? Why, Shylock brought on in the last act as an Italian organ-grinder begging for pennies.

Jaunty Jacket

A collar with a careless sailor tie gives an air of youthful jauntiness to this fingertip length velveteen evening wrap that makes so practical an addition to the wardrobe of the college girl or the woman who plans a winter cruise.

The frock of string-toned linen lace is equally wearable for the school girl or traveler, as it will pack without wrinkling.

LADIES' GUILD

MARMORA, Jan. 14. — The annual meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday. On account of the election of officers being on the agenda, the rector Rev. A. B. Caldwell, presided.

The financial report was presented which showed that nearly six hundred dollars had been raised for the church's finances during the year.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President: Mrs. Hamilton Crowford.

Vice-presidents: Mrs. T. W. Rhind, St. Paul's; Mrs. S. B. Wright, Deloro; Mrs. W. H. Derry, Holy Trinity.

Secretary-treasurer: Mrs. E.Brady (re-elected.)

Committees: Visiting: Mrs. C. Nichol, Mrs. G. Kerr and Mrs. R. Phillips; Purchasing: Mrs. S. C. Boyd, convenor; Entertaining: Mrs. H. R. Pearce, Mrs. E. Hewitt, Mrs. F. S. Pearce, Mrs. S. C. Boyd, Mrs. G. Kerr, Mrs. S. C. Wright.

It was decided to hold a sale of baking in the near future.

President Hayes had the first telephone installed in the White House on Jan. 3, 1879.

Reunion Of Flying Newlyweds

There was no evidence of professional jealousy between Amy Johnson, famous British aviatrix, and Captain James A. Mollison, her equally famous husband, when they greeted each other, as shown, on the completion of Miss Johnson's returnflight from Cape Town South Africa, to London. The daring aviatrix broke her husband's record on the outward flight, and also shattered the previous mark for the trip home from Cape Town.

Wedding Shower For Dartford Couple

DARTFORD, Jan. 14. — On Tuesday evening, December 27, about one hundred of the young people of Dartford and vicinity gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jewell (nee Helen Pickens) and presented them with a miscellaneous shower. Many useful gifts were received.

WARSAW INSTITUTE PLANS ON SERIES

Dr. Munro's Talk on Health Will Be Given on Friday, Jan. 27, in Branch Hall.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Jan. 14. — The regular meeting of Warsaw Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Payne on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. T. H. Crowe presided. It was decided to hold a summer series delegate course, also to have Dr. Munro's Health Talk on Friday, Jan. 27, in the hall. An interesting program has been prepared; light refreshments will be served and a silver collection taken.

Plans are being made to hold an entertainment some time in Feb. Mrs. Fred Crowe gave an excellent and most interesting paper on the History of Education, which was much appreciated.

Mrs. W. S. Anderson gave a reading "Wishes." Mrs. David Miller read a short article from World Wide on Culture and Industrialism. Mrs. George Weller had some interesting items for current events. Mrs. Roland Payne was the organist.

Next meeting on Thursday, Feb. 9th, will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clements. Mrs. Theodore Douglas, has the topic "League of Nations," and Mrs. John Brethour, Canadian Industries. Mrs. Roland Payne will give the current events.

The Anglican Ladies' Guild held a social afternoon on Wednesday of last week, at which Miss Maud Morgan was hostess.

Blind! DOLLARS

Don't Keep Your Dollars Where They Can't See Daylight . . .

THE DOLLAR down deep in the sock; imprisoned in the boodle bag or locked up in the strong box is surely blinded to to-day's bargain opportunities. Get them out; get them working; give them the chance to see the light of to-day's bargain opportunities.

At to-day's prices . . . the lowest in 15 years that dollar can work for you as it never has before . . . in clothing, furniture, food, furs, almost all things it can deliver from 40% to double what it purchased in years when you spent it freely. Now is the time to store commodities, not dollars.

The purchasing power of the dollar is to-day at its fullest . . . hold on to it and it will shrivel up as surely as to-day's bargains will fade and disappear with the return of higher prices. That return is very near at hand . . . so near that the procrastinator is sure to be caught napping.

The following personal item from the Woodstock Sentinel-Review refers to the parents of Mrs. J. S. Chandler of North Monaghan: "It was a cold and stormy evening on January 5, 1886, with trains running away behind time. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Newton, Victoria Street North, remember all about it, whether anyone else does or not. They were married 47 years ago to-day, at Tweed, and were to have departed at once for Woodstock, but spent many hours at the station waiting for the train and did not reach here until evening of next day. Mr. Newton had been a resident of Hungerford Township, Hastings County, only a few miles out of Tweed, and Mrs. Newton, former Melsenia Van Dusen, lived in the town, of which she was a native. They began married life on a farm in East Oxford, close to the city, remaining there a quarter-century before removing to Woodstock. During the whole period they have been members of Central Church, former Methodist, now United, and Mr. Newton is president of the local branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society."

A card party was held last evening by the Caledonian Club in the Woodmen of the World Hall. The present, Mr. D. Anderson, acted as timekeeper, but owing to sickness amongst the members the attendance did not come up to the usual mark. Seven tables of whist were played, and the following were prize-winners: Ladies' first, Mrs. D. Anderson; second, Mrs. A. Lister. Gentlemen's first, Mrs. G. Nimmons (playing as a gent.); second, Mr. R. Hendry. Consolation awards went to Mrs. R. Bethune and Mrs. J. Brown. The executive served refreshments after the card games and an hour was spent in dancing to music supplied by Mr. R. Gilmour (melodeon) and Mr. A. Milne (traps).

Many of the senior residents of the city and those who had men folk in the Great War will learn with regret of the passing at an advanced age, at her home in London, England, of Miss M. E. Glassford, who succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. The late Miss Glassford, who was born in Beaverton, Ontario, lived in Peterborough about forty years ago, before removing to London, England, to make her home, although she made yearly trips to California. She was a sister of the late Mrs. Minorgan of 379 Park street, and an aunt of the late George Minorgan of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, who was killed in one of the early engagements of the Great War. An older nephew and a niece, Miss Lily Minorgan, survive her in London. The late Miss Glassford was wonderfully good to the Canadian boys who went over to fight in the great conflict and kept open house for the soldiers at her big home in London. She looked after their interests in many ways and helped them when they were sick. Her name will be remembered with gratitude by many a mother and sister, as the abiding friend of the soldier boys from Canada.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

JANUARY AND FEBRUARY are two months in the year when Peterborough housewives will find especial values in furniture in the stores.

* * * * * * *

It is a good time to buy. The stores would not offer the pieces and sets at the reasonabe prices marked without hoping they would tempt buyers.

* * * * * * *

One reason for these sales is that dealers need floor space for new furniture. It takes a great deal of space to display furniture, especially when it is shown to advantage.

* * * * * * *

Sometimes odd pieces are offered at extremely low prices, and if the homemaker finds among such pieces of furniture needed pieces, here is her opportunity to buy thriftily.

* * * * * * *

But when buying separate articles, remember that the pieces picked out must accord well with other furnishings in rooms. However good the piece may be, and however much of a bargain, unless the thing will be assimilated with the rest of the furniture, it will never look well in the room.

* * * * * * *

For example, beware of buying modernistic furniture to put in rooms where there are antiques, or vice-versa.

* * * * * * *

Light furniture calls for pieces in similar tones, while dark calls for dark wood. In neither instance is the exact kind of wood imperative, but corresponding shades.

* * * * * * *

A person who buys at sales must follow the same course she would when purchasing at regular prices in that she must either be a judge of articles herself, and know values, or she must buy at places so reliable that the word of the sales person backed by the known high-grade furniture sold at the store, is a satisfactory guarantee.

* * * * * * *

She should realize that there is a reason for the reduced prices. Some of the excellent causes have been enumerated. It should be remembered that all sorts of pieces, some good, some not so good, and some indifferent, find their way into sales rather more than one expects to find in regular stock.

* * * * * * *

A customer should be very careful in making selections when the prices are reduced, especially when sales are final owing to the low cost.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR OMEMEE BAND

Third Degree Exemplified at Meeting of Lorne Lodge, No. 375.

OMEMEE, Jan. 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — The January meeting of the Mission Band was held on Monday afternoon in the Sunday School room, when the Scripture lesson was read by Florence Sloan, and the leader, Mrs. Reddick, told the story from the second chapter of the study book on Canada. Dorothy Brooks sang a solo and the leader took charge of the election of officers for the coming year.

President, Jean Laidley; Vice-President, Mertena McConnell; Corresponding Secretary, Gertie Pickett; Recording Secretary, Doreen Morcombe; Treasurer, Mrs. Reddick; Mite Box Secretary, Hilda Marshall; Music Committee, Audrey Baxter; members of the Watch Tower for the next three months: China, Russell Weir; Japan, Helen Smith; Canada, Charles Shaw; India, May Faulkner; Africa, Merle Rowan; Temperance, Hilda Marshall.

Mite boxes and The World Friends were distributed and the meeting was brought to a close.

Degree Exemplified.

The members of Lorne Lodge No. 375 A.F. and A.M. held their monthly meeting on Wednesday in the lodge room, with a fairly good attendance, when the newly installed officers were in the chairs and a third degree was exemplified.

Wife Preservers

Wooden boxes were utilized by one ingenious housewife to supplement her cupboard space. The boxes were obtained from the grocer, painted to match the kitchen and one stood on top of the other. In one she keeps soap; dish towels, spices, etc., occupying the rest of the space.

CAVAN W.A.

Mrs. Allen is Chosen President —Ladies Honor Miss Annie Sisson.

CAVAN, Jan. 14. — (Examiner Correspondence).—The election and installation of officers of the W.A. of St. John's church, Ida, was held at the regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dickenson, when the Rector conducted the election of officers.

They are: Hon. President, Mrs. (Canon) Allen; President, Mrs. Herbert Seeney; Honorary Vice-President, Mrs. H. Sisson, Sr.; Vice-President, Mrs. Beatty Fee; Secretary, Miss Elva Elliott; Treasurer, Miss Bertha Touchbourne.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the presentation to Miss Annie Sisson who had served as President for seventeen years and who resigned, of a beautiful pendant necklace, as a token of appreciation of her work by the ladies of the Society.

Mrs. (Canon) Allen read the address and Mrs. R. M. Howden made the presentation, the former being signed by Mrs. H. Seeney, Mrs. R. McCamus and Miss Bertha Touchbourne.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

SEEKING OVERTRICKS

The new scoring averages to cut the value of a rubber 100 points. More than formerly, it is necessary to play closely to obtain more overtricks than ever before won. The declarer of the hand shown below had overtricks in mind.

Z's opening bid of 1-Heart was jumped to 3-Hearts by Y. To discover if a small slam was possible, Z shifted to 4-Diamonds, but Y went backto 4-Hearts, ending contracting.

The opening lead was the 4 of hearts. Dummy could have held the trick with the 8, but the declarer paused when it came his turn to play, to ponder the reason for the trump lead. There were two possible reasons for that lead. A might be very long in diamonds and did not want dummy to ruff that suit. A more probably held both missing black Kings, and dared not open either spades or clubs. The declarer could see five-odd if A held the K of spades, and a small slam in case that adversary held both the K and J of Spades. Having made up his mind, Z won the opening lead with the 10.

The declarer led a low spade from his own hand. A played the 3, and the double finesse of dummy's 10 was taken. The 10 held the trick. The 9 of hearts was led from dummy. The declarer's K won. He led back his last spade. Dummy's Q won the trick. Upon the Ace of spades went the declarer's only club. Then he could lose only a single diamond tricks, even if A held all missing diamonds, which was most improbable, as that would have caused him to make an opening lead of diamonds, expecting B to trump the lead.

The J of diamonds was led from dummy. B followed suit with the 2, and Z let the J run, hoping that possibly the missing K was held by B, but A won the trick with the K, depriving Z of a grand slam, but ending play, as he spread his hand.

Both sides are vulnerable. Two-odd at spades will put A-B out. It will take three-odd to put Y-Z out.

BE BEAUTIFUL

A well-known beautician who has made quite a name for heself in the beauty culture field, claims that practicallly every type of hair can be subjected to hot oil treatments with great profit. She considers such treatments marvelous for the hair, and always recommends them for any woman who is attempting to glorify her hair

I personally consider hot oil treatments just as excellent for the hair as this famous beautician does. The hot castor oil shampoo described in my "Beauty Culture" booklet, for instance, is most effective in correcting dryness and brittleness, in promoting the hair growth, and in making the hair thick and glossy. And I am pleased to be able to say that many of my readers have obtained the most gratifying results from the use of this shampoo.

However, some of my readers claim that they find it rather difficult to remove all of the oil from their tresses after such a treatment. Of course, castor oil is inclined to be somewhat stickier than lighter oils. But if the hair is properly shampooed after such an oil treatment, every bit of the oil should be satisfactorily removed without much difficulty.

In the first place, when shampooing the hair after a hot castor oil treatment, a liquid soap should be used, and not soap in cake form. And in the second place, tepid water should be used, and not hot water.

In the actual shampooing, the hair should not first be moistened with hot water, for such a procedure would tend to set the oil, and make it difficult to eradicate A good liquid soap should be applied directly to the hair before it is moistened at all, and a good lather raised. Then the hair should be rinsed with lukewarm water. Such soapings and rinsings should be continued until every bit of oil has been removed from the hair.

When you are sure that every bit of oil has been eradicated, rinse the hair thoroughly with clear water until all soap lather has been removed. Then, in the last rinse water, dissolve a teaspoon of baking soda. This will make positive the removal of any remaining oil, and will leave the hair soft and fluffy.

ANSWER TO QUERIES.

Weight.

Jack: I think that a man 5 feet 11 inches tall and 26 years of age should weigh about 162 pounds.

Nail Biting.

Marie: Nail biting is a habit of which you must break yourself through your own perseverance. A bit of tincture of aloes applied to your fingertips will help to break you of this habit.

Freckles.

Alva: Lemon juice and dilute peroxide both make effective freckle bleaches. Either bleach should be permitted to dry on the skin, and then a bit of cold cream should be applied to counteract any drying effects.

Eye Wash.

Lenore: The eye wash you refer to is made by dissolving a teaspoon of boric acid in a glass of tepid, boiled water. An eye cup is best for administering an eye wash.

Daytime Dresses for Youth

Left, wool dress with plaid skirt and trimmings, contrasting top; right, rough crepe using three colors.

It's an old and well-known custom—girls always take new clothes back to college after week-ends or vacations. Any holiday lacks the usual thrill if the custom's not lived up to.

But in these times of limited allowances, girls have to buy dresses that are really suitable for college life. And they have to be of good quality to withstand college wear and tear—and reasonably priced, at that.

Stores fully appreciate these requirements, for the new day-time dresses comply with them perfectly. What's more, these frocks are obviously of a more recent vintage than those accumulated in early fall wardrobes. In fact, many of them are so distinctive that they're bound to stir up a sensation on the campus! Could any girl ask for more?

Indoor-Outdoor Effectiveness

Think how effective the wool dress at the left would look under a fur or leather jacket—the plaid skirt standing out in colorful contrast, and another glimpse of plaid in the scarf and epaulets.

You see, it's a newly smart two-piece type, and that the overblouse is done in the predominating color of the plaid. That deeply pointed yoke effect, achieved through wide tucks, gains recognition, too, along with those clever little plaid epaulets posed pertly at the shoulders' brink.

What a grand indoor-outdoor model it is for every day. Perfect for the classroom, and just the thing for skating or hiking—any outdoor sport that's not so active as to actually require trousers!

New Three-Color Idea

Another indispensable dress that any girl needs now is an under-the-coat type of rough silk crepe. By choosing a model with tailored lines, it could be worn Sundays or going home for week-ends, as well as any week day. And, of course, it should be in a color or a combination of colors, to brighten up the sombre shades of winter or fur coats.

The very latest thing in contrasts for dresses on this order is the new three-color idea. The best interpretations have a light top, dark skirt or vice-versa, with a dash of bright color as an accent. Just such a dress—and it's a very chic example—is illustrated on the right.

Not Too Severe

You'll notice how strictly tailored it, is—the collar turning down in points, the sleeves with shirtwaist cuffs. But the sleeves are relieved from being too regulation by inverted pleats between th shoulder and the elbow, and by the bright color accent edging the cuffs.

This accent's used again in the bow effect to relieve the severity of the neckline. It's stunning when this bright color's red an a gray top, with a navy skirt. A more unusual combination is when the skirt's black-cherry, the top blue haze, with the accents in a pale, dusty rose. There are lots of others, too, that you'd find most attractive.

1933 OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY ST. JAMES' W. M. S. AUXILIARY

Several Interesting Reports Read During Business Session of Meeting.

PLEASING PROGRAM

The W.M.S. Auxiliary of St. James' United Church held its first meeting for 1933 recently in Wesley Hall with a splendid attendance.

A very impressive installation service was conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, when he dedicated the officers to their various and responsible duties. The president, Mrs. Moorhouse, then took the chair and carried out a very fine initial program.

The business session was one of great interest, consisting principally of reports of the year's work, the stock-taking and balance-sheet, showing that the society has made a successful finale.

The first and in a sense the most important report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. R. B. English, who announced the good news that the financial allocation had been attained, despite the difficult conditions of the year.

Mrs. Wesley Rose, the recording secretary, gave an interesting resume of the year's work.

The secretary of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. F. D. Armstrong, gave a cheering account of the giving of the members which is chiefly through the envelope system.

Mrs. Beavis gave an interesting report on her department, Temperance Education, and the Strangers' secretary, Mrs. A. Davis, reported many visits, and cards sent to shut-in members.

The Associate Helpers' and Mite Box secretary, Mrs. Byers, told of the splendid results of the mite box givings.

Mrs. R. Payne as Supply secretary, said that goods for her large bale which were all new, had been donated wtih the exception of but $1.00.

Excellent reports were also given by Mrs. Cripps, secretary for Missionary Monthly and by Mrs. Copson for the Baby Band work.

The Mission Band was reported by the secretary, Miss Connie Wagar.

The report of corresponding literature and press secretary will be given at the February meeting.

The "Making of Canada" from Rev. Dr. Oliver's book being studied this year, was told in a wonderfully interesting summary by Mrs. J. McAdams.

The fifth annual presbyterial meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was announced and the following ladies appointed as delegates: Mrs. R. B. English and Mrs. A. H. Davis, with Mrs. Beavis and Mrs. Ingham as alternates.

A pleasing feature of the Auxiliary at Christmas time was the presentation of a Life Membership certificate to Mrs. Samuel Deyell, who, though a shut-in member, was always actively interested in her Auxiliary and evidenced her loyalty in a very practical manner. Mrs. Deyell acknowledged the gift in a letter of appreciation.

The splendid first meeting of the New Year was brought to a conclusion with singing, and prayer was offered by Mrs. W. H. Buckler, the esteemed honorary president of the society.

MENU HINTS

Creamed Spaghetti with Carrots
Brown Bread Buttered Broccoli
Crisp Vegetable Salad
Lemon Pie Tea

Creamed spaghetti and carrots are an economical and unusual main dish. A touch of cheese sprinkled over the dish before baking might add to its taste zest.

Today's Recipes

Creamed Spaghetti With Carrots.—One and one-half cups broken spaghetti, three tablespoons margarine, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three cups fresh or diluted evaporated milk, one and one-half cups cooked carrots. Clean and scrape carrots, cut in long, narrow slices and cook until tender in a small amount of boiling salted water. Cook the spaghetti until tender (about 25 minutes) in three quarts of boiling water to which has been added one and one-half teaspoons of salt. Drain. Melt fat, add flour and seasonings and blend thoroughly. Pour on the milk and stir until thick and smooth. Cook for five minutes longer. Put one-half the spaghetti in a baking dish, cover with half the carrots, then add half the sauce. Repeat, using the remaining ingredients. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes and serve.

Brown Bread.—One-half cup soft bread crumbs, three-fourths cup milk, one-fourth cup molasses, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup wholewheat flour, one-half cup corn meal, one-half cup oats, one teaspoon soda, one-half cup chopped walnuts. Soak the bread crumbs in the milk until very soft. Rub through a sieve if necessary. Add all other ingredients and beat well. Pour into a large greased bread tin, or into two small tins or two one-pound baking powder tins. Steam for three hours, or bake in a moderate oven, 35 degrees, about one and one-half hours, or until thoroughly done.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Jiffy Fudge

Three squares unsweetened chocolate, one and one-third cups condensed milk, one and one-half tablespoons butter, one tablespoon vanilla, two cups confectioner's sugar, one-half cup nuts (chopped), one-half cup dates, chopped. Melt chocolate in a double boiler. Then add condensed milk and cook five minutes. Stir occasionally, until mixture thickens. Remove from fire, add the butter and vanilla, and work in confectioner's sugar. Fold in chopped nuts and dates. Pour this into a buttered tin. Cool and cut in squares.

St. James' Circle Instals Officers

For their first meeting of the New Year, the members of the X.L. Mission Circle, St. James' United Church, gathered at the home of Mrs. Wesley Rose, 121 Morrow Street.

In a brief but inspiring service, the officers for 1933 were installed by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, after which the president, Jessie Martin, assumed the chair for the ensuing program.

An appropriate New Year's hymn introduced the buisness session, which included plans for the year's work and the arranging of the budget. Representatives to the Peterborough Presbyterial meeting were appointed as follows: Misses Jean Rose and Dorothy Drysdale.

"In the Garden," a sweetly-sung duet by two of the junior choir members, Gladys Gustard and Hazel Palmer, opened the program proper. With the aid of a poster, Connie Wagar outlined the chief factors in the "Making of Canada," which was the study chapter for the month.

Short readings, bearing on the central theme, were read in conjunction with the synopsis of this interesting chapter.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a life-membership certificate to one of the X.L. girls. This has become an annual event in the Circle, and the honor this year was conferred upon Jean Hammond, to whom an address of loving appreciation was read by Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse. On behalf of the organization, Mrs. E. J. Wager, the leader, presented the certificate of life-membership, and Miss Hammond, in a few grateful words, expressed her thanks.

A closing hymn and the benediction terminated this part of the evening's activities. The hostess, Mrs. Rose, with her assistants, Aileen and Jean Rose and Eleanor Gison, served delicious refreshments during the social hour with which this very successful meeting closed.

Miss M. E. Glassford Passes In London

Many people in the city, especially those whose sons were overseas during the Great War, will be sorry to learn of the death from pneumonia, at an advanced age at her home in London, England of Miss M. E. Glassford, sister of the late Mrs. Minorgan of Park street and a constant visitor to Peterborough in years gone by.

Miss Glassford was always interested in the soldiers from Canada, her native country, and she kept open house during the war for the boys who went to London on furlough or were in hospital there. Many a sick and lonesome youth was consoled by her untiring friendliness and interest and many a letter home brought references to the kindness of a woman whose long life was filled with helpfulness to those in need.

Junior Petes Defeat Bowmanville 6-5 for Third Victory

CADD SCORES WINNING GOAL IN THIRD PERIOD TO FINISH HARD FOUGHT JUNIOR BATTLE

Petes Have to Fight Hard to Gain Victory After Lagging Through First Two Periods—Score Two Cheap Goals in Initial Frame.

JAY, CALLADINE, CADD AND WEIR PLAY EFFECTIVE OF FENSIVE GAME FOR LOCALS

Hard Checking, Good Goal-tending and Lucky Breaks Favor Petes—"Pepper Line" of Burley, Hill and Williamson Shows Up Well.

The junior Petes made it three in a row last night when they took Bowmanville into camp, 6 to 5, on the latter's ice before a fair crowd of fans. Cadd's lone effort with four minutes to go of the last period put the tussle in the bag for the locals after a hard-fought and exciting exhibition.

The ice was fair, becoming rough at the last, and the game was anybody's in the hectic third period. Despite eight Pete penalties and six for the homesters, it was a fairly clean contest, Referee Armstrong checking up on everything. The Blue and Whites had a 2-0 lead ending the first period, and it was 3-2 for them starting the final go, but twice a battling Bowmanville squad tied it up before they were licked.

Despite their victory, the Petes didn't go their best, particularly in the first two stanzas. They got two cheap goals in the first and took things fairly easy until faced with impending defeat, when they stepped out and fought hard enough to grab the win. More punch in the last chapter, plus poor network by the home goal-tender accounted for the third scalp in the belts of the team, handled last night by Shorty Burgess.

Effective Offensive

Probably Jay, Calladine, Cadd and Weir were the most effective offensively, though the "pepper line" of Burley, Hill and Williamson showed up well at times. Fenton worked in some good rushing as did McGregor in the late stages. Calladine went better in the third period, starring then. Sanderson had a good night in goal, and blocked a bunch of hot ones. The defence wasn't at its best, failing to bodycheck effectively, though they stopped a number of shots on goal. Bagnell and W. Mutton were outstanding for the home outfit.

Bowmanville really outplayed the Petes the first two periods and got more shots on goal. They iced a stronger team than previously and fought hard. The winners were outskated and only for hard backchecking, good goaltending and lucky breaks, would have been outscored.

Game Starts Fast

They started off at a good clip, the Petes having an early edge. Calladine scored after three minutes with a long hard shot outside the blue line. Bagnell went off for tripping, followed by Fenton for charging. A bit later, Cadd took the air for using his elbows, and the Petes went into a shell while they were short. Halfway through, Weir hoisted another long shot from outside the defence line and it got by the home goalie. Williamson was checked out for tripping, with Dunlop trailing him for holding. Bowmanville threatened hard, and Calladine was rubbed out next for cross-checking shortly before the end.

Bowmanville looked dangerous all through the middle canto, and Bagnell tore up the right boards and eased right around defence to ring the bell early with an angle shot. Play was fast then with the young local line pepping it up. C. Osborne was thumbed off for charging, his teammate M. Oke dittoing for slashing and the homesters were two short. Then Fenton got the gate for checking after the bell. Calladine put the Petes two up on fine combination in close with Weir. Jay's bullet shot in and out of the net was too fast for the referee's eye and didn't count. Bagnell got one back when he raced around the local citadel and jabbed the puck into a corner near the close.

Mutton Ties Count.

At the start of the third, Bill Mutton tied the count on a hard shot from close range, but Jay came right back to score on McGregor's rebound. Calladine got another when he lifted a hard one from the blue line and the goalie muffed it. Williamson was jerked again for tripping, and Bill Mutton burst through the defence to net the rubber. Burley went off next for slashing, and again Bowmanville scored when the Petes were short a player, Bill Mutton doing the trick again on a blasing shot from defence. Calladine almost scored, and after Bagnell was benched for tripping, Cadd snaked his way through alone in close and buried the winner in the netting. Bagnell and Burley were chased just before the gong for roughing it.

CARTERS TAKE 5-3 VICTORY AT LAKEFIELD

Visitors Show Decided Edge Over Homesters in E.P.L. Tangle.

WILLIAMS GETS THREE.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Payne's Carters moved further up in the East Peterborough League's hockey race here last night by earning a well-deserved 5 to 3 victory over the Lakefield team. The winners had a decided edge over the home squad, carrying more weight and showing more speed and experienced play.

At that the Lakefield youngsters stayed valiantly in the hunt, and a large crowd was well pleased with their effort George Wannamaker, guarding the nets for Lakefield, gave a great display of goal-tending, turning a flock of shots aside. Those that beat him were ticketed.

"Curly" Northey was perhaps outstanding for Lakefield, but Jewell was the big goal scorer with two to his credit.

Williams Scores Three

All the Carters gave a finished performance, and with a little more combination they should prove a tough opposition for any club in the league. Williams was their leading goal-getter with three, but Jones gave him neat passes for two of them. Maudsley turned in a smart solo effort to notch the Leafs' first counter. The Leafs' defence pair of Lacey and Swanger proved difficult for the home squad to get around.

The teams:

Payne's—Goal, Foley; defence, Swanger and Lacey; centre, Maudsley; wings, Williams and Carroll; alternates, Stant, Meagher, Jones and McGee.

Lakefield—goal, G. Wannamaker; defence, Stenner and Wingett; centre, Northey; wings, Jewell and Stuart; alternates, Walker, R. Wannamaker, Kennedy and B. Wannamaker.

BEN JEBY SCORES TECHNICAL K. O. OVER FRANKIE BATTAGLIA

REFEREE CALLS OFF FIGHT IN 12TH ROUND.

(By Sam Robertson, C. P. Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. —(CP)— A disastrous second round as ill-lucked as any Friday the 13th event could possibly be, today had at least temporarily deprived Frankie Battaglia of his hope of assuming middleweight kingdom in the boxing world.

A blow most ringsiders said was inches below the belt, then another in the second that finally closed his right eye, left the Winnipeg Italian a comparatively easy mark for the crafty punching of Ben Jeby and the New Yorker finally won their fight last night by a technical knockout ruling in the 12th round.

Battaglia crumpled to the canvas, his gloves grasping at his midsection as the unquestionably low blow landed early in the second session. Seeking to regain his wind he stayed down while the referee tolled nine before coming up. He made no protest but from the way he dropped, like a log, he was still hurt.

Jeby was quick to take advantage of the opening. He opened a two-fisted volley to the head and a wide, hooking left that caught the Canadian on the cheekbone eventually closed his right eye completely.

Frankie never faltered in his quest for victory despite the handicap, though for the last half of the fight he was half-blinded; unable to ward off the lefts that thumped on their mark monotonously. Between the sixth and seventh rounds Battaglia's seconds slashed the skin under the swollen optic, but it was no use.

Fine Craftsmanship

For the winner, who thus received recognition as middleweight champion from the New York State Boxing commission, it was a victory earned with the odds in his favor. But it must be said he showed fine ring craftsmanship. No opening was missed. He leaped for each advantage like the fighting general that he is.

For the ill-fated loser there was comfort in that he had stgaed one of the most courageous fights recorded in the long history of the Madison Square Garden ring wars. Only a true fighting heart could have carried on after that second round—carried right through another half-hour of savage punishment to the 12th where Referee Jack Britton, the former welterweight champion himself, heeded the calls of the crowd and halted the fight.

Despite his hapless condition, the dynamite-laden right hand that has carried the former Winnipeg newsboy to the top of the division, twice had his foe close to a knockout.

In the fifth round Jeby ran flush into a right hand smash that all but floored him. He hung on but Battagia shook him loose, uppercutted and then flailed with both fists. Jeby retreated to a corner before the vicious onslaught, his hands at his sides. Rights poured on his unprotected head. Just as it appeared his weakening knees would collapse for the count, the bell sounded for a rest that greatly revived him.

Another right, an uppercut, early in the sixth again had the Ghetto Jew in distress. But he shook his head free of the cobwebs and banged automatically into the Canadian's body as Battaglia tried desperately for a shot at a chin he could scarcely see. The right eye was not completely closed.

The ring-wise Jeby and the 7,500 who sat at the fight sensed from then on that the Manitoban's strength was ebbing fast. As tough a plodder as the middle-class has known in many years, Jeby kept coming on, never resting and that hooking left to Frankie's swollen head.

It was the left-handed thumping that distorted Battaglia's handsome features into a bumpy, unrecognizable mass, caused the crowd to shout for an end, and finally the referee to halt the bout.

Seek Return Match

The crowning of the new champion could not be surrounded with unanimity in view of the low blow in the second. Jeby's featured body attack was marked with other punches close to the belt line, and Battaglia's manager, Ernie Fliegel, said after the fight he would seek a return match.

In the first encounter between these fighting-machines, last March in Chicago, Battaglia smashed Jeby down and out with a first-round flurry of paralyzing punches.

Norwood Teams Win Hockey Decisions

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last scribble our hockey lads has been in action and got themselves away to a good start. Our junior talent has win 2 games on the local ice-box, beating Port Hope 2 to 1 and then bumping Bowmanville 7 to 4 in a game what went 10 mins. overtime. That's a encouraging beginning, but the lads don't want to kid themselves the group is won just because they've copped a coupla home fixtures. They had plenty opposition in both games, and to tell the truth ,they needed a lot of luck both round their own goal and the other fellows' to take the decision from Bowmanville. The best thing about the 2 battles was that the young Petes showed a whole lotta old fighterino, and that's the kinda stuff they're going to need to take the verdict in the group doings. They uncovered a good kid in the Bowmanville game in this young Burley, who goes places in a hurry every time he grabs the boothee!. Even in the slush the other nite he galloped round the cushion like a Olympic sprinter, and on fast going he oughta set a lively pace for any man's team. This junior group is a mighty well balanced gang, and some real lively hockey oughta be produced before the winner is crowned.

The intermediate squad made history Mon. nite when they visited Doc Gansby's berg for a group battle, thereby making themselves the 1st Peterborough team to play hockey in Orono. Mister Wright's squad win without a great deal of trouble, the figures with all polls heard from being 14 to 3 in their favor. Orono, folks, in case you ain't heard of it, is the place that ain't got nobody on relief, although some of the fans what went down there Mon. nite sez the hockey team is certainly in need of help.

2 old Peterborough players figgered strongly in the N.H.L. despatches during the week, Mac. Last Sat. nite the Detroit Wings turned it on in a big way at Toronto, smearing the Leaves 6 to 1, and they come back Sun. with a win at the expense of Boston, so their manager, Mister Jack Adams, who used to drive in boocoup goals for the old 247th team here, is getting plenty of praise. Tues. nite the Toronto team win a fighting game over the New York Rangers, and the lad that led the Toronto attack besides doing a whole lotta defence work was none other than our old friend, "Ace"—Newsy to us—Bailey. The boy which captained the Petes when they brought the senior title here is going great guns in his seventh season in the big loop and is certainly earning his salary.

Well, old-timer, oughta be some good hockey here next week if the thermometer stays down somewhere near its normal winter level. All the warm weather we've had has sure been tough on training.

So long for now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

PETES SWAMP ORONO OUTFIT FOR 16-2 WIN

Archie Weir Stars For Homesters With Three Goals and Two Assists.

HOWE PRESENTS "GIFT."

Eddie Wright's Peterborough intermediate squad made their debut before the home fans at the Brock street arena last evening in their first league game and fattened their scoring averages at the expense of Orono, defeating Orme Gamsby's lads with utmost ease by 16 goals to 2.

The Petes haying earned a 14 to 3 victory over the Gamsby aggregation in Orono previously, fans must have decided that last evening's contest wasn't worthy of their attention because only a slender crowd was on hand to cheer their efforts. The players themselves were naturally disposed to take things easy, and except for the last period when the Petes increased the pressure to run in eight goals in quick time, the contest failed to furnish any real fireworks.

Play Rugged Game

Despite the fact that the Orono squad lacked polish in their efforts, they played rugged hockey and never stopped trying. McEachern, their netminder, was their shining star, turning aside a flock of shots as the Petes continuously spun the rubber disc at him. Gamsby and Dean proved a stalwart defence pair that hurled themselves in front of every puck-carrier they could reach. They gave Ted Lebarr and Ellis in particular a plentiful supply of bumps.

Archie Weir proved that he will be invaluable to the Petes this season. He turned in a sparkling performance, showing speed, heady play and was by long odds the best playmaker on the ice Despite the fact that he was unselfish with the puck, his passes bringing about some of the nicest combination attacks of the contest, he notched three goals himself. He earned assists on two others.

Presents "Gift"

All the Petes except Howe gained a place on the score sheet. It was Friday the thirteenth for Howe because not only did he fail to notch a counter for himself, but he presented Orono with their first goal. It was at the start of the second period that Howe made his presentation to the visitors. Gillespie stopped with his stick a shot from Dean, and in trying to take the puck from the goalie's stick Howe pushed it into the nets.

The game started off slowly with Orono getting in most of the shots. Then the Petes started to bore in. Dundas took a pass from Howe for the first one, and then he returned to grab the disc from behind the nets, where it had landed after Ellis' high shot, circled out and pushed it for the second from the side. On a three-man offensive, Creighton took a pass from Hatton to slam in the third goal as the first period ended.

After the gift of a goal to Orono in the second, the Petes' offensive again brought results. Dundas circled the nets with the rubber, passing to Ellis who plugged it in. Weir secured his own rebound on a lusty shot for the next one, and then Lebarr stickhandled his way through to score. The other two that period came when Hatton took a pass from Weir, and Dundas rung one into the corner on a well-placed shot.

ST. PETER'S LOSES 5-2 COUNT TO JUNIORS

NORWOOD, January 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mike O'Brien of Peterborough brought his junior St. Peter's down to Norwood for a scheduled City League tilt, and they were forced to go home on the short end of a 5 to 2 count. Norwood opened the scoring in the first period when Chuck Puffer worked in fast with Godin to take the latter's pass for a neat goal. McGowan made it two shortly after Gordie Puffer getting the assist.

Both teams missed some nice chances in the second period, but the only goal of the period fell to Norwood, McGowan again being the marksman, Godin getting the assist. Three goals down entering the last period, St. Peter's put on the pressure, keeping only one man back of their blue line. They gave Thoraby some anxious moments in the Norwood net. Chuck Puffer, flashy wingman ,made the game safe for Norwood when he netted number four shortly after the period opened. St. Peter's made it 4 to 2 on two quick goals by Murdoch and Kennedy, McCarthy and Wills getting the assists. Davis notched the final goal of the game for Norwood on a solo effort. The stars of this snappy junior tussle were: St. Peter's, Murdoch, Kennedy, and Wills; Norwood, McGowan and Chuck Puffer.

The teams:

Norwood — Goal, Thoraby; defence, L. Rogers and Davis; centre, Godin; wings, Chuck Puffer and McGowan; subs., Inpis, H. Rogers, and G. Puffer.

St. Peter's — Goal, Fleming; defence, Hallihan and Devlin; centre, Kennedy; wings, Murdock and McCarthy; subs., Archambault, Wills, O'Brien, and Peel.

Referee—Cliff. McConnell.

The summary:

Firsmt period—
Norwood—C. Puffer (Godin).
Norwood—McGowan (G. Puffer)
Second period—
Norwood—McGowan (Godin).
Third period—
Norwood—C. Puffer.
St. Peter's—Murdoch (McCarthy).
St. Peter's—Kennedy (Wills).
Norwood—Davis.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Jan. 14.—Friday the 13th proved to have no jinx for Alex Kempt's teams, the juniors and the Combines winning both ends of a doubleheader played in the Norwood Arena on Friday night before a crowd of enthusiastic fans.

Pat Hayden's Westcloxs and the Combines clashed in an East Peterborough League scheduled home game of the Westclox. Alex Kempt's pets handed them a 4 to 2 setback in a classy exhibition of hockey.

Feeling Runs High

Feeling runs high between these two teams, both managers entering the argument at the start when Hayden had five subs on the bench, and started up fresh when he attempted changing players between bells. Still smarting from the setback handed them by Carters on Monday night the Combines opened up in a burst of speed that had the Alarm boys disorganized for part of the period and they couldn't hit their stride. McConnell, lanky Combine forward worked his way through the defense for the Combines first counter for what was the best goal of the evening. Stevenson snared a loose puck inside the defense to bulge the twine for the second. Doxsee having no chance to save. On a fast three man rush "Mose" Scriver husky defenseman was skated into the corner and made a perfect pass out to "Pat" Calladine in front of the nets and the reliable Pat made no mistake to sink the third counter.

Score In Second

The Westclox made their best bid in the second when they got two very soft goals. Dinesen lofted one from the blue line that Beavis didn't see till after it hit the strings, "Rosie" had his eyes fixed in the gallery again when another flukey one got away from him, standing in front of his net a shot from "Don" Woods from a scrimmage in the corner hit his skate and rolled in to make it 3 to 2, these two goals put pep into the Westclox and they tried hard for the equalizer but Beavis settled down and stopped any further threat.

An unfortunate accident happened at the start of the period when McConnell and Dinesen collided, the former taking the count and had to be carried off the ice. Sticks were being carried high but Max Board kept the game well in hand while the White brothers were handing out some stiff bodychecks, Bill Cripps and Ronny Webb and Scriver while he was on were making the road to the Combines' net a tough one to travel. Pat Calladine and the Cripps brothers were the targets for many a hard check but they gave a receipt for all they got.

Doxsee made some great saves in the third, Calladine was through with what looked like a sure goal but Doxsee got in front of it, Stevenson fired the rebound right back but he snared it. Stevenson and Calladine outguessed him on the next rush, Stevenson shot and Calladine went in fast for the rebound to make it 4 to 2 and end the scoring.

Star for Combines

For the Combines the Cripps brothers and Pat Calladine seemed to enjoy the heavy going and pulled major share of the glory. Stevenson also put up a stellar performance, while Ronny Webb on the defense never stopped trying and gave a good account of himself.

The White boys, Epps, Dinesen and Woods were the pick of the losers.

The Teams

Combines—Goal, Beavis; defense, Webb and Bill Cripps; centre, Stevenson; wings, Calladine and Fred Cripps; subs, McConnell, Baker, Rogers and Scriver.

Westclox — Goal, Doxsee; defense, J. White and H. White; centre, Epps; wings, Milligan and Gray; subs, Woods, Thirnbeck, Tuck and Dinesen.

Referee—Max Board.

Barrage of Goals

The Petes gave their best performance in the third period when they shook loose from Orono and shook the twine behind McEachern eight times in quick order. With only five minutes left to play Pearson for Orono skated down the right boards and lifted one into the Petes' goal.

Although Gillespie had anything but a busy evening, he handled himself well in the nets. Dundas was very effective both offensively and in backchecking, leading the scorers with four goals and one assist. The whole squad worked well, although the game proved nothing more than a good workout for them.

DON BRADMAN DECLARED OUT FOR EIGHT RUNS AS AUSSIES MAKE POOR SHOWING IN START

50,000 Persons See Australian Batters Drop Three Wickets for Only 34 Runs—Hedley Verity and Edward Paynter Bring English Score Over 300 Mark.

STANLEY McCABE MAKES POOR SHOWING. PONSFORD AND RICHARDSON START RALLY

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 14.—(C.P. Cable)—Australia today had 109 runs for four wickets against the English team's first innings' score of 341 in the third cricket test match.

While 50,000 looked on, the Aussies started as disastrously as the English eleven had done. Three wickets fell for 34 runs, including that of Don Bradman, star batter, who was out with only eight runs.

A strong finish earlier in the day brought the visiting team's score up over the 300 mark after seven wickets had fallen for 236. Hedley Verity drove in 38 runs before he was caught in the flips and Edward Paynter contributed a fine 77 and was finally caught at square leg.

The trouble started in the first over for the Aussie batsman. J. Fingleton, who had batted well in the previous match went in with W. M. Woodfull, the Aussie captain, against the bowling of Harold Larwood and G. O. Allen. The third ball sent down by Allen took Fingleton's wicket.

Harold Larwood was working away with a leg break that had a nasty twist on it. One time it kicked high in the air and struck Woodful across the heart. The crowd booed every ball the English trundler sent down for several overs.

Don Bradman, who replaced Fingleton and of whom a good inning was expected since he scored 103 not out that last time at bat, fell into a trap when he hooked an easy one from Larwood into the hands of Allen at short leg.

Stanley McCabe, the only strong Aussie batsman in the first test match, also lost his wicket after scoring eight. He was caught by D. R. Jardine in short leg off Larwood. Three wickets had fallen for 34 runs.

Woodfull played a low ball from Allen on to his wicket and was out with 22 runs. The score stood at 51 for four wickets.

Shortly after Woodfull's dismissal, Voce was retired from the English bowling with a recurrence of his ankle trouble. It is unlikely he will bowl in the remainder o fthe match.

W. H. Ponsford and V. Y. Richardson then commenced the stand that was to bring the Antipodean score up. Ponsford gave a vicious straight drive against Hedley Verity's delivery for a boundary four. In the next over Larwood packed his leg field in anticipation of a catch, but thre delightful cuts to the off by Ponsford suggested Larwood was losing his direction.

Brings Total Up

Characteristic heavy pulls by Richardson aided in bringing the total to 100 in 2 hours and 22 minutes, and their partnership to 50 in 52 minutes. Ponsford had scored 45 and Richardson 21 when play was closed for the day with the Australian total at 109.

Resumption of play this morning saw Hedley Verity, youthful Yorkshire player, and Edward Paynter of Lancashire, take up their stand again.

Playing his first international game, Paynter batted with calm strength and decision. At length he hooked a delivery of Wall up to Richardson at fine leg. He had scored 77, and his, the eighth wicket, fell with the total at 324.

William Voce followed Paynter to bat, and after attempting to turn Wall to leg, was clean bowled with his score at eight. Nine wickets had fallen for 336.

Verity, who had been given several chances earlier in his inning finally pulled Wall to Richardson at square leg with his score at 45. The English score stood at 341. The score:—

England

D. R. Jardine, b Wall	3
Herbert Sutcliffe, c Wall, b O'Reilly	9
W. R. Hammond, c Oldfield, b Wall	2
L. E. G. Ames, b Ironmonger	3

P. C. I. DEFEATS ROTARIANS 2-1

Kingdon and Begley Provide Fireworks for Collegiate Outfit.

FREE-FOR-ALL IN THIRD.

P.C.I.'s hockey team gave notice last night at the Brock Street Arena that they are going to be important factors in the Junior City League by defeating Rotary 2 goals to 1 in a rugged game. Rotary had the better of the play at the start off Pagett, scoring early in the first period to put them in the lead. Kingdon evened the count with a smart solo effort.

The Collegians scored their winning goal in the second period when Kingdon gave Begley a pass to beat the Rotary net-minder.

A free-for-all fight developed among the players in the closing minutes of the game, when an argument arose over a goal that Rotary maintained they had scored. The game was rough throughout, Jack Richardson, of P.C.I., receiving a cut on the head in the second period from a high stick that required medical attention.

The teams:

P.C.I.—Goal, Sloane; defence, Joplings and Richardson; centre, Kingdon; wings, Begley and Stabler; alternates, Archibald, Howland, Edward Paynter, b Wall, c Richardson, Hedley Verity, b Wall, C Richardson, William Voce, b Wall, Harold Larwood, not out, Extras, Total, for four wickets. Rotary—Goal, Pearson; defence, Mowry and Hunter; centre, Trantor; wings, Pagett and Binnsley; alternates, Lebarr, Hicky, Post and Snowden.

Referee—T. Miller.

Summary.

First period—

1—Rotary—Pagett.

2—P.C.I.—Kingdon.

Second period—

3—P.C.I.—Begley (Kingdon).

Arnold Brady skated his way to an easy victory in the skating races for boys under 16 years of age held at the Brock Street Area last evening between periods in the Peterborough-Orono game. A dozen skaters competed. Jack Conroy and Bob Donoghue skated first and second in the first heat, and Arnold Brady and Michael O'Leary placed in the same order in the second heat. In the final dash they finished as follow: 1, Arnold Brady; 2, Michael O'Leary; 3, John Conroy; 4, Bob Donoghue. First prize was a sweater and second prize a box of chocolates, both of which were donated. Dr. H. G. Long was starter and Chris Graham and Fred Craig were judges.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

Here's some dope for players and would-be players of the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League. The loop rules that every player who was a member in good standing in the Social and Athletic Club down there on October 1st of '32, but who since that time has been laid off through lack of work, is eligible to play in Shop League games this winter. Of course, these players must communicate with the secretary of the circuit no later than January 18th. The team they want to play with will be considered by the exec. and if reasonable the players wishes granted, but the idea is not to over-strengthen any one club, so the ambitious player must make no promises till he has consulted the governing body. Jim Reeve-Newson is secretary, Jack McCarney president.

* * * * * *

There's something sort of funny, not to say odd, about Cobourg's in-again-out-again jig dance regarding their O.H.A. intermediate grouping. They're out now and must stay that way this year, but just for fun we'd like to get the real low-down. They were first of all ordered to drop two ineligible players by the O.H.A.; then, W. S. Edwards, president of the Cobourg club, announced the withdrawal of the team, saying he would not back a loser. Next thing we hear, the Cobourg club falls all over itself to get re-instated, saying that Edwards didn't have the final say. They were notified to appear before the O.H.A. but failed to do so, and Edwards repeats that they will not play. The O.H.A. emphatically agrees, so its unanimous for '33.

* * * * * *

We're sorry to see Cobourg out of the group, but even more sorry for the citizens of that town who put up two hundred bucks to supply equipment, which was bought. William Wills, who also seems to be president of the Cobourg club, says he wasn't consulted at all and would have fought Cobourg's withdrawal had he known. Whereas Mr. Edwards blandly states that the rest of the executive after thinking it over decided it better to drop out this season. Evidently Mr. Edwards, who employes some of the hockey players at his tannery has quite a bit to say.

* * * * * *

One thing the Cobourg executive members seem to agree upon and that is that Port Hope was afraid of the team and that's why they protested the Ethier brothers. They believe Peterborough, Orono and Bowmanville would have let the matter slide. They also feel that if they entered a team now, minus the two Ethiers, they'd soon lose Geraldi and then Campbell. Maybe they're right at that. The Belleville bunch made a try to get the two Ethiers back there again, but the O.H.A. naturally said "No", so they'll get nothing but shinny this winter. It seems the way of the tourist hockeyist is hard.

* * * * * *

That Orono crew must have been terrible last night. We were in Bowmanville and so missed it, but reports are that the Petes had a soft evening at the Brock in rolling up a 16-2 count, with one of the Orono markers being handed 'em by a local player. At that, they say the homesters showed up well with smart rushing, neat combination and good effective checking. Weir and Dundas went extra well. One wonders if Mr. Orme Gamsby didn't try to build up a team so that his son could play on it. Still the Ramblers' pilot is a game guy and keeps the game going there.

* * * * * *

Our juniors did a very fair job of it to prance into Bowmanville last night and cop a 6-5 win, making it three in as many starts and puts 'em fairly on top of the junior group scramble. If they can win in Port Hope Tuesday, the leadership will be cinched. The boys all went real well last night in the third period, but they didn't look too brilliant the first couple. One thing, they're a bunch of fighters and, if they do take it kind of easy when in front, the same outfit puts up a mighty battle when behind. They still have a few rusty edges to rub off, must improve their shooting for one thing and must learn to stay on the ice.

* * * * * *

Bowmanville threw out a different crew of desperate players last night, and only for poor goal-tending by McCutcheon the score would doubtlessly have been different. Still, we can take the breaks when they come our way, too. The playing of Jay, Fenton, Cadd, Calladine and Sanderson was all worthy of mention, although our defense weren't slowing them up as they should with clean hard bodychecks, and some of the others showed their best work only in flashes. The "kid line" worked hard, but here penalties proved costly. You can't win a game by polishing the penalty-box bench with your pants!

* * * * * *

The Norwood Combines came through last night on home ice to cop a 4-2 decision over Westclox, and this must also have been an exciting and close scrap. Payne's Carters won in Lakefield but they were never well out in front and coasting by any means. The teams are pretty evenly split up in the E.P.I. and we look for plenty of hard fighting before they hit the stretch. St. Peter's lost the City League game down in Norwood last night, while P.C.I. turned back Rotary 2-1 in a city game at the Brock. Incidentally, this last was much too rough to be tolerated, three free-for-all marring it and Richardson getting hurt by a stick over the head.

* * * * * *

The Cobourg ball club of the C.O.B.I. is in good financial position for next year, according to a statement issued recently. They have a balance, a very small one, but still a balance left with all debts cleared up, and Cobourg is going to field a much better team this summer than last. We understand the local C.O.B.I. club is just twenty-four bucks in the red after all ticket returns are in, and that's certainly satisfactory after their heavy expenses and indebtedness of the past two seasons. We should have a meeting sometime this winter and get things squared around early like the other clubs are doing.

* * * * * *

Grab-bag: All Saints of the West End intermediates, won 4-3 in Keene last night . . . . Red Carroll had five stitches taken in his upper lip through a high-stick accident in the E.P.I. tussle in Lakefield last night . . . . The Ashburnham Irish lads pretty well swept the boards in last night's skating races at the Brock . . . . Battaglia, Canadian hope for middleweight boxing honors, took it on the chin to Jeby, N'Yawk Jew last night . . . . We were informed some time ago that Nazzarino Poggi, who used to rassle here, had died—but haven't ever heard anything definite on it; maybe just a rumor.

TIGERS DEFEAT FALLS 5-2 TO EXTEND WINNING STREAK

Marlboros Drop First Game in Four by Losing to Sailors 4-1.

HAMILTON ADVANCES.

(By The Canadian Press)

The Yellow and Black menace of Hamilton Tigers was more of a threat than ever to-day to the tenure of Toronto Marlboros at the top of the "Big Seven" Ontario Hockey Association standing.

While the Dukes last night were dropping their first game in four with Port Colborne Sailors, by a 4-1 score, Hamilton extended their winning streak to six games by downing Niagara Falls Cataracts by a 5-2 count and drew up to within one point of their Toronto rivals.

"Goney" McGowan was the big gun in the Tiger attack netting three pucks, two of them on solo efforts. Herbie Cain, "Goney's" partner on the left rail and "Blondie" Hayhoe notched the other Hamilton counters.

Maintains Lead

Jerry Shannon, Cataracts' shifty winger, maintained his place at the top of the scoring statistics, by scoring one goal and assisting in the other, while Cain, his nearest rival was only able to tack on a single point.

Despite the difference in the score, Tigers' edge was only slight. Two of McGowan's goals were scored on long shots, and barely trickled in through Esseltine's pads.

When Hayhoe scored his goal in the third period, it was the first time he bulged the twine in two seasons.

Dukes Overconfident

Three straight wins from the Sailors, made Marlboros overconfident last night, and as a result play suffered. When the Ports took a 2-1 lead two minutes after the final period opened, the Dukes' attack became disorganized and they lost the game right there.

Teddy Olliver scored the first goal of the game after three minutes of play in the second period but the Sailors came right back and Wade Carried the puck to the Marlboro blue line and slipped it to Vern Upper, who beat Andy Goldie cleanly for the tying goal.

Slow clearing on the part of Goldie allowed Heximer to rap in the winning goal on Harry Gray's rebound shortly after the last canto got under way. Cuthbert increased the margin, when he whacked the puck off Art Whittaker's stick into the Marlboro net. Mountainn scored the last goal 15 seconds later.

Ports played a canny game and made Marlboros bring the puck to them. Even when they had a good margin in the score, they continued their well-planned defensive play and wrecked havoc with their opponents attack.

The victory strengthened Port Colborne's hold on fourth place and put them within two points of the third place Cataracts.

ST. PETER'S

A practice will be held from eight to nine Monday at the Sacred Heart rink for St. Peter's City League team.

Bowling Gossip

The Church League which operates on the Y.M.C.A. Alleys is enjoying a splendid season of competition, despite the fact that the clever trundlers from the George Street Church are having things pretty much their own way so far. They are leading the loop with 21 points out of a possible 26. St. Andrew's are second with 14, St. Paul's have 11, while the Young Judeans are occupying the cellar position with 9 points.

Bill Prindible smoked up the aisles at the Y.M.C.A. lately with a display in a league game that toppled 828 pins to set a league record. C. Wasson holds the high single count with 361, while the Northern Lights have high team total, 1188.

The Northern Lights continued their consistent maple bumping in the league tangle with the Y's Men taking three out of the four points. Prindible was the marksman for the winners, chalking up 318, 169, 262. Opposing him the honors were fairly well distributed, Jones, Lewis and Brown being the topnotchers.

Merril Ruiter set a new high triple count in the Church League on the Y. Alleys this week when he smacked the pins for scores of 221, 286, 226, for a total of 733. This record dispaces George Robertson, who had bowled 698 earlier in the season.

The Ladies' League at the Y.M.C.A. has finished the first section of the league after several weeks of very keen competition. The following is the team standing: Marigolds, 27; Sunflowers, 21; Daisies, 20; Wallflowers, 20; Pansies, 19; Orchids, 19; Narcissus, 18; Daffodils, 14; Carnations, 13; Hollyhocks, 11; Roses, 10; Tulips, 8.

BLACK HAWKS

The Black Hawks' juveniles will practice Monday evening from seven to eight at the Sacred Heart rink, and all players should be on hand.

ORGANIZED PRO. HOCKEY IS WEATHERING ECONOMIC STORM

Establishing of Salary Limits, Rocks, Says National Frank Calder.

Saved Ship From Running on Hockey League Prexy,

(By Frank Calder, President, National Hockey League)

Written for the Associated Press

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 14 (AP) — Organized professional hockey, both in Cananda and the United States, appears to be weathering the economic stress, through which we are passing, remarkably well.

Distress in some spots was bound to be. The foresight of the thinking element in curtailing expenditures, the establishing of salary limits, both individual and collective however, has saved the ship from running on the rocks.

Undergoing its greatest expansion in those times when financial stringency was about the last thing in sight, it was, perhaps, not surprising that when the economic tide did turn, the cost of conducting professional hockey clubs, the price of transfer of high class players and salaries paid to the outstanding stars, had reached hitherto unheard of figures.

Problem for Backers

When it is taken into consideration that hockey, unlike other major sports, must be played under a roof and therefore before a limited number of patrons, the problem of the backers of professional clubs becomes easily apparent.

Nevertheless, in spite of salary limits and salary reductions, the cost of operating a high class professional team still remains relatively high. Apart from a few outstanding stars, salaries of professional hockey players still run higher than salaries paid to the general run of athletes in other branches of professional sport — when the actual amount of playing service given for that salary is taken into consideration.

The $7,500 baseball player, for example, is likely to participate in upwards of 150 games, barring accidents. His salaried counterpart in professional hockey, on the other hand, is expected to take part in only 48 matches, each lasting at the most 70 minutes.

The progress the game has made in the United States since 1924 when the first American city, Boston, enered the ranks of organized professional hockey, has been nothing short of remarkable.

BISONS GAIN 4TH VICTORY

Defeat Tecs 6-3 to Start Stampede to Retain International League Title.

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (C.P.)—Buffalo Bisons, last year's champions of the International Hockey League, after lying dormant through the early part of the current schedule, have begun a stampede in an effort to retain their honors.

Defeating London Tecumsehs, 6-3, at London last night, the Bisons chalked up their fourth win in five starts and proved their 7-0 win over the Tecs at Fort Erie last Saturday and was no fluke. The win left them crowding the second place Londoners, with only three points separating them.

Schulz Leads Scorers

Young Norman Schulz, second string pivot man for the Bisons, led his team in their wild charge upon the London goal. Schulz scored a goal in the first period and another in the last 30 seconds of play.

Tory Gregg was London's ace, banging in two goals and getting an assist on Eric Pettinger's marker.

Buffalo's "Dynamite Twins," Lloyd Gross and Roter Roth, leading snipers of the circuit, shared two goals between them, the other pair of Bison counters going to Gamey Lederman and Carr.

Referee "Puss" Traub was treated to a shower of programmes and refuse in the last period, when he penalized Gord Fraser for five minutes. Fraser was sandwiched by Berlet and Murray, and Berlets ankle was cut by Murray's skate, Fraser drawing the penalty.

Craig Wood In Tie Caliente Golf Lead

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—Craig Wood was within reach of a grand slam of the golf tournaments of the Californians today. The big blond professional from Deal, N.J., with three victories in little more than a month, was tied for the lead in the Agua Caliente $7,500 open as play started on the last 18 of 71 holes. His stroke total for 54 holese was 217.

Stepping along with him in the vanguard was Paul Runyan from White Plains, N.Y., while Leo Diegel, making his fourth try for top prize money in his own tournament, and John Perelli, a youngster from Beverly Hills, Calif., followed a stroke behind with 218.

There was every indication of a close finish to-day, with Al Espinosa, Akron, O., and Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., only two strokes away from the front ranks with 219.

AN EARLY MORNING SURPRISE

Peter Rabbit is like a great many people in the world. He is impulsive. That is, he does a thing when it comes into his head. He doesn't take time to think it over. From the hint which Tommy Tit, the Chickadee had dropped about the Swamp where the cedar trees grow, Peter had a feeling that he might find out something about Welcome Robin there. So here he was that very night bound for that swamp. The fact that he was going there at night shows how little real thought Peter had given the matter. What could he hope to find out at night? Who was there likely to be abroad at night who would know anything about Welcome Robin? If Tommy Tit had found out anything about Welcome Robin down in that swamp it had been in the daytime, for Tommy goes to bed with the coming of the Black Shadows.

But Peter didn't stop to think of these things. He scampered across the Green Meadows and into the Green Forest, lipperty-lipperty-lip, as fast as he could go, then on through the Green Forest to that part which lies in a hollow and is protected and has in it springs which freeze only in the coldest weather It is called a swamp, and it is there that the cedar trees grow. Peter new it well.

When he got there he wandered this way and that way without finding a single soul to speak to. But for some footprints in the snow it would have been easy to believe that he was the very first living creature to visit that swamp. The footprints Peter recognized right away. There were some made by Reddy Fox but they were old and worried Peter not at all. There were some made by Billy Mink. Peter looked for these sharply, for Billy, if he should happen to be hungry, would be a dangerous neighbor to have about. But these tracks also were old and Peter felt relieved. He ran across the tracks of Lightfoot the Deer and started to follow them. But they crossed and recrossed until Peter was so mixed up that finally he gave up in disgust.

"Dee, dee," said Tommy Tit. "How are you this morning?"

Once the terrible voice of Hooty the Owl shattered the stillness of the swamp and frightened Peter so that it seemed to him that the very blood in his veins froze. Luckily for him he was sitting under the snow covered branch of a cedar tree and was too frightened to move. Presently, as he peered out fearfully he saw a great shadow sweep across the snow and knew then that Hooty had been almost overhead. Peter sat right where he was for a long, long time. He sat there until he heard Hooty's voice again and knew by the faintness if it that Hooty was far away in another part of the Green Forest. Then Peter resumed his aimless ramble until he had visited every part of the swamp and had found no one to speak to nor discovered anything of interest as he had expected to from Tommy Tit's hint.

The Black Shadows already had left the hill-tops and were beginning to creep out of the hollows and out of the swamp where Peter was when he made up his mind that he had been very silly to come there without knowing what he was coming for, and that it was high time he was starting for home. He had just turned in that direction as the first Jolly Little Sunbeams crept into the swamp. At that very instant he heard a familiar voice, the merry voice of Tommy Tit the Chickadee.

"Dee, dee," said Tommy Tit, "how are you this morning?"

Another voice which Peter also recognized, yet which he could not believe he really heard, replied: "Fine, thank you, Tommy Tit. And how are you?"

It was the voice of Welcome Robin.

NEW TRADE MINISTER.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 13 (C.P. Cable). — Lt.-Col. Thomas Walter White, member of the House of Representatives for Balaclava, and distinguished military figure of the Commonwealth, was to-day appointed Minister of Trade and Customs in the Cabinet of Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons.

Headaches and Dizzy Spells Nerves In Bad Condition

MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS

Mr. Neil Crawford, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My nerves were in such bad condition I found it almost impossible to get a good night's sleep.

I was also bothered with headaches and dizzy spells.

I tried many different remedies, but they did not seem to give me much relief, but after I had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I could hardly believe the change they had made in my condition."

For sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

"CAPRICORN"

If January 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10.15 a.m. to 11.30 p.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8.15 a.m. to 9.15 a.m. and from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

It would seem that influences operative on this January 14th will make for a good deal of confusion. Forces will be pulling in various directions and well laid plans may go "hay-wire." Time will get away from people generally and there will be more than the usual number of late-kept and broken appointments.

Born on January 14th, the child will be possessed of an extremely fiery temper. When not ruffled, these children radiate sunny and cheerful dispositions and are seldom depressed. They can usually see the funny side of any situation, regardless of its seriousness; their pleasantly sharp sense of humor will help much to maze their burdens light. You can expect results from these youngsters.

If January 14th is your birthday, you are inclined to be erratic and flighty. You are a most delightful person, and since no one can gauge at all accurately how you will react to any situation, life is full of surprises when you are about. You have many friends on whom you depend a great deal for companionship and you are constantly on the go trying to keep in touch with them all. You accept people too readily into the fold of friendship, and more frequently than you like, you discover that many of them are but the "fair-weather" type.

Born on January 14th, you are a real hustler when it comes to your business. People interest you a great deal, and you enjoy being with them. Your success seems assured in any field of endeavor where it is necessary for you to get out and around and contact people. You are a born sales-type. You are persuasive in your speech, but regardless of your talking points or manner of presentation, you "get across" because of your sincerity. People will buy from you, will listen to you, will act on your words, because of the qualities of honesty, straightforwardness, truthfulness and dependability which you express. The women born on this date are most independent, but are lacking in all egostical display. They are even-tempered and just. They always meet their obligation and take excellent care of their families.

"CAPRICORN"

If January 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8.40 a.m. to 9.50 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6.45 to 7 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11.15 a.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

More than the usual amount of irritability will be apparent on this January 15th. It will prove a noisy day generally; nerves will seem to be on edge. Quarrels and petty outbursts of temper will be visible and will not be confined to the young.

The child born on this January 15th will ever be looking for excitement of some sort. If it cannot be found look for him to stir some up on his own account. These little ones are great practical jokers and occasionally frightful teasers. Never still or idle for a moment these children if properly guided into right channels will accomplish much.

If January 15th is the date of your birthday, you fall probably into that group of persons who seldom give way to their emotions. You are an uncomplaining person; even when everything seems to go wrong, you grin and bear it. Possessed of excellent judgment, you are usually able to look well ahead, and in so doing you often head off difficulties and even disasters that others would not be able to forestall. You are inclined to be a bit restless; you like change, change of work, way of living, change of conditions of play, etc. You are not, however, a dissatisfied person, and more than likely, you are quite happy going along as you are.

Born on January 15th, you are known as an agreeable person, both in your own home and out of it. You are very definite in your likes and dislikes. You have the power of decision. Once you say something, you mean it, and what is more, you stand by it. You let your thoughts dwell too much in the past, and for this reason feel yourself strongly bound by your family, their traditions, and often by the mistakes of those from whom you came. You must seek to break this hindering belief. The women born on this date are often variable persons; one day they are full of pep and the next they are greatly lacking in energy; one minute they feel extremely happy and buoyant and the next they are depressed and blue. They seldom seem to know their own minds.

FENELLA W.I.

Members Lay Plans for Summer Session Early in June—Bale Sent West.

FENELLA, Jan. 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. W. Rogers entertained the members of the Fenella Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon for the regular meeting, when during the business period it was decided to hold the summer meeting early in June.

A bale has been sent to the West for the relief of the needy.

The program of the day consisted of community singing; roll call, answered by mother's maiden name; instrumental, Miss Eileen Rogers; reading, "Power of Character," Mrs. M. Adams; reading, "Doing Our Part," Mrs. F. Talling.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mouncey, with Mrs. M. Adams and Miss L. Clark Jibb as program leaders. A vote of thanks was given to the hostess, and the usual social half hour was enjoyed.

LUCKY CRASH—FOR CATS.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa.—A couple of truck drivers are convinced that Friday, the 13th, is unlucky, but a lot of cats in this neighborhood don't agree with them. The two trucks collided on the hoo-doo day and spilled their contents all over the street. What tickled the cats was the trucks were loaded with milk.

Voice Of The People

ANSWERS ORANGEMEN.

Dear Mr. Editor: My attention has been called to a letter signed by the West Peterborough Orange Lodge which appeared in your columns a few days ago, and which, I think, in fairness to our non-Catholic friends and neighbors, who will desire to be properly informed upon the question, calls for a reply, notwithstanding our policy to disregard a class of communications which depends upon insinuations or innuendos rather than clear statement of fact.

It has been our desire, too, that the public discussion of this question shall be carried on in a dignified, reasonable way, and the overwhelming evidence that we have received from our Protestant fellow citizens all over the province indicates that they are of the same view, and that they will not subscribe to the position taken by the letter to which this is an answer, and which is typified by the following statement: "Instead, they (the Separate School supporters) seek to win the sympathy of the Public school supporters, with the aid of The Examiner, from whom they would steal millions of dollars each year," and then they go on to say, "Father Burke said that this change would mean millions of dollars to them. If it means millions of dollars to them, it means millions of dollars taken from the Public school treasury by stealth or surreptitious means to help finance their own schools."

This, surely, is not the language in which reasonable Canadian citizens sit down together to discuss each other's problems, and it is not the attitude likely to produce that atmosphere of content and general good-will for which our Orange neighbors profess so great a desire. Neither does it reflect the sentiment of our non-Catholic neighbors, including even, I believe, a considerable section of the Orange Order, and if evidence is required to support this conclusion, it will be found in my reference in the pamphlet "Some Pertinent Facts" to the election in Toronto last year, in spite of organized Orange opposition, of four Orange municipal candidates, who had sufficient courage to support a request made by the Catholic people which appeared to them to be reasonable; if that is not sufficient, let me draw attention to the result of the municipal elections in this city this year, wherein eleven aldermanic candidates, and all, so far as I know, Orangemen, were bitterly opposed by the same element in the Orange Order and for precisely the same reason, and yet, though the Catholic vote is only one-ninth of the whole in Toronto, every single one of these men were returned by handsome votes. It would seem, therefore, that the non-Catholic people of Ontario have very definitely awakened to a realization of the need for demonstrating that their views are not reflected by that class of Orangemen whose passions are aroused by even the mention of the name "Catholic."

Let me say at once that neither Father Burke nor any other responsible person, speaking in the interests of the Separate school system of Ontario, ever made any such statement. What he did say, and, I think, with perfect justification, was that millions of dollars had been appropriated for the use of Public schools not "each year" but over the whole period that has passed since Confederation, which should have been available for the support of Separate schools. Neither did Father Burke, or any other representative Catholic, ever charge the Public school system with having obtained these large sums of money by "stealth" or by "surreptitious means," but we do say that because of a change in business methods that has come about with an ever-increasing rapidity, and in the absence of suitable amendments to the existing legislation, large amounts of taxes that should be available to Separate schools, and in earlier days were available, are now being paid to the Public school system contrary to the spirit of the original legislation.

And what was that legislation? In a word, it was that the Catholic minority of Ontario and the Protestant minority of Quebec were given the right, which was guaranteed by the Act of Confederation forever:

(a) to establish Separate schools,

(b) to have their property assessed for the support of these Separate schools,

(c) to be exempt from taxation for the support of Public schools.

These provisions are clear, simple and easily understandable, and the Catholic minority of Ontario ask for nothing more than the right to enjoy them, a right that was enjoyed so long as the form of property at the time this legislation was enacted continued.

Now let me put to my Orange friends this proposition. Assume that an Orangemen owns a house and lot worth $5,000.00. He will have no doubt that such an asset is, in every sense of the word, his "property," and let me assume that he sells this property for $5,000.00 in cash, which he places in the bank. Will he have any doubt that in the form of cash it still remains his property?

A little later on he decides to buy a block of stock in, let us say, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, for which he transfers from the bank his $5,000.00 in cash. Will he consider that in the form of stock it ceases to be his property, or will he maintain that in any form whatever, so long as he is the only individual who can control or can convert it, it is his property and his property only? Of course that will be his position, and that will be a proper position on every legal and moral ground.

But let us take the case of his Roman Catholic next door neighbor, who owns a house of the same value and whose property it is in exactly the same way. He sells it for cash, and the cash remains his property, but when he goes into the third phase of the transaction and buys $5,000.00 worth of Canadian Pacific Railway stock, it ceases to be his property insofar as assessability for the schools of his choice, and automatically becomes non-Catholic property. I have no need to ask our non-Catholic friends if they consider this situation fair. I know what their answer has been in scores of thousands of cases, and I know of not one single case where the answer is contrary to the position taken by Separate school supporters.

But my Orange friend will say you have your remedy in the amendment to the Assessment Act of 1886, which "permitted" the Directorate of a Corporation to pay to the Separate school system an amount of taxes proportionate to the amount of stock held by Roman Catholics. Well let us take the same institution as an example, namely the C.P.R. I think their last statement showed that their stock was held by 180,000 shareholders, much of it by individuals, but very large quantities of it by other corporations, and in some cases by corporations that again were owned and controlled by larger groups, and assuming that our Protestant neighbors are in sympathy with our contention that every dollar of Catholic money invested in the C.P.R. should, for the purposes of our schools, be considered Catholic "property," let me ask under what plan could the Railway ascertain the amount of such holdings? And let me add, incidentally, that this same Railway corporation did, on one occasion, endeavor to find some machinery by which such a division could be made, but without success.

This, however, is not the single weakness of the amendment to the Ontario Assessment Act, which recognized the right of Separate school supporters to have their property, in every form, assessed for the support of their schools, because the fact is that in hundreds of cases where the ownership of stock is ascertainable Boards of Directors decline, for one reason or another, to pass the necessary resolution required to give effect to the desire of Catholic stock owners, and as an example of this the writer, personally, made application to a Toronto Company for the allocation to the Separate school system of Toronto of the taxes payable on his stock in that corporation, stock which, by the way, cost him considerably over ninety thousand dollars, and was met with a flat refusal upon the ground, amongst others, that while the Asse sment Act did "permit," it did not "compel" such division, and it may be of interest to note the five reasons that were advanced at that time for non-compliance with what even the Orange Sentinel of Toronto agreed was my very reasonable request. They were as follows:

(a) "The policy of the Board on all such questions must be unanimous, and in this case it ailed of unanimity."

(b) "Industrial corporations apparently have not so far deemed it expedient to adopt permissive l gislation."

(c) "It would place additional duties and responsibilities upon companies."

(d) "There would be no resulting worthwhile gain unless such course was made compulsory."

(e) "That the legislation in this Province was permi sive and not compulsory."

It may also be of interest to note that in reply to this refusal, I wrote an open letter to the Company, which subsequently appeared in the Catholic press together with a copy of the reply signed by the President of the Company, in which he admitted that the situation as I presented it was "entirely new to him and his Directors," that "There is a great deal of fairness in your contention, and as President of our Company I assure you that I will do everything within my power to carry this matter through in the manner you suggest at our very first Board meeting."

In reading this the Orange Sentine was moved to observe that apparently "all Mr. Quinn had to do was draw the attention of the Directors to the law in order to have his request complied with," which was a very satisfactory admission, on the part of even our Orange friends, that we have some rights in that respect, and I am sure that they will be filled with righteous indignation when they learn that nearly three months later, when I pressed for the promised decision of the Board, I was told "That owing to the very great uncertainty existing in business conditions to-day it would be inadvisable to contemplate any change just at this time," so that notwithstanding the apparent concurrence in our views of every class of the community, I was unable to obtain, for the support of the schools of my choice, a share of the taxes paid by the Company, and my position in that respect is identical with the position of Separate school supporters all over the Province whose property interest in such corporations are not only not assessable for the support of their schools, as was provided by the Act of '03, but are not "Exempt from taxation for the support of Public schools," as was also provided by the same Act.

Separate school supporters are, therefore, at this time asking merely for an amendment to the Act which will insure to them, in some workable manner, the results intended to be achieved by the legislative amendment of 1886.

I would like, also, before concluding this letter, to make reference to the statement of those who, evincing little desire to be entirely fair, frequently refer to the "thousands of Catholics in the Province, who are not Separate school supporters," but who fail to give the reasons for this condition, which generally are, first, that in scores of places in the Province there have never been any Separate schools, and in all probability never will be, for the reason that Catholic citizens are not sufficiently numerous to properly support them, hence these citizens remain supporters of the Public school system. The second class will be found amongst the poorer people in the large centres who find themselves entirely unable to pay the high tax rate which, in the absence of the power to exercise our rights as set out above, constitute a heavy load for even those who are reasonably well off. For example, in Toronto the Separate school rate is nearly 70 per cent. higher than that required for the support of Public schools.

SIDELIGHTS ON RELIEF

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—After the visit of the Inspector sent by the Government the late City Council passed a resolution endorsing the Charity Board, thereby confirming its actions and assumed responsibility therefor.

The Relief Committee of the Charity Board is not doing anything nor has it ever done anything in the way of supplying shelter and clothing for single men. Admittedly, until the end of October the Relief Association had paid (direct to the landladies) $2 per week for room rent for these men and had done everything in its power to take care of the shelter and clothing side of the question in addition to the $1.50 grocery order issued by he Charity Board. But though this Board had full notice that the Relief Association would cease operations at the end of Octtober, it took no steps whatever (and has not up to he present time) to meet the contingency which then arose owing to the cessation of these payments.

Single men, who have no relatives or friends, have resided in the City for many years are of advancing years and in some cases physically incapable of hard manual labor, and are rooming or boarding out, receive a grocery order for $1.50 per week for their sole and complete maintenance which works out at 21 3-7 cents a day.

The Board knows very well and takes advantage of that knowledge that in most cases householders are too kind-hearted and charitably minded to evict these men; it trades on that knowledge and shelters itself behind the skirts of the landladies leaving the latter not only losing any profit they might legitimately make but actually out of pocket in hard cash owing to their kindness; it places the burden of keeping these men on individual members of the community who in many cases are themselves feeling the stringency of the present times.

Perhaps at the back of their minds the members of the Board had some definite idea of how this $1.50 grocery order would provide the barest necessities in the way of food shelter, clothing, fuel and other absolute necessities. It would be doing a real service to these unemployed men and satisfy public curiosity if the Board would publish a budget not in general terms, but properly and completely itemized, showing how the desired result can be obtained for the sum of 21 3-7 cents per day?

The Government regulations provide that of direct relief granted, 60 per cent should consist of food, leaving 40 per cent for shelter, clothing and every other necessity. The 60 per cent for food allowance for single men was not to exceed $1.50 per week. The single men are only getting the $1.50 representing 60 per cent of the authorized amount but are receiving nothing of the 40 per cent authorized for shelter, clothing, etc. I don't know why this payment is not made, as it is an authorized payment on which the Government grant (of $2 for one) would be paid.

What was the use of appointing those four Relief Inspectors? The disease is well known and thoroughly diagnosed. For two months the clerical staff at the Relief Office have been employed in registering the unemployed; they have had to fill in a questionnaire half a yard long issued by the Government, asking every conceivable intimate question and now the Council is spending $60 a week checking up their own investigation and further where these Inspectors go their rounds thtey are not supplied with the information thus expensively and laboriously acquired.

The disease is well known—it is a remedy that is needed—a remedy for a state of affairs which allows $2.75 a week and 25 cents for each child plus some fuel for married men and $1.50 for a single man to provide everything. This $60 a week would provide a payment for shelter—of more than $1 a week for every single man on relief—and this would be a real relief.

The claims of the landlords of houses and the medical men have been considered and action taken. Are not the landladies of these single men equally entitled to consideration? They have large sums of money owing to them and it is increasing from week to week.

It was hoped that the departure of a number of single men to the Road Construction Camp would relieve matters, but nothing has been done.

Yours truly,
Fiat Justitia.

THOSE MANUFACTURERS

The Editor of The Peterborough Examiner, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir.—Reading the report of the Relief Committee, we find children going to school without underwear. Nor is this happening in the cities alone, but in the country districts also. And out here in the country where good wool is selling at prices ruinously low, we are wondering why underwear is so high in price and so poor in quality. I bought two combination all-wool suits for a small boy, about two months ago. They bore the name of a well-known firm which howls up and down the countryside advertising the quality of its goods. Now there are holes in the knees, and as I undertake the dreary task of mending them, I wonder how much of the firm's money went to pay for advertising, how much to pay dividends on preferred stock, or to pay high salaries to executives. Certainly little of it went into the shoddy garment before me.

Another poor type of manufactured article which causes endless worry and discomfort to harassed housewives is that put out by some stove and furnace manufacturing companies. Whether they are old or new, the one thing at which they excel is smoking. A repair man comes, tinkers around, goes away, and sends a big bill, and still the smoke pours out in volumes to smart the eyes and throats of the women and children who in winter, are forced to spend so much time in the house. No, the trouble is not with the pipes or the chimney; they are cleaned regularly; it's the high-priced heating apparatus, which seems to never have had adequate inspection before it was shipped out.

There are other manufactured goods, too; cheap in everything but cost to the consumer. But enough for now.

COUNTRY-WOMAN.

RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Editor, The Examiner.

Dear sir:

It was mighty good to see in The Examiner the matter of a campaign for relief funds is being taken in hand by a Committee of Citizens backed by the City Council. No wonder. We've got a situation in hand that Mayor Denne and the Council have had to meet and I'm sure the people will respond. Pocket-books have closed up 'cause "Government should do it" for nation, province and city.

If Governments have sunk the nation in debt, so that they can not take a limitless load, it is the people's fault. The Governments are ours and for years we've been pushing them beyond their limits. They have called a halt and we must stand by them. Right here in Peterborough we've been doing the same thing. If Rotary, Kiwanis, or the Woman's Council didn't ask for a grant or urge one it was because they were too proud or had no use for that kind of a grab.

The City Council is the "elected representative of the people" and, in the circumstances, is the only fit body to centralize and guide public-spirited organization of those who can and must open their purses. Not counting the churches, there are more than fifty local associations, each with some lesser object. All are deeply interested in the city.

Why not consolidate them? Get them seriously at hard work. Let us all work and pray that this job will be done without the usual brass-band ballyhoo, or the play of one gift against another to spur others.

Our present trouble is temporary. The hardest job is to cover the next six or eight weeks. Then the breath of Spring will be here and the worst experience Canada ever had will quickly pass into history.

British Canadian.

DE VALERA TOUR ROUSES CROWDS

Claims Country Will Never Be Satisfied Till Unity is Reality.

FARMERS SEEK 10 SEATS.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 14—(CP Cable) — Demonstrations, bands and torchlights welcome President Eamon De Valera on his whirlwind campaign to the far flung west before the general election on January 24.

At Litterkenny, Donegal, a petroleum torchlight burst in a tightly packed crowd and a boy was burned. President De Valera himself helped to quell what threatened to be a stampede of frenzied people.

'Is there any Irishman at home or beyond the seas," asked Mr. De Valera in his main speech, "who believes the Irish question can be settled so long as Ireland is partitioned? No Irishman is ever going to be satisfied and feel that the end has come and that he can rest in his work so long as six counties are cut off from the Motherland.

"It may be difficult to find a solution," he continued, "but one thing we can do is say that we will never be satisfied so long as the country is partitioned If there is a final settlement in this country it must involve the unity of our countries.

The candidates of the Farmers' and Ratepayers' League, commonly known as the centre party, are pressing the need for a strong central block in the next Dail "If farmers can return ten or 12 men who will hold the balance of power in the next Dail," argued J. F. O'Hanlon, central party candidate at Sherocck, "it does not matter a row of pins whether Cosgrave or De Valera is in office."

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs about one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill this big bottle. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Havelock Friends Honor Pansy Curry

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 14. — A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Pansy Curry, whose marriage to Mr. Stinson of Dummer, will be an interesting event of this month, was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Thompson on Wednesday evening last, when a number of friends were present. Three tables of euchre were played, the prizes being won by Miss Donna Buchanan, who received a pretty powder puff holder, and Marguerite Roche, the consolation.

After the games were concluded, a short period of fortune telling by Miss Hendershott was enjoyed. A dainty lunch was then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Green.

Afterwards a large wicker clothes basket containing the presents was opened the parcels and gracefully acknowledged them. She also thanked Mrs. Thompson for her kindness in arranging the delightful surprise. After a short period of social chatter with the bride-elect, when the best wishes of all were tendered, the guests took their departure, having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Among those present at the shower were: Miss Dorothy Wright, Miss Reta Buchanan, Miss Donna Buchanan, Stella Steenburgh, Jessie Henderson, Marguerite Roche, Marie Bedford, Mrs. James Ketchen, Mrs. Abraham Aboud, Mrs. George Iles, Mrs. Will Copp, Mrs. Will Woodbeck.

The world week of prayer was duly observed by members of the several churches in very much the same way as last year, beginning on Tuesday, January 3. The first meeting was held in the United Church, the speaker, Rev. Mr. Bolton of Knox Presbyterian church, gave a most inspiring address on the necessity of collective and individual prayer. On Wednesday evening the meeting was held at St. John's Anglican church, Rev. M. E. Wilson, of the United church, (retired), conducting the service. On Thursday eveing at Knox Presbyterian, Rev. Mr. Worrall of the Anglican church, and Rev. Mr. Kemp of the United church, spoke. On Friday evening at Havelock Mission Hall the speaker was Rev. Hugh Brown, retired Presbyterian who took for his text, the 11th chapter of Matthew, 9th verse: "Ask and it shall be given unto you."

BETHANY CHURCH Y.P.S. PLANS COPPER CONTEST

BETHANY, Jan. 14 (Examiner Correspondence) — The regular meeting of the Y.P.S. of United Church was held on Wednesday evening in the church parlors with the vice-president, Bruce Beer, conducting the opening devotional exercises.

A song service was conducted by the president, Bert Monk, and on motion it was decided that a Copper Contest be followed again as formerly. The Program Committee will be composed of Misses Tanner, Marion Hall, Hazel Jackson, Miss Tanner as convenor of Missionary, and Bruce Beer and Bert Monk to compile debates.

Miss Loraine Jackson read the Scripture lesson, and the explanation was given by Miss Mary Thompson. A recitation, "A Mission of Good Cheer," by Arthur Patterson, was followed by a song by George Fallis. Miss Tanner gave the topic, which was in the form of a story, and was greatly enjoyed.

MARK STREET S.S. RAISED $576.65

At the recent annual meeting of Mark Street United Church Sunday School, presided over by the Rev. C. D. Daniel, the treasurer reported that a total sum of $576.65 had been raised, $185.41 of which had been appropriated for the building fund, and the remainder for current expenses.

Mrs. Alton, superintendent of the Cradle Roll, stated there were 70 babies on the roll; while Mrs. Harris, teacher of the Willing Workers' Class, reported an enrollment of 20. The class raised $20 for the building fund.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Superintendent, W. Gamble; assistant superintendent, L. Agnew; secretary-treasurer, Kent Throop, assistant secertary-treasurer, Wand Throop; pianist, Miss R. Doxsee; superintendent Cradle Roll department, Mrs. Alton; superintendent Primary, Mrs. W. Gamble; superintendent Beginners, Mrs. T. Hendry; superintendent Missions, Mrs. Harris; assistant superintendent missions, Mrs. C. D. Daniel; superintendent Temperance, Mr. A. J. Throop; assistant Mrs. E. Lillico.

BRYANT SCRIVER IS APPOINTED AUDITOR

Replaces A. G. Parker as Auditor for Hastings Village—Bank Agreement Read.

HASTINGS, Jan. 14 (Examiner Correspondence)—A special meeting of the village council was held on Thursday afternoon in Reeve Stinson's office.

At the inaugural session of the council held on Monday A. G. Parker was appointed auditor. On account of being on the council of 1932 it would not be legal for him to act as auditor, at the special meeting, Bryant Scriver was appointed in his place.

Reeve Stinson was in the chair with Councillors Fairman, Doherty, Fleming and Hatherly present.

By-law No. 727 to borrow the sum of $9,000 passed its first reading in open council, its second reading Mr. Fairman in the chair. Moved by Fairman, seconded by Doherty that by-law No. 727 be read the third time, signed and sealed, the reeve in the chair.

Agreement Is Read

Moved by Hatherly, seconded by Doherty that the agreement between the Royal Bank and the corporation be signed and sealed by the reeve and treasurer.

Resolution for to carry over $3,893.81 was read and moved by Fleming, seconded by Fairman that the reeve and clerk sign the resolution and attachment sent.

Moved by Fleming, seconded by Doherty that the resolution in meeting of January 9th, appointing A. G. Parker and Ed Perrault as auditors be amended to read as follows: That Bryant Scriver and Ed Perrault be auditors.

Moved by Hatherly, seconded by Doherty that the council recommend to the Hydro Commission to change 8 lights from 200 watts to 100 watts to go into effect February 1st.

Public Welfare Board

The local Public Welfare Board held a busy session on Tuesday evening in Reeve Stinson's office.

The local board have done remarkably well for the short time they have been in action, the cost for six weeks amounted to about $106 and in this amount is included two months rent. Considering that there are twenty-six people on relief it can be seen that the board are running the relief very economical.

It was decided to make an appeal for second hand clothing which may be left at the Star office until such times as a central quarter is obtained.

Anyone who can give a man a job for men or women are requested to get in touch with Walter M. Fowlds, chairman.

Congregational Meeting

The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday night in the basement of the church and was very largely attended.

Reports from the different branches of the church were read showing the church to be in a very healthy financial condition.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

Supt. of Sunday School—J. V. Findlay.

Board of Managers — Walter Humphries, Joseph Pickens, James Yule, Wm. Thompson, George Whitred, W. H. McMillan, Harold B. Wilson, James Humphries, Don Beamish.

Church Eders—Howard Fife, J. A. Brown, James Yule, W. M. Fowlds, J. E. Taylor, Wm. Whitred.

Secretary-treasurer—J. E. Taylor.

Board of Trustees—J. B. Moore, W. M. Fowlds, A. Wilson.

A. Wilson acted as chairman of the meeting and J. V. Findlay secretary.

PROPOSES SOLUTION OF R. R. PROBLEM

STUBBS' ACTIONS ARE CRITICIZED BY MAGISTRATE

Points to Trouble Which Occurred Over Fines in Case of Appeal.

FRICTION OVER TRIALS.

Clerk Claims Court Orders Went From 50 Cents to $5 —265 Issued Since 1929.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 16. — (CP) — Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs, for more than 10 years an occupant of the bench in county court, was guilty of conduct interfering with administration of justice, it was charged by Magistrate R. B. Graham, of the city police court.

Called as a witness today at an investigation by Mr. Justice Frank Ford into charges of judicial misconduct against Judge Stubbs, the magistrate said statements by the judge had made it difficult for J. A. Forlong and W. A. Irish to receive their trials on charge of perjury instituted by the attorney-general.

Other instances were cited by Magistrate Graham who read to the court remarks of a prisoner appearing for trial. The prisoner would not elect trial by magistrate or jury, witness said and demanded to be tried by Judge Stubbs.

265 Orders At $5

Records showing Judge Stubbs issued 265 surrogate court orders and received $5 for each, to which the attorney-general declared he was not entitled, were fyled by Thomas H. Jones, clerk of the surrogate and county courts.

Witness said he had served under three other judges and the fee then always had been 50c or $1.

Defence counsel objected to Jones being asked if other judges took exception to Judge Stubbs' collection of these fees, but the grey-haired jurist assented. He said, "We have gossip of prisoners and others making me out an attraction and a mecca for criminals, so this may as well go along as evidence to complete the farce."

The commissioner turned to defence counsel and expressed the hope he was not agreeing with his

THOMAS REDNER DIES SUDDENLY

Established a Business on George Street 43 Years Ago.

EFFICIENT TRADESMAN.

Thomas A. Redner, one of the city's oldest business men and something of a genius in his own line of work, died early Sunday morning at his residence 443 George street, after a brief illness. He was 75 years of age.

The passing of Mr. Redner severs another link in the chain of old established business that have stood firm in their original locations, through periods of business prosperity and also which have weathered the storms of slackness and depression.

A carpenter by trade, Mr. Redner came to Peterborough from Penelon Falls (where he was born), some forty-five years ago. Two years after coming to this city, he commenced in business as a locksmith, in the premises on George street where he has lived the greater part of his life and where he died.

He had never had any special training to fit him for the trade, at which he was regarded as one of the most efficient men in this city and district. Making locks and keys was a natural gift with him, and the opening of baffling combination vaults, in cases where the owner had mislaid the combination or from any other cause that

The Responsibility For Relief

The canvass of Peterborough's factory employees in the first Direc. Relief campaign yielded a large part of the $13,500 which was then collected.

In the present appeal this group of citizens is not generally included, although contributions are expected from every citizen who can afford to give something toward the fund.

This action transfers to the citizens of assured income and independent means the major responsibility for the success of the present appeal which is being directed by Mayor Denne and the City Council to the whole community.

On the previous occasion factory employees gave from their wages, their weekly income, for the assistance of their neighbors who were then in need. To-day many of those contributors are themselves in want. Employment has been either suspended or is so casual that many of these citizens have no surplus whatever for this winter's community fund.

It can be easily imagined that they would wish for the return of the comparative prosperity which they shared not so long ago and which enabled them to provide assistance for others who were then not so fortunate as themselves.

But out of their slender and uncertain incomes they did give generously.

Who will take their place in the present contributions that are needed more acutely than ever?

The response must come from those citizens who are in the position to make the present appeal a substantial success.

Other Ontario cities which have undergone the same industrial decline have reported comparatively large Relief Funds recently collected.

Peterborough has been one of the last of the larger communities to feel the severity of the depression.

Total contributions so far in this city have amounted only to $17,000, and many citizens now in actual need were among the citizens now in actual need were among the citizens who contributed to that sum.

Remember, that with the Goverment's "Two for One" assistance your $10 contribution is equivalent to $30.

And if you can afford $100, but withhold it, Peterborough's Relief Fund thereby loses $300.

Contributions should be sent to Frank Adams, City Treasurer.

CONSPIRACY AGAINST YOUTH IS CHARGE LAID TO NEWSPAPERS

Rev. Manson Doyle Bitterly Scores Newspapers and Magazines.

PREACHES IN CITY.

Special messages for the young people were given yesterday at George Street United Church by Rev. Manson Doyle, Field Secretary of Religious Education for the United Church of Canada, at three impressive services celebrating the Sunday School's anniversary.

In the morning the scholars of the Sunday School attended the church service in a body, occupying the main portion of the church and the Sunday School Orchestra, under the direction of W. H. Cunningham, played special music. Rev. Mr. Doyle preached an inspiring sermon, and again in the afternoon he addressed the members of the Sunday School in the church auditorium.

His message to the young people at the evening service was based on the text, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth while the evil days come not."

Conspiracy Against Youth.

"Magazines and newspapers now seem to have a conspiracy against modern youth," he stated in introducing his subject. Magazines, he said, picked a few isolated cases of youth who had gone wrong, and branded all youth as being licentious. On the other hand he charged that newspapers gave little space to the Christian activities of youth, stating that the Toronto newspapers had all but overlooked any mention

FROZEN PONDS TAKE 6 LIVES

Newfoundland Victims Drop Through Ice Softened by Mild Weather.

THREE BODIES FOUND.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Jan. 16 (C.P.)—Frozen ponds of Newfoundland, made treacherous by mild weather, claimed six lives over the week-end.

J. Verge, his wife and their adopted son, J. Wiseman, were drowned after they fell through the ice of Pope's Harbor pond, according to a report received here today from British Harbor. The three bodies were recovered.

At Summersville, Bonavista South, Clarence Dawe, son of George Dawe, was drowned, in Summers pond.

Two brothers, George and Allan Tulk, were drowned Ireland's pond, Carmanville.

RANCHER GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Widow of Friend He Shot, and Cause of Trouble, Favors Hanging.

16 YEAR "AFFAIR."

SEATTLE, January 16 (C.P.). — John T. Bibeau, middle-aged rancher, to-day faced a life imprisonment sentence for the "cat triangle" slaying of his former friend, Alfred T. Elliott, but Mrs. Elliott told officers she was of the belief he "should have been hanged."

The jury brought in a verdict convicting him of first degree murder, but tempered its findings with the recommendation that the death penalty should not be imposed. Bibeau's defence was insanity.

Informed of the decision, Mrs. Elliott, with whom he admittedly had carried on an "affair" for 16 years, expressed her feeling in no uncertain terms.

"He should have been hanged," she said. "The Bible says a life for a life. He was afraid to hang."

The shooting occurred November 25, at a ranch jointly owned by the two men, shortly after Bibeau had been released on bail from the County Jail where he had been confined for a month on a statutory charge preferred by Elliott.

The complaint was brought by Elliott after Bibeau had allegedly revealed to him, during a quarrel at their home over the putting out of a cat, his long "affair" with Mrs Elliott.

FAMED AIRMAN W.A. SPENCE DIES FORCED LANDNG

Four Passengers Hurt as Northern Blizzard Sweeps Plane Against Ice.

PRISONER PLAYS HERO.

Victim Noted as Rescuer of MacAlpine Party Three Years Ago.

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 16.—Tragedy stalked the Northland aerial trails last night.

W. A. "Bill" Spence, famed North country flier, hero of the MacAlpine rescue three years ago, is dead. Death struck the Spence plane on Friday, near Moose Lake, 45 miles northeast of here.

A blizzard in twilight forced a landing on the snow-drifted lake; a wing was ripped from the plane as it struck blocks of ice left by fishermen, and it dashed madly on to destruction. Pilot Spence met instant death, while his mechanic and three passengers, including a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer and his prisoner, were injured.

Indian runners, who had dashed over barren, snow-drifted trails, brought first word of the Spence tragedy to the "outside" Saturday. A rescue plane, with Pilot S. J. McRorie at the controls, battled storm conditions to near the scene of the tragedy, but it was not until after a four hour sleigh drive, the rescuers reached Bacon's Island, and a fishing camp where the injured had been taken. It was 11.30 o'clock Saturday night when McRorie, Dr. N. G. Trimble, of The Pas, and Sergt. P. Rose, of the R.C.M.P., reached the island. The injured were brought to hospital here by the rescue plane yesterday.

RECORD SOUGHT BY LADY BAILEY

ENGLAND-CAPE TOWN DASH

ORAN, Algeria, Jan. 16 (C.P.).—Somewhere out over the Sahara Desert an intrepid woman with influenza to-day was believed flying southward for Cape Town, on the second jump of a 6,200-mile journey she hopes will shatter the England-to-Cape of Goodhope aerial record held by Amy Johnson.

The woman, Lady Mary Bailey, noted South African aviatrix, left here at 9.50 last night, after resting a little more than six hours and seeing a doctor, who told her she was ill.

Lady Bailey left Croydon, just outside London, at 2.40 yesterday morning and made fast time to this port on the south side of the Mediterranean.

A doctor here told her she had a slight attack of influenza, but after a rest she decided to go on rather than return to England and start over again.

FROZEN EARS.

KIRKLAND LAKE.—While being prepared for a minor operation, Alex. Perron, Jr., learned his father's apartment block was on fire. Rushing from the hospital, he helped battle the blaze and then returned to go under the knife. As the doctor prepared the anaesthetic, Perron complained of sore ears.

"No wonder," the doctor said after a brief examination, "they're frozen."

ITALY EXPECTED TO STIR TROUBLE OVER SHOOTING

Claim Chinese Shot Italian Messenger After Assuring Him Safety.

AT BATTLE FRONT.

(By James A. Mills, C. P. Correspondent)

SHANHAIKWAN, China, Jan. 16. —(AP)—Italian relations with the Chinese Nationalist government were strained today because of the slaying of an Italian messenger by Chinese troops. The Italian was shot down by the Chinese as he was passing the Sino-Japanese fighting-front southwest of here. Italian authorities posted in this treaty area insisted he had been assured safe passage through the lines between Chinwangtao and Shanhaikwan. The Italian government was expected to demand satisfaction from the Chinese government at Nanking.

Japanese military authorities, meanwhile, feared they may have acted too late in attempting to block the passes of the great wall of China and thus facilitate the annexation of Jehol province to Manchukuo, the Japanese-sponsored Manchurian state.

130,000 Troops On Hand

About 130,000 Chinese troops were estimated already in the province. Ten thousand were known to have been hastened through Chumenkow, the pass of nine gates, north of here, by th eChinese General Chang Hsiao-Liang just before Japanese blocked it

Japanese planes bombed and heavily damaged a Chinese military headquarters at Kailu, in northeast Jehol, Japanese reports said today. Japanese continued a troop movement into the province from that region which appeared to be aiming to converge with other troops in this section in a drive against Jehol city, the provincial capital.

Seven Men Injured In Explosion At Fire

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Jan. 16 (C.P.)—Seven firemen were slightly hurt and are recovering to-day as the result of an explosion which last night rocked this neighborhood. A two-storey building and poolroom adjoining were wrecked by the blast and fire which followed.

The two-storey building is owned by Mrs. James Majoris, who operates a store and occupies the living quarters with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keretes. The poolroom was operated by Daniel Sainovitch. Mr. and Mrs. Keretes fled in their night attire.

Damage was estimated at $20,000. Origin of the explosion is unknown. Fire Chief Harold intimated an investigation would be held.

Chill Arctic Wind Bringing Cold Wave

WINNIPEG, Jan. 16 (C.P.). — A chill wind from Canada's Arctic rim to-day brought sub-zero temperatures to three prairie provinces as frigid winds swept Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

A temperature of 34 below at Aklawik, far northern outpost, was the lowest recorded. Battleford, in Central Saskatchewan, held the record for the prairies with a modest 34 below. Minnedosa claimed honors for Manitoba with a temperature of 34 below. In Alberta the mercury ranged from seven to 14 below.

The weather bureau this morning said the cold wave was advancing eastward, taking freezing temperatures toward Ontario, where record lows of 58 below were recorded last week.

President of C.P.R. Would Consolidate Canada's Railways

Reduction Of Mileage To The Country's Needs And a Consolidation Of Two Railways Into One System With One Management Is Proposed.

MUST LIMIT CAPITAL EXPENDITURES TO LINES WHICH ARE ESSENTIAL OR PRODUCE RETURNS

TORONTO, January 16 (Special and C.P.). — Dealing with Canada's railway problem, its effect upon national finances, and suggesting a possible solution of its difficulties, in an address before the Canadian Club here to-day, E. W. Beatty chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway delivered what may prove to be one of the outstanding public utterances of his career, and conceivably may mark a turning point in the economic history of this country. In forceful sentences he frankly placed the whole question of what to do about the railways squarely before the people of Canada.

Mr. Beatty briefly reviewed the history of past attempts that have been made to cope with the problem, attempts which, he said, had failed because considerations of political expediency had been the yard-stick by which suggested remedies had been tested. He referred to Lord Shaughnessy's proposal of 1921 and the Senate inquiry of 1925. Had the remedial suggestions resulting from either of these been applied he said the country would nave been saved hundreds of millions of dollars. Referring to the Duff Commission report, Mr. Beatty said that here again political expediency had appeared in that its recommendations were partly based on their own estimate of public sentiment towards the questions of public ownership competition, and railway monopoly

In proposing a solution of the problem, he laid it down that there was no basis upon which there could be fair competition between a private company and a railway system backed by the long purse of the state, and that between two railways there could not be competition and co-operation at the same time.

Mr. Beaty's Solution

Mr. Beatty's solution was a reduction of mileage to the country's needs and he proposed a consolidation of the railways into one system with one management.

"In my opinion," he said, "we must not only limit our capital expenditures to those that are essential or that will produce a reasonable return in the near future, but we must reduce our present mileage to accord with the actual needs of transportation and of national devolpment. We must at the same time eliminate all expendidures designed to secure traf-

BILLS FOR RELIEF TO GOVERNMENT 50 PER CENT HIGH

Sturgeon Falls Mayor Admits Agreement Properly Carried Out Only One Month.

LET "CAT OUT OF BAG."

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Jan. 16 (C.P.).—The town of Sturgeon Falls billed the Government for 50 per cent more than it paid out in relief, the Royal Commission investigating relief disbursements to-day was told by the former Mayor of this town, Zotique Mageau.

In only one month, September, had the "strict letter" of the relief agreement been carried out, he said. Landlords had agreed to accept only the two-thirds of the relief payments paid by the Government.

According to Mr. Mageau, the town and the Government had agreed a certificate that accounts had been paid must accompany all accounts rendered the Government. An exception, he said, had been made in the case of rents, and in only the one month had the rents been paid before the Government was billed. "That's the month we got caught," he said, referring to the visit of Government investigators who had checked the town's relief payments.

Many of the names of those on the relief list were unknown to him, he said. Most of the names were those of people who could not be identified by Joseph Cote, relief officer, who testified Friday.

MOSQUE MARKS SPOT

JERUSALEM, Dec. 26. — The Mosque of Omar is built on the spot where once stood the Temple of Israel. It is a huge terrace standing above the multitudinous old city. In fact, the bazaar with its labyrinthal maze of streets and alleys is located in the crypts of this structure which was erected by King Solomon.

Upon entering the tranquil gardens that surround the mosque it seemed to me that I had suddenly stepped out of a world of reality and was entering a new and unexplored realm. The roar of cities and the clash of nations seemed far off, back in some disturbing, nebulous and half-forgotten past. It was like a dream. The past seemed a hazy prophecy.

In this cloisteral stillness only the cypress trees swished softly and the moss-covered stone whispered the names of the ancients who

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 16. — (C.P.).—Eight St. Louis banks failed to open to-day, making a total of 16. Banks with aggregate deposits exceeding $15,000,000, closed in the city and St. Louis County within the last 12 days. Most of the closed institutions were small neighborhood banks.

In each case, the decision of directors to close was attributed to recent withdrawals by depositors and the action taken was declared to be for the depositors' protection.

Sprayed By Flames Pair Leap To Death

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 16 (A.P.)—A husband and wife plunged to their deaths after an explosion of a shellac mixture which was being heated on the kitchen stove sprayed the couple with flaming liquid.

The husband, Joseph Graus, 23, a paper-hanger, was stirring the mixture when it exploded. His clothing was doused with the liquid and caught fire.

He ran into an adjoining room and dived to the ground one floor below. He was killed in the fall.

His wife, Lottie, who was also sprayed by the exploding shellac, followed him to his death from another window.

BARTER SYSTEM BY USING SCRIPS AIDS BUSINESS

College President's Plan of Bartering With Scrip Stimulating Business.

NOT PRINTED MONEY

Scrip Actually Plays Minor Role in New Method of Exchange.

By M. O. CHENOWETH
Central Press Canadian Driter.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., Jan. 16 —Bartering and "swapping" instead of selling, 1,600 residents of this village have sighted a gleam of hope through the gloom of hard times in the up-hill fight to stimulate commerce and busines sthrough the use of scrip.

As if stamped with the gold eagle, scrip is spassing freely from hand to hand in these parts. It goes from the worker to the retailer, from the retailer to the manufacturer, and to complete the cycle, back to the worker once more.

Despite the ready circulation, scrip actually plays a minor role in this new method of exchange. It is primarily a system of barter, of goods for goods, services for goods and vice versa, with scrip being used more as a credit receipt—to cover the gap left by an unequal exchange of goods or services.

Three Months Old

Although in operation only three months, the system is running smoothly. But, as yet, the plan cannot be termed a complete success. Even the originator of the idea will attest to that.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan president of Antioch College, is credited with founding the new credit system that is steadfastly finding favor among inhabitants of Yellow Springs and students of the college.

"Give us about three years," says Dr. Morgan. "Then we can tell better whether this idea is a success."

Dr. Morgan has no illusions concerning the possibilities of the scrip plan. He knows its limitation, and does not regard it as being a substitute for negotiable currency.

The goal sought by the function of the system, Dr. Morgan says, is the revival of commerce, the rapid movement of goods and services, and the easing of frozen sources of credit. He believes his scrip plan, if it wins the wholehearted approval of the residents, will do just that, and possibly more.

Not Printed Money

Concisely, Dr. Morgan tells of his plan in this manner:

"Scrip, as used here, is not printed money, but instead a negotiable receipts for goods or services. It is not a system in itself—merely a convenience to eliminate book-

DEAN SCANLON PASSES AWAY

Been Parish Priest at Grafton For Over 31 Years.

BORN IN HALIFAX.

Rev. Dean T. F. Scanlon, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Grafton for twenty-six years, died suddenly of heart failure at his home on Sunday.

Born in Halifax, October 28, 1857, Dean Scanlon was educated in that city and subsequently at Laval University, Quebec, and the Grand Semiriary, Montreal, where he completed his studies and preparation for the priesthood.

He was ordained priest in the Basilica, Quebec city, in 1892, and coming to the diocese of Peterborough was for a time curate at St. Peter's Cathedral when Rev. Archdeacon Casey was parish priest, and Bishop R. A. O'Connor was the head of the diocese. His later appointments transferred him to Lindsay, Downeyville and Douro. A Cobourg report to-day gave the information that Dean Scanlon had been pastor at Grafton for twenty-six years, but locally this period was said to have been thirty years. He is survived by two sisters who reside in Boston.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock at Grafton.

Claims Agitators Are Upon Pay Roll Of Soviet Russia

Communism Is Not The Answer To The World Difficulties, Ontario's Premier Declares—Points To Condition In Land Of U.S.S.R. As Example.

FORGET TECHNOCRACY, OTHER PANACEAS PEOPLE ADVISED OF CONSERVATIVE RALLY.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—Reiterating his belief that there are a number of individuals in Canada who are in the pay of Soviet Russia and who earn their pay by endeavoring to stir up unrest among the unemployed and suffering citizens. Premier Henry told East York Conservatives on Saturday that Communism was not the answer to the difficulties of the world and appealed to them to forget about technocracy and all the other panaceas.

"Communism is no cure for our ills," declared the Premier to the gathering of 400 in R. H. McGregor school where the annual election of officers took place. "Read the books on Russia; go to lectures and hear yourselves about the conditions that prevail in that country. You people seeking a new economic era, moment the sufferings and hardships which are being undergone by a people seeking a new economic era. Their's is not a democracy, it is a bureaucracy with the power of government in the hands of a few men who are not answerable to the will of the people. The people have no voice in the affairs of the country.

"I have said it before, and I say it again, there are persons working among those who are suffering and who are in the pay of Russia and it behooves us, as British subjects, as people of a race that has proven itself in times of need, to turn a deaf ear to these propagandists and to do all in our power to make the suffering people see that these agitators won't do anything for them except to earn the pay they receive from Russia."

Raps Technocracy

In a brief reference to technocracy, which he described as the latest cure-all for the ills of humanity, Premier Henry said it was another fallacy which a hard-pressed world was asked to listen to and believe in.

"You can do anything with figures," asserted the Premier. "I once remember hearing a veteran municipal officer say that figures won't lie, but liars will figure," remarked the Premier amid laughter.

Dealing with the economy policy of the Ontario Government, Mr. Henry referred to the fact that last year 500 temporary and permanent servants left the service. Some were superannuated, some died and the remainder took up other forms of employment. To replace these em-

U.S. PROHIBITION IS 13 YEARS OLD

Anniversary Finds Congress Group Meeting to Act on Bill Legalizing 3.05 Beer.

DRYS RELY ON HOOVER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(A.P.)—Prohibition is 13 years old in the United States to-day.

As the wets, saying they are motivated by the events of the November elections, organize in Congress to abolish prohibition, the drys, asserting the elections were not indicative of the will of the people, organize equally as determinedly to retain prohibition.

The 13th anniversary found one committee in Congress meeting to act on a bill legalizing 3.05 beer and wine. Democrats said it would be approved speedily by that committee and by the Senate. Dry planned no drive against it, being confident, they said, that President Hoover would veto such a measure.

Since Congress convened in December this has happened:

An outright repeal resolution was defeated in the House by six votes; a bill legalizing 3.2 beer was passed by the House and then redrafted by a Senate committee to provide for 3.05 beer and wine; a resolution repealing the 18th amendment, but also affording protection to dry States and giving Congress power to ban saloons was approved by a Senate committee and now is on the calendar there for action.

With Democrats solidly behind the move to leagilze beer, sponsors asserted such legislation would surely pass—its chief hazard being the growing legislative jam piled up by the current filibuster in the Senate over the banking bill.

CHILD 6, BIDDING FAIR TO RIVAL FAMED GIANT OF CAPE BRETON

Heckman's Island Lad Weighs 130 Pounds, With Man's Strength—Intelligent Beyond Years.

MacASKILL RECALLED.

MacAskill was a youth when he replaced a sick horse in the traces and teamed with the remaining animal before the plough for two hours, but Harry Heckman of Heckman's Island worked alongside his father in the fields when he was five years of age.

Harry is just six. He weighs 130 pounds, stands four feet three inches and measures 38 inches around the chest. He gained 30 pounds in less than a year.

He has the strength of a man and can do a man's work with ease. His brain has developed almost as rapidly as his body, and he is intelligent far beyond his years.

500 Pound Giant

But if Heckman is to reach the fame of MacAskill he will have to equal some tall stories in later years. MacAskill stood seven feet nine inches, measured three feet across the shoulders, had palms six inches wide and weighed 500 pounds.

Born in the Hebrides in 1825 he moved with his parents to St. Ann's, Cape Breton. It was in St. Ann's that he grew up and startled neighbors with feats of strength, gained fame which later spread around the world as he travelled on show and held Tom Thumb, his partner, on the palm of his hand.

One day when a pugilist called MacAskill a coward because he did not wish to fight, the giant said: "All right, my friend, but let us shake hands."

They did shake hands, and according to James D. Gillis, MacAskill's biographer, the Cape Bretoner squeezed the pugilist's hand until blood flowed from the finger tips. That took the pug out of the pugilist.

When MacAskill was in England he received an invitation to visit the Queen. At Windsor castle he did not perform feats of strength, but Gills says that when he left, "the carpet, though thick and strong, was cut here and there in the bread cutter fashion by the heels of the giant."

Tallest to Enter Palace.

The Queen said afterward that he was the tallest, the stoutest and the strongest man who ever entered the palace.

A few years later MacAskill picked up a 2,700 pound anchor on a New York pier. As he dropped it one of the flukes caught his shoulder. He recovered from the injury but his great physique was wrecked.

For some years afterward he conducted a store at St. Ann's. He died on August 8, 1863, aged 38.

Gillis says the wood of MacAskill's coffin, when it was ready for dressing, "was sufficient to bear or float three men across the bay of St. Aun's."

MacAskill smoked. One of his pipes, which will hold one-sixth of a pound of tobacco, still is preserved in Cape Breton. He drank, too. For whisey, brandy or rum he used "a wooden dish called a tub." One of his boots, still in existence, is 18 inches long.

Over four hundred plants in Canada make non-alcoholic carbonated beverages, almost every town having its soft-drink plant, and total production from the aerated waters industry was valued at $13,064,353 in 1931.

Beautiful Montreal Church Prey To Flames

Razed to a smoking ruin by a spectacular $450,000 fire, Montreal on Thursday witnessed the destruction of one of its most beautiful churches when the St. Louis de France was destroyed. Many priceless relics were burned to ashes in the spectacular blaze. Twice in 1925, fire-bugs attempted to destroy the edifice. It has not been decided yet the cause of Thursday's fire.

YOUNG CABINET IS CONSIDERED BY ROOSEVELT

AIMS TO HAVE FREE HAND.

Veteran Senator Glass, Walsh Sure of Berth—Young May Be Left Out.

(By Francis M. Stephenson, A.P. Staff Writer.)

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Jan. 16 (AP) —President-elect Franklin Roosevelt of the United States is seriously considering the persistent advice of friends to employ a youthful Cabinet. This idea was advanced first by the elder statesman, Col. E. M. House, intimate of Woodrow Wilson. His point of steering clear of "Us old Doro Birds" has been impressed frequently since.

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt feels free to pick his own Cabinet. None other than William C. McAdoo, Senator-elect from California whose announcemetn at the Chicago convention cleared the way for Roosevelt's nomination, is backing up the claim for a free hand in Cabinet selection. He was an overnight guest here.

The President-elect, nevertheless, is resting strongly on the wisdom of some of the party men of tested knowledge such as Senators Glass of Virginia and Walsh of Montana. He would welcome their entrance into the Cabient, it is understood.

The same process which is turning him to younger America is believed to have eliminated such veterans as Owen D. Young of New York, and Newton D. Baker of Ohio, the war-time Secretary of War.

Mr. McAdoo, who said he came up here to talk over things in general, concluded his first visit with Mr. Roosevelt since the election early to-day and turned back toward California before taking over his Senatorial duties on March 4.

Fox Tail In Flower Campbellford Garden

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Summer weather conditions still prevail in some of the Campbellford gardens as was seen on Saturday when Thomas Pope plucked from his garden on the side of the river a flowering fox tail. The plant was in perfect condition, untouched by frost and measured three feet in height.

Through Infinity

This unusual picture catches Raymond Quilter, son of Sir Cuthbert Quilter, diving head first from a plane at Brooklands aerodrome, England. Nonchalantly he adjusts his goggles with one hand while clutching the parachute ring with the other, getting ready to pull it and float down to earth.

The Tailor Won

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 16.—(AP) — Charles Blanchard of the Oakland Fire Dispatch Patrol paid $8.50 to a tailor for a pair of new pants. The tailor promised they would be ready in five days.

Day after day passed. First the pants, the tailor said, had the stripes on the wrong side, then the stripes were too narrow. After many days delay, Blanchard had the tailor into court and got his money back.

As they left the courtroom, however, the tailor talked so eloquently that Blanchard purchased the pants all over again. The tailor promised to have them finished—in five days.

Meeting To Protest Deer Hunting Laws

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — A public meeting is being called for Monday, Jan. 23, to be held at Warkworth, for all those interested and favoring the repeal of the laws prohibiting the using of dogs for deer hunting. The meeting is called for 7.30 and will be held in the community hall. F. J. McArthur, M.P.P., of Cobourg, will be one of the speakers and it is expected that M. Robinson, secretary of the Hunters' and Fishers' Protective Association of Toronto will also address the gathering.

Attendance Drop Expected

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The price of admission to one of Chicago's best shows it to get yourself knocked on the head, robbed or otherwise mistreated.

Otherwise you can't come to Chicago's police show-up at which criminals are paraded before their victims for identification.

For years persons not victims of crime have been attending just for entertainment, but the police announced that from now on only victims of crime would be admitted. They said the entertainment idea was spoiling the show for the purposes for which it was intended. .....

TORCH SLAYER HUNT IS ENDED

London Builder is Arrested Only to be Rushed to Hospital From Cell.

POISON SYMPTOMS.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 16. (AP)—The case of Samuel Furnace, accused torch slayer, took another dramatic turn to-day when the prisoner, who spent the night in a cell in a Kentish-Town (north London quarter) police station, was found ill in his cell.

He was hurried to hospital in what was declared a serious condition. He was reported suffering internaly with symptoms apparently suggesting some form of poisoning.

The 39-year-old builder, who hid out in a south end boarding house, reading detective stories while Scotland Yard searched for him, was accused by police of murdering his friend, Walter Spatchett.

One of the most involved recent murder mysteries of London almost had the famous Scotland Yard baffled during the past two weeks since Spatchett's burned body was found by firemen called to put out a blaze in Furnace's workship.

The father-in-law, brother and two friends of Furnace identified the body as his and a search was begun for Spatchett, a rent-collector. Later it was decided to check on the identification, whereupon it was determined that Spatchett was the man slain.

A post-mortem also revealed that three bullet wounds in the body could not have been self-inflicted.

Furnace was arrested yesterday by two Scotland Yard operatives.

GLASS EYED SNAKES

London, Eng.—Several snakes at the London zoo are regarding spectators with a glassy stare. They lost their eyes in accidents of various kinds—and the keepers fitted them with glass ones. The only trouble is that every time the snakes shed their skins, the eyes pop out and have to be fitted back in again. Try that on a—boa constructor!

EXPENDITURES DOWN.

Million Dollars Worth of Gold Moved Every Ten Days.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—Filed at Queen's Park for depositing with the Ontario Legislature immediately the 1933 session opens, George W. Lee's (chairman's report on the 1932 operations of the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway discloses that, despite the general depression and slackening of business by the country at large the road had a net operating surplus for the year of $473,085; it has been "fully maintained" and the roadbed and equipment kept up "to the Commission's high standard of efficiency," and, in addition, the sum of $240,000 was paid out to provide for matured interest on its debenture bond issue of $6,000,000.

Has Faith in Future

"It is sincerely hoped and expected" says Mr. Lee in the report, "that an upturn in general conditions will be made manifect during the coming year and that we shall gradually, if slowly, ultimately return to normal. The Commission's faith in the future of the territory served by the railway is as sincere and unbounded as ever, and with the assured support of the public, who own the undertaking, and the continued co-operation of the employes, they look forward with a confidence born of experience and fulfilment of achievement."

Mileage operated at the close of the fiscal year was 691.33. Gross revenue from all sources in 1932 showed a decrease of $1,019,419.08 (20.65 per cent.) as compared with 1931, and a decrease in gross expenditure of $556,707.25 (13.9 per cent.) compared with 1931; while the net revenue was decreased by $462,711.80 (49.44 per cent.).

Dividends

"Indicating the value of the several mining areas within the territory directly served by the T. and N.O., it is of interest to record" says Mr. Lee, "that total dividends paid by this industry to the end of 1932 are as follows:

Cobalt, etc—
Silvers	$105,444,883.10
Porcupine, Timmins, etc—
Gold	90,766,937.37
Kirkland Lake—
Gold	41,607,936.10
Total	$237,819,756.57

The average shipments of gold bullion over the railway from Porcupine and Kirkland Lake now amount, he points out, to $1,000,000 every ten days.

The T. and N.O., Mr. Lee claims, has "stood the strain" remarkably well. Reduction in employment has been kept "at a minimum." Economy in train movements, consequent upon the changed conditions, was undertaken, he says, to meet the situation, although the requirements of the public were "fully served in all lines." A saving in cost of operation was also effected, which, to a degree, offset the decline in volume of business, "without affecting the efficiency of operation."

PAINFUL TRICK

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Raymond Woods, 21, tossed popcorn grains into the air, caught them in his mouth and suddenly fell unconscious. When revived, his right side was paralyzed and his power of speech gone. Examination disclosed a dislocated vertebra in the neck. When it was put back in place Woods returned to normal.

Richest Heiress of U. S. Declares She is Restless

BARBARA HUTTON

By Central Press Canadian

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—"I'm very restless, but not unhappy," admits 19-year-old Barbara Hutton, heiress to $50,000,000 of the fabulous Woolworth fortune, who has just returned to New York from one of her many trips abroad. She travels from one country to another, seldom occupying any of her palatial homes in America.

"I seldom stop at the same place for more than a month. I simply keep moving, living in one hotel or another. I never get tired of life or bored with it, as there is usually something novel or interesting wherever I go.

"I am always happy when I am alone. I've been alone a good deal of my life, since mother died when I was 3 and father is naturally absorbed a great deal by business affairs.

"Of course I'm not as independent as people imagine. For instance, I always have to ask father's permission before I go on a trip. Often he tells me I ought to stay at home, but I think I ought to see as much of life as possible."

Apparently too busy to think of marriage, Miss Hutton blasted another rumored romance by denying she is engaged.

A good horsewoman and an excellent swimmer, Miss Hutton doesn't care much for parties, but occasionally attends one. She gives away large sums to charities and likes to collect old furniture.

This attractive young woman, who often wears large diamond earrings, admitting they are paste, doesn't want to appear rich. But she is reputed to be the wealthiest girl in America.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

AN ATTRACTIVE EVENING BAG of fabric, made on the principle of a bill fold, with tasselled end, and narrow handle to slip over the wrist, is a handsome and useful accessory which any woman who plies a needle can make.

* * * * * * *

This bag also offers opportunity to lovers of embroidery, and the design recommended for either cross stitch or filet, is the floral border, with a motif, which is beautiful worked in red and black, gold and blue, or black and white.

* * * * * * *

The bag can vary in dimensions and be made to accommodate a vanity, handkerchief, bills and change. As it hangs on the wrist, the handle and tassel make it appear longer than the seven and a half inches which the bag actually measures without the handle and tassel.

* * * * * * *

The width when folded is 3 inches, but when opened full the width measures nine inches. Cut the outside and first lining eight by nine and a half inches, thus allowing seams all around.

* * * * * * *

Cut the pocket portion fifteen and a half by nine and a half inches, and fold to make it eight by nine and a half inches. To this pocket portion attach another double portion thirteen by nine and a half inches.

* * * * * * *

Fold to make six and a half by nine and a half inches. Put both folded pocket portions together with open ends on a line. Seam the smaller portion to the larger one with two vertical parallel rows of stitches spaced to make four small pockets when all linings and outside portion are positioned and stitched together.

* * * * * * *

A flap of lining material folds over the top of the pockets inside the bag, being stitched between the bag itself and the lining material. The bag has a soft handle of a straight piece of silk or ribbon, which measures four and a half inches when secured in a loop to suspend from the wrist.

* * * * * * *

The piece before folding and inserting is nine inches long. It is caught in the centre of the top of the first and second sections of the opened bag. This brings the sides of the handle together when the bag is closed.

* * * * * * *

The trifold fabric bag is prevented from opening, when not needed to do so, by two sets of snap dress-fastenings in the upper and lower corners of the first and second sections.

* * * * * * *

A long silk tassel, or one of beads, is fastened so that it will fall from the centre of the closed bag. In the selection of this, the prevailing colors in a costume may be consulted.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Measles is one of the diseases which are called "neighborly diseases." For the reason that it appears in neighborhoods or in a single room in school.

Of all contagious diseases, it is probably the most contagious. It is almost certain that anyone who has never had measles and who is exposed to it will take it.

It is transmitted entirely by human contact—from one sick individual to another. Inasmuch as the most contagious time of the diseases is in the early stage, when the patient is coughing and sneezing, and before the eruption or redness of the eyes have appeared, it is an extremely difficult disease to control.

Don't treat measles with contempt. You may treat it with a great many remedies, but contempt should not be one of them. In spite of the fact that nearly all people have it at one time or another in their lives, and that in most instances it runs a mild course, it can be very severe in its manifestations, and even fatal.

Therefore, children who have been exposed to a case of measles should be watched carefullly until the incubation period of ten days is over, and at the first sign of fever, or redness of the eyes, or cough, they should be put to bed.

The most dangerous method of treating measles is to do what I mentioned above, treat it with contempt, and allow the child to exhaust itself by moving around. The great safeguard is rest in bed, a light diet, and isolation.

After the onset of fever, which is usually the first manifestation, the symptoms appear in the typical case in the following order: Count them out on the fingers of your hand. On the little finger is fever. On the next finger, twelve hours later, comes the beginning watering of the eyes. On the next finger, twelve hours later, there is marked redness and soreness of the eyes, with a runny nose, cough, bronchitis, and extreme discomfort (the symptoms grouped together called "catarrh"). On the forefinger twelve hours later, appear little spots in the mouth called "Koplik's spots". On the thumb, thirty-six hours after this, the rash appears. At this time the temperature usually falls and the patient feels very much better generally.

There is no special treatment for measles. It probably runs it course more or less uninfluenced by treatment. The eyes and nose should be kept clean with saturated boric acid solution, the eyes should be protected from light, and the patient should be kept in bed on a very light diet.

After the subsidence of the eruption, the measles patient can be said to be non-contagious. In other words, the quarantine period of measles is very short, and the patient may be allowed to go out and mingle with other people with the full assurance that there is little or no danger of contagion. Nor are the objects which the patient has touched during the illness likely to be contagious if they are aired, sunned and washed. This is not the case with scarlet fever, which has a long quarantine period, and in which the objects which the patient touches are contagious for a long period.

All Paths Point to Human Survival, Opines Hungarian Student of Ghosts

Strange Things Told by One Who Tracks Down Spirits.

THE RESTLESS SPIRIT

BY A. JOHN KOBLER, JR.
(Central Press Writer)

London, Jan. 16—Dr. Nandor Fodor, visitor to London from Hungary, the stronghold of die-hard ghosts and vampires, is a strange man.

His life work is a systematic study of ghosts and their habits. He can answer with confidence to such questions as: What are the true facts about ghosts and spectres? When and where do they walk and talk? What are the most recent findings concerning haunters and haunted?

A Student of Ghosts

To these and many more questions Dr. Fodor has given answers to a fascinated but slightly bewildered London. For 10 years this sinister Hungarian ghost-layer has occupied himself in an eerie and unrelenting study. He has gathered together a vast encyclopedia of genuine facts regarding psychical research. His work covers every branch of the subject in the new world and the old, from the Angels of Mons and the spirit stories of Europe to uncanny disappearances and aerial journeys of mediums and inanimate objects.

Dr. Fodor's curious work is in the last stage of completion, and hard-headed scientists all over the world are waiting for its appearance.

Dr. Fodor, an old man, with great vitality and enthusiasm, speaks of his ghosts with a perfectly matter-of-fact tone. He insists that his work has taken as much practice and training as any of the more trusted professions.

"I have always been intrigued," he told me, "by the bizarre and the unknown. After studying 30 years of psychic literature I have found that all paths point to a human survival."

Ghosts and haunted houses are only a side subject of Dr. Fodor's but they are the first phases of the psychic about which people ask.

The Restless Spirit

"The commonest ingredients," says the doctor, "of ghostly recipes are ancient houses and a restless spirit. The first afford a link with the past; the second is caused by remorse, shock or violent death.

"Manifestations vary greatly. Strange noises are heard, objects are displaced, lights are seen, and the air grows chilly, occasionally unbearable smells pervade the room, an evil influence imparts feelings of unspeakable horror, and phantoms, both men and animals, appear in different degrees of solidity.

"Subjective or objective, they are usually harmless and aimless, and act like sleepwalkers.

"Animals can apparently haunt or be haunted, just like human beings."

Dr. Fodor's statements recalled the case investigated by Sir Oliver Lodge of a certain major in Perthshire. The major announced that when he died he was going to have his spirit enter and possess the body of a pet spaniel. The idea so alarmed his family that all the dogs were shot at his death, but nevertheless the ghost of a black spaniel was seen about the house by the terrified family.

Many Explanations

According to Dr. Fodor, there are many explanations of ghostly manifestations. They are so varied that they could not be fitted into a single category. Nor are there specially haunted areas of the world, and there are not more male ghosts than female. Usually, however, men were the wrongdoers and women the victims.

If you need a departed person very badly, or if you love him or her a great deal, the spirit can be brought back. Likewise, too much grief, violence, or crime can be harmful, and retard the unfettered advance of the departed soul.

There are some ghosts who can physically injure the living, and Dr. Fodor relates instances of dogs who came to violent ends in haunted houses.

In Great Britan, says the doctor, there are 150 haunted houses, despite the fact that Longfellow wrote:

"All houses wherein men have lived and died
Are haunted houses. Through the open doors
The harmless phantoms on their errands glide
With feet that make no sound upon the floor."

Experimental Science

Concerning the laying of haunters, Dr. Fodor said:

"It has now become an experimental science. Rescue circles are formed. They sing hymns, recite prayers, and with the aid of some courageous medium, and often after a fierce and weird battle of intellect, inform the spirit of its earth-bound conditions.

"There are, too, earth-bound spirits who have no definite locality, but rescue circles can reach them, dispel their terrors and illusions, and help them."

The major announced that when he died he was going to have his spirit enter and possess the body of a pet spaniel.

After his death the ghost of a black spaniel was seen around the house.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: My skin is quite badly infested with blackheads, and I have been advised to steam it with hot towels before cleansing it, in order to open the pores. Do you think this is a good plan, and would it facilitate the removal of the blackheads?

"DOTTY."

I personally do not favor the use of hot towels on the face, as such treatment is far too harsh for the tender facial skin.

If you steam and scald your face with hot towels, the muscle fibers of the skin will become weakened, and the facial muscles will grow relaxed and flabby.

The purpose of hot towels is, as you say, to open the pores so that the dirt in them may be more easily removed. But this can be accomplish in a much safer manner. Gently massaging the skin for a few minutes with a good liquifying cleansing cream is sufficient to soften the skin and effectively open the pores.

And a soap and water cleansing after that will serve to remove the extraneous matter that distends the pores.

"Dear Miss Glad: I certainly am glad that I sent for that 'Beauty Culture' booklet of yours, for since I've been following your instructions my skin has improved no end. Those blackheads and pimple are all gone now, and my skin feels smooth and velvety. However, I acquired a tan during the summer that becomes me a great deal. The only difficulty is that it doesn't extend far enough down my back as the decolletage of my evening gowns. Is there anything I can do about that?

"BLONDIE."

There are two courses open to you. If the tan becomes you, you can go to a reliable beauty shop and have the fair portion of your back tanned by means of light rays. Your back will then be of an even tan that will extend sufficiently far to suit your gowns. If you choose this course, be sure that you have the tanning done by an expert, however. Also, you can purchase a powder that matches the dark part of your skin, and blend it lightly over the dark skin, and heavily over the untanned portion.

Dear Miss Glad: I have a very round, full face, and have been told that I wear necklines that just seem to emphasize this fullness. Do necklines really affect the facial contours? And what sort of necklines do you think I should wear?

"MYRNA."

Necklines do, inded, affect the appearance of the face. If your face is round and full, you should avoi rounded necklines, for they will only enhance the width of your face. For you, oval or V-shaped necklines are more flattering. They will make your neck appear longer and more slender, and will help to reduce the apparent width of your face. Rounded necklines should only be adopted by thin-faced damsels.

Although those popular, wide, frilly collars do create an impression of daintiness, I would advise you to forego them, also, for they will only exaggerate the broadness of your face. Narrow collars are just as smart, and if kept immaculately clean, will add just as much daintiness to your appearance.

of the great Christian Youth Conference held in Toronto in 1930 and attended by 2,000 young people from all parts of the Continent to study the Christian life.

"Anyone who attended that convention must have been tremendously impressed by the clear thought those young people were giving to life's problems," he said. "It was a bona-fide gathering of Christian youth, yet our magazines were silent upon it."

Last year leadership had been stressed as the object of Christian work among young people, and this year it is enlistment, he said, and already there has been a great response and an increasing and strengthening of Christian belief.

Turning to Church Work.

"The answer to this attitude of the newspapers of pointing out the degradation of youth can be exemplified in the increasing number of highly educated young people who have gone into Christian work at home and in foreign lands for which they know they can secure little or no remuneration.

"Ten thousand men pass through High School with high standing, live good lives, and make a living, and the newspapers do not mention it. There is no news in that. But one of these 10,000 makes a mistake and his name is instantly in the headlines of the newspapers."

Rev. Mr. Doyle said that he was not overlooking some of the things that modern youth is proving a prey to, but that he was passing this phase over, because he had worked with young people in conferences and at summer camps, and knew how keenly the majority of them are actively preparing themselves to meet life's responsibilities.

More Praise Necessary.

He agreed with one mother that children should be praised more. "I don't think youth can get any help from a negative attitude," he said.

A great deal but not too much was being done to-day to help youth with their problems and prepare them for adult life. "Never previously were there such educational advantages almost free of cost," he said, in advising young people to take advantage of every idle moment to study and increase their abilities.

He warned, however, that never at any time before was the attention of youth so eagerly bid for as now by those who would exploit them. A survey in one city showed that its amusement leaders were not only unfit, but were ready to debauch youth for their own profit.

Modern youth, he said, must put up a real moral fight to combat such influences, and temptations must be overcome at the time that it is greatest.

Cecil Wasson and James Goldie, leaders of the Young People's Society, assisted in the evening service.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

HOW SHOULD BIDDING GO?

The hand shown below caused considerable discussion in Baltimore, under the conditions when it appeared. How would you have bid each of the hands.

	♠ 7 5 ♥ A K 10 8 7 6 2 ♣ 7 5 ♦ A 7
♠ 4 3 ♥ Q J 9 5 3 ♣ K J 8 4 ♦ 4 2	Y A B Z	♠ A K 8 2 ♥ 4 ♣ A Q 10 9 6 ♦ Q 8 6
	♠ Q J 10 9 6 ♥ None ♣ 3 2 ♦ K J 10 9 5 3

Each side had won a game. A-B could go out on any successful contract of three of a minor suit or two of a major suit or no-trumps. Y-Z needed three-odd of any suit or two-odd at no-trumps for game and rubber. Partial scores are the worst possible places to open the bidding, especially when both sides happen to be vulnerable. A bad distribution and a doubled contract may cost more than giving the rubber to the opponents.

It is next to impossible for any player, who has not constantly been asked to bid a particular hand without seeing any other hand, to fairly judge what he would do if he sat at the table and sow only his own cards. Here is a test of your practical ability as a bidder.

Both Z and A lack the quick trick requirements to open the auction. Y has 7¾ probable tricks. He has only one call, that of 3-Hearts, trusting his partner for two tricks, and hoping for a reasonable break in hearts. Neither of which hopes will be realized, but he must bid on probabilities.

If B dares bid 4-Clubs he can fulfil that contract, if allowed to play the hand.

Whether B bids or passes, Z will feel obliged to bid. If B bids 4-Clubs, Z must bid 4-Diamonds, in which declaration Y should concur. Even if B bids 4-clubs and Z overcalls with 4-Diamonds, A should not support his partner. It is too much to expect to be able to go game at minor suit when an opponent has opened the bidding third hand, and the other opponent has also bid. A-B can fulfill a contract of 4-Clubs or they can defeat a contract of 4-Diamonds by one trick.

If B passes the 3-Hearts, which his partner can defeat, Z can fulfill a 3-Spade contract, if allowed to hold it, but he cannot hope to make four-odd at diamonds.

The normal bid for Z, provided B passes the 3-Hearts, is to bid 4-Diamonds, intending to bid 4-Spades in case Y rebids hearts. Z does not want to bid 3-Spades, have Y bid 4-Hearts, and then have to overcall with 5-Diamonds.

A DESIRABLE CHANGE.

A resolution, originating with the Kitchener City Council and proposing that the Mothers' Allowance Act should be amended so that mothers would not be removed from the list when their second youngest child reaches the age of 16, has been endorsed by other municipal governments.

Under the present regulations a widow forfeits her right to the allowance as soon as her second youngest child becomes sixteen; the theory being that as soon as all but one child have reached an age when they can contribute to the income of the family the need of state assistance has been removed.

That may have been all right in normal times, but under conditions as they exist to-day it is almost an impossibility for the average 16-year-old boy or girl to secure employment, and the result is that many recipients of the mothers' allowance have found themselves automatically deprived of the grant, in spite of the fact that her elder children are not in a position to make a contribution to the family income.

The Kitchener resolution would remedy that situation; the proposal, it is imagined, will find many supporters who will approve of the change as an emergency measure.

If necessary when conditions improve and opportunities for employment are normal the act could be amended again and the 16-year limit re-instated.

HOW TO TURN CORNERS.

It would naturally be imagined that one of the first things every motorist learns is how to turn corners correctly; that bit of driving technique surely belongs in the ABC's of the art of handling an automobile.

However, recent figures show that during the first six months of 1932 there were in Ontario 123 accidents in making right-hand turns with two persons killed and 80 injured, while in the same period 444 accidents occurred in negotiating left-hand turns with five killed and 266 injured.

It was the issuing of these statistics probably that has led the Ontario Safety League to issue a special bulletin, with diagrams showing the proper way of turning corners in accordance with standard traffic regulations as approved by the Ontario Department of Highways.

These rules have been published before, but in view of the large number of accidents at intersections, it will do no harm to bring them to the attention of all motorists once more.

Drivers intending to turn to the right shall first turn their vehicles in close to the curb on the right and turn the corner as sharply as possible.

On the other hand, those who wish to turn to the left into another street should first turn their cars out to the centre of the street and continue beyond the centre of the intersection before turning.

That is about as simple as anything could be, and it is surprising to know that violation of these easy rules is responsible for hundreds of accidents each year.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

Many local citizens who are not able to make a cash donation to the local Relief Fund may nevertheless make a contribution in use clothing, bedding, canned goods, etc., that will be of the utmost assistance.

The opening of a depot in the former C.D.S. groceteria in the old Cressman building for the receipt of such articles will afford an opportunity to all who are in a position to help.

There is a special need for clothing, as might be expected with over 600 families on relief, and any usable articles of wearing apparel for men, women or children will be gladly received by the committee, who will put all such clothing to good use.

In the homes of Peterborough there must be still large quantities of clothing not in use that could be distributed to advantage among the community's needy families, and every citizen is asked to do a little stock-taking at home with a view to seeing whether or not there is a surplus of clothes that could be turned over to the Relief Committee.

Farmer readers of The Examiner who have large supplies of vegetables will be interested to know that donations of potatoes, cabbage, turnips, beans, etc., will be gratefully received.

In some other communities substantial gifts of vegetables by the farmers of the district have been used to the greatest advantage.

The depot is now open and all donations will be appreciated.

WHY THE SILENCE?

The Prime Minister's refusal to issue a statement in regard to the rumored Russian barter deal is difficult to understand.

While Mr. Bennett remains silent on this matter, newspapers hostile to his government have been doing their utmost to arouse rural public opinion, and as a result Ottawa is being flooded with petitions and resolutions urging that the deal be approved and assisted by the Federal Government.

The ridiculous side of the matter is that all this agitation has been stirred up over something that is more or less indefinite, upon the strength of newspaper reports that must necessarily be unofficial, inasmuch as the Government has give n out no information whatever.

It would seem imperative that Mr. Bennett should enlighten the Canadian people on this whole subject.

Has there been a definite offer from Russia? Has the Canadian syndicate spoken of a contract with the Soviet? Is the Russian Government prepared to pay considerably more than the current price for Canadian cattle and hides? Has the Canadian Government been asked to finance the whole scheme?

These are questions Canadian farmers are asking, and there is no reason why they should not have the answers.

If there never was anything definite in the rumored transaction, why not say so? On the contrary, if there was a bona fide proposition placed before the Federal Government and Mr. Bennett and his associates have declined to accept it, is there any reason why Ottawa should not tell the country?

It is farcical to have the countryside in an uproar over a matter about which the people can have no real knowledge unless the Government issues a plain statement.

OTTAWA AND THE PROVINCES.

Premier Henry announces that Ontario, as represented at the approaching interprovincial-federal conference in Ottawa, will stand in favor of the inauguration of a nation-wide scheme of unemployment insurance on a contributory basis, with the understanding that the Federal Government should meet all of the costs involved.

We imagine that nearly all of the other provinces will be willing to support the proposal on the same basis. But it is not at all certain that the federal authority will be found in agreement.

The Ottawa Government has been pretty good to the provinces lately. Not only has it shouldered almost the entire cost of old age pensions, a percentage of which was formerly assumed by the provinces, but it has also come to the relief of several of the provinces, especially those on the prairies, in a variety of directions.

It is, indeed, estimated that aid received by the provinces during the past year from the Federal Government approximated $40,000,000. In the west, particularly, some of the provinces would be to-day bankrupt and unable to meet their obligations if Ottawa had not rallied to their aid with large money grants which it was not required by any law to make.

If, therefore, the provinces think that they can induce the Dominion Government to assume the full cost of administering any scheme of unemployment insurance which may be inaugurated, they may be mistaken. It is easy for them to make such an attitude. But it may not be so easy for them to secure agreement at the hands of the federal administration.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

A FARMER'S GRIEVANCES.

(From the Ottawa Journal)

A farmer of Stirling, Ontario, writes the Journal a letter full of bitter comment on the unfortunate plight of agriculture. "In January, 1931," he writes, "I sold 18 hogs and received $473. In January, 1932, I sold the same number of hogs about the same weight, and they brought me $174. . . . Cheese that we should be getting twelve and fifteen cents for sold for eight. . . . My father bought a binder for $60. To-day we pay $200."

This correspondent says his farm represents an investment of $17,500, fully equipped, and that his total income from cheese and pork in the past year was "a lot less" than $1,000. "How," he asks, "can a farmer carry on with an income of that amount, pay the hired man, clothe and feed a family of five, to say nothing of cost of farm up-keep?" He has had in addition, of course, shelter for his family, presumably the greater part of the food for his table, from the farm, and while the return on his investments is deplorably low, yet there are many units in Canadian industry in a much worse position. There are mercantile establishments operating without even the smallest profit, there are closed factories where heavy investments are threatened with total loss, there are numerous Canadians whose business investments are greater than the original outlay of this Stirling farmer and who would derive considerable satisfaction from a return which would provide even food and housing.

"Just how much longer," he asks, "we farmers are going to bear the burden of governmental expenditures is a question." As burden-bearers the farmers hold no exclusive privileges, and we have no doubt manufacturers, artisans, merchants, professional men, all are just as honestly convinced that they are carrying the major burden of the depression. The farmer suffers from the fall in commodity prices, but he will be the first to benefit from an improved trend and—a fortunate circumstance—at the worst he is pretty sure of good eats, a warm bed, and healthy surroundings. There are few farmers on relief lists. The man with a closed factory or a dying retail business where all his capital is tied up can think of compensations in the farmer's lot.

The truth of the matter is that no class of Canadians holds a monopoly in an economic misfortune which is world-wide. The farmer suffers, but so does the doctor, the plumber, the manufacturer, laborers skilled and unskilled, and all the other elements of the population. To seek to measure the precise degree of suffering in each case is as difficult as it is unprofitable. We are all victims of the same conditions, all of us are helping carry the burdens of the times, and we have to take the same road out of trouble.

Our correspondent seems to think the Journal is not suffering at all. Holy snakes, hasn't he another think coming?

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Remember when you give to the Relief Fund your donation is tripled, because the Provincial and Federal Governments will each give dollar for dollar with you.

Don't wait to be canvassed. If you are in a position to make a contribution to the local Relief Fund, do so as soon as possible. The need is great.

Scores in the third test match would seem to suggest that even outstanding cricket stars are subject to nerves.

The investigation into charges of judicial misconduct of Judge L. St. G. Stubbs, of Winnipeg, is expected to last three weeks. That should allow everybody concerned ample opportunity to air their views.

It is evident that there is going to be no unemployment among leading Ontario Liberals during the next few months. Although Mr. Henry declares there will be no election until next year, the Liberal forces are preparing for an active campaign.

walked here. Here came Abraham out of the mists of Chaldean civilization, a lone sheik crossing the burning desert for a rendezvous with the Eternal on Mount Moriah. This is Mount Moriah. Here Abraham lingered. Here stood Jeremiah, that tremendous pacifist, prophesying the doom of those who put their faith in arms and blood and violence, also in defensive wars. Here, too, came Jesus in those last days of His life.

The Urge to Meditate

A strange and spontaneous urge to abandon the world and sit down with Arabic meditators under some palm leafed tree came over me. For a moment I felt I could have been satisfied with contemplating the Judean landscape and dream undisturbed till the end of my days. Of what use writing articles and rushing through this world, wearying body and soul with the spectacle of life? Why not sit down like those swarthy men of Islam and meditate upon the absolute, upon the attributes of God and the meaning of the universe?

Was this the spell of the Orient seeping into cold, Indo-Germanic blood and conquering it?

Blessed conquest!

Tourists sauntered up and down in the shade of spreading umbrella-trees. Some khaki-clad individual was surreptitiously snapping the Mosque. Surreptitiously, I say, for "Thou shalt make no graven image" . . . and the Arabs watch for infractions of the second Commandment.

Over yonder a group of old Arab women squatted. They had lifted their veils to enjoy the full flavor of gossip. An Arab teacher sat under a tree with his disciples in a semi-circle, grouped around him like some living rosary. From time to time the droning murmur of their voices was carried by the breeze.

Swallows soared by, close to the ground, describing gigantic half-circles. They disappeared through the soft-tinted arches of the mosque.

This spectacle David saw when he sang about the swallows who lay their young in the artful nests near the altars of Adonai.

An Arab passed, bent double under the load of a goat-skin filled with water. Two wrinkled beggars chuckled as they emptied their sacks and counted their coins and crusts of bread upon some burning stone in the mid-day sun.

Designed by Solomon

It was King Solomon who designed this immense hanging garden high above the seething and throbbing heart of Jerusalem. This terrace incorporates something of the ideal of peace. The restfulness of the atmosphere is complete to this day. Four thousand years of change and destruction by Babylonians, Assyrians, Romans, Crusaders and Turks have failed to efface the king's vision. It is still the retreat of quiet repose which Solomon conceived. A garden on heaven's doorsteps, where man could come to rest from the clangor and turmoil of life and where even the Eternal One would not disdain to walk.

Here, for the first time in my life, I heard the silence sing in choirs and waves of melody!

Why has no Jewish artist, so I asked myself, ever immortalized these imposing backgrounds? The purity of Hellenic sculpture was inspired by the beauty of the Grecian mountains. The sombre aspect of the Dutch heavens begot the genius of Rembrandt.

What happened here on Mount Zion? Did the majesty of the spectacle escape the limits of human art? Can it be, I wondered, that chisel and brush dropped from artists' hands as they saw the hills leap and the mountains dance, and as they heard the deep call unto the deep at the passage of God?

This is what happened. Confronted with this overwhelming spectacle, turbulent Orientals could not contain themselves. They had to shout. Here they became intoxicated with God. Here they touched God's hand. Here they walked with God in the cool of eventide. In this atmosphere the divine presence descended. Here the sun of righteousness went up and filled the world of the spirit as a golden chalice is filled with wine.

I walked over the terrace and saw a little boy who kissed the hand of an old man as they met. Into the dizzying depths at one of the edges of the garden I peered over a wall. Before my eyes spread the broad panorama of the Valley of Josaphat. Absalom's tomb was there, and the graves of the Judges. To the right lay Gethsemane, where Jesus sweated blood while His followers slept and deserted him. A Russian church with gilded Byzantine dome marks the spot. Cynical irony!

Every object here kindles the imagination. Along that winding sandy road at my feet went David, defeated by his son's ambitions. And somewhere above that path stood Shimei, the last of Saul's descendants, to mock the king and cast stone at him.

No trace of the Hebrew Temple may remain to-day on the terrace. Yet it is certain that here gathered all Israel when Solomon consecrated the sanctuary and he uttered that immense prayer.

Lingered Till Sunset

Till sunset,—until the muezzins appeared on the minarets to sing out their weird calls of prayer, did I linger, dreaming of Jerusalem and its eternal message. Will this city ever renew its mission? Is Israel, now back in these ancient landmarks, about to re-state his ideal of peace and justice? Will he evolve a solution of the problem of man's relations with his fellowman, as he once showed the road in man's relationship with God? Will Israel show the way once more?

Or are we to go on worshipping our idols of blood and greed and to ply our trade of guile and deceit?

Softly the curtain of night came over Jerusalem. Like a blood-red jewel the sun went down in Sharon. "Allah Akbar Allah!" shrilly cried the muezzin. "Come to prayer. Come to salvation! I testify there is no God but Allah and Mohammed is His prophet!"

Darkness had come over the world as I walked through the gloom.

ALL OF US

ESCAPE? FROM WHAT?

A WOMAN I know lifted her eyes from a newspaper that told of the suicideof a young woman who had thrown herself from a tall building, and said something that, to me, at least, seems important. That desperate young woman had left a letter explaining that she "had to escape from life."

And this other woman said: "I wouldn't kill myself today. I want to stay alive to see what happens. This is the most interesting period in all the world's history. More interesting than great inventions. More interesting than pioneering. I don't want to escape from this, no matter what happens. I'll stay alive, just to see."

I read an advertisement that praised a detective story as "escape literature? for people who could not endure the hardshaps of ordinary living....Once I saw a sign in a circulating library advertising horse riding as an escape from life .. .I've read Karl Marx read the novels of Sir Walter Scott and Dumas as escapes from "Das Kapital" ....And I've been told that anyone who likes and plays bridge is merely making a pathetic attempt to escape from himself and admitting his own failure in more solemn and useful endeavors.

But I do not think that playing bridge and committing suicide are on the same plane. (You see, I like bridge, while I do not intend to kill myself.) Bridge, Scott, horse riding, books, eating, sleeping, dreaming, working, worrying, grieving, laughing, being excited, being cantankerous, being agreeable, thinking and loafing—all these and thousands of other occupations—are part of living, and no escape from it.

Only the dull and stable life is truly difficult and approaches the unendurable. This life in which we are involved in 1933 is exciting and dangerous and challenging, and no matter how heavily burdened a man may be, no matter how desperate a woman may become; something is happening all the time, and curiosity should be stronger than despair.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 17

Chivington seemed loath to answer He sensed the import of the question; he knew that Kane was scenting the trail. As much as he wanted to aid in finding the murderer of Richard Bailey he hesitated to make the slightest move which would cast suspicion on an innocent person.

He stared thoughtfully at the floor; his fingers ran nervously through the fringes of his hair. Once he started to speak, his lips moved but made no sound. It was as if he had his own suspicions but was afraid to voice them for fear that the other man would not agree with him.

At last he raised his eyes to meet the steady gaze of the investigator. The words dropped from his lips, slowly and distinctly:

"No, I don't think it was a woman."

Jere Kane respected the old servant's opinion. Though he had seen him for the first time last night he had decided that Chivington was a keenly observant person, as most servants are.

He shrugged and said, "That's all, Chivington. If I want you again I'll send for you."

The old man arose, a bit unsteadily. His eyes were moist. He seized Kane's hand and pressed it warmly. "Please, Mr. Kane," he beseeched, "find the one who killed my master."

Then he pottered from the room. The criminologist heard him climb the stairs, enter his room and close the door. He felt sorry for the old man. To be left alone in the world in this way; to be robbed of one's only friend by the hand of violence. It must be heart rending.

Kane shook himself. "I must be getting old and sentimental," he muttered.

He called O'Hara. The detective shuffled in from the kitchen, stuffing the last bit of a sandwich in his mouth. Jere grimaced, but decided that perhaps after all the officer was justified, inasmuch as he had been on duty here ince morning and had had no opportunity to get out for lunch.

He said, "I want you to remain in the house. If the old man needs any help call me. I'm going to take a turn about the grounds."

Outside, he walked down toward the street and then turned to survey his surroundings. Bailey's "bungalow" was a two-story structure of Spanish architecture, after the modern version. It poised on a small knoll several hundred feet back from the street, partly hidden from the eyes of curious passers-by in a clump of giant palm and eucalyptus trees.

The lawn was neatly trimmed. To the right, or east, was a miniature flower garden. The plants were mostly roses and oleanders. Opening onto this was the one large window of Bailey's den. On the other side of the house the lawn sloped steeply to a high stone fence which separated this place and that adjoining.

Kane turned and saw that he could look down into Hollywood and its busy thoroughfares, and far beyond he saw towering skyward the building of the main part of the city. The vista was inspiring.

He drew a deep breath of admiration. "No wonder," he murmured, that people call this a modern Garden of Eden."

After satiating himself with the beauties of the panorama he continued his study of the estate. He strolled back into the garden for another view of the house. He saw that the window of the den was about ten feet above the ground, a double pane that broke in the middle and opened inward.

Moving closer, he discovered the deep impression of a foot. Looking more closely, he found others. He followed them and found they led to a spot under the window. There he found something else that interested him. In the soft earth were two shallow holes about an inch in diameter and in the center, in juxtaposition, were two sets of footprints.

He turned to retrace the trail. He found the footprints led in both directions. Toward the house the heels were imprinted deeply. Leading away from the house the toes left the heaviest imprint. He surmised that these were the footprints of last night's prowler.

To him the foot impressions indicated that the nocturnal visitor had walked to the house, carrying some heavy burden, but, apparently surprised, had fled from the scene at top speed. The impressions were those of a man's shoe, but a small one.

In his suppositions Jere Kane was only partly correct. Those footprints had been made by the murderer of Richard Bailey.

He returned to the house once more. He studied the two shallow holes, about two and one-half feet apart. So the slayer had entered the house with the aid of a ladder!

"Whoever committed the murder," he muttered, "knew that he could gain entrance without being disturbed. He also knew that Richard Bailey ——"

Characteristically, he snapped his fingers and abruptly turned away. Swiftly, he made his way to the rear of the house, where he found a dumpty little garage. The doors were standing open. Inside was Bailey's costly automobile.

He went inside. Quickly, his eyes roved about the place and finally rested on what he sought—a short ladder that lay on its side to one side of the motor car. Satisfied, he wandered moodily toward the house, steeped in thought.

Of two things he was certain: the murder of Richard Bailey had been carefully planned; the murderer was a cold-blooded person who had no inhibitions against taking a human life.

Now he was sure that the prowler that Chivington had heard, and whom he had frightened away, had returned to the scene of the crime to replace the ladder in the garage before it was discovered, in a vain hope, he theorized, that the murder would appear to be an inside job.

But he wanted to make sure of his ground before he proceeded. He returned to the garden. An exultant cry escaped his lips. The footprints he had overlooked at first were there, leading to and from the garage, two sets toward the garage and one from the garage to the window. Farther away from the house he found tracks leading from the garage to the front of the house, and toward the street.

Satisfied with what he had found he returned to the house. To O'Hara he said, "I'm going to stay h re tonight. You won't need to stay or have any relief report."

That pleased the detective. He did not relish this assignment, that was plain, no more than did Sergeant James. "What time can I break away?" he asked.

Kane had spent more time in his investigation than he thought. It was getting late. The sun was sinking toward the blue rim of the Santa Monica mountains. Purple shadows were creeping over the hills.

"I want to run down to the hotel for some things," he said. "When I get back you can go."

O'Hara suggested that he would call a cab.

"No, I think I need a little exercise. I'll walk as far as the boulevard and hail one there."

"O. K., chief."

Kane set out, walking briskly. He was impelled by elation over the progress of his hunt. He felt that he was verging on success he hoped that within another twenty-four hours he could turn over to Chief Lee the slayer of Richard Bailey and the assailant of Nanette LeRoi. For he was convinced that they were one and the same.

At the foot of the hill he started to cross the street. Above him he heard the roar of an automobile. He hesitated and looked back and decided that he had time to get across. He stepped off the walk and, walking fast, started for the opposite side.

The motor car raced toward him. The machine swerved; he was directly in its path. A woman's scream rent the air. He tried to leap out of the way but he was too late.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A VETERAN JOURNAL'S BIRTHDAY

On this date in 1820 there was issued at Brockville, Upper Canada, a newspaper named the Recorder. Hundreds of newspapers have been issued since then, but not many of them have survived, although there are a surprising number of old journals in this young Canada. The Montreal Gazette founded 1778; the Quebec Gazette (which is continued in the Chronicle-Telegraph), 1764, but not placed before the Gazette, since it has not been published continuously since; the Quebec Mercury, 1805, absorbed by the Telegraph; the Kingston Gazette and News (now the Standard), 1810; the Montreal Herald 1811; and the Halifax Chronicle in 1820, and therefore, like the Recorder, celebrating its 113th anniversary this year. Then there are the St. Catharines Journal, 1823; the Yarmouth, N.S. Herald, 1833 (to celebrate its centenary this year; the Cobourg Star, 1834; the Kingston Whig, 1834; the Belleville Intelligencer, 1835; the Brantford Courier (absorbed by the Expositor), 1839; the Ottawa Citizen, 1845; the Hamilton Spectator, 1848; the Toronto Globe, 1849; the Victoria Colonist, 1858; the Saint John Telegraph, 1862; the London Advertiser, 1863; the Montreal Star, 1869; the Toronto Mail, 1872; and the Winnipeg Free Press, 1872.

But few of them remained in the hands of the same proprietors so long as did the old Recorder. Its first publisher was Chauncey Beach, who had been a printer on the Kingston Herald; the inaugural editorial was written by A. N. Buell, afterwards master in Chancery at Toronto, and proclaimed the Recorder to be an advocate of Reform. A few months later William Buell took over the Recorder and remained in charge until 1849. Then came the famous Colonel David Wylie, who was its editor until 1883. To-day the Recorder is edited by one whose practically whole life has been bound up with it, Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, senator and statesman, but proudest of all his dignities that he is a newspaper man, than which he wishes no greater distinction.

TOWN'S DOUBLE CHECK PROVES POOR ECONOMY

CHELMSFORD, Ont., Jan. 16.—(C.P.)— It cost the town council $275.95 and then some to check and double-check the books of the town clerk, H. J. Gratton and make the discovery the municipality owed that official three cents. And the corporation also loses a law suit. J. T. Dionne, Sudbury, won his action against the town for $60 as his fee for auditing the books. The town refused to pay and called in a government auditor. Now they have a bill for $196.95 plus $19 expenses for the second auditor.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(C.P.) — Buying increased on the standard mining market this afternoon, giving several of the popular secondary gold shares moderate gains and a firm close. Small recessions for the day cropped up here and there but the general tone was steady. The gold shares still have the play, the little run in the silvers of last week having died out and the base metal shares are also for the present out of the picture. Nickel did not move to-day to any extent and Noranda just held its ground.

Accumulation appeared again in McIntyre, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves, McIntyre scored an advance of about 75 and Teck 4, while Wright Hargreaves finished a couple of points down. Lake Shore, Dome and Hollinger were steady.

Eldorado moved quietly to-day and showed a loss of several points at the close.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, January 16 (C.P.). —Stock prices failed to hold earlier gains as the market entered the final trading to-day, and many issues sagged from fractions to more than a point. U.S. Steel Preferred Augurn and Case were down more than one. Sizeable fractions were lost by Allied Chemical, American Can., United Aircraft, Dupont, Consolidated Gas, U.C. Steel Common, Lackawanna, and New York Central. J. C. Penney was an exception gaining one. American Telephone, General Motors, Nash, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, and Corn Products were steady. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 16. (CP)—Canadian Pacific eased off to 15 in the afternoon trade on the Toronto Stock Exchange and the whole market was moderately irregular. Fair volume appeared for British American Oil, Nickel and the implement shares.

Tendency was towards weakness in the Utilities with Bell Telephone, Consumers' Gas, and Power Corporation weaker while prices were slightly off also in the steel group, Steel of Canada and Canada Wire & Cable "B" recording fractional losses.

As a group the beverage shares held up well, small gains showing for Walkers Common, Distillers Seagram, Canada Bud Breweries and Canada Malting. In the oil section B.A. and Imperial were unchanged wile International Pete was down a fraction.

The interlisted shares were all off a little, losses of ⅛ to ⅜ being registeredf or Brazilian, Ford A, C.P.R. and Smelters while Nickel was about ⅛ stronger.

OLD PARTY SEEK HOOVER'S SCALP

Republican Group Wants Present Line-up "Cleaned Out, Top to Bottom."

FAVOR NEW LEADER.

By Cecil B. Dickson, A.P. Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (A.P.)—Rumblings among Republican forces of the United States forecast a stirring contest soon between the old guard and followers of President Herbert Hoover for control of the party organization.

Already a move has been started to resist any effort by Mr. Hoover's friends to have him retain the titular chieftainship of the party after he retires from the Presidency. Indications are that the struggle, now being waged behind the scenes, will break into the open after March 4, when Franklin Roosevelt, the Democrat, takes over the Presidency. Mr. Hoover's friends, however, appear confident that he will have little difficulty in holding the reins.

That Mr. Hoover desires to continue as the dominating factor in the organization with a view either of seeking the Presidential nomination in 1936, or dictating the nominee, is the belief generally held by Republicans on Capitol Hill.

But members of the old guard, who consider themselves slighted during the Hoover administration, are talking about having the present party set up "cleaned out from top to bottom" and a new organization created, with a conservative basis but a slant satisfactory to the liberal element of the party.

They want to take over party control early in the Spring to prepare for the Congressional campaign in 1934, with the hope of recapturing the House of Representatives and electing a Speaker, and thus to pave the way, by a legislative record route, to seize the administration in 1936.

CANADIAN CORPORATIONS PAY $14,204,987 IN DIVIDENDS

Payments for Month of January Show Four Million Decrease Over Same Month Last Year Though More Concerns Distribute Bonuses

MINING COMPANIES INCREASE DIVIDENDS

By A. D. O'HALLORAN
Copyright by Central Press Canadian

Toronto, Jan. 16.—Dividend payments of $14,204,987 by Canadian corporations in the month of January are indicated by official declarations to-date. This compares with estimates of $18,667,719 for January, 1932, and $21,555,937 for January, 1931.

The decrease in the amount being disbursed at this time, compared with corresponding month of previous years, is accounted for the accumulation of dividends passed and revisions downward during the past two years.

The number of corporations and institutions paying dividends in the current month is unusually large and the more than 150 securities on which payments are being made are representative of all classes of industrial, commercial, financial and mining enterprises. Most Canadian companies end their fiscal period with the calendar year and pay dividends at the end of each calendar quarter or six months.

Many More Pay Bonuses

As usual many corporations have found it necessary to omit or reduce the rate of dividend at this time, but the number finding it necessary to do so is outnumbered by those who are able to pay bonuses, make payment on account of arrears, or disburse an initial or interim dividend to their stockholders. Toronto Elevators Ltd., and Fanny Farmer Candy are two concerns making interim disbursements. National Grocers is making the first distribution on the second preference shares since October, 1931, Intervolonial Coal has increased the dividend on the ordinary shares from 50 cents to $1, and Investment Foundation is paying 12 cents on account of arrears of preferred dividend.

Mining companies continue their policy of increased dividends to stockholders. Falconbridge Nickel enters the ranks of dividend payers for the first time with a disbursement of 10 cents, and Coniagas Mines is making payment of 12 1-2 cents a share, the first since May, 1924. Pioneer Gold Mines of B. C. has doubled the rate paid in previous quarter and Dome and Wright-Hargreaves are rewarding their stockholders with bonuses in addition to regular dividends.

Reduction in rates have been effected on the ordinary shares of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., Goderich Elevator, Chas. Gurd and Co. and Montreal Tramways. Dividends have been omitted on the class A shares of Canadian Wirebound Boxes, preferred shares of Eastern Steel Products, Viau Biscuit and Thayers Ltd. Some financial institutions have also revised their rates.

Hicks Gets Lashes Dropped in Appeal; Failure of Justice, Mulock's Comment

TORONTO, January 16 (C.P.). — Harold Hicks, convicted of slaughter and five charges of armed robbery, must serve the life term in Portsmouth Penitentiary given him, but the sentence of 20 lashes will not be imposed.

Hicks appealed to-day against the length of the sentence, but the Appeal Court maintained he should serve the full term, although eliminating the lashes.

Sir William Mulock asked if the robbery charges dated before the manslaughter conviction, and said: "Just graduating to become a murderer," when Hicks' counsel declared the charges did. "This man was charged in the same case in which another man was found guilty of murder,' said the Chief Justice. "He ought to have been convicted of murder. There was a failure of justice there."

He's a young man—" pleaded Hicks' counsel.

"But a murderer and robber," said Sir William.

MISSION COINS STOLEN

WATERLOO, Ont.—Police are searching for the thief who stole $10 in coins which had been dropped into the birthday mission box of Zion Evangelical Church Sunday School.

The box contained coins deposited from time to time by children and others on their birthdays, a cent for each year of their ages.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. — (A.P.)—Grain prices averaged lower early to-day, influenced by prospects of moisture in dry districts of domestic winter wheat territory southwest. Enlargement of the amount of wheat on ocean passage to importing countries was also a bearish factor. Opening at ¼ off to 3-8 up, wheat later sagged. Corn started unchanged to ½ down and subsequently held near the initial limits.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, January 16 (C.P.)—Weakness at Liverpool carried local wheat prices about ½ cent lower in early trading to-day. Offerings from the start, however, were extremely light and this, together with steadiness at Chicago, brought values back to the previous closing levels. Trading was slow.

Prices at mid-session were unchanged with May at 45¾, July at 43¾, and October at 48.

Inter-market spreading operations were featureless, and the bulk of the export business done over the weekend was worked out of Vancouver, with sales not estimated at more than 250.000 bushels.

Liverpool wheat was easy from the start and quotations at the closing stages were ⅝d lower per 100 pounds. Buenos Aires wheat opened ⅜c lower per bushel.

World wheat shpments for the week totalled more than 16.500.000 bushels of whch 7,000.000 bushels was of North American orgin.

PLENTY OF "CHEWERS"

SUDBURY.—"Wasn't the depression awful?" asked merchants and wholesalers of Sudbury, Coniston, Copper Cliff, Creighton Mines and Garson as they checked up their books.

Here is one result of the check: People bought $21,589.50 worth of chewing gum in the district during 1932. In all, 30,300 sticks were chewed.

fice for a competing railway, rather than provide a necessary service for the public. These results can, in the view I take, only be atained if we consolidate our two railways into one system with one management.

"The conclusion appears inescapable, a means must be provided for making the necessary economies without prejudicing the public interest, and the control and management should be accompanied by a proper measure of responsibility on some agreed basis, either by the government to the Canadian Pacific and its shareholders, or by the Canadian Pacific to the government in relief of its railway burden. By no other means can we secure a sound business administration for our railway undertaking and relief to the taxpayers of Canada," he said.

Made Wrong Turn

"We have had that question before us on three different occasions in the last ten years and on each occasion we have made a wrong turning. With many more years of experience behind us we are again faced with a problem more gravely vital to Canada's future than at any other time, and again I am afraid the yard-stick of political expediency is being hauled out to test the rightness or wrongness of suggestions designed to relieve Canadians of what has become an intolerable burden and even in these times of awakened public interest and keen desire for the most impartial consideration of our major domestic question, there are those who counsel that nothing that disturbs existing conditions should be done; that we should follow the old road no matter whether it leads to disaster; that because we believed in our noble experiment in public ownership ten years ago we should stubbornly adhere to our former policies not withstanding our experience, which incidentally, has been the experience of the world." There are those whose record of counsel on railway problems consists of the following:

1—Unrelenting opposition to the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

2—Enthusiastic support of the construction of the G.T.P. and Trans-Continental Railways.

3—Equally enthusiastic support of the Canadian Northern enterprise.

4—Support of he acquisition of all major railways save that of the Canadian Pacific, by the government.

5—Support of the policy of unrestrained competion offered by the Government railways to its competitor during the last ten years.

6—The maintenance of the duplication and places, triplication of facilities we now enjoy whether or not bankruptcy is just around the corner.

Survey Our Position

"May we not turn from this kind of counsel and impartial, survey our position, not with the idea of depriving any community or injuring any class of our citizenry, but in an honest effort to avoid waste and live within our means, transportationally speaking. In 1921" said Mr. Beatty. "Lord Shaughnessy proposed to the Government that the outside enterprises of the Canadian Pacific should be separated from its railway and auxiliary enterprises and that he government should acquire the railway properties of the company, guarantee a certain fixed dividend to its shareholders and having acquired the G.T.P., Trans - Continental, Canadian Northern and Inter Colonial Railways, enter into a contract with the Canadian Pacific to administer and operate the whole property on account of the people of Canada, and we would even under present conditions not have had any serious railway problem on our hands.

"In 1925 a special committee of the Senate conducted a protracted investigation. I sometimes wonder if the people of Canada as a whole realized the quality of the work done by committees of the Senate. While the Senate's deliberations were extended, their conclusions were brief and to the point, "after stating that in their opinion unless energetic means were adopted to reduce the national debt, the country would be unable to command the foreign capital necessary for development, the committe recommended the merging of the two railway systems for administration and operation under a board of fifteen directors equally representing the two railways and the Canadian public. The committee then stated—"The railway question is one of extreme importance and of the utmost urgency; that the constantly increasing public obligation on railway account is approximately two million dollars per week and that until this problem is settled in some way which will reduce the present enormous expenditure there can be no relief from taxation which bearing so heavily on all classes, nor can there be any move towards the reduction in rates and fares so essential to the prosperity of every inhabitant of Canada."

"The report of the Senate was not acted upon," continued Mr. Beatty, "largely because conditions and railway revenues improved and we entered upon the period of fictitious prosperity, and free spending which has had a substantial influence upon the severity of the present depression. May I suggest that if the Senate's advice had been followed several hundred million dollars would have been saved to this country.

"In 1931, during one of the sessions of the special committee of the House of Commons, which considered the report on appropriations of the Canadian National Railways, questions were asked which led me to think the time opportune for an enquiry into the whole question of transportation in Canada by an independent tribunal. I was very apprehensive as to the railway situation. Our traffic had fallen rapidly, our debts had increased and the deficits of the national lines were great. So I suggested to the former president of the National Railways that he might advise such an investigation. He readily agreed and made such a recommendation. It was unanimously adopted by the committee and later unanimously approved by the House of Commons and the so-called Duff Commission was appointed. The commission's recommendations have been published in the press, and the conclusion is inescapable that they were, in part at least, based upon their own estimate of Canadian public sentiment towards the important question of public ownership, competition and of railway monopoly. This is unfortunate because the value to Canada of work of such magnitude and importance lies in its firm foundation, economic and national, and not upon an assumed public sentiment, the danger in which lies in the fact public sentiment is very often the result of lack of information and the dispensation of facts in respect of the railway situation has never been an easy task in this country.

"Important as has been the work of the Duff Commission, particularly in marshalling of the facts and its analysis of the history of transportation in Canada with its tragic consequences, it does not provide any adequate solution or ground for much hope to the heavy burdened Canadian taxpayers.

"The commission's chief recommendations as to future policy was the continuance of competition between the two railway systems qualified by co-operation between them in forcibly compulsory arbitration. While more than willing to co-operate, the Canadian Pacific is not willing to rest its future in the hands of a tribunal, on which it will have only a minority representation and which in the nature of things cannot have any responsibility for the financial consequences of its decisions.

ROYAL BANK OF CANADA PRESENTS STRONG STATEMENT

CASH ASSETS 164 MILLION DOLLARS

"Canada Has Maintained Her Credit Unimpaired"

Sir Herbert Holt Deals Vigorously With Railway and Other National Problems — Emphasises Need for Government Economy — Imperial Conference — Canadian Business Conditions — International Outlook.

Mr. M. W. Wilson Reports on Satisfactory Year's Operations — Central Bank Discussed—Measures Needed for Business Recovery.

The Sixty-fourth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a very successful year. The Statement submitted showed the Bank to be in a very strong liquid position. Of the Total Assets of $765,512,920 the Liquid Assets amounted to as much as $355,929,915, and were equal to 52.86% of all Liabilities to the Public. An outstanding feature of the Liquid Assets was the large holding of Cash Assets, which reached a total of One Hundred and Sixty-Four Millions.

The annual Meeting brought together a large number of shareholders, and was marked by interesting and instructive addresses by Sir Herbert Holt, the President, and Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager.

Vigorous comment and suggestions as regard several of the outstanding domestic problems of Canada, and an able summary of the world economic situation and the prospects ahead; a strong plea for the amalgamation of the two Canadian railroads, as the only manner in which the grave Canadian railway situation can be solved! intervention by the provincial governments to conserve Canadian natural resources, and to prevent the collapse of the vitally important newsprint industry, if the present strong efforts being made to secure co-operation are not successful, and a condemnation of excessive governmental expenditure, featured the address of the president.

Sir Herbert said in part:

"The power of resistance which this country has shown during the third year of the depression is cause for congratulation. With no financial assistance from other countries other than a small amount of re-financing, which was arranged on a strictly business basis, with currency depreciation in terms of gold limited to a very moderate percentage, and with none of the restrictions on foreign exchange or international trade which have been found inevitable in so many cases, Canada has lived up to the letter of her contracts and maintained her crieditt unimpaired. In doing so she has followed the tradition of the British Empire as a whole. It is no exaggeration to say that the stability and soundness of the Empire's banking institutions have played an important part in the creation of this good record.

Railway Problem.

In referring to the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation, Sir Herbert expressed the opinion that co-operation between the two railroad systems to effect mutual economies will not prove drastic enough to cut down in any adequate degree the annual deficits of the government railways, and expressed the conviction that the solution lay in complete amalgamation. He felt fears of a monopoly were groundeless and that under proper safeguards unification would result in a co-ordinated transportation system adequate to the needs of the country and conducted at a minimum of expense.

Government Expenses

"For many years, Government expenditure has been on an excessive scale. Extravagance has characterized the budgets of national, provincial and municipal governments. Throughout the country there is a general demand that budgets be balanced and every effort made to lighten the heavy burden imposed upon the people by reducing the unduly heavy taxation.

"There is a noteworthy duplication of Government in Canada which leads to the excessive cost of administration. We must seriously consider whether this country can afford to maintain as many as nine Provincial Governments, together

UNEMPLOYED ACROSS BRITAIN BEING TAUGHT TO HELP SELVES

Men, Tired of Tramping Streets, Band Together, Start Small Trades.

BUILDINGS LOANED FREE.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, January 16. (C. P. Cable). — The old year closes with new hope for the great areas of industrial distress. From the mining valleys of South Wales to the Lowlands of Scotland, unemployed are being taught to help themselves. Allotments of land, workshops, educational centres, unemployment clubs — anything and everything to give new courage and above all, to maintain self-respect. With Government assistance, the Society of Friends — always most active in work in distressed areas — is planning almost to double land allotments for the unemployed. Giving general guidance to the schemes is the National Council of Social Service, recognized by the Government as a central advisory body.

From district to district the schemes vary. And an odd feature of the movement is that the first impulse of the movement is that the first impulse generally comes from the unemployed themselves. Men, tired of endlessly tramping the streets for the job that is never found, band themselves into clubs, and work if only that the skilled hand may not lose its cunning. Brynmawr in South Wales led the way in community effort. Brynmawr faced a future almost without hope. Its coal seams were almost worked out. Its ironworks were exhausted. A population of 8,000 lived largely on unemployment insurance and other relief. Nor was there much hope for Brynmawr even if reviving trade brought new demands for coal.

Study Situation.

A study council representative of every section of local society was enrolled to study the situation and to plan. Voluntary work helped to clean and beautify the town. Industries were started—boot-making, furniture-making, hosiery, spinning, weaving, poultry keeping.

In planning occupation centres, expensive organizations are avoided. In Wakefield, it was an old warehouse lent rent free, dirty and dilapidated. A group of unemployed cleaned it out and made workbenches from timber given for the purpose.

Morristown has an old police station as occupation centre; Birmingham, an empty public house; Liverpool, an old stable and hayloft; Gateshead unemployed have built a workshop in a settlement garden.

When no funds were available, unemployed men voluntarily restored an old Roman bridge on the borders of Lancashire and Yorkshire and so preserved an historical monument almost alone of its kind in Northern England. Volunteers are now planning to clear the drains which the old Romans placed under the roadway so many centuries ago. At Rhosllanerchrugog in North Wales, 18 acres of derlict land have been turned into a recreation ground. At Broughton, about 20 miles west of Cardiff and close to the Bristol channel, an old malthouse was acquired and equipped with simple furniture by voluntary labor.

Holiday By Sea

During the summer, 11 parties of unemployed—nine of men and two of women—were taken from the Rhondda Valley and given a week each by the sea. The total cost worked out at about two dollars per head per week.

No claim is made that unemployment itself can be solved by the schemes. Nor is it intended that the goods produced by voluntary labor shall be put in competition on the market. The boots and shoes and what-not produced in the occupational centres go to the families of unemployed who cannot afford to buy. They are not sold. And the guiding thought is to check the demoralizating influence of month after month with nothing to do.

France produced 892,410,000 gallons of wine in 1926.

After the singing of the National Anthem, all were invited to the dining-room, where generous quantities of taffy and sandwiches were served. The attendance for the evening was seventy.

OMEMEE WOMAN IS SEVERELY INJURED

Mrs. Lockhart Wright Sustains Fracture of Left Leg and Other Injuries on Saturday.

EAST EMILY, Jan. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—Jammed between two automobiles, Mrs. Lockhard Wright, who resides about six miles east of Omemee, sustained a fracture of the left leg; injuries to the right knee, and broken ribs, on Saturday evening. She was attended by Dr. G. M. Earle of Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were leaving the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mills after having made a visit at about eight o'clock. The car failed to start and Mrs. Wright got out and was standing at the side of the vehicle, when Cecil Mills, thinking that the Wrights had gone, drove his car out, jamming Mrs. Wright between the two vehicles.

Joan's Ruse Didn't Fool Cameraman

This is Mr. and Mrs. George Scott Barnes. And if that doesn't mean anything to you, it may when you learn that it is none other than Joan Blondell, screen star, and her new hubby, Cameraman George Barnes. Wearing a red wig and glasses, Joan sought to escape publicity when they eloped to Phoenix, Ariz. But this enterprising cameraman spoiled their plans.

HEADS OF ALL NINE PROVINCES SPEED TO OTTAWA FOR PARLEY

Chief Among Difficulties Will Be Possibility of Setting Up Unemployment Insurance.

TAXATION ANOTHER SNAG.

OTTAWA, January 16 (C.P.). — Premiers and Cabinet Ministers of the nine provinces of Canada are speeding towards Ottawa to-day for the opening of the Inter-Provincial Conference here to-morrow. With Premier R. B. Bennett and members of the Federal Government they will come to grips with a number of difficult and complicated problems, chief of which will be the possibility of establishing unemployment insurance in Canada.

Illness and death will prevent two Provincial Premiers from heading the delegations from their provinces. Word of the death of his wife overtook Premier S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia at Winnipeg and he promptly turned back to Victoria, leaving Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, to carry on as head of the group from the coast provincee. Premier Gordon S. Harrington of Nova Scotia is recovering from a serious operation, and will be unable to attend.

However desirable a scheme of unemployment insurance may be the constitutional questions involved in getting it into operation require study and negotiation. The question falls within the legislative field of the provinces, but it is admitted a workable scheme would have to be administered by the Dominion. That brings up the possibility of a change in the British North America Act, which can only be made by the British Parliament

Taxation

Some overlapping of taxation now exists as between Dominion and Provinces. Under the law the provinces are limited to direct taxation, but the Dominion can levy both direct and indirect taxation. The Dominion, for instance, collects income taxes and some of the provinces as well, while others authorize their municipalities to collect income taxes. One suggestion which may be advanced is that the Dominion restrict itself to corporation income taxes, while the provinces collect taxes on personal incomes. A new allocation of the whole field of taxation may be drafted.

Other problems to be tackled include company and insurance law. An attempt may be made to secure a uniform system of regulating joint stocks companies throughout the Dominion and the Provinces as to the control of insurance companies.

The Provinces of Ontario and Quebec have recently been successful in litigation before the judicial committee of the Privy Council in upsetting the Dominion's claim to regulate insurance companies. On the other hand, the smaller provinces are in favor of the Dominion exercizing control because the expense of maintaining an insurance department is too great for them.

Hastings

The Young People's Society of St. George's Church held their weekly meeting in the basement of the church with the Rector, Rev. H. F. Battersby, presiding. The meeting opened with hymn 98 "To the Pilgrim Magi" followed by the Creed and prayer. After all business was completed programs were arranged for the next two months. The legend of "The Other Wise Man" was read by Miss Plant, Mr. Harry Tyrrell and Rev. H. F. Battersby and was most interesting. It was decided that a debate "Resolved that the reading of books is more beneficial than travelling" be held at the next meeting. Four members were chosen, two for each side. Meeting closed with hymn "Come let us join our Cheerful Song" and the Grace.

The W.A. also held their meeting during the week at the Rectory when one new member was adopted to the roll. Since it was the first meeting of the new year after the annual report was given the new study books were examined. The books for the year are "China" and "In Honan." The president read the first chapter of the life and customs in China.

Mrs. Lamb of Omemee spent several days with her daughter, Miss Jessie Lamb, who has been ill and unable to fulfil her duties as teacher.

Mr. Martin Rusaw of the Peterborough Normal School is at his home due to illness.

FAMED AIRMAN W.A. SPENCE DIES

chewan to face a charge there laid by the R.C.M.P. Young Whiteway became the hero of the expedition when tragedy overtook the plane near the end of its journey.

It was Whiteway who first regained consciousness after the crash. He had been hurled through the roof of the cabin when the plane struck and knocked him out on the snow. How long he lay there he did not know. When consciousness returned he struggled to his feet and in a half delirium he made his way to the wreckage of what had been the cabin.

In the debris he found Robinson, Greaves, Cooke, unconscious, and Spence dead. He sighted through the swirling snow Bacon's Island and, half crawling and half walking, covered the half-mile to a fish camp on the island. Wounded were brought to camp within a short time by fishermen.

Flying 15 Years

Spence, 41 years old, had been flying for more than 15 years. He served his apprenticeship in the old "Camel" type of plane during the war years, where he served with the Royal Flying Corps.

Spence had traveled all the known air trails of the Northland during his yearsof flying since the Great Adventure. For four years he acted as chief pilot for Dominion Explorers and had been engaged in mineral exploration work in the Great Bear Lake area before coming to The Pas.

It was during the search for the lost Macalpine party that Spence distinguished himself. Col. C. D. H. Macalpine, president of Dominion Explorers, and seven mining experts, were lost in the Fall of 1929 while essaying a flight to the Arctic.

Together with such outstanding fliers as "Wop" May, "Punch" Dickens and other aces of the north, Spence for weeks sped across the icy wastes of the barren lands in a search for his missing chief. Their search was rewarded when in early November of that year the lost party was located at Cambridge Bay.

Spence whose home was in Oshawa leaves a wife and two young children there.

ployees the Government took on 210 individuals, a saving of 350. The cost of direct relief and of exchange were responsible for the budgetary deficit, he stated.

The Premier dealt with the mortgage moratorium and made clear that the Government had no intention of enlarging the present Act to allow those who could meet their obligations, to escape from so doing. The mortgage business of the province would not be upset; the Government merely sought to protect the equity of those property holders who could not pay. Provincial loans took up some time in the Premier's address and he explained that the last provincial loan at a little over six per cent. was not the highest rate of interest ever offered, as alleged by those opposed to the Government.

Twelve years ago the rate of interest was eight per cent., but, said the Premier, no one criticized the Government of the day, although conditions then were not nearly so trying as they were to-day.

Men's Club To Meet On Thursday Evening

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The annual meeting of the Men's Club of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, will be held on Thursday, January 19, at which officers for the current year will be elected and business relative to the future of the club discussed. The evening will be featured by a miscellaneous program, which will emphasize the Scotch tone in entertainment in honor of Robert Burns, whose anniversary is observed the following week.

The club this year, apart from holding its regular meetings and being privileged to hear outstanding speakers, has done splendid work for the church, the latest activity being the fixing of the floor in the church hall.

BISHOP OF ONTARIO PAYS VISIT ANGLICAN PARISH OF MARMORA

TOUCHING SERVICE.

MARMORA, Jan. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—The first episcopal visit of Right Rev. J. Lyons, D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario, to the Anglican parish of Marmora on Sunday, Jan. 15, will go down to history as one of the most memorable occasions in the church life of that community, chiefly because it synchronized with the dedication of a beautiful east window to the memory of the late Canon C. M. Harris, who was suddenly called to rest in 1923 after serving as rector of Marmora for forty-four years.

Bishop Lyons, in spending the entire day in the parish, gave proof that as a bishop, he has lost none of that tireless energy which marked his life when he was a pastor of souls in the lesser capacity. He was the celebrant at the 8 a.m. A.Y.P.A. Corporate Communion, attended St. Paul's Sunday School and gave an address to the ninety-two present, and was the preacher at Holy Trinity in the afternoon besides performing the dedication at the morning service and administering the rite of Confirmation in the evening.

At St. Paul's, the altar was beautifully decorated with narcissus, daffodil and chrysanthemum and the new chancel window was veiled with the Union Jack. A shortened form of Morning Prayer was taken by the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, and all hymns used were the familiar ones of the church in which the thought of Christ as the Good Shepherd is brought out. The lesson, Rev. 7, verses 9 to 17, was read by the Bishop. The dedication of the window preceded the sermon.

Refers to Canon Harris

Before reading the dedicatory prayers and unveiling the window, Bishop Lyons gave a brief but fitting eulogy of the late Canon Harris in which he referred to him as one "humble minded, generous in spirit, and a true Christian gentleman." The window depicts Christ the Good Shepherd in a beautiful pastoral scene and bears in the inscription, "The Lord is my Shepherd. To the Glory of God and in memory of Reverend Canon Charles Mountain Harris. Born Jan. 7, 1854; died March 13th, 1923. For forty-four years rector of this church. Erected by friends, 1932.

The preacher for the occasion was Canon Dr. G. E. Simmons of Honan, China, who for 10 years was a lay reader under the late Canon. His address was of a wonderfully appropriate character. Choosing as his text, portions of the first seven verses of Philippians 4.

Two anthems were sung by the augmented choir; intercessory hymn by Edward German, and "Rejoice, the Lord is King," by Bert F. Coupar. The organist, Miss Kathleen Litt, was accompanied by Mr. S. B. Wright, violin. In the large congregation (for which extra seating accommodation had to be provided) were included two of the late Canon's brothers, Allan and Frank Harris of Toronto, Mrs. Allan Harris and Mrs. C. J. Fairfield, also of Toronto (cousin of the late Canon).

Rite of Confirmation.

A still larger congregation assembled at St. Paul's in the evening, when Bishop Lyons administered the rite of confirmation to the following nine candidates: Thomas Pearce, Russell Heath, Edward Lilley, Thomas Smith, Glen Sayers, Peggy Hewitt, Mary James, Thomasine Leonard and Ruth Jones. In a very impressive address the Bishop brought out truths suggested by a phrase of the morning sermon, "I believe in the Communion of Saints." The choir beautifully rendered Gounod's "Send out Thy Light and Thy Truth." Accompaniment to the organ was furnished by S. B. Wright, violin, and W. L. Rigg, cello.

In accordance with custom, the collection of this service was devoted to the mission funds of the Church. A gratifying feature of the services was the goodly number in attendance from the parish of Rawdon, linked with Marmora, so many years under the rectorate of the late Canon Harris.

Fooling the Wife

CHICAGO, Jan. 16 (C.P.). — The color scheme of Fred Bocken's shoes was a thing that puzzled two policemen. One was black and the other was tan.

So they followed him. His footsteps led to an alleged speakeasy, the proprietor of which was arrested. Then Bocken explained:

His wife, he said, wouldn't let him go out for a drink. So he sneaked out without turning on the lights and got his shoes all mixed up.

PREMIER BEREAVED ON WAY TO OTTAWA

VICTORIA, Jan. 16 (C.P.).—The death occurred suddenly Saturday afternoon of Mrs. Tolmie, wife of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, who had left earlier in the week for Ottawa to attend the Dominion-Provincial Conference.

Mrs. Tolmie suffered a severe illness some months ago and had a nurse in attendance since. Latterly she had shown so much improvement that she had been allowed to receive visitors and go out occasionally. She joined the family at luncheon Saturday, and was preparing for a drive when she suffered a stroke from which she died almost immediately. Her son-in-law and daughter, Major and Mrs. Leonard Andrews, and other members of the family were with her at the time.

Born on July 2, 1868, in Durham, Ont., Mary Anne Harrap was the daughter of the late Samuel and Mrs. Harrap, who had arrived in Canada the previous year. She was educated in Durham and accompanied her parents to British Columbia.

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance and Industries in British Columbia, will head the British Columbian delegation to the Inter-provincial Conference at Ottawa, in the absence of Premier Tolmie. The Premier left Winnipeg Saturday night for Victoria when he received a telegram informing him of the sudden death of his wife.

PERFECT TEETH IN INDIAN TRIBE

S. American Plant, When Chewed, Forms Film Preventing Decay.

LEAVES TEETH BLACK.

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—(AP)—Imagine jet-black teeth! Well, they might become the style if a newly-found South American plant, said to prevent tooth decay, lives up to its reputation, and people took to chewing its leaves.

Decay can be prevented by chewing the plant, which forms a protective film over the teeth, according to reports brought by Dr. W. A. Archer to the Smithsonian Institution and announced today. He found the plant in the jungles of Colombia. But along with its reputed protection, the plant turns the teeth as black as coal.

The plant was found in use among the little-known tribe of Citara Indians, and it is a fact, says Dr. Archer that they have almost perfect teeth. Children chew leaves of the plants until a protective film is formed, and adults chew them twice a year to repair any places where the film may be worn off.

Black teeth are considered objects of beauty by the Citara tribe, whereas white teeth are regarded as almost a deformity. The plant is a species of a group known scientifically as the Schradera, a member of the coffee family.

Tea Drinkers

LONDON, Jan. 16 C.P.). — Oceans of tea, rivers of coffee, trickling brooks of cocoa—that's a comparative picture of Old England's taste.

"Statistics show," says Douglas Woodruff, official of the Empire Marketing Board, "that we in England drink five cups of tea per head per day, one cup of coffee and one cup of cocoa a week."

JAPAN CHARGES U.S. AIDING CHINA

American Ambassador in Tokyo Denies Deal For Arms and Cash.

REPORTS MERE RUMORS.

TOKYO Jan. 16.—(A.P.)—Charges that the United States was aiding China's war preparations against Japan were aired to-day in the Tokyo newspapers.

Joseph C. Grew, the American Ambassador, issued the following statement:

"Regarding rumors published in various newspapers in Japan to the effect that understanding was reached between the United States and China for supplying money, arms and munitions to China, the American Embassy states emphatically there is no understanding or agreement of this nature between the United States and China. There is no basis whatever of rumors which have been published, including a rumor the United States arranged to loan the Nanking government 20,000,000 yuan (nearly $4,000,000)."

It was learned Ambassador Grew's denial was based on a recent statement cabled by Secretary Henry L. Stimson of the State Department at Washington.

7 REPLAYS TO BE CONTESTED BEFORE 4TH ROUND ANNOUNCED

FOR ENGLISH CUP.

LONDON, Jan. 16 (C.P. Cable).—Opponents in the fourth round of the English Cup competition on January 28 were announced in the draw made public to-day. Spirited competition is assured in many games in which teams are evenly matched and the uncertainty of Cup play will provide an interesting angle to the rest.

Seven re-plays still have to be contested before the list for the fourth round is complete, but these will be played this week or next.

Walsall, the giant-killers, who eliminated Arsental, finalists last year, in Saturday's third round play, are matched against the winners of the Gateshead-Manchester City replay in the fourth round. Brighton, who scored another sensational upset in defeating Chelsea, are stacked up against Bradford, the Second Division outfit.

First Division teams clash in two and possibly three of the fourth round matches. Blackpool and Huddersfield meet in one all First Division tussle, and Birmingham and Blackburn Rovers in another. Aston Villa and Sunderland will provide the third if the Villans are able to eliminate Bradford City in their re-play.

Matches between First and Second Division teams number five and possibly six. Tottenham Hotspurs, who defeated Oldham Saturday, take on the winner of the Barnsley-Luton Town re-play in the fourth round. Leeds United, who eliminated last year's Cup team, Newcastle United, are drawn against Tranmere Rovers, who put out Notts County.

Everton, victors over Leicester City Saturday, will take on the winner of the Bury-Notts Forest replay. Derby County are matched against Watford or South-End, and Sheffield United against Burnley. West Ham United take on a First Division team in West Bromwich Albions.

The Draw.

Barnsley or Luton Town vs. Tottenham Hotspurs.
Tranmere Rovers vs. Leeds United.
Bradford City or Aston Villa vs. Sunderland.
Everton vs. Bury or Notts Forest.
Watford or South-End vs. Derby County.
Aldershot vs. Millwall or Reading.
Burnley vs. Sheffield United.
Brighton vs. Bradford.
Gateshead or Manchester City vs. Walsall.
Chester vs. Halifax.
Birmingham vs. Blackburn Rovers.
Darlington vs. Sheffield Wednesday or Chesterfield.
Bolton Wanderers vs. Grimsby.
Blackpool vs. Huddersfield.
West Ham United vs. West Bromwich Albion.
Middlesbrough vs. Stoke City.

FRENCH PLANE OVER ATLANTIC

14 HOUR FLIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, Senegal, Jan. 16 (A.P.)—The French plane Arcenciel (Rainbow), with seven persons aboard, including Pilot Jean Mermoz, took off to-day at 4.48 a.m. Greenwich time (11.48 p.m., Sunday, Eastern Standard time) for Natal, Brazil.

The big plane carried 8,300 litres of gasoline, enough for a 24-hour flight, on the trans-ocean leg of its projected journey from Istres, France, to Bueonos Aires. It got away after a first attempt to take-off failed.

The builder and only passenger aboard with the crew, Rene Couzinet, hoped to reach Natal in 14 hours.

At 8 a.m. Greenwich Time (3 a.m. Eastern Standard time), the plane reported its position as 10.30 degrees north, 21.22 degrees west, having covered the first 700 kilometres (420 miles) at an average speed of 240 kilometres per hour.

could be imagined, was simple for Mr. Redner. It would be safe to assume that during his period in business here, covering a space of over four decades, Mr. Redner must at some time or other have done work on locks and vaults in most of the offices and other buildings throughout the city.

In latter years an attendant at Bethany Tabernacle, Mr. Redner was one of the original members of the Salvation Army Temple Band over forty years ago. He was a cornettist. Among some of the survivors of the original group of bandsmen are: William Payton, Albert Vass, George Stevens, and R. C. Braund of this city; and Colonel W. Burroughs of Toronto, who was at the time a lieutenant in the local corps. Incidentally Colonel Burroughs is due in the city this evening.

Mr. Redner spent his youth in Fenelon Falls, to which place his parents the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Redner had gone from Rednersville, Ontario. The Redner family was of Dutch ancestry, and Rednersville was named after them. probable indication that the community was originally settled by members of the Redner family, although there would appear to be no definite record to that effect.

Mr. Redner is survived by his widow, who was formerly Margaret Miller of Fenelon Falls, and by his stepmother, Mrs. Rachael Redner, whose permanent home is at Fenelon Falls, but who is at present staying in this city. Mrs. Rachael Redner is in her 91st year, and still enjoys a remarkable degree of good health.

The funeral is to be held on Tuesday next at 2 p.m. from Belleghem's Funeral Home, with services conducted by the Rev. Harold Browett, pastor of Bethany Tabernacle. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

TOMSKY ADMITS BEING DISLOYAL

Chairman of Russian State Publishing Department Asks for New Chance.

REDS CHECKING UP.

(By Stanley P. Richardson, A.P. Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Jan. 16 (A.P.)—Michael Tomsky, chairman of the State Publishing Department, abjectly pleaded guilty to-day to an accusation that he was disloyal to the Communist Party. The Communist Central and Central Control committees last week placed Tomsky under "strictest discipline" for remaining passive in the party's resistance to "subversive elements."

Alexis I. Rykoff, Commissar for Communications, who was similarly punished, yesterday denied he was disloyal and disavowed his supposed connection with followers of A. P. Smirnoff, who was expelled from membership in the Central committee.

Both Tomsky and Rykoff, the latter a former Premier, were stripped of all important positions in the inner councils of Communism three years ago, but were reinstated early last year.

Tomsky asked for a new chance to prove his allegiance to Joseph Stalin's leadership.

FIND 27 GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

Three Englishmen Involved in Indian Plot Backed by Moscow.

TRIAL LASTED 3 YEARS.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 16 (C. P. Cable).—A three-year trial of conspiracy which has cost £120,000 ended to-day with the conviction of three Englishmen and 24 Indians.

They were found guilty of having conspired to deprive the King of his sovereignty in India.

Philip Spratt and B. F. Bradley, who were alleged to have been sent to India with financial aid from Moscow with orders to overthrow the British rule, were sentenced to 12 and 10 years respectively and ordered out of the country. Hutchinson, the third Englishman, was sentenced to four years rigorous labor in prison.

Of the thirty persons originally accused, all were found guilty except three. Sentences ranged from various terms of deportation to imprisonment. Shaukat Usmani, who was nominated the Communist candidate of Spen Valley against Sir John Simon in 1929, was transported for ten years.

LLOYD GEORGE 70 TO-MORROW

Venerable English Statesman Wages Strong Fight Against Oncoming Old Age.

FIERY TONGUE UNDIMMED.

LONDON, Jan. 16 (C.P. Cable).—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George celebrates his 70th birthday to-morrow.

The venerable British statesman, who rose to the height of his fame as Prime Minister during the latter years of the Great War, is waging as strong a fight against oncoming old-age as he used to against any principles or theories which he believed "out of date."

He served notice in the House of Commons just before Christmas that he is still possessed of his fiery tongue and penetrating manner when he lashed out at the alleged lack of action on the part of Parliament in dealing with unemployment relief.

In an interview with the News Chronicle this evening, Mr. Lloyd George declared himself completely severed from the "official Liberalism' 'of British politics. "British Liberalism is in an advanced stage of creeping paralysis, with no future but that of the atom in the crash," he declared.

He says he will preserve his independence as a Radical and will support any government which advances bold measures adequate to meet the needs of the time.

MRS. P. O'CONNOR IS LAID TO REST

Sister of Mrs. Peter Milloy of This City Dies in Ops Township.

LINDSAY, Jan. 16 (Special to The Examiner).—The funeral took place on Sunday of an old resident of Ops Township, in the person of Mrs. Patrick O'Connor, sister of Mrs. Peter Milloy of Peterborough. The deceased, whose maiden name was Farrell, was born in Darlington township, Durham County. She is surivved by five children, one brother and four sisters.

Lindsay Horticultural Society elected Mrs. E. O'Leary its president—the first woman to occupy that position in the history of the the organization.

According to statistics furnished by Chief of Police Lawler, there were exactly the same number of cases in the local police court in 1932 as in 1931.

Three Kinmount men — Peter Pearson, Lorne Collins and James Allen, had a narrow escape from a watery grave in Swamp Lake, Galway Township. They were bringing home a load of hay across the lake when the horses broke through the ice. The men reached safety, but the horses were drowned.

Dysart Township, Haliburton County, which defaulted on the payment of school teachers' salaries, has made arrangement to make part payment. The Ontario Municipal Board will be made acquainted with the present financial situation in the township, and will be asked for advice.

Robert Kirkwood, of Minden, had a narrow escape from death near Portage Hill. He was driving a truck belonging to the Department of Public Works when it left the road bordering a deep gully. A stump which the truck lodged against, saved the driver and the machine from plunging many feet below.

Garfield Pogue, a well-known Ops farmer, has been appointed a relief officer by the Provincial Government. It has not been announced what section of the province he will cover.

PRIEST TO BE HONORED

SAULT STE. MARIE—An unusual service will take place at the Sacred Heart church in the Sault on Jan. 25, when Dean T. J. Crowley, senior priest of the city, will be invested with the title of monsignor, an honor recently conferred upon him by the pope. Bishop D. J. Scollard, of North Bay, will preside at the ceremony, in which at least 25 priests of the diocese will take part.

MYSTERY VEILS RED FREIGHTER

SOS Calls Since Thursday Report Ship Afire Amid Ice Floes.

PART OF CREW LEAVE.

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Jan. 16 (A.P.)—The plight of the Soviet freighter and passenger steamer Sakhalin, afire two days ago with upwards of 250 persons aboard in the Sea of Okhotsk off the Siberian Coast, remained veiled in mystery to-day.

In a brief message relayed by the steamer Golden Tide and intercepted by the Government station here late Saturday night, a spectacular fire aboard the vessel was reported. The first SOS message was sent out on Thursday.

The fire was not overcome until the amidship deckhouse and hold had been destroyed, the message said, and half of the crew was reported as having left the vessel.

In addition, aid was asked from Soviet authorities at Vladivostok.

The vessel was heard asking them to send planes to their position to take off the passengers.

Icebound

TOKYO, Jan. 16 (A.P.)—The Soviet Embassy said to-day information from Khabarovsk, Siberia, declared the Soviet steamer Sakhalin was not burned, but was icebound in a dangerous position in the Sea of Okhotsk off the Northwest Siberian Coast.

A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency despatch from Otaru, Island of Yeza, Japan, said two Soviet ice-breakers called at Otaru for fuel and water and continued to the aid of the Sakhalin.

Leafs Score 5-3 Overtime Victory From Senators

COTTON, BAILEY AND THOMS ACCOUNT FOR FIVE COUNTERS; MANY PLAYER TRADES PENDING

Nelson Stewart Scores Two Goals as Boston Defeat Maroons 3-2.

Rangers Humble Chihawks.

Rumored Lionel Conacher May Be Traded to Ottawa For Alex Connell.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(CP)—Under the shadow of an impending and perhaps thorough shaking-up along the National League's lower self, the under-dogs of hockey peered hopefully today at the second half of the seasonal schedule.

Such consistent losers as Montreal Maroons, Ottawa Senators, Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks were getting ready for the serious business of finding a place in the march play-offs. Right now they looked like anything but title-contenders.

If it isn't one thing that upsets Maroons it's another and Saturday night it was Nels Stewart, the giant no-waste-of-energy man of Boston Bruins who did all his National League strength-preserving in a Maroon jersey until this season. Stewart scored two second-period goals that brought about the 3-2 defeat of the Red team and held them down to Ottawa's level.

The Senators fought desperately at Toronto to break up a long-standing deadlock with Maroons but they succumbed finally in overtime to Maple Leafs 5-3. Rookie Bill Thoms, a Toronto amateur star till the middle of last season, marshalled a new Leaf forward line that contributed heavily to Ottawa's failure. Thoms, Ace Bailey and Hal Cotton accounted, between them, for all the Leaf goals.

Black Hawks made their debut under the leadership of Tommy Gorman before 12,000 Chicago fans and had a 5-0 defeat by Rangers thrust on them as the brothers Cook did some potent driving. Bun scored two and Bill one goal.

Maroons started what may develop into a widespread shake-up by releasing young Earl Roche immediately after the game with Boston. The former Montreal amateur forward, until two weeks ago a star with Windsor Bulldogs in the International League, promptly signed a contract with the Boston club.

Old Reg Noble, whose playing days seemed at an end when Detroit released him in early December for failure to get into condition, surprised Montreal customers by appearing in a Maroon uniform and playing in turns with Lionel Conacher, Cy Wentworth and Archie Wilcox on defence. The veteran, it was learned, may be retained and Maroons trade a defenceman, perhaps Conacher.

Big Train In Trade

Rumors mentioned a possible trade between Ottawa and Maroons, the Big Train going to the capital in exchange for Alex Connell, veteran goalie who is ready again for action only to find young Billy Beveridge playing such sensational hockey in the Senator nets that Senators really don't need Connell. These reports indicate the Montreal management is not entirely satisfied with the puck-stopping of Flat Walsh who has yielded 10 goals more than any other netman in the league to date.

Maroons are reported to be after Roter Roth, high scoring centre of the Buffalo International League club. Senators already have picked up a new defence prospect, Bert Burry who played with Springfield Indians in the Canadian-American circuit last season. Burry is to replace Leo Bourgeault who broke a small bone in his hand when he crashed into the boards during the Toronto game Saturday night.

But there was no stopping the "Big Four" over the week-end. Rangers' triumph over Chicago sent them into first place alone, a single point ahead of Detroit Red Wings who were held to a 1-1 tie at New York by Americans. Toronto's win enabled them to increase their first place margin over Americans to seven points and Boston kept on the heels of Rangers and Detroit with their win over Maroons.

Beveridge's spectacular work in goal saved Ottawa from a regulation three-period trouncing by Toronto. He stopped 61 shot during the evening. Thoms beat him in the first period and Cotton in the second. Thomas made it 3-0 early in the third session, but here the Senator offensive went to work, Syd Howe, Bill Touhey and Cooney Weiland tallying to tie the score. In the overtime Bailey and Cotton registered.

Both on brilliant point-making streaks, Americans and Red Wings surprised Gotham fandom by playing cautious hockey. Johnny Sheppard scored for Americans in the second period and Herbie Lewis early in the third tied it up for keeps.

Three Lead Scorers With The Boston Cubs

BOSTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Boston Cubs, sharing the lead in the Canadian-American Hockey League race with Providence, boast of the three leading scores in the circuit. The injured Alex Cook topped the list with 24 points, Lloyd Klein stood second with 23 and Ted Saunders, who has accounted for 19 of the Cubs' 56 goals to date, was third with 22 points.

"Hago" Harrington of the Providence Reds, was fourth on the list with 20 points and two of the Philadelphia Arrows' forwards, Eddie Burke and Paul Runge, were in a fifth place tie with 17 points.

Ellis Pringle of New Haven, topped the penalty carriers with 26 minors and a major, Petere of Philadelphia, was second with 23 minors and a major and Bill Regan, now with New Haven was third with 21 minors and a major.

Royal Canadian Rink In Canada Life Final

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—Rev. J. A. Cranston's Royal Canadians and the High Park rink skipped by Dr. Peaker will meet in the final for the Canada Life Trophy next Saturday night at the Toronto Curling Club.

In the semi-final games played on Saturday evening, Rev. Mr. Cranston's rink scored a last-end victory over John Rennie's Granites to win by 11 to 10. The High Park four had an easier time disposing of W. R. Macdonald's Toronto Club entry. Only 13 ends were played, the score at that time being 16 to 6 in High Park's favor. Dr. Peaket's rink got a big lead on the first five ends and the Toronto Club curlers couldn't catch up.

The other game was close all the way through. Scoring a 4 on the fourth end, Rev. Mr. Cranston took a lead, but the Granites overhauled it and were leading by one shot going into the last end. The Royals managed to get the two shots on the final end to give them a victory after a great display of curling.

Owing to ice not being available sooner, the final will not be played until next Saturday evening.

Bisons Gain on Deadlocked Leaders

Is Johnny Gelbert, Former Winnipeg Rider Destined To Fill The Shoes Of Earl Sande?

By CHARLES "HORSES" AYERS

Johnny Gilbert takes his place today among the greatest riders of American turf history.

The popular Syrian lad hung up a new mark of victories for a single season when he piloted home 212 winners for the season of 1932. This placed him five winners ahead of the record hung up by Lee Hardy in 1927, the credited top-water mark for present-day racing.

Gilbert's accomplishment stands out in bold relief because of the fact that he broke into the game but two years ago. No other jockey of such tender years has ever been able to fight his way to the top rank among our greatest stars.

Gilbert's mark is not the record for winning mounts of American racing. The once famous Walter Miller is credited with 368 winning mounts. Vincent Powers, who now trains the jumpers of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, has scored on more than 300 winners. But in those days mounts were more plentiful than they are today. This is borne out by the fact that Walter Miller rode in six hundred more races than has Gilbert. Powers also had as many more chances to ride than the present-day turf hero.

One of the features of Johnny Gilbert's record is the fact that he was not listed among the stars of the turf early in the spring. It was not until his phenomenal horsemanship began attracting attention late this summer that horsemen began engaging him. But his sensational riding since the opening of the Maryland season pushed him far in the lead over most of his rivals. However, it was not until two weeks ago that he was able to overtake the spectacular Hank Mills, the blond-haired lad from Colorado, who has captivated the racing fraternity with some sensational riding on the New York tracks.

There is a difference between the methods of these two lads. Hank is quick as a kitten at the barrier. His ability to go away from the starting gate with a loose rein allows his mounts to get into their strides in the fastest possible time. This gives Hank an advantage in short distance races.

It is over a distance of ground that Johnny Gilbert shines. The Syrian lad is a great judge of pace. He is able to rate his mount along at an even pace in contests over a distance of ground. This conserves its strength for the run through the stretch. It is this final drive which wins for Johnny. He is able to outride every rival during the final furlong of a race.

Many consider this the measure of a great rider. If it is, then Johnny Gilbert is a great racerider. He has yet to be outridden by any rival in the final 70 yards of a gruelling race.

Gilbert is likely to go on to greater deeds. His ambition is to be another Earl Sande. The former premier American jockey is his turf hero. Johnny fashions his every move after the Earle of Sande. Turf folks are confident if Johnny lives up to the high ideals of the former star rider that he will have no cause to regret his taking up raceriding....Johnny Gilbert, I congratulate you.

DRAFTING ROOM MACHINE HELD TO SCORELESS TIE BY GEARMEN

MACHINISTS WIN 3-1.

The race for leadership in the senior section of the C.G.E. interdepartment hockey league took on a different aspect on Saturday afternoon at the Brock Street Rink when the mighty Drafting Room hockey machine which had been conceded to be the strongest crew in the loop were held to a scoreless tie by the Switchgear players. The latter team which has been stepped up into senior company for the first time, played a brand of hockey which mark them as dangerous contenders for league honors. In the other senior tussle the Office took a 1-0 decision from the Tool Room who were minus several players due to the O.H.A. fixtures which were played on Friday night. Machine Shop vanquished the Structural Steel 3-1 in the first game of group two while the Armature Winders playing without subs bowed to the Fractional Motors, 5-4.

Stellar Display

The Drafting-Switchgear game was the choicest display of hockey on the program, both teams giving stellar displays in well-timed three man attacks that carried the fight, almost to the goalmouths repeatedly. Maudsley, Playford and Paggett, first string forwards for the Switchgear, teamed up splendidly and only the stiff defensive work of Howe and Davis, the Drafting Room rear-guard kept them off the tally-sheet.

Whatley and Mowry performed on the defence for the Gearmen, and besides doing splendid work in this department, stood out on lone rushes, both of them however, had the same habit of falling to pass the puck on any of their attacks. The Draftsmen wer a little off in their marksmanship on Saturday and several bullet-like drives that would have been hard to handle smacked against the end boards after missing the net by inches, aside from this they gave Hope in the opposing net plenty to worry about coming so close as to cause several pile-ups at the goalmouth.

Brilliant Goaltending

Kearns played a perfect game between the gas-pipes for the Drawing-Makers, blocking shots from all angles. Rooke, Allin, Palmer and Shields were the mainstays of the latter team, everyone of them looking good in their team-work and checking.

The teams—

Switchgear Goal, Hope; defence, Whatley and Mowry; centre, Maudsley; wings, Playford and Paggett; alternates, Cordery, Higgins, Hal and Hirst.

Drafting Room—Goal, Kearns; defence, Whatley and Mowry; centre, Palmer; wings, Rooke and Allin; alternates, Hickey, Price and Allin; alternates, Hickey, Price, Masterson and Shields.

Tough Opposition

The Machine Shop met tough opposition in the Structural Steel outfit who are one of the heaviest teams in the league, but more finished team-work was the deciding factor in favor of the Machinists. Time and again the hard-working Machine Shop players barged into the opposing territory only to miss passes inside the blue line or crumple against a very solid defence. However as the game wore on their plays began to click and they peppered Black in the Steel-Workers' citadel with a flock of close in shots. Craig secured two of the winners' goals, getting each one just o few seconds before the bell rang to end periods. Pearson sunk the other on a pass from Gordon Clarke. These three players together with Ashmore and Bernie Jones were the pick of the winning team.

On the other team Roy Harmer and Bernie Kearney were easily the best, the former getting the only unassisted while Kearney showed more speed than any of his team-mates. Howarth secured three penalties, the only ones in the game.

The teams—

Machine Shop: Goal, Tice; defence, Ashmore and Jones; centre, Clarke; wings, Pearson and Craig; alternate, Rogers.

Structural Steel: Goal, Black; defence, Howarth and Darling; centre, Kearney; wings, Foley and Harmer; alternates, Pilling and Hughes.

The Armature Winders, despite the fact that they played the entire game without substitutes, turned in a very creditable performance against the Fractional Motors who took the big end of a 5-4 decision.

The Motor builders led by Doug. Hatton were a threat every time they swooped inside the Winders' blue-line, and most of their tallies were scored on close-in shots that gave Pearson little chance. Rainey and Hayes starred for the winners the former sinking two goals.

Outstanding Performances

Dave Menzies, Les Calladine and Ben Wilson were the outstanding performers on the losing side, together with Muir on defence who broke up several dangerous attacks.

The teams—

Armature Winders: Goals, Pearson; defence, Calladine and Muir; centre, Millard; wings, Wilson and Menzie.

Fractional Motors: Goal, Routley; defence, Hatton and Catheart; centre, Hollingsworth; wings, Rainey and Hayes; alternates, Du Chene, Fanning and Hall.

Referee for the four games—Archie Weir.

HERD CHALKS UP 6TH VICTORY BY BEATING STARS

Windsor Avenges Recent Defeat by Taking 3-1 Decision From Olympics.

LONDON WINS 4-1.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(CP)—Marshalled by their "Dynamite Trio" of Lloyd Gross, Roter Roth and Lorne Carr, Buffalo Bisons today have worked their way to within three points of London Tecumsehs and Syracuse Stars, deadlocked leaders of the International Hockey League.

Chalking up their sixth win in seven games, the Bisons upset Syracuse, 6-3 last night and prevented the Stars from pulling away from London Tecumsehs, who had tied matters at the top of the league with a 4-1 win over the last-place Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Avenges Defeat

In the third game played over the week-end, Windsor avenged the defeat Detroit inflicted on them 10 days ago, when they earned a 3-1 decision over the Olympics Sunday.

Gross and Carr scored five of the six goals, when the Bisons downed Syracuse for the second successive time. Gross and Roth, leading marksmen of the circuit, have been finding the net with a consistency that is discouraging to the rival goal-tenders and have been a prime factor in their team's sudden improvement. Roth was credited with an assist on one of Gross' goals and Godin notched the other marker.

Tony Savage, Art Teasdale and Whitey Fields scored for the Stars. Penalties hindered Syracuse in their efforts to earn the decision, Freddy Robertson drawing three in the first period, while Savage was handed a major for hitting Young Bud Schultz.

Three Goal Rally In Third

London's win over the Indians was their first victory in four games. A three-goal rally in the final period gave them their margin. Gene Carrigan, lanky Tec pivot man, returned to the game after a seige of illness, and indulged in a fistic duel with Phil Perkins, the tribe's tiny wingman in the final minute of play.

Harold Hicks gave the Tecs a goal lead to take into the second period with them but Halliday tied it up before the period had finished. Leo Quenneville led the Londoners in the search for goals in the last period, banging one in after 11 minutes had elapsed and notching another in the final minute. Farrand Gillie sandwiched a goal in between Quenneville's two.

Make Pro Debut

Bill Mitchell and Mac Makarsky made their pro debut with Detroit Olympics, but failed to prevent Windsor from walking away with the verdict.

Gus Marker scored first for Detroit in the initial session but Blinco tied it up before the period ended. Blinco came right back in the second to score another one and give the Bulldogs a lead which Johnny Proudlock increased to two before the frame ended.

Twenty-two penalties were meted out, Windsor drawing down 12 of them. Mitchell was penalized in the first half minute he stepped on the ice and was given a 10-minute misconduct penalty in the second period.

McGILL AND "BLUE" EACH SCORE TWICE

Montreal Students Overcome Early Two-goal Lead of Locals.

TORONTO, Jan. 16. — Before a crowd of more than 2,000 wildly excited hockey fans, University of Toronto and McGill University chalked up one point each when they battled to a 2-2 draw in the opening game of the Intercollegiate championship series, played Saturday night at the Varsity Arena. The third team in the circuit is University of Montreal, who will play here next Saturday evening. Judging by the enthusiasm aroused Saturday night a bumper crowd should be on hand to see the Montrealers cross sticks with the Blue and White squad. U. of T. play their return games in Montreal, Jan. 28 and 30.

ACCIDENT CAUSED BY ICE ON HILL

Truck Owned and Driven by Harvey Donald Considerably Damaged.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — Striking a patch of ice on Chaplin's hill in Seymour township on Saturday, a light truck driven by Harvey Donald, Campbellford contractor, skidded off the road into the ditch and descended the hill broadside on, breaking off the two hind wheels and one of the front ones. Only a clump of bush in the ditch at the foot of the hill prevented the vehicle from turning over and severly injuring the driver, who fortunately escaped without injury. The truck, besides losing the three wheels, was considerably damaged.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL TEAM TAKES 2-1 WIN ON SATURDAY

SCHOOL HOCKEY LEAGUE AWAY TO GOOD START.

Good, exciting hockey marked the opening of the Public School League at All Saints' rink Saturday, three games being run off. The old rivals, King Edward and King George, met in the initial scrap with the boys from King Edward, scrapping through with a 2-1 win. Central and Queen Mary tangled in the second fixture, and battled hard to a 4-all tie. The third game was more one-sided, the Prince of Wales team getting the bigger side of an 8-1 count over Queen Alex.

The ice was good as they started off in the opening go, and the boys from East City school tallied first in the first period. The middle canto was a blank for both sides, but Post netted the rubber twice in a hard-fought third stanza to give King Edward a fine victory. Piercy played a great game in goal for the winners. The teams:

King George: Goal, Hepburn; defence, Hopcroft and McLean; centre, centre, Bousfield; wings, Blade and Legon; subs., Davies and Cragg.

King Edward: Goal, Piercy; defence, Hall and Grose; centre, Patterson; wings, Post and Jobe; subs, Leggitt, Anderson, Todd and Wainman.

Referee—O. M. Steer.

Show Up Well

Queen Mary and Central teams both showed up well in a close game that was marked by hard even playing, but neither side able to break the 4-all deadlock. They were well-matched and anxious, showing flashes of smart hockey throughout the game, the defence of the opponents being good. The teams

Central: Goal, Lomax; defence, Wright and Campbell; centre, MacInnes; wings, Copperwaithe and Hoy; subs, Johnson, Lomax and Sedgewick.

Easy Winners

The Prince of Wales' squad proved too good for Queen Alex and ran the tally up to 8-1 before the finish. The losers fought hard but the Wales players were faster, showed more teamwork and were superior defensively. It was a good game to watch, despite the score. Both Jay and Jones worked in the nets for the winners, with McIlmoyle and Webb on defence. The first forward line for Johnson, Williams and Lucas clicked in fine style, with Sutherland, Leether and McDougall also going well.

DATES ANNOUNCED FOR CURLING TITLE

Macdonald's Brier Event for Dominion Championship Starts Maroh 7 in Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—The official dates for the playdowns of the Macdonald's Brier Tankard for the Dominion of Canada curling championship will be March 7, 8, 9 and 10, at the Granite Club, according to an announcement made on Saturday.

The same procedure as last year will be followed, so far as the selection of the rinks, but the Ontario playdown will be between the winner of the Toronto Bonspiel and the Ontario Tankard only, the Canada Life having been eliminated for the current year.

The same number of rinks as last year will be in action, as the organization of the Western Province (British Columbia) expected to participate in 1933 has not progressed to the point where a British Columbia rink can be selected. It is quite possible that in another year British Columbia will have proper representation, but the general consensus of opinion in Western curling circles is against the inclusion of B.C. this year. They expect to have a complete Provincial organization effected within the next few weeks, but it would be too late at that time to arrange for the inclusion of B.C. in the 1933 playdowns.

Manitoba is trying an entirely new system to determine its Provincial representative for this year as the Winnipeg Bonspiel, which opens on February 7, has a special event which will permit the outside rinks having an equal chance with those from Winnipeg City to secure the Macdonald's Brier Trophy and the right to represent Manitoba.

AUSSIES END FIRST INNINGS WITH 222 SCORE

Several Australian Batsmen Hurt Through Vicious Bowling of Harold Larwood.

STRAINED RELATIONS.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 16 (C.P. Cable).—Opening with an aggressive display of batting, England at close of play to-day in the third test cricket match had scored 86 runs for the loss of one wicket. It was the start of the English second innings.

Australia was only able to muster a first innings total of 222 against the invading team's score of 341.

Strained Relations

Strained relations between some of the Australian players and the Englishmen marred the third test match. The vicious bowling of Harold Larwood, top notch English trundler, was the cause of the trouble.

In previous matches his fast deliveries had several times hit the Aussie batsmen, but in this third test he has been working on a leg theory that sends the ball up from the pitch with a nasty twist.

Several times the ball hit W. H. Ponsford while he was batting, and he finished his inning with a bad limp. W. A. Oldfield, who was playing a fine inning and had knocked up 41, was finally struck on the head by one of Larwood's high bouncers. He crumpled up on the ground and was obliged to retire. He was unable to take the field when England went to bat for the second innings.

After Saturday's play the manager of the English team Mr. Warner went into the dressing room to commiserate with W. M. Woodful, the Aussie captain, who was being massaged after receiving an injury from one of the bounding balls of Larwood.

The Australian captain refused to speak with Mr. Warner, and declared the leg bowling as used by Larwood was not cricket. He thought England was playing an unsportsmanlike game.

Mr. Warner then walked out.

Official Protest

The Cricket Board of Control telegraphed all members, seeking an opinion on the leg theory. It is thought probable the board will probably protest to the Marylebone Cricket Club.

A weak Australian first innings which left them 119 runs behind the English first inning score, and a strong opening in the English 2nd inning made things look dark for the Aussies at the close of play to-day.

The famous Herbert Sutcliffe was soon dismissed when England's second inning began by a wonderful catch by L. P. O'Brien at square leg.

D. R. Jardine, the English captain, and R. E. S. Wyatt were playing in aggressive fashion and scoring repeatedly to leg. After many bowling changes and varied attacks the two still held their wickets when play was closed for one wicket.

Carry the Brunt

The Australian first inning which totalled only 222 against the 341 of the English, saw three men carry the brunt of the batting. W. H. Ponsford with 85, V. Y. Richardson with 26, and W. A. Oldfield with 41 (retired), were the saving graces of a poor showing.

Play resumed this morning with the Aussie score at 109 for four wickets. V. Y. Richardson's wicket, the fifth to fall, was taken by G. O. Allen when he had scored 26. Of the 185 runs scored at lunch time Ponsford had obtained 80 and Oldfield 26. Shortly after the intermission, however, Ponsford attempted to turn a delivery from Voce to leg, and lost his wicket after scoring 85 runs.

C. V. Grimmett was dismissed with 10 runs, when Voce made a magnificent falling catch in the third slips.

Oldfield Retires

Just after the falling of that wicket Oldfield, the veteran Aussie wicket-keeper, was struck on the head by a ball from Larwood and retired with his score at 41. The incident aroused hoots and boos from all over the ground.

Harold Larwood then quickly dismissed W. J. O'Reilly for a duck. This was the eighth wicekt to fall, with the score at 222. With his score at six, T. Wall was bowled by Walter Hammond to conclude the innings, nine wickets having been taken and one retired.

A City Hockey League double-header will supply the hockey action to-night at the Brock, with the intermediates away in Bowmanville, and the juniors going to Port Hope tomorrow. Rangers play P.C.I. at eight bells, with Rotary and St. Peter's clashing at nine. These games are unusually close and hard-fought this year as a look at any of the recent scores will show. They say that City League tussle between P.C.I. and Rotary at the Brock late last Friday night was miles ahead of the O.H.A. affair that preceded it. Wednesday, the four E.P.L. teams make their debut at the Brock.

* * * * * *

There has been too much rough stuff pulled at some of the hockey games here and in the district lately. Some of it was very deliberate and some of it was the fault of the new O.H.A. rulings regarding body-checking potential puck receivers. Whatever the cause, it seems the referees must bear the blame in most cases. Of course, there are accidents which will happen sometimes with no one at all being at fault, but we're not speaking of those.

* * * * * *

The East Peterborough League officials are going to get strict orders for future games to check up on any breach of the rules which makes for rough or dangerous playing, such as using high sticks or the elbows in checking. All referees should have these orders and carry them out or take the blame for accidents during games. First thing we know, some of the players will find excuses to get out of contests against certain teams for fear of being really hurt. It's no joke. George Merrett lost the sight of an eye, "Red" Carroll had to have five stitches in his upper lip, and Jack Richardson had one or two stitches in his head—all local players hurt this season.

* * * * * *

We repeat that these injuries may have been entirely accidental, but whether they were or not, something must be done. The game must be checked up to prevent such things happening, and that seems to be a referee's job. A few stiff penalties early in the game may act as a warning to the players and the game would thus be clean the rest of the way. Players who are dirty—and that's the exact word for it—should be socked with a major penalty, and if they persist, give 'em a match penalty. Managers may squawk but it's up to them to make their players use straight hockey.

Church Hockey League games at All Saints' tonight are: Trinity midgets vs. Mark Street at six, All Saints' juveniles vs. St. Paul's at seven, Murray Street juniors vs. Mark Street at eight, and George Street intermediates vs. All Saints at nine. And Southend Loop fixtures at the Sacred Heart tomorrow follow: Empire Cubs vs. Canuck bantams at six, Rangers juveniles vs. Black Hawks at seven, Pirates vs. Park Hill intermediates at eight, and Northenders vs. Canucks intermediates at nine. There's a firstful, folks.

Both C.G.E. Shop League League and School Hockey Loop went strong Saturday, throwing a bunch of classy and ambitious pucksters over the boards to provide plenty of close competition. Looks like no runaway race in the C.G.E. circuit, while the school kids expect another tough campaign before the study grind of another spring begins. Every day in the week, barring Sundays, from now on there'll be lots of the ice-sport locally, if there's ice.

President Dwight J. Turner of Windsor, who is president of the Mich.-Ont. Amateur Hockey League and was for fifteen years a member of the O.H.A., gives some interesting dope on simon pure hockey. He was one time prexy and treasurer of the Ontario body, by far the largest hockey organization in the world. He says the O.H.A. is 45 years old and supervises about 900 games a season. It has 4,000 registered and 6,000 associate players.

* * * * * *

"While I do not believe," he says, "the time will come when amateur hockey in the States will be conducted on a basis that stupendous, I do believe that the coming of more artificial rinks will be a boon to the development of the sport. The building of new rinks of course will be slow until business conditions get back to where they belong. "Due to climatic conditions, he figures there will always be many more Canuck players developed than Americans.

* * * * * *

However, Mr. Turner expects to see before long a number of Yank pucksters from his loop wearing minor and major professional livery, and adds that Mich.-Ont. League hockey compares with the senior amateur group in Ontario. Our only worry as far as supremacy in the great Canadian winter sport is concerned is the Olympics. We're so used to taking that from other countries that it would be something of a jolt if the team from across the line should grab the laurels, as they came close to doing last year. In future, a really representative squad of star players should represent this country in the Olympics.

* * * * * *

Not very many local fans are trotting up to Toronto these days to see the Leafs in action, nothing like the week-end crowds that made the trip last winter. But the radio gets a real big play when there is a game in the Garden. Personally, we'd just as soon see one of the Toronto junior games, as they put up a real battle and show a brand of hockey that is mighty hard to beat. However, what with the depression and everything, the radio for games by ear and the Brock for seeing contests, is good enough for us. The home sport should be patronized first, and from now on, it should be plenty entertaining.

Jeby And Dundee Matched For Title

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 16 (C.P.).—Arrangements have been almost completed for a bout here between Ben Jeby, New York East Sider, who defeated Frankie Battaglia, of Winnipeg, last Friday night, and Vince Dundee, of Belleville, N.J., for the "middleweight championship of the world," Promoter Solly Schutzman announces.

Jeby won the title, as interpreted by the New York State Boxing Commission, by his triumph over the hard-hitting Winnipeg youngster. Dundee for several years has been ranked near the top of the division which has been without a universally recognized titlist since Mickey Walker abandoned it.

EAST SEYMOUR LEAGUE OPENS JANUARY 21ST

Double-headers Will Be Played in Each Saturday Afternoon at Campbellford.

ANNOUNCE SCHEDULE.

BURNBRAE, Jan. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—At an executive meeting of the East Seymour Hockey League on Saturday evening, final plans were made for the opening of the schedule on Saturday afternoon, January 21st, when those keen rivals of other frays, Hoard's and Menie clash at 2 p.m., with Petherick's and English Line meeting in a battle of newcomers at 3.30.

A very satisfactory agreement was reached with the Davidson Arena officials at Campbellford and the schedule calls for a double-header each Saturday afternoon to the end of February. The schedule follows:

Jan. 21 — 2.00 p.m., Menie vs. Hoard's; 3.30, English Line vs. Pethericks's.

Jan. 28— 2.00 p.m., Hoard's vs. English Line; 3.30, Menie vs. Pethericks.

Feb. 4.—2.00 p.m., Menie vs. English Line; 3.30, Hoard's vs. Pethericks.

Feb 11—2.00 p.m., Pethericks vs. English Line; 3.30, Hoard's vs. Menie.

Feb. 18— 2.00 p.m., English Line vs. Hoard's; Petherick's vs. Menie.

Feb. 25—2.00 p.m.—Pethericks vs. Hoard's; 3.30, English Line vs. Menie.

Favored to Win.

On paper the Menie veterans look easy winners and the wise guys have them picked to go through without defeat, but many things may happen before the end of the schedule. The Menie organization have two junior O.H.A. players in Doug. Milne and Nelson, in addition to Eagleson and Wallace for goal, Jack Rannie, Earl and Wilbert Whitton, Ken Milne and Craighead. English Line are short-handed according to Manager Shillinglaw, who has been fortunate in securing the services of Ted Owens as net minder, Henry Locke, Lin Fry, Alec and Jack Stephens, Don and Ted Peake and Frank Potts are other prospects, with possibly the loan of one of the Little brothers from Menie.

Jeffs With Mt. Pleasant.

Hoard's have lost their stellar defenseman, Will Jeffs, who is signed up with Mount Pleasant in the Rawdon League. Coggins is with the same team and Will Hume has not yet consented to come out. Manager Hobbs has two good men in Ray and Ken Oddie, goal and defence of the Campbellford juniors. Oscar Rannie, Mac Rimington, Harold and Carman Gunning, Frank Heagle and possibly Willis and Jones will make up the team which is rated to be the runners-up to Menie for the championship.

The Petherick's gang are pretty much an unknown element as only one member of the team has played organized hockey before. They have Arden Watson for goal, Grant and Don Kerr, Ray Fry and Albert Case as defence prospects, with Don Watson, Anderson, Barnum, Petherick brothers and Jack Watson for forwards. While this squad has plenty of material the conditioning and experience of the older teams will give them the edge.

The officials of the various teams have done their part of the job, the players are willing and keen for good sport and the success or failure of the new league depends on the support of the sport lovers of the town and township.

Rifle Shoot Results.

Noted Screen Actor Pat Rooney Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—(A.P.)—Pat Rooney, 42, stage and screen actor, is dead at his home here today after an illness of more than a year.

Rooney, who did his first screen work with the pioneer Essanay Company in Chicago and since had appeared in numerous productions, playing with Charles Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks, among others, had undergone three operations for stomach ailments and for abscessed lungs.

Rooney formerly was on the stage, making his first appearance in "The Man From Mexico," in San Francisco in 1911.

GAMES CALLED OFF.

Owing to the mild weather and soft ice, no games will be played at the Brock this evening. The City League ones will be held there tomorrow evening, provided it is cold enough.

TRINITY BEATS KNOX 26 TO 5

George Street "A" Juveniles Battle to 10-all Tie With All-Stars.

KNOX JUNIORS WIN 29-15.

Following is the juvenile standing of the Church Basketball League to date, the first two teams to play-off:

	W	L	P
Trinity	4	0	8
George Street A.	3	1	6
St. Paul's	3	2	6
George Street B	1	1	2
St. Andrew's	0	3	0
Knox	0	4	0

Three games in this loop were played at "Y" Saturday, Trinity Juveniles taking a 26-5 decision over Knox, George Street A Juveniles playing a 10-all tie with a pickup squad, and Knox Juniors winning 29 to 15 over St. John's.

The first game was much closer than the score indicates, with Ward, Thorburn and Davern all playing well for the winner while no one player was outstanding for Knox. It was 10-0 going into the last half, but the losers counted five points then with Trinity gradually lengthening its lead. The teams:

Knox—Leclair, Watson, Smythe Mervin and Laing.

Trinity: Ward, Thorburn, Davern, Gates and Edmondson.

Referee, V. Holmes; scorer, A. Stinson.

St. Paul's defaulted to George Street A, which was surprising as if the Saints had played and won they would have cinched a playoff position. Now George Street A is almost certain to be in the play-offs with Trinity. Kingdon and Fair were best, though all played well for the George Streeters. McIntyre was outstanding for the pickups who made it a 10-10 draw in a fine game. The teams:

George Street A — Kingdon, Wright, Fair, Roberts and Galley.

Pickups—Watson, McIntyre, Stinson, Barr and Edmondson.

Referee—V. Holmes; scorer, D. Charlton.

Knox Juniors finished stronger to get a 29-15 win from St. John's in a good game. The losers are all young and coming, showing good combination, but their more experienced opponents shaded them in the last half when they got 20 points against 8. Young Pattie and Patterson were best for the Saints. For Knox, there was no particular star, all going great. Londerville, Archibald, Seabrooke and Hammell looked smart on the front line, with the other three showing up well defensively, Cunningham being unusually effective. The teams:

St. John's—Welsh, Young, Patterson, Gledhill, Pattie and Howell.

Knox—Seabrooke, Hammell, Archibald, Benson, Masters, Londerville and Cunningham.

Referee, J. McClenaghan; scorer, W. Ward.

KELLEY AGAINST PLAY-OFF PLANS

Minneapolis Club President to Protest Newly Adopted A. A. System.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 16 (C.P.).—Mike Kelley, president of the Minneapolis Baseball Club of the American Association, plans to renew his fight against the League's new championship play-off idea, when the association owners meet in Chicago late this month.

The new play-off system suggested for the International League by Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, calls for the leader of the eastern association clubs meeting the leader of the western half in a seven-game series for the pennant at the end of the regular playing season. This system has been in vogue in the National Hockey League for years. Kelley doesn't like it a bit.

"What could be stiller than a club, after winning the pennant in a 154-game schedule, engaging in a seven-game play-off with the team finishing in fifth place, to prove its right to the championship," asked Kelley.

He said he was trying to line up enough votes to have the plan rescinded at the coming Chicago meeting. The American Association adopted the plan some weeks ago.

Snow Is Good Sign For Timber Drives

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Jan. 16. (CP)—Plenty of snow in the bush at this time augurs well for a successful spring drive by those who have timber, pulpwood and ties to bring out. It is expected that the drives this year, though limited in size and number, will create jobs for quite a number of men, for but a small percentage of those employed in winter operations qualify as river drivers.

The jobbers of the Eastern Lumber Company at Ranger Lake now have around 400 men in the bush, and their spring drive will probably be the largest in the area. The Abitibi Power and Paper Company will have some drives in the Michipicoten area, and intend to move some wood east of the Sault to the vicinity of the Espanola mill.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

If I were a hunter,
I'd hunt for a cow,
You can catch a cow quickly
Without knowing how.
—Shadow Sayings.

With the tin soldier the shadows hadn't much success in catching animals. The tin soldier had planned to catch them and put them in his zoo. All he had caught was a cold, so he wasn't able to do anything, but stand in a corner of the children's play room, and sneeze whenever nobody was looking.

Then Knarf decided that he was going to catch some animals. "Where are you going to catch them?" Hanid wanted to know.

"Out in the garden."

"But there aren't any animals out in the garden," Hanid and the other shadows tried to tell him. He kept shaking his head. "You don't know anything. The garden is full of animals." With that, Knarf made himself as small as the head of a pin (well, maybe just a little bigger) then out into the garden he went. The other shadows didn't see any reason why they should follow him, so they all waited.

"When you catch something, let us know," they said.

It makes a lot of difference in the way things look when you're as small as the head of a pin (and even when you're just a little bigger). As soon as Knarf reached the garden, he thought he was in a forest. He was really in a little fringe of grass, but the blades of grass looked exactly like trunks of trees. Through this forest of grass Knarf crept, trying to make as little sound as possible, because he didn't want to scare away any of the animals that might be hiding there. Every now and then among the huge grass trunks, the shadow boy came upon tall round trunks that went high into the air. These were daisy stems, and dandelion stalks and stems of clover.

Knarf crept through the forest

Knarf stopped to listen. He thought he had heard footfalls. He crep behind a pebble that to him seemed as big as a boulder. Yes, he heard footfalls sure enough. It was like an army marching, very quietly.

Nearer, nearer, nearer came the sound of the footfalls. Knarf wondered whether he oughtn't to run away before something happened. He had nothing to defend himself with. He quickly glanced around for something to pick up. All he could find was a dandelion feather (it was really a dandelion seed with something that looked like a feather on the end of it), so he seized it.

Knarf was sure now that not only one animal but fifty at least were coming towards him. His eyes almost popped out of his head as he waited.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 17

According to the prevailing lunar transits on this day there may be a notable movement in the direction of progress after a period of long sustained stagnation and congested conditions. It is a time for crashing through these with determination and perseverance. Lands, tenancies, agriculture should thrive and also it is a propitious time for treating with large corporations, secret bodies and diplomatic circles by clever and shrewd agreements. Elderly women may cause anxiety.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which crystallized and long lagging conditions may be spurred into activity and profit by industry, perseverance and resolution. All property interests should be advanced, the fortunes stabilized and shrewd deals put over with corporations, secret societies and by means of conspiracy or subtle agreements. An elderly woman may cause some anxiety. A child born on this day should be persevering, diligent and steadfast as well as disposed to gain its ends by shrewd and subtle means. It should be kind and affectionate.

DEVELOPING INTO WOMANHOOD

THE young woman who suffers from monthly pains, or weakening drains and nervousness, or the woman of middle age who is distressed with heat flashes, should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Mrs. H. Surgent of Steele St., St. Thomas, Ont., says: "When I was a young girl developing into womanhood I was rundown, and awfully nervous, I had no appetite and lost several pounds in weight. Frequent headaches also made me miserable. I used about three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it strengthened my entire system, I gained weight, the headaches disappeared, my appetite returned."

PAY CUT 10 P.C. IN HUNTINGDON

Councillors Decide on Three Instead of Five Sheep Valuators for 1933.

SHAW, WRIGHT ASSESSORS

IVANHOE, Jan. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Huntingdon Council met on Monday, with Reeve W. A. Morton and Councillors R. S. Wood, C. A. Mitz, Clayton Wright and John Wright present.

George Foster interviewed Council de Morton's hill, south of Moira, in need of repair. Vane Mitts interviewed the Council re Peck's lane in need of repair.

The reeve, J. Wright and Clayton Wright were appointed a committee to investigate the state of these roads.

The system of sheep valuating was changed by appointing three valuators instead of five, the salary to be $2 for the first call and $1 for second call if same be demanded by those having sheep killed or injured by dogs.

1933 Officers.

The Council and all officials' salaries were cut ten per cent.

Tenders are to be received for caretaking of the Town Hall up to February 6.

The rent of the Town Hall was reduced to $5 for dances and $3 for church entertainments, etc.

Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The first meeting of the Women's Institute for the New Year was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Longmuir, Havelock road, when the president, Mrs. George Brooks, was in charge of the meeting.

One minute's silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. McLaughlin, who had attended the December meeting, but had since passed away.

The roll call was responded to with New Year resolutions. A Valentine party was discussed and Mrs. Longmuir very graciously offered her home for the event, but plans were not completed for the party at this meeting.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Greenly when the hostesses will be Mrs. Greenly, Mrs. Longmuir, Mrs. T. Wight and Mrs. Fred. Scott.

The program for the meeting consisted of an instrumental piano duet by the Misses Margaret Brown and B. G. French; reading, "The Old Family Album," Mrs. J. Garneau; vocal duet, "In the Garden," Mrs. John Scott and Miss B. French; pat contest, in charge of Miss B. French, and won by Mrs. Tom Wight.

District Notes.

Mr. Fred. Scott has purchased the residence of Mr. George Brooks, who vacates at the beginning of February.

Alton Hubble, eldest son of Mr. Hubble, Havelock road, met with a painful accident while playing in the yard at Old Havelock School, injuring his right shoulder.

Mrs. James Dunn has returned home from Havelock Hospital where she has been confined through illness.

TO OPEN BUREAU LATER IN WEEK

City-Wide Campaign is Started to Augment Relief Fund.

NEED IS GREAT

The bureau for supplies for the unemployed will be opened later in the week in the Canadian Department Stores' Grocetria on George street. It will act as a receiving station for anything in the way of house furnishings — stoves, beds, mattresses, chairs, tables, high chairs, china—clothing of any sort, boots and shoes, bedding, canned goods, vegetables. The average household contains many articles that have fallen into disuse. They are put away in sheds and attics and they might help out wonderfully in some home where there isn't money enough to buy a new tea kettle, should the one in use start a leak.

Citizens are asked to send in what they can to help relieve the present distressful situation.

A city-wide campaign has commenced, to augment the existing relief fund, and this emergency appeal is being made to those who are in a financial position to give of their means to assist less fortunately placed people.

The Canadian Department Stores has kindly loaned their former Groceteria for the purpose of acting as a receiving station for used clothing and furniture and household necessities. Any contribution to this part of the campaign will be gratefully received and used to the best possible advantage.

NALACO CHALLENGE CUP WON BY CENTRAL ONTARIO AGENCY

First Time Since Cup Was Offered That It Has Been East of Toronto.

BANQUET HELD.

Awarded each year to the agency making the most significant contribution to the Company's progress, The Nalaco Challenge Cup was on Saturday evening presented to The Central Ontario agency of the North American Life Assurance Company at a banquet of the company officials and field representatives held at the Empress Hotel.

In the unavoidable absence of President T. Bradshaw, the trophy, a massive silver cup, presented by D. E. Kilgour, general manager and was accepted on behalf of the Central Ontario agency by D. V. Ketcheson, branch manager, Peterborough.

"The Nalaco" monthly magazine for the field representatives of the company has the following to say regarding the winners of the trophy for the year 1932: "Symbolic of leadership The Nalaco Cup was won last year by D. V. Ketcheson's Central Ontario Agency. This branch thus claims the distinction of being the first agency east of Toronto to win the cup since it was first offered for competition in the year 1912."

One of Leading Agencies

"Since established in the spring of 1929 under leadership of Mr. Ketcheson this branch has forged steadily ahead and has become one of the most important agencies of our organization."

Six miniature cups, replicas of the trophy, were also presented to the six outstanding agents in the Central Ontario district. Recipients of the miniature trophies were: D. V. Ketcheson, branch manager at Peterborough; Ray Brown of Peterborough; Morley Sparling and Jack Marsh of Belleville; Morley Jacobi, Oshawa; and James Taber, Kingston.

The Nalaco Trophy has been held since it was first offered for competition, on seven occasions by Edmonton agency; four times by the British Columbia agency; six times by Toronto agency, and once each by Winnipeg and Calgary agencies. Toronto Bay agency was the last holder of the coveted cup.

Jack McCamus, supervisor of agencies, presided at the banquet and was a very able toast master. W. G. Gallow, secretary of the company was the other head office official who was present.

Following the toast to "The King" Mr. Kilgour was called upon to propose a toast to "The Field,' during the course of which he paid tribute to the field representatives of the Central Ontario Agency for the efficient service they had rendered. Suitable responses were made by Messrs Ketcheson and Brown of Peterborough; Mr. Marsh of Belleville and Mr. Simpson of Kingston.

Presentation of Trophy

Formal presentation of the trophy followed, and Mr. Ketcheson in receiving the cup on behalf of his agency, tendered his appreciative thanks for the co-operation which had been given to him both by head office and by the agents of his district. He had been associated with the company for fourteen years, he remarked, and had never felt greater pride in working for it, nor had he received so much satisfaction out of his work as he had in helping to win the Nalaco Cup. He was particularly gratified at the support he had received from Mr. McCamus of head office, and also his own branch office staff and field men. He made particular mention in the latter regard to Miss J. Gillespie, and Percy A. Martyn, agency assistant.

"The Company" was proposed by Morley Sparling and Morley Jacobi and was replied to by W. G. Gallow, secretary.

After Mr. McCamus had presented the miniature cups to the six outstanding agents for the past year, Mr. Sparling presented Mr. Ketcheson with an electric clock on behalf of the Agency. This part of the program was in the nature of a complete surprise to the recipient of the gift.

The final toast to "The Ladies" was ably proposed by Harry Wallace of Oshawa.

HELP THE COMMUNITY THAT HAS HELPED YOU

All of us as residents of Peterborough, whether employer or employee, obtain our livelihoods from this community and it is only fitting, now that there are those in adverse circumstances, that we should in some way turn back and help them.

PETERBOROUGH-

Unlike some cities, we are fortunate in having diversified industries and the unemployment therefore, is not as great, but there are those because of backward conditions find their incomes entirely cut off.

Clerk Testifies.

Thomas H. Jones, clerk of the County and Surrogate Court of Manitoba, to-day took the witness stand at an enquiry under Mr. Justice Frank Ford into the alleged judicial misconduct of Judge Stubbs.

Jones produced records of the accused receiving fees in the Surrogate Court to which the Attorney-General declared he was not entitled. Charges of collecting these fees formed part of the complaint to the Minister of Justice which caused the commission to be set up.

Previous to 1919 charges for all Surrogate Court orders were 50 cents, the clerk testified, but after that year the fee was increased to $1, of which the Judge received 50 cents and the Provincial Treasury an equal amount.

First knowledge that the fee had been increased to $5 came to the clerk in 1928 through comment of lawyers and their clerks. A statement compiled by him, Jones said, showed Judge Stubbs since February 5, 1929, issued 265 orders, for which he collected $5 each.

The next witness to take the stand was R. N. Graham, who said he had been police magistrate for three years, and formerly Crown prosecutor and assistant deputy Attorney-General and deputy Attorney-General successively.

Liquor Law Cases.

He outlined his controversy with the accused over liquor-law enforcement cases in 1924 and 1925. He said it had been the practice in the case of appeals to send fines imposed to the Provincial Treasury, pending the appeal.

Judge Stubbs had issued an order that all these monies must be deposited in the County Court.

Witness said he had obtained an undertaking from John Allen, deputy Attorney-General at the time, that the monies would be returned to prisoners, but Judge Stubbs had declared he did not want any undertaking. Witness quoted him as saying that until his order was obeyed he was going to quash all convictions.

Subsequently legislation changed the Act and the difficulty was disposed of.

Sydney Newspapers Post, Record, Merge

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 16. (CP) A merger of the Sydney Post and the Sydney Record, two daily newspapers, is announced in both papers to-day. A new paper, the Post-Record will be published in the plant of the present Post Publishing Company, Limited, beginning to-morrow. The Post Record will be issued twice daily, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., A.S.T.

Founded on August 1, 1898, The Record is the older paper. It grew out of a weekly called the Island Reporter.

The Post, an outgrowth of the Cape Breton Advocate, another weekly, founded in 1901, at the time of the Cape Breton steel boom.

WILDCAT RUM PLANES GROUND CREW FINED $200

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 16. (CP) Percy King and Armand Montforton to-day were fined $100 and costs each when they pleaded guilty to acting as ground crew for a rum-running aeroplane.

The men were arrested while waiting to load 34 cases of liquor on the plane. One plane and load got away as the police entered a field near River Canard village and the second plane escaped without a load. Inspector Sidney Oliver, Ontario Provincial Police, said he believed three "wildcat" planes were being used for smuggling liquor.

Three men, an auto and load of liquor was taken into custody east of the city some weeks ago. On that occasion, a partly loaded plane took off just before the police arrived.

CONSCIENCE EASED.

OTTAWA. — Another troubled conscience has been relieved. Mrs. John Forsyth of Aylmer, Quebec, lost a purse containing five dollars and a ring 20 years ago when she was a schoolgirl.

Yesterday she received an anonymous letter containing a postal note of $12.00. The writer told of finding the purse on a street car 20 years ago, and expressed the hope the $12.00 would set the matter right.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

Reports From United Church Circuit Show Splendid Financial State

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Quarterly Official Board of the Frazerville United Church circuit met in the local United Church this week and held their annual business meeting. The Pastor, Rev. E. M. Cook presided, while R. Findlay, R. Delehay, and S. Hogg represented the Fraserville charge. E. Dawson, recording secretary for the circuit was the representative from Bensfort; W. H. Barnard, J. Porter, N. Thompson and H. Barnard representing the local charge.

A unanimous invitation from the board was extended to Rev. E. M. Cook to remain for another year as pastor of the charge. The invition was accepted.

The reports from the three charges showed the business of the circuit in excellent condition. Edmund Dawson was re-appointed recording secretary, and John Porter was appointed delegate to the conference meeting next June.

Rev. E. M. Cook came to the Fraserville circuit last July from Consecon and has done much to organize and build up the local charge.

BAILIEBORO Y.P.S.

Members Spend Jolly Evening at Home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Barnard.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnard entertained the members of the Young People's Society of the United Church at their home on Tuesday evening when there was a splendid attendance and an excellent program was enjoyed under the direction of the Missionary convenor, Mrs. N. Thompson.

Miss Jean Muncey led the devotional service assisted by Rev. E. M. Cook and C. Lang. Miss F. Watt presided at the piano.

The topic, "Our Responsibility in India" was ably dealt with by Mrs. C. Barnard. A reading, "Would You Sell Your Soul for Seven Cents" was given by Miss Hilda Thompson. Musical numbers were also provided by Mrs. C. Barnard and L. Jewison.

At the conclusion of the meeting the evening was enjoyably spent in playing games and a good old-fashioned sing-sing led by F. Barnard. A dainty luncheon provided by the hostess and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Jan. 16—Prices for fresh eggs delivered at Toronto were steady on Saturday, though supplies were large and dealers did not find demand heavy. Country shippers were quoted about the same levels as during the later days last week and retailers were offered receipts at prices steady with the recent declines, while brokers quoted graded eggs on the same basis as on Friday.

Country shippers were offered 24c to 25c for extras, 21c to 22c for firsts, 18c to 19c for pullet extras and 16c to 17c for seconds delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were quoted 32c for extras in cartons, 30c for extras loose 27c for firsts loose, 24c for pullet extras loose, and 22c for seconds loose. Brokers quoted fresh eggs at 26c for extras, 23c for firsts, 21c for pullet extras and 19c for seconds, graded and in free cases.

Butter

Trade in butter was slow, but prices held to the fractional increase in effect on Friday. Brokers quoted creamery solids at 21½c to 21¾c for No. 1 and 20¾c for No. 2, with the top price in No. 1 for choice regraded makes. Prices to retailers were steady.

Cheese

Cheese was in fair demand and at the steady prices of 10c for new large, 10¼c for new twins and 10½c for new triplets. Prices to retailers were unchanged at 11¼c for new large, 11½c for new twins, 11¾c for new triplets and 13¾c for new stiltons.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—Increased production as the result of mild weather caused egg receipts at Montreal to sharply increase last week on the produce and dairy market.

Arrivals totalled 8 036 cases, as compared with 3,121 cases the previous week. During the week the largest daily receipts in several months were received. On Saturday 2,005 cases arrived. Fresh eggs in carlots or less declined 1c to 2c a dozen, while stroage eggs were ½c to 1c higher. Fresh extras were quoted at 31c, fresh firsts at 27c, and fresh pullets at 26c a dozen. Storage extras were sold at 22c to 22½c, firsts at 20c to 21c, and seconds at 19c a dozen. To retailers, eggs in cartons were reduced from 1c to 2c a dozen.

Butter lost fractionally, being quoted at the end of the week at 21c to 21¼c a pound for carlots or less of No 1 finest grass make. Receipts for the week were 1,024 boxes.

Colored cheese was ¼c higher. Current Ontario receipts were quoted at 9¾c, and early make at 11¼c a pound. Current Ontario white held steady at 8¼c to 8½c, and early make at 10½c a pound. Last week's receipts were 616 boxes.

Potatoes advanced 5c during the week, New Brunswick or Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 80-pound bag, selling at 90c, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 90-pound bag, at $1.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—An outbreak of concentrated selling pitched wheat values backward late Saturday, and more than offset earlier gains.

Much of the selling which accompanied the break in wheat was attributed to sudden liquidation of holdings by a large professional trader. Stop-loss orders from other sources were automatically thrown on the market as a result of the quick fall of prices. Recent broad general speculative buying support had evaporated.

Close Is Unsettled

After a tumble of more than a cent a bushel, wheat closed unsettled, ¾c to ¾c under Friday's finish; corn, ¼c to ½c down; oats unchanged to ¼c to ¼c off; and provisions unchanged to 5c advance.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 16. — Influenced by weakness at Liverpool and disappointing export business over night, wheat prices opened fractionally lower, recovered when scattered buying was uncovered, but succumbed to easiness at Chicago late in Saturday's session on the Grain Exchange here to close ¾c lower.

May closed at 45¾c, July at 46¾c, and October at 48c.

Leader in the upward trend of a week ago, Chicago has led the decline of the past few days, although prices here have contested the fall stubbornly. Investors have been disappointed in foreign buying demand they anticipated when they bought last week.

Favorable reports from the Argentine aggravated easiness at Liverpool that was primarily caused by increased pressure of Canadian wheat from Vancouver.

The usual dullness prevailed in the cash markets and spreads on all grades of wheat and coarse grains were generally unchanged.

BARTER SYSTEM BY USING SCRIPS AIDS BUSINESS

keeping in a system of trade and barter. It is economically sound, and losses would be nominal in case the plan should fail.

"Two exchanges handle the operations of the system. These are the Yellow Springs Exchange, the local bartering place for the community, and the Midwest Exchange, an organization of manufacturers.

"The Midwest Exchange naturally operates on a much larger scale than does the Yellow Springs Exchange. The latter, which serves also as an outlet for goods circulated by the Midwest group, presents the best view of the plan in operation."

Resembling a country store, this establishment has merchandise of all brands and descriptions. There are foodstuffs, household furniture, clothing, implements and machinery —most of which has been accepted in trade and is ready for swapping again.

It dealt also in services. On the bulletin board one can see the announcements of auto repair service, printing service, hospital service and auto trucking.

Clearing House.

The exchange is the clearing house. Here scrip is issued and redeemed. Debts can be paid by supply goods or services to the exchange and turning the scrip over to creditors. In like manner, contributions can be made to the community chest and churches.

Intended to stimulate commerce, the plan already has proved its effectiveness by forcing two or more transactions where one ordinarily would be made under the money system.

Among the more complicated deals already transacted was the case of the Antioch Art foundry, a subsidiary of the college, which traded $300 worth of its wares for $300 worth of automobile tires.

Naturally, a foundry would be unable to use as many tires as that; the exchange system, therefore, was brought into play. A garage purchased some of the tires from the exchange, others went to residents in trade for services or goods, and some were stocked in the exchange store for future swaps.

The foundry actually was obliged to take only eight per cent of the tires. As a result of the negotiations, it received 92 per cent of the value of the deal in paint, printing and scrip instead. The scrip went to the laborers at the foundry, who, in turn, disposed of it at the exchange store for groceries and other necessities.

Simple Trades.

Most of the deals, of course, are simpler. They involve the swapping of a day's work for a bushel of potatoes and scrip to make up the difference, or trading a horse for a hospital bill.

Proponents of the project recognize two evident weaknesses in the plan. One is the fact that the scrip is not generally accepted by local merchants. The second is that the members of the exchange are too few at the present time to insure speed and facility in transactions and the movement of goods.

But, Dr. Morgan declares, the plan is gaining in popularity, and so the system becomes recognized as being a well-founded institution, he believes both of these barriers will be removed.

Recurring Weakness

Mrs. Carr Finds Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Wonderfully Beneficial in Restoring Strength.

Feels Quite Improved

"I am a middle-aged woman, married 12 years. I have a weak heart and sometimes get so weak I can hardly move about," writes Mrs. E. Carr, Port Carling, Ont. "I was advised to try Dr Williams' Pink Pills, and they have been a wonderful tonic to me After taking three boxes, I feel quite improved and am able to walk again. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a great blessing to humanity."

Mrs. Carr's high praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is typical of what thousands of other grateful women have written. These pills actually create the rich new blood which is lacking in run-down, exhausted systems. Growing girls in great numbers have found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a veritable blessing. Older people have equal need of them. Get a supply from your druggist. 50c a package.

DOMINION - PROVINCIAL PARLEY OPENS

CUT IN SALARY IS ADVOCATED FOR CITY M.O.H.

Alderman Walter Stocker Elected Chairman of Board of Health.

REPORT OF PAST YEAR.

Queen Mary Hospital Operated Well Within 1932 Estimates.

The salary of $2,000 paid to Dr. W. T. H. Young, M.O.H., by the city and the work done by the doctor among indigent patients again to-day were subjects of discussion by the members of the Board of Health Alderman Malcolm McIntyre introduced the subject before the first meeting of the new Board this morning, when he advocated that Dr. Young's salary be reconsidered by the Board with the view of economy. He stated that his information was that the medical men were caring for the indigent patients and not the M.O.H. "I don't see any need of paying Dr. Young $550 a year for the care of indigents when others are doing the work. It is just overlapping on the work, and this is no time for paying for overlapping," commented Alderman McIntyre.

Appeal to Judge.

Mayor Denne informed the Board that if Dr. Young's salary was reduced the M.O.H. could apply to the County Judge and urge that his salary was not sufficient. "The question of fixing a suitable salary would then be in the hands of the Judge," he said.

It was suggested by Alderman McIntyre that that difficulty could be overcome by asking for applications for the position, but Mayor Denne informed him that, under the regulations of the Health Act, the present M.O.H.'s services can not be dispensed without some sufficient reason being set forth. "That would be the reason, salary," replied Alderman McIntyre. "No, I don't think that would get by," replied the Mayor.

Alderman McIntyre stated that he desired it understood that he did not want to see Dr. Young fired. "I was chairman of the Board of Health some years ago, and Dr Young and I worked together splendidly. He is a friend of mine, but

FIRE DAMAGED DENTAL OFFICE

Dr. W. J. Garland's Office in Cobourg is Damaged by Smoke.

STORE ALSO DAMAGED.

COBOURG, January 17 (Special to The Examiner). — Fire yesterday at noon did much damage to Dr W J. Gorland's dental office while the stores below occupied by O. G. Johns, druggist, and Sougale's Men's Clothing Store were damaged by smoke and water.

The blaze is believed to have started in the dental office while Dr Gorland was at luncheon. When first noticed, heavy volumes of smoke were pouring from the windows. The Brigade quickly responded and chemicals were first used, but it was found necessary to use the hose, and the fire was soon brought under control.

There are two apartments in the building owned by the Lighburn Estate, and both were occupied. The damage to these was caused mostly by smoke.

Peg-Leg Cat Yarn Wins Its Originator Rubber Medal as Champion Liar of U.S.

BURLINGTON, Wis., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Champion of all the liars of the United States, Phil McCarthy (Cap. C), of Denver, Colo., will soon be decorated by a proxy of the Burlington liars' club with a rubber medal, symbolic of his title.

Should the truth of his claim to national fame be questioned, club officials said, McCarthy is entitled to a quick means of proving he was the originator of the peg-leg cat story, judged as the best of some 1,200 submitted in an annual contest.

The cat, he said, slew many mice by looking cock-eyed at them through a knot hole in its peg-leg.

Encased in the gold colored satin lining of a swanky sharkskin pocket case, the medal, carefully packed and fully insured, was mailed here Saturday. A Denver business men's club has asked that the presentation be made at one of its meetings.

The medal must be returned by next December 1, there is no money in the Liars' Club treasury to buy a new one, and as one official said, "Any one connected with an organization of liars can't trust anybody—much."

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO. REPORT SHOWS STRONG POSITION TOTAL ASSETS ARE $5,896,000

48TH ANNUAL REPORT.

An excellent liquid position is shown in the report of this company, published elsewhere in today's issue, for the year ending 31st December, 1932.

The Total Assets of the company amount to $5,896,000.00, and include Cash on Hand and in Banks of $426,336.00; Bonds, including Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Debentures and Stocks valued at $3,546,523.00; these Assets stand in the company's books at prices well below their present market value. Mortgages of $834,900.00; Real Estate owned by the company of $1,076,000.00, and Loans on Stocks and Bonds (repayable on demand) of $12,500.00 make up total Assets of $5,896,000.00.

The Bonds and Debentures owned by the company with Cash on Hand and in banks represent over 86 per cent. of the total Savings Deposits.

The Reserve Fund of the Company, $1,200,000.00 is $200,000.00 more than its Paid-up Capital.

Net Earnings for the year amounted to $168,234.00—16.82 per cent. on the company's Paid-up Capital (as compared with $209,800.00, or 20.98 per cent in the preceding year) after payment of interest or Deposits and Debentures and all expenses of management. Dividends amounting to $160,000.00 were paid and the balance of earnings added to surplus carried forward into 1933 of $89,852.00.

U.S. SEEN BEHIND FIRMER STAND WITH JAPANESE

League Admits Chance of Conciliation in Manchurian Affair, Very Small.

MANY RUMORS SPREAD.

Tokyo Opposes Non-League Members Being Included in Probe Commission.

GENEVA, Jan. 17 (A.P.) — All sorts of stories were in circulation to-day alleging American influence in the shift of the League of Nations committee of 19 in favor of a firmer policy towards Japan.

A Geneva newspaper reported recent contacts between Washington representatives and Foreign Offices in London and Paris at which an American desire to expedite the League procedure in dealing with the Sino-Japanese controversy was reputedly conveyed.

Hugh R. Wilson, United States Minister to Switzerland, and other American officials here have been in close touch with League authorities the past few days, and Wilson received from Sir Eric Drummond, the Leagu Secretary General, an account of yesterday's committee discussions.

At that meeting the committee admitted possibility of conciliation in the Manchurian controversy was extremely small and prepared to adopt a firmer policy with regard to the Japanese activities in Manchuria. It will reconvene to-morrow for a final attempt to reach a settlement on a conciliatory basis.

Japanese Opposition

TOKYO, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Foreign Minister Ochida, with approval of the Cabinet, instructed the Japanese delegation at Geneva to-day to insist that the Drummond formula be changed to omit invitations to non-members of the League of Nations to a conciliation commission to deal with the Manchurian issue.

The Japanese newspapers featured cable dispatches attributing a renewed anti-Japanese atmosphere at Geneva to the activities of the American Embassasies in London and Paris.

Japanese officials expressed the view that news from Geneva indicated conciliation efforts were futile and the Assembly shortly would proceed to frame a report in accordance with paragraph four, article 15, of the League Covenant, the nature of which would determine whether Japan would quit the league.

This part of the covenant provides that, when conciliation efforts fail in a controversial matter between nations, a report be drafted on such a conflict with a recommendation for League action.

TEACHERS TAKE REDUCED PAY

Toronto Decides on 10 Per Cent Slash to Affect Public, Collegiate Staffs.

OUTSIDERS HANDICAPPED.

TORONTO, Jan. 17 (C.P.)—Initial salaries of Toronto Public School and Collegiate teachers stand reduced to-day by approximately 10 per cent, following a decision to this effect last night by the finance committee of the Board of Education.

In conjunction with this, the general principle of no allowance for teaching experience outside Toronto in the Public School sphere was laid down.

All actions of the committee will require ratification by the Board.

In reply to a question, Chief Inspector D. D. Moshier, who approved the principle of no allowance for outside experience said: "There is no question whatever as to whether experience in schools outside the city is as valuable as that within; it is not. There will be no loss in efficiency by dropping the allowance for all experience outside Toronto."

FIGHT OVER TREE LEAVES 3 DEAD WITH 6 WOUNDED

Farmer Who Stood Off Scores of Officers for Hours, Finally Slain.

HOME IS BURNED.

Trivial Argument Ends With Armored Truck in Action —Gas Aso Used.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 17 (C.P.). — With three men dead and six wounded, peace had settled to-day over the farm of Mike Lantare, 67, who with a shotgun and revolver, stood off scores of officers for hours before his lifeless and bullet-torn body was taken from his flaming house, south-west of here.

The other two victims, both shot by Lantare in the battle which began late Monday afternoon, were Sheriff Roy Holley, 43, of Lake County, and Louis Buettner, 70, of Nearby Ross.

The list of injured by fire from Lantare's shotgun as he turned it upon everyone who attempted to come near the house in which he had barricaded himself, were: Deputy Sheriff Edward Rogers, Policeman Edward Haacak, Detective Ralph Bogardus, Detective Opie Cross, Detective George Mathentes of Gary, and Othel Caldwell, street car conductor, all of Gary. Their injuries were minor gunshot wounds and were not expected to prove fatal.

The battle grew out of what apparently was a trivial argument over ownership of a tree. But before it was finished an armored truck had been put into action and tear gas bombs had been thrown with abandon by officers.

FIND SHORTAGES IN TAX RECORDS

Announcement Made Following Death by Gas of Stratford Official.

$3,000 INVOLVED.

STRATFORD, Ont., Jan. 17 (C.P.).—Announcement of shortages in the accounts of Major Herbert Denroche, former tax collector, are contained in a preliminary statement presented to the Mayor today by F. P. Gibbs, city auditor. Major Denroche was found dead in his garage on January 2 from carbon monoxide poisoning. Death was declared accidental.

The reported shortages are estimated at about $3,000 by the city auditor, but until circulars are sent out to a number of ratepayers allegedly in arrears the definite amount cannot be established.

Mr. Gibbs declared it appeared to him the tax collector had been victimized, and while the responsibility for the shortages was undoubtedly his, "I cannot find where the money went."

He had been informed, he said, the combination of the vault had not been changed since the appointment of Major Denroche, and was known to several persons. Private bank books of the tax collector's were examined and no record of extraordinary income appeared therein.

"In view of these facts," said Mr. Gibbs, "I believe neither the late Mr. Denroche nor his family received any benefit whatever from the shortages, and in the absence of any evidence of stock gambling or other transactions of a similar nature, I am impelled to think in some way or other unknown to me he was victimized. It cannot be denied he was aware of this since some deposits and receipts therefore do not compare as to dates. The responsibility for the shortages was his undoubtedly, but I cannot find where the money went."

CAR, GARAGE BURN.

STRATFORD.—Damage estimated at several hundred dollars was caused by fire which to-day destroyed an automobile and badly damaged the garage of Frank Carson. The origin of the fire is undetermined. Mrs. Carson was awakened early to-day by the crackling of flames which enveloped the garage.

Freedom Granted to Phlippines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(C. P.)—Freedom for the Philippines was granted by the United States congress today, the Senate voting to over-ride President Herbert Hoover's veto of the independence bill.

A two thirds vote was required.

The House last Friday voted 274 to 94 to override the veto, more than the margin required.

The Senate vote on rejecting the veto was 66 to 26.

MERCHANTS PAID CASH ON ORDERS FOR CLOTHING

Sturgeon Falls' Wood Lot Foreman Admits Getting Money on 7 Vouchers.

PAID UP OLD ACCOUNTS.

Second Witness Claims Food Orders Forced on Him—Not on Relief.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Jan. 17. 17.—(C.P.)— Warning William Imbeau, foreman at the town wood lot, something would be "done to aid his memory" unless he "came across" with information required of him, W. H. Williams, K.C., commission counsel, delved further today into the practice of local merchants who gave cash for clothing vouchers. A judicial enquiry into relief administration is in progress under Judge J. M. Hall, Sault Ste. Marie.

Imbeau told the Judge he had received seven clothing vouchers of $15 each. On the first, received Aug. 8, 1932, he obtained $5 cash and applied $10 on an old account. He did not recall what he had done with the second voucher.

"Come, come," said Mr. Williams, "you are not such a fool as all that. You know whether you got cash or not."

"I guess I got cash," said witness.

"Now here's one dated Sept. 10. How was that handled?" asked counsel.

"I guess the same thing. Clothes and—I need lots of clothes," declared Imbeau.

Asked for receipts for the vouchers applied on old accounts, Imbeau said he had lost them. "When the account was paid in full I threw it away," he said.

He owed a merchant an account and had agreed with the merchant to pay him something on account every week out of clothing vouchers he had received. In addition to the seven $15 clothing vouchers, he received $3.25 cash per week, he stated.

He was hired as foreman by all

Orillia Welfare Body Minutes To Be Secret

ORILLIA, Ont., January 17 (C. P.). — Not only will the Public Welfare Board meet behind closed doors, but minutes of the meeting will not be available to the public, it was revealed by Rev. David Rose, chairman, when an attempt was made to obtain access to the minutes of the last meeting.

A false impression might have been created by statements made by some members of the Board. Rev. Rose said, in that it had been suggested that the minutes should be open to the public.

"It was not our intention that the minutes should be open to inspection, because if that were the case there would be no point in the motion excluding people from our meetings," he said.

Mary and Norman

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 17 (C.P.)—Here's the latest on London's goldfish situation. Some days ago, the City Engineer's department found a goldfish in a sewer pipe. Later they received a call from a local woman: "If that goldfish answers to the name of Mary, it's mine," the woman announced.

Meanwhile, however, some kind-hearted person who felt sorry for the lonesome goldfish had obtained another, promptly christened "Norman."

When the owenr of Mary appeared, she was informed it wouldn't do to leave Norman alone, and after all, people can't keep buying single goldfish forever. So Marys' owner was given the alternative of taking not only Mary but Norman, too, which she did.

Unemployment, Relief Surveyed Initial Session

Situation Is Canvassed Province By Province And The Expected Intimations From Some, That They Would Like More Money, Are Made.

DELEGATES LEAN MORE TO WORK PROGRAM RATHER THAN DIRECT RELIEF SYSTEM.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—(CP)—Canadian unemployment and relief conditions were surveyed at the opening sitting of the Dominion-Provincial conference this morning. The situation was canvassed province by province.

Heads of each provincial delegation in turn made representations of the situation from the Atlantic to the Pacific. While discussion was in its preliminary stage, the expected intimations from some of the provinces that they would like more money were made.

Several provincial delegates apparently want more public works in the scheme of relief. Highway building and improvement with construction of some public buildings are understood to have been suggested. The delegates are said to have distinctly favored a return of the relief works program which was carried out a year ago as opposed to developing to a greater extent a direct relief system.

The stage for definite suggestions from the provinces was not reached The dominion has yet to be heard. And the likelihood is that with discussion proceeding in this way every effort will be made to come to a common and unanimous understanding.

Co-operation In Evidence

From both dominion and provincial delegates an absolute desire to co-operate was in evidence. The survey of conditions by the provinces was realistic but not in any way pessimistic.

Unemployment and social insurance probably will bring forth much discussion. Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec is said to have views which conflict with representatives of the western provinces on amending section 92 of the British North America act so as to transfer to the dominion authority in such matters. As the constitution stands, the provinces have control over unemployment and social insurance and such matters.

The west is said to favor a transfer of power to the Dominion with Mr. Taschereau somewhat reluctant. Other delegates are not adverse to paying this "burden" of control upon the shoulders of the Dominion. In the scheme of things, if the Dominion finds that unemployment insurance is "acturarially sound" and the provinces transfer the authority, it will mean payment out of the Dominion treasury of

MAN STRICKEN WHILE DRIVING HIS AUTOMOBILE

Jacob M. Payton Dies Suddenly While Driving His Car.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHED.

Car Was Seen Running Uncontrolled on Monaghan Road.

Apparently stricken with a heart seizure while at the wheel of his car, Jacob M Payton, manufacturers agent, residing at 312 Frederick avenue, was found to be dead when the vehicle was brought to a halt after striking a tree on the east side of Monaghan road at the corner of Weller street, shortly before one o'clock this afternoon.

Previous to striking the tree, the car which had been proceeding north on Monaghan road had travelled an erratic course for some distance, having zig-zagged not only over the travelled portion of the roadway, but having also mounted the grass verge of the boulevard on both sides of the street.

In the opinion of Dr. A. G. Howson who was summoned to the scene, indications led him to believe that Mr. Payton had suffered a seizure or some other physical incapacity, which had resulted in the automobile running uncontrolled before being brought to a stop by collision with the tree. The doctor was not prepared to state def-

CUSTOM OF AGES

JERUSALEM, Dec. 30.—Bearded Jews wearing long caftans of black and purple were coming out of the holes in the wall in the Old City. White-haired patriarchs, bent double under the weight of years, leaned on the shoulders of youngsters as they stumbled over the uneven cobblestone pavement of the alleys. Here and there shop-keepers were hastily putting up shutters and bars. It was Friday. The evening star had appeared in the Judean sky. It was Sabbath.

Pierre van Paassen

From all directions the Jews were coming. Out of the most unbelievable places human beings appeared. For the Old City is like a human rabbit-warren, a labyrinth of houses and dwellings superimposed, built crossways and in all ways. The synagogues were filling up. But the

Plans Lion Hunt Mississippi Isle

SIKESON, Mo., Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Denver M. Wright was back in the Mississippi River "veldt" to-day on his second lion-hunting expedition.

While the St. Louis novelty manufacturer was keeping secret the place he intended to stage his hunt, it was believed an island in the Mississippi River about 20 miles from here would be the scene of the "safari." This would be a few miles nearer Africa than the island Wright chose for his first fling at lion-hunting.

No sign of official molestation had appeared to-day to threaten the lion stalker's plans. Sheriff J. O. King of Mississippi County said Wright would be given carte blanche to bang away at his two 400-pound lions in the sheriff's bailwick.

2 SOCIETY GIRLS CRASH IN JUNGLE BOTH RESCUED

Daughter of British Burmese Official Has Leg Broken, Companion Shaken Up.

FLYING AFRICA-ENGLAND.

Lady Mary Bailey Missing in Sahara District—No Word of Hinkler.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Africa, Jan. 16—(C. P. Cable)—The two daring British society girls who crashed near here yesterday in route from Cape Town to London were rescued today and brought to hospital here.

Joan Page, daughter of Sir Arthur Page, chief justice of Burma, sustained a broken leg and a cut in the head when the plane in which she was flying crashed, while her companon, Miss Audrey Salebarker, noted skier, was unhurt but severely shaken up.

Wreckage of the plane was sighted yesterday by a search pilot who saw one of the girls waving at him but he was unable to land due to the thickly wooded district. He returned to Nairobi, however, where he got more flyers, organized a motor expedition and then flew back with food and first aid. Their planes landed about two miles from the spot and after a difficult struggle they found their way to the stricken plane and unfortunate flyers.

The girls were making a leisurely return flight from Cape Town to England, having flown down late last year.

Two Others Missing

Two other British flyers were missing or in trouble today. Bert Hinkler, who set out to recapture the speed record for the England-Australia flight, has been unreported since his departure 10 days ago. He was expected to make his first stop on the eastern Italian shore and a search was under way for him in the Swiss Alps.

Anxiety over the fate of Lady Mary Bailey who took off from here Sunday night to continue a speed flight from England to Cape Town grew today as she remained unreported many hours after the fuel in her plane must have been exhausted.

Lady Bailey left here at 9:50 Sunday night bound for either Nismaey or Gao on the Upper Niger, but neither place reported her arrival.

Some fear was expressed that the slight attack of influenza from which she was suffering when she left here might have become worse and caused her to come down at some inhospitable place in the desert.

APPEAL OF REID SET FOR MONDAY

Appeal Court Will Hear Case of Henry Walter Reid.

MINISTER'S ACTION.

Hearing of the appeal of Henry Walter Reid, which was referred by the Federal Government to the Ontario Court of Appeal, has been set for Monday next, according to information received by J. A. O'Brien this morning from the Attorney General's Department.

Reid was sentenced to hang on January 6, folowing his conviction before a jury at the Fall Assizes presided over by Mr. Justice Wright. At the time of being sentenced on October 15 last, he said he wished to appeal.

A petition was widely circulated throughout Peterborough and district urging executive clemency for Reid, who was found guilty of murdering Harry Thomas, unemployed war veteran of Belleville, in the local hobo "jungle" on the morning of September 3rd, 1932. Two days before the date set for the carrying out of the death penalty, and while arrangements to execute the sentence were being undertaken by the hangman and his assistants at the county gaol here, announcement was made that the case had been referred by the Federal Department of Justice to the Ontario Court of Appeal. The condemned man was reprieved until February 10, on the order of Mr. Justice Wright.

The appeal court may sustain or quash the conviction or direct a new trial.

GERMANY TURNS TO COMPULSORY MILITARY DUTY

Reich Spokesman States Officials Expect Old System in Force by Spring.

ALL CITIZENS TO SERVE.

French Concerned — Claim German Army of 1,000,000 Available.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—A Government spokesman yesterday revealed that Germany expects by spring to reinaugurate the system of universal military training.

Applies To All Citizens.

The speech on Sunday of Chancellor von Schleicher, reiterating Germany's demand for arms equality, the spokesman said, was a notification to the world and to Germany that there is a determination to replace the Reichswehr (the German standing army) with a militia in which all citizens must serve.

The revelation of the spokesman brought a protest from the German and French branches of the Women's International Peace and Freedom League at Munich.

In his speech on Sunday, Chancellor von Schleicher said that "our opponents knew that they struck at Germany's very marrow when they rendered her defenceless and a second-rate people."

He spoke of the Treaty of Versailles, which stipulated that the German army must comprise not more than seven divisions of infantry and three divisions of cavalry, a maximum of 100,000 men, including officers.

Thinks Treaty Unkind.

The treaty also stipulated that the Reichswehr must confine itself exclusively to maintaining order within the country.

Von Schleicher described as "unkind, undeserved, disgraceful and unchivalrous" the treatment of the German army in the treaty.

Although not specifying details, Germany has contended at Geneva for arms equality, the right to maintain a force equal to those of neighboring States.

France Concerned.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The unexpected plea of Chancellor General Kurt von Schleicher in Berlin for a return in Germany of compulsory military training as in the days of the Kaiser caused comment in French military quarters yesterday. Even under the restrictions of the Versailles Treaty, Germany could put an army of 1,000,000 men in the DEVELOPS IN MID-OCEAN.

HALIFAX, January 17. — An epidemic of influenza attacked the staff of the liner Alsunia in mid-ocean, and before she reached Halifax one quartermaster was dead, the ship's surgeon seriously ill, and a number of the crew incapacitated.

The quartermaster, Ernest Brown, of London, England, died on Friday, and was buried at sea on Saturday morning.

Mr. F. McGee was removed to the hospital in Halifax shortly after the liner docked. He had developed double pneumonia.

It is understood the passengers escaped the disease.

BETTY COMPSON REGAINS GEMS

Jewels Reappear as Mysteriously as They Were Stolen.

GIVES POLICE NO CLUE.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17 (C.P.).—Betty Compson, screen actress, told police yesterday that the $41,500 jewels that she reported stolen from her in a daring hold-up in her home on the night of January 5th, have been returned to her.

Joe Taylor, chief of detectives of the Los Angeles police department, in making the announcement, said the story of the return of the jewels was as strange as other mystifying aspects of the case.

Taylor said Miss Compson advised him she got the jewels back last Friday. She said she received by mail a note reading:

"Take this check to S.P. depot. Get your stones." A baggage claim check was enclosed. She said her attorney went to the station and received for the check a brown handbag. This, she said, was opened in her attorney's office. She and Irving Wineberg, who, she told the police, was her "sweetheart," were present. The jewels, neatly wrapped, were in the handbag, she said.

Delay in making the report was due to her desire to have the report made direct to Chief Taylor, who was out of town over the week-end.

Story of Hold-Up.

Late the night of January 5th she reported to the police that a man attired as a messenger boy, came to her door, thrust a pistol at her and ordered her and a companion, E. D. Leshin, producer, upstairs, bound and gagged them and fled with her jewels.

The following day she said she knew who the robber was, and that he was not attired as a messenger boy, but she told that story because he threatened to kill her if she did not. She declined to reveal his identity, and later refused to sign a police report which gave a description of the jewels.

"I was greatly surprised to get my jewelry back in this manner," Miss Compson said yesterday. "I never negotiated with the bandits, nor did I pay them a cent of money."

Chief Taylor assigned two detectives to further investigate the strange circumstances of the case.

Ottawa Fur Dealer Adequately Punished Challies Says For Game Laws Violation

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Five hundred partridge which were seized from an Ottawa fur dealer by officers of the department of game and fisheries, because he had them in cold storage without the necessary special license, have been forwarded to Queen's Park, and will be turned over to Christie Street Hospital for consumption by the soldier inmates.

The seizure has drawn some criticism on the ground that the fur dealer was only fined $50 and costs for his serious violation of the game laws. Hon. George H. Challies, minister of game and fisheries, yesterday explained that not only had the offender lost the birds, and the money he had paid for them in the first place, but had had his $100 fur-dealer license cancelled by the department.

"As for the matter of the actual shooting or taking of the birds, we are bringing that under full investigation immediately," said Mr. Challies. "There has been some criticism of the department by the Madoc Review as to inadequate administration of the law in this Ottawa man's case. I would just like to say that had the paper or any North Hastings people advised us that people were taking partridge, in this wholesale fashion, out of season, in their locality, we would have stepped in promptly then. I think, by their failure in this respect, they also lay themselves open to some criticism."

BEGUM AGA KHAN MOTHER OF SON

Child is First Born to Great Indian Prince and Young French Woman.

Father Noted Sportsman.

PARIS, January 17 (C.P.). — A son was born to-day to the Begum Aga Khan, the young and comely French wife of the wealthy East Indian prince who is the religious head of millions of Ismaili Mohammedans. The child was born at 1 a.m. at a hospital in the Neuilly district. Mother and son were reported doing well.

The Aga Khan III., the father, is at Cannes on the Riviera. He is 48th in direct and unbroken descent from the Prophet Mohammed's daughter, Fatima, and her husband Ali. One of the most picturesque figures in Europe, the Aga Khan maintains extensive racing stables in India and England, and plays an active part in Indian politics. The Ismaili Mohammedans pay him annual tribute.

By a previous marriage, he has a 26-year-old son, Prince Ali, who makes his home in England.

The son born to-day was the first child of the fair-haired Frenchwoman, born of a bourgeoise family and the 57-year-old sportsman. They were married three years ago.

The Begum Aga Khan was the former Andree Carron, a native of the little town of Chamberry, France where she spent all her life until her marriage. She has not adopted the Mohammedan religion, retaining the Catholic faith to which she was born.

ENGLAND AND THE ENGLISH

Is Theme of Talk By S. H. Neal to Campbellford Rotary Club.

DESCRIBES CONQUESTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—England, its formation, composition and systems was the theme of a short address deliveredd by S. H. Neal to the Campbellford Rotary Club at the regular luncheon yesterday and over which Elie Brunelle presided.

The speaker, in describing the physical formation of the British Isles pointed out that the land was part of a great range of mountains, commencing in Eastern Europe and crossing the country to France then on to England, running through the south and up the west portion of the country to the Hebridies and travelling on into Iceland where it is thought the range terminated.

The original inhabitants of the country were Britons, he stated, who had lived there before the year 1000 B.C. They were really Celts from Gall and these absolutely pure Celts still remain in the land and are found in Wales, retaining their customs and speech. Cornwall and the Isle of Anglesea are also allied to the Welsh in this respect.

The Britons drove back many invasions in their day, the first of these being from the Danes. The Danes, however, did not live in the country but left after some years of occupation. Later came the Romans who brought with them Christianity also, and although they left their mark on the country by laying the foundations of many of the cities, building the great roads and canals and other engineering feats, they in their turn were withdrawn from the land.

Then came the Saxons who conquered and stayed in the land, leaving their mark in the names of the southern counties, such as Sussex, South Saxons, Essex, East Saxons, and the like.

Great Norman Conquest.

In 1066 the great Norman conquests took place under William the Conqueror, the decisive battle being fought at Hastings against King Harold. The Normans remained in the country and have left their imprint on the lives, habits, laws, customs and architecture of the land. The formation of some of the greatest laws we have to-day came from these invaders and the feudal system, often abused and said to be dead, which in reality is not, was created by them. This comprised nearly a division and subdivision of land and authority and was splendid government in those days.

The independence of the British race as it developed in those days was seen during the time of King John, who was known as one of the worst kings of the country and yet out of whose reign came one of the finest declarations of independence in the Magna Charter. This

LEGION NAMES COMMITTEES

Relief Committee Appointed This Year With E. H. Lewis as Chairman.

Major Bygott; A. G. Thompson

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Preparing for the work of the coming year the executive committee of the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion has appointed committees to handle the present situation. Among these is the relief committee, which this year will be comprised of E. H. Lewis, chairman; Major J. M. Bygott, and the treasurer, A. G. Thompson.

For the past two years this work has been handled by one man acting with the town as the Legion's relief officer, this office being filled by G. H. Free, whose resignation from the post was accepted by the branch. In the past two or three years this work has grown to such an extent that it was decided to handle the situation with a committee.

Other members added to the executive committee were G. C. Bromley, H. Redden and Free Clark. The property committee appointed was: President, Reg. McCullough. Major J. M. Bygott, and A. G. Thompson.

Case Is Dismissed In Hastings Court

HASTINGS, Jan. 17. (Examiner Correspondence).—Magistrate J. H. Davidson, of Cobourg, made his first official visit to Hastings since receiving his appointment, on Monday afternoon for a case that has caused considerable interest in the village. The aftermath of a car accident at the corner of Bridge and Water streets, when a car driven by R. Walsh backed into Mrs. Thomas Kirk on the afternoon of December 22nd, 1932. The case was to have been heard in the council chamber, but proved to be not large enough for the crowd. Colonel F. D. Boggs of Cobourg, acted for the Crown and M. A. O'Shea of Hastings for the defense. The following gave evidence: Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. Garside, Geo. Jeffries, A. G. Parker, Paul Barry, J. J. Collins, M. Simpson, W. N. Beavis and Mr. Walsh.

After hearing the evidence and the arguments by both counsels the Magistrate dismissed the case.

MORNING TIMES FIRST ISSUED DAILY IN 1893

Second Issue of Paper Published on October 30, 1893.

EMPLOYED 50 HANDS.

Reminiscent of Peterborough forty years ago is a faded copy of The Morning Times, published by the late William H. Robertson, which has been shown to The Examiner by William McFadden.

Under the date of Wednesday, November 1, 1893, it was the second number of the revived daily edition of The Times, which has first appeared as a weekly in 1872. Twelve years later, in 1884, the management aspired to daily publication, but after a troubled experience, it was suspended until October 30, 1893. Mr. Robertson's ambitions were not content with this restricted service. He was convinced that there was an opportunity in Peterborough for a morning paper published daily, and with a direct telegraph wire into the office The Times blossomed forth again on Tuesday, October 30.

According to the proprietor's announcement it was to be off the press at 4 a.m., and delivered to subscribers' homes by 7 a.m. at the latest, "so that working men will have the paper at their breakfast table."

A glance over the four pages of its second day's issue may recall to older citizens news items of that day which retain the interest of old recollections of this community forty years ago.

October that year went out in the atmospheric glory of Indian summer, with a soft haze over the old town that reminded some citizen, in conversation with a Times reporter, of a winter day in California.

Turning to the back page that All Saints' Day, The Times' reader found the weather report prominently displayed in the upper left-hand corner. In all the changes that have occurred since then the seasonal variations of the weather have remained a constant factor. Even the form of the report from the "Meteoralogical" office, Toronto, is almost identical in its brevity of phrase and range of survey with the official "probabilities" that are published from the same governmental source to-day. The temperature from Esquimault, B.C., to Halifax, N.S., indicated the weather conditions across Canada, and usual forecast promised a continuation of the Indian Summer warmth throughout the lower lakes and St. Lawrence River district.

But, on the other side of the Canadian scene, snowfall overnight was the prospect in Manitoba.

Oratorical Society

The following are abridged items from the local news:—

The Peterborough Oratorical Society met in the Y.M.C.A. hall, with an attendance that was not as large as was desirable.

"A hop under the auspices of the 'I Go U Go' Club of Peterborough was held last night at Fobert's Hotel, Bridgenorth."

There is something familiar in both these items through their present day counterparts.

Public speaking clubs meet at the "Y," and as to dancing at Chemong it is part o fthe summer and fall routine for many of Peterborough's younger generation.

Special All Saints' Day services were held at St. Luke's and St. John's churches.

"The Sons of Canada meet tonight."

"Two lonely tramps occupied the cells at the police station last night."

"A dog was killed on George street yesterday by being run over by a truck."

The dogs of to-day are nimbler and more alert. They have to be to dodge the faster moving motor traffic.

"The police are on the look-out for a bicycle which was stolen from Hamilton."

"Martin O'Connor left last night for Cobourg to attend the ball held under the auspices of the Cobourg Baseball Club, champions of Canada."

"Alfred McDonald, proprietor of the Point St. Charles (Little Lake) lumber firm, returned from Chicago yesterday on a special World's Fair train."

"J. Frank Buckon of Orillia is in town visiting his cousin, Dr. F. H. Brennan. Mr. Buckon, who was formerly on The Times' reportorial staff is now local editor of The Orillia Times."

Guest at the Snowdon House included Hugh Spence of Norwood, J. W. Fitzgerald and J. C. Grant, Lakefield.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the Mayor of Chicago was assassinated, we know of several Peterborough men who want to be mayor."

"Mr. Pope, street inspector, had a force of men at work yesterday on Charlotte street east and around the market scraping up the ooze caused by recent rains.

Market Quotations

Wheat was 60 cents a bushel; oats, 32 cents; barley, 35 to 40c; hay, $9 a ton; potatoes, 45c to 60c a bag; honey, 8c to 10c a pound; apples, 50c to 65c a bag; chickens, 35c to 60c a pair; geese, each 40c to 60c; turkeys, each 50c to 80c; beef hides, cwt., $3 to $3.50; sheep hides, each 75c.

Butter in rolls sold at 24c and 25c; and in firkins, 19c to 20c; eggs, per dozen, were quoted at 15c to 18c; cheese, per pound, 12 cents; lard, 15c a pound.

Dressed pork brought 7c a pound, and a hind quarter of beef sold at $5 to $5.50 per 100 pounds; and liveweight the price was $1.50 to $3 per cwt.

General News

The editorial columns referred to the death of Sir John Abbott, former Premier of Canada, who succeeded Sir John A. MacDonald as laeder of the Conservative party.

The Matabele War in South Africa was the feature story in the cable news. Emperor William was about to open the German Reichstag, and a brief news item from Vienna told of a ministerial crisis in Austria-Hungary which was causing Emperor Franz Josef serious concern.

Violent deaths, several murders, a street car strike in St. Paul, Minn., Spain's military action against the Moors, the repeal of the Sherman Act by the United States respecting the purchase of silver swith politico-financial repercussions in Paris, Rome and other centres were only variations of the general run of news to-day.

A note from Vienna said that "the belief prevailing that the consequent drain of gold to America will not be serious" was generally held on the bourse of the gay capital of the old Empire.

Returning to "Main Street,' there is a letter on the front page from a George Street merchant, who complains that the "incandescent light service for the last few weeks has been a great annoyance to the merchants. The old-fashioned rush candle of forty years ago is at present being placed in comparison."

From a sports telegraph despatch on the front page the following sentence is culled: "New York, Oct. 31.—The news that Jim Corbett was on a still hunt for Charley Mitchell with the avowed intention of thrashing him on sight has put sporting men in a fever of excitement."

Sounds like the old familiar "smoke-up" and ballyhoo.

The Lindsay correspondent of The Times reported the provincial plowing match that had been held near that town with more than 3,000 spectators present. Joseph Redmond, Jr., and William Duffus of Peterborough were among the prize winners.

And also this item from Lindsay: "George Matthews, the pork packer, is doing an enormous trade this year. Hogs by the carload are being shipped to Peterborough from this vicinity almost daily and many more are to follow."

According to Mr. Robertson, The Times employed between fifty and sixty hands."

Raids on telephone boxes in the London area alone are responsible for a loss of $1,500 monthly.

Part Of The Ex-Kaiser's Routine

Each day about noon time when he returns from his automobile ride, former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany may be observed feeding the wild ducks which frequent the canal surrounding his estate at Doorn, Holland. He has been living here since his exile in 1918.

Western Premiers May Confer With Bennett

It is expected that during the week, premiers from the three western provinces will confer with Prime Minister Bennett at Ottawa on the subject of wheat marketing. Premier J. E. Brownlee acted as spokesman for the three premiers in making the announcement. He was mentioned recently as probable member of the new tariff board, and rumor says that he will resign the premiership of Saskatchewan in order to accept the new post. Above at top is shown at left Premier J. M. Anderson of Alberta; right, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett; lower left, Premier Bracken of Manitoba; and lower right, Premier J. E. Brownlee of Saskatchewan.

The question of the purchase if fire equipment was left with the Property committee with power to act.

The time of the return of the rolls was extended to February 13th.

The wood owned by the village will be sold at $2.50 per cord at the lot, plus the cost of haulage. The Reeve ,Councillors Botterill and Hill were appointed to arrange for sale and transportation of same.

Two contractors were appointed.

GERMANY TURNS

field on short notice, it was said.

French military men regarded von Schleicher's Sunday speech to war veterans with concern, as indicating a new trend in Germany.

The military clauses of the Versailles Treaty were designed to prevent the very thing that now they fear is coming about—namely, the re-birth of the old German army.

They allowed Germany a professional army of only 100,000 men, each serving a 12-year tour of duty. Compulsory military service was definitely prohibited and all associations and schools were forbidden to give military instruction.

Those restrictions, the French thought, would confine miltary training to the 100,000 men in the German regular army.

Each Soldier An Officer.

They now report, however, that each 12-year soldier really is an officer, competent to train recruits. The French military intelligence also report that the small professional army has preserved the old imperial army traditions and is adapted for rapid expansion into a larger body than the German army of 1913, which numbered 800,000.

French leaders insist they cannot reduce their armed forces in the face of these trends in Germany, and plan a stiff fight against drastic reductions in appropriations for the coming year.

ENGLAND, ENGLISH

was the last successful invasion of England.

Speaking in regard to Scotland, Mr. Neal pointed out that this country had never been successfully invaded, the original inhabitants, the Pics and Scots still being the inhabitants of the country. Not even the Romans conquered this hardy race but instead built a strong defense across the land to prevent the Scots from raiding England.

Much of the meeting was given over to discussions on business matters, among which was the reduction of annual membership dues. This, however, was left with the executive to deal with.

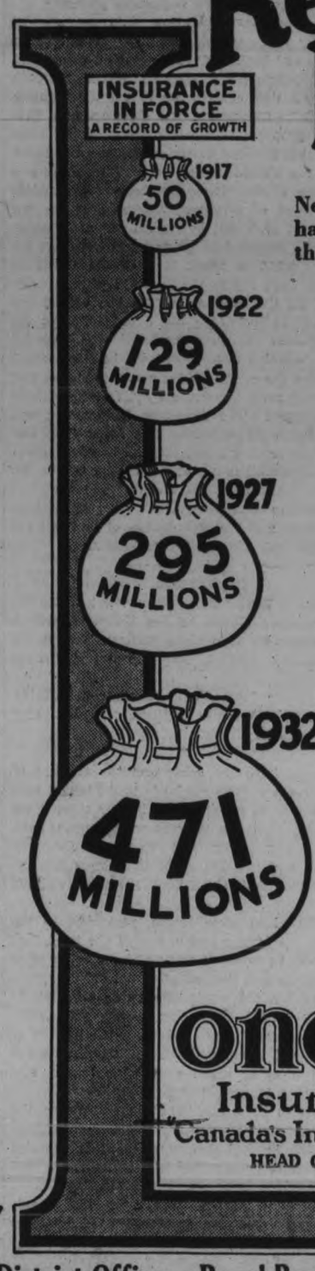
Remarkable Progress! The record of 1932



"We built our business for days like these."

Never in the 58 years of London Life history have we had a more gratifying report than for the troublesome year 1932!

Success A Measure of Service

1 More people than ever before bought London Life policies for future provision for themselves, their families and business interests. The new insurance purchased from the London Life amounted to

One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,463,094)
—an increase of $5,361,184 over 1931

2 The security of the Company, which stands back of all policies has been further strengthened.

The Assets have been written down where necessary or reserves set up to fully take care of depreciation. The Assets now amount to $77,558,312, an increase of $5,336,895.

The Policy Reserves are greater by $5,120,740 than required by the Dominion insurance law.

The Free Surplus on the Company's own high standard has been increased to $3,111,151. This surplus is in addition to (1) all special policy and investment reserves set up in this and former years, and (2) the full provision made for all profits accruing and profits due to policyholders in 1933.

Interest earned on invested assets, 6.33%.

3 The Income amounted to $19,690,248—a substantial gain over 1931.

4 The funds of the Company are never idle. They are kept fully invested in non-speculative enterprises, chiefly government and municipal bonds and first mortgages on improved real estate. The increase in our business has meant, therefore, a correspondingly greater contribution through such investments to the welfare of the country.

Dividends to policyholders will be on the same high scale throughout the coming year. To purchase London Life participating policies is to share in the Company's success.

Will this be Canada's next Number One Car?

It's the new Plymouth —a Six at $95 less than last year

RECENTLY, Walter P. Chrysler announced the new Plymouth Six . . . but already you hear people say: "It looks like Canada's next Number One Car!"

Clearly, Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers knew what you wanted.

So they gave you the combination of a Six with Floating Power . . . they gave you a BIG, roomy car . . . a car that's fast . . . that's thrilling to drive!

They gave you a safer car . . . with a safety-steel body, hydraulic four-wheel brakes and a safety-glass windshield.

They achieved new economy of gas, oil, tires, upkeep. And they built a smart low-priced car without that "low-priced" look.

Will Plymouth be Canada's next Number One Car? Look at it . . . "Look at All Three" . . . and may the best car win!

IT'S A SIX AT $95 LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Business Coupe $675, Rumble Seat Coupe $730, Four-Door Sedan $750, Convertible Coupe $790; all prices F.O.B. factory, Windsor, Ontario, freight and taxes extra. Convenient terms. Duplate Safety Glass in all windows at slight extra cost.

A QUESTION OF TRADE.

Mr. King's contention that Canada should trade with every nation willing to trade with her is likely to strike a responsive chord throughout the country.

Under present-day conditions the Canadian people are, it is to be fancied, willing to do business with any country that will agree to mutually advantageous terms.

If trade can be arranged with Russia, without violating our obligations under the Empire trade pacts and without serious injury to Canadian industries, most people in this country are not going to find fault because the Russian system of government or the Soviet ideals of religion do not coincide with our own.

That is why The Examiner believes that the Ottawa Government owes to the people of Canada a frank statement as to this much-talked-of Russian barter deal.

We have newspapers enthusiastically acclaiming the proposal; we have other journals emphatically declaring that no definite proposal has been made, and between these conflicting reports the public, with Ottawa silent on the subject, is utterly unable to size up the situation accurately.

Until we get a definite declaration from the Federal Government there is no way of telling whether the country is being aroused over a mere will o' the wisp.

DOING A GREAT WORK.

The enthusiasm shown at the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society the other night and the determination of the organization to carry on its splendid work with renewed vigor during the coming year are most gratifying to all citizens who realize what an important part the society has played in the beautification of Peterborough.

It has always seemed to The Examiner that its work in this respect should have been more generally supported, and that in this city of home-lovers and beautiful homes there should have been a much larger membership than the organization has ever succeeded in adding to its roll.

Fortunately, there have invariably been enough public-spirited citizens associated with the Horticultural Society to enable it to make a really worthwhile showing in its desire to improve the general appearance of Peterborough, but it is hardly fair that the whole burden should be laid upon the few instead of being shared among the many.

Like every other organization, the society is undoubtedly feeling the effects of depressed conditions, and under the circumstances it is to be hoped that many more citizens will realize the need and will be glad to join in and assist in carrying out the objects for which the Horticultural Society was first organized.

More members will help materially in making this year's an outstanding success.

ANOTHER CANADA FIRST?

It is a common charge of independent political groups that there is very little actual difference between the two old parties, and often considerable color is given such accusations by Conservative and Liberal utterances.

Take these words for example:

"Let us not be led away by talking about other countries, by subtleties of talk concerning other parts of the Empire or the Empire as a whole. Canada is the part of the Empire for which we, and we alone, are responsible. Canada is our own country, and it is our country's business with which we should be most concerned. If that is attended to properly, the Empire will be all the better for it. If it is not, the Empire will be all the worse off."

It is safe to say that if these sentences were read over to any well-informed Canadian without telling him of their origin he would instantly declare that they were taken from a speech by the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

On the contrary, they were spoken no later than last Saturday night by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in an address at Montreal.

The Liberal chieftain in this portion of his speech expressed exactly the same thought and in much the same language as did Mr. Bennett in the House when he opposed the Dunning budget.

Here is the Bennett words on that occasion:

"I am for the British Empire, next to Canada. I say now what I have said from my youth, that the future of the Empire depends upon the upbuilding of Canada. What is good for one is good for both, and what is bad for one cannot avail the other."

TWO SIDES TO THE STORY.

Considerable discussion is carried on these days regarding a proposed deal between Canada and the Soviet Government of Russia. It seems that Russia is suffering from a decided shortage in cattle, particularly is there a shortage of cows. The proposition is that Canada exchange with Russia some 100,000 odd cattle for crude oil and for coal.

Those in favor of the bargain see in it a chance for Canada to rid herself advantageously of her surplus of bovines, while there will be the lucrative importation of oil. It is pointed out that the sale of live stock will put much-needed money into the pockets of Canadian farmers, thus starting the cash circulating among the largest buyers in the Dominion. When farmers are prosperous everyone else in the commonwealth shares their good times, it is pointed out. Not only that, but when the crude oil arrives in Canada, Canadian oil refineries will be started working, or their work will be increased, much to the advantage of Canadian workmen. Those in favor of the transaction see in its successful carrying out a decided advantage to Canadians generally.

On the other hand there are those who ask, "If Russia really wants cattle, why does she not go on the market and buy?" Answering their own question these objectors say, "Russia has neither the cash nor the credit that enables her to put the transaction through." Continuing, the objectors urge that though the proposed exchange of commodities looks like barter that it is not barter at all but an instance of asking the Canadian Government to finance a risky business affair. Those who look at the matter from this point of view say, "Before a single cow can be bought cash will be needed. The Canadian farmer simply cannot take crude oil in exchange for his cattle. What is asked is that the Canadian Government shall say to the bankers, "You advance the money for the deal and we'll stand behind you to the extent of something like $4,000,000.' For the Canadian farmer the whole matter is cash, cash for which the Canadian Government will be responsible."

Supposing the cattle are got across to Russia and Russia should send Canada an equivalent in crude oil. What then? The Canadian Government will have that much oil on hand. And then? The Canadian Government will sell that oil to advantage—if it can. If the oil is not sold it simply will be too bad for the Canadian Government. And that "if" is a big word in that connection. Also, what about the possibilities and the probabilities of graft all the way through?—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

OPTIMISTS.

Archdeacon Walter Burd, bishop-elect of the recently established diocese of Saskatchewan, tells a Toronto interviewer that while Western farmers are not immediately hopeful, they are not despairing either.

"Their whole future," the archdeacon explains, "depends on an increase in the price of wheat. If it comes they will be all right."

* * * *

There you have the spirit and the thought of the West. There is more optimism to the square inch on the Prairies, we believe, than in any other place on the globe. Give the Western wheat-grower even a shred of encouragement and you have a champion enthusiast. And it takes a lot to depress him, as anyone familiar with the Prairie Provinces will tell you.

We referred at some length, yesterday, to the problems of the farmer and expressed the hope that some way will be found of getting him a better price for his products and thus assisting not only the man on the land but the whole country to get back to better times. In this connection, we note that definite steps have already been taken for the holding of an international wheat conference in Canada for the purpose of bringing about orderly production and marketing on a mutual interest basis.

There is to be a conference in Ottawa on the 17th of this month between Provincial Prime Ministers and the Federal Government. It is expected that a variety of matters will be discussed. On that occasion, Western leaders will ask Mr. Bennett to arrange the round-table meeting of the chief wheat-exporting nations of the world—Canada, Australia, the United States and the Argentine.

* * * *

Some weeks ago delegates to the annual meetings of the three Prairie wheat pools requested the Government to convene such a conference. It was held that a meeting of this kind would lead the way to stabilized wheat prices and a solution of the existing marketing problem. Following the Pool meetings, a conference of the Premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, held in Winnipeg, gave unanimous approval to the same request to the Federal Government. And these three Premiers—Mr. Bracken, of Manitoba; Mr. Anderson, of Saskatchewan, and Mr. Brownlee, of Alberta—are stressing the importance of immediate action.

It is generally felt by Western farmers that the old policy of continually increasing or trying to increase the annual output of wheat is all wrong. If production can be made more in harmony with the needs of the nations which find it necessary to import wheat, the Westerners say, the flood of golden grain that has sent prices to the lowest levels in hundreds of years will be checked, and substantial price increases may be looked for. It is believed, however, that nothing like this can be accomplished without concerted action by the interested nations, all working for the common good.

* * * *

It is not an easy thing, naturally, to regulate production, to say to a farmer that he must grow not more than 200 acres of wheat this year when, perhaps, he planted 300 the season before and enjoyed a heavy harvest. It is not an easy thing to say to him even if he received only a starvation figure for his crop. Every farmer, of course, is an individualist. It is the most natural thing in the world for him to work and pray for a bumper harvest and to ever hope for something to happen that will get him a fine price when he has such a large quantity to sell. However, things do not work out that way, as sad experience shows, hence the necessity for large, co-operative movements to regulate production, as well as sale.

There would seem to be little ground for doubt as to the attitude of Mr. Bennett and his colleagues toward the proposal of the Western Pools and the Western Premiers. And it is taken for granted that other nations would accept a Canadian invitation to this end, because they are just as vitally interested as we are in trying to bring about an improvement. —Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

You who are in a position to help should send in your donation to the Relief Fund as soon as possible. Peterborough cannot fall down in this important duty.

Judge Stubbs may not believe in long sentences, but his announcement that he intends to argue his case for a week shows that he favors long speeches.

Ontario Liberals are demanding an election this year, but it is a safe conclusion that Premier Henry's hearing in that particular case will be found to be decidedly defective.

According to the Toronto Saturday Night, there is nothing before the Government for its approval or disapproval in regard to the Russian barter deal, so far as is known, and no basis for all the foam and fuss.

Having got Gordon Sinclair off on his world tour, the Toronto Star will now be able to picture up the threads of its Russian oil-Canadian cattle serial.

ALLAN ROSS
President, Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. Ltd., Toronto, Ont., Industrialist, Sportsman, Philanthropist

This signature, and the sample of handwriting submitted, indicate Mr. Ross to be one of those men who, in spite of obvious achievement and responsibility ably shouldered, find it difficult to conceive of themselves as actually adults and are perpetually youthful. He retains the enthusiasm, the energy and the desire to play a good game characteristic of ambitious youth. He himself is properly proud of whatever job he feels he has done well, but is not conceited. At the same time, like all young men at heart, and in his case specifically because he is inclined to spurts of nervous energy followed by periods when he doubts himself, Mr. Ross enjoys and is encouraged by public approval of his efforts in the same spirit as the player on a team is urged on by rooting from the sidelines. He is amiable, kind, sincere and public-minded and generous to both those friendly and those unfriendly to him.

FROM A FARMER'S WIFE.

Editor of Examiner:

A farmer's wife, as everyone knows, has had much to think and talk about in these hard times, and there is a lot of talk from men at the head of affairs of how they are going to make better times for the poor man. Just to make a long story short, if they would get after the moneyed man it could be remedied in short order, instead of which the big moneyed men are still left with more money than they will ever need in this world. Really it is useless going after the farmer for anything to help the poor. Lots of farmers cannot pay their taxes now, so the farmer is not getting rich at the present time. It is the poor that help the poor.

Times will never be much better until things take a change. There is plenty of money in this world to make good times, if it were rightly divided, but you must not expect much from the rich man. There is little or no protection for the farmer, and remember it is the farmer that keeps everything moving on the face of the earth. The rich are allowed to hold their wealth, while the poor people are trying to hold on to life. The farmer gets no price for anything he works for, so cannot stand on his feet much longer. As for the poor people in the country, they are down to nothing. The poor will divide with the poor, if he has anything, but do not touch the rich man's pocket.

There is little use of talking of how things will be made better, unless they start at the rich where all the money is tied up. Every year is getting worse, and if these millionaires would set an example by putting down some money that they will never need, there would be lots of work and money to keep the men, but with the money all in a few hands, and held there, times will be getting worse. The change will have to come soon. There is no use of our country going to ruin.

If Premier Henry would take a few farmers' wives with him to Ottawa when he goes to see about some insurance plan for the unemployed, I think we could soon help Mr. Bennett and him to solve the unemployment question.

Sincerely yours,
FARMER'S WIFE.

PIECE OF PROPAGANDA.

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—After reading H. W. L. Mahood's article, "Leningrade Instead of Petrograd and the Russian Life Influenced by Lenin," on the religious page of Saturday's Examiner, it leaves one in a quandary of thought to try to interpret its Christian meaning or ideal.

Mr. Mahood, I know, is a good living man, but with his knowledge of great men of the past I am of the opinion that "Leningrad instead of Petrograd" is nothing more than a piece of ribald propaganda intended to stir the emotions of the minds of the none too susceptible Christian and church-going people. One point of much importance to be noted by young readers of that article is to be like Lenin, never accept the positive statements of any authority without questioning the truth of the statement, according to your view of the ideas obtained from such statements. If we read the history of the lives of great men of the past, present and those who have yet to come, we will find that the predominating ideal of their lives is not the selfish ideal of the few, but the great ideal that, man being a common brotherhood, he is therefore entitled to a fair share of the fruits of his labor, an equal responsibility to his fellow-man and an obligation to succor his less fortunate brother.

In the face of the evidence before man to-day, to say that Lenin was a destructive revolutionist is to prevaricate the truth of that evidence before the world. There are two fundamental processes at work throughout this great universe: one is destructive degeneration, the pulling of things asunder which have outlived their usefulness, and the other is progressive evolution whereby all things are building themselves into a new state of being. These two agencies are ever with us everywhere and in everything it is the struggle of life which in itself is an abstraction by which man's mind conceives himself in that life as part of that universal progress. Mr. Mahood tells us that "freedom, justice inflamed as with a passion his soul." Never again would he keep his peace as the price of liberty. He also tells us that Lenin was straightforward, cruel and utterly lacking in affection. The last phrase of this sentence is very misleading and a misrepresentation of the man to whom the Russian people pay tribute. In the short course of Lenin's career, by the staunch support of his fellow-copartners, he has freed the Russian people from that tyranny which aristocracy and religious hypocrisy held them in ignorance and serfdom.

Compared with the chance great martyrs of the Christian religion have given to leaders of men since Jesus was crucified, their work is as an acorn to a mountain when compared to what Lenin has accomplished. Religious creeds and doctrines have ever tried and are still at work to keep the minds of the mass of humanity under subjection. Any person who reads the press sees samples of it every day in this great country, Canada, where we have antagonism of different sects of the Christian doctrine. What does the separate school controversy point to but that old antagonism between Catholicism and Presbyterianism. All through history the people have had to free themselves from the dogma and tyranny of popes, prelates and ministers of religion. This controversy has caused more bloodshed than all the natural phenomenon which has occurred on this "man's terrestrial home." If God is my Father, then all men are my brothers. He who accepts that belief, "God is the Father," must accept the other, "I am my brother's keeper." If Christianity accepts this ethical abstraction of the word "God," then where is the need of separate schools and churches and all this antagonism between fellow-men? Religion is the moral and spiritual characteristic which should be taught to fit man for the artificial living which through the course of nature to circumstances he has built around himself.

Yours truly,
J. BEGGS.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 18

When he saw that it was inevitable that the machine would strike him Kane put all his effort into one last leap. A fender struck him and bowled him over. As he rolled toward the curb he heard a guttural oath, and then the car wheeled into Highland avenue and disappeared.

So quickly did it all happen that Kane had no time to see who the occupants were or to ascertain the license number of the car. All he knew was that it was a black machine of the convertible type so common in California.

Fortunately, he was not badly injured, thanks to his final supreme effort to escape death under those speeding wheels. However, he was considerably bruised and a large hole had been torn in one leg of his trousers.

A passing motorist who had witnessed the "accident" drove up and offered help. Wryly, Kane surveyed the condition of his clothes and accepted the proffered aid. After he had settled himself beside the driver, a smiling little man of perhaps sixty years of age, he said:

"A pretty narrow squeak."

The other turned serious eyes toward him. "The way some people drive in this town is a crime," he asserted. "It's a wonder you weren't killed." He asked solicitously if Kane wanted to be taken to a hospital but the amateur detective declined and said that he was going to his hotel.

"By the way," Kane asked suddenly, "did you notice the occupants of that machine?"

The driver's countenance contracted in puzzlement. After a moment he said, "I saw two persons in the front seat. There was something huddled in the back seat. It may have been another person."

"Did you see a woman?"

"No, I didn't," quickly. "Both of them in the front seat were men. But," he added doubtfully, "that might have been a woman in the back seat."

Kane did not say anything immediately. He had distinctly heard a woman's scream as the roaring machine swerved toward him. Was it possible that one of those two "men" had been a woman disguised in a man's clothing?

On the other hand, the dusk of late evening had fallen and it was entirely possible that, in the twilight, his companion might not have been able to distinguish the occupant of the rear seat. The woman may have been riding behind the two men.

At last he said, "Did you have an opportunity to catch the license number of that car?"

The man shook his head. "I was too interested in getting to you," he returned. "I couldn't see how you could escape being seriously hurt, if not killed."

The driver asked where he was going and upon being told said he would drive Kane to the hotel. Fifteen minutes later, he deposited the criminologist at the automobile entrance and drove away.

Kane went to his room, stripped off, treated his bruises as best he could and then brought out fresh clothing. As he was transferring his things from the pockets he came upon the diary. Thoughtfully, he considered it.

Slowly he turned the pages until he came to the entry which had caused him such excitement when he found the little volume this morning. Almost unconsciously, he dropped into a chair and began reading, carefully, analytically.

Perhaps, he thought, he might find a clue in this that might lead him to the door of the murderer. The entry which had brought the cry of exultation to his lips was the work of a man suffering untold tortures of his soul.

"I can see the end of everything (this was the first real reference to his troubles and was written in a smooth flowing hand). Buddy's demands on me are becoming an unbearable burden. I am in debt. My income has stopped because of a long lay-off at the studio. Unless I can find some decent way of getting some money I will be forced to resort to some other way. I wonder if I could stage a perfect crime and get away with it—of course (here the handwriting became jerky and almost illegible as if written by an eager hand) there would have to be considerable money in it for me."

On a date two days later was this entry:

"I found Buddy in the den today. She had found this diary and was reading it. She was furious and demanded to know why I had mentioned her demands on me in my entries. Of course she wanted more money, but I had none to give her. She told me I would have to get some somewhere. What can I do?"

There was a more hopeful note in his entry on the following day:

"Things are looking brighter. The studio sent for me today. Bernie wants an extravaganza that will outdo anything DeMille o Vidor have ever done and told me he was confident I am the man who can produce it. I know I can if I can get the opportunity to work unhampered. If I can just hold Buddy off until I can get that work started, perhaps I can sell her to the studio for a good part. That's what she wants more than anything else. It is a fetish with her. Now, to get to work on a story."

For the next two weeks Bailey had written of nothing in his diary but his work on the picture. His references were almost childish in their enthusiasm. Then came this cry of dilemma:

"Bernie refuses to let me use Buddy. What will I do? I can't go on like this, giving her everything I earn, everything I have. I have got to stop it—somehow. Bernie seems interested in my 'foreign importation.' If I can put over that fraud—it has been done before in Hollywood—I will be on top of the world again. Once more the gods will smile on me and call me 'Richard Bailey, Star Maker.' The poor little fool! She's willing to give me half her fortune to put her over."

Kane read that entry over and over. It shed a new light on the whole affair. Nanette willing to pay for a chance at stardom in the movies!

If Jere Kane could only have read between the lines of that entry his work would have been at an end. He puzzled over it; he felt that here was something of vast importance, but for the life of him he could not figure out what it was.

But who was the "Buddy" Bailey continually referred to? Was it anyone of the characters he knew to be participants in the tragic drama? Or was it some other phantom creature who had escaped him?

The next entry proved equally interesting:

"I had to tell Buddy today of Bernie's refusal to use her. She stormed and raged. She said that if I insisted I could sell her to the Big Boss, but that I just didn't want to. What can you do with a woman like that? Kill her? I wish I had the nerve. It would end all my troubles."

But after that outburst he struck an egotistic vein. He continued:

"I will show the world that I am the greatest director that ever lived. And then I will quit the business cold. I'll disappear and live in a manner which befits me. I will make them come to me and plead with me to come back again (how inconsistent) and I will laugh at them. And I will make them like it."

Fascinated by this story of a man's soul, Jere Kane read on and on, scarcely noting the swift passage of the hours. He had never dreamed that a man who lived such a prosaic life as that of a motion picture director could harbor such tragedy, such torture in his being.

Several days later there was another entry which caught his fancy. He dwelt on it, digested it, puzzled over it.

"Men are queer creatures. I suppose that they are bigamists by ordination of God. What other explanation can there be for their unholy deeds? But, being bigamists, there always comes into their lives one woman whom they would place upon a pedestal and worship as they would their God. Man will fight to protect her, to guard her welfare, to keep her clean. He looks upon her as a creature of gold and alabaster. Then when he finds her feet are made of clay—what happens to him?"

That was all. What was in the man's mind when he wrote that? To whom was he referring? Had some woman come into his life who had chastened him? Had cleansed his soul?

Turning the pages, his eye fell upon a short paragraph which caused him to spring to his feet, his face flushed with excitement, anticipation. He read it:

"If anything ever happens to me give everything that is left to Chivington. He knows everything. He has been a faithful friend. He deserves all that I have."

And following it was the last entry in the diary, the reference which Kane had read that morning. Once more he read:

"I can't go on any longer. I have come to the end of the road. But before I go I want to make one great picture. I want to leave it as a memorial to my work. I am going to beat her to it."

Richard Bailey planned to end his own life. The persecution to which he had been subjected by the mysterious woman he called "Buddy" was too much for him. He had broken under the strain.

Once more Kane read the preceding entry. Three words caught his eye, held him enchanted:

"Chivington knows everything."

Chivington! Hastily, he got into his clothes, stuck the diary in his pocket and started for the home on the hill.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

SLAVE BECAME MILTARY HERO

On this date in 1871 there died at Cornwall, Ont., a negro, who had been a slave in his youth, became a soldier in the British army and fought in three wars. The news of his death was contained in a press despatch from Cornwall which stated:

A colored man named John Baker, who attained his 105th year on the 25th ultimo, died here today. He came here as a chattel of the late Colonel Gray in 1792, having seen service in the revolutionary war. Subsequently he served throughout the war of 1812-14. He was wounded at Lundy's Lane and has drawn a pension for 57 years.

J. F. Pringle, in his "Lunenburg, or the Old Eastern District," devoted a chapter to John Baker. He says that the Baker brothers were born in Lower Canada, sons of Dorine, a black slave of the Grays, her husband being a German.

John Baker's own story was published in a Toronto paper in 1869, it being stated therein that he was in the 104th Regiment in 1812-14, fought at Lundy's Lane, Fort Erie and Sackett's Harbor, and then went to England where he was in garrison for some time, afterward taking part in the battle of Waterloo. As to the latter statement there is considerable doubt, though his pension was a British one. Pringle stated that John Baker was only 93 at his death, and as a Cornwall man he ought to know; but in 1867 the Ottawa Citizen told of the old man appearing in court there as a witness, and his age was then given as 101, which would tally with the first age given. Baker was very proud of his medals and never failed to wear them on occasions of visits of magnates to Cornwall. He also claimed to be a U.E. Loyalist and just before his death boasted that he had always been a Tory and had always "voted for John A's man."

Operator Hears Cry Sends Help to Woman

MONTREAL, Jan. 17. (C.P.) — Presence of mind shown by a telephone operator who heard a muffled scream over the line when she made the conventional demand for "number" brought help to a woman who had been attacked by an intruder in the early hours of the morning.

She immediately called detective headquarters, gave the address in which the telephone was installed, and detectives were despatched. They found Mrs. H. Tisdale recovering from an attack by a man who was in the house when she had returned home shortly before.

The intruder, apparently intent on burglary, overtook her as she ran to the telephone, she said, struck her and knocked her unconscious. The man then fled. Nothing was stolen, it was found.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, January 17 (C.P.).—Reports from Elk Lake of the discovery of high-grade ore on the Ashey property were taken quite seriously on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day and the stock was run up to 1.07 from 96 this afternoon. Mining Corporation, which holds control of the Ashley stock, moved up strongly also to close at 1.57 for a net gain of 7 points.

McIntyre featured the high-priced gold stocks with a rain of 60 to 22.60. Teck-Hughes selling ex-dividend 15 cents, closed at 4.15. Lake Shore and Hollinger were quiet and unchanged.

Buying continues in Eldorado, but not in sufficient volume to lift the price which closed at 1.46 for a gain of 1.

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE.

WINNIPEG, January 17 (C.P.).—Trading in the local wheat market to-day was a duplication of yesterday. Values opened slightly lower in sympathy with Liverpool, but there was almost a total absence of offerings, with the result that the scattered buying that came in from locals was sufficient to boost prices fractionally over the previous close.

At mid-session values held at ¼ to ⅜ higher with May at 45⅝, July at 46¼, and October at 47½.

Only a small export business was worked out of Vancouver overnight while sales from the Atlantic seaboard appeared to be negligible, inter-market operations between here and the southern markets were uninteresting and trading from the start was extremely dull with traders generally awaiting new developments.

Liverpool wheat displayed easiness from the start and quotations in the closing stages were about 1d lower per 100 pounds, while opening quotations at Buenos Aires were ¾c to ⅞c lower per bushel.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Prices were steady to firm in the late stock market trading today, most shares gaining from fractions to a point. U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central and Eastman were down a minor fraction. Liggett & Myers "B", American Telephone, Dupont, Santa Fe and Union Pacific gained major fractions while one point gains were registered by Case, Loew's and Allied Chemical. Consolidated Gas, Pennsylvania and General Motors were slightly higher. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Jan. 17 (C.P.).—Fair volume of trading in British American Oil, C.P.R., and International Nickel saved the Toronto Stock Exchange from a drab performance today. The whole market drifted indolently with Wall Street and at the close losses predominated.

In light trade Imperial dropped below 9 at mid-day but recovered to close unchanged, and British American also recovered before the close. International Pete traded at 11⅛.

Consumers Gas led the Utilities with a point advance to 173, and Bell Telephone was also up a fraction at the close, while small recessions were chalked up for B. C. Power "B" and Power Corporation. The heavy industrials registered small losses, the recessions appearing in Steel of Canada Preferred, National Steel Car and Canada Wire and Cable "B."

BRITISH GOODS.

WINNIPEG.—Visitors to Western Canada class "A" exhibitions next summer will have the opportunity of inspecting a special display of British goods. Special space has been alloted for displays in the annual exhibitions at Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, and Edmonton.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

STUBBS BEGINS COUNTER DRIVE TO CLEAR SELF

Points to Devotion to Duty—Only Two Holidays in 11 Years.

QUOTES KING'S TRIBUTE.

Key of Trouble Was Because "He Was Not So Compliant as Other Men."

WINNIPSG, Jan. 17 (C.P.)—Preparing for a lengthy occupation of the witness stand, Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs to-day began to "rebut" attacks which he alleged had been made against him.

The chief reason for the entire controversy with the "political powers of the province," which to-day had brought him before Mr. Justice Frank Ford in reply to charges of judicial misconduct made against him by W. J. Major, Attorney-General, Judge Stubbs declared was because he was not "half so compliant or complacent as many other men."

From every angle he had been attacked in his capacity as judge, the indignant little jurist declared, and his efficiency, honesty, reputation and character all had been assailed. He now intended to "forever set at rest" these accusations.

The judge again gave notice he would be a considerable time in the box and intended to cover "every detail" of the evidence which he began in the form of a narrative."

Two Holidays in Eleven Years

"In no boasting spirit," the accused stressed to the commission, "the fidelity and devotion" with which he attended to his duties as judge. Only twice in 11 years had he taken holidays and he quoted a tribute from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, which, though only opinion, the judge thought would "rank with that of any prisoner in Headingly Jail or any criminal that might be attracted to Winnipeg or even with that of Winnipeg's police magistrate."

Blame for one charge against him was not held against the clerk who made a report regarding the judge's "inattendance to duty." It, perhaps, was not his fault, the judge said, and he was "afraid of the powers that be; of his position and so on."

Witness then produced copies of a judgment he had given and read the entire document. It was one of the "liquor appeal controversies" which had raged, the judge declared.

The appeal by Barbara Hrushowa was from a conviction by Magistrate Sir Hugh John MacDonald, Jan. 8, 1925, in which the prisoner was ordered to pay a fine of $300 with an alternative of three months' imprisonment. The fine was paid and an appeal made to the county court, but the fine was not transmitted to the court along with the conviction and other articles, witness said.

Contempt of Court

In his judgment, Judge Stubbs declared the action of the Crown in withholding the money ordered to be repaid under a judgment of the court was "not only a contempt of court, but constituted the assumption by the Crown of the right of an executive review of the judgment of the court to which the Crown has no greater right than the subject."

"Besides this important and constitutional aspect of the matter" Judge Stubbs continued to read from his judgment "the action of the Crown in depriving successful appellants of their money, to which they were entitled under judgment of the court, worked considerable injustice and hardship upon them and denied to them the very rights to protect and secure which the courts are constituted and endowed with the ability and powers they possess."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 17. (C.P.) — Trading on the Toronto livestock market was slow this morning with an easier feeling on cattle prices. Cattle trade was slow; calves steady; hogs unsettled; sheep and lambs steady.

"It" Cookies

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17 (C.P.). — A cookie with "it" is the baker's contribution to "consumer satisfaction." Here's how Wilbur H. Bauer, president of the Ohio Bakers' Association, told the membership about it:

"Bakers are trying to develop a psychology of rouge, lip-stick, powder and even face-lifting for their cakes. A substitute word for 'sex appeal,' in the case of cakes, as well as in other things, has been devised by the bakers, and is called 'eye appeal'."

"All Had a Drag."

"I see. So they all had a drag for wood," said Mr. Williams. "Who ordered you paid extra for your work?"

"Councillor Sevigny," said witness.

"A relative of yours?"

"My wife's uncle," Imbeau declared. He had never received a voucher for food while he was working, he declared.

J. E. Boundy, Government auditor, produced a voucher from a grocery firm, dated August, for $1.35.

"Imbeau, I've warned you and cautioned you and done everything I can to get you to tell the truth, and you won't until I produce records," said Mr. Williams. "I'm giving you one more chance. Did you, or did you not, get food?"

"I don't understand. I want an interpreter," witness said.

Shown a bill from the town electric department for $14.25 for lighting store windows, witness explained it was arrears of his house lighting account.

"Very significant," Mr. Williams commented to Judge Hall.

Pascal Martin, town employee for 11 years and foreman last summer, drawing 40 cents an hour, was asked whether he was paid in cash.

"No, with an awful dose of vouchers," he replied.

After the Government auditors had examined the books in October, he was paid in cash by the town, Martin said. "I never was on relief. I wanted my pay in cash but was told I had to take food vouchers."

Judge Hall: "Were all the men in the employ of the town treated as if they were on relief? You were on the books as on relief, but actually you were not?"

"One or two others were paid the same way I was," Martin said.

COMPANY SHOWS STRONG REPORT

Mutual Life Surplus Earnings of $5,509,688.31 Greater Than Year Ago.

FIRST TO REPORT

One of the first of the Canadian Life Insurance Companies to report on its operations for 1932 is The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, with head office at Waterloo, Ontario, which presents a strong and encouraging statement, and one which should prove gratifying to the company's policyholders. It is pleasing to note that the company has maintained its earning power in so high a degree as the surplus earnings of $5,509,688.31 are greater than the earnings of a year ago—these earnings being reported after an increase in actuarial reserve and amounts left on deposit of $6,407,-228.95 is set up, and after a deduction from income to provide for possible loss of mortgage interest. The large earnings cover the surplus paid or alloted to policyholders during the year, permit of large special charges for possible losses and leave the aggregate surplus funds consisting of general investment reserve and free surplus at approximately the same figure as one year ago.

Policyholders or beneficiaries were paid during the year $17,146,547, included in which is the large sum of $5,034,912 for policyholders' dividends.

The Company's annual meeting is to be held on February 2nd when statements will be presented in greater detail.

OUR JOB IS TO MAKE A NEW WORLD SAYS WELLS

What can an ordinary man or woman do about the mess the world is in? I don't know. You don't know. Chas is too big for us. But some brains are more adequate. That of H. G. Wells is one. So I went to Mr. Wells and he said:

By HUGH PILCHER

Our job is to make a new world. And we have got to scrap the old one.

It is definitely up to us. . . .

Either our civilization, which means the familiar daily life of every man and woman, is going smash or it will with great toil be turned into something much finer and more beautiful.

I am afraid that to-day the odds are on the smash . . .

In any case, this is going to be a tremendous, exciting century. It is in many ways not a good century to be born in. If you want to live peacefully and elegantly.

But it will be decisive. Smash or splendor. There is no half-way house for us.

People think the choice of a solution lies between capitalism and communism.

When they say Communism they mean Russia. Now, I think the Russian experiment is already old-fashioned. It is a practical modification of Karl Marx's teaching, and that is rather old stuff.

Marx died a good many years ago and he never dreamed of our principal problem, which is over-production. He belonged to the age of toil. His economics were poverty economics.

He would not have believed it possible that the world could produce more raw materials and finished goods than it needs and still have many people unemployed.

No, Marxism is obsolete.

Lenin and Trotsky realized that when they altered much of his teachings in putting them into practice. Russia to-day is not Marxist; it is Leninist.

Nevertheless, I do not think that civilization is going to be saved in the Bolshevik way.

We Atlantic peoples need something different. We have got to create our own plan for salvation and work it out.

I believe this involves cosmopolitan monetary controls and a vast extension of collective and co-ordinated industry.

Enterprise for private profit will have to go because it is no longer producing any but the very worst results in wastage and confusion.

During the last century, thanks to a series of accidents, such as gold discoveries, the exploration and exploitation of new lands, and mechanical inventions, the profiteering system seemed to work blissfully well. It did work well for those on top.

That is all over. Even for the people on the top.

We have to devise something new—a mighty problem, but well within the wit of man.

"But," I demanded, "what essential form has this newness to take? It's the nature of the next step which puzzles us." And Mr. Wells smiled benevolently and said:

Men will have to be more reasonable. They will have to apply the scientific method to social and political problems. There will have to be altogether greater application of reason to our troubles. And less passion and prejudice.

We must be more reasonable in order to co-operate more.

We have to scrap a lot of old ideas. We are choked with old ideas.

For instance, the historic type of spectacular leader has become a menace. We do not want leaders; we want guiding ideas.

So far personality has always triumphed over sheer competence. There is still far too much emphasis on personality. In art quite as much as in affairs.

For instance, I hate "star" films. I much prefer those Russian films which have no stars but in which everybody and everything play a reasonable part of the whole.

It is the same in government. We don t want any more "star' politicians. We want a larger number of good, competent men at the top. Not showy, dazzling creatures.

I have always though the Liberal party would have remained for longer a greater force if it had not been for Gladstone's tremendous magnetism.

Gladstone's personality became more important than the very principles of Liberalism, and when he died they were easily obscured and lost.

And the world to-day will find such "stars" more and more dangerous. Its problems are too large and too complex for individual men to grasp and deal with.

Teams of leaders co-operating reasonably can do more for us. Individuals, however magnificent, are not strong and wise enough.

I now asked Mr. Wells whether he thought women would do anything towards making this new world he wants to see. He answered:

These affairs are still largely left to men. Women do not seem greatly interested in such big, general, and impersonal problems.

In fact, they seem less interested now than before they got their votes and their cigarettes.

Perhaps this is because they feel that to assert "equality" too obviously would mean the loss of the traditional advantages of being women.

Anyway, women do not seem to be doing much constructive work towards a saner future.

"How," I implored, "can women—and men too—be better fitted for the job?" And Mr. Wells said:

Education will have to be altered. It is a hard and ruthless world for children brought up on the old lines.

Boys who go to traditional public schools and on to the universities emerge to find they are no use.

The world wants experts. They don't know anything expertly.

We have to alter both our conception of what education is for and our conception of the necessary curriculum. Almost all our schools need an entirely new curriculum.

Children ought to be taught how their bodies work, how their country is governed, and so on. These things are fundamentally more important than learning off strings of dynastic anecdotes.

And there is no mystical or practical virtue in "doing" subjects which will never crop up in the child's real life.

The few advanced modern schools are not so very satisfactory, either. Those in charge are often too flushed and intoxicated with their own modernity to be sensible.

So the children under them suffer almost as much as from a Victorian education.

I next asked Mr. Wells whether he thought that sport is going to help or hinder the reconstruction of the world. And Mr. Wells said:

Sport will help if we regard it mainly as a means of looking after and exercising our bodies more.

Our climate does not allow us to play enough outdoor games, and we have scarcely any indoor games that give exercise. That especially applies to the millions shut up in cities. What a bore it is to get exercise in London!

I live in London and I want to play badminton. It is a peculiarly good game for middle-aged men. But can I get a game? I have been hunting for days to find a badminton court near here. Here I am in a perfect warren of flats, and for the life of me I cannot get an hour's exercise a day.

These flats have hot water, electric lights, bathrooms, and so on; but it hasn't yet dawned on any of the people who plan these places that one needs to exercise as much as one needs to wash.

Stuffy, noisy lives we have to live in this ill-planned world!

All these things, details and immensities, want putting right when we make this new world.

At present we remain in our mess because most of us only see life in tiny and narrow glimpses.

People need a broader and more comprehensive view, which is made possible by a knowledge of real history and of the ways the world works.

That is why I have written my "Outlines." I wanted to try to give people this broader view. To give them a sweep and range instead of a peep and a squint.

I started with the "Outline of History." Then I helped Julian Huxley and my son G. P. to write "The Science of Life." And next came the "Life, Wealth and Happiness of Mankind."

All these books aim at helping people—ordinary people—to understand as a whole the world they live in.

Once they understand, they will be more reasonable about what has to be done. They will grasp the proportions of things and measure what has to be done.

Once you recognize a thing to be reasonable, it becomes possible.

Then it happens.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SHORT ITEMS RECEIVED OVER C. P. WIRE.

HEAVY PRICE FOR SHIRTS.

WINDSOR, Ont.—Two shirts have cost Giovanni Grallomardo the privilege of entering the United States. Caught in a Detroit store, he has been deported. Store officials refused to prosecute him for theft, but the card which permitted his entry to the United States was taken from him.

NO FIVE-DAY WEEK

SARNIA.—City Council is apparently not yet ready to consider the six-hour day and five-day week for civice employees.

Alderman George Silk, who sponsored a motion to adopt the shorter hour system has been unable to find a seconder among his colleagues and action this year is unlikely.

NO FARMS TO RENT

CHATHAM.— "Wasn't the depression awful?" farmers of this district are asking. And Jack Keenan agrees. Keenan for more than a month has been trying to rent a farm, and he hasn't been able to locate one yet. Nobody wants to rent a farm, and nobody knows of anyone who does, Keenan reports.

It is generally admitted farming doesn't pay, but they don't seem to be giving up—in Kent County.

ATTEMPT BREAK INTO JAIL.

YORK, Pa. — Whatever their reasons, two men who say they are W .H. Barnhart and John Morgan, both 24, of Hancock, Md., are accused by police of having tried to break into the York County Jail.

They were committed to the lock-up on suspicion early to-day, after Ralph Grove, Deputy Warden, said he saw them climbing up the iron bars over the jail windows. Grove said they told him they wanted to break into jail.

LLOYD GEORGE IS 70 YEAR OLD

NO CUT FOR R.C.M.P.

OTTAWA—No reduction in pay for the personnel of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is contemplated and, beyond the 10 percent reduction for officers of that corps which became effective nine months ago, no cut has been made in the pay of any members of the force. This was the comment of Major General J. H. Macbrien, C.B., C.M.G., commissioner of the R.C.M.P., today on the report from Halifax that such a cut was taking place.

Any Angels?

BYRN MAWR, Pa., January 17 (C.P.). — "Professor, did you see any angels up there?" This was the somewhat startling question put to Professor Auguste Piccard by a seven-year-old girl when he descended from his flight into the stratosphere last summer.

This humorous incident surrounding the Professor's exploits impressed him more than any other in connection with the ascent, he said during a visit here.

He reiterated that two more ascents should be made in the stratosphere, one in the Hudson Bay region.

CUT IN SALARY IS ADVOCATED

we are all pledged to practice economy, and I think this is one place that a saving can be made."

Other members of the Board suggested that the question be left to the next meeting of the Board when Dr. Young, whose illness prevented him from attending the meeting to-day, would be present, and the estimates for the year would be given consideration.

Alderman Stocker Chairman.

Alderman Walter Stocker was elected chairman of the Board. "I thank you for the honor, gentlemen, and I shall strive to do everything to the best interest of all concerned."

One of the first things Alderman Stocker, as the new chairman, advocated was that a stocktaking be made at the Isolation Hospital. "As far as I know never in history have they taken stock at the hospital to learn just what they have there." It was left in his hands to see that the check-up is made.

It was indicated that the expenses for 1932 of the hospital will be nicely within the estimates of $6,000 set aside at the beginning of the year. It was shown by the financial statement of the hospital that for 1932 expenditures to the end of December were $5,629.84. However, there are a few other accounts passed to-day for payment that must be added to this total. Receipts for the hospital for the year totalled $564, but the Board was given to understand that there are few accounts still to be received.

Alderman Dan Holland, a member of the Board, commented on the report, stating that it was very satisfactory. "Yes," added Chairman Stocker, "when you remember that a couple of years ago they were spending $10,000 yearly on the hospital. That's a real come down."

The report of the expenditures for the hospital during the year were:

Drugs and medicines	$ 84.86
Fuel and light	778.10
Furniture and furnishings	194.76
Groceries and provisions	913.56
Telephones	85.79
Repairs to building	93.73
Salaries	3053.00
Incidentals	425.99
Total	$5629.84

Miss A. M. Price, matron, sent a report on the number of cases treated at the hospital and the Board scrutinized it closely.

She reported that during the year 34 patients were confined to the hospital, as follows: Scarlet Fever, 12; Erysipelas, 4; Mumps, 1; Measles, 9; Measles and Pneumonia, 1; Diphtheria, 3; Spinal Meningitis, 1; Infantile Paralysis, 1; Small Pox, 1; Scabies 1. The total number of days of patients in hospital were 537. Total number of days for staff nurses 1,115. Nine special nurses were at the hospital for 63 days, and the number of days for help were 688.

There were three deaths at the hospital during the year—of Erysipilas 1. Spinal Meningitis 1, and Scarlet Fever with complications 1. There was one operation at the hospital for double mastoid, removal of adenoids.

Treat "Flu" Patients

The board made one important decision to-day acting on a recommendation of Dr. Young. This recomendation of the M.O.H. was that charity patients with influenza that required treatment in hospial should be confined dto the Isolaion Hospital. It was emphasized that this way a real economy would be made, since if the patients were sent to either of the other two hospitals the city would have to pay $1.75 per day under the Hospital Act.

"We maintain the Isolation Hospital and we might as well use it in this way" said Mayor Denne in urging that Dr. Young's recommendation be given the sanction of the board. The other members agreed, it being decided that the "flu" patients could be treated safely at the Isolation Hospital in a separate ward.

ROSENEATH MAN JAILED UPON LIQUOR CHARGE

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Jan 17.—(CP)—Francis Bedore, Roseneath, was fined $500 and six months, and in default of the fine a further six months today when he appeared in court charged with manufacturing illicit liquor. It was his second conviction. Police had searched for him for six months.

LONDON LIFE HAS GOOD YEAR

Gain in New Insurance Written During the Year is $5,361,184.

INCOME ALSO LARGER

The report of the London Life Insurance Company for the year 1932, which has just been released, contains information of more than usual interest. In the first place it shows a gain in new insurance written during the year of $5,361,-184, the total production being $100,-463,094, or approximotely two million dollars of new insurance per week. The company also records a substantial increase in insurance in force.

The assets registered a gain of $5,336,895, and now total $77,558,312. High-grade bonds and debentures, chiefly Government and municipal bonds, make up 22½ per cent. of the total. All that have depreciated in value during the year were written down, and a large investment reserve has been built up in addition. The bulk of the assets, 61.4 per cent., are in first mortgages on improved real estate and these have been so carefully selected that the overdue interest is only two-fifths of one per cent. Policy loans are 12.9 per cent. of the assets, while stocks, real estate including the company's premises and miscellaneous items make up the balance of 3.3 per cent. The rate of interest earned on the invested assets was 6.33 per cent.

The income showed a substantial gain also over last year and a gratifying margin over disbursements. The payments to policyholders hit a new high mark of $8,801,757, of which $6,558,224 went to living policyholders and $2,243,-533 to beneficiaries of deceased policyholders.

In addition to strengthening its investment position the London Life has built up exceptionally strong policy reserves. These latter are $5,120,740 greater than required by Dominion insurance law. Then it has increased the free surplus to $3,111,151. The total of all surplus funds in excess of the requirements of Dominion insurance law amount to $11,188,785, after full provision has been made in the liabilities for all profits accruing to policyholders and profits due policyholders in 1933.

The facts and figures of the London Life's 50th annual report are of particular interest to Canadians because it is the largest Canadian life insurance company to have built its business within the Dominion. The one hundred millions of new insurance for the year indicates that people are looking after their futures and that of their families. It is a striking fact that more people than ever before in the history of the London Life purchased insurance from it during the past year. Dividends to policyholders will be on the same high scale throughout the coming year.

In summing up the results of the year Mr. Edward E. Reid, vice-president and managing director, said, "viewed from any authoritative position the statement for the year indicates unusual strength; actuarially it is unsurpassed, and from a financial standpoint it is gratifying beyond all expectations."

The local managers, C. J. Bisson and A. R. Piper, are greatly pleased with the report, full details of which have just reached their offices.

Proving Big Haven for Jobless of the Theatre.

SPIRITS NOT LOW.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—One of the best entertainments in town is the nightly performance at the Actors' Dinner Club. Organized last year by Selena Royle to keep unemployed actors out of the bread lines, it has developed into a popular cabaret, an employment agency, and a meeting place for theatrical celebrities and their public as well.

You may be ushered in by Beverly Bayne or the diminutive Edith Taliferro, who volunteer their services as hostesses. You may sit next to Helen Morgan or Katharine Cornell, or even Mary Pickford who always drops in when she is in town. You may stumble over Sam Harris or William Brady, or some other important producer. Always the charm of the unexpected here.

Of course, such celebrities are not among the needy. They are those who lend their presence and their aid.

Spirits Not Low

The beautiful blonde who serves your soup was in the Follies two years ago. That serious man thoughtfully carving the roast is an old Shakespearean actor (you should hear his Oxford accent). The handsome fellow carrying the water glasses hopes again to be a leading man. Just now they are waiting on table while waiting for things to happen. Low in funds they may be, but not in spirit. That is the advantage of the Dinner club—it acknowledges a situation that is nobody's fault, and makes the best of it.

Here the public pays a dollar for dinner. So do the theatrical people who have employment. Those who have no jobs may dine free, but nobody need know about it. By applying in advance actors out of work are given tickets just the same as the outsider buys. Some 50 or 60 earn their dinners every night helping in the dining-room or kitchen. The only employe who isn't an actor is the chef. Contributions and benefits also help with the overhead. Three thousand dinners are served each week, of which two- thirds are gratis.

That beautiful blonde who serves you soup was in the Follies two years ago.

Last year, when the slump hit the theatrical business so hard and Broadway could support only a fraction of its theatres, many of its entertainers, some who had played big time and earned big money, faced real hunger.

Actors Must Eat

"Hard times or no hard times," declared Selena Royle, "actors must eat."

She went to Col. Earle Booth, head of the Episcopal Actors' Guild and asked him what could be done. Together they called on a group of theatrical people who had jobs, and told them they must do something for their less fortunate fellow workers. The Actors' Dinner club came into being, with a board of directors that includes Dorothy Stone, Helen Broderick, Irene Delroy, Rachel Crothers, Frieda Inescort, Agnes Ayres and others.

They obtained the gymnasium of the Union Methodist church as their first headquarters. A few long tables and benches were brought in, some colorful posters hung, and the doors opened. The first night 225 meals were served. The gymnasium soon proved too small, and they moved into a basement under a theatrical office building, which was donated for their use.

Need Larger Quarters

The place has such crowds every night that a rent-paying restaurateur offered a good rental for that spot, and the club moved to Forty-second street. Now they are again looking for larger quarters, as they feel even larger demands will be made on them this year.

"The greatest advantage of the club, aside from the immediate business of serving food, is that it offers a way for actors and entertainers to keep in touch with the managers and the rest of their profession while they are temporarily out of luck," Miss Royle explains.

"Every night popular Broadway stars come in, and perform, singing or dancing, or whatever they do. That is an inducement for outsiders to come in and spend a dollar here. Unemployed actors are also given a chance to perform and many of them have been placed in shows because they came to some manager's notice here, just when he needed talent.

"The Singing Soldiers', a team doing very well now on the radio, were organized here while the singers were working for their meals.

Finding a "Banker"

"A motion picture director came in the other day and recruited his whole cast here, saying it was the best place to find types. He had all the people he desired except one man who could play a banker's role, and he didn't see just the man he wanted for the part.

"'Take a look at the kitchen,' I told him. There in a white coat, peeling potatoes was just the man he desired. And it was easy enough for us to find another player to double as the potato peeler!"

Though Miss Royle herself is appearing in one of the hits, "When Ladies Meet," she still manages the Dinner club and appears there every evening before going to her own performance, as well as giving much time to it during the day. "Actors must eat," she repeats.

WIDE APPROVAL IN NOBEL PRIZE TO GALSWORTHY

Playwright is at Present Enjoying a "Revival" at Garrick Theatre.

CHOICE IS POPULAR

(By Thos T. Champion
Canadian Press Staff Writer).

LONDON, Jan. 17. It is doubtful if any award of the Nobel Prize for Literature has been received with more wholehearted approval in England than the award which has just been made to John Galsworthy. It so happens that a series of revivals of his plays has just been staged with great success at the Garrick Theatre. "The Silver Box," indeed, his earliest stage piece, has been presented several times during the last two or three years, and is even now running at the Little Theatre. Galsworthy is 66 years of age. It was in 1898 that his first novel, "Jocelyn," appeared, but he was not recognized as a great novelist until "The Man of Property," the first of a sequence known as "The Forsyte Saga," made its appearance in 1906. As a picture in detail of middle-class life in the late Victorian and Edwardian eras the sequence was acclaimed with enthusiasm.

"To this day the novelist knows not how he begins, or why, or how he goes on," Galsworthy declared in a recent lecture at Oxford, "he is only sure that there is no rule, and that the process of character creation varies not only from novelist to novelist but even in himself. The last few years have shown a tendency in the novel to forsake individualism for a kind of communism. The species as a whole has become a novelist's line, or object of detestation, rather than selected specimens of the species. The experiment is extremely interesting—especially to those who are making it."

Writing two years ago, Hesmond Ould said of Galsworthy: "The Galsworthy of to-day is not regarded with great excitement by young intellectuals, and would not ordinarily be prescribed for retarded adolescents, but the Galsworthy of 20 years ago was something new in literature. The clean style of his writing, direct to the verge of baldness; the reticence, quietness, and, above all, the presence of a social conscience, never insisted upon but always evident, were a tonic to young men of a generation rendered uneasy by the onslaughts of science on religion and temperamentally unable to succumb to a philosophy of hedonism.

John Masefield, Maxim Gorky and Paul Valery, the French poet and critic, had been mentioned in the running for the prize now awarded Galsworthy. The value of the prize this year is about 172,000 kroner, just more than $45,000 at the present exchange rate.

St. Pierre

Martinique, an island of West Indies belonging to France; it was discovered in 1493 by the Spanish and colonized by the French in 1635. Martinique was the birthplace of Josephine, the Empress of Napoleon, and her statue adorns the Savanna at Fort de France, the capital since the destruction by volcanic eruption of St. Pierre, which was the principal town up till 1902. The picture gives some idea of the ruins of a once most beautiful city.

PREDICT MANITOBA WILL ENTER NEW MINE INDUSTRY THIS YEAR

Ontario Will Have to Look to Laurels to Hold Gold Production Lead.

MANY CLAIMS STAKED.

WINNIPEG, January 17. (C.P.)—Wrested from its reluctant grasp only by the greatest hardship and toil, Canada's hoary northland is slowly yielding up its hidden stores of precious ores, and the close of 1932 finds the northern mineral belt developed and prospected as never before. Prospectors, some backed with the resources of big corporations and others with only small "grubstakes," from Labrador to British Columbia, are bringing forth in ever-increasing quantities that most valuable of all metals—gold.

Manitoba is producing more and more of the nation's yearly gold output. Though at present occupying fourth place in the list of Canada's gold-producing provinces—last year's production amounted to $2,500,000 — this province will force Ontario to look to her laurels as chief producer of the yellow metal next year, mining men say. With new projects announced, development under way in many areas and producing mines reaching new records in production, Manitoba in 1933 will enter a new era in the mining industry.

Many Claims Staked.

Claims are being staked in every likely and unlikely location, and prospects for next year are for the greatest year in prospecting and developing in the history of the province. Aided by modern methods of transportation, new areas are constantly being discovered and opened up for development.

Comparatively recent discoveries, Eastern and Western Manitoba are expected to swing into active production next year to add to the output from the Central Manitoba district, which has been producing gold for a number of years.

At present, the God's Lake area is most prominently mentioned in mining circles. Located in the north-eastern part of the province, this new mining centre has been favorably compared to any gold find in the United States by W. K. Harding, prominent mining engineer of Minneapolis, who has been engaged for some time in the north country locating claims for an American syndicate.

"I have spent 20 years going over gold properties in the East and West, but I have never seen anything as big as this district," said Mr. Harding on his return to Winnipeg after a month in the God's Lake field. He recently staked 34 claims in that new find, and expects to go back to the area early in the New Year.

Entered by Airplane.

Dotted with lakes, Eastern Manitoba may only be entered by airplane, and all available planes have been chartered to carry gold seekers into the fields. The steady rush of these hardy miners continues unabated, and a veritable army of men is expected to go north in the spring.

Scene of a wild "rush" only little more than a year ago, Island Lake, eight miles from God's Lake, has been quickly opened up and developed. This field is expected to begin shipments of gold "outside" by spring.

A 75-ton mill is being installed on the Ventures property there and another is at present operating on the Morgan claims in the Herb Lake area, another new discovery north of Island Lake. Plans are also being made to bring the North Star mine into production.

Western Manitoba also is not being left undeveloped. Mines are being opened up and new claims staked in that centre, located near the Saskatchewan boundary. The largest of these is the Flin Flon, operated by the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company. This enterprise, however, is mainly devoted to copper, meeting the present low price of the Red Metal by stepping up production. The output now is 4,000 tons per day.

Re-developing Centre Section

The province's "Veteran" gold-producing area, though, is Central Manitoba. This district, spurred on by the activity to the east and the west, is expected to reach new high levels in production next year with its two mines operating continuously.

The San Antonio, which came into production during the past summer, has more than fulfilled expectations and will increase its output next year. Central Manitoba mines years ago produced the first gold "brick" ever mined in Manitoba and has produced regularly each year since. This mine, too, is expected to exand shortly.

The biggest problem to the opening up of Manitoba's metal reserves, as in the other provinces, was transportation, but with the coming of the aeroplane this obstacle has been hurdled. Now even the heaviest of mining machinery is shipped into the field by air, summer and winter, and aviation concerns have regular "runs" to the various gold fields.

Glad Her Neighbor Told Her About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have been married for ten years. I had one child who would be seven years old now if it had lived. My husband and I are both very fond of children. A neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have been taking it for about two months. It took away the pain I used to suffer and I am getting strong."

Make Peterborough A Better Place To Live For All

It isn't a good place to live for those whose families are hungry and cold, THE CHILDREN DON'T understand. Those who are more fortunate should share if possible with those less fortunate by donating funds and materials to the citizens' committee whose aim is to help those in need–

Money Contributions

Should be made to Frank Adams, City Treasurer, City Buildings. No stated objective is set but it is the hope that if everyone would give whatever he or she can afford, a generous amount will be realized. Then, too, for every $1.00 contributed and spent for relief the Dominion and Provincial Governments will add another $2.00. So if $10,000 was raised, the committee could count on $20,000 more which would indeed go a long way toward bringing about better living conditions among our unemployed–

Produce, Groceries, Clothing, Furniture, Etc

Should be left at the Relief Store, George street (formerly Eaton's Groceteria), where a staff will carefully distribute and apportion them among the various families. Warm clothing, bedding, stoves and furniture, besides food, is urgently needed and all would be gratefully received.

Give anything you can, any amount large or small–give food, clothing, furniture –AND HELP

main stream of worshippers seemed to be running to a point beyond the synagogues. Persian Jewes in the flowing robes of Cyrus. Jews from Buchara and Afghanistan, tall and almond-eyed. Jewish from the Polish ghettoes. Jews from the depths of the Carpathian mountains. Yemenite Jews, undersized and frail, who have been the slaves of Arab overlords in the Hedjah countries for nine centuries. Jews from Morocco and Algiers wearing the fez and swinging with the stride of Moorish desert Cheep Kab ballists, whose lean, haggard faces betray the mystic inner fire and who believe that the world's ills and the anguish of our time are the birth-pangs of the Messiah. Chassidic Jews from eastern Europe, God-intoxicated men, whose religion is pure joy. Sephardic Jews from Turkey and Spain with aristocratic gestures and faces that seemed carved from fine old ivory. Askenazic rabonim and melamdim. Bochurim from the Talmud-Torah schools, the Yeshiivas and other institutions of Jewish learning.

"Peace" Is Greeting

As they came around corners to join the stream, they greeted each other with the traditional salutation of Israel throughout the ages: "Shalom!" (peace).

Through the maze of streets and alleys this crowd of men poured to the Wailing Wall, the holiest shrine of the Jewish world. The Wailing Wall is nothing more inspiring than a collection of huge square blocks of stone, piled disjointedly, along one side of an oblong little square. These stones are the last remnant of the Hebrew temple of antiquity, a part of the foundations. For the real temple stood on the terraced garden above.

The sharp edges on the lower layers of the stones have been smoothed and are covered with a shiny polish, laid on through the contact of hundreds of thousands of loving hands. The stones appear like blocks of glass to the point of transparency through the rivers of tears that have coursed over their unfeeling surface.

Jews approached the wall and a mere touch of the slippery stone was enough to make them burst out in poignant sobbing. Old men calmly walked forward, their hands stretched out to the wall as to a friend who brings a message of consolation. Some bent down and kissed the stones reverently. Others again, as if prey to some tremendous sorrow, too great for words, wept, leaning against the hard stones, as if they were the shoulders of a beloved master. One man held his cheek against the wall. His eyes were closed. Lovingly he stroked the blocks of stone.

Tourists Join Worshippers

And not only incomprehensible Orientals behaved in this manner. There were some American-Jewish tourists, clean-shaven young businessmen, wearing well-cut clothes. These moderns also came under the spell of the Wailing Wall. And, what is more, they had come knowing they would, as was shown when they unfolded their silken prayer-shawls before joing the rhythmic swaying of innumerable bodies.

Some people affirm that Jews do not differ from us westerners, except in credal affilations. Let them go to the Wailing Wall and learn the falsity of this assertion. Does any Egyptian ever weep over the deserted glory of the Pharaohs? Do Athenians kiss the crumpling marble steps of the Acropolis? The mediaval grandeur of Flanders is no more. Yyres lies in ruins. Bruges is Bruges-la Mort. Do these things stir any Fleming to tears. But the Jews weep bitter and scalding tears. And why? It is because in the depths of the Jewish soul there remains a gnawing rief, an eternal unsatisfiedness, a panting for other words.

In that cramped area, before the Wall, in an atmosphere fetid with the emanations of rags and sweating bodies, the poignant cry that rose up was not merely the futile lament over the past, always the refuge and consolation of the old and feeble, but the pent-up longing of all humanity, expressed in a great sigh without words, for a new vision of peace and of justice.

This sigh may yet turn the destiny of the world!

Incurably Religious

All the restless yearning of Israel's spirit, the passionate sweep of his vision, his martyrdom and humiliation, found utterance in that terrible cry for liberation: "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread, and labor for that which satisfieth not?" Wealth, power, material affluence and ostensible security, all the things that satisfy us westerners, leave this people with an unquenchable spiritual thirst. Nothing less than God will satisfy them. "Oh, that thou wouldest rend the heavens, that thou wouldest come down."

For ages they have stood here, these sons of Abraham and Isaiah, not only praying and lamenting, but clamoring for God to speak again on the site where his temple stood. They are beating their heads and fists against the remnants of God's house, with insistent appeal: "Speak to Israel, speak to the world!"

A few miserable, crumpling stones is all that is left of the past. But from the depth of Israel's heart rise the pillars of the temple of humanity. These Jews, on whom cynical moderns would pour scorn and ridicule, are the witnesses of the past. Eternal contemporaries, they are also the harbingers of the future. Driven from every land, hounded and hunted across the world's highways and by-ways, torn to pieces, spat upon, tortured and drowned in their own blood they have never let loose the vision they once beheld in these ancient landmarks. Theirs is the vision of the brotherhood of man and the miracle of eternal peace.

JOHNSTON HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Presumed Fire in Manvers Residence Started From Overheated Pipes.

BETHANY, Jan. 17.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The valuable brick farm residence belonging to Alfred Johnston, situated about half a mile west of Manvers Station, was completely destroyed by fire on Sunday forenoon. During the time a very high wind was blowing which made all efforts to subdue the flames an impossible task for those who came to Mr. Johnston's assistance.

Only the furnishings from the downstairs could be rescued from the flames.

It is presumed that the fire started from overheated pipes and could not be controlled owing to the high wind.

District Notes.

Mr. George Eagleson, of Bailieboro, was a recent guest at the home of Mr. Nesbitt.

Miss Hannah Staples, of the Toronto teaching staff, spent the week-end with friends in the village.

Mr. Mix, of Toronto, was a recent guest at the home of Mr. F. W. Reynolds and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Will Gladstone.

Mrs. H. H. Ryley has returned to her home here after an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. James Turnbull, of Peterborough.

Miss Holden and Miss Winnie Nesbitt were guests of Mrs. Robert Morton, South line, recently.

Members of the L.O.L. No. 1022 intend holding their card party and dance on Thursday evening in the Town Hall, having withdrawn the event from Friday evening on account of the bereavement at the home of Mr. F. W. Reynolds.

The vestry meeting in connection with St. Paul's Church is being held on Monday evening, January 23, at 8 o'clock.

Obituary

MRS. J. MOORE

STIRLING, Jan. 17. (Examiner Correspondence)—A double death occurred in Stirling this month when Mrs. J. Moore, (nee Etta Wheeler) passed away on Friday last. Her husband pre-deceased her one week to date.

HENRY WASHINGTON BARR.

Word has been received of the death in East Kootenay, B. C., of Henry Washington Barr, one of the best known residents of that place and a former resident of Eastern Ontario. The late Mr. Barr was born in Fenelon Falls sixty-three years ago and went west in 1887 where he engaged in mining and later in farming. He became a prominent and highly respected citizen of East Kootenay and was regarded as one of the most capable stock raisers in the west. The late Mr. Barr was a cousin of Mrs. Roy Martin, of Hinchinbrook. Deceased is survived by eight children in the west.

MISS MARY JANE KIDD.

The funeral was held recently from A. Comstock & Sons' funeral home to Warsaw Cemetery of Miss Mary Jane Kidd, whose death occurred in this city on Saturday, Jan. 7, after a lengthy illness.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kidd, the deceased was a native of Dummer Township. She had resided in this city for thirteen years and was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church. Surviving her are five brothers—George Kidd and Fred. Kidd, of Millbrook, and Walter H., David M. and W. Earl, of Peterborough—and four sisters—Lena M. and Belle, of this city, and Mrs. O. B. Earle and Mrs. Gordon Earle, of Toronto.

Services were conducted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, and the funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Walter, David, Earl and Fred. Kidd, all brothers of the deceased, and Percy Kidd and Arthur Doughty, cousins.

ISOBEL ELMHIRST.

LANG, Jan. 17.—The funeral of the late Isobel Elmhirst, whose death occurred after an illness of almost four years, was held from her late residence, near Lang, on Saturday, Jan. 7, to Keene United Church where service was conducted by the Rev. J. V. McNeely.

The late Isobel Elmhirst, aged 21 years and five months, was the only daughter of Mrs. Mabel and the late Richard Elmhirst, of Otonabee. She was of a bright and cheerful disposition and made many friends. She served for some time on the Bell Telephone exchange in Toronto.

Besides her sorrowing mother, two brothers, Roy, of Toronto, and Jack, at home, are left to mourn her loss.

The many floral tributes and the large number of friends and relatives who attended the funeral, testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Burial was made in Keene Cemetery in the family plot.

GEORGE TUCKER

WARSAW, Jan. 17. (Examiner Correspondence).—Warsaw Baptist Church was crowded for George Tucker's funeral service on Friday afternoon. Mr. Tucker was a man with a large family connection and many friends. Even the little children are already thinking of how they will miss him, for he loved to have them play around him.

He was a public spirited man. He put up a building with shelves and seat for picnicers to use and placed seats around in the grove, cleared the land of many stones and in various other ways tried to add to the comfort of those who used the grounds.

Since early in life he had been a member of the Presbyterian Church, and he and Mr. Michael Barr were two of the old Presbyterian Board of Cottesloe and Warsaw. Mr. Barr is the only one left. However since there has been only evening service in the Presbyterian Church Mr. Tucker attended the afternoon service in the Baptist Church and for that reason wished his funeral service to be held in the Baptist Church. Also he was very fond of the Baptist pastor, Mr. Walker. He wished a Presbyterian minister to conduct the service. Mr. McDonald of Knox Church, Peterborough, conducted the service at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Rose and Mr. Rose and led it in Warsaw. He also had told Mr. Wilkinson he wished him to assist at his funeral.

Mr. McDonald commenced the service by reading a Psalm. Mr. Wilkinson spoke of the character of the deceased man and mentioned that the funeral of Dr. Couch who had probably attended Mr. Tucker or some of his family when he practised in Toronto this afternoon.

Porter Walker gave a short address, using the text, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Eccles. 12:1, and applied it to the long Christian life of Mr. Tucker. He ended by repeating "Crossing the Barr."

Mrs. Kitney sang "There is a Land That is Fairer Than Day".

The bearers were nephews, Messrs. Jordan Payne, Maxwell Tucker, Bert May, James Middleton, David Tucker, William Forsythe.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Rose, Peterborough and one brother, James Tucker, Warsaw.

Burial took place in St. Mark's Cemetery, Warsaw.

WILLIAM C. HARRISON.

NORWOOD, Jan. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred suddenly Friday morning of Wm. C. Harrison, a prominent and much respected citizen of this village, at the age of 82 years and six months. He was a son of the late Robert Harrison, one of the pioneer settlers of Asphodel Township.

He came to Norwood forty-six years ago, and started in the sawmill business. This he has carried on successfully up to the present time, notwithstanding three reverses by fire, two of which made a clean sweep, but after each disaster a better mill arose from the ruins, demonstrating his courage and perseverance. Twenty-four years ago, Mr. Harrison suffered a severe stroke of paralysis, and for a time his life seemed to hang in the balance. Here again his optimism and grit carried him through, for although this illness left him with a partially disabled arm and leg, he struggled back to work and carried on. Despite his handicap and advanced age, Mr. Harrison drove his own car up to a short time ago.

His earlier plants comprised a saw and shingle mill, planing mill and sash and door factory. He also owned and operated the Norwood electric plant for some 26 years before the coming of Hydro. During his time Mr. Harrison has seen the huge virgin trunks of pine, maple and basswood up to 5 feet in diameter for which Asphodel Township was noted, gradually vanish, and their places taken to-day largely with second growth whitewood, poplar and maple.

His sudden death was a result of a stroke seizure on Thursday last. In his passing Norwood has lost a valuable and public-spirited citizen, who possessed all the sterling qualities of uprightness and honor.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon to the Norwood Cemetery, conducted by the Rev. A. C. Reeves, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased was a life-long member. The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. F. Elliott, E. C. Squire, Wm. Grattan, Wm. Robb, Wm. Elliott and J. F. Pearce.

Those left to mourn his loss are his wife, two sisters, Mrs. T. Finlay of Saskatoon and Miss Margaret Harrison of Peterborough; two brothers, Joseph of La Monte, Alta., and John on the old homestead in Asphodel; one brother, Robert, and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Hall, both of Peterborough, having predeceased him.

ENNISMORE COUNCIL HOLDS INAUGURAL

Officers Are Appointed at First Meeting for Township of Ennismore.

The inaugural meeting of the Municipal Council of the Township of Ennismore was held on Monday, when the following members, who were elected by acclamation, subscribed to the oath of office and took their seats, with Reeve Daniel Hickson in the chair: Councillors Francis J. Young, Maurice O'Connner, Edward O'Donoghue, and James A. Gifford.

By-law 439 appointing township officers, local Board of Health Medical Health Officer, and sanitary inspector for the township was passed. The following are the officers: W. T. Cavanagh, clerk; Daniel Holland, treasurer John J Killen, assessor; William Harrington, Sr., weed inspector; James Killen sanitary inspector; Dr F. P. McNulty, M.O.H., with Timothy Murphy reappointed to the local Board of Health.

The members of the local Board are: Dr F. P. McNulty, M.O.H. Daniel Hickson, Reeve W. F. Cavanagh, clerk, and Timothy Murphy

It was unanimously passed that Daniel Hickson be appointed to handle relief in the Township of Ennismore for the year 1933, and it is also thoroughly understood that this Municipal Council will not be accountable for any bills presented to them unless ordered by the relief officer.

The Council then adjourned to meet again at the call of the Reeve

Millbrook

Miss Cornish, of Vancouver, B. C., who has been visiting relatives in Toronto, is now the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bonneville, and will visit here for the next few weeks.

Mrs. T. H. Bradley, who spent the Christmas and New Year's holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Peterborough returned home on Wednesday of last week.

Henry Lancashire, of the Bank of Toronto staff, Kingston, is at home at present, the necessity of a slight operation being the reason for the enforced holiday.

Misses Alice and Lottie Vance were in town last week, coming from Toronto to attend the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. James Jackson, of Ida, whose death in her eighty-third year took place on Sunday, interment being in St. John's Cemetery, Ida, on Tuesday. The Misses Vance were the guests of Mrs. J. C. and Miss Anna Kells during their brief stay in Millbrook.

A meeting of the auditors and officers of the Golden Links Mission Circle was held at the home of the retiring treasurer, Miss Margaret Luxon, on Thursday evening, when the year's schedule was completed as follows: Fees, $3.25; new life member, $10; thank-offerings, $24.45; other sources, $55.44; collections, $7.30—total, $107.14, less expenses, $100—was remitted to the branch treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Field, Cobourg. Part of the circle money goes to the salary of Miss E. C. Hawken, missionary teacher at Radway Centre, Alberta.

An enjoyable dance was held in the L.O.L. Hall on Wednesday evening, sponsored by Orange Lodge No. 79, the attendance being as large as could be accommodated, and a dainty lunch served at the supper hour. R. McDonald is worshipful master and J. Thompson, director of ceremonies.

Husking Cacao Pods

Trinidad has an area of 1754 miles with a population of about 400,000, mostly colored. It is believed originally it was a part of Venezuela and was separated by volcanic convulsion. There are fertile plains, hill's and valleys, where the cacao and coconut are cultivated in abundance.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson. (Address furnished upon request.)

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines — often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

APPEAL IS DISMISSED

The decision of His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke handed down in Victoria County Court in the case of I. and J. Moore and J. J. Hickson vs. H. and R. E. Brooks, restraining the defendants from raising the water level of Pigeon Creek to such an extent as to cause the water to flow over the boundary lands in the Township of Manvers, was upheld in the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The appeal was made by the defendants. R. R. Hall, K.C., was for the appellant, and C. G. Frost for respondent. The appeal was argued and dismissed with costs.

IRISH ELECTION TIDE SWINGING WITH COSGRAVE

Majority Expected To Be So Slim He Will Need Farmer and Independent Aid.

PRICES REFLECT CHANGE.

Lifting of Ban on Canadian Cattle by Britain Hard Blow to Irish Trade.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 17. (C. P. Cable).—Expectation is growing here that the Cunnmann Na nGaedheal, of former President William T. Cosgrave will win the forthcoming general election on Jan. 24.

While the strength of the Fianna Fail of President Eamon de Valera in many parts of the country is not underestimated it is nevertheless manifest that a great body of opinion is swinging to the belief that the Republican Party will be defeated.

It is probable, however, that Mr. Cosgrave would find his party in the Dail with such a small majority that his position would be most precarious unless he enlist the co-operation of Independent members or of the Central Party representative of the Farmers' and Ratepayers' League.

Change Foreseen

Opinion on the Dublin Stock Exchange is definitely turning towards the prospect of a change in government. Prices are rising in the country markets which is generally interpeted as the belief that the economic war with England will soon end and the markets will be restored to the Free State farmers.

The Centre Party and the Independents, whose spokesman is the Lord Mayor of Dublin, are determined to avoid the prospect of another early general election, and hope to form a National Government. Should they find themselves in the control of the balance of power this is considered not at all unlikely.

Meanwhile the candidates for the election are finding the campaign a most difficult one owing to cold weather. The country has been gripped with a severe wind and low temperature for some days and many of the election meetings have been sparsely attended.

Hard Blow To Ireland
(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 17.—(C. P. Cable)—The removal of the British restrictions on imported Canadian cattle, which goes into effect today, and which will greatly benefit Canadian exporters of cattle, is being widely discussed in the Irish Free State.

The Irish Independent, local newspaper, after commenting on the drop of exports from the Free State of cattle to Britain since the opening of the economic war, says in a leader editorial, "This blow to the Saorsat (Free State), trade has given a chance to Canada which it would never have got if there had been no economic dispute between the Saorstate and Great Britain.

"It is understood," continues the editorial, "that a ship load of Canadian cattle is now on the way to the British market and will be followed by many more. Should the economic struggle be continued with Great Britain indefinitely, as may be the case if the Fianna Fail government is returned to power, the farmers may find themselves ousted from the only market available for their export stock."

TORCH SLAYER DIES OF POISON

Self-administered Dose Ends Amazing Drama, Leaves Police Baffled.

NO MOTIVE DISCOVERED.

LONDON, Jan. 17 (C.P.).—Samuel James Furnace, who was in custody on a charge of murdering his friend, Walter Spatchett, died early to-day in St. Pancras Hospital from the effects of a self-administered poison.

Ever since Furnace was found suffering from the poison in a Kentish town police station cell early yesterday, the doctors and staff of the hospital worked desperately to save his life, but without avail. Thus ended another phase of a most amazing drama.

Spachett was the victim of what was described as an all but "perfect murder." A burned body found Jan. 3 in the charred ruins of Furnace's workshop and office, where he carried on construction work, was at first identfied as his own.

Tell-Tale Evidence.

The unexpected discovery of bullet wounds at routine inquest led to identification of the body as Spatchett's.

Furnace was finally found in a South-End boarding house Sunday, where he had remained almost continuously in his bed, complaining of illness, spending the time reading a stack of detective stories.

His wife, who acclaimed him the ideal husband and father, and Furnace's brother visited him in the hospital while three Scotland Yard operatives listened in the hope they might hear a word of confession. The motive for the slaying of Spatchett, a bill collector, was not established.

Peterboro's Relief Fund Appeal

To a selected list of citizens letters are bing sent from the office of the City Clerk for contributions to Peterborough's Relief Fund.

This is the procedure decided upon at the recent public meeting, and for the information of the public generally the appeal by Mayor Denne, as chairman of the community committee, is reproduced herewith:—

Peterborough, January 13th, 1933

Dear Sir or Madam:—

The problem of relief for our unemployed fellow-citizens is assuming very serious proportions. There are now upwards of 650 families totalling about 3,000 individuals, who have to be taken care of by the city, this proving a heavy burden.

At a recent meeting of representative citizens, it was unanimously agreed that an appeal should be made to the generosity of those citizens able and willing to help. It was felt that there would be a liberal response to such an appeal. The contributions would serve both to relieve distress and also help to keep down the already heavy tax rate.

Every dollar contributed and spent is augmented by $2.00 for one by the Dominion and Provincial Government.

Similar appeals have met with marked success in other places—Oshawa, Brantford and Ottawa being striking examples, Peterborough will surely rise to the occasion in support of such a worthy cause. Particulars may be seen in the daily press.

Your contribution—large or small—will be gratefully accepted and acknowledged.

Kindly forward your contribution to FRANK ADAMS, City Treasurer.

ROLAND DENNE, Mayor,
For the Citizens Meeting.

GEORGE B. SHAW BREAKS VOW, CONSENTS TO SPEAK IN AMERICA

Academy of Political Science to Play Host to Irish Wit and Philosopher.

SELECT AUDIENCE.

(By RAYMOND CROWLEY)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP) — After enough wire-pulling to move a couple of mountains, George Bernard Shaw has consented to address a huge but select audience of the "dear old boobs" about whom, for 30 years or so, he has been careful 'n'ever to say a civil word".

In other words the Irish wit, philosopher and author, will make a speech in America. He will speak April 11 in the Metropolitan Opera House as the guest of the Academy of Political Science. Tickets will be limited to members of the Academy and their guests.

The decision breaks a couple of vows. Shaw had sworn never to visit America and he had promised above all never to talk here. When he let it be known that he would break the first vow (he is now en route around-the-world on the Empress of Britain) the Academy of political science got busy.

A cabled invitation to speak was scorned, but he left the door slightly ajar. Alanson B. Houghton, head of the Academy, made a personal appeal, and got Viscountess Astor to help out.

At first it was suggested that Shaw speak at a dinner attended by 5,000 persons. He replied that he couldn't stand the clatter of so many knives and forks. Finally he agreed to speak in the "Met."

Obituary

MRS. HERBERT S. GRIFFIN

The funeral of the late Isabella Frances Manning, beloved wife of Herbert S. Griffin and sister of Mrs. A. E. Dixon of Peterborough, who entered into eternal rest on Sunday, January 8, at San Diego, California, was held on Monday, January 16. A service of beautiful simplicity was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Harold Young, of Toronto, assisted by Rev. Millyard, of George Street United Church, Peterborough. Interment took place at Little Lake Cemetery.

Because of failing health, the late Mrs. Griffin had spent the past five years in California. A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Manning, of Bradford, Ontario, she received her early education at the Bradford Model School and later attended the Hamilton Ladies' College and the Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby.

Following her marriage she resided in Alliston, Peterborough, and Boston, Mass., until removing to New York City where she spent the greatest part of her life. During this period she devoted much of her time and energy to church work. Her life was characterized by high ideals and wide and varied interests. The late Mrs. Griffin possessed great qualities of both mind and soul, was a reader of wide range, an observer of current events, a splendid conversationalist and the possessor of a charming personality.

Pall bearers were Dr. W. D. Scott, Dr. J. E. Middleton, Vincent Eastwood, Sr., W. G. Morrow, R. J. Kidd and E. F. Mason.

Mr. T. A. Manning, of Toronto, is a brother, and the late Mrs. (Rev.) Elvira A. Joliffe, of Toronto, was a sister.

MISS MARJORIE LONG

The funeral was held from the residence of her aunt, Mrs. S. Wainwright, 563 Park street, this afternoon, of Marjorie Long, who died in Toronto on Saturday after an illness of two years' duration. Miss long was in her 19th year.

Predeceased by her father two years ago, and by her mother who died three years ago, she is survived by one sister, Jean, and two brothers, Earle and Maxwell. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, and interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Messrs. Floyd Wagar, Arnold Butcher, Jack Miller, Allen Worsencroft, Roy Deanard, and Gordon Wainwright.

REV. MR. WORRELL IS GUEST SPEAKER

Ladies' Bible Class of All Saints' Church Holds Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Ladies' Bible Class of All Saints' Church was held in the Parish Hall on Friday evening, when about fifty members and friends sat down to a sumptuous banquet prepared under the convenorship of Mrs. R. Page and Mrs. E. Glover. The tables looked very attractive with pink streamers, centred with a large silver basket of daffodils and pink candles in silver candle holders.

Rev. Mr. Worrell, of Havelock, was the guest speaker of the evening, and a reading by Mrs. H. E. Connolly was much enjoyed.

The Rev. J. D. Paterson then took the chair for the business session, when various reports were read, showing much activity during the past year. A very satisfactory financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Barry. This was followed by the election of officers, as follows: Hon. President, Mrs. A. Stevenson; President Mrs. F. White; 1st Vice, Mrs. E. Lebarr; 2nd Vice, Mrs. C. Curtis; Secretary, Mrs. F. Leether; Treasurer, Mrs. W. Barry; Flower Committee, Mrs. J. Hetherington; Dor. Com., Miss L. Elliotson; Social Committee, Mrs. M. Bowler, Mrs. Hillier; Visiting, Mrs. R. Hurst and Mrs. Currie; Pianist, Mrs. E. Glover.

Urge 39 States Quit U.S. "Financial East"

BISMARCK, N.D., Jan. 17 (C.P.).—A proposal that 39 States "secede from the Union, leaving a "financial east" of nine States, was before the North Dakota Legislature to-day.

State Senator W. E. Martin yesterday introduced in the Senate a resolution charging Eastern States have become rich "at the expense of the rest of the Union," and advocating separation of the Union into two countries. Action on it was postponed until to-day.

The States which Senator Martin called the "financial east" are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey. He proposed the remaining states secede from the Union "carrying with us the star spangled banner, and leaving them (the other states) the stripes which they richly deserve."

Hoover, Roosevelt Agree Upon Policy in Far East

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)— A united front by President-elect Franklin D. Roosevent and President Hoover on the American policy in the Far East was indicated here today by the Democratic leader.

Asked to comment on reports from Washington that Secretary of State Stimson has reaffirmed the policy this nation will not recognize territorial gains made in violation of treaty agreements Mr. Roosevelt said.

"Any statement relating to any particular foreign situation must, of course, come from the Secretary of the United States.

"I am however, wholly willing to make it clear that American foreign policies must uphold the sanctity of international treaties.

"That is a corner stone on which all relations between nations must rest."

TORONTO CLUB PAYS VISIT TO LOCAL ROTARY

Big Delegation of Queen City Members Here for Inter-city Meeting.

A FINE PROGRAM.

Toronto Rotarians Show Ability as Entertainers and Provide Artists and Speakers.

A red-letter occasion in the history of the Peterborough Rotary Club was registered last night when 130 jovial Toronto Rotarians under the leadership of President Mel. J. Hutchinson, at one time City Editor of The Examiner, invaded Peterborough for an inter-city meeting. The Toronto club delegation arrived at 6.30 o'clock via a special C.P.R. train and proceeded to the Empress Hotel, where dinner was served at 7 o'clock.

The program was entirely in the hands of the Toronto club, and with such artists as Rotarian Frank Oldfield and Frank Blatchford of Toronto contributing generously and with the address of the night entrusted to such a capable orator as Rotarian "Sandy" Sanderson, Deputy Chief Librarian of Toronto, the whole affair was a most enjoyable success. In addition to the present members of the Peterborough club, most of the ex-members and a number of other guests were in attendance and the whole Peterborough representation thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity to fraternize with the Toronto Rotarians and the fine program presented by the visitors.

After the excellently served dinner had been done ample justice to, President James Juby of the Peterborough club called the gathering to order and after a few hearty words of greeting called upon Rotarian Fred L. Roy to voice a welcome from local Rotarians.

In doing so, Rotarian Roy called attention to the fact that President Hutchinson of the Toronto club was a former resident of Peterborough and he congratulated both the club and its president upon the choice. The speaker referred to the great part played by Toronto Rotary in the organization of the local club and to the services in that connection of Rotarians Hugh Kerr, John Gibson and Harry Stanton of Toronto, all three of whom were present last night.

In acknowledging the welcome, President Hutchinson remarked that four or five of the happiest years of his life had been spent in Peterborough, and he was glad, therefore that such a large inter-city visit had been arranged during his term of office. He introduced to the audience several outstanding Torontonians as Dr. J. L. Hughes, the veteran educationist who spoke briefly, and Charles Mason, chairman of the inter-city committee.

Rotarian Frank Oldfield's resonant baritone was displayed to great advantage in a group of four songs which this most accomplished singer sang with his usual artistry. His offerings consisted of those two fine martial numbers, "The Sergeant-Major on Parade," and "Sussex by the Sea," the lilting number, "Dear Old London Town," and the ever-popular ballad, "I Passed By Your Window."

Rotarian Frank Blatchford, one of Canada's most able violinists, delighted the gathering with his fine rendition of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," by Seitz, and an equally capably offering of Dvorak's "Humoresque."

A veteran member of the Toronto Club, George Baldwin, sang an old time comic song, "How Paddy Stole the Rope," in effective fashion.

A clever comedy interlude was provided by Rotarian Dr. Clarence Routley and Harold Grills of Toronto, whose mind-reading performance gave them an opportunity to interpolate a wealth of entertaining "gags" that hit the mark.

The speaker of the evening, Rotarian "Sandy" Sanderson, dealt effectively with what he termed the "ballyhoo" with which the world is affected at the present time. The speaker declared that this "ballyhoo" ran through the whole scale from governments down to commercial enterprises and it was difficult to get an intelligent public opinion on any question because of the propaganda that in the newspapers and elsewhere surrounded the subject. There was the Russian bogey, for example. Much of what was heard about Russia and the five-year plan was just "ballyhoo." The world, he contended, had nothing to fear from the five-year plan nor from Bolshevism.

"Bolshevism cannot face democracy," Rotarian Sanderson remarked.

There was the 'ballyhoo" that only gave one-side of the Irish question, the speaker claimed, and the propaganda that bedevilled the whole debt situation and that would make it impossible to arrive at a satisfactory solution. The same "ballyhoo" ran through much commercial advertising, the speaker contended.

People were born with so many hours to live, he said, and his advice was that his hearers should use those hours to getting at the truth in everything and in smiting "ballyhoo" wherever it lifted its head.

Rotarian V. J. McElderry, K.C., voiced the appreciation of Peterborough Rotarians to the Toronto delegation for their visit and for the splendid program they had provided.

President Hutchinson called the attention of visitors to the fact that Peterborough had always been noted as a sporting centre and during his sojourn here had had a championship hockey team that had made the city famous. Two members of that team, he informed the Toronto Rotarians were members of the Peterborough club in the persons of Chris. Graham and R. M. Glover.

The Toronto delegation departed for home via special train at 10.30 o'clock, leaving behind them a reputation for being not only "jolly good fellows," but a first class squad of entertainers. It was a memorable night for Peterborough Rotary.

UNIVERSITY MAN IS FOUND SLAIN

Police Seek Two Strangers Seen Fleeing From Victim's Home.

IN FORMER SHOOTING.

PALMYRA, N.J., Jan. 17.—(A.P.)—The murder of Bradway Brown, 28 year old wealthy graduate of Swarthmore University, presented mystery after mystery to police today as they sought two strangers seen fleeing from the Brown home.

Brown, who figured as a witness in connection with a double tragedy three years ago, was found sprawled on his living room floor last night. A bulet had pierced his body under the right lung. Another had been fired into the middle of his back.

A baffling aspect was a mysterious telephone call which first apprised authorities of the slaying. A quavery voice told Police Chief Beck to "go to Brad Brown's home on Park avenue; there's been an accident." When the Chief got there, he found the body lying amid a litter of children's toys.

On June 2, 1929, a friend of Brown's, Ruth M. Wilson, daughter of John O. Wilson, wealthy Camden financier, was found slain in a bedroom of the Wilson home. Horace Roberts, her suitor, was found dead in the same room. Brown testified at the inquest that he had heard Roberts say: "If I can't have Ruth, nobody else will."

The verdict of the inquest was "murder and suicide."

AT REST.

The Man I Hated

by Alan Sullivan

The pale eyes were open and looking at him.

With Brewster, he shared a third-class compartment in a Birmingham Euston train; a biggish man and heavily built, his broad face flecked with tiny, bright red spots.

With this went a wide mouth and a pair of pale, china-blue eyes that, decided Brewster, were the blankest things he had ever seen. They told nothing. His clothing might have been called florid, and marked time with his complexion. On the stumpy third finger of his left hand was a signet ring with a large green stone.

Brewster, tall, underfed and hollow-cheeked, regarded him, with sensations that, after the first half hour, amounted to antipathy. The man looked so damn prosperous, while he himself was so hard put to it.

One hundred pounds! One hundred pounds to keep his brother out of jail. That was what Brewster wanted and could not find unless the cousin he was going to see in London came across.

Time passed. He found himself drawn by the pale blue eyes. Staring into them, he found that his own were being mysteriously held; then looked away. So often did this happen that, finally, he hated the man, hated him the more since, obviously, here was the sort who could lose a hundred and never miss it.

Finally the strain became too great.

"What's the matter with you?" he creaked, "Who are you staring at?"

The man's brows went up a shade.

"Ah'm sorry, lad," he bleated in an extraordinary tone, bland and flat. It was something like a sheep's. "Ah didn't mean now't. Thee doesn't look well."

"I'm all right,' exploded Brewster.

At the next halt, the last before London, an inspector came in and asked to see their tickets. Brewster brought his out — a return—with some loose silver, all the money he had. The other man selected his from a fat pocketbook bulging with notes, replacing it with a movement of calm assurance suggesting that the sight of money was nothing new.

"Thank you, gentlemen."

The door closed. The man shut his eyes, and seemingly went to sleep, while Brewster's gaze fastened on the bulge made by the pocket-book in the breast of his overcoat. More than a hundred there!

This ate into his brain like acid, and he fell into wild conjectures such as estimating the man's strength, the speed of the train, what he would say if one told him about Bob, till in the middle he found the pale blue eyes regarding him exactly as though they knew what passed through his brain.

'Look here!" he blurted, jumping to his feet, "I—"

He got no further for in that instant it seemed as though the whole solid world had come to an end. There was a violent crash, and he was flung like a handful of gravel slap against the wall. The floor came up, the roof buckled and gaped so that he caught an irregular patch of blue, and then with a grinding roar everything was blacked out.

He came to himself with a dull stabbing of pain in his right leg and a queer taste in his mouth. Blood—his own blood!

He was on his left side, one arm pinned beneath him, a beam across his hips, and in one terrific second the truth rushed at him. Pinned in a cage of debris! Two feet away way a shoulder and arm belonging to a man who was flattened on his back and did not stir. The hand wore a signet ring with a green stone.

Brewster, his brain now clearing, blinked at it. He saw a ripped overcoat, and beside it a pocket-book—open.

"Hullo—are you much hurt?"

He got no reply. Queer, he thought, that just one of them should be killed, then tried to move but was so punished by pain that he gave it up. He could only wait —and hope. His right arm was free and he could turn his head .

Waiting, he kept it turned toward the pocket-book. The thing mesmerized him. There it lay, stuffed with what he had come to London—probbaly in vain—to seek. By the last chance in the world, there it was. He could reach it. Staring round in his cage of gigantic splinters, he found his hand creeping out—out.

Then ofa sudden the space overhead got a little darker, and somewhere was a man, perhaps six feet away.

"Anyone in here?"

"Yes," said Brewster weakly, "myself and one other."

"Good! Cheer up and don't move, or you may bring something down. There's no fire, no further damage, and we'l get at you as soon as possible. Lie quite still."

Brewster lay still. The thought came that he might get something out of the railway company in compensation, but that was a toss-up, so he stared again at the pocket-book. He decided to take a chance.

He did not want, actually, to see himself doing this, so shut his eyes —they were blindfolded by bitter shame—and captured the packet. With extreme difficulty he pushed it into his own breast pocket. Then he must have fainted.

Emerging ultimately from a vortex of numbing sensations, he found himself in the casualty ward of a hospital, and lay looking at the ceiling. So quiet it was. Turning a little, he made out a row of beds, some of them bumped into strange shapes. There were six beds, his the fifth, and the last one next the wall on his right. A nurse was busy at the other end of the room.

Looking to his right, he saw that the man in that bed was on his back, with his left arm hanging limp. He did not stir, and on the third finger of a stump hand was a signet ring with a large green stone

Staring at this, the soul of Brewster filled with terror.

Suddenly he started up, but fell back with a cry of pain that brought the nurse hurrying to his side. She shook her head, then stood over him with a reproving smile.

"Well, here you are, and a lucky man too. But you mustn't do that. Please be quiet."

"I—I can't sleep unless I know something."

"What?"

"About him?" He motioned to the next bed.

"Do you know who he is?"

"No."

"Nor do we, yet—nothing found to identify him—so it's being broadcast tonight." Hesitating a moment, she leaned closer, lowering her voice. "You're better off than he is, poor chap."

"Why?" whispered Brewster.

"He's paralyzed. We think that perhaps he can hear and understand, but he has not been able to speak. He may never speak. Spine badly injured. Rest now, and be thankful you got off so lightly. The doctor will see you shortly."

She went away, and left Brewster speechless.

The money—his money! was safe. At this, something seemed to take hold of his head and twist is around. Then he gave a gasp.

The pale china-blue eyes were open and looking at him with exactly the same expression as before, but now infinitely more formidable since they were the only channel of communication from a living creature that knew it was doomed.

The rest of the day dragged out and was punctuated now and then by wanderings of semi-conscious men. An orderly settled Brewster for the night.

It might have been midnight when he heard the faintest possible sigh, then the ghostly shadow of a voice, thin, hollow, very distant, and with the same bleating quality as before.

"Lad, dost thee hear me?"

Brewster sent back a choking whisper. 'Yes."

"Ah's going out; and it's a' reet."

"What?' breathed Brewster.

"Yon brass—Ah saw thee take it, lad.'

Brewster could not speak, and the falling tones went on.

"Ah cud 'na see they face, nob-but a hand. Thee—thee needed it badly?"

Brewster made a strange little sound.

"Ah thowt yon from thy looks, an' wanted to talk with thee, but thee tow'd me to shut ma trap. Keep t'brass lad, it's a' reet, an' betwixt thee an' me. Ah'm dying, lad. Oh, yes—Ah cudna mias what t'nurse said — para — paralysis. Cheer'—"

The tone drooped, faded, became extinguished.

PRETTY AIR LINE HOSTESSES FIND ROMANCE ABOVE CLOUDS

Find Time for Air Courtships While Carrying Out Duties.

SORT OF CONDUCTRESS

By IONE QUINBY
Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Travel among the clouds and settle down on earth!

Literary speaking that is what airplane hostesses and pilots are doing these days. Lured by the charm of moon-rays thousands of feet above ground, and drawn together by purple sunsets, the girls who entertain and serve passengers, and the men who drive the winged ships are fast falling prey to Dan Cupid's arrow.

In the past few months a half dozen petite, attractive girls, whose job takes them daily above mountain tops and skyscrapers, have announced their engagement or marriage to pilots of these ships. The latest to plight her troth, following muted glances in the sky and tete-a-tetes on earth, is Hazel Minkler, known to many regular air passengers as "Mickey." Her marriage to Pilot John Crisman was announced recently.

Wifey Waits Below.

Until a short time ago both blazed the air trail from Salt Lake City to Oakland (San Francisco). Now John flies the course of 643 miles alone, while Mrs.Crisman awaits him after each trip, on earth.

Once, Greta Low, an intriguing figure in her aviation suit and hat, ministered to the comforts of old women, wealthy business men, college students and other passengers on her flights from Salt Lake City to Oakland. The romantic atmosphere of the clouds aided and abetted Gretta's earthly palship with Pilot Edward Kreissig. Following a particularly gorgeous sunset, in which the plane was literally bathed in a golden-purple bath, Greta and Edward descended to earth "that way."

Ted O'Brien, pilot on a western air line, was the next to succumb. The vivid-haired little stewardess who ensnared his heart met him 3,000 feet above ground. Literally speaking they are not back to earth yet, notwithstanding the fact that the O'Brien bungalow is to be on terra firma.

And Still Another.

Emma Monay, hostess flying out of Cheyenne, is another who has just announced her engagement to a knight of the air.

Yet the girls who get jobs in the air are 100 per cent level-headed. Although 3,000 applications are now on file with one air line alone, only a paltry few are elected to fly in the clouds. The first requirement is that each applicant must be a graduate nurse, due to the fact, an official explained, that girls with such training are invariably freer from excitement and less flighty than others.

One qualification is to Cupid's advantage. Hostesses may be neither too tall nor too hefty, and they must be attractive. A large hostess, so they say, takes up too much space and ads to the tonnage of the ship. Restrictions are that the girls must weigh not more than 120 pounds. Needless to say this adds to the sum total of pulchritude.

The job of hostess, or stewardess as it is sometimes called, takes in a number of things. Co-operating with the pilot to give service and accord passengers the most comfortable trip, she is a sort of conductress in charge of the cabin of the plane .She takes up tickets, records them, reads to passengers, plays checkers and cards with those wh odesire it, serves luncheon and calms the ones who take their thrills thrills too seriously. If a passenger is unchaperoned, she plays mother, reciting such verses as "The Cow Jumped Over the Moon."

NEWS ITEMS FOR THE TRENT TOWN DISTRICT

The Hydro Commission Pulp Mill in town has started operations again, the manager, Elie Brunelle, having received orders on Monday to commence work. This started in the evening and will take care of about sixty hands working a day and night shift.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Chaplin of Lakefield were visitors to town over the week-end.

Mrs. H. Denike, Mrs. Crosby and Mr. Harry Gay were in Peterborough on business on Monday.

Mr. A. D. Bennett was a visitor to Kitchener over the week-end.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

If you want to start the New Year with a new face, and propose to get it by the face lifting process, there are three things to consider.

First, the surgeon you employ. Because facial surgery has become an important science, it has attracted to itself a number of quacks. You should guard against these quacks, for only the most reputable surgeon should be engaged for this delicate process. If you cannot afford to have the work done by an expert surgeon, don't have it done at all. For wrinkles are preferable by far to the disfiguring scars that an unskilled knife might leave.

Second, you must be sure you are in excellent health before you undergo such an operation. I know of one woman who developed all sorts of complications because, previous to the operation she had indulged in an unscientific reducing course. She recovered very slowly from the operation.

The care you give yourself after the operation is the third thing that counts in its success. The face lifting is not particularly painful as a local anesthetic is generall administered. But there are dressings to be worn and for the best results you should stay under your surgeons care for several days after the operation.

Be sure to follow his instructions to the letter for after care. Sometimes the face swells up after this operation and the eyes appear drawn out of their natural shape. But don't let this alarm you, for the condition disappears after a few days.

To all the letters which reach me, then, from women who ask: "Can face lifting really be done successfully?" I can truthfully answer, "Yes," is you follow my suggestions.

Daisy: The superfluous hair bleach you refer to consist of two teaspoons of peroxide and half a teaspoon of ordinary household ammonia.

Caracas

This city was founded in 1567, lying in a valley of the Andes, and although it is within ten degrees of the equator, its elevation gives it a climate of almost perpetual spring. In the plaza is a magnificent statue of Bolivar, the Liberator of South America.

On Auction Block

In order to support her sick father, mother and 10 small brothers and sisters, pretty Mary Jerowski of Lynn, Mass., is offering herself in marriage to any man who can afford to create a trust fund yielding an income of $2,500. She has had many offers, but none has come up to the financial requirements.

Campbellford Scout Will Receive Medal

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — "For gallantry" is the inscription on the Scouts' Silver Cross, the second highest award that can be made to a Scout, which has been awarded to Scout Victor S. Cubitt of the First Campbellford Troop of Boy Scouts, for performing the heroic action of saving two people from drowning at Crow Bay last summer.

The award was made on the recommendation of Scoutmaster M. H. Sargent and given by the Chief Executive Commissioner, John J. Stiles of Ottawa, with the sanction of the Governor-General, who is Chief Scout in Canada. The official award of the honor will be made at a later date.

The feat which won this recognition happened last summer when the Campbellford Troop were in camp at Crow Bay. A Mr. Kelly and a girl companion got into serious difficulties while swimming, the girl going under and dragging the man with her. Scout Cubitt saw the situation and went to the rescue, bringing both the bathers to shore.

REABORO WOMAN GIVEN 7 MONTHS

Son Sent to Reformatory When Pair Convicted of Chicken Stealing.

Jail Meals Cost 10.95 Cents.

LINDSAY, Jan. 17 (Examiner Correspondent).—At a session of the police court yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Ella Stewart, who was arrested at Reaboro by Provincial Constable Nelson, was given seven months' determinate and one year indeterminate in Mercer Reformatory on the charge of receiving. Her young son, Clarence, was given three months' definite and fifteen months' indefinite in Ontario Reformatory on the charge of theft. There has been an epidemic of chicken stealing in Fenelon Township, and the thefts occurred, the police state, after the woman and her soon took up residence in the section. The boy did the stealing, bringing the birds to his mother.

Mrs. Eliza Jane Brown, wife of Rev. Thomas Brown, passed away yesterday at the family residence, after a week's illness. The deceased was born in Darlington Township, near Bowmanville, and after her marriage went with her husband to his first charge at Ivanhoe, Hastings County. She is survived by her husband and six children.

According to information given out at the county buildings, prisoners in the jail have been fed at a cost of 10.95 cents per day. This figure is for the quarter from October to January.

The funeral takes place at Cobourg of the late George Pratt, a well-known C.N.R. engineer, and a former resident of Lindsay. The deceased was at one time on the Peterborough-Port Hope run, and was well known to the travelling public.

STOMACH ULCERS

Four out of five people have acid stomach whether they know it or not, and about one out of seven with acid stomach has reached the stage of ulcers. When you have too much acid in the stomach causing indigestion, belching, gas, giddiness, and a drowsy "dead on your feet" feeling after meals—look out—stomach ulcers may result.

Any druggist will tell you simple Bisurated Magnesia will correct acid stomach and heal stomach ulcers. Gas in the stomach, indigestion, belching, and dizziness — all signs of excessive stomach acid—are quickly corrected by Bisurated Magnesia. If you suffer from acid stomach, acid indigestion, or have symptoms of stomach ulcers, try Bisurated Magnesia to-day. Big package, small cost. Not a laxative.

Today's Recipes

Normandy Dressing—Mash one cream cheese very soft. Add two tablespoons cream and one of lemon juice. Beat until nearly liquid, then season to taste with salt, white pepper and paprika. Whip in enough currant jelly to produce a distinctly bright red color. Then fold in three-quarters cup of stiffly-whipped cream.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Clean the Stove

If you are a conscientious housekeeper, the chances are your stove doesn't need much attention, especially if it is a modern enamel-covered gas range. But if you have permitted dirt and grease to accumulate, you may as well roll up your sleeves and prepare to put in an hour or two of steady work.

Enamel coated gas ranges are comparatively easy to clean. This soapsuds will remove most of the surface dirt, but if spilled food has been left to bake onto the enamel, you may need the added help of a knife or some fine abrasive. As a rule, however, it is best to avoid any harsh substance that might scratch the surface. Before washing the range, wait until it has cooled, for enamel, like glass, may crack if exposed to sudden changes in temperature.

Remove the burners, boil them in a strong solution of soap and soda, then pour off the water and scrub with a stiff brush to rid them of all fragments of charred food. Rinse each part with clear hot water, and replace it in its proper groove. Dry by lighting the flame for a few moments.

An old-fashioned coal stove that has been neglected should be rubbed off with crumpled newspapers, and then scrubbed with hot soapsuds, before the fire is built, of course. Kerosene or some patent stove oil should be daubed on, and the stove then polished with a soft clean cloth or brush. If the oven or any other part has become rusty, try using steel wool, slightly moistened with oil.

Use Sack

In rolling out graham crackers or dry bread crumbs, put in a clean sugar sack with the stitching and threads on the outside so no threads will be in the crumbs.

When making graham cracker pie, rolling the crackers in this manner the crumbs are finer and there is no messy table to clean and no crumbs on the floor.

Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This

If you are growing hard of hearing, suffer from head noises, due to catarrh, or fear catarrhal deafness, you should know of the internal medicine which has already brought blessed relief to thousands of catarrh sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add ¼ pint hot water and a little sugar

One tablespoonful four times a day should bring quick relief from distressing catarrhal head noises, clogged nostrils, difficult breathing, and dropping mucous All threatened with catarrhal deafness need simple, effective Parmint.

Madoc

Mrs. J. E. Morrison spent a few days last week visiting friends in Belleville and West Huntingdon.

Miss Norma Fair is resuming her classes in vocal and instrumental music.

Misses Beulah and Gladys Keene and Miss Margaret and Mr. Dorion Stewart are renting the Ferguson bungalow and will reside in town for the winter months while attending High School.

The C.G.I.T. Girls of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, under the leadership of Miss Loreen Connor, went for their first hike of the new year on Saturday afternoon. Hiking to the lake by way of the Talc Mine, they report pussy-willows out and watercress growing nicely. Reaching the lake, they found several parties skating. Crossing to Papoose Island, they surveyed the island, and report that a pavilion is being built on Stoney Island. Twelve girls participated in this enjoyable outing and are planning for a busy and profitable year.

A very successful progressive euchre and bridge party was held in the Town Hall, Madoc, on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Women's Institute, the proceeds being for relief work. Seventeen tables were played and all enjoyed the sociable evening. Prize winners were Mrs. George Hill and Mr. S. S. Ashley for euchre and Mrs. S. S. Ashley and Mr. Fred. Meraw for bridge Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the members at the close of the play

St. Peter's W.M.S. held their January meeting at the home of Mrs. William Mackintosh, Mrs. J. McCaffrey, president, presiding. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. (Rev.) Nelles, the theme of the meeting being "The Faithfulness of God." Mrs. Jenkins had charge of the program, and after hymns and prayer, Mrs. McCaffrey read a poem entitled, "Nothing to Do With Tomorrow." The president called for reports, and the business of the month was transacted. Members' fees were received. Mrs. George West and Miss M. Mackintosh were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial meeting in Kingston. A short social time was spent at the close and refreshments were served.

CANADA'S SUPREME REMEDY FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

Think of it — 70% of the good people of Canada swear by Buckley's Mixture (triple strength)—and buy it every time they need it.

One little sip and the ordinary cough is gone—"a few doses and that tough old hang-on cough is heard no more—it's wonderful to watch how speedily bad, lingering colds are put out of business.

It's the same with bronchitis — right away that tightness loosens up —the bronchial passages clear—you're on your toes again — happy and breathing easier.

And here's something else—Buckley's starts at once to neutralize the acid condition present, and that helps too.

You may need Buckley's Mixture to-night for yourself or the children — so get a bottle and keep it handy—acts like a flash—a single sip proves it. For your health's sake Demand Buckley's. Cheap imitations are numerous.

Campaign Is Making Favorable Progress

Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Classes are enthusiastic about the campaign being held the month for new members. The total to date is 22 members.

The Senior Dancing Class with Mrs. Willis as captain leads in the campaign with 7 new members brought in by their classes.

The Intermediate Tap Dancing Class holds second place with 4 new members. Miss Phyrn Buller is captain.

The standing of the other classes with captains is as follows:

Elementary Gym, 3 members, Captain, Miss A. Dymond.

Juniors ,3 members, Captains Loreen Wellwood and Jane Turner.

Senior Gym, 2 members, Captains E. Bradley and S. Ecobichon.

Intermediate ,chol Girls, 1 member, Captains Isabel Duffus and Thelma Buller.

Ladies' Class, 1 member, Captain Miss E. Scott.

Junior Tap and Toe Dancing, 1 member, Captains E. Pammett and S. Yeotes.

It's a wise precaution to go around on a tour of inspection to all the door knobs in the house occasionally, taking a small screwdriver to tighten bolts.

WHITE HYACINTHS

. . . to feed the soul

A GREAT department store, one of the largest in the country, published a most unusual advertisement. "Buy something you don't need," it read. And there is a sound and worthy philosophy beneath that seemingly cold and calloused plea . . . a philosophy that has endured for centuries.

"If I had two loaves," wrote the Persian poet, Sadi of Shiraz, "I would sell one, and buy white hyacinths, to feed my soul." And throughout all history, men have sold their loaves to buy white hyacinths.

We would modify the exhortation of the department store. Buy something you could do without, but something you very much want. . . . The antique chair you've been promising yourself. The new carpeting for the dining-room. . . . The electric grandfather's clock, or the sterling silver.

Values were never so great, for the amount expended, as now. You have only to turn to the advertisements in this newspaper to be convinced. Here is written a story too important for you to miss. And very often you will find you may keep both loaves . . . and have your hyacinths as well.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

RICE IS AN ADAPTABLE GRAIN, since it can be used as a breakfast cereal, as a vegetable in place of white potatoes for the main course of dinner, and in puddings and other dishes, even in ice-cream for dessert courses.

* * * * * *

It is as a pudding for dessert that the recipe for to-day is given. The Lemon Rice is an old-time dish which will be relished in these modern times.

* * * * * *

Wash one-third of a cup of rice, but not so thoroughly as if it were to be served as a vegetable, since the floury coating helps to hold the grains together.

* * * * * *

This is desirable when rice is to be molded. Cook in one pint of milk in a double boiler, until the kernels are soft and the mixture is thick and heavy.

* * * * * *

Add one-quarter of a teaspoon salt, and two level tablespoons sugar. One beaten egg may also be added, but the old-fashioned recipe does not call for it.

* * * * * *

Stir gently until wel lmixed and pour into mold to set. Chill before serving.

* * * * * *

Cut one lemon in half and squeeze out the juice and strain. Cut the rind into wee slivers about three-quarters of an inch long. Put the rind in a kettle of cold water, bring to the boiling point, and simmer until the slivers are tender.

* * * * * *

Drain off all the water to avoid any suggestion of a bitter taste. Add one cup of cold water to the lemon bits, together with one and a quarter cups of sugar and simmer until thermometer registers 220 degrees. When cold, it will be a heavy syrup.

* * * * * *

Turn the jellied rice into a serving dish and pour the cold syrup over it, being careful to have the rind slivers as evenly distributed over the top of the mold as is possible.

* * * * * *

However, in these days, a hot sauce on a chilled or frozen dessert is sometimes favored. Should this be preferred, have the sauce in a separate dish from the jellied rice, and put a sauce ladle full of the piping hot syrup over each portion just as it is served.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

STILL AN ACE

A recent Duplicate Contract game showed that the former "Ace" Captain Irving Woolfe, has not lost his daring or ability to shoot straight. He was the only player who both bid and made 5-Diamonds, on the hand shown below.

The Auction went: Z, 1-Club; A, 1-Diamond; Y, 1-Spade; B, 3-Diamonds; Z, 4-Clubs; A, 4-Diamonds; Y, 5-Clubs; B, Pass; Z, Pass; A, 5-Diamonds. A double by Z ended bidding.

The opening lead was the Ace of spades, followed by the J. The captain played low from dummy, and the K fell. The declarer ruffed. How would you play the rest of the hand, to go game against any defense open to Y-Z?

Captain Woolfe led his lowest club. Dummy trumped. The 9 of diamonds was led from dummy. Z wisely declined to cover with his K, or the play would have been over. Next the Q of spades was led. As Z declined to ruff, the declarer discarded his Q of clubs. This was the first chance for the opponents to alter results, had Z ruffed. The captain would have been in hot water later on had he done anything except lead dummy's K of hearts. It made no difference whether Z put up his Ace then or later, hearts would have been led until that suit was cleared. The Ace of hearts went on the first lead of that suit. Here Z had his second and last chance to alter what happened. He might have led either a club or trump. Instead, he led the 9 of hearts. The declarer's J won the trick, and his K of clubs was led.

The declarer trumped with dummy's Q, so that he could lead the 5 of diamonds through Z's K-4, over which the declarer held the A-J-10, thus being enabled to pick up both of Z's trumps, no matter whether Z played high or low. Z played his 4 of diamonds on the 5, the declarer's 10 won the trick. Then the Ace of diamonds picked up Z's K. The captain spread his hand. He had won eight of the ten tricks played, and his side held two top hearts and one long trump. He had fulfilled his double a contract of five-fold.

There are two questions that suggest themselves naturally; first, could Z have defeated the contract had he played differently; second, could the declarer have played differently, so as to prevent any other defensive play from defeating his contract? Think over the possible variations. The answers to both the above questions will be answered tomorrow.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Scarlet fever is apparently becoming very much milder in the United States than it was a few years ago. It is still, however, sufficiently serious to require that cases be quarantined and put under careful medical supervision.

Scarlet fever is not nearly so contagious as measles in that the incubation period is very short and the quarantine period is very long, and that it can be carried by fomites (intermediary persons or objects).

The most frequent cases of scarlet fever contagion is direct contagion from a person who has the disease to another. However, milk epidemics have been reported. In Massachusetts, between 1909 and 1914, 845 cases of scarlet fever were traced to milk and in Chicago the health commissioner found 245 cases on one single milk route. Pasteurization of the milk prevents it from carrying scarlet fever. The milk which causes scarlet fever is always contaminated by human hands or contact. Cows do not have the disease in any form.

The incubation period is often as short as one day. That is to say, the time which elapses between exposures and the eruption is only about 48 hours. Nearly all cases have the eruption within two or three days of the exposure.

In handling a case of scarlet fever in the home, the room should be prepared beforehand for a long siege, as the quarantine period should be from four to six weeks. Few health departments permit quarantine to be broken in less than 28 days after scarlet fever.

After a case of scarlet fever has been cared for in a room, the room should be fumigated, all the objects which the patient has touched, such as books and toys, should be burned, the bedclothes and person linen should be thoroughly disinfected, and the walls either thoroughly washed or, more properly, washed and repaired and repainted.

The treatment of scarlet fever has been fairly satisfactory with a serum, and an attempt has been made to prevent cases of scarlet fever with a substance similar to the substances used for the prevention of diphtheria. This, however, has not proved as successful as was at first hope, and cannot be recommended.

The complications of scarlet fever are particularly treacherous and should be kept in mind by anyone nursing a case. Of these, perhaps the most serious is the effect on the kidneys. This often shows by the passing of dark or bloody urine of small quantity. The diet should be restricted during scarlet fever and this restriction should be conscientiously maintained for the very important reason of its protective effect on the kidneys.

The other complication of scarlet fever is infection of the middle ear. This is usually shown by a rise in temperature, pain and restlessness, and throbbing in the ear. It usually subsides under proper treatment, which consists in opening the drum and letting the pus out at the proper time.

That Body of Yours

By James W Barton, M.D.

TOO MUCH FOOD CAUSES "COLDS"

You have been told that a draught will not cause a cold, and yet experience has taught you that a draught will cause a cold "sometimes."

Why does a draught cause a cold at one time and not at another?

If you are tired and run down; if you are constipated; if you have been eating so much food that you have too much waste products in your blood and tissues, and you get into a draught for some time, then you may reasonably expect to get a cold.

Why?

Because your disease fighters in the blood get chilled and can't do their work properly of fighting off organisms created by the wastes in the blood. Organisms of "colds" or other ailments can thus get a start. The healthy lining of your nose, for instance, can throw off harmful invading organisms even if they are inserted in the nose every ten minutes. Yet this lining can be so damaged by too many wastes in the body that its power to resist cold or other organisms is greatly lessened.

So much has this knowledge of the effects of certain foods, or too much food gained ground that a little poem by Emma Tolman East, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, is worth quoting.

"A cold is not a cold to me, it's Nature's way to tell
That I've been dining recently, not wisely but too well.
A snuffly nose has come to mean that I've enjoyed, erstwhile,
Some breaded pork chops, nestled deep in sweet spuds "Southern Style."

Or else, perchance, a wondrous steak with onions crisp and brown
Has made my liver make of me a menace to the town.
Or it might be a chunk of cheese or mince pie, hot and sweet;
But a cold is not a cold to me—it's just too much to eat.

You can readily see then that the latest way to a cure a cold—a dose of Epsom salts, and no food for 24 to 36 hours—gets rid of the wastes already in the system, and prevents the formation of more wastes, until your fighting processes are again in good condition.

MISSING FLIER FOUND IN NORTH

Royal Air Force Pilot Forced Down Upon Sturgeon Lake.

SUFFERS FROST BITES.

OTTAWA, January 17. — Lost in the wilds of North-Western Ontario in a grounded airplane since Friday, Sergeant Purgis of the Royal Canadian Air Force was found by a search party yesterday at Sturgeon Lake, according to word received at headquarters.

Sergeant Purgis was transporting a Puss Moth airplane from Camp Borden to Winnipeg, and took off from Orient Bay about noon on Friday. After about an hour's flying he made a forced landing at Sturgeon Lake, and a search for him began on Sunday with one Royal Canadian Air Force machine and two Ontario Forestry Service machines aking part.

Although suffering from frostbite and exposure, wrod reaching Ottawa did not indicate the airman was in a serious condition. He was taken to hospital at Sioux Lookout, and is now receiving treatment there.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

COUNCIL MEETING

A meeting of the Home and School Council took place Monday evening in the Y.W.C.A.

The February meetings of the Home and School Associations and the Council are to honor Mrs. Courtice who founded these organizations. Special speakers are to be had for these meetings, if possible, in each school.

The various schools were represented at the meeting as follows: Confederation 4, King Edward 2, Prince of Wales 4, Central 7, Queen Alexandra 6, King George 8, Queen Mary 1.

Arrangements are under way to hear an illustrated lecture given by the Canadian Institute of the Blind.

Mrs. Charles Ray addressed the meeting concerning cooking or nutritious classes. At these times, when money is scarce, people have to use the cheaper meats and other foods. Some do not know how to prepare them to best advantage. Cooking classes are to be established at various centres in connection with the schools. The Red Cross Society will pay the expenses of the food cooked and provide recipes. The teachers will be graduate dietitians. The course will consist of seven lessons, and a good cook book will be given those who faithfully attend. Those desiring to attend such classes should get in touch with their Home and School Association as it is desirable to start the classes next week if possible.

The audience was favored by two readings by Miss Gwen Parnell and two solos by Mrs. M. Braund who was accompanied by Mrs. Greenslade. These were very much enjoyed.

Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott, late of India, gave a comprehensive talk on educational matters in India. European children, which include Americans and Canadians, usually receive the rudiments of their education at home. They then go to schools in the hills of India. These schools are excellent, well equipped and well staffed. The curriculum is much the same as ours. Besides the primary schools there are secondary ones, and then many attend universities. These compare favorably with any similar schools here.

While large masses of the people have little education, yet it is more widespread than most Canadians know. Many of the natives, especially of the better class, are highly cultured.

The meeting found Mrs. Scott's address very interesting and informative, and evidenced its pleasure by a very hearty vote of thanks in the clapping of hands.

RETURN BY 'PLANE TO NEW YORK CITY

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brandon Left Late Monday Afternoon.

With a mighty roar of its big engines, a Fairchild cabin plane piloted by A. C. Bussey of the United Air Services taxied away down field on the Laing property on Port Hope Highway late yesterday afternoon, and soared away in a general southeasterly direction into the gathering dusk and a storm-laden sky, on its return flight to New York City.

It was the plane that had been chartered in New York City early Saturday morning by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brandon in a determined but unsuccessful attempt to reach the bedside of Mrs. Samuel J. Hunter of Millbrook before she died. Mrs. Brandon is a daughter of the late Mrs. Hunter.

The funeral of Mrs. Hunter was held from the family residence in Cavan Township on Sunday afternoon, with interment at the Presbyterian Cemetery, Millbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Brandon returned to New York City late yesterday afternoon. The pilot took off without a hitch, undertaking the 500-mile flight in the darkness. His route lay over Lake Ontario. Shortly after the plane left Peterborough rain commenced and continued for a greater part of the evening.

Wife Of Georgia's New Governor Finds Life Irksome In City, So Goes Back To Farm

ATLANTA, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Many women would give half the cows and chickens in Georgia to live in the Governor's mansion, but after six days there Mrs. Eugene Talmadge packed her bags and went back to her Telfair country farm to "see the stock."

She'll be back, the Governor said after she left to-day, but until she gets used to hours the "city folks keep," the States' first lady is going to commute between McRae and Atlanta.

"You know I've been in Atlanta several years," the Governor said. (He was Commissioner of Agriculture for five and a half years before taking the Governor's office on January 9, "and I am sort of city broke, but it's different with Mrs. Talmadge. Sunday morning she was up long before daylight and this morning it was the same. At breakfast she announced she was going back to see the cows and chickens."

After his wife left the Governor ordered work hurried on a proposed barn on the ground of the mansion.

"Mrs. Talmadge will feel more at home when she can go out and see the stock," he said.

Petes-Bowmanville Battle to 3-3 Deadlock

GOALIES STAR OVERTIME TILT BOWMANVILLE

Every Player on Blue and White Squad Gives All-round Fine Performance.

ICE HANDICAPS PLAY.

Cameron and Hooper Give Stellar Display on Bowmanville Defence—Stiff Body-checking.

Ninety minutes of grueling hockey in Bowmanville last night failed to break a 3-all deadlock, but the Petes' intermediates kept their O.H.A. sheet free of losses once more. It was a heart-breaking contest staged on ice that was full of holes and practically covered with water. Despite the conditions, a fair-sized crowd was treated to a hard, exciting exhibition of puck-chasing.

Twice Bowmanville came from behind to tie up the count in a game that was Peterborough's most of the time as far as superior playing went. It was 1-1 at the end of the first and 2-1 for the locals starting the third. Bowmanville tied it up early in the frame, the Petes got one halfway through, and with two minutes to go the home crew sewed it up. Three overtime sessions failed to break it.

The opposing goalies, Miller and Martyn, starred throughout, with Martyn having more to handle. There was no outstanding player on the Blue and White roster, everyone working his head off from start to finish in the heavy going. Weir, Howe and Lebarr were very effective both on the attack and defensively. Ellis, Dallin and Dundas starred in every period; while the second line of Jarvis, Hatton and Creighton were brilliant at backchecking, and they threatened to win the game several times with great work in the overtime. It was an all-round fine performance by the locals.

Cameron and Hooper were hard to beat on the Bowmanville defence, while all their forwards went good, the first line probably being more effective offensively. The game was fairly clean despite the terrible condition of the ice, though play was marked in the late stages with stiff bodychecking. The Petes used a hard-shooting attack from outside the defence repeatedly that was very dangerous, Red Creighton's bullet drive giving the goalie a busy night.

Ellis almost scored on his own rebound to start the game, and it soon developed that puck-carrying and combination would be tough, even the referee rolling up his pants' legs out of the water. Bowmanville threatened for a space, and then Jarvis almost netted one, with Petes going great. Cameron drew a penalty for charging and a few minutes later Dundas' shot from the blue line slipped over the goal-line through the net-guardian's pads. It was a disputed goal but allowed. G. Piper evened it up shortly when he skirted right defence to go in close and shoot. Weir went off for charging, and Creighton and Jarvis backchecked the opponents dizzy to hold them.

Ice Handicaps Play.

The second frame was all Peterborough's again, the locals outrushing, outshooting and outchecking the homesters most of the way. Lebarr made it two for the visitors on a long hard shot from the blue line that fooled Martyn. Miller came out later to make a sparkling save, and play was slower toward the end. Lebarr got the gate for tripping just before the bell.

Chartren Ties Count.

Weir was checked out early in the third for holding and the Petes played defensive hockey for a while. Then Chartren tied the count when he grabbed a loose puck to go right in and net it. Ellis shoved one over to Dundas right at the goal mouth but Ira missed it. Play was fast and rougher, with the players all dripping water but fighting hard. Rundle was chased for hooking, with Hooper going later for tripping. Dundas put the Petes in front when he took Howe's neat pass and bulged the hemp. Bowmanville shoved four men up and made it hot for Miller but he was stopping them all. The Petes were playing strictly defensive hockey, and shooting the rubber up the ice. Then with just two minutes to go before the game ended, Rundle balanced the score when he caught the locals' defence flat to burst through and whistle it in the goal.

Play Holds Fast.

Lebarr was benched in the first overtime frame for boarding, and play was fast and even all through, both goalies having several hard shots to handle. Dundas and Ellis almost put the Petes in again on a good rush but the shot was blocked. The teams played on doggedly in the second overtime stanza, Ellis' pokechecking showing up well at centre, and both sides threatening, but also going carefully. The visitors' second front line was clicking perfectly and having nearly all the play at the end. The same thing was true of the last overtime go, the Petes having an edge on the play, but their opponents also showing up well, and neither side being able to get that big marker.

The teams:

Petes—Goal, Miller; defence, Weir and Lebarr; centre, Ellis; wings, Dundas and Dallin; alternates, Howe, Creighton, Jarvis and Hatton.

Bowmanville—Goal, Martyn; defence, Cameron and Densem; centre, Jackman; wings, Chartren and Prindle; alternates, I. Piper, G. Piper, Hooper and Jamieson.

An excellent action picture which graphically illustrates the hazards of steeplechasing. "Mythologist," ridden by P. ALBIONS TAKE 2ND VICTORY

Havelock Humbles Madoc Team By 2-1 Count in Overtime Battle.

WATSON SCORES WINNER.

Havelock Albions came through to take their second win on Friday, Jan. 13 last, when they defeated the visiting Madoc team by 2-1 in a game that went 10 minutes' overtime.

It was a fast exciting game all the way, and Referee Whytock of Madoc had his work cut out controlling the players. The first period went scoreless, but showed plenty of good hockey and some thrills and spills. The second period was equally fast and produced two scores Madoc scoring the first goal when Henderson went in close to beat Kennedy and Becky Jack evening it up for the locals soon after when he picked up a loose puck inside the Madoc defence and slammed it home. Henderson of Madoc received a nasty crack in this period when he ran into the boards behind the Havelock net.

The third period was scoreless, although there were many hard shots at both nets, and the situation produced, when Kennedy, Havelock's goal minder, slashed a Madoc player and was penalized along with the Madoc man, was precarious for the locals; but they hel dthe fort until the star goalie returned. The overtime was productive of the winning goal for the locals when Ted Watson took Becky Jack's pass to slam it home and win the game.

For Madoc, Henderson, Watson, and Blue and Rupert were effective, whilst B. Jack, Ted Watson, Frank McLaughlin, P. Voyer and Kennedy in goal were the stars from a Havelock standpoint, with the "kid" front line of Hagerman, Chiles, and Jerome Voyer also right in there.

The line-ups:

Madoc — Wallbridge, goal; Blue and Rupert, defence; Meraw, centre; Henderson and Watson, wings; alternates, Akey, Nickle, and Armstrong.

Havelock — Kennedy, goal; McLaughlin and McColl, defence; Jacks, centre; Watson and C. Brennan, wings; alternates, Rose, Proyer, J. Voyer and N. Chiles.

HAMILTON LEADS SENIOR "B" RACE

Patricias Defeat Galt Terriers 2-1 in Overtime Battle Last Night.

Hamilton Patricias are leading their Senior "B" group in the Ontario Hockey Association series by three points to-day, but they had to go into overtime last night before downing Galt Terriers, 2-1, to earn this margin.

Even at that, Galt are one up on the Pats on the season's play. The teams have met three times to date, and last night was Hamilton's first win. The other games also necessitated overtime before a decision was reached.

Fitzgerald scored the winning goal on a backhand shot that eluded Orton in the Galt nets. The strenuous play resulted in 26 penalties being imposed, 14 going to the winners.

3-2 Overtime Win

Stratford Indians and Brantford Tricolors, the two other teams in this group, also struggled past regulation time before a winner was declared. Tricolors were the winners eventually when Kreiger's easy shot bounced off Scott's arm into the Stratford net, to make the score 3-2.

In the eastern setcion of the province, Kingston Frontenacs kept their record clear of defeats when they took a 3-0 decision from Ganaoque. The losers had a royal chance in the last few minutes, when two of the Frotenac players were penalized at the same time; but Goalie Gowsell in the Kingston nets arose to the occasion and protected his team's margin.

HORNER LEADS PENALTIES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—A tie for the point-making leadership of the National Hockey League and the odd spectacle of the crack Cook-Boucher-Cook forward line of the New York Rangers running one-two-three in their section are the features shown in the weekly scoring statistics of the league, issued tonight by President Frank Calder. Games of Sunday night are included.

Laurence Northcott, fleet left wing of Montreal Maroons, and "Bill" Cook, veteran right winger of the Rangers, are the two participants in the first place tie. Each has 23 points. Northcott with 16 goals and 7 assists, and "Bill" Cook with 13 goals and 10 assists.

The Cook-Boucher-Cook line has compiled 65 points to date, 31 goals and the balance in assists, Boucher having 17 of the latter and leading the entire league in that respect. Fred "Bun" Cook has scored 15 goals. The greatest number registered by any player in his section.

Paul Haynes, young centre of Maroons is second in his section with 20 points, closely followed by Howie Morenz, the sprightly Canadians' veteran.

"Red" Horner of Toronto Leafs, acquiring his third major penalty recently, leads in penalties with 77 minutes. Eddie Shore, by earning a 10-minute misconduct penalty, increased his total to 65 minutes, giving him the lead in the United States Section.

Bobcaygeon Juniors Fall To Fenelon 1-0

BOBCAYGEON, Jan. 17.—In an O.H.A. junior fixture here yesterday evening, the locals went down to defeat before the visiting Fenelon Falls sextet, by 1 to 0, after 80 minutes of hockey.

The teams battled evenly through three regular sessions and one overtime period until finally Roberston tallied for what proved the winning counter.

Bobcaygeon.—Goal, Kimble; defense, Kennedy and Kellett; centre, Johnson; wings, Nichols and Kelso; alternates, Connelly, Gallegher, Newman and Gordon.

Fenelon Falls.—Goal, Smith; defense, Littlejohn and Robertson; centre, Pentland; wings, Henderson and Daynes; alternates, Connelly, Graham, Warren and Jewell.

ALEX KEMPT'S COMBINES WIN FROM LAKEFIELD OUTFIT 5-2

Front Line of Cripps, Stevenson and Calladine Plays Big Part in Home Victory—Soft Ice Makes Combination Plays Almost Impossible.

BOWEN AND JEWELL ARE MARKSMEN FOR LOSERS.

NORWOOD, Jan. 17 (Examiner Correspondence). — Alex Kempt's Combines proved too much for Lakefield in the scheduled East Peterborough League game played in Norwood Arena Monday night, winning by 5-2 count. Lakefield were minus the Wannamaker brothers which no doubt weakened their team considerably, as the team were not organized in the first period. The ice was tough, making snappy combination plays almost impossible. The Combines first-string forward line of Cripps, Stevenson and Calladine, opened the scoring after eight minutes had been played in the first period. Calladine and Stevenson made a nice two-man rush; Calladine letting a hot one go from the right boards that Hamlin had no chance on. Two minutes later the same two netted another counter. Stevenson drew the defense over and then slipped a perfect pass to Calladine, who went right in for the second goal.

The third goal fell to the lanky McConnell, who took Baker's pass from the corner to make it 3 to 0 for the Combines at the first rest period. Lakefield missed a nice chance, Northey and Jewell working through for a goal, but the bell rang just before the puck entered the net.

Slow Up in Second

Both teams slowed up considerably in the second period; the Combines were coasting along on their three-goal lead; Beavis was called upon to make some smart saves, but his eyes were right on the puck Monday night.

Bowen got the only goal of the period for Lakefield on a solo effort.

Going into the final period Lakefield forced the play and for the first half had the play in the Combines' end most of the time; Jewell finally getting their second counter. Trying hard for the equalizer, "Chubby" Blewett sent four men up. Bill Cripps and Stevenson broke up a Lakefield rush in centre ice; Morgan chased Cripps behind the Lakefield net, where he passed out to Stevenson, who made the game safe. Baker got the fifth Combine goal on an assist from Rogers.

No Ill Feeling

Sticks were carried high, but no ill-feeling crept into the game. Fred Cripps received a crack on the chin in the first period, and Skinner of Lakefield was obliged to go off for repairs in the third.

Combines.—Goal, Beavis; defense, Webb and B. Cripps; centre, Stevenson; wings, Calladine and F. Cripps. Subs., Baker, McConnell, Rogers and Scriver.

Lakefield.—Goal, Hamlin; defense, Morgan and Skinner; centre, Northey; wings, Jewell and Kennedy; subs., Wingate, Walker and Bowen.

CARTERS DROP 8-1 DECISION TO RED SHIRTS

Visitors Are Outplayed and Outweighed by Home Team —Ice Conditions Poor.

PLAY CLEAN GAME.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Payne's Carters of Peterborough fell before the Campbellford Maroons last evening with an adverse score of 8-1 in an exhibition game of hockey played in the Campbellford Arena. Standing good in the East Peterborough League this aggregation failed to show to any advantage against the locals who outclassed them through three periods of stick-wielding. Ice conditions were bad, and neither teams showed to advantage, and the game was slowed considerably although flashes of speed and fast play were seen through the game.

The visitors, as well as being a lighter team compared with the Maroons, were not in the same class with the result that the majority of the entertainers' play was simple, much of it being defensive.

Score in Last.

Only in the last period and the last few minutes of that, were the Peterborough aggregation able to work in a counter, the majority of their time being taken up with trying to break up the Maroons' attacks and break through an almost perfect defence. Always shining in this particular sphere of the game, the intermediates played up to form and put up an almost impossible stop sign for the visitors.

Charlie Holmes of Campbellford handled the bell and made a good job of it. For clean and fine hockey the game could not be beaten, no penalties being registered, and good sportsmanship being shown by both aggregations. McGee, Maudsley, B. Jones, and Stant were the visitors' fast men, with Foley playing a fine game in the nets. The Petes had some tough luck in the second frame, and should have ocunted at least three more goals, but the luck of the game was against them.

S'ar for Maroons.

Whitton, Ingram, McKay, McArthur, and Copperwaite did splendid work for the Maroons, and Hopping in the nets stopped some splendid shots, although he had the advantage of a first-class defence. Ken Davis at pivot centred the play for the Maroons and shone as an attacker.

The teams:

Campbellford — Goal, Hopping; defence, H. Ingram, MacArthur; centre, Davis; wings, F. Ingram, McKay; subs., Whitton, Hendy, Copperwaite, and Bush.

Payne's — Goal, Foley; defence, Swanger, Lackey; centre, Maudsley; wings, Williams, Carroll; subs., Stant, B. Jones, E. Jones, McGee.

The summary:

First period—

Campbellford — F. Ingram (Davis) 1m., McKay (Davis) 5m., Davis 12m.

Second period—

Campbellford — Whitton 7m., McKay (F. Ingram) 12m.

Third period—

Campbellford — Whitton 14m F. Ingram (Davis) 15m., Bush (McKay) 3m.

Carters—Williams (Stant) 18m.

THREE-YEAR-OLDS' CLASSIC AT JEFFERSON IN FEBRUARY

Field is Wide Open for First Major Racing Event of 1933 Season—Colonel Bradley Has Strong Entry.

By CHARLES "HORSES" AYERS

While the date of the second annual Jefferson Derby is more than three weeks distant, speculation is running the ranks of the turf fraternity as to the ultimate winner of this initial three-year-old classic of 1933.

The fact that the past season did not produce an outstanding two-year-old has kindled in the heart of more than one owner a desire to furnish the next three-year-old champion.

Developed in Winter

Many veteran horsemen point out that Black Gold was developed in winter racing. Quite a few feel that if this stout-hearted colt could win it is not beyond the possibilities of the accomplishment of their favorite thoroughbred. Because of this feeling it is likely that a usual number of three-year-olds will parade to the post in the Jefferson Derby.

Lucky Tom lived up to his name in the initial running of the Jefferson Park classic. He beat some well - thought - of three-year-old rivals in fast enough time to send him into favoritism for the Florida Derby. But the cuppy condition of the Hialeah track militated against the chances of the J. J. Robinson star. However, he retrieved what honors he lost in the land of sunshine by returning to New Orleans to win the Louisiana Derby.

Promising Candidates

Owner Robinson has several promising candidates for the Jefferson. Manya, Eva B., Little Lad and Trinity Bell have all been training in a satisfactory manner. Trainer "Doc" Riddle feels sure that he will have a suitable candidate to take up where Lucky Tom left off last season. Manya is likely to get the assignment. She is fast and can hold on in a tight finish.

Col. E. R. Bradley has a string of promising thoroughbreds. Several have shown a fondness for a distance. Noticeable among the present two-year-olds are Barry, Beefsteak, Bobsled and Back Step. All are showing good form in their preliminary trails. However, Trainer Hurley is not optimistic of developing a Bubbling Over or Black Servant. But he feels sure that if he is able to get one of his stars to the post that the latter will give a satisfactory account of himself.

There is just a chance Col. Bradley may send down one of his Kentucky Derby candidates from his Idle Hour Stock Farm. The popular sportsman has several high-class juveniles at his nursery. They are in charge of Dick Thompson, chief trainer. The latter is trying to develop another Burgoo King. The Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes winner was more or less of an unknown quantity when he went into winter retirement a year ago. But the good handling he received during the cold months put him in shape to score one of the most popular "doubles" of recent years.

Thompson is hopeful that he may get another Burgoo King out of the large crop of juveniles he has that will race in the green and white of Col. Bradley.

Edmonton Superiors To Sail This Week

LONDON, Jan. 17. (CP) — On the last leg of a hockey tour of Europe and the United Kingdom that started in late November, Edmonton's Superiors plan to polish off what opposition remains in England this week and sail for home. They are expeced to depart over the week-end, leaving behind as impressive a record as any Canadian tourist team in the last few years.

Allan Cup semi-finalists two years ago, the Albertans came here with as tricky a band of hockeyists as Europe had seen since Toronto Varsity Grads, the Dominion's Olympic team, flashed its speed at St. Moritz in 1928.

Including a 3-2 win last night over an all-star English team at Oxford, the prairie puck-chasers have marked up 23 victories in 26 starts. They captured the St. Moritz International Trophy earlier this month and won the Paris Cup, a newly set-up piece of silverware, as well.

ENGLISH INVADERS PILE UP TOTAL OF 296 RUNS FOR SIX WICKETS IN TODAY'S PLAY

M. C. C. Batsmen Make Brilliant Stand Against Antipodean Bowling.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 17 (C.P. Cable).—Runs came freely for England to-day in the second innings of the third test match with Australia and at close of play the invading team had 296 for six wickets. A powerful batting display by W. R. Hammond, Gloucestershire pro., featured the innings. He notched 85 runs.

England scored 341 runs in the first innings against the Aussies' total of 222.

England's stand before the Aussie bowling was the best revealed in this test match series so far. Weak starts have featured all the innings in the first two games, but going to bat to-day the M.C.C. batsmen seemed to have taken on a feeling of confidence and were knocking the Antipodean efforts all around the wicket.

The play opened to-day before 12,000 people with D. R. Jardine, the English captain and R. E. S. Wyatt resuming their wickets.

Wyatt was out shortly after play began, when he knocked one of W. J. O'Reilly's up to T. Wall at short leg.

Allen was bowled l.b.w. by C. V. Grimmett after scoring 15 runs. The score stood at 123 runs for three wickets.

Brilliant Combinations

Walter Hammond then joined the English captain and the two began the stand that was to send the score up. Batting with the utmost care Hammond appeared unbeatable. The partnership broke, however, when Jardine was bowled by Ironmonger with his own total at 56. He had just previously knocked both O'Reilly and Wall for boundaries.

Wall continued bowling at one end for Australia. When play was adjourned for tea the score was 203, Hammond having scored 37 and Leyland 22.

Following the tea hour Ironmonger replaced O'Reilly and the two English batsmen opened out. After two hours and 29 minutes of play Hammond reached his 50, including four fours. With the total at 245 Leyland mis-timed one from Ironmonger and skied it up to Wall at mid-on. He had scored 42 in an aggressive innning.

It took the celebrated Don Bradman, world premier cricket batsman, to bowl out Hammond. On the first ball of what was to be the last over Hammond played Bradman's delivery on his wicket and was out with 85. The score stood at 296 for six wickets. Hammond had played a powerful inning with great placing and strong leg drives which are characteristic of his style.

L. E. G. Ames was left at bat with 18 runs.

Plucky Play Carries Top Weight At 126

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 17.—(A.P.)— Norman W. Church's Lucky Play, one of North America's outstanding stake horses, has been allotted top weight of 126 pounds for the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap to be run here March 26 at a mile and a quarter.

Gallant Sir, stable mate of Plucky Play, was next in the list of weights made by handicappers Martin Nathanson and William H. Shelley with 124 pounds.

This pair each a favorite in his own right, are in training at Church's farm at San Jose. They are reported in good condition.

J. H. Louchheim's Economic, which ran second to Burgoo King in the Kentucky Derby, was placed third with 122 pounds. He is not at the track.

Barney Ross To Be Given Title Chance

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(A.P.)—Unless something goes wrong between now and then, Barney Ross, young Chicago contender for the lightweight championship, will get a chance at Tony Canzoneri's crown next March.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago stadium, to-day said Canzoneri had agreed to give Ross an opportunity. However, a match between Ross and Billy Townsend of Vancouver, is virtually set for Jan. 27, and Ross must win to qualify for a title fight.

Rangers-Red Wings Settle Own Dispute

TORONTO, Jan. 17 (C.P.)—By the simple expedient of getting together in one ice house, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings are going to settle—for a day or so anyway—the first-place problem of the National Hockey League's American division.

They have ben squabbling over occupancy for more than a week without getting within shouting distance of each other.

The battle at Detroit between the division leaders and Jack Adams' spectacular Wings, trailing by a single point, overshadows three other games in the circuit to-night. A Detroit win would put the Wings in front for the first time this season.

TURF MOGULS MOVE TO GUARD RACING PUBLIC

Miami Regulation Requires Absolute Identity of Thoroughbred Entries.

AGAINST SCANDAL

By CHARLES "HORSES" AYERS

Race patrons need not worry about any "ringers" being cut loose on them during the coming meeting of the Miami jockey club.

Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan has incorporated a new rule in his meeting book designed to safeguard the interests of the public. Under the present code it will be absolutely impossible for any Pat Barrie Chrysties to fool the Hialeah park officials as the crooks did last season.

A thoroughbred to become a starter must be identified beyond all chance of a substitution being made. Unless a horse is in the hands of a licensed trainer and has been identified to the satisfaction of the Miami stewards his entry will be refused.

The rule has a great many more ramifications than the present jockey club code. It places a direct responsibility upon the person or persons who help to establish the identification of any thoroughbred. "If any" attempt at fraud is discovered, not only the owner and trainer of the horse in question will be rule off the turf, but those who help fool the officials by identifying the animal before his entry was taken will find themselves under the ban."

The scandal which rocked the turf world last season at Miami never could have been put across had any of the Florida officials been on the job. It was carelessness on the part of a couple of those in charge which allowed the notorious crook, Pat Barrie Chystie, to perpetrate his fraud.

To-Night's Line-Ups

The line-ups for to-night's game in New York are as follows:

Maple Leafs		Americans
Chabot	goal	Worters
Clancy	right defence	Dutton
Thoms	centre	Himes
Bailey	right	Wasnie
Cotton	left	Sheppard

Maple Leaf subs.—Happy Day, Alex Levinsky, Andy Blair, Ken Doraty, Bob Gracie, Joe Primeau, Charlie Conacher, Harvey Jackson and Stew Adams.

American subs—Vernon Ayres, Duke Dutkowski, Ronnie Martin, Rabbit McVeigh, Red Jackson, George Paterson, Tommy Filmore, Bill Phillips and W. Starr.

Billiards Champion Loses First Match

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (AP)—With the world three cushion billiards championship tournament only in its second day, the defending titleholder, Ague Kiecknefer of Chicago already was making comeback plans to-day.

The Chicago southpaw started off at a great clip in the opening match last night, but broke down and lost a 50 to 46 decision to Clarence Jackson, Toronto-born veteran who now calls Detroit home, in 58 innings.

Keickhefer, who had a high run of four, Ted Jackson by 25 to nine, at the 25th inning, but from there on in, the Canadian staged a brilliant uphill battle to gain the lead and win. He had high runs of seven and six.

Welker Cochran of Hollywood, Calif., one of the world's best at Balkline, will make his first try for the angle game title, against Allen Hall of Chicago, to-night.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

A City Basketball League meeting will likely be held in the "Y" within a week. We understand the P.C.I. expect to put in a team as they're not playing this season with the school cage loop now going strong along the lakeshore. One point that will doubtless come in for considerable discussion is whether or not the city circuit should be affiliated with the Ontario Basketball Association, the local winner going on in the playdowns later.

* * * * * * *

"L. H. B." writes in telling us he agrees with what we say about hockey locally being unduly rough this season, and that refrees should hang plenty of penalties on dirty players. "If I was sore on a fellow and he was a hockey player, I'd learn to play the game myself and get on an opposing team, and boy would I get him right! That is, if I was that kind of a guy. You get yourself pinched if you slap a man's face in public, but you can conk him over the bean with a stick, knock him down, jump on him and half-kill him in a hockey game and you only get put off from two to five minutes."

* * * * * * *

That's very true, but it applies to other sports as well as hockey. We've seen plenty of it even in baseball where there is little chance of physical contact. But certain base-runners, and also basemen, can cut you across the leg so slick with their spikes it takes several such accidents before you get wise. And there's the pitcher who "dusts 'em off," but your smart batter can even that up by swinging hard but wide at the next pitch and "accidentally" let the bat slip out of his hands down toward the pitcher about two feet off the ground and travelling fast. It generally cures them. Practically every other game where players sometimes forget the sport of the thing has a little bit of this crude stuff pulled sometimes, too.

* * * * * * *

There'll be a meeting of those interested in getting a gals' hockey loop going tomorrow (Wednesday) night at eight down at All Saints' rink. If three or four enter, as they expect to do, officers will be elected and a schedule arranged. There may be six weeks or so of hockey around here yet for the fair players.

* * * * * * *

The soft weather last night played havoc with a bunch of hockey games slated for around town. We can't seem to get more than one or two nights in a row when the waters on the ponds tighten up and permit playing upon. Down at Bewdley they have a boarded-off rink right out on the lake, and we might try that on the canal next year—both the canal and lake having ice all through the winter. It's unlikely any hockey will be played locally or in the group districts again this p.m.

* * * * * * *

While they certainly didn't have much ice in Bowmanville last night, yet a hard, thrilling intermediate game was run off, the Petes holding the tough homesters to a 3-3 tie in ninety minutes playing. In fact, the Petes should have won as they led twice and had more of the play. Still, they did great to waltz into the Bowmanville backyard, and a doggone sloppy one it was too, and come out without a loss. If they can beat the same team here next Monday, they'll be sitting on top of the world, just rolling along.

* * * * * * *

The weather was so mild that the team really didn't expect there'd be a game at all, but they went down and what a sight that rink was! Rough, holey, wet and with regular small lakes in front of each goal and around centre ice. Referee "Army" Armstrong rolled up the legs of his trousers early but still he was soaked and maybe the players weren't. At that, they drew a pretty fair crowd and the game was a pip. Looked like a win for the Petes, 3-2, but with two minutes left of the last gruelling frame, the homesters deadlocked it and the boys had to splash through three tough overtime sessions and still end up even.

* * * * * * *

Bowmanville has pretty much the same squad of canny veterans again, and this bunch is bad news to any intermediate team. They are never licked till the last gong falls as sweet music on the ears of gasping opponents. That's why the locals deserve a great big hand for their performance and what is more important a great big rest after their work. The boys shone as a team rather than individually, every single player fighting fiercely every minute he was on. Those Petes looked really better than the homesters last night, playing tricky and enduring hockey. A good goalie probably won the tie for the Redshirts. Miller, too, was in top form and had to be. We liked the work of the second forward line a lot, while our defencemen turned in some great rushing.

* * * * * * *

Armstrong the Oshawa referee came into the boys' dressing room and told them that the Oshawa Hockey Club would help in any way possible with a benefit evening for George Merrett, local player who had the bad eye-accident a short time ago. The Motor City bunch had a similar experience last winter when "Jo-Jo" Graboski lost an eye, and they received fine co-operation in a benefit performance. This is a sporting spirit that we like, but are not at all surprised at. Teams and towns that are bitter enemies in athletics are the first to offer aid in times of misfortune.

* * * * * * *

One thing and another: Payne's Carters hit a tough road in Campbellford last night, and they received a real jolting . . . . The E. P. L. double-header will be staged tomorrow at the Brock, weather permitting . . . . Both intermediate teams in Bowmanville last night were all wet and dog-tired at the end of their ninety-minute 3-3 marathon swim; still a draw for the Petes down there is quite a bit better than a sock on the chin . . . . We trust the Lindsay intermediates don't disband entirely or fail to keep doing their daily half-dozen or so until the Haboco Cup series is again settled.

Bambino Holds Out to Usual Custom; Returns First Contract to Yankees

(By Herbert W. Barker, A. P. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The annual battle over the figures on Babe Ruth's salary cheque has started in customary fashion. More in fear than hope, the Yankees mailed Ruth a contract for 1933 yesterday. Hardly giving the ink time to dry, the big homerun slugger announced he would return it, unsigned, today. The Yankees, he intimated, might do what they liked with it. He himself had no use for it.

While unwilling to discuss what terms the world champions had offered him for his exertions next season, Ruth left no doubt in the minds of interviewers that it wasn't enough.

Business Manager Edward G. Barrow declined to confirm reports that the club had proffered Ruth a contract for $60,000 but, at the same time, appeared not even mildly surprised when informed the big outfielder was returning the papers without signature.

"After all," Barrow remarked, "the Babe has been doing that with almost every contract we ever sent him."

GAMES ON THURSDAY

No City Hockey League games were played last night, and the ice is still too soft to-night, but a double-header will be held at the Brock Thursday evening, if it is colder. P.C.I. will play Rangers at eight; and the second game will be acording to the original schedule, Rotary versus Normal School.

ROSENBLOOM TO DEFEND TITLE

N.B.A. Taking Steps to Settle Muddled Light Heavyweight Situation.

MEET JOE KNIGHT.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 17. (AP) A match between Maxie Rosenboom of New York, and Joe Knight of Cairo, Ra., is proposed by James M. Brown, president of the National Boxing Association, to settle the rather muddled titular situation existing in the light heavyweight division.

Brown has sent letters to boxing commissioners in member states asking approval of such a match for the title declared vacant a month ago when George Nichols failed to defend the championship he won in the Milwaukee tournament last year, within the prescribed eight months period.

Rosenbloom is recognized in New York as the light heavyweight champion, but never has won recognition by the N.B.A. Brown said he considered Knight, on his record, a "worthy contender" for the title.

Nichols is reported to have developed trouble with his hands since he fought his way through to victory in the Milwaukee tournament.

RAILBIRDS IMPRESSED WITH "SEAMAN" WATSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(C.P.) — Somewhat bewildered by the strange reception accorded him by the New York State Boxing Commission, Thomas "Seaman" Watson, featherweight champion of the British Isles, waited hopefully today for the jury's verdict.

The jury, one of three parts, was impounded in a local gymnasium yesterday and ordered to tab Watson's movements against three New York preliminary boxers and report on whether or not he was a fit opponent to meet "Kid" Chocolate at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 27 for the world's title.

While the jury's decision will not be known until later to-day the opinion of some 300 railbirds and newspaper men was that the former member of His Majesty's navy is a lot better than many American youngsters who have been tossed in to furnish opposition for the "Kid."

"DISHONOR" SYSTEM.

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 17.—(C.P.) —A new wrinkle in the process of education is to be tried at Northwestern University. Some of the students are referring to it as the "dishonor" system.

If one student sees another cheating he will note the fact on the bottom of his examination paper.

The system will be tried in the political science classes of Prof. Lawrence D. Egbert.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

This is little centipede
It strolls about the nights,
Fifty of its legs are lefts
And all the rest are rights.
—Shadow Sayings.

Knarf, no bigger than the head of a pin, was hiding behind a blade of grass. The blade of grass seemed to Knarf to be as big around as the trunk of a tree. In fact, though he was merely in a little clump of grass, it was like a thick forest.

Well, Knarf heard the sound of footfalls coming towards him. He was frightened. He wanted to run However, he had promised the other shadows—Mij, Flor, Hanid and Yam—and the tin soldier that he would capture an animal, and he was going to do so no matter what happened. It wasn't as though he heard only one animal coming. No, he was sure that he heard the footfalls of at least fifty.

"I'm a shadow boy—please don't hurt me," Knarf begged.

All at once, from behind the blades of grass right in front of Knarf, came a pair of legs. Then came another pair of legs, and another, and another and—dear me, the pairs of legs came and came until there were fifty pairs of them. Knarf became so scared that he actually turned pale, which meant that for a moment or two he disappeared from sight, for you can't see a shadow when it turns pale. I'm sure that Knarf would have remained hidden until the centipede (for that was this 'animal's" name) had gone on its way, only it didn't go on its way without first spying Knarf.

"Here there....who are you?" the centipede cried.

"I'm K-K-Knarf."

"Which?"

"I'm a shadow boy...please don't hurt me," Knarf begged.

"I won't hurt you if you keep out of the way of my feet, otherwise I'm liable to step on you." The centipede had a ferocious face (much worse than the face of a lion, I'm sure and Knarf wished he could have been somewhere else. The centipede was looking Knarf up and down. Finally, it asked: "Where are the rest of your legs?"

"I've only got two."

"I don't believe it. Don't tell me any lies. What have you done with the rest of them?" It didn't wait for Knarf to answer. "I know, you've left them out in the meadow. What is your mother going to say?" It didn't seem to do any good for Knarf to keep saying that he had only two legs. The centipede scolded Knarf more and more. "Now you stay right here," it told the shadow boy at length. "I'll go home and see if I can't find a few legs lying around somewhere. I'll lend them to you until you grow some new ones. Remember, don't budge away from here." Knarf promised. Away went the centipede. But the next moment it tripped and fell all of a heap and began shouting for help.

Nineteen new lakes and creeks in the Canadian Rockies, fourteen of which were previously barren, were stocked with trout last season.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 18

The astrological forecast for this day is for sudden change and unexpected upheaval, with the affairs moving in unaccustomed grooves, with strangers and possibly in new environment. There are advantages to be expected from this abrupt rearrangement of affairs, particularly if the friendly offices of those in power be sought to lend their aid in launching new problems. The energies and initiative may seem to justify this, but be on guard against possible fraud or treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden change, with much stirring about or new associations and surroundings. The nergies will be quickened to good initiative and enterprise and this may justify seeking the substantial assistance of those in places of prestige and power, but be on guard against treachery, fraud or subtle machinations on conspiracies. A child born on this day should be active and energetic, but may be restless and fond of change and strange adventures. Its talents and unusual genius are likely to attract those in high places.

Canada's Indian popuation totals approximately 108,000, and the number of Indian reserves 2,000 odd.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

TWO COMMITTED MANSLAUGHTER

Anthime Tessier Given Two Months for Giving Youth Liquor.

On charges of manslaughter, arising from their connection with the mysterious death of Frederick Fletcher at 306 Aylmer street early in the morning of New Year's Day following a drunken brawl, Harold Henrichon alias Harry Kenyon, aged 20, of Montreal, and Robert Condie, of 306 Aylmer street, were committed for trial by Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., following preliminary hearing in police court.

The testimony of only one witness, that of Lorenzo Coulombe, roomer at 306 Aylmer street on the night of the drinking party, was taken to-day. Following Coulombe's evidence, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., counsel for the two accused, consented to committal for trial. "I heard the evidence at the inquest," said Mr. Gordon, "and I consent to committal."

Coulombe told of the two loud noises, indicative of somebody being thrown on the floor, and the angry voices he heard that night.

Given Two Months

Anthime Tessier, another boarder at the Condie house, was sentenced to two months in the county gaol for supplying liquor to Kenyon, who is under 21 years of age, contrary to the provisions of the L.C.A.

The erratic manner in which Herbert J. McMillan drove his car along George street at 3 o'clock this morning attracted the attention of Constable Jack Stevenson. The constable shouted at McMillan to stop, but he failed to do so and continued on down through the business district, swinging the car from curb to curb and running up on the pavement. Stevenson followed and the car was halted finally. To-day McMillan pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in charge of a car and was sentenced to ten days in the county gaol.

Fred Stanley, local youth, was found guilty by the magistrate of receiving two automobile tires from Walter Fulbrook, and retaining them in his possession knowing them to be stolen.

Stanley was tried last week, and judgment was reserved until to-day. His Worship said that the evidence disclosed that perhaps Stanley did not know the tires were stolen when he first received them, but that it was clearly shown that he had retained them in his possession after he had been informed that they were stolen.

Suspended Sentence

Suspended sentence was given to both Fulbrook and Stanley. However, they must pay the cost of the court, amounting to $18 each.

Arrested at Omemee yesterday by Provincial Constables Silvester and Warren, Joseph Kelly, aged 22, of Foxboro, and Ormond Fortier, aged 24, of Montreal, each faced to-day three charges of theft and one of housebreaking.

The charges were of breaking and entering the storehouse of Joe Hunter, in Smith Township, and the theft of a shotgun, and the theft of automobile rugs from two other residents of Smith, Alex Scott and James Young.

Fortier speaks only French which added greatly to the difficulties of the court, the services of an interpreter having to be called upon. They were remanded for one week for trial.

There are two Hoovers that everybody knows—one a man, the other a machine.

Each has the same mission in life, the cleaning up of an untidy world.

The machine is almost human; the man is almost a machine.

Herbert Hoover, that's the man, who failed for re-election as president of the United States for the next term.

Efficiency Hoover, the most efficient thing that ever happened, even in America.

A man who is never really happy unless he is working.

He thinks like a machine, works like a machine and has all a machine's aloofness and rigidity.

In public he is scared, furtive.

In private, as Herbert Hover, the husband, the father, or a man amongst friends, he relaxes and smiles.

Yet he is the sort of man you are surprised to know is married. You wonder how he fosnd time to fall in love.

You investigate and find that his first meeting with his wife took place in the geological laboratory, Leland Stanford University.

Their first conversation together was about the carboniferous period.

Romance ruled by efficiency. Hoover, seeking a career, secured a wife at the same time.

Cupid turned efficiency expert.

But the Hoovers have been very happy together. They have two sons and three grandchildren.

Herbert Hoover loves children, and his family provide all the relaxation he desires.

He has no time for pleasures that might interfere with his efficiency. The amusements of the multitude leave him indifferent.

Sports have little appeal. He does not golf.

At seven o'clock in the mornings he used to play "Hoover Ball" with cabinet ministers on the back lawn of the White House.

In this combination of medicine ball and tennis you have to throw a six-pound ball over an eight-foot net.

The "game" lasts fifteen minutes. No more, no less. It was the Hoover equivalent of the "daily dozen."

He walks a bit, and rides a horse sometimes. He does not motor for pleasure.

In summer, week-ends at his camp on the Rapidan, Blue Ridge Mountains, Virginia.

There he fishes. Camping and fishing are his chief recreations. Restful relaxations to increase his efficiency as a worker.

All his energy was required for his work.

Efficiency governs his daily habits. His clothes are selected and bought on the Hoover sartorial plan.

Before White House days, when he travelled the world, tailors in London, Paris, San Francisco, New York, had details of his measurements.

He would wire for a suit to be ready on his arrival at a particular city.

In those days, always double-breasted blue serge.

To-day, his clothing plan has been extended to about two further colors, brown and gray.

His ties are always sober.

On formal occasions he wears very stiff collars.

An early riser. After "Hoover Ball" he quickly shaved and dressed.

A hearty breakfast, fruit, bacon, scrambled eggs and coffee. Followed by a fat cigar.

Then he is ready to enjoy himself with work.

He never finds time to be ill, and anyway, illness suggests inefficiency.

Four secretaries and two stenographers acted as his bodyguard. Everything was handled smoothly and efficiently. According to the Hoover plan.

He saw no time-wasters — unless sufficiently distinguished to be unavoidable.

The handshaking parties and receptions of convention delegates (bare of meeting presidents) were eliminated by the Hoover plan.

Handshaking may be good politics, but it wastes too much time.

Hoover hates criticism. But he would have been willing to occupy for another four years the most criticized position in the world.

He believes in most of those nineteenth century political and economic doctrines which the twentieth century is destroying. He is sure he is right. Not always, but nine times out of ten.

But it will be politics no more. A new Hoover plan has started. To build up the fortune he spent as president. And he will be as active as ever.

But four years at the White House have aged him. His hair is grayer, there are deep lines under his eyes.

The Hoover machine is slightly battered, but the engine is as good as ever. It is running well.

But Americans blamed Hoover for their economic crisis. And they turned him out.

Herbert Hoover was the most disappointed man in the world on Nov. 8.

Prosperity, he believes, is just around the corner . . . and Hoover had a plan . . . but it will never see the light of day . . . now.

One Officer To Patrol 11 Miles River Front

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 17 (C.P.).—One policeman will patrol the 11 miles of river front drive in Riverside this year as the result of an order of the Committee of Supervisors taking two men off the force. The order, effective March 1, will leave the chief and three men on the staff, which means no time off for the officers.

A cut of 10 per cent. in pay, the fourth of that amount in the last 12 months, has been ordered by the supervisors, effective at once.

When someone suggested a reduction in the police force might mean less return from fines, Mayor Drouillard declared: "We do not send out our policemen to deliberately create fines. Those who are fined in this town are fined for breaking the law. Riverside police enjoy a splendid reputation."

SEES SHADOWS OF WAR CLOUDS

Gardiner, Speaking to Alberta Farmers, Pictures Revolution in Social System.

CAPITALISM TO BLAME.

CALGARY, Jan. 17. (CP)—Declaring clouds of war shadowed the world in the breakdown of the capitalistic system, Robert Gardiner, M.P. for Acadia, to-day outlined to the United Farmer of Alberta convention in his presidential address, "a new economic order to bring equitable distribution of world wealth."

"In surveying the events of the past year and describing the working out of the economic and social forces, I have presented a picture of the realities of the situation" the farmer organization chief declared.

"Immediate economic prospects are not bright; on the other hand, in my judgment, there never has been a period in history when the possibilities for rapid progress toward any equitable social order was so great as it is to-day. The old order is changing and we are confronted by an opportunity such as no previous generation has known."

Mr. Gardiner laid the blame for present economic ills on the errors of capitalism and the inability of distribution to maintain an equal ratio with advancing production. "Social planning must be undertaken in order that there may be an uninterrupted flow of goods and services to meet the needs of our people" he said.

New Consciousness

The past year, said the president had seen an awakening to a new social consciousness of important sections of the Canadian people who had not in the past taken an effective part in the effort to bring about changes of vital character in the social organism. He recalled the organization of the league for social reconstruction and the co-Operative Commonwealth Federation.

The downward trend in the economic life of Canada had continued with increasing unemployment and distress, he said in reviewing national affairs. The Imperial Economic Conference, on which many hoped for increased trade had been built, had failed to raise even an encouraging ripple in the sea of business, he declared.

MILLS BUSY.

GUELPH.—Things are looking brighter. There doesn't seem any doubt about it, according to H. Quarmby, general manager of a local carpet and spinning mill. Since just before Christmas, the mills have been busier than for some time, Mr. Quarmby said.

PLANS PEACE DRIVE.

By Bess Furman—A.P. Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—Carrie Chapman Catt and her "cause and cure of war" cohorts—women of 11 national organizations—came to the United States capital to-day to discuss the 1933 peace campaign. All her campaigning career—that 43 years now—Mrs. Catt has been mapping discussion forums, and she pronounces this week's peace program "the best I have ever made."

A new race track is being constructed at Santa Anita, Cal., by Joseph Smoot, who launched the Hialeah, Florida plant, some years ago.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

Count Is Under Way On McKee Vote Total

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (C.P.). — Hawk-eyed officials watched to-day as clerks began unravelling thousands of little rolls of white paper in an attempt to solve a mystery—the exact total of the Joseph V. McKee "write-in" vote last November.

It was the latest move in a triple investigation of charges of widespread frauds and irregularities in the New York Mayoralty election. Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer authorized an official scrutiny of voting machines to determine the number of "write-in" votes.

McKee, as president of the Board of Aldermen, succeeded Mayor James J. Walker when the latter resigned, but he did not run for election. John P. O'Brien, Tammany man, was elected over Lewis H. Pounds, Republican, 616,736 votes to 439,032, but it developed that a proportion of the electorate carried pencils to the polls and wrote in the name of McKee, a non-Tammany Democrat.

FAIRYLAND IN PETERBOROUGH

To Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—This is not a dream. You remember the dense fog that occurred between Christmas and New Year? From pervious experience with hill and valley I surmised that the sun was shining brightly and that the fog was low; in addition there was an unusually heavy hoar frost.

I decided that if I took a stroll to the top of Armour's Hill I would see something worth while, and I was richly repaid for the effort.

Although I have crossed the three score and ten line I have never looked upon such an exquisitely beautiful winter scene with its fascinating contrasts of light and shade, silence and sound, solitary peace, and sounds of activity in the hidden city below.

Coming along Charlotte street the fog was so dense that I could just discern the Clinic across the way. At the Hunter street bridge the swollen Otonabee was sending up clouds of steam, autos were creeping cautiously along and there was nothing to indicate the georgeous sight to be seen only a half mile away. As I climbed Armour's Hill the fog gradually became thinner At the hill top factory (Westclox) the sun was faintly shining on the top storey and as I neared the crest of the hill, the warm clear morning sun in that wondrous brightness that only morn can give, shone forth in all his glory on this island in the clouds.

What a sight he revealed; the hill top's diamond studded nightcap was intact (it almost seemed like intruding on restful privacy; the magic hoar frost clothed ground, grass, weed and shrub; it was not congealed snow, but an exquisite crystaline structures, a marvelous geometrical demonstration of nature's handwork; a veritable feast of wonder for both artizan and artist, and all in diamond-studded brilliant whiteness.

I thought of my first glimpse of Bermuda with its white roofs among the green, where we seemed to be sailing into a new world of beauty, but this was infinitely more delicate, more subtle, more entrancing, this miniature diamond studded forest of fronded brilliance, its carpet of pearl with its millions of tiny suns fashing forth their temporary brilliance, and

"Each proclaiming as they shine
The hand that made them is divine."

The city was completely hidden by a dense, almost black, cloud; with Quaker Oats water tank, the tip of St. Paul's spire, the cross on the Cathedral, and sometimes the top of St. John's tower showing through, while away to the west the sun changed the dark cloud into a golden-hued border of fantastic shape. Over Little Lake clouds of ivory colored vapor rose and floated lazily away up the valley beyond the Life Lock, and as far as the eye could see the great cloud follower the river northward with the chimney top of Auburn Mills projecting through.

The atmospheric conditions curiously augmented sounds coming from the hidden city below. The Otonabee, in flood, as it leaped the hurdle of the Quaker Oats dam sent its triumphant roar up through the dark cloud. The puffing locomotive, the clanking, shunting freight cars, the rumble of traffic, the punk-punk of the gas engine (that always means work and never play); the hum of a planer, the whirr of a buzz saw, tooting horns, children's voices and even the suburban rooster all told of activity below; all the more interesting because unseen.

As I sat on the bench by the flagpole I was surprised to see how long the fairy scene lasted. Owing to the open crystalline formation of the hoar frost the sun did not melt it quickly. The weeds ordinarily scarcely noticeable, made a miniature forest with lace clothed branches and jewelled stems, while the spines of the evergreens were clothed in sparkling white, the brides of the forest with their host of smaller attendants.

Gradually the grass resumed its greenish brown hue while the weeds and shrubs remained intact, but old Sol rose higher and warmer and by eleven o'clock all the gala dress was gently dissolved, and I returned to the still scarce visible city, having seen one of the memorable sights of a lifetime, wondering if we are often near great opportunity or privilege and unconscious of it.

Peterborough may well be proud of Armour's Hill, and hold its donors in grateful remembrance. A trip to its summit on any clear day is a real treat, while on a special occasion such as this, it becomes an island in the clouds.

THE BROWSER

CAN'T IMAGINE how relieved the Browser is since he ran his apprehensive eyes over "Hold Your Tongue!" by Ernest Lindley. It's all about libel. What you can say and what you can't say about everything from doctors to newspapers and from dead men to live ones.

If the Browser doesn't like his doctor or his lawyer or his architect—always assuming that he has a lawyer or an architect—he can't go around town saying nasty things about them even if they are true because that would cost him money. But if his enemy should paint a picture, he can call it a bad one if he likes and let the artist sue if he likes. Or if he goes to a play, he can tell people to stay from it and the author has to smile and say he likes honest criticism. And if any of you write a book and it gives the Browser indigestion and he tells everybody that you're a dull, stupid, incompetent writer and your book is immoral and shallow trash—which, of course, he wouldn't — you couldn't do a single thing to the Browser (except with a club).

So you see what fun it is to be a reviewer of books. . . . When there are any books to be reviewed. . . . At the moment they are rare as fresh cherries.

This is always a dull season. The autumn books have ripened and fallen—triumphantly or with a thud. The spring books have not burgeoned on the publishers' trees. Reviewers, even solemn ones like the Browser, must stall and pretend and fill up columns by sheer brilliance and personality and persiflage. It's quite easy. The Browser has no trouble at all.

He reads of John Masefield's visit to America. . . . Last time one of England's poets laureate came to this country, he wouldn't talk to any of the newspaper boys and a demon head writer revenged the profession by writing for his paper: "KING'S CANARY WON'T CHIRP". . . .Masefield is different. He is gracious. He is sensible. The newspaper men always like him.

How well the Browser remembers the days, 15 years ago, when he read "The Widow in the Bye Street", "The Everlasting Mercy" and "Dauber". . . .He still thinks them rather tremendous, although he's inclined to doubt the truth of "Dauber". You remember it's about a lad who went to sea and wasn't much of a sailor, but he was a talented painter. . . . So he was hazed and brutalized in a ghastly fashion and dies in a fall.

But Mr. Masefield was wrong. The sailors on that ship would have petted and spoiled that lad because he had a talent that was not theirs. The Browser knows that. He's been around and he knows how tough guys act. You'd never suspect how much the Browser does know. He doesn't need to read books to learn things. That's a mere hobby with him.

But he does envy Cornelia Stratton Parker, who gets around a great deal, too. . . . Last summer she was in Germany with her daughter, paddling and hiking, and her book, "German Summer" is a charming bit of seeing and writing.

The Browser remembers Mrs. Parker when she was a faculty wife and a German nurse used to escort her twin boys around a campus, wearing nothing except sandals and skimpy striped bathing suits and chattering German like a house afire (or even two houses). And then Dr. Carlton Parker died and she had to go her way alone through the world and how valiantly she has done it. Just read her books and see for yourself.

Or read Dr. Louis Berman's "Food and Character" and you'll wonder with every bite what influence that food may have on you . . . . Once upon a time the Browser read Berman's "Glands Regulating Personality" and he was a gland expert for years. He acted the same way when he read Dr. Josephine Jackson's "Outwitting Your Nerves" just republished. (a fine woman, Dr. Jackson, sweet and wise). And when he read Watson's "Behaviorism" a few years ago, what a nuisance he was to everybody! But not any more, of course.

Thornton Wilder's sister, Isabel, sold a novel, "Mother and Four", to Coward-McCann and when they told her to cut 10,000 words and a foreward from her manuscript she meekly obliged and said, "I feel that you know more about the book business than I do". . . No writer should ever make such an admission. (When the makeup man asks the Browser to cut TWO lines out of HIS column you can hear his screams of anguish for a block.)

Edna St. Vincent Millay has been reading her poetry over the air.

What a glorious time Joaquin Miller or Walt Whitman would have to-day, reading THEIR poems over the radio. Even Keats might do it. But can you imagine Shelley or Edgar Allen Poe before a microphone? Neither can

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.— The local demand for fresh eggs was not sufficient to take care of the increased receipts that dealers had to clear yesterday, and prices to country shippers and to the trade eased accordingly. Brokers quoted graded supplies at the same prices as at the week-end and on Monday.

Country shippers were offered 22c for extras, 20c for firsts, 18c for pullet extras, and 16c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, and retailers were quoted fresh receipts at 30c for extras in cartons, 28c for extras loose, 26c for firsts loose, 22c for pullet extras loose and 21c for seconds loose.

Butter.

Prices on butter were quite steady, though the demand was slow. Brokers quoted creamery solids at 21c to 21¼c for fresh makes and 21½c for regraded No. 1. Second grade solids were quoted at 20¾c generally, though high scoring No. 2 commanded 21c. To retailers prices on creamery prints were steady with those quoted on Monday at 25c for No. 1 and 24c for No. 2.

Cream.

There were no changes in prices on churning cream, and there were prospects of changes in the near future. Country shippers were quoted 21c for special, 20c for No. 1 and 17c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

New cheese was in fair demand and sold on the local brokers' market at 10c for large, 10¼c for twins and 10½c for triplets. To retailers prices were steady at the increases in effect last week. They were offered new makes at 11¼c for large, 11½c for twins, 11¾c for triplets and 13¾c for Stiltons.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Grain prices slid downhill yesterday with trade attention focussed on a conference tonight between President - elect Roosevelt and a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Enlarged speculative selling accompanied reports that the fate of farm allotment legislation was up to the President-elect. Setbacks of values were in the face of 2,244,000 bushels decreased of the United States wheat visible supply.

Wheat closed weak, ¼c to 1c under Saturday's finish; corn, 7-8c to 1¼c down; oats, ¼c to ½c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—Continued mild weather sent egg prices lower on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

With buyers taking on only immediate requirements, fresh eggs in car lots or less lost a cent a dozen. Extras were quoted at 30c, firsts at 28c and pullets at 25c a dozen. Storage eggs were unchanged at 22c to 22½c for extras, 20c to 21c for firsts and 19c a dozen for seconds. To retailers, fresh eggs in cartons declined 1c a dozen. Receipts totalled 1,084 cases.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes per 80-pound bag lost 5c at 85c. Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were unchanged at 90c per 80-pound bag and $1 per 90-pound bag.

Car lots or less of No. 1 butter held steady at 21c to 21¼c a pound. Receipts were 27 boxes.

Cheese was unchanged, current receipts of Ontario white selling at 8¼c to 8½c, current Ontario colored at 9¾c and early Ontario at 10¼c to 11¼c a pound. Receipts were only 11 boxes.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 17. — Lack of interest displayed by European purchasers of wheat and general easiness of world markets was reflected in lower quotations in the grain pit here yesterday. Trade was on a par with sessions of the past week, exceedingly narrow and uninteresting.

Wheat closed fairly steady ⅝c to ¾c lower, with May holding at 45¼c, July at 45⅞c to 46c, and October at 47¼c.

Prices here followed Chicago's lead. The southern market turned easy in the closing stages, and, lacking support, it took little in the way of offerings to depress values. Intermarket operations were very light.

Export Trade Light.

Apart from a cargo of Canadian wheat worked out of Vancouver over the week-end, export business was very disappointing and sales in all positions were estimated at only 250 000 bushels.

World wheat shipments for the past week were substantial and totalled 16 500,000 bushels, an increase of 5,000 000 bushels, compared with last week. Of this amount, however, 7,000.000 bushels was of North American origin. The large amount of wheat put afloat by Australia last week was mainly responsible for the increase in ocean passage stocks.

Demand for cash wheat and coarse grains continued dormant. Spreads generally were unchanged from Saturday.

Lakefield

A very enjoyable and successful 'at home' was held under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League on Friday evening, at the Lakefield Inn. Eighteen tables of cards were played and music was provided by Messrs. Leahy of Douro and Mr. Sullivan of Lakefield.

The ladies' first was won by Miss Preston, the consolation by Miss Mary Walsh; the gentleman's highest score was won by Mr. Dwyer of Douro, with Mr. Hugh Nolan winning the consolation prize. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the parish.

Miss Muriel Miles entertained twelve of her playmates at her home from 4 to 6 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon, it being the occasion of her ninth birthday. The dining room table was very attractively decorated and was centred with the birthday cake with its nine lighted candles.

Those present were Betty Brown, Audrey Young, Doris Young, Alvilda Pearson, Sybil Lennox, Jean Frankish, Virginia Shearer, Jean Garbutt, Verna Hurl, June Burrows, Winifred Murphy, Gladys Allen. Contests were won by Betty Brown, Muriel Miles, Gladys Allen, Alvilda Pearson.

COMMISSION -- "POLITICAL CONSPIRACY"

RENT PAYMENTS HEAD FRAUD LIST STURGEON FALLS

Find One Owner Getting Cash for House in Husband's Name, Second in Son's.

CONSPIRACY SUGGESTED.

Commissioner Suspicious of Several $100 Payments Made to Councillor.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Jan. 18. (CP)—"The worst frauds in the administration of relief moneys in Sturgeon Falls are in the payments of rentals and for shelter" declared W. H. Williams, K.C., counsel for the Royal Commission now investigating relief disbursements here. Shortly after the investigation resumed to-day, Mr. Williams intimated he might "have to call most of the landlords in town to explain irregularities."

He was examining R. H. Bourassa, grocer, and casually asked who Mr. Bourassa's landlord was. "Mrs. S. Vannier" replied witness.

Learning she was a large property owner, L. Spence, Government investigator, looked up Mrs. Vannier's name in the rent book to see if she was receiving money from the town.

He discovered one of her tenants whose rent was paid by the town was "S. Vanier."

"That's her husband" Mr. Bourassa told Judge J. M. Hall, who is conducting the enquiry.

"Does she live with him" asked Mr. Williams.

"She did," witness replied. "He died last spring."

The tenant in another house of Mrs. Vannier's is her son, Rod, and his rent is also paid by the town.

Son Steadily Employed.

Rod, it was learned, is steadily employed as a clerk in a local store. His rent amounted to $14.50 per month.

"I don't know what to do with these landlords," said Mr. Williams. "We'll have to bring them all in, I see. But what is going to be the consequence? What are we going to do with them? And the man who made all this up?? If there's not a conspiracy here I don't know."

Available records of Bourassa's dealings with the town were examined again to-day, but they were so incomplete they were of little value to the inquiry.

Looking through the books, Mr. Williams found several payments to Councillor J. F. Demers recorded. "Those are all the same $100," witness claimed. On August 6 a payment of $50 to Demers was entered. "I never paid him that, that was just for my own information." Bourassa declared. "It's all the same one."

"Do you mean to say you never paid Demers that $50?" asked Judge Hall. "Don't you know that is falsification of entries and you are liable to be punished for it? Are your books false or are they true? Answer yes or no."

"I don't know. I'm no bookkeeper," Bourassa replied.

Payments to Demers were for plumbing and electrical work, Bourassa said. Mr. Williams pointed out his monthly recapitulation for income tax corresponded exactly with the monthly totals in the ledgers.

False Entries?

"If what you say now is true, you

LONELY ISLAND WILL BE HOME FOR ENGLISH GIRL

Miss Camela Wedgewood, Daughter of M.P., to Spend Twelve Months as Only White Person on Island.

By T. C. WATSON
Central Press Canadian Writer

LONDON, Jan. 18.—An Englishwoman is to spend twelve months as the only white person on a volcanic island populated by several thousand negroes.

She, is Miss Camilla Wedgewood, a daughter of Colonel Josiah C. Wedgewood, a British member of parliament. She is being sent out by Sydney University under the Rockfeller Endowment, to the island of Manua, off the coast of New Guinea, formerly a German possession, mandated after war to Australia.

Colonel Wedgewood stated that his daughter was born in South Africa thirty-one years ago, and for some years she had been a lecturer on anthropology at Sydney University and at Capetown.

"The island is about the size of the Isle of Wight," he added, "eight miles from the mainland.

"She will cross in a small sailing boat manned by a black boy, who will act as cook and general factotum.

"Her object is to study the native manners and customs.

"She had acquired a good knowledge of medicine and first-aid, so as to be of assistance to the natives."

THREE DEATHS YORK TOWNSHIP STIR OFFICIALS

Attorney General's Department to Act as Result of Poison Hints.

MAY EXHUME BODIES.

Woman, Daughter and Aged Man All Succumb With Suspicious Suddenness.

TORONTO, January 18 (C.P.).—"A series of three deaths of residents of York Township and East York in a period of over three years has aroused sufficient suspicion to be followed now by investigations under the direction of the Attorney-General's Department and the York Township Police," a Toronto newspaper says to-day.

"Police investigations will probably result in the exhumation tomorrow of the body of some of the deceased from Prospect Cemetery, with a view to hold a post-mortem to determine whether poisoning was the cause of all three deaths.

"The deceased persons, whose deaths have aroused suspicion among their relatives and friends, are: Mr. Bryans, East York, Mrs. Stainburn, York Township, aged 9' at her death, and her daughter, Miss Edith Stainburn, aged 62 at her death," the newspaper says.

Signs of Poison

"Mr. Bryans died in July 1929 at his home in East York. A postmortem was held under the direction of Dr. C. E. McLean, M.O.H., East York, and the stomach sent to Professor Rogers, University of Toronto analyst, who reported he had found traces of cyanide poisoning. However it was assumed then that Bryans had taken his own life with cyanide and he was buried without further questions.

"Last November, Mrs. Stainburn died at her Glenholme Avenue home. She is reported as having been ill for some time but died suddenly. The circumstances surrounding her death brought York township police to inquire into the cause, but they failed to find any trace of foul play. Mrs. Stainburn was buried in Prospect cemetery and her remains may be exhumed tomorrow under a coroner's order.

"Scarcely a month after Mrs. Stainburn's death," the newspaper continues, "her daughter died suddenly on Dec. 26 last at the home on Glenholme avenue. In view of the suddenness and certain circumstances of the death, the authorities were called in and a post portem was held. As a result of this, the stomach was sent to Prof. Rogers who now has the case under analysis and the report is expected shortly.

"Mrs. Stainburn and her daughter are said to be related to a prominent English family, one member of which is said to be chief justice of one of the Southern British possessions and are declared to have left a considerable estate."

TWO INSPECTORS AT PENITENTIARY BEING RETIRED

G. Smith, Acting Portsmouth Warden, E. R. Jackson, Formerly at Collins Bay, to Go.

RE-ORGANIZATION PLAN.

Rumor Guards Are Let Out and General Shift in Staff to be Made.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—(CP)—Inspector Gilbert Smith, Ottawa, and Inspector E. R. Jackson of the Dominion Penitentiaries Branch, are being retired on reorganization of the branch, it was learned last night.

The retirement of Smith is effective at the end of this month. Retirement of Jackson is now operative.

Inspector Gilbert Smith was in charge of Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., as acting warden when a riotous outbreak occurred on Oct. 17, followed by a second three days later. Five prisoners were wounded in the two uprisings, none seriously. Inspector Smith had been in charge of the institution since the retirement of former Warden J. C. Ponsford. Damage to the penitentiary in the two riots was estimated at $10,000.

Guards Also Retired?

KINGSTON, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Coincident with the retirement of Inspectors Gilbert Smith and E. R. Jackson from Portsmouth Penitentiary and the Collin's Bay Prison, there came last night reports of the retirement of a number of guards at the penitentiary. Warden W. Megloughlin was reticent, but it was learned several guards were retired this week and that there would be a more or less general change in staff.

N.Z. Minister Resigns Cabinet Crisis Looms

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 18 (C.P. Cable). — Hon. W. Downie Stewart, Minister of Finance, has resigned his office, and a cabinet crisis is threatened.

Difference of opinion with the remainder of the cabinet on the question of exchange rates and the establishment of a central bank are said to have brought about Mr. Stewart's resignation, and it is considered possible other members might follow his example.

There has been some hope Mr. Stewart could be persuaded to continue in office, but he remains adamant in his decision. While it is possible city members of the cabinet may follow Mr. Stewart, there is a general belief the Government, headed by Rt. Hon. G. W. Forbes will be able to carry on.

PRISONER RECAPTURED.

WOODSTOCK, Ont. — Trueman McCarey was yesterday sentenced to two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary when he was convicted of escaping from custody last July. McCarey, with another prisoner, Roy Wilson, escaped while cutting grass on the Court House lawn. Wilson was recaptured recently and given a two-year term.

Female Burglars Use Torture

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—Two women burglars who tortured their housewife victim by burning the soles of her feet with lighted matches until she revealed the hiding place of her money—$10—were reported to police.

The victim, Mrs. Rose Schmalzer, 22, said they entered her home through an open pantry window while she slept early to-day. She said she recognized them as the same pair, attired as men, who seized her while she was doing her washing recently, and forced her to hand over an armful of clothes.

The attack to-day was made while her husband was at work in a bakery.

GREAT REINDEER HERD IS NEARING CANAIDAN BORDER

Great Herd Has Taken Three Years to Reach Mouth of the MacKenzie River.

By Central Press Canadian

WINNIPEG, Jan 18.—Somewhere up on the frozen wastes of Alaska a great herd of reindeer is approaching the Canadian border.

Destined to provide food and clothing for Eskimos at the mouth of the Mackenzie River, North West Territories, it has been moving slowly, day after day, for more than three years.

It is expected to reach Kittigazuit early in the spring and when it arrives the Canadian government will pay $195,000 to the Lomen Reindeer Corporation.

The government contracted with the Lomen brothers, Alaska's "reindeer kings", for a herd of 3,000 in 1929. In the fall of that year, Andrew Bahr, veteran herder, started the antlered animals far up in Alaska. He was assisted by four Laplanders and six Eskimos.

They plodded along, 'sometimes unheard of for months, and continued travelling even in 79 below zero weather. When last reported this year the number had increased to more than 3,500.

Soon the herd will reach the Mackenzie River and a trip across the ice will end the journey at Kittigazuit.

Three Lap families are there ready to take charge of the reindeer as soon as the strange journey is completed.

T. P. LANCASTER IS BEREAVED

Mrs. Lancaster Passed Away Very Suddenly in Havelock on Tuesday.

FUNERAL ON FRIDAY.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 18.—The sudden death of Mrs. Clare Elizabeth Lancaster, wife of. T P. Lancaster, M.P.P., publisher of "The Havelock Standard," at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, following a heart attack at noon from which she did not regain consciousness, has left a deep feeling of shock and sorrow throughout the whole community.

In the first stage of the fatal attack, Mrs. Lancaster was able to telephone her husband at his office. Prompt medical attention was unavailing, and death resulted six hours later.

Mrs. Lancaster was in her forty-first year. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Puffer of Norwood, and was widely known and beloved throughout this district. Since her marriage six years ago, Mrs. Lancaster had taken an active interest in Havelock affairs. She was president of the Women's Institute, secretary of the local Relief Committee, Vice-President of the Havelock Horticultural Society, and she was a devout member of St. John's Anglican church.

The funeral of Mrs. Lancaster will take place Friday afternoon from her late residence to St. John's church, and thence to Norwood for interment in the Puffer family burial plot in Norwood cemetery.

The sympathy of Mr. Lancaster's many friends throughout the county will be extended to him in his bereavement.

Maurice Chevalier Is Granted Divorce

PARIS, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—Maurice Chevalier and his wife, Yvonne Vallee, were granted a divorce today on reciprocal grounds.

The court, in a very short judgment, accepted the arguments of both sides.

Chevalier was married to Miss Vallee, a music hall singer, in 1927. Last July he filed a petition for divorce and subsequently his wife filed a counter petition. He charged that Madame Chevalier had caused public scenes because of her jealousy. She said that Chevalier refused to see her when she went to Hollywood, and told her to go back to France.

TOO FEW BATH TUBS.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—(A.P.)—Maybe Americans still are the soap and water champions of the world, but, said Henry P. Reger, talking before the Illinois Master Plumbers' Association yesterday, there remains some 9,000,000 homes in the United States without bath tubs.

JAP EMPLOYEES RAID AND WRECK SINGER FACTORY

Furniture Destroyed, Together With Records of Installment Sale Contracts.

138 ARRESTS MADE.

Three Loyal Workmen, Four Guards Injured—U.S. Ambassador Asks Probe.

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 18 (A.P.) — Police held 138 Japanese to-night for participation in a mid-day raid upon the Yokohama branch of the Singer Sewing Machine Company. All movable property and valuable records were destroyed in the attack by a mob of nearly 200 disgruntled employees.

Richard McCleary, a Canadian representative of the New York headquarters of the Singer Company, who was in Japan in connection with its labor difficulties, said the loss was "likely to reach several hundred thousand yen." (The yen is equivalent to about 20 cents).

The greatest part of the loss was valuable records of installment sale contracts and other documents which the rioters tore to bits.

Seven Injured

Three of the Singer Company's loyal Japanese employees and four Japanese guards were seriously injured. No Americans or other foreign employee of the concern were hurt.

McCleary charged that police protection was inadequate. "I am unable to understand how nearly 200 men were able to assemble and raid the premises in the heart of Yokohama without police being able to halt them," he said.

The Singer Company is a United States concern, although McCleary is from Canada and E. F. Walker, the manager for Japan, is also British.

Asks Investigation

TOKYO, Jan. 18 (A.P.)—Joseph C. Grew, United States Ambassador, visited Foreign Minister Uchida to-day and requested an immediate investigation of the raid upon the Singer Sewing Machine Company branch at Yokohama.

TWO ACTRESSES WILL LEAVE U.S.

Marlene Dietrich Going Back to Germany—Maureen O'Sullivan to Ireland.

LATTER HOMESICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. January 18 (C.P.). — Two of Hollywood's foreign-born actresses, Marlene Dietrich and Maureen O'Sullivan, to-day announced their intention of saying farewell to the film colony.

Miss Dietrich, who has has considerable trouble with her studio over selection of stories as well as a director for her productions said she would leave next spring for her native Germany to join her husband, Rudolph Sieber, German film director.

With Miss O'Sullivan it's a case of "home sickness," she said. Friends say the young Irish actress has lost all interest in Hollywood since she broke off a supposed engagement with James Dunn, actor.

"What shall I do when I get home? Just be a home girl again, I suppose," Maureen said.

Layer Of Charges Branded By Stubbs As Fit For Asylum

Fiery Judge Bitterly Attacks Dominion Government For "Stabbing Him In The Back"—Holds It a Compliment For Prisoners To Prefer Trial Before Him.

DISCLOSES OTTAWA HELD BACK $276 SALARY FOR ARREARS ON SPECIAL INCOME TAX.

WINNIPEG, January 18 (C.P.). —Branding "any man who could conceive such a complaint" as a "fit subject for a lunatic asylum" and bitterly attacking the Dominion Government for "stabbing me in the back," Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs to-day began a scathing ridicule of judicial misconduct charges made against him.

"I have charged and do charge this Commission is a political conspiracy against me," the Judge declared heatedly. "If malice didn't ooze out of every pore of the anatomy of the Attorney-General, I don't know what did."

Standing in the witness-box before a commission investigating charges sponsored by Hon. W. J Major, Attorney-General, the accused jurist pounded on the marble rail to emphasize his indignation.

He had been charged by Mr. Major with "excessive abuse of authority regarding issuance of attachments for garnishee orders but witness declared that "garnishee before a fair judgment was like execution before judgment."

The reason he was charged with this, he said, was because he had been trying to draw attention of the public to "this vicious thing," in talks to various organizations "Any man who could conceive such a complaint is a fit subject for the lunatic asylum."

It was a compliment, he held, for prisoners to express preference for trial before him, and declared it was merely a preference for a trial "before a humanitarian judge instead of a legal sadist."

Commissioner Mr. Justice Frank Ford interrupted witness to advise him his recitation was all the Commission required and to omit comment.

Salary Held Back

Documents and letters from the Department of Finance informing him $276.16 was being held back from his December salary for arrears on special income tax, were entered by the judge to "show the extremities to which my opponents will go."

The letter, he said, arrived the day before Christmas when his wife and six other members of his family were ill, and he had an overdraft at the bank. This, he said, was "garnishment to the nth degree."

"I'd like to know how many judges were owing income taxes on Dec. 19 and and for how many orders-in-council were issued attaching their salary" he said.

"My Lord" witness continued excitedly, "I'm a fighter, but I fight fair. This is not a blow below the belt; it is stabbing in the back.

Press Statement

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18 (C.P.)—In a typewritten statement handed to newspaper reporters at a hearing of charges of judicial misconduct against him, Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs disclosed to-day that the Dominion Government had held back $276.16 from his December salary to pay a claim of the Crown against him for arrears of special income tax.

The Department of Finance wrote him on Dec. 19 advising him that an order-in-council to this effect had been passed. The Bank of Nova Scotia at Winnipeg was advised to stop payment of his December salary and the Government notified Judge Stubbs a cheque for the balance of $140.50 would be forwarded about Dec. 31, and asked him to return his December salary warrant.

The Judge, in his statement to the press, declared "This despicable action on the part of the Dominion Government furnishes further striking proof of the vindictiveness with which I am pursued."

Local Membership Stands First in Canada, Secretary Announces.

AIDED UNEMPLOYED.

G. A. Gillespie, Thomas Barrie and J. J. Turner Life Members.

Looking back upon the activities of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. during its first full year in its greatly enlarged and improved building, G. H. Roper, general secretary, in addressing the annual meeting of the local association last night said, "From every standpoint it has been demonstrated that the splendid undertaking so generously supported by the citizens and friends of the association was more than justified."

Made Life Members

The Nominating Committee recommended that the following five directors be re-appointed for the customary three-year period: W. A. Richardson, C. A. Salmonsen, J. H. Vernor, C. Laucheur and G. S. Matthews. R. M. Glover and A. L. Elliott were appointed for a three-year term as new members of the Board of Directors. As a tribute to their more than twenty years of devoted service to the association G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Turner and T. Barrie were appointed honorary life members of the Board.

The estimated total attendance at the "Y" last year was placed at 60,000 by Mr. Roper. "Our membership stands first in Canada in proportion to population, according to figures supplied by the National Council, which is a striking demonstration that the young men appreciate our splendid new building and equipment," he declared. "The low operating costs have proved to be a pleasant surprise to the directors, being much less than anticipated before the new building project was undertaken."

Attention was drawn to the manner in which young men, unemployed or on short time, have spent

Prairie Provinces Favor Dominion Controlling Unemployment, Social Insurance.

B. C. Backs Ontario, Quebec.

Ottawa Experts Figures Given Showing Soundness Actuarially of Contributory Plan.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Constitutional and unemployment relief subcommittees were set up at the Dominion-Provincial conference this morning. The first body will be under the chairmanship of Hon. W. H. Price, attorney general of Ontario. The second will be convened by Premier J. E. Brownlee, Alberta. Both sub-committees will meet this afternoon. The sitting of the constitutional sub-committee will open at 2.30 o'clock; and the unemployment relief body a little later.

The respective legislative power of the parliament of Canada and the provincial legislatures to deal with unemployment and social insurance featured the third sitting of the conference this morning. While in the tentative stage, various views came from the different provincial heads.

Prairies Favor Transfer

The Prairie Provinces took their stand in favor of transferring to the Dominion power over unemployment and social insurance. This authority now vests in the provinces by virtue of Section 92 of the British North America Act.

Maritime Provinces were inclined to join in with Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on this constitutional question.

Disinclination to an amendment of the constitution giving authority over to the Dominion was manifested by Ontario and Quebec. British Columbia, somewhat aloof, seemed to favor the attitude of Ontario and Quebec.

The Dominion submitted figures of experts bearing on the soundness actuarially of a contributory plan. It maintained its stand that authority should be given to the Dominion on social and unemployment insurance which would enable the Dominion to administer the fund on a national scheme of administration and obtain from the employers and workers their allotted share.

After the delegates had discussed generally the legal aspects of the situation, decision was made to turn the question over to a constitutional sub-committee. This body will hasten its report to the Conference as a whole. All delegates are scheduled for afternoon and night sittings, either in the two sub-committees or at the main session of the parley.

Friday looks the closing day. But it depends on the progress made.

The constitutional sub-committee, in addition to Col. Price, will be composed of: Premier J. D. Stewart, Prince Edward Island; Hon. John Doull, Nova Scotia; Premier C. D. Richards, New Brunswick; Hon. W. J. Major, Manitoba; Hon. M. A. MacPherson, Saskatchewan, and Hon. W. J. Jones, British Columbia. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, may sit in at the meetings, Quebec and Alberta will name their representatives during the luncheon hour.

18-Year-Old Youth Is Missing Near Lindsay

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 18.—(CP)—Residents of this district today opened a wide search for Roy Stoats, 18, who disappeared Sunday while on a fishing trip. He went to a camp alone Sunday and the following day Huber Smith, a friend, went to join him. Stoats was missing and Huber, after searching alone for some time, returned here yesterday and organized a search party.

Non - Contributory Fund for Jobless, Out Says Bennett

Prime Minister Emphatic In-Telling Delegation, From National Committee Of Unemployed Councils, Government Will Prevent Subversive Tactics.

DIFFERENT PRINCIPLE BEING CONSIDERED AT PARLEY IN REGARD TO INSURANCE PLAN.

OTTAWA, January 18. — No attempt to introduce a system of Soviet government in this country would be tolerated. A system of non-contributory unemployment insurance would not be introduced in Parliament by the present Government. These statements were made yesterday by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett to a delegation from the National Committees of Unemployed Councils.

So far as any desire to institute any Soviet system, which the delegation evidently desired, Premier Bennett stated, six applications had been received yesterday by the Minister of Labor (Hon. W. A. Gordon) from people who had been sent to Soviet Russia, asking that they be permitted to come back to Canada. There were many evidences, the Prime Minister continued, that conditions in Russia were far different from those under which the delegation lived in Canada under liberty and decency.

To Defend Institutions

Any effort by any organization to subvert the government of this country and destroy the institutions of Canada would be prevented, Mr. Bennett said. If any organization attempted this sort of warfare they might expect the "consequences." The processes of the law which had been adhered to down through the centuries would be utilized. The Ontario Supreme Court had found it necessary to sentence men to penitentiary for acts of a communistic nature.

In the matter of unemployment insurance, the Dominion-Provincial conference was considering another principle than a non-contributory plan. No non-contributory plan would be placed in operation in this country under the present government.

The Prime Minister thanked the delegation for their representations.

Hearing of the delegation lasted three-quarters of an hour. It delayed the resumption of the Dom-

SUSPECTED SPY ADMITS CHARGE

French Professor Was Arrested in Alps With Compromising Papers in Possession.

HELD IN ITALY.

ROME, Jan. 18 (A.P.) — Prof. Charles Lydoux, head of the Polytechnic Institute of Paris, who was arrested Sept. 4, with his secretary on a charge of spying, has confessed, police said.

He was arrested in the Italian Alps by police, who said they found allegedly compromising documents and drawings. The couple was bound over to a special tribunal for the defence of the State.

Reports were printed Jan. 14 in the Paris newspaper Le Matin, that the professor had been detained for four months in Rome by Italian authorities. Officials in the Foreign Office asked at that time concerning the report, declined to comment.

The French government, the newspaper said, had approached the Italian government on the matter.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 18. —(AP)—It's nothing to boast about if you can wiggle your ears.

Such persons, Prof. R. C. Hussey told his historical geology class at University of Michigan, have just inherited a muscular trick common to man's remote ancestors.

And if your hair stands on end when you are frightened, Prof. Hussey added, it's just an activation of other holdover or vestigal muscles possessed by man's distant ape-like ancestors whose hair bristled in anger and fright.

THREE ARE SLAIN IN HOLLYWOOD

Believed Effort of Eastern Gang to Control Film Colony Liquor Suply.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 18 (A.P.)—Three mysterious slayings early to-day sent police squads into action to prevent further bloodshed in what they said was an attempt of Eastern gangsters to control the film colony's liquor supply.

Only one of the dead men has been identified. He is Harry Meager, said by police to be a leading bootlegger in Hollywood.

Meager and one of the unidentified men were in the former's automobile which crashed into an electric light-post after several shots were fired. Meager crawled from the wreck and died as he tried on all fours to reach his home, a short distance from the scene.

A third man was found about the same time on the otuskirts of Long Beach. Police said he answers the description of a former bootlegger associated with Meager. He had been shot in the head.

Meager had complained to police earlier in the day, they said, he had been threatened by "Eastern gangsters."

Mrs. Fern Meger, widow of the slain man, said she could not identify the man in the automobile with her husband.

When Meager was found, police reported he clutched an unfired automatic pistol in his hand. Police suggested a third man was in the automobile before it was wrecked, and that he shot both his companions before jumping from the car.

The Meager home was a palatial one on North Irving Boulevard. They moved there yesterday.

COLOMBIA - PERU DISPUTE LIKELY TO START WAR

Brazil and Ecuador Prepare Troops for Protection of Border Lines.

PORT CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

Gunboats Colombian Owned Move Up Amazon to Recapture Village.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 18.—The peace of four nations was threatened yesterday when despatches from widely separated sections of South America indicated troops and naval forces were being concentrated in the vicinity of the village of Leticia, southernmost tip of Colombia, recently seized by "irregular" Peruvian forces.

The nations involved are Colombia, in which Leticia now is located although it formerly was Peruvian; Brazil, Peru and Ecuador. All four borders are at or near the town of dissension and Brazil is particularly concerned over maintaining neutrality despite the use by Colombia of the Amazon River for bringing forces to recapture the settlement.

Fleet Moves Up River

A Colombian fleet of three gunboats and a transport, which had been mobilized in the middle reaches of the Amazon, left during the day for the upper river to recapture the disputed port from the Peruvians.

Peruvian authorities already had declared that if the fleet moved on Leticia, it would mean war. The vessels should reach Leticia in about 10 days.

Peru regarded these preparations as war measures, and the authorities in charge of their troops in Northern Peru declared war would be inevitable if the fleet proceeded into the Leticia region of the Amazon River They were reported moving troops into the area in preparation to meet "any developments."

Brazilian naval and military authorities regarded the situation with rising concern, but insisted peace must be preserved.

BRITISH BUILT FIGHTING PLANE SENT TO JAPAN

Even Send Men to Teach Japs How to Fly New Airboat.

SECRET DESIGN

Faster and Larger Flying Range Than Any Other Aeroplane.

By T. C. WATSON
Central Press Canadian Writer

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Japanese government is buying up as fast as they can be built the latest type of British fighting airboat.

The engine is similar to that in the machine which won the Schneider Cup race for Great Britain. The speed then attained has never been equalled.

There is much dismay in England at the news. The Jingoes are screaming that the machines should be kept in England, but stern economy and pacific feeling now evident throughout official England has denied these machines, except in the smallest numbers, to the British Air Force.

So the aeroplane manufacturers of England are peddling and selling their wares in great numbers to all countries abroad except the United States, France and Italy.

A famous flying-boat designer has just produced a flying boat designed by his firm for the Japanese Government.

It is faster and has a larger flying range than any areoplane of its class in this country.

It was sent to Japan with a staff of Englishmen to teach the Japanese designers how to make more. So far four more have been made there.

Wanted Flying Boat

"The representatives of the Japanese came to me and told me they wanted a military flying-boat to hold a certain number of men and to fly at a certain speed," the designer said.

"The contract has a clause that binds the makers to strict secrecy about any details of the 'plane,' but it is faster and has a large range than any R.A.F. plane of a similar type."

Recently another company, the Fairey Aircraft Company, makers of many of the fastest British fighting planes, fulfilled a contract of more than $1,000,000 from the Belgian Government for fast fighters. These planes were both single and two-seaters They have a cruising speed of more than 250 miles an hour.

C. D. Fairey said the planes were identical with those supplied to the British Government.

They could be made faster by using special fuel and taking away various safety devices. It is probable that this has been done.

SWINE CARS TO VISIT CITY

Special Demonstration Cars Will Be in City Next Saturday Morning.

TOURING PROVINCE.

In an effort to assist swine breeders throughout the province, the Ontario Department of Agriculture has sent out this week demonstration cars which will be in Peterborough on Saturday morning, January 21, and in the afternoon at Millbrook.

The itinerary of these cars began at Carleton Place on Monday of this week, visited Perth on Tuesday and Tweed this morning. They were transferred at Bonar Law this afternoon from the C.P.R. to the C.N.R., and with an afternoon program at Bonarlaw they proceed to Frankford on Thursday, Campbellford on Friday, and will be placed in the C.N.R. yards here Saturday morning for the local demonstration from 9 o'clock until noon.

The program is as follows:
9.00—Inspection of exhibits.
9.45—Carcass demonstration.
10.10—Bacon hog demonstration.
10.25—The Brood Sow.
10.35—Lecture on parasites.
10.55—Feed and management.
11.10—Inspection of Exhibits.

The same program will be followed at Millbrook from 1.30 p.m. until 5.00 p.m. Lectures will cover the subjects of markets, grading, parasites, feeding and breeding. A group of experts will be available at different times and places for the purpose of discussing with farmers present day problems in swine production. Among them are R. W. Wade, W. P. Watson from the Department; S. E. Todd of the Industrial and Development council of Canadian Meat Packers; L. W. Pearsall and H. J. Maybee of the Dominion Live Stock branch; W. R. Reek and R. G. Knox of the Ontario Department of Agriculture; Dr. Lionel Stevenson, Dr. V. E. Brown; H. J. Watt and R. H. Graham.

Some of these men will be present at every demonstration. The itinerary continues through January and February, concluding Saturday, March 4, at St. Thomas.

LIFFORD LINE.

Mr. Charles Rowland of Port Perry, made a business visit here this week, in the interest of the poultry industry.

Messrs. Harry Neals and A. E. Wilson were business visitors to Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiteside and family, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Robinson, Janetville, this week.

Mr. George Argue has sold his farm property to Mr. Wm. Porter of Ballyduff.

Two woodmen suffered painful accidents on Lifford Line recently. While Percy Preston and David McLean were falling a tree on the farm of Charles Staples, a falling limb struck the former forcefully on the arm, leaving him unable to continue his work, for at least a week's time.

Charles Medland was riding standing from the the wood on an empty sleigh, which slid on turning a corner, causing him to fall off, and break his wrist.

The Ballyduff Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church motored to the home of Mrs. Ward on Tuesday evening and enjoyed a pleasant social gathering with Mrs. George Chapman in charge. As this society has never undertaken the work of a bazaar they decided to commence plans for one to be held at the close of the year in order to augment necessary funds for carrying on the church work. Mrs. Gainer was appointed to purchase material for work to be commenced at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Farrow, Ballyduff. The genial hostess, assisted by Mrs. Willis Whiteside, served refreshments before the ladies dispersed.

Make Your Dollar Equal Three--

That is what will happen if you will seriously consider the plight of a number of our families, where there is little or no income to supply food, clothing, heat, etc., due to unemployment; because the Dominion and Provincial Governments will, when shown that this community has raised a fund for relief purposes, turn over twice this amount to further the work. Every person now employed full time, if able and willing, should strain a point to aid the City Council and Citizens' Committee bring about better conditions for those dependent upon relief.

Or Make For Comfort In Another Way - -

By donating to the Relief Store, George Street (formerly Eaton's Groceteria), produce, groceries, clothing, bedding, stoves and furniture. Many families are without these necessities and it is just possible you may have many of the above you could conveniently give and add comfort to others in so doing.

A charming new blouse that will place you in the "know" of fashion. Don't you think it adorable?

The high beruffled collar is so entirely in the spirit with the Victorian age. At the same time, it is easy and becoming to wear.

White crinkly crepe satin made the original blouse.

It would also be very effective in black crinkly crepe silk showing a decided contrast with the ruffle of white crepe.

It's the most simple thing to fashion. Just a few seams to join. And it will cost you next to nothing.

Style No. 3364 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 2¼ yards 35-inch or 39-inch.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A PROMINENT English writer gave friendly warning to those of his acquaintance that were book lovers, not to loan him any books which they did not expect to find embellished with marginal pictures of his own making, upon their return.

* * * * * * *

He happened also to be an artist with pen and pencil, so such a warning was in this case a delightful invitation to loan all the books one had, rather than refrain from doing so.

* * * * * * *

Unfortunately not all persons who borrow books and take such liberties, delightful in this case, announce their intentions and give an opportunity for approval or censure beforehand.

* * * * * * *

Many a borrower of books from private libraries, in order to give proper warning, should announce his careless treatment in such a manner as this:

* * * * * * *

"I will open your book without any effort at preserving the binding. In fact, I will toss it carelessly about, handle it with no paper cover, or tear the one which is offered with it. Moreover, I will keep this book for several months, perhaps a year, before reading and returning it. I would not think of keeping any other piece of borrowed personal property so long, or treating it so badly, but if it is just a book, I am sure you will not mind."

* * * * * * *

When loaning books, brown paper or tissue paper covers should replace the original jackets if they are to be retained to preserve the book as it stands on the open shelf.

* * * * * * *

The name of the owner should be written in the front and the date of loaning slipped in. The owner is justified in saying he does this just as a matter of record.

* * * * * * *

A book plate is a good idea, but if none is to be had the written name will serve.

* * * * * * *

It is an honor both to lend and to borrow a book, if the rules of courtesy are not neglected.

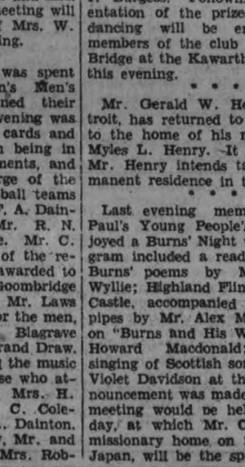
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

WHAT SHOULD HAVE HAPPENED

Yesterday we gave the hand shown below. Captain Woolfe was the only player who both bid and made 5-Diamonds, doubled. We cannot alter the opening lead of the Ace of spades, nor the second lead of the J of Spades, where dummy played low, and the declarer trumped the trick, thus establishing the Q of spades in dummy. The two questions are whether Z could have defeated the hand by playing another way, and if the captain could have played so as to prevent affording any opportunity for Z to defeat the contract.



Having trumped the second lead of spades, the declarer led a low club and dummy trumped. Then the 9 of diamonds was led, and Z wisely refused to put up his K, or the battle would have been over. When dummy held the four trick, the next lead should have been the K of hearts, to clear that suit. It would have made no difference whether the Ace went on at once or won a later lead. Game must have resulted. When Z won with his Ace of hearts he must have led either a heart, club or trump. A heart lead must enable the declarer to win with his J—lead and trump his second club with dummy's Q—lead a low trump through Z—pick up Z's two trumps, then win two heart tricks, and discard the declarer's last club on the good spade in dummy. Such strategy would surely have given Captain Woolfe five-odd.

If Z led back a trump, instead of a heart, still dummy could have ruffed a club—the declarer could have won the next trick with his J of hearts, and picked up Z's last trump. After that would have followed two leads of hearts, and the declarer's last club would have gone on dummy's Q of spades.

A lead of the Ace of clubs would have enabled dummy to trump, leaving a good club in the declaring hand, and would have made things easier for him than having Z lead back either a heart or a trump. No lead that Z could have made could have defeated the five-odd contract.

When dummy led the good Q of spades, instead of leading the K of hearts, at the fifth trick, Z could have defeated the contract, that he trumped instead of allowing the declarer to discard a losing club. The declarer would have to overtrump. If he pulled trumps, the declarer would have to lose a club and a heart trick. If the declarer ruffed his last club with dummy's last diamond, Z would win two tricks, consisting either of one heart and one trump, or one heart and one club. Unless the declarer leads hearts while dummy still has a trump he cannot fulfill his contract, and even then he cannot do so unless he can discard one club on dummy's Q of spades.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

German measles is a mild disease. In appearance, the eruption is a sort of combination of measles and scarlet fever. The early symptoms are sore throat, a little headache, and low temperature before the eruption.

Patients should be quarantined until after the disappearance of the rash, but this rule is not strictly enforced. The patients are so mildly ill and the disease is so little dangerous that it is not treated with very much seriousness, and probably properly so.

The New York Department of Health excludes the patient with German measles from school for seven days, and this is about the average of most health department rules.

Chicken-pox is also usually a mild disease which, however, may be quite alarming in the early stages because it may be mistaken for smallpox. Besides that, the early symptoms of headache and pain in the back are extremely severe, and make the patient and parents think that a far graver disease is present.

The "pocks" of chicken-pox are widely scattered on the body, and are more liable to be present on the chest and back and abdomen than they are on the hands, feet and head, which latter distribution is characteristic of smallpox. However, few patients with chicken-pox escape a few pocks on the face, and almost invariably these leave slight scars. In fact, chicken-pox ism ore liable to leave a depressed scar than smallpox, and so far as I know, there is no way to prevent this scarring.

So far as treatment is concerned, chicken-pox needs little consideration. The disease is self-limited and the treatment is of slight importance. The patient need be kept in bed only about 24 hours, and aside from a high cathartic, the only treatment required is usually local treatment of the pocks. These should be softened with vaseline or some similar substance, and by all odds the patient should be kept from scratching them when they are healing. It is very difficult to prevent this because itching is frequently marked and very distressing. Calomine or zinc oxide lotion have been recommended to stop this. Scratching these pocks almost invariably results in scarring.

The quarantine for chicken-pox is not very rigidly enforced, and quite properly so. Most school authorities allow children with chicken-pox to return to school 24 hours after the pocks have healed.

The disease is one of the most contagious in the world, but so mild that attempts to prevent epidemics are hardly worth the trouble that they require. In fact, all such attempts are usually entirely fruitless.

Nervous, Dizzy Spells

Toronto, Ont. — "After childbirth I was in a weakened, rundown state, my whole system seemed to be upset, my stomach troubled me, I was very nervous and did not rest well at all. I also had headaches and dizzy spells," said Mrs. S. Williams of 47 St. Nicholas St. "I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and felt better from the very first. I took about three bottles in all and it built me up wonderfully. It made me stronger, rid me of the stomach complaint, and I felt like a new person." Sold by druggists.

E. BRUCE FOWLER RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF HOSPITAL BOARD

Nicholls Hospital Board Holds Annual Meeting for Year 1932.

REPORTS SUBMITTED

The annual meeting of the Nicholls Hospital Trust was held on Monday in the Dominion Bank board room.

Present: E. Bruce Fowler, in the chair; and Messrs. Dr. G. R. Scott, Alderman Tuggey, Dr. J. M. McCulloch, Thomas Brown, V. Eastwood, W. Langford, Dr. H. M. Yelland, J. J. Turner, Alderman Cotton, C. F. Kitney, A. J. Throop, E. F. Mason, and H. J. McCannan.

E. Bruce Fowler, chairman, in his address said: "We are meeting today in review of the operations of the past year which is the forty-seventh year since the establishment of Nicholls Hospital. It is not possible at this moment to tabulate o total of those to whom the hospital has administered during these years, but they are numbered in the thousands, and I am sure it is a source of great satisfaction to the members of this board to review the past records of the Nicholls Hospital and its almost half a century of service to the sick and suffering of this community.

"Starting in a very modest way, the institution has grown to very substantial proportions and Nicholls Hospital to-day, among hospitals of its size, is very highly regarded throughout our own province and in fact, throughout the Dominion.

"In our busy modern life, too often we forget the benefactors of former days. While it may be an old story to some, it is not known to many and often overlooked by many more of our citizens, that the existence of Nicholls Hospital and much of its financial assistance was and is due to the munificence of the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, who provided funds to build, equip and endow this hospital. During the earlier days when hospital services were not so popular with the people, she and her executors met periodical deficits which normally would have had to be met by the ratepayers.

"Starting with the accommodation of about six beds, the hospital has grown to where it is now rated as a hundred bed hospital. During the past year there were treated in Nicholls Hospital 1,745 patients who stayed throughout the year. Of the 1,745 admitted, over 1,500 were from Peterborough city and adjoining municipalities. Our cost per day was $3.32 per patient, which is well below the average for the province.

"Our services have been well maintained and patients have been given the utmost care and attention and we have received many tributes from patients expressing their appreciation of the general excellence of the service, the kindness received from the staff and sympathetic atmosphere which our hospital and medical staff have endeavored to create throughout the whole institution.

"The past two or three years have been difficult for all hospitals, and the future will undoubtedly bring its problems. During times of stringency and depression, such as we are now experiencing, we receive many cases of sickness where the patient under ordinary conditions, would expect to pay the regular hospital charges, but due to lack of employment and other causes, they are not now able to do so. Unfortunately, sickness comes to those who are not able to pay, but who nevertheless require immediate care and hospital service. In these cases we endeavor to meet them in the most sympathetic manner and assist them as far as we possibly can through their difficulties.

"Recently provision has been made for our doctors to treat indigent patients as far as possible in the patient's home, and thus reduce the number of patients in the hospital for whom the city is responsible. It must not be overlooked that a decrease of patients in the hospital, even at the indigent rate, will seriously affect our overhead and carrying charges. If, during the coming year, there should be a falling off in the number of patients on this account and also on account of the general conditions, the maintenance deficit, if any, will of course be required to be made up by the city—but I am sure the board will direct their best efforts towards meeting any conditions that may arise in the best interests of all concerned, and with due regard for the necessity of the utmost economy.

"Yesterday I listened to a radio address given by the head of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France. He spoke of the work done by that institute for the benefit of suffering humanity—established by the great scientist Pasteur some years ago and since developed and broadened in its scope with 22 branches scattered over the eastern hemisphere :operated by a corps of scientists, none of whom receive over $3,000 per annum, who are giving their lives to their particular science, that the ills and diseases which attack humanity may be lessened or eliminated. And I wonder if we here, in our very small way, in comparison, should not have a wider view of the opportunities which our hospital provides, so that the benefits of our medical and curative science would be available to every citizen whether they are able to pay or not. We complain of the cost of hospital services to those who through misfortune are unable to pay—we unfortunately call them indigent patients, but they are human and their suffering is just as acute as is that of the more fortunate, and I feel that we should extend rather than curtail the hospital facilities to those unfortunate people. From an economic standpoint also it would be a good investment.

"I understand there is no member of the board whose term expires this year, so that in our operations for 1933, the whole board will be familiar and in close touch with the affairs of the hospital.

"I desire to extend my thanks to the members of the Board for the attention and care they have at all times displayed in disposing of such matters as have come before the board during the past year. I also desire to express our appreciation to Mrs. Leeson, our lady superintendent and to her efficient staff of supervisors and nurses and other employees for the faithful and efficient service which they have rendered. I would also express the appreciation of the board to the members of our medical staff for their unfailing loyalty and the efficient service which they have rendered to the hospital during the past year.

The secretary, Mr. John Crane, presented the financial report for the statutory year ending September 30, 1932, duly certified by the City Auditor, F. J. A. Hall. After discussion, the report was, on motion, adopted.

Rev. J. Gordon Jones Addresses Audience in Murray Street Church.

DAUNTLESS WILL.

"Why not grow up?" This was the question placed before a large audience in Murray Street Baptist Church by Rev. J. Gordon Jones, pastor of Parkdale Baptist Church in Toronto, last evening. "What we need to-day are men and women able to face the responsibilities of life in the fullness of maturity," he declared. "In the possibility of growth lies our only hope for the morrow."

Mr. Jones was brought to the city under the auspices of the Women's Mission Circle of Murray Street Baptist Church. He was introduced by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, the pastor of the church, as an able thinker on present-day problems and a stalwart guide.

As the difference between the tiny acorn and the mighty oak lies in growth, so also the difference between the babe and the statesman lies in growth, Mr. Jones declared. It is growth which makes possible the fulfilment of the purpose in existence. Without growth the existence of both the acorn and the babe would be practically meaningless. In the human being the growth should be three-fold—physically, mentally and spiritually—Mr. Jones said.

"Four things characterize the maturing person. First, is real thinking about the serious business of life. Second, is the quantity known as ambition. Third, is the possession of a will, and the fourth is the sense of oneness with our Saviour.

Looking for Leaders.

"The people of the world are constantly looking for editors, scholars, statesmen and leaders in all divisions of life who will think clearly on the business of life and show the path through the wilderness of life. There are many who think clearly on the business of earning a living, but few who devote serious thought to the business of life. There are many who think clearly on material investments in finance which will show a profit, but few who think on the investment in life which will show a profit."

Referring to ambition as one of the characteristics of the maturing person, Mr. Jones said: "I have yet to meet a person without ambition. A man without ambition would be as a ship without a helm. It is ambition which enables you to choose your course in life, and it is ambition which motivates you to follow the course you have chosen."

Each man and woman must have ambition to grow to the fullness of maturity, Mr. Jones said. One ambition should be to be as much like Christ as possible so that on the street a child will stop and say, "He is like Christ." A man should have the ambition to shape his daily work so that this world will be a better place when he leaves it than when he entered it, Mr. Jones declared.

Dauntless Will.

To grow to the fullness of maturity a man must have a dauntless will so that instead of a mere creature of circumstance he may be a creator of circumstance, Mr. Jones continued. Heredity and environment are generally considered the great factors which lie behind a man's destiny. But heredity and environment are not the only factors; by the power of his own will a man may shape his destiny.

The dauntless will of John Bunyon saved him from becoming a creature of circumstance when he languished in prison. He climbed from the mire of circumstance to give the world "Pilgrims' Progress," Mr. Jones delared. John Milton's dauntless will enabled him to become a creator of circumstance. He produced his most brilliant work after he had become totally blind, Mr. Jones said.

During the evening the audience was entertained by well received offerings of a quintet of the Male Voice Choir and selections by the church organist.

Finds Relief Food Clean And Adequate

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—Mrs. J. P. Hynes, president of the Local Council of Women, is the authority to-day for the declaration that food supplied to citizens on relief is entirely adequate and of good quality.

Following complaints about the food, Mrs. Hynes had her family put on the relief list.

Yesterday, at the conclusion of a week's trial, she declared the supplies were generous. The much criticized meat was both palatable and tender, the cereals which had been declared dirty were absolutely clean, and generally speaking, there was no reason for criticism.

ART, LITERATURE SOCIETY ABOUT TO BE ORGANIZED

TORONTO, January 18 (C.P.) — Organization of the Canadian Society for Literature and the Arts will be effected late to-day in Toronto at a meeting of cultural leaders. Throughout Ontario, and ultimately throughout Canada at large, the society plans to exercise an educational influence, providing important speakers on literature, art, architecture, and other cultural subjects.

Rising out of an experimental visit to Kitchener, Ont., a few months ago, the movement takes definite form at to-day's meeting, and plans to continue on a systematic basis, extending its membership in important Ontario cities and thence eastward and westward across Canada. First centre outside Toronto to be organized will be at London, Ont., where a meeting is planned for early in February.

WASTING TIME.

As an example of wasted time and energy, the visit to Ottawa yesterday of representatives of the "National Unemployed Councils," who laid a series of demands before Premier Bennett, is not likely to be soon surpassed.

The requests made by this organization were such that no government ocuid entertain for a moment.

Particularly is this true of the proposal made by the delegation for the inauguration of a scheme of non-contributory unemployment insurance under which all workless would be paid infull in wages, and toward the cost of which no worker would contribute. The deputation, in addition, demanded that the control of this scheme should be handed over to the workers themselves.

It may well be that Canada will eventually adopt a form of unemployment insurance, but if The Examiner reads public opinion correctly, the plan will most certainly be on a contributory basis with workers, employers and the state all sharing in the expense.

No other system would be favored by the majority of Canadians, and organizations which seek to foist a non-contributory plan on the Government of the country might well save themselves the trouble of advocating something that has not public opinion behind it.

Deputations like that of yesterday do not the slightest good, unless it can be found in the opportunity that is afforded of allowing disgruntled individuals to let off a little steam.

UNCLE SAM'S EXPERIENCE.

Those who believe that the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is destined to become a major political force in Canada might do well to study what happened to the Socialist party in the United States in the recent presidential election.

The conditions over the border during the campaign were such as to have justified a hope on the part of Socialist leaders that their policies would command a large share of the protest vote.

What actually happened that the Socialist candidate for President polled fewer than 900,000 votes —in fact, he got less support than any Socialist leader in the past 32 years.

There may be a moral in that result for Canadians.

The Saturday Evening Post, referring to the American results, says that it is clear that "aside from a few idealistic dreamers and a much larger but still relatively small group of incurable aliens in some of the large cities, the American people are in no sense Socialist-minded. People here," says this American weekly, "are inherently conservative and they are individually possessive."

Because the same thing can be said about the people of Canada, it is difficult to believe that Socialistic doctrine, masked as the C.C.F. or in any other form, can succeed in making any real progress in this country, because deep down in their hearts Canadians have a firm belief that conditions will eventually be righted and that there is nothing to be gained by looking to Socialism or Bolshevism for a way out of the present difficulty.

DANGEROUS PRACTICES.

So far as railway crossings are concerned, it would seem that Peterborough drivers are making a better than normal showing, inasmuch as only one local offence is listed in the report of the Board of Railway Commissioners dealing with dangerous practices at protected crossings.

The complaint from Peterborough for the period under review declares that the offending driver approached the C.N.R. crossing at Charlotte street with his car not under control, having regard to the condition of the roads.

That solitary infraction of the rules of common sense in regard to correct behaviour at railway crossings shows Peterborough in a very favorable light, inasmuch as the board's report indicates that more people are taking chances and disregarding safety.

The commissioners state that in many cases accidents at highway crossings are due to the negligence of those driving automobiles and of pedestrians.

The Canadian National Railway lines, for example, from August 1 to November 30 last year, reported ninety-three cases where there was danger at protected crossings due to the negligence of those using the crossings.

The Canadian Pacific's western lines, from July 1 to September 30, and its eastern lines, from August 1 to October 31, showed a total of forty-nine such cases.

That is, on the two railways, it has been found that notwithstanding safety devices and cautionary signals 142 people in the course of a few months put themselves in peril by their own carelessness.

It is a condition that does not reflect much credit upon the mentality of a percentage of Canadian drivers.

A MOST HAPPY POSITION.

The inherently sound position of that efficiently managed and long established financial institution, the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, was never more clearly demonstrated than in the 48th annual report, which was published yesterday.

Not many financial concerns in this country or elsewhere have had the good fortune to be able to present such a splendid report after a year of generally upset financial conditions, or are in such a desirable position from the viewpoint of liquid assets as is this well-known old company.

The annual report shows that the Toronto Savings and Loan Company on the operations for the year had a net profit, after deducting charges of management, interest on deposits, etc., of $168,234.05, and that it not only paid quarterly dividends amounting to 14 per cent. but an additional bonus of 2 per cent., and has a balance of $89,352.72 for the year to carry forward.

So far as its liabilities to the public are concerned, the company is in a singularly fortunate position, inasmuch as its assets exceed its public liability by a sum in excess of $2,344,000.

Not only is that true but there is the still more happy situation that there is available a very large amount of liquid assets equal to any demand that could possibly be made.

With its record of dividends paid to the extent of 16 per cent. during the year, a substantial balance to carry forward, and with its liabilities to the public fully and adequately protected, the Toronto Savings and Loan Company launches out into its 49th year of operations in a most enviable condition.

Its remarkable showing in the face of universal economic circumstances is a tribute to the shrewdness and business ability of those at the head of its affairs, and to the soundness and care with which its operations have invariably been directed.

YOUTHFUL TRAGEDY.

Speaking at a service club meeting in Ridgetown the other night, Mr. Harry Thomas, of this city, who for many years has been an earnest worker in the Boy Scouts and other organizations helpful to youth, told of an incident which came under his attention at a certain railway station.

Just as the train pulled in a number of young boys trooped out of the waiting-room, and prepared to get aboard. They were all good looking boys—just the sort of boy one might meet walking down any street—well dressed, clean, healthy and apparently normal specimans of young manhood. But Mr. Thomas noticed they were all handcuffed together, and he learned that this group of youngsters were on their way to the penitentiary.

The reaction on Mr. Thomas was the same sort of reaction which should be experienced by any citizen viewing such a sight. Whose fault is it that those boys went wrong? Could they have been saved from such an unfortunate fate if someone had taken the trouble to become interested in them, and in their future as citizens? Was anyone in the community directly to blame for the condition of these boys through neglect to take an interest in them?

These and similar questions presented themselves to Mr. Thomas' mind, and brought home to him a greater realization than ever of the importance of the social groups working in this and other communities to keep boys in the straight and narrow path.

Chatham has several organizations of this character, but their number could be multiplied and their work greatly extended if more leaders were available. It may not seem like important work, but when you see bright, promising looking boys handcuffed on their way to the penitentiary it makes one ask himself if he is doing all he can do insure against young boys going wrong.—Chatham News.

OUR SACRIFICES FOR THE WEST.

By this time, our brethren of the prairies should be convinced of the unalterable if not extravagant love which we of the effete east feel toward them. Not only have we invested millions, practically untold, for we are far from the final calculation, in building superfluous railway lines across them, but we are now up against the deficit of millions annually from the operation of Manitoba's proud seaport of Churchill on Hudson Bay.

The Prairie Provinces, like a lover tired of his conquest, but unlike him as to the satiety to which indulgence has led him, have cooled remarkably to the Hudson Bay route, now that they have got it, and hence it is not surprising to hear it suggested that it should be scrapped, along with other superfluous and deficit-bearing mileages.

For years Eastern Canada was skeptical of the feasibility of the Hudson Bay grain route, but the prairies were impassioned for it, and by degrees the east abated its objections, purely to satisfy our cousins west of Lake Superior. Now we have got the Hudson Bay Railway and the splendid costly port, and both are virtually idle, such business as could be induced to use the route being bribed to do so by free handling and free storage in our monster elevator at Churchill. Despite these bonuses, only 2,750,000 bushels of grain went through Churchill in 1932. The value of the bonuses is estimated at $280,000, not counting the annual cost of the elevator of over $500,000 in interest and depreciation; this also not taking into account the losses on the railway. The Financial Post observed that "it is bad enough for the taxpayers of Canada to have to pay interest on the $50,000,000 thrown into this disgraceful sinkhole, but it is throwing lye into the wound to pay people to use the route."

This is strong language, but with our feelings wrought to a high pitch by the wild extravagance committed on the Canadian National Railways, we of the east are perhaps extra susceptible in the presence of more such showings. It may be that the showing of Churchill and the Hudson Bay route will gradually improve, as the St. Lawrence route to Montreal did after a checkered career at the outset, but it seems hopeless that the Churchill proposition and all the rest will ever come near paying its way, being available for a beggarly two months in a year.

We repeat that the east should by now have convinced the west of its undying regard, and that being the case, we can surely expect that the west will dissemble its language henceforth which in time past made the susceptible east smart and sing from its caustic effects.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Give to the Relief Fund—and give quickly. Your donation will help to lift the burden.

If all the deputations waiting upon the Federal Government travelled by rail our railway problem would be close to being solved.

The Dominion-provincial conference should at least prove a clearing house for some constructive ideas.

Every dollar contributed to the Peterborough Relief Fund means three dollars in relief. Your money goes further in this than in any other investment.

There is probably not much "hunger" so far as the proposed "hunger-marchers" demonstration is concerned. The Communistic aspect of these affairs cannot be masked by slogans.

This is the signature of a personality whose keynote is set by the word "big" in all its forms and by all its synonyms. This man thinks in large terms always; he starts from thousands—anything less doesn't exist for him. He simply cannot think in small terms at all. He is an outdoors man and a man of action—the frontiersman pioneer type. He has a broad streak of good-will, of sentiment, of romance and of religious feeling running through his make-up that serve to bind people firmly to him. He on his part is once the friend always the friend. He is readily sympathetic, almost too open-handed —in fine, "big hearted." on the personal side he can be taken advantage of, and he forgives those who do take advantage; but he is not easily bested in a straight business deal. He doesn't particularly seek the life of strife; but in whatever he does he exhibits fighting ability.

GEORGE WOULD IS RE-ELECTED

Heads Norwood District Stock Shippers' Association for Another Year.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

NORWOOD, Jan. 17. — George Would was re-elected president of the local district Stock Shippers' Association at their annual meeting here on Saturday.

Other officers for the year are M. Clydesdale, secretary, and Edgar Clark, auditor; John McColl and John Drain were re-appointed directors, and the president and secretary were instructed to attend to the insurance of the building and scales.

Robert Girven was appointed shipper for cattle and hogs at the following schedule of fees: veal calves, 30c; sheep and lambs 25c; cattle over one year old, 90c; hogs, 20c.

The membership fee was fixed at $1.25 to be collected by the bank from the first shipment of stock.

David Stark moved, seconded by J. E. Brown, that "whereas the prices of stock have decreased very considerably during the last few years, while freight rates and expenses at the Union Stock Yards remain the same as in former years, this meeting of stock shippers petition the Department of Agriculture to investigate the circumstances and endeavor to rectify what we consider to be an injustice."

E. N. McDonald, county director, addressed the meeting for a few minutes explaining the use to which the membership fee was put, and stressing the need of some organization to protect the farmers' interests. He told the gathering that Mr. Morrison was secretary again this year, and was not receiving any salary.

It was some years ago that the county association had withdrawn from the political field. He thought this was a wise move and while he was president they would adhere to this principle.

The members were free to take whatever political action they thought was in the best interest of Canada.

"Our efforts to-day are along co-operative lines in buying and selling —more particularly the live stock shipping. At our club meetings questions of the day are discussed impartially and in this way the meetings are of an educational value."

In conclusion Mr. McDonald made a strong plea for active membership and unity in demands for agriculture.

New French Budget Covers 2,081,520,000

PARIS, January 17 (C.P.). — A budget of 52,036,000,000 francs ($2,081,520,000) was introduced by Finance Minister Cheron in the Chamber of Deputies to-day, opening a vital period for the Government, whose position is precarious because of hostility toward new taxes and sharp economies it proposes.

With a nestimated deficit of 10,541,000,000 francs ($421,640,000) the Government demands 5,300,000,000 francs in economies, including emporary salary cuts in the civil service list, and 5,453,000,000 francs in new taxes.

There was no mention of war debts in the official summary of the Finance Bill.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

STARING AT PEOPLE.

DON'T YOU KNOW, said a most polite person to me, that you shouldn't state at people?

Yes, I know. My mother often told me that. But how can I see people if I don't stare at them?

Marshall Maslin

But it's rude to stare, said he.

That's what I was told. But I don't think it's rude; I think it's a compliment. There are stares, and there are stares. It's rude to be staring at a person who is hurt in trouble, sick, unfortunate; that kind of staring is a cruel stare and unworthy of a human being, thus adding to the affliction of some poor mortal. . . . But there's the stare of wonder, the stare of appreciation, the stare of admiration, the complimentary stare. What's wrong with such a stare?

Why nothing, I'm insisting. If a man has a gallant face, a brave face, why look at him, stare, feast your eyes on his face. He may not pass your way again, he's worth looking at. He deserves that silent applause. . . . And if a woman is beautiful. If she was handsomely formed, excellently dressed; if she has a smile, worth going miles to see, if there's happiness in her eyes, and a sweetness round her mouth —then stare! And why not?

A baby stares at you. Looks you through and through and almost persuades you it looks deep into your heart. . . . A child that has gone but a little way in life stares naturally at you. . . . A deer, startled at a turn in the road, stares beautifully and then leaps gracefully away . . . You, too, may stare if there's within a decent, adventurous, and joyful interest in human beings. The poet stares and the scientist stares and you should stare as well, when you encounter a being that's worth the staring at.

"What is this life," sang the poet Davies, "if, full of care, we have no time to stand and stare?"

"No time to turn at Beauty's glance,
And watch her fee , how they can dance.
No time to wait till her mouth can
Enrich the smile her eyes began.
A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare."

* * *

A poor life, indeed. The poet, as usual, is right.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 19

As he passed through the lobby of the hotel Inspector Ben MacQuarrie hailed him. Kane turned to greet his old friend and declined an invitation to dine. Then, for the first time, he realized how swiftly the evening had passed.

"John Lee's keeping his hands off in this case," he inspector told him. "That's my suggestion."

Kane showed his surprise.

"He was a bit displeased because you let those three go last night," MacQuarrie continued. "He wanted to lock 'em up and sweat 'em out."

The other grimaced. "That would never have done any good," he said. "They'd have shut up tight. As it was I obtained some good leads."

Jere Kane refused to explain when the inspector pressed him. He said, curtly, "I've got to get out to Bailey's. I've let something slip—or rather, I put too much faith in old Chivington." He turned away with a "I'll see you later."

He fairly leaped into a waiting taxicab and directed the driver to the address in Hollywood, then let his thoughts go back over the events of the last twenty-four hours. The cab driver, following inst uctions, raced at break-neck speed through the evening traffic.

"Why," Kane asked himself, "did Chivington lie to me? Who is he shielding?"

He recalled the old servant's denial that his master had any enemies. Kane had treated him gently, had shown him every consideration due his age and his reverence to Bailey, and for his pains he had been thrown down.

That line in Bailey's diary stood out as though written in indelible ink:

"Chivington knows everything."

Then, Chivington knows the identity of the mysterious woman known as "Buddy." Jere Kane elt that at last he was near the end of the trail. He had no doubt but that "Buddy" had killed Bailey. In a moment of insane jealousy she might even have shot Nanette LeRoi.

But who was "Buddy"? He smiled t himself; he would soon know.

The taxicab whirled from Highland avenue into the street in which Bailey lived and began laboring up the steep hill. Grimly, Kane thought of his narrow escape at that corner. He did not for a moment, now, have any other thought than that someone had deliberately attempted to kill him.

There was only one reason for such an attempt: the murderer of Richard Bailey feared that he had found the trail and wanted to get him out of the way!

Presently, the cab pulled up to turn into the driveway leading back to the entrance of the murder house. Kane stopped him:

"I'll walk in," he said.

He alighted and paid the driver, then turned up the driveway. The house was ablaze with light. The front door was standing open.

Unceremoniously, he walked in. There was no one in the drawing room. He walked into the music room; that, too, was unoccupied. In both rooms the lights were burning, even to the small bracket lamps beside the doors and over the piano.

Back in the drawing room he espied the door leading in to Bailey's den standing ajar and the lights in that room burning. But there was no one there. Through the other rooms he went, the breakfast room, the dining room, the kitchen, the pant.y—but there was no sign of life.

Where was O'Hara? And Chivington? Perhaps the se vant had retired —the strain of his secret and what had occurred must have been a heavy burden for him to bear—in his room upstairs. Taking the stairs two at a time, Kane was soon standing in the door of the old man's room.

Chivington was not there.

There were other rooms on this floor. Three doors, besides that to the servant's quarters, opened off the dark corridor. One by one, he opened them and peered in. These were bedrooms, neatly arranged, luxuriously furnished. But, even though the lights in each were burning, they were empty of life.

Bounding back downstairs, he went over the lower floor again. This time he found a door which he had overlooked. Jerking it open, he found a dark passage. Groping about, he discovered a switch and snapped it. Instantly the passage was bathed in light and was revealed as a stairway leading into a basement.

The faint strains of music came to him. It stopped, and a voice said, "You are listening to a program of dance music played for you by the Embassy orchestra. We have an unusually large Sunday night crowd here tonight and we are more than pleased to have with us several visiting police officials w o are in our Garden of Eden for their annual convention. And," the voice laughed, "they seemed to have found several Eves to entertain them. You know, these arms of the law might have come out here for business, but they certainly look like they're in a swing now. They might hold their sessions on Sunday, but Sunday night is their night out."

As the music started again he saw another switch beside the one he had snapped. He touched it and the basement glowed with shaded lights. Descending, he found himself in an elegantly appointed recreation room. In a far corner he espied O'Hara, sound asleep.

He was across the large room at O'Hara's side in a flash. Gruffly, he shook him. The detective shook himself, sat up and gazed about in bewilderment. Then he looked up and saw Kane.

"Where's Chivington," the amateur detective demanded.

"Upstairs asleep," the other man muttered sleepily. "He told me to come down here and get some rest."

"No he isn't," Kane snapped. "He isn't in the house at all."

O'Hara scrambled to his feet. "You mean he ain't upstairs asleep?" he asked, more in protest against being thus aroused than in dismay over the servant's disappearance.

"No," sharply. "There's no one in the house at all—except you. When I arrived I found the front door standing open and every light in the place ablaze."

"That's funny," dully, "he said he was going to get some rest——"

"Oh, snap out of it," disgustedly. "I want Chivington and I want him at once."

O'Hara finally managed to recover his faculties. He was galvanized into action. "I remember now," he exclaimed. "He got a telephone call before he went upstairs. I don't know who it was——"

"No," Kane asserted harshly, "I didn't expect you to."

"—— but when he hung up he said something about it being a woman he detested. I tried to get him to tell me who it was but he wouldn't do it.

"It was then that he said he was going up for some rest and that if I wanted to I could come down here."

"Did he say anything el e?" eagerly.

"Yes. He did say something about taking Bailey's car and going down on the boulevard later to get something for supper. He said he'd go after he rested a bit."

"Did he go?"

"I reckon he did," the detective replied sheepishly, "if he ain't here."

Kane returned to the floor above, the officer following at his heels like a pet dog.

"See if the car is gone," Kane ordered.

When the detective had gone he went into the den. A quick survey showed him that nothing had been disturbed. Presently, the officer returned, his eyes bulging with excitement.

"The garage door's locked!" he almost shouted. "There's a car in there and the motor's running."

"Come on," Kane cried and started for the rear of the house.

At the garage door he stopped short. A padlock held the doors firmly closed. He could hear the soft purr of an automobile engine.

"Maybe the old man's trying to kill himself," O'Hara muttered.

"Get that lock off there," Kane directed.

The officer looked about for a rock but in the darkness could find none.

"Use your gun," the other snapped.

"O'Hara drew his revolver and, using the butt end as a hammer, pounded away at the heavy lock until it fell off. After Kane had thrown open the doors he replaced his gun, pulled out a small pocket flash and went in. A moment later he was back again, coughing deeply.

"There's enough gas in there to kill an army," he sputtered.

Kane took the light, covered his nose with his handkerchief and went in. He flashed the light into the car. Two persons were in the front seat. One was Chivington. He was slumped down, his chin hanging on his chest.

Lying against the wheel was a girl he had never seen before. She was a young woman, extremely blonde, passingly comely, with soft even features and a delicate body. Even now, with death hovering over her, there was a hint of impetuous frivolity in her very posture.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

"JOE BEEF" OF MONTREAL.

On this date in 1889, Montreal was stirred by the funeral of "Joe Beef," one of the most remarkable figures in its history. His real name was Charles McKiernan; he was an Irishman; he became a British soldier; he came to Canada with the Royal Artillery in 1864; and eventually bought his discharge. Like many another old soldier he became a saloon keeper. In time his place became known as "Joe Beef's canteen," the nickname being given because there was always a big pot of beef soup on the stove for the use of the "boys," which was never allowed to cool day or night and a dip into which was free to anyone who came along, whether he had money or no. These were the days before the Salvation Army and Joe Beef's was the refuge for the "down and outs." Joe never turned a man away; he kept many through long winters; most of them paid up later; if any failed, the loss was set down as charity.

In course of time Joe gathered quite a menagerie and his place became one of the sights of the city for tourists, who, regaled on Canadian whiskey enjoyed many a wrassle between his pet bears, and contributed to the poor box, which was used in spring to buy new outfits for the winter derelicts. When the Salvation Army came along Joe invited them down to his place to hold services and always gave freely when the tambourine was passed round. Joe was not a "gentleman" in the social sense; but he was a gentle man in its true meaning; he never knowingly harbored a criminal; he never turned away a hungry man or woman.

Both he and his wife had "wakes" and great funerals. Mrs. McKiernan died first. Her "wake" lasted a full 24 hours. Then came the funeral, with a military band, which, as at a soldier's funeral, played dirges on the way to the cemetery and lively marches on the way back and a couple of hymns as the parade halted at the General Hospital to allow Joe to hand the many wreaths over to the patients. Joe's own funeral was not so colorful, but it was an event. "Prominent citizens" and "bums" marched behind the hearse paying tribute to the man who loved his fellow men and proved it day and night. Joe died a Protestant, having joined up with the Salvation Army, but the night before his funeral he was given a "wake" just as if he had died in his native Sligo. It was some "wake"; I know; I was there! The canteen soon disappeared; the animals were sold or killed; and soon there was no trace of Joe Beef but memory. Some day I hope to see a tablet on the Harbor Commissioner's building at Montreal recalling the fact that on its site there was once Joe Beef's canteen, which never turned a soul away, which fed the starving and which clothed the naked. Joe certainly deserves that much.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—(CP)—After churning about undecidedly through most of the day, stocks on the Standard Mining Market steadied and moved to a strong close today. Wright Hargraves and Ashley featured the bolds with substantial advances, all of which were not held. Good buying appeared also in some of the cheaper golds and the coppers were slightly stronger.

A minor sell-off in Eldorado carried the quotation down to 1.40 but before the close demand picked up and the price climbed to 1.45 to show a net loss of 1.

In the gold group Teck Hughes which traded ex-dividend yesterday was under demand and closed unchanged at 4.15. Wright Hargreaves, finished at 4.06, was up 7 while Lake Shore, Dome and Hollinger were steady and McIntyre a few cents stronger at 22.90.

A little buying in Noranda put the price up to 20.20, Nickel was quiet and the other copper shares were firm.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (C.P.)—The Toronto Stock Exchange declined to follow the fluctuations of Wall Street market to-day, and held to a fairly firm course, chalking up the odd gain in quiet trading. All the interlisted stocks closed higher, while the oils as a group were off color, chief weakness appearing in Supertest which was off ½ at 13. There was no explanation of the selling.

In the utilities Bell Telephone reported an advance to 95 and in the steels National Steel Car was strong and Steel of Canada Preferred picked up a point to 27.

A little activity developed in the beverage shares with prices holding fairly steady. Walkers Common closed unchanged at 4⅞ and Canada Malting slipped a small fraction to 13¾. In the interlisted group Consolidated Smelters fell back to 58¼. C.P.R. and Nickel were up ⅛, and Brazilian ¼.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (A.P.)—After holding steady most of the day, stocks veered off in the late trading to-day and numerous losses of fractions to a few declines of more than 2 points were recorded. Union Pacific was down more than 2 and Woolworth yielded nearly 3. Losses of more than a point occurred in Consolidated Gas, Case, American Telephone, American Tobacco B, Air Reduction and Santa Fe. Fractions to a point were surrendered by U. S. Steel, New York Central, United Aircraft, Columbian Carbon, General Motors and Southern Pacific. Chesapeake and Ohio and American Can were steady. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 18. — (AP) — Wheat showed an early downward trend today, influenced by light moisture in dry sections of domestic winter crop territory southwest. Liverpool reports of expected large shipments from Argentina were also a bearish factor Opening unchanged to 3-8 off, wheat later declined all around.

Corn starte dat a shade lower to 1-8 higher and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Judge Hall found another $100 payment to Demers in July. "I suppose you say that is the same $100?" he asked.

"I swear it," witness replied.

"I know you do," retorted Mr. Williams. "You are either lying now or you have falsified your records, and I suggest your records are correct."

Witness yesterday had sworn he gave no cash to any person but two teamsters, Martin and Ginard. To-day he amended his previous evidence by adding that when orders specified drugs or milk he gave cash. Pressed by Mr. Williams, he admitted he had given cash to others and supplied several names.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 18 (C.P.).—Wheat prices declined about ¼ cent in early trading to-day but lack of offerings brought values back near the end of the first hour. Early reports indicate that some export business was worked overnight.

Prices at mid-session were an even ¼c higher in all three wheat futures.

Support from the start was very thin, but was sufficient to boost prices from the low points and came mostly from export interests, commission houses with southern connection. Trading from the start was again dull, with operations pretty much a repetition of the past two days.

Liverpool wheat in the closing stages was ½d lower per 100 pounds while Buenos Aires at noon was ¼c to ⅝c lower per bushel.

DONIHEE'S BODY RECOVERED.

MORRISBURG Ont.— Discovery to-day of a partly submerged automobile in the canal here led to the discovery of the body of George Donihee 50 of Kingston, Ont., in the car.

Donihee was drowned when the car he was driving crashed through a small fence, and dropped about three feet into the canal.

their idle hours in the gymnasium, much to their own profit and to the benefit of the community.

"The general activities of the association have increased to a gratifying extent owing to the much more adequate facilities," he commented. During the year many staffs of local factories have been guests of the association and this policy is being continued this year.

The membership drive in the fall had brought the membership of the local Association to the highest point in its history. The membership in all departments is now 947, with the boys' department having a membership of 286. "A large number of our unemployed young men are being carried as they are unable to pay and would find it necessary to drop out, otherwise," stated Mr. Roper. "No young man or boy has been refused membership in the Association because of lack of funds."

Although the dormitories had been fairly well filled during the year, this department has felt the economic situation. Free accommodation has been given a large number of unfortunate young men, since during the period when the Red Cross Hostel is not operated the Association is the only available place where young men can secure a bed outside of the police station. Their only other recourse is the "jungle."

He reported that the bowling alleys under the direction of Allan Brown, have been the centre of intense activity.

Capacity Attendances.

The Sunday evening song service, which was instituted a year ago, has increased from an attendance of 40 to 245 and the capacity of the auditorium has been taxed each Sunday evening. The total attendance for the year was over 5,000 not including the two meetings at the Collegiate.

The financial situation of the association reflects the general economic situation, he reported. A considerable amount in membership is still outstanding, but many members are paying their fees in small instalments. "The budget for the coming year is being carefully considered by the Board of Directors and every possible economy will be effected to meet the present conditions," he stated.

Mr. Roper expressed his appreciation of the loyal support and cooperation he had received from the staff and directors of the Association.

J. H. Vernor expressed his gratification of the diversity and extent of the activities carried on by the Association, and G. A. Macdonald paid tribute to the splendid work of the staff.

In the report of the Physical Department, the splendid attendance at the classes in the gymnasium was emphasized, there being 279 class sessions with a total attendance of 5,734, not including those exercising on the floor when no classes were in progress. The handball court and wrestling have been in constant use daily. D. A. Loomis, physical director, was again director of Kawartha Boys' Camp, and reported that it had an altogether splendid season with attendance being greater than the previous year.

Reports were also made on the activities of the Leaders' Corps and the wrestling class.

The report of the Boys' Department showed that during the past two years its membership had increased from 192 to 286. Besides work in the gymnasium, hikes were held, and the games lobby was open for the schools boys until 6 o'clock in the evening. The Hi-Y Club of intermediate boys has also been active. Many have been instructed in swimming at the largely attended classes held under the supervision of J. C. McClenaghan, the Boys' Secretary. Handicraft clubs have been formed to interest the boys in all branches of handicraft activities and the annual Hobby Show was a complete success.

The Y's Men's Club also reported on its activities. The Ladies' Auxiliary of 27 members reported that during 1932 it had paid $250 toward the building fund. It was regretted that the ladies recorded the death of one of their members, Mrs. W. Davidson, who for many years was honarary president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Poultrymen Protest Thanksgiving Date

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—Declaring the changing in the date of Thanksgiving Day from November to October puts a severe handicap on the Canadian poultry trade, delegates to the Canadian Produce Association convention here to-day voted unanimously to petition the Government asking the dates be changed again.

Farmers found it impossible, the delegates said, to get their turkeys into fit condition by October, and when G. E. Douglas, London, Ont., moved the resolution, it was quickly adopted after brief discussion.

SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED.

TORONTO. — John Burlie and John O'Brien, held in custody for six weeks, were to-day released and the charges of armed robbery against them withdrawn.

The men were arrested in connection with a bank robbery at Flesherton. "The police are offering no evidence in this case and I ask the charge of armed robbery be withdrawn," said the Crown Attorney to-day.

TREAT WAS ON HIM.

KITCHENER, Ont.—Harry Flowers tried to be a good fellow. To-day, he regretted it. Flowers walked into the police station and offered Harvey Grasser, deputy chief, a bottle of beer. The officer promptly placed him under arrest. To-day he was fined $50 and costs, or in default of the fine, jail for one month.

PAYS HEAVY FINE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont.—Oscar Strawn, Black Creek, was today fined $100 and cost for having illegal liquor in his possession. Provincial police last night discovered 72 bottles of rare liqueurs under the hayloft in straw's barn. "All the stuff was going over the river" he declared.

TRIO HELD FOR KNIFING

WINNIPEG. — Alleged to have attempted to murder Laurie Peppin, well-known local professional boxer, during a daring gun attack and knifing affray which took place in his suite, three gangster suspects, all recent arrivals in the city, are being held without bail by police pending investigation.

POLICE HUNT STORE ROBBERS

CALEDONIA, Ont., Jan. 18 (CP) Police are searching for two men who broke into Dunstall's grocery store at York Village and escaped with $15 worth of cigarettes, some chocolate bars and $3 in silver. Lorry Dunstall and his brother heard the intruders but thought their father was in the store.

PARTY ROBBER ARRESTED

HAMILTON. — Joe Oberman, charged with armed robbery and receiving stolen property in connection with the holdup of a group of card players, was remanded one week and bail fixed at $5,000 when he appeared in court to-day.

FIRE BUG REMANDED.

GUELPH, Ont.—Electing trial by a higher court Caspar Nocitra, local fruit dealer, was remanded until Friday on a charge of attempted arson when he appeared in police court to-day. Bail was refused. Police found a quantity of gasoline, explosives and a length of fuse in Nocitra's premises Sunday night.

PRISONERS—90 CENTS PER DAY.

TORONTO.—In the past 10 years the per diem maintenance cost per inmate of the penal institutions of Ontario has been decreased from 1.74.48 to 90 cents, a total departmental saving of $400,000 in expenditure over that period, it has been revealed by Hon. George H. Challies, Provincial Secretary.

IT PAYS TO BE DEAF

HAMILTON—Because he is deaf, Christopher Connolly, tobacconist, has his cash today. A man entered his store, mumbled something, and finally produced a small black gun. He had so much trouble trying to make Mr. Connolly understand him, however, he finally departed without getting anything.

COTTESLOE.

The regular meeting of Cottesloe Young People's Society was held on Monday evening. It was decided that the meeting to be held on January 30 would take the form of a mock trial. Robert Elliott outlined in a very interesting manner his visit to the Royal Winter Fair and the week-end spent in Guelph. This talk was instructive to all, but especially to the boys interested in judging competitions. The Bible reading was read by Beryl Clysdale. The topic was given by E. N. McDonald on the very live subject, "Have Citizens Any Responsibility for Unemployment?"

DIED

LANCASTER. — In Havelock, on Tuesday, Jan. 17, 1933, Clare Elizabeth Puffer, wife of T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P. of Peterborough County. Service at St. John's Anglican Church, Havelock, Friday, Jan. 20th, 1933, at two p.m. Interment at Norwood, Ontario.

NEARLY 50,000 FLU SUFFERERS ACROSS ONTARIO

At Least 20 Have Died of Pneumonia, Direct Result of Epidemic.

NORTH HIT WORST.

Over 5 Per Cent 18,000 Citizens in Sault Affected—Six Die in London.

(By the Canadian Press)

Ontario, slowly but surely, is recovering from a mild influenza epidemic which in the past few weeks has spread across the province. The most conservative estimate to-day placed the number of afflicted at present at between 25,000 and 50,000, while at least 20 persons have died from pneumonia which followed the epidemic.

Accurate count of the present cases is impossible, doctors declared to-day, since many persons have either fought off the effects while continuing at work, or remaining at home had "doctored" themselves to recovery.

The northern section of the province is suffering worst at present. At Callander, nine miles from North Bay, and the surrounding township of Himsworth, 200 cases are reported, while other outbreaks were reported from Gowganda and the mines north of Elk Lake.

Between five and 10 per cent. of Sault Ste. Marie's 18,000 residents are affected, although the peak is believed past.

Ottawa health officials declared there were a "large number" of cases in that city, but preferred not to make an estimate.

Windsor Schools Open.

No schools are closed at Windsor, and the illness was believed on the wane in that area. Three deaths on the Sarnia Indian Reserve were recorded, but conditions in that area were now nearly normal. The same condition prevailed in Chatham and Woodstock. School attendance was lower than usual in the latter city, but is now becoming normal.

Six persons died in London during the past two weeks from pneumonia developing from the flu. Fears of an outbreak were dispelled by more favorable reports. Health officials did not believe conditions were worse than in previous years.

School attendance at Kitchener was picking up, and the mild epidemic was occasioning no alarm at that point. Two were dead at Galt, but again conditions were regarded as normal.

No definite estimate of the cases was available at Stratford, but, unofficially, it was believed 3,000 persons were ill. Two deaths were reported from the district, but there were few cases among children.

As was the case in other communities, no estimate could be made for Toronto, where it is known thousands of citizens were suffering from the mild type of flu.

KNOX CHURCH CHOIR ELECTS TOM ALLEN

Annual Meeting of Church Choir is Held in Knox Church.

The annual meeting of Knox Church Choir was held on the evening of Jan. 12, with 34 members present. Reports were read and adopted and the election of officers for 1933 followed with Mr. John Donaldson taking the chair. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President, Rev. Mr. McDonald; President, Tom Allen; 1st Vice-President, Miss K. Benson; 2nd Vice-President, George Wallace; Secretary, Miss Alma Gerrard; Treasurer, J. Gerrard; Librarian, A. Armstrong; Convenor, Social Committee, Miss M. Ralston; Convenor Gown Committee, Miss M. Morton, H. McCannon.

A hearty vote of thanks was given by the choir to retiring officers.

A social hour followed with refreshments served by the social committee, with Miss Gladys Gerrard in charge. The evening closed by singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

COBOURG KNIGHTS VISIT PETERBORO

Pleasant Social Evening Held in Knights of Columbus Club Rooms.

Cobourg and Peterborough Knights of Columbus fraternized here last night in a pleasant social evening at the K. of C. Club, Simcoe street.

Dr. J. F. O'Brien, Grand Knight, of Peterborough Council, welcomed the visitors, and resigned the chair to Maurice McIntee, G.K. of Cobourg, who conducted the meeting assisted by his own staff of officers. A musical program was presented by the Cobourg members, and after the meeting both councils continued the social features of the visit until nearly midnight.

Lake Louise in Rocky Mountain Park, Alberta, is considered one of the most picturesque lakes in the world.

ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

THE ADVERTISING OF TOILET ACCESSORIES

The last two articles have referred to the package medicines sold by the local druggist and dealer, and advertised to the public by the manufacturer, and no other class of manufactured products has been so persistently and effectively presented to the readers of this and other papers.

While drug store products have been largely medicines to make and keep you well, the drug store has also carried specialty lines to improve personal appearance and attractiveness. These products are brought to your notice in the magazines, the women's papers, and also to a more limited degree in the newspapers. On account of the limited advertising in your own papers it is very much to the interest of the local dealer that he tie up with this outside advertising through his own space in his local paper, his own windows and his store display.

TOOTH PASTES. Within the last twenty years the tooth cleanser section of the drug store has grown from a small corner on a shelf to two or more sections covering from 20 to 40 items. Many of these are tagged on to some other line and let ride without any definite publicity; others, whether part of family or alone, are advertised on their own account, some as straight cleaners and polishers, others with a medicinal angle. The list is too long to go into detail, but among those giving support to the dealer are Colgate, Forhan's Pepsodent, Kolynos Pebecco and Minty.

SOAPS. Here again some trade marked lines are advertised just as a good soap—Colgate, Cashmere Bouquet, Yardley's, Calay, Baby's Own, Infants' Delight, Pear's; others with medication added—Cuticura, Packer's, Glover's, Resinol, D.D.D.; some with a beautifying appeal—Woodbury's, Pompeian, Palmolive.

Men are not left out, and SHAVING CREAMS, STICKS AND LOTIONS have taken the place of the old cup soap with the shaving mug. There is about as large a choice in shaving soaps to-day as in tooth paste. Among the old standbys are Colgate and Williams' whose round cake was familiar to our grandfathers and who to-day will help you shave with stick or cream. Palmolive, Woodbury's and Listerine. The perfumers give us Yardley's, Pinaud's. The powder manufacturers, Mennen's and so on.

DEPILATORIES AND DEODORANTS are many—the best advertised perhaps being Odorono, Neet, Zip and Mum.

COSMETICS AND COLD CREAMS. Almost every perfume manufacturer and soap manufacturer is represented in the section devoted to these lines with a few specializing on certain items. Some of those names that have not been mentioned in relation to other products are Armand, Harriet Hubbard Ayer, Elcaya, Daggett & Ramsdell, Ingram, Roger & Gallet, Hudnut, etc.

POWDERS. In this list again are many well-known names associated with other products. We will mention only two that put out a special product for babies' comfort—Johnson & Johnson and Bauer & Black.

HAND LOTIONS. Among those best known are Campana's Italian Balm, of Canadian origin; Hind's Honey & Almond Cream, born in Maine; and Frostilla, the ownership of which is divided between United States and Canadian interests.

HAIR TONICS, SHAMPOOS, DYES, ETC., cover a wide range with many well-known names.

MANICURE SPECIALTIES. Cutex and Glazo are advertised lines.

DYES have always been carried in drug and other stores, and in grandmother's time were used to dye dresses to be made over for the juniors, and when they had served their day as clothing were again dyed all the colors of the rainbow and appeared in mats and rag carpets. To-day with lighter colors and tints in all the pastel shades, they are the standby of the younger group. The new dyes and the older ones simplified are much easier to use. The older dyes—Diamond, Putnam's and Dyola—are side by side with Aladin, Tintex, Sunset, Twink and Rit.

FOUNTAIN PENS, SAFETY RAZORS AND BLADES are important drug store lines—with Waterman pens as probably the oldest and giving most advertising support to the dealer—with Parker and Wahl close seconds. In razor blades—Gillette, Pal and Valet are persistent advertisers and also assist the dealer with striking window display material.

Give the customer what she asks for is the generally accepted rule in successful retailing to-day, and the druggist lives up to this rule in spite of the multitudinous brands he must carry.

SEYMOUR UNITED CHURCH CIRCUIT SHOWS FINE REPORT FOR 1933

Increase Shown at All Points at Annual Congregational Meetings.

INCREASED MEMBERSHIP.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18. — A year of good work and progress in every phase of church activity and sound financial standing was revealed at the annual meetings of the Seymour United church charges comprising Zion, Stephens and Tabernacle churches, held during the past few days and over which the pastor Rev. F. G. MacTavish presided. Not only have church organizations increased their activities, in some cases registering an increased financial balance over the previous year but church attendance at all points has been splendidly retained, each congregation expressing their appreciation of the services of their pastor.

Zion Church

At Zion church the meeting was held on Thursday last, the report of the Board of Stewards showing a balance on hand of $146, registering an increase over last year of approximately $30. All organizations connected with this congregation have been very active and progressive during the past year. The Women's Association carried over a balance of $31.60 and show by their records that they have been very liberal in their giving to the church at home and abroad. The League has also had a splendid year holding 42 meetings during the past twelve months with an average attendance of 43.

The Sunday School has done good work, the officers elected by that body for 1933 being: Superintendent, Fred Barnum; secretary, George Brunton; treasurer, Miss Laura Watson.

Stephen's Church

The meeting at this point was held on Friday last and largely attended. The Board of Stewards reported a balance on hand of $142, all financial obligations for the year having been met. The League at this point has also done excellent work as well as the W.M.S. who apart from their church obligations have given their central board $80.

The Sunday School has shown a great deal of activity during the past year, officers for 1933 being elected as follows: Superintendent, Frank Heagle; secretary, Mrs. Clifford Heagle; treasurer, Roy Odie.

Tabernacle Church

At this meeting, which was held on Monday evening, a supper was served by the congregation, the number present registering about seventy. The Steward's report showed a balance on hand of $267 which is an increase over the previous year of $37.

The Women's Association also registered an increase in their bank balance, this year's figure being given at $206. The League and Sunday School all have had progressive years and show substantial financial balances on hand.

Officers for the Sunday School at this point were elected as follows: Superintendent, Orville Grills; secretary, Miss Bessie Grills; ;treasurer, Miss Muriel Peake.

The report of the session, given by the Rev. MacTavish and covering the whole charge, shows that constructive progress and increases have been made all along the line. There are a total of 117 families on the charge, the membership roll being an ncrease over last year of 18, Seventeen have been admitted to church membership on profession of faith and one by letter.

A total of 481 pastoral calls have been made by the pastor; 11 weddings solemnized; and the sacrament of baptism administered to 5 infants. Five funerals have been conducted during the past year, two of which were in the town of Campbellford.

Although the books are open until the end of January 15 is expected that missionary given to the M. and M. Fund will total approximately $400. Attendances at all points have retained last year's standards, one point having registered an average increase. The communicant roll at all points in 1932 also show an increase over the previous year.

Get Rid of That

SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

TRAGEDY HIDDEN IN SUICIDE CASE

Servant Depicts True Story Surrounding Death of Trotzky's Daughter.

GERMAN VERSION FALSE.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 18. — (C.P.). — Tragedy of one of Leon Trotzky daughters and one of the greatest griefs in the former Russian leader's tumultous life was outlined to-day by a member of the Bolshevist's household on Prinkipo Island.

The true story of the suicide in Berlin of Sinaida Wolkow reads like the most sombre pages of the most sombre Russian writer.

She was the wife of a Russian school teacher who was exiled to Siberia because of his faithfulness to Trotzky, the servant said, adding that a large part of the German version of the death was false and colored by political and police considerations.

Because Mme. Wolkow suffered from tuberculosis and because her sister Nina died of the disease, her parents struggled to arrange for medical treatment abroad.

In 1931 she was allowed to join her father in his exile home. She brought with her her five-year-old son. It took 10 months of negotiation, however, to obtain a visa for a trip to Germany, where the invalid, with both of her lungs affected, went for treatment.

Hoped To Join Husband.

Physically improved after a lung operation, she hoped to return to Russia and join her exiled husband and little daughter.

Doctors believed the woman might be saved if she could have her son with her, but it took six months of negotiations by Istanbul Consuls with officials in countries through which he would travel before permission for him to join her was granted.

Hardly had the boy joined his mother when Berlin police ordered she leave Germany immediately. Her lawyer effected a six weeks' delay before the expulsion of the visa could be granted.

The blow was a terrible one to the invalid, the servant said. She was convinced no other European country would receive her, and believed the only solution would be suicide.

INSTITUTE MEETS AT MILLBROOK

Mrs. Robert Brown is Hostess at First Meeting of the Year.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Robert Brown was hostess for the opening meeting of the new year of the local branch of the Women's Institute, the president, Mrs. J. L. Byam, taking the chair, and the roll being answered with a block for a quilt.

The secretary, Mrs. George Fallis, reported twenty boxes of Christmas cheer sent out, besides some cards conveying messages of greeting and goodwill, and the president reported having replaced the articles used in the layette presented to the local hospital.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong personally thanked the branch for the fruit, etc., sent her during her recent illness, and also mentioned appreciation of a Christmas card from a veteran member, Mrs. J. McBride, who is not always able to attend the regular meetings. The request of the Department to set a date when the Millbrook W.I. would like to have the speaker for the summer series of meetings ed to the decision to mention the first week in June, and on motion it was also decided to invite the Bailieboro branch to join with the local society for the gathering. Millbrook members were guests of the Bailieboro ladies last June. The president promised immediate attention to the matter of dishes for the town hall for the use of transients, and the matter of renting the rink one afternoon each week for the children of the community, up to ten years of age, to enjoy skating, met with a sympathetic response, the motion to take the Cosmos ice each Friday afternoon, from three to five, being carried readily. Someone will be appointed each week to supervise the young skaters and set that there is no abuse either of ice or any other part of the rink property.

The matter of joining with the municipal council in an entertainment and dance for relief purposes in the village was decided upon, the president and Mrs. Harkness to interview Councillor P. I. Bentley, chairman of the relief committee, regarding the matter.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. C. Thorndyke, who gave a reading, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong bringing a message from the new president of the Federated Institutes for Ontario, Mrs. Culloton, of Lorne Park, and Miss Bernice Smith giving a reading, "I Like the Depression." Mrs. F. J. Smith will be hostess for the February meeting, and the topic will be a study of community activities under the direction of the convenor of the standing committee on that subject.

Mrs. H. A. Earle and Mrs. R. J. McKnight sponsored the vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Brown, and to the program committee, for the hospitality extended and the excellent meeting enjoyed, a hearty outburst of applause showing general approval.

Bailieboro

The young people of the locality held a jolly skating party at Barnard's Landing, Rice Lake, on Friday evening. The boys had cleaned a large rink off and the ice was in perfect condition. A huge bonfire was lighted and a delightful skate was enjoyed by all.

MRS. J. McCRACKEN IS 78 YEARS OLD

Social Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Parker, Warkworth, in Honor of Event.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Ont., Jan. 18. — A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Potter on Thursday evening, when 18 near relatives of Mrs. James McCracken gathered to celebrate with her, her seventy-eighth birthday. At six o'clock the guests sat down at a beautifully decorated table in the centre of which was a three-storey birthday cake, decorated with candles.

The hostess, daughter of Mrs. McCracken, served an excellent dinner, after which the evening was spent in community singing, and a social time together.

Mrs. McCracken also received eighty cards of good wishes from friends and realtives, and also an illuminated address from the Dartford W.M.S. of which she was a former life member.

St. John's Guild.

The annual meeting of St. John's Anglican Guild was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Sloggett, with a good attendance. Mrs. F. H. Menerilly, the President, opened the meeting with prayer and after the general business was discussed, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

Hon. President: Mrs. (Rev.) Floyd.
President: Mrs. Harry Brooks.
Vice-President: Mrs. William Duncan.
Secretary: Miss L. Brooks.
Treasurer: Mrs. J. W. Mowat.
Corresponding Secretary: Miss Blanche Baker.

The society has been most successful during the year in the work it has accomplished as revealed by the annual reports.

Rev. W. Floyd closed the meeting with prayer after which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Baker visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker, on Friday.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The 16 ounces thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is the most effective remedy that money can buy. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MRS. WILLIAM FORSYTHE REPRESENTS COTTESLOE

The January meeting of the W. M. S. was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jack Kidd. The vice-president, Mrs. Johnson Blakley took charge. A Bible reading was given by Mrs. Kidd. Mrs. John E. Gallagher sang "His Way with Thee," in her usual pleasing manner. Mrs. E. N. McDonald gave a very interesting account of the first chapter in the Study Book, "His Dominion of Canada." Mrs. William Forsythe was appointed a delegate to the Presbyterial to be held next week in Peterborough.

The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Albert Webster. At the close Mrs. Kidd, assisted by Mrs. John E. Gallagher served dainty refreshments and a social hour was spent.

Cheese manufactured in Prince Edward Island last year graded slightly better than 96 per cent No. 1, and was the highest quality ever produced in the province.

That child's COLD —don't let it go too far

It may be "just a chill" —but it may be a warning of graver troubles. Better put her on Virol at once —Virol will strengthen a child if anything can.

For more than 30 years doctors and parents have used Virol because it turns weakly children into robust men and women. Virol has so often saved not only health but life itself.

A School Doctor says:

"The influence of Virol upon growth and healthy development during the important school age is unquestioned."

SONS OF ENGLAND INSTAL OFFICERS

Brother W. H. Stubbings, of Lindsay, Has Charg of Interesting Ceremony.

At the regular meeting held on Monday, the officers elected for 1933 were installed by Bro. W. H. Stubbings of Lindsay, district deputy Supreme Lodge officer. Before the installation reference was made to the recent sudden death of the Supreme President, Bro. Richard Patching of Ottawa. Bro. Patching for a number of years was Parliamentary correspondent of the Toronto Globe, and during that time was an intimate friend of the late J. R. Stratton of this city. On several occasions he visited Peterborough and was a very welcome visitor to Lansdowne Lodge.

The financial statement for the year 1932 showed a slight increase in the funds of the Lodge. Considering the difficult year through which the Lodge has passed, this increase was very gratifying.

The following officers were then installed by Bro. Stubbings:

Worthy Past President—Bro. J. Barnes.
Worthy President — Bro. Ray Dixon.
Worthy Vice-President—Bro. Geo. Benton.
Worthy Chaplain—Bro. A. Follis.
Worthy Financial Secretary — Bro. W. G. Shiner.
Worthy Treasurer—Bro. C. Wood.
Worthy First Committeeman — Bro. H. Harvey; Second, Bro. W. Gray; Third, Bro. G. Collis; Fourth Bro. W. R. Field; Fifth, Bro. R. Wright; Sixth, Bro. B. J. Rowe.
Worthy Inside Guard—Bro. J. Townsend.
Worthy Outside Guard—Bro. F. J. Parsons.
Worthy Auditors—Bros. E. Kitney, A. Harris, Gray.
Worthy Trustees—Bros. R. Starr and D. Curtis.

After the installation refreshments were enjoyed by those present. Toasts to the King, the Supreme Lodge and the Visiting Brethren were duly honored. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne."

Police Court

Arrested at school this morning by Constable Joe Wheeler, a 14-year-old boy admitted that he had robbed a Campbell's Dairy milk rig. Found in his pockets were $7.43 in bills, silver and coppers. He confessed to police that while the driver of the milk rig was away for a moment he sneaked over and snatched a milk bottle containing hundreds of tickets and the money. He removed the money and then threw the bottle, with the tickets still in it, behind a billboard, where it was later recovered by police.

Asked how many times he had been brought to the police station before for petty thieving, he said coolly, "Oh, about fifty." He was charged with the theft before Police Magistrate Langley, the case being adjourned without plea for a week.

Minnesota Returns Often Never Show Up

ST. PAUL, Minn., January 18 (C. P.). — Election returns come in slowly in some of the north-west sections of Minnesota—in fact, sometimes they never come in,

W. H. Borgen of Duluth, St. Louis County auditor, disclosed here today that returns in the November, 1928, election in one prescinct, never have been received. There are about 25 voters in the precinct.

Ballots were sent to the precinct, in the north woods wilds of the Canadian border, by railroad, automobile, and canoe, but never came back.

"We just forgot about it, and closed our election records," Borgen said.

Japs Arrest 2,000 In Drive Upon Reds

TOKYO, Jan. 18.—(A.P.)— Removing a publication ban, Japanese authorities announced to-day the details of a country-wide round-up of 2,000 radicals. The arrests occurred late in October, following discovery of widespread Communist activities aiming at eventual overthrow of the existing social system.

The action followed the arrest of some bank raiders, whose examination disclosed an important secret conference of Communists was to be held shortly. Police, clad in bullet-proof vests, raided the rendezvous and arrested 11 persons after an encounter in which four policemen were wounded.

Relief Contributions Coming In

Relief Fund contributoins are being received by City Treasurer Adams from citizens who are manifestly actuated by sterling motives of generosity and civic pride.

"He gives twice who gives quickly," may have been coined as a slogan of some relief appeal centuries ago, and its truth has lost none of its pristine lustre.

The citizens' committee, of which Mayor Denne is chairman, decided upon a course in this campaign that omits the usual spectacular stunts and emotional spurs which had been so successful and productive on other occasions.

If people living in the midst of the present depression are unmoved by the dire need of so many of their neighbors, it is not likely that the bandwagon method of approach to their hearts would be worth the effort and the noise.

The community, through the agency of the Relief Committee, should find special satisfaction in the fact that quite an encouraging number of citizens have been so prompt in their response.

And a pleasing feature is that citizens who must be feeling the pinch themselves are sending in donations, sums of $1, $2, $5, and $10. With the Governments' assistance these contributions become respectively $3, $6, $15, and $30.

No campaign can be successful unless those who can contribute only small amounts do their part as faithfully as the others from whom larger sums are expected.

Those who are in close contact with the relief situation know how distressing are its effects in many homes. And with all the little luxuries gone and so many of the comforts of life, those who feel the pinch the worst are patient in the face of such stringencies.

Upon the other half of the community the present obligation bears directly, and comparatively lightly. The Relief Fund can be built up only by those who have the means, and in that respect they become paladins of the whole community's civic pride. There is no one else.

And, if Peterborough's Relief Fund is to compare favorably with the results of similar appeals in other cities, in Galt, Oshawa, Brantford, and so on, those citizens who can give of their means, whether it be one dollar or $1,000, must assume the responsibility which thus becomes focussed on them as never before.

Letters are going out from the City Clerk's office daily, and contributions have started to come in to the City Treasurer. It seems to be a campaign that may be regarded as characteristic of the peculiar spirit of Peterborough.

Usually the citizens have not let down the reputation of Peterborough, and Mayor Denne and the Relief Committee agreed upon the present method of appeal with a confidence that the people will see the present effort through to success.

GRANTS DEFERRED UNTIL LATER DATE

Lindsay Council to Review Town's Financial Condition Before Making Any Grants.

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, Jan. 18.—No grants of any kind will be voted until the town's financial position is carefully reviewed, is the edict handed out by the council. Ald. Frost, chairman of the finance committee, has informed that body that the municipality owes in round figures as of Dec. 31, 1932, the following: Bank of Montreal, $116,000; County of Victoria, $36,000; taxes due the town for 1932 and previous, $74,000; minus a reserve of $40,000; 1932 outstanding, $78,000, minus reserve of bad debts, $15,000, leaving $63,000, a total of $93,000. Mr. Frost was in favor of raising some $70,000 by debentures and use the money to meet the town's liabilities. Permission of the Ontario and Municipal Railway Board would have to be secured.

The council went on record as favoring giving all town printing to local printing offices. It was learned that printing supplies, etc. could be secured more cheaply from local concerns than from city firms.

Bobcaygeon is holding a public meeting to consider the question of raising $40,000 to build a new power plant in the village.

M. Sheehan, a resident of Bobcaygeon was found in an unconscious condition on the bridge across the dam. He had slipped and injured himself, and is in a critical condition as a result of exposure.

FRIDAY'S GAME OFF.
Word received late to-day was to the effect that, owing to another game, the Newmarket Juniors could not play an exhibition contest in Peterborough this Friday. Efforts will be made at a later date to bring this junior team here. Arrangements were then made to have the Cobourg juniors play an O.H.A. game with the local outfit this Friday evening at the Brock.

MUST GET LICENSES
Comparatively few automobile license markers and driving permits for the current year, have been taken out by motorists of Peterborough City and district, and Police Chief Samuel Newhall this morning issued a warning that a check-up is to be instituted shortly.

In taking out license plates and permits now, drivers or owners who wish to use their vehicles, are not only complying with the requirements of the law, but are helping materially to avoid congestion at the office of the license issuer which is bound to result if everybody leaves the obtaining of licenses, until the police are forced to make a check-up on the deliquents, it was stated.

MAYOR R. DENNE IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CEMETERY BOARD

Eighty-second Annual Meeting of Little Lake Cemetery Company Held.

ASSETS $255,910.02.

The eighty-second annual meeting of the lot owners of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held on Monday in the Board Room of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company.

The directors' report read by the President, Mayor Roland Denne, shows the improved position in a financial way, made by the company during the year, while the superintenddent's report deals with the diffierent items of work carried out.

The financial statement sets out in detail the receipts and payments under their different headings.

The "operating account" which is charged with all expenses for material and labor expended in keeping the roads and walks in repair, the grass cut and watered, the grounds trimmed and improved, and also all expenses for wages and supplies in connection with the company's greenhouses, shows a total expenditure of $10,153.02.

The receipts credited to this account consist of interest received from bonds held by the company and money paid to the company by the lot owners for work done on their lots. The total receipts amounted to $11,200.02.

The total amount of wages paid during the year was $9,737.80.

The assets of the company amount to $255,910.03, consisting entirely of real estate, unsold lots in the cemetery and a splendid list of Dominion Government and other first class bonds. Against these assets of $255,910.03 the total liabilities only amount to $35,674.45 which shows the company to be in an exceptionally strong position.

The directors' report and also the superintendent's report were as follows:

Directors' Report

"Your directors have pleasure in submitting to the lot owners their report for the past year, being the eighty-second annual report.

"During the year no work of major importance was undertaken, the attention of your directors being confined to such duties as were required to keep the cemetery grounds and the company's buildings, in such an attractive condition as to maintain their high standing in the community.

"A report of the regular routine work will be given by the superintendent, while the treasurer's financial statement sets out in detail the financial transactions for the year.

"You will notice by referring to the "operating account" that our total receipts from funds used for carrying on the ordinary work of the cemetery amounted to $11,200.02 of which $4,697.75 was interest on investments, while there was paid out as shown by the statement of expenses $10,153.02 a large part of this sum being for wages.

"During the year the sum of $2,372.69 was spent in improving new grounds, making a total of $15,503.13 spent for this purpose since 1916.

"Our receipts from sale of lots was $1,440.00 less than in 131, the figures for the last five years being, 1928, $4,305.00; 1929, $5,715.00; 1930, $5,310.00; 1931, $4,380.00; 1932, $2,940.00.

"Bonds held by the company to the value of $4,000.00 fell due during the year and the proceeds from these along with other sums were used to purchase additional bonds to the value of $8,000.00 which brings our total investments in this class of securities to $94,269.52.

"Our surplus account was increased by $1,074.28 and now stands at $220.235.58.

"There was deposited with the company in 1932 the sum of $1,640.00 for the perpetual care of lots and placing flowers thereon, which makes the total invested with the company to date for this purpose, $32,615.11. Every dollar of this is invested in Government and other approved bonds.

"Your directors have been striving for some years to impress on the owners of lots the wisdom of their placing with the company either during their life time or else by their will a fixed amount of money the interest from which is to be used each year for cutting and watering the grass, planting flowers and in other ways keeping their lot as they would like it kept. The response so far has been very gratifyng and we are hoping a still larger number will avail themselves of this privilege.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Roland Denne, President.

Superintendent's Report

"I beg to submit my annual report for work done in your cemetery, during the year ending December 31st, 1932, outside the ordinary cemetery work.

Painting and shingling — The Ware Street house has been shingled at a cost of $75.00, painted inside at a cost of $32.10, papered throughout at a cost of $49.53 making a total of $156.72. The iron fence and gates around the cemetery have been painted at a cost of $82.00 for paint and labor.

Roads and drains—The roads in the cemetery received a coat of tarvia oil, and were sanded and repaired where necessary. One hundred feet of four inch tile was laid, and two gully traps have been placed. The entrance to the cemetery has been laid with concrete and curbs, making a great improvement to the entrance; this work was done by the city.

Filling and grading, new ground —On Section "P" and Section "L" there has been placed 3,000 yards of filling, this has been graded and seeded at a cost of $2,372.69 including filling, seed and labor. This completes these two sections.

During the year there has been 259 burials, 19 foundations for monuments, 17 lots sold, 11 lots put under perpetual care, making 154 lots under perpetual care.

All of which is respectfuly submitted.

William James, Superintendent.

The Board of Directors were all re-elected. They are: B. Shortly, E. H. D. Hall, W. G. Morrow, A. Stevenson, E. A. Peck, M.P., B. F. Ackerman, Mayor Roland Denne, R. J. Kidd and H. A. Morrow.

Special mention might be made of Mr. Shortly's long years of service in behalf of the company. He was first elected to the Board in 1890 and has been re-elected each year since that date. Forty-three years of service is something any man might well be proud of and Mr. Shortly is to be congratulated on his re-election.

The next oldest member in years of servce is Mr. E. H. D. Hall who was first elected in 1903.

At a meeting of the newly elected directors held immediately following the meeting of the lot owners Mayor Denne was re-elected President, and Harold A. Morrow Vice President.

ST. PAUL'S S.S. ANNUAL MEETING

Officers of Sunday Shool Were Re-eleted for 1933.

At the annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday School held recently, with Superintendent O. M. Steer, presiding, the officers were re-elected in their entirety for the present year, as follows:

Superintendent—O. M. Steer.
Assistant Superintendent—T. H. Taylor.
Secretary-treasurer — Don. S. Clarke.
Superintendent Beginners — Miss G. Comstock.
Superintendent Primary—Miss E. Rae.
Superintendent Junior Department—Mrs. Stacey.
Pianist — Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

In presenting the financial statement, the secretary-treasurer showed that the Sunday School was in a sound condition. It was decided to hold a banquet for the senior and junior pupils, and teachers and officers of the School on February 3. Mrs. Stacey was appointed convenor of the committee.

The meeting opened with prayer, by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Church. He later gave an inspiring address on the ways and means of making progress in all departments of the Sunday School.

Tenor's Voice Fails But Opera Goes On

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (C.P.). — Mostly when the Metropolitan Opera Company does "Manon," Ciacomo Lauri-Volpi sings "Des Grieux," but not last night. Just before the curtain was to rise his voice failed him.

The performance was being given at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and Lauri-Volpi already was in costume. Suddenly and inexplicably his vocal chords tightened so that he could not speak. His health had been good and there was no warning that his voice might fail.

While Lauri-Volpi was hurrying home to consult his physician, officials of the opera company were telephoning Armando Tokatyan, another tenor. Within three minutes of the time he reached the Academy of Music, he was in costume and the curtain rose. The performance went forward without a break and with only a few minutes' delay.

Aluri-Volpi's ailment was diagnosed as "clergyman's sore throat," a swelling over the oval chords which is curable.

Gold Teeth Taboo as Taxi Fare

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (C.P.). — Flashing a dazzling smile—he had two gold teeth—Peter Hourhourlis hailed a taxi-cab, and went places to the clicking tune of $1.65. When Jack Kastrow, the cab driver, demanded the fare, Peter didn't have it.

"Here," he said, removing the two teeth, "take these for your pay. They're worth more than $1.65."

Kastrow couldn't use the teeth, so Hourhoulis was charged with beating a taxi bill.

Although Berlin doctors tried to keep secret the identity of Heinrich Wanke, 55 year old farmhand, who offered himself for the cathodic ray experiment, a camerman found him. Wanke, suffering from cancer, is reported to have been cured when 2,500,000 volt of electricty were shot through his body.

Obituary

J. M. PAYTON.

The funeral of J. M. Payton, of 312 Frederick Avenue, this city, who died suddenly yesterday while at the wheel of his automobile, is to be held from the family residence on Thursday at 3 p.m., with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Payton, the deceased was a native of Douro Township, where he was born on September 16, 1879. He had resided in this district all his life. Besides his wife, and only daughter, Miss Viola Payton, he is survived by two brothers, George Payton of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Arthur Payton, of Detroit.

JOHN FLETCHER.

SOUTH MONAGHAN, January 18 —An old and respected resident of South Monaghan died here on Tuesday, in the person of John Fletcher, at the age of 82 years.

Mr. Fletcher, a native of England, had resided in this district for about half a century, having been village blacksmith at Bensfort until his retirement some few years ago. He had enjoyed comparatively good health right to the end of his life, passing peacefully away as he was reclining on a sofa at his home.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Maria Fletcher, he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. L. C. Smith in India, Mrs. Banks of Toronto, Mrs. M. Ryan of Deloraine, Manitoba, and Mrs. Peter Dodds of Elgin, Manitoba, also two sons, George of Bailleboro, and Arthur of Zealandia, Saskatchewan. A son John predeceased him some years ago.

The funeral is to be held from the family residence on Thursday at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Mr. Cooke, pastor of Fraserville United Church, officiating. Interment at Bailleboro Cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM GLADSTONE.

BETHANY, Jan. 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. William Gladstone, beloved wife of William Gladstone, of Toronto, whose death occurred at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday, Jan. 12, was held on Saturday at 2 o'clock from the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, Rev. Mr. Holden and Rev. Mr. Scott officiating.

The late Mrs. Gladstone, whose maiden name was Gladys Robinson, was in her 39th year. Coming with her husband in the early summer to visit their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, both made many warm friends. A short time before Christmas friends noticed Mrs. Gladstone's strength was failing, and on January 9, she was given a blood transfusion.

Left to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, are two sisters, Mrs. Mix and Mrs. Patnode, of Toronto, and two brothers, one at Fort William and the other at Los Angeles, California.

The remains were taken to the afternoon train, en route to Fort William, where interment was made on Monday, January 16.

Pall-bearers were Ossie McGill, Percy McGill, William Rowan, Harold Payne, W. Price and Herbert Fallis.

Rev. Mr. Scott read the lesson from the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel, and Rev. Mr. Holden gave a brief address on the words of the committal service, "In the midst of life we are in death," and reading the prayers of the Anglican burial service. The funeral was largely attended by friends from Janetville and Yelverton.

YOUNG PEOPLE NAME OFFICERS

St. John's Campbelford Y.P.L. Hold Annual Election—Miss Reta Palliser President.

CONVENORS NAMED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.) — Heading the Young People's League of St. John's United church, Campbellford, for the current year Miss Reta Palliser was elected to the presidency at the annual election of officers held in the church hall on Monday evening. The full slate of officers for the year is as follows: Honorary presidents, Rev. R. C. Tait G. F. Phillps; president, Reta Palliser; vice-president, Merwin Malcolm; secretary; Miss Elsie Connor; general treasurer, Miss Nettie Forde; missionary treasurer, Miss Ruth Taylor; press secretary, Miss Ruth Palliser; pianist Miss Gladys Stephen; assistant pianist, Mrs. C. W. Turner.

Convenors of committees are as follows: Devotional, Miss Elsie Mowat; Missionary, Miss Audrey Shapter; Citizenship, Vern Abernethy; Social and Literary, Miss Velma Runnells and Miss Doris Mason.

The program for the evening consisted of the topic, "Nation Builders," given by Mrs. R. C. Tait; a piano selection by Arnold Bates and a vocal duet by the Misses Elva Mowat and Eileen Hall.

District Curling Opens On Thursday

Drop in temperature overnight, had the effect of tightening-up the ice at the local curling rink, so that a resumption of the schedule games is assured for this evening. With the promise of further cold weather, J. W. Mayneord, umpire for District 13 has caleld the district curling game for to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

A "two rink" competition, the winners of the district group, which includes not only Peterborough, but also Keene, Lakefield, Millbrook and Norwood, will be eligible to go into the finals at Toronto for the District Cup and Governor-General's competition, in competition with the winning rinks from each of the other fifteen districts.

The draw for to-night's schedule games is as follows: Davidson vs. Sutton; Donaldson vs. Moore; L. I. Hamley vs. Oke; Howden vs. Bissell; Turner vs. Shirley; Morrow vs. N. Hamley.

Noted English Homes Damaged By Fires

LONDON, Jan. 18 (C.P. Cable).—Disastrous fires have done much damage to noted country homes in England lately.

During the week-end Countess Poulett's house at Herne Bay and Bushmere House, Bedfordshire, residence of Francis Gosling, prominent banker, were destroyed. These were followed yesterday by the loss of Captain Woolf Barnates' home, Ardenrun Hall, in Surrey and Major Perry Garratt's house at Ditchling in Sussex. Fire last night in the home of Lady Cunard on Grosvenor Square did considerable damage to the interior and destroyed a lot of valuable articles in the library.

"Gossip ana Such"

Once again that famous partnership of Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat has been dissolved by Coach "Newsy" Lalonde of Les Canadiens. Henceforth Morenz, the meteoric Morenz, will team with George Mantha and Art Giroux, while Aurel, the midget wing man, will partner Johnny Gagnon and Pete Lepine. All this in an effort to put the Flying Frenchmen on the winning streak needed if they are to reach the National Hockey League playoffs. It is not the first time the experiment has been tried. If memory serves, Cecil Hart used similar tactics a couple of years ago. But it did not last overlong.

* * *

Apart from the possibilities of the present experiment, the main interest to us of the present shift centres in the innumerable exploits engineered by the combination of the twain and, individually, of the Stratford Streak. Morens is now playing his tenth year in the N.H.L. Readers statistically minded have something to note in his printed records of the past nine years, 1923,32, in which Morenz has scored 230 goals, made 106 assists, for a total of 336 points, while his team was playing 358 games. Not discounting time off for injuries, etc., Morenz has averaged .9385 scoring points per game, Joliat's similar average being .7402. In penalties, the 140 pound "Quetto" has averaged 1,687 minutes per game as against the 1,170 served by the heavier (170 pounds), but faster Morenz.

Comparative nine-year individual scoring records of this great partnership:

At the half-way mark in the International Hockey League schedule, Scotty Martin, dashing wingman of the Syracuse Stars, is right up at the top of the official scoring averages. Curious coincidence, but the Brantford Indian stood similarly in the scoring averages of the professional box lacrosse league last early autumn, as one of the sharpshooters on the Buffalo Bowmans. Unless we miss our guess, Martin is developing into a good N.H.L. prospect and one who would be a crowd pleaser. Fast and tricky, his flopping dark hair stands out—and up—in every rush and the crowd usually does the same.

Twenty years ago Frank Shaughnessy gained the front pages of newspapers by developing the McGill football championship team, which included in its roster 'all-time" players of the calibre of Dave Billington, mighty kicker. Ten years ago, Frank was laying the foundation for the introduction of the U.S. forward pass by planning Syracuse-McGill exhibition games. Starting another decade, he is again in the limelight by sponsoring the post-schedule play-off system for the International baseball league, along the lines of the N.H.L. system.

The brokerage business may come and may go, but Frank goes on forever.

WINGS HAND NEW YORK RANGERS FIRST SHUTOUT IN 79 BATTLES BY BEATING PATRICKMEN 2 TO 0

Adams' "Rookies" Have Collected 23 Points Out of Possible 28 Since December 18.

SENATORS WIN 3-2.

Jackson Scores Lone Goal for Toronto as Leafs Lose to Americans 3-1.

TORONTO, Jan 8.—(CP)—Somebody called them a "motley" collection of has-beens and rookies last November, but Detroit Red Wings looked down from atop one National Hockey League section today and grinned the grin of a team that has smashed its way from last to first within a month.

Detroit, hockey mad as it never has been before, toasted such a conglomeration of hockey oldsters and youngsters as John Ross Roach, Frank Carson and Eddie Wiseman who last night polished off the season's most brilliant winning streak by leading Red Wings to a 2-0 win over New York Rangers.

While a record crowd of 14,402 suddenly faithful followers of the Wings looked on, the machine Jack Adams has built in a half season did some amazing things. It shunted Rangers from leadership of the American division, taking over first place by a single point margin and in doing so presented Lester Patrick's Blueshirts with their first shut-out in 79 games.

Back in the spring of 1931 Chicago held Rangers scoreless and since that time the feat remained unduplicated till Roach, himself a Ranger until last fall when Patrick shipped him down to Detroit, put up the barricades last night.

The triumph was Detroit's 10th in the last 14 games. Since December 18 when the Wings took to the air in earnest they have been beaten once, tied twice and otherwise have set up the best extended romp of the campaign, collecting 23 points out of a possible 28.

The haughty Rangers they have drubbed twice, once in New York. Boston has taken two defeats from the border sensations, and Toronto, Canadiens, Maroons, Chicago, Ottawa and Americans one each. Toronto and Canadiens managed to get ties during the rampage but only Boston got a win.

Carson, silver-topped right winger who might have been Stratford's greatest amateur in his heyday if Howie Morenz had not belonged to his ice generation, fired the fatal shot against New York last night. The one-time sidekick of Morenz, who never reached the same heights as his pal of simon-pure days, reached them for a moment at least when he whirled around Big Ching Johnson and snapped a drive into the Ranger cage.

It was mid-way through the third period when old Frank pulled this move and Johnny Sorrell's goal three minutes later wasn't necessary to give victory to the Wings. Sorrell scored on Doug Young's pass.

Upward Bound

Scrambling along in the Canadian section on much the same lines as Detroit is taking in the other group, New York Americans boomed the big guns in threatening fashion last night to trounce Toronto first-place Leafs 3-1 and climb to within three games of the Stanley Cup champions.

This was another long shot in November as old Bullet Joe Simpson led Amerks into battle. Today the Simpson entry stands in second position, five points behind Toronto and three ahead of the Ottawa Senators, who finally won a game and safely made third place at home last night.

Unbeaten in the last seven games, though they were held to four ties, the Spangled team drubbed Leafs 3-1 with a dazzling attack led by Bill Bryde and Red Jackson, Winnipeg rookie. Bryde helped Bill Phillips score the first New York goal in the second period and passed to George Patterson for the second. Nick Wasnie got a third before Toronto's Harvey Jackson pushed in a counter on his 22nd birthday.

Outpoint Canucks 3-2

While Maroons stayed right where they have been for weeks, losing 6-2 to Boston Bruins, the Senators finally got going and outpointed Canadiens 3-2 in a fast exhibition. Frank Finnigan had a hand in each goal, passing to Hec Kilrea for the first, nailing the second himself and giving the third to Cooney Weiland.

Maroons slumped into a two-goal decline in the first period at Boston, Red Beattie and Joe Jerwa scoring Bruin goals, came back as Lionel Conacher scored in the second, but lost this and more without delay. Joe Lamb clipped in three tallies in this session and Dit Clapper for a fourth. Glen Brydson added a second Maroon goal in the third when it was far too late.

Soundly thumped in nine of their last 11 games, Maroons looked around for help today. Flat Walsh, veteran goalie, is to be replaced at once—probably by Dave Kerr who has been recalled from the Windsor Bulldog farm, though it is understood Maroon officials are still hopeful of securing Alex Connell from Ottawa.

As long as Young Billy Beveridge keeps up the pace he is setting in the Senator nets Ottawa has little for him to do but President James F. Strachan of Maroons figures he can get a puckstopper for less than the $10,000 Ottawa wants for Connell.

Paddy Byrne, a sensation with Kansas City two years ago in the old American League and now just as brilliant in goal for Providence Reds in the Canadian-American, may be given a tryout before Maroons are through.

TIGERS BOW TO NATIONALS

Hamilton Falls From Grace After Seven Straight Victories.

CATARACTS WIN 2-1.

(By The Canadian Press)

A couple of "streaks" winning and losing—were snapped in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" series to-day, following a doubleheader last night.

Hamilton Tigers had compiled a list of seven straight wins when Toronto Nationals slipped into their lair, caught the Yellow and Black in an apathetic mood and slipped out again with a 1-0 win.

After three successive losses, Niagara Falls Cataracts chased the jmx by eking out a 2-1 30-minute overtime victory over University of Toronto before a meagre crowd of Cataract fans.

Beaten Twice

Tigers have been defeated only twice on their home ice this season and Nationals have done the job on both occasions. A win would have pushed the Tigers out in front of the race by a single point and a loss meant practical elimination for the sea fleas.

But led by the tricky Kenny Kane and supported by superb goaltending of Ronnie Geddes, Nationals came through and to-day are just three points away from fourth place, last play-off position.

Cliff Chisholm who has developed into somehat of a pinch-hitter, scored the lone goal half way through the game.

Sporting a new goalkeepewr, Cataracts meet Varsity's two-game winner streak in a sparkling display featured by the speed of both outfits.

Hemp Stars in Falls Nets

Hemp, who replaced Esseltine in the Falls nets, played a big part in the victory and along with Jerry Shannon and Maxie Kaminsky, was the pick of the winners.

Shannon, leading the point-getters in the group, prevented the game from ending in a deadlock, when he scored with only 35 seconds left to play.

Kalbfleisch notched the other Galls' goal while Hendry counted the lone Varsity marker.

CLIMBING BISONS BLANK CLEVELAND

Moore's Great Work in Goal Stops Winners in First Two Periods.

TORONTO, January 18 (C.P.).—Gradually whittling down the margin between them and the two leading teams of the International Hockey League, Buffalo Bisons to-day were unhalted in their headlong dash to the top.

Playing on home ice at Fort Erie, Buffalo last night defeated the league-trailing Cleveland Indians, 3-0 for their third straight win, but it was not until the final frame that they earned their margin.

Diminutive Alfie Moore, making his debut in Cleveland nets, almost proved a Nemesis to the Bisons. Under a continual bombardment from the opening whistle, Moore held the Bisons scoreless for two periods, but in the last period, the frantic Bisons banged in a trio of goals to take the verdict.

Lloyd Gross continued his excellent sniping, beating Moore twice on passes from Roter Roth. God n counted the other goal on a pass from Bud Jarvis. Gross has notched four goals in the last two games.

The World's Grain Show at Regina, when it opens on July 24, 1933, will have as one of the main decorative features of the buildings a series of very large colored transparencies showing agricultural scenes.

Twenty Grand Will Race No More

BY CHARLES "HORSES" AYERS
Central Press Canadian Writer.

The celebrated son of St. Germain-Bonus will be retired to the stud. The injury which laid him up a year has not healed as well as was expected. Rather than have her great thoroughbred drop down in the plater division, Mrs. Payne Whitney has decided to retire him. He will be shipped to Kentucky within a few days to be made ready for duty in the famous Whitney nursery next spring.

Twenty Grand was one of the greatest thoroughbreds ever developed in American racing. The son of St. Germain-Bonus ran a mile as a two-year-old in the record time of 1.36. The Greentree stable champion had 122 pounds up when he accomplished this record-breaking feat. The fact that he was able to earn well over $260,000 during a racing career which was shortened through accident stamps him as one of the real outstanding champions of all time.

Twenty Grand might have been the greatest of all thoroughbreds had he remained under the care and training of Thomas W. Murphy, the celebrated thoroughbred authority. The latter developed the son of St. Germain-Bonus from an untried yearling into a world record-breaker. Those who watched the development of this great colt were more than disappointed when the former king of the harness horse world decided to resign his position after the most successful season the Greentree stable ever enjoyed.

Twenty Grand was the best two-year-old in the United States when he retired as a juvenile for freshening up for his three-year-old campaign. Trainer Murphy felt that with proper care and attention Twenty Grand would prove an even greater champion than the immortal Man o' War.

JUNIOR O.H.A. BATTLE CALLED OWING TO POOR ICE CONDITIONS

Holes and Snags in Surface, Misjudged Plays and Fumbles Makes Uninteresting Game for Spectators and Players Alike.

BOTH GOALIES PLAY BRILLIANT GAME.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 18 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—After sixty minutes of hockey that was just not hockey owing to lack of ice, the Campbellford Junior Maroons and Madoc called the game a tie with no count registered, and decided not to go into overtime play. The game, which was played in Campbellford last evening, was a Junior O.H.A. fixture, but old man weather was against the players, and fans, and no game worth seeing was staged.

Holes and snags, in some places earth showing above the ice, rolling pucks and absolutely no means of making the play fast, handicapped both teams, which, judged by the way they worked, would have put up a splendid exhibition had the ice been keen. Misjudged plays, fumbles, and the losing of skates with severe checking by both aggregations in an effort to count, only wore out the players, who after the full three periods, had had enough.

The game was a disappointment to the fans, who had looked forward to a keen and close game between these two outfits, playing as they more or less are for the second place in their group, but it was just impossible to give the fans what they wanted, and both teams were content to call it a drawn game.

There is no doubt in the world that the Madoc team is a fast aggregation, and would have kept the Maroons hustling to hold their own. With a very strong forward line on which Ross, Akey, and Terry played to perfection, they have a system worked out which would have proved very confusing to any opponents closely following up all their plays and working well into the net. Their defence was also strong, with Ashley and West taking the brunt of the play.

The Maroons played their usual fast game, with Runnions at pivot, supported by Lambert and Bush on the wings doing their stuff in good form, but as this was common to both teams, the ice can beat the best of players. Oddie and Holmes played a strong game of defence, but were sore pressed on occasions by Armstrong's rushes, who subbed for Madoc at pivot.

Sub Frequently

The Madoc outfit subbed frequently but the Maroons kept their men on the ice for the best portion of the game, only using their second line forwards once in the second period. Many fine chances were thrown away by both teams and many misplays made which if ice had been keen might have resulted in tallies. As it was the two goalies, Turner for the Maroons and Nickel for the Madoc boys were mainly responsible for the game being a blank score.

The game opened with Runnions taking the play in the visitors' house only to be checked by Ashley who drove forward, Oddie checking, Lambert returning and staging a scrum in the Madoc house. Shots rained fast on the visitors' net but it seemed impossible to get past Nickle. Even long shots were safe to him, for Bush took a streak of shooting and peppered the net with no result whatever. Play ranged up and down from goal to goal, but no speed was worked up, the puck sliding two or three yards. The period ended slow.

The second frame warmed up a little with Bush forcing the game and doing some splendid backchecking which made the visitors sit up and take notice.

The last stanza started off with play on the heavy side, both outfits doing all they could do to work in a counter for it was evident the first to score would be the winners.

Campbellford took the offensive but could work up no speed, although Bush and Lambert worked their heads off. Oddie went on the fence for cross-checking, being followed half a minute later by Bush for charging, and with only four men on the ice Madoc drove all their players forward in an attempt to count but Turner was unbeatable.

Oddie had no sooner got onto the ice than he was sent back again for the same offense, the next bad play resulting in both Ashley and Bush being boxed for pushing. Lambert followed shortly after and it looked as if the game would develop into a rough house when Runnions went on the fence for chopping, but the bell saved the situation. Overtime play was ruled out by both teams, the game being counted a scoreless tie.

The teams:

Campbellford: Goal, Turner; defense, Ken Oddie and Holmes; centre, Runnions; wings, Lambert and Bush; subs., Nelson, C. Couch, Cubitt, R. Oddie and D. Couch.

Madoc—Goal, C. Nickle; defence, West and Ashley; centre, Akey; wings, Ross and Terry; subs., Armstrong, Rashotte and Maguire.

Referee—Fred Ingram, Campbellford.

The summary:

Penalties—Second period, Madoc, Ashley; third period, Madoc, Ashley; Campbellford, Oddie, Bush, Oddie Bush Lambert, Runnions.

Official Protest is Laid Against "Leg Theory" Bowling of Larwood

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 18.—(C. P. Cable)—The high feeling which has been roused in Australian cricket circles by the "Leg theory" tactics of the English bowler Harold Larwood in the test match series, has culminated in official protest.

Larwood's persistence in bowling a fast high-bouncing ball down the leg side of the wicket with its accompanying danger to the batsman has already injured several Australian players, W. A. Oldfield was forced to retire in the first innings of the third match with his score at 41 when he was hit on the head. W. H. Woodful, the Australian captain, also caused a flurry when after being hit himself he refused to speak to the manager of the English team and declared the M.C.C. was playing an unsportsmanlike game that was not cricket.

Today the Australian board of control cabled the Marlebone Cricket club on the subject. "The bodyline bowling," said the protest, "has assumed such proportions as will endanger the best interest of the game. It is making the protection of the body by the batsman the main consideration and is causing intensely bitter feeling between the players as well as injury In our opinion it is unsportsmanlike and unless it is stopped immediately it is likely to upset the friendly relations existing between Australian and English cricket."

"I say, by Jove, I'm quite dismayed by these reports from Adelaide,
About our bally bowlahs;
Each ball they throw with proper zest goes sailing pawst the batter's best,
Or strikes him in the molahs.

Bgad, yer know, from all these tales of barracking in New South Wales,
And of those Cornstalk boundahs.
Who rend the scenery round about with howl and hoot and jeer and shout,
As though the game were roundahs.

I should not be, by George, amazed when every time a Yorker grazed
Some staunch Australian hittah;
These Aussie chaps suspect our men of trying to strike their man again,
And leave his nerve a-twittah.

I wince to think of balls being thrown that leave a battah cold and prone,
Colonial though he be,
But whethah struck on head or hip, why cawn't they keep a stiff top lip,
For all the world to see.

For it is sad to watch this thing, this nawsty, snappy, bittah sting,
In cricket lads, and dash us
If they keep up this beastly huff, these finger snaps and answers gruff,
They're going to spill the Ashes. —Toronto Telegram.

Ottawa Club Wants $10,000 For Connell

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—(CP).—Ottawa Senators offered Alex Connell, veteran Senators goalers to the Montreal Maroons on an outright sale for $10,000 James Strachan, president of the Maroons of the National Hockey League, announced here yesterday.

In the dickering that followed the Maroons offered to take Connell till the end of the season with an option to buy if he made good, it was learned. Ottawa agreed to allow him a few weeks trial on that basis but the Maroons did not favor the scheme. Maroons offered to take Connell for the season and to pay his salary till the end of the year, it was learned. Negotiations are proceeding.

AUSSIES COUNT 120 RUNS FOR FOUR WICKETS

Don Bradman Runs Up Total of 66 in Australian Innings To-day.

Larwood Drops Leg Bowl.

Antipodeans Face Task of Scoring 532 Runs to Defeat M.C.C.'s.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 18 (C.P. Cable).—Faced with the task of scoring at least 532 runs to beat England in the third cricket test match, Australia went to bat today and when stumps were drawn had put together 120 runs for the loss of four wickets.

The English second innings ended with 412 runs; added to their first innings total of 341, this appeared to assure them of victory in the third match of the struggle for the historic ashes. Australia managed to score only 222 runs in their first time at bat.

Resuming the bat with the big task in front of them of subduing the spirited English bowling, the early Aussie batsmen proved a disappointment. Don Bradman was the only one of four to make any stand, he having knocked up 66 before he was caught by Hedley Verity, who was bowling.

18,000 See Match

Eighteen thousand persons gathered this morning to see the latter part of the English batting stand. The M.C.C. resumed with an overnight score of 296 for six. L. E. G. Ames and Hedley Verity at bat.

Reaching the 350 mark after more than an hour's play, Ames opened out. Don Bradman was given a turn with the bowling but Ames knocked out 17 runs off him in his first two overs. Shortly after the luncheon interval Ames was bowled by W. J. O'Reilly with his score at 69.

Harold Larwood, who had roused considerable ire by his leg theory tactics in the bowling of the previous days, then took the pitch. He received a mixed reception then Verity was bowled by O'Reilly with his score at 40. It was the eighth wicket to fall with the total at 398.

Go Over 400 Mark

Thereupon the tail of the English team wagged freely. Harold Larwood knocked Ironmonger for a boundary to send up the 400 mark and then was caught by Bradman in deep mid-off when he hit Ironmonger with a terrific slug. He scored eight and the ninth wicket fell for 403.

William Paynter was limping badly when he appeared and Maurice Leyland ran for him. Paynter was soon bowled by O'Reilly, however after scoring only one run. His was the last wicket to fall, leaving the English score at 412 exactly 531 runs ahead of the Aussie single inning count.

Tea was taken on the dismissal of the English batters, and the crowd settled down in their seats prepared to watch a great struggle on the part of the Aussie batsmen, who had previously voiced determination to win the third game.

Drops Leg Ball

At the outset of the play Larwood was bowling. But he had abandoned his hateful leg theory and was pounding away on the off side with a battery of slips in the offing. J. Fingleton was clean bowled before he had scored. The second wicket fell equally cheaply with W. H. Ponsford cutting a waist-high bouncer from Larwood into the hands of D. R. Jardine, who made a splendid catch at point. The second Aussie wicket fell with the total at 12.

Don Bradman came to bat amid tremendous cheers, and immediately settled into a brilliant form of criso driving and clever placing. He punished Verity's deliveries, sending them to all directions.

Bradman reached his 50 in 64 minutes, including eight fours. The next ball he returned with a drive at the bowler and Verity made a fine catch. Bradman was out with 65, and the total for three wickets stood at 100.

Stanley McCabe only just got the feel of the bat when he hooked one from Allen into the deep leg fence, where it was excellently caught by Maurice Leyland. He had scored seven.

Cheers which had greeted Larwood's bowling on the off turned to boos and jeers when he resorted to his leg theory in his seventh over. W. M. Woodful, the Aussie captain, and V. Y. Richardson were still batting with the former's score at 36 when play was closed for the day due to bad light. The Aussie total was 120.

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C.J.P.)

Is the longest way around the shortest way home, or does this old crack belong with the sometimes absurd remark that they never come back? What we're getting at is that we find out from far away Vancouver that a member of the gentle sex (gals) is now the first assistant sports editor of the Toronto Star. She is Miss Alexandrine Gibb. Incidentally, how many assistant sports editors has the Star got? The dope seems to be straight as Andy Lytle of the Vancouver paper quotes a letter from Lou Marsh.

* * * * * * *

Andy says that he once knew a guy that edited social pages, but the nearest thing he knows of a precedent in the case of a woman going sports editor was the time he nearly hired a blond stenographer in his Sports Department. "Just as well I didn't get her," he says, "as she'd likely be sports editor by this time. Never go for a blond. They get in your hair, your office gets cluttered up with 'em, they kid your serious clients and finish by telling the wife about those private calls. Poor Lou Marsh!"

* * * * * * *

However, he winds up by congratulating Lou and says he's a lucky dog. Not long ago there was a crusade to have women sports writers barred from holding office in the A.A.U. of C., a direct crack at Miss Gibb and Miss McGowan of Montreal. The Star's answer is to elevate their woman writer to assistant sports editor. So long as a woman writer sticks to girls' sports entirely they're oke, but personally we'd hate to shuffle in late some morning in need of a shave and a couple or three good stories and have to face the cold disapproving look of a female boss. It would be too much like mixing home life with business.

* * * * * * *

And this naturally brings us to local gals' sports. They may get a hockey loop of four teams going one of these nights, though it's a bit late in the season and the weather isn't very promising. In the meantime, basketball and bowling are getting a big play by the fair ones, and some of the cage contests down at the Y.W. are worth seeing. Doubtless, next summer will see huge crowds watching the damsels playing softball again over at the Bowl.

* * * * * * *

Hockey fans, don't miss that E.P.L. opening double-header tonight at the Brock if you want to see hard even playing with fun and excitement thrown in liberally. The four teams of the loop all go into action against bitter rivals this e'en, Lakefield and Payne's Carters clashing at 7.30, with Norwood and Westclox tangling then at nine. There's a merry old battle in this circuit on this season and it will come to a head to-night here in town.

* * * * * * *

It's going to be a fight when the boys from Lakefield tie into the Carters who licked 'em properly last time in the former's icebox. And maybe the Westclox squad won't fight hard to avenge themselves against Alex Kempt's Norwood Combines! We're anxious to see Bill and Fred Cripps and Pat Calladine who have gone Norwood this winter, and according to reports are doing very well. Most of the players on all four teams are well-known to local fans, so this ought to be a large evening for those who like to holler aproval or boo their heads off as the boys fight it out on the ice.

* * * * * * *

Other games tonight: West End League—Maroons vs. Bruins at seven, Keene vs. Peterborough Canoe at eight, All Saints vs. George Street at nine. Tomorrow night—Southend Loop at Sacred Heart rink: Canuck bantams vs. Warne Bros. at six, Ranger juveniles vs. Albion Knitting at seven, Northenders vs. Park Hill intermediates at eight; Church League at All Saints' rink: Mark Street vs. Knox midgets at six, St. John's vs. St. Andrew's juveniles at seven, Knox juniors vs. St. Paul's at eight, All Saints' intermediates vs. George Street at nine. City League games tomorrow at the Brock—P.C.I. vs. Rangers at eight, Rotary vs. Normal School at nine.

* * * * * * *

Efforts are being made today to get the Newmarket Juniors to come here Friday night to play an exhibition game with the local O.H.A. juniors. Not that we think our boys can take this bunch of stars, who look to be headed toward Ontario honors this year, but just as a good practise game for the Petes, and a fine hockey dish for local puck followers. You've got to give the Hockey Club executive credit, they're sure trying to put on attractive bills, and this would be a dandy.

CLUB CUTS $25,000 OFF RUTH'S SALARY

Home Run King Reveals That Contract Calls for $50,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The New York Yankees' first offer to "Babe" Ruth for his services in 1933 called for a salary of $50,000, the home-run slugger revealed last night.

This offer, a reduction of $25,000 in the salary he received last season, the "Babe" rejected, indignantly. He received the contract yesterday afternoon, took one look at the figures, and promptly returned it, unsigned, to Yankee headquarters yesterday.

Bowling Gossip

The lowly Keough Club bowlers in the mens' league on the Y.M.C.A. alleys uncorked a real surprise this week when they subdued the fast stepping Y's Men, taking three games and pinnage in a league tussle. This setback for the latter crew ousts them from the league leadership, and places the Northern Lights in that coveted position. Neither team hit what might be called a big-league stride in this contest but the Keough boys had an edge of more than fifty pins in every game. The team scores follow: Keoughs—847, 892, 873; Y's Men, 774, 824, 742.

The Northern Lights found the Olympics a very tough morsel in this week's league duel when they tangled in the Y league, splitting a four point victory. The latter crew fought their way to the two points by consistent rather than spectacular bowling, as very few on that team topped the 200 mark in solo games. Stanbury was high with 232, 236, 159. On the opposing team Bill Prindible continued to hit a fast clip by spilling 227, 270, 213. His team-mate, Eastwood, scored 300 in one game. The team scores were as follows: Olympics 1084, 937, 898, Northern Lights, 994, 1232, 862. The score of 1232 made by the last named team is a new record for team total, the previous high total was 1188, and was also held by the Northern Lights.

The C.G.E. Foremen's League composed of supervisors from the plant continues to be the noisest and most sociable circuit that performs on the Y. Alleys. The scores are usually spirited away so quickly that it is impossible to gather any information, but it is hoped we can surprise these pin topplers before the season is over.

SUDDEN-DEATH FINAL.

BATTAGLIA IS RANKED THIRD BY SPORTSMEN

Max Baer, California Heavyweight, Placed at Top With Adolph Heuser as Second.

HIGHER THAN JEBY.

The Ring Hails Sharkey Above Schmeling in Contrast to N. Y. Sun's Rankings.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (C.P.). — Frankie Battaglia, bruising hitter from Winnipeg, Man., is rated highly in the seventh annual ranking of the world's professional boxers by the Ring, boxing magazine. The Canadian is placed third in its list of the eight men who have showed the most promise for the future.

Max Baer, California heavyweight, is placed at the top, with Adolph Heuser, light-heavyweight, in second place. After the Winnipeg youth follows Lou Brouillard, welterweight, Barney Rose, lightweight; Baby Arizmendi, featherweight; Speedy Dado, bantamweight, and Little Pancho, flyweight.

Splitting the various divisions into groups, and rating boxers in each group, the Ring places Battaglia at the top in the second middleweight bracket, while Ben Jeby, the New York Hebrew, who defeated him here last Friday for New York State recognition as world's champion, is placed down in fifth position.

Each of the top listed warriors in the eight divisions either is recognized generally as champion or has a major claim to a title.

Sharkey On Top.

The ranking of the heavyweights revives the arguments over the respective fighting abilities of Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling. In contrast to the top position given Schmeling by the New York Sun in its annual rating, only other boxing appraisal published yearly in United States, the Ring in its copyrighted article hails Sharkey above the Teuton challenger, who won the title on a foul and lost it again on a close 15-round decision last summer.

Sharkey and Schmeling rate one-two in the first division of the heavyweights with Baer who tackles the German under the promotion of Jack Dempsey this summer, topping group two.

Maxie Rosenbloom heads group one of the light-heavyweights, with Marcel Thil, of Paris, leading in group one of the middleweights. Tony Canzoneri is placed in a class by himself in group one of the lightweights, and Panama Al Brown in the first group of bantamweights.

Another Canadian, Jimmy McLarnin, belting Irishman from Vancouver, is rated highly in the welterweight division, being placed third, closely behind Jackie Fields and Young Corbett in group one.

Kid Chocolate heads the featherweights, with Fidel Labarba second.

DOUBLE HOCKEY BILL TO-NIGHT

All Four Teams Go Into Action in E.P.L. Opener in This City.

FIRST GAME AT 7.30.

The East Peterborough Hockey League opens in Peterborough tonight with a double-header at the Brock, showing all four teams in action. The first game starts at 7.30, with Lakefield meeting Payne's Carters, followed at 9.00 by Norwood and Westclox. Referees Abbie Rose and Archie Weir will handle the fixtures, and with fast ice promised and good, hard-fought hockey promised for both games, a large crowd of local and district fans is expected.

The Lakefield team is made up of young, fast ex-O.H.A. players, who put up an exciting contest all the way, not afraid to step into the biggest defencemen in the League. They are out to revenge that last loss in Lakefield at the hands of the Carters, made up mostly of South-End Hockey League players of last year, with the colorful Tommy Foley in goal. Payne has rounded up a promising bunch of boys, who fight hard for every game and a team that stands a very good chance of getting into the playoffs. It should be an exciting fixture.

Pat Hayden's Westclox squad will also be looking to even up matters for their loss down in Norwood, and to-night will see them on home ice and in a fair way to balance the count. The classy Alarm outfit will be hard to stop at the Brock, having a mixture of veterans and youngsters, with lots of hockey experience and speed in there. Alex. Kempt will ice a number of his old stars, along with Pat Calladine, who has been going great this year, and the two Cripps' brothers of this city. His Combines have been tough for any team in the loop to take a game from the past two winters, and have started out plenty strong this year. All in all, it looks like a fine twin-bill, packed full of action up at the Brock this evening, and every team will likely have a large following of fans cheering them on.

TECS REGAIN TOP PLACE IN KING LEAGUE

London Extended By Olympics Before Gaining 2 to 1 Victory.

IN ROUGH CONTEST.

LONDON, January 18 (C.P.). — London Tecumsehs to-day were sitting on top of the International Professional Hockey League as a result of their 2-1 victory registered over the Detroit Olympics at the London Arena last night, but the battling Olympics forced the league leaders to the limit in the roughest contest of the year.

After the visitors had gained a one-goal advantage in the first two minutes of play when Taylor scored on a long shot from centre ice, Leo Quenneville, London left-winger, tied the count three minutes later on passes from Mike Neville and Gene Carrigan. It was Quenneville's third goal in the last two contests.

Tory Gregg, aggressive right-winger, secured the winning counter after three minutes and 45 seconds of play in the third period, when he gained possession of Farrand Gillie's rebound, drew Johnny Clark out of the nets and flipped the puck into an empty goal for one of the smartest plays of the season.

Referee—Mickey Ion, Brantford.

The Summary.

First period—
1—Detroit, Taylor, 2.00.
2—London, Quenneville (Neville, Carrigan), 3.00.
Second period—No score.
Third period—
3—London, Gregg (Gillie), 3.45.
Final score—London 2, Detroit 1.
Penalties — First period, Davis; second period, Hicks, Quenneville, Fraser, Holway, Newman major; third period, Mitchell, Fraser, Hicks, Newman, Pettinger major.

St. Paul Franchise Changed To Tulsa

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association, said last night that the franchise of the Duluth Club would be transferred to Wichita, Kas., and the St. Paul franchise to Tulsa, Okla.

The action, which will weld the circuit into a more compact unit, has been discussed for several weeks. Members of the Duluth Club, dissatisfied with non-payment of salaries, were instrumental in bringing about a decision when they announced to-day they would not leave Kansas City for the north to play two scheduled series unless reorganization was effected.

Other clubs are in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Committee Reports Favorable On Watson

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday announced that its committee of deputy commissioners had reported favorably on the fighting prowess of Thomas (Seaman) Watson and that the Englishman would be allowed to meet (Kid) Chocolate for the featherweight title as scheduled January 27.

PRESENT PLAY AT LAKEFIELD

Program Staged Under Direction of Rev. and Mrs. Archer is Financial Success.

INTRIGUING PLOT

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 18. (Examiner Correspondence).—"Sweet William" a sparkling three act comedy drama was the attraction which filled the Town Hall on Friday night with a large and appreciative audience. The play, given under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. Archer was a great success, financially and as a delightful evening's entertainment. The play which had a definite and intriguing plot which was not revealed till the very end. The mystery of a long lost son, a missing will and a mysterious stranger are all cleared up in the denouncement which is startling. Full of action, humor and romance, the play kept the attention of the audience throughout. The performers were well chosen and it was practically an all star cast for all the parts were leading parts and all were well taken.

The following is the cast of characters given in the order of their appearance:

William O'Neill, very likeable, George Sherin; Maria Parsons, a typical New Englander, Miss Marion Miles; Samuel Hawkins, fifty, well-to-do farmer, Carroll Evans; Kay Parsons, Maria's daughter, Miss Etta Garbutt; Tom Hawkins, Samuel's son, Robert Spence; Deane Bailey, serious-minded, Ralph Darling; Gerry Nelson, fond of antiques, Elwood Dunford; Sally Ann Gately, servant girl, Miss Hannah Webster; Johnah Trimmins, the village constable, Allan Gill; Betsy Tapley, a widow, no longer young, Miss Ethel Blakely; Mary Hawkins, Samuel's daughter, Miss Winifred Sage; Sara Sabin, a musical comedy star, Miss Eva Hendren.

Between the acts several excellent numbers were given, Miss Betty Brown, a promising young eloqutionist, brought down the house with her description of how little sister evolved and carried out a highly original method of inviting the guests to big sister's marriage.

Piano duets were given by Mrs. H. E. Moore and Miss Garbutt; Mr. J. R. Hull contributed a pleasing solo with Miss Garbutt as her accompanist. A newcomer, A. E. M. Joblin, student in charge of North Smith, gave a couple of selections on the piano accordion which were highly appreciated.

Just at the close of the play a very pleasing ceremony took place when George Sherwin read a brief address from the cast in appreciation of the kindness of Rev. and Mrs. Archer in directing the play and a beautiful sheaf of carnations was presented to Mrs. Archer. Miss Eva Hendren stepped forward and thanked Mrs. G. H. Spence and Mrs. W. J. Charlton who decorated the stage, Ralph Moore and Stanley Darling stage managers, Webster Bros. for loan of furniture, Mr. Kelsey for lighting arrangements and Mr. Burrows for loan of decorations.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

A lion roars,
A tiger howls,
But my little doggie,
Only growls.
—Shadow Song.

All at once the centipede tripped over a half a dozen of its legs (it had a hundred of them, you know), and it started crying for help. Knarf, who had been hiding in the grass—for he had made himself smaller than the head of a pin—came running out to see what he could do Knarf, as you should remember, was out hunting, and he thought that now was the time for him to catch the centipede.

Yes, the centipede was lying all of a heap. Its legs had gotten all mixed up. Without wasting a moment, Knarf tore off a few long green threads from the blades of grass and began tying up the centipede's legs. Soon he had so many of them tied up that the centipede couldn't move at all.

Then Knarf ran back into the house and told the other shadow children that he had just caught a huge ferocious animal.

"Is it a lion?" Hanid asked.

"Is it a tiger?" asked Mij.

Knarf's Catch

Before the others had a chance to ask what kind of an animal it was, Knarf explained that it was a centipede with a hundred legs. "You must all go out into the garden with me, and help me bring it back."

The others didn't like the idea very much, but Knarf finally made do it. They all went out into garden. Dear me, when they there, they couldn't find the centipede at all.

"Are you sure you caught it?" Hanid wanted to know.

"Of course I caught it."

"To-day?"

"Five minutes ago," Knarf cried. "I left it right here. Its legs were tied up." It didn't do any good to keep talking about it. The centipede had escaped. You couldn't imagine how badly Knarf felt about it. He had counted on getting the centipede into the house, putting it into a cage, and starting a zoo. Now it was all lost.

"Well," the shadow boy sighed, "I uppose I'll have to catch another nimal." He asked the others if they lidn't want to help him catch another nimal. They answered that they would. "How shall we go about it?" they inquired.

"It's very easy," he told them. "Each one of you go a little ways in different directions, then when I give the signal, start running towards me. You must shout, and clap your hands and make all the noise that you can. That will scare all the animals and they will come towards me. Then I'll catch them."

It certainly looked easy.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 19

The Lunar as well as mutual aspects of this day seem to stress the hasty descent of a rather startling and turbulent state of affairs, with an abrupt upheaval or commotion in employment or business, and this seems to have some unexpected reaction on the mental and physical condition. There may be delays, postponements, stubborn obstructions to overcome. Friends, or social, domestic or romantic interventions may prove an offsetting factor, but be discreet in all affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of possibly exciting and unforeseen precipitation of the affairs, with a menace to business or employment, having reactions on the personal comfort and prospects. However, elderly or feminine friends may come to the rescue in difficult places, and domestic or social assistance may be invoked. A child born on this day should be friendly, talented, persistent and determined but may have a "hard row to hoe" in employment.

Rasslers Not Nearly So Tough in 'Civies'

Don't let anybody tell you that all these pro wrestlers are really as rough, tough and nasty as their ring appearances indicate them to be. It stands to reason that performers of the type of McMillan, Sonnenberg, Cantonwine, Wilson, etc., with college backgrounds, should be able to toy with the King's English in a manner somewhat equally facile to that with which they toy with their ring opponents, if you get what we mean. Recently we were on the same pullman car out of Ottawa as Cantonwine, Wilson and a few others. All giants in their B.V.D.'s. But Wilson was calmly parked in the corner reading a tome on dental surgery and Cantonwine "fanned" with us into the early hours about war debts and disarmament!

FIFTH ANNUAL W.M.S. MEETING OF PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERIAL IS HELD IN GEORGE ST. CHURCH

Fifty Per Cent of Societies Met Their Allocation.

$7,431.00 RAISED.

Represents an Average of $8.35 Per Member Contributed.

The fifth annual meeting of Peterborough Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, held its first session yesterday morning in George Street United Church, with an unusually large attendance of delegates, Presbyterial officers, and visitors from the surrounding district. The city United churches were well represented. The morning was given over at ten o'clock to committee meetings, the first being that of the nominating committee, which met with all members present but the convenor. At 10.45 the executive committee gathered in a prayer service in the Board Room of the church, and at eleven, the last meeting of the executive was held to finish up the business of the year, and to send in recommendations for the various necessary committees for the convention as follows: Miss Fanny Dixon as convenor of Business Committee and Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings as convenor of the Courtesy Committee. It was also decided by the executive that a delegate be sent to Summer School this year, and the delegates for Conference Branch meeting were Mrs. T. J. Jackson of Bethany and Mrs. Robert Nelson of Keene. These recommendations were all ratified at the afternoon business session.

The afternoon session opened at two o'clock, with the president, Mrs. A. I. Brown presiding. The program opened with all repeating in unison the watchwords of the United Church W.M.S., "The World for Christ," "Whatsoever he saith unto you do it," and "Not by might nor by power, but by my power saith the Lord of Hosts," followed by a brief worship period in charge of the Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary of St. Andrew's, with Miss E. Scott and Mrs. D. Drummond leading. The story of the year's work was told in the reports of the various secretaries, the first being that of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. J. Wagar, whose report follows:

"The time of survey has come once again for Peterborough Presbyterial, and as we look back over the year we feel that we have been abundantly blessed.

"As we listen to our capable and consecrated president and her staff we realize what they have accomplished in the midst of a depression they have never before encountered and we can look forward with complete confidence to the future growth of the Presbyterial.

"How can one put into a short report what one has seen and heard of the growth of the Kingdom during 1932? Some one has said "Life is all joy but work, but I say, "work is all joy but 'annual reports' " and they are the fly in the honey pot. So, this year let us not measure our success in "figures" but rather in the satisfaction derived from loving service in His name.

"Like the Master, we would draw apart from the activities of our own work and seek guidance and strength for the comng year.

As the reports from our twenty-two auxiliaries came one by one into my hands, there is one supreme regret in my mind and that is "that so much has been left out". Figures are there, but what is written between the lines of this strenuous year's work?

50 Met Allocation

While fifty percent of the auxiliaries have reached their financial obligation, we can readily understand that this has meant retrenchment in may ways, and the other fifty percent have probably worked just as hard, made as many sacrifices, without the victory of success. So figures do not always tell the story.

To revert to straight statistics, we have raised from the twenty-two Auxiliaries, approximately $7,431, of which $7,220 was sent to the treasurer. This represents an average of $8.35 per member and a decrease of $767 from last year.

There is a total membership in the Presbyterial of 865 a decrease of 68. A large percentage of these were by removal and death.

During the year 245 meetings were held in the district with an average attendance of 429. There was a decided increase in subscriptions to both the "Missionary monthly (486) and "World Friends" (182). Nine new Life Members augmented the funds by $225.

The envelope givings have also decreased $200, but the mite-box returns are practically the same, $239.

"Associate Helpers" did not measure up so well, by nearly one third, of last year's givings. It would be interesting to know from just what source the givings credited to "other sources" come. They amounted to $3,223.

The money raised specially for supplies was increased over half this year.

With a membership of 122, Trinity United, Peterborough, still leads in givings, with $1,017 to its credit, averaging $8.30 each. George Street Auxiliary is a close second with 134 members reaching $1,011, an average of $7.50 each.

Knox United Church still shows the highest average givings. Their 26 members raising $1,324, averaging over $50 a member. Perhaps other auxiliaries in different circumstances and according to membership and allocation, may deserve higher credit.

St. Andrews gave $610 from 43 members and averaged $17.50 and Keene, with 57 members gave $445 an average of $6.80, while Bethany, Cottesloe, Lakefield (Knox), Lakefield (Regent), St. James, Warsaw, and Westwood all deserve special mention in having successfully reached their allocation.

Systematic-giving has increased all along the line, since more than 25% of the total givings was through the envelope system alone.

George Street leads in systematic giving with 54%, Bethany, 36%, Bensfort 41%, St. James and Westwood, 30%, the others following with various percentages.

Through the humble mite-box $239 was gathered in, Havelock leading and Lakefield (Knox), second.

Peterborough Presbyterial finances, its large business proposition with a maximum expense of 1%.

Along the same line the secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance Mrs. M. A. Morrison said in her very encouraging report:

Our report of allocations reached is nto as good as previous years but when we remember existing conditions, we as a presbyterial still have great reason to give thanks. Under times of depression the amount of money raised may not be as large, but we know the spiritual and missionary interests have always increased, as is always the case, the more sacrifice we have to make for a cause, the more interested we become. In the reports I received, a note was sounded; better attendance at regular meetings, increased number giving systematically, weekly or monthly by envelope, many societies praying specially for missionaries. For all these most important blessings we should thank our Heavenly Father. We know His presence has been with us through the year, and as we enter this year we again claim His presence with us, to enable us to accomplish more for Him. "It is not by might nor by power, but by My spirit," saith the Lord.

Out of 122 Auxiliaries nearly half succeeded in reaching the allocation set them, while none of the six Y.W.A.'s came up to the top. Four Circles and 9 Bands were successful in a financial sense, showing that every organization under the W.M.S. is "standing by."

Treasurer's Report.

Another eagerly listened to report was that of the treasurer, who, in spite of decreases, was steadfastly optimistic. She had received from the various auxiliaries in round numbers $7 220. From Y.W.A.'s $1,374.38, Circles $381, Mission Bands $444, and C.G.I.T. groups $20.00, a total of $9,438 for the year.

Following this report prayer was offered by Mrs. Robert Bonney, dedicating the money to the Lord for the carrying on of His work through the W.M.S.

The afternoon offering was taken by the ladies of George Street Auxiliary, after which a delightful duet, "The Morning of Life," was rendered by Mrs. Scott Wildman and Miss Pearl Carruthers, with Mrs. David Howat accompanying at the piano.

An illumianting and authoritative address on the missionary work in India was delivered by Mrs. (Dr.) Scott, who has recently returned from this field, where her husband served as a medical missionary.

"The problems among the women and children of India," declared the speaker, "are the same as are found on any other field. We have many unfair pictures drawn of these people, such as the throwing of babies into the Ganges, but, at heart, they are really just as loving and sympathetic as are most Canadians.

How is the W.M.S. meeting the situation in India? Evangelistic work is carried on in twelve stations; in nine stations it is done entirely by the wives of the missionaries. Assisting in this work are the native Bible women who have been trained in special classes.

Educational work is also important among the non-Christian children and is carried on in boarding schools, day schools, Normal schools and in eighteen universities, in sixteen of which English is taught. Valuable training is also given by the hospitals which are manned by capable physicians and surgeons.

The speaker also emphasized the attitude of these people toward the westerner. They are ready to accept his Christ, but not his Christianity. The scandals of our land are printed in Bombay as soon as in our own papers and help to create this critical feeling toward our civilization. By their lives and examples the Christian missionaries are trying to counteract this impression and in their Christian homes are setting up new ideals for these people to follow.

The non-Christians are making many strides in their social service work but they have centuries of gross ignorance to combat.

In her outline of the work done by the mission hospitals of the W.M.S. and of the work among the lepers, Mrs. Scott gave many personal incidents, testifying to the valuable and constructive work which is being carried on in this respect. In closing she paid tribute to the noble contribution being made by the W.M.S. in all phases of work in Central India.

Memorial Service

A beautiful and impressive memorial service, in honor of those who have passed on during the year, was conducted by Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse.

Seventeen members of the Presbyterial Auxiliaries are mourned, and sincerest sympathy extended to the friends.

A loving tribute from classes of George Street Sunday School was the lovely bouquet of roses in memory of the members of their W.M.S, Mrs. George Powell, Miss C. Spence and Miss Emma McCamus. This service was concluded with prayer, by Mrs. George Taylor of Warsaw.

The dinner hour was of especial interest and the hospitality of the church was thoroughly enjoyed.

A beautifully worded address of welcome was tendered the guests by Mrs. E. W. Coon, on behalf of her church and auxiliary. She graciously yielded to the time-honored custom, and as president of the local society, expressed their pleasure at entertaining such an august company.

Mrs. William Yale, of Lakefield, on behalf of the visiting ladies, thanked George Street Auxiliary for the kindly welcome, that had been given from the first moment of entering the church.

A very pleasing event of the evening program was the playlet, "Aunt Polly's Miracle," staged by members of the local Mission Circle. Group conferences were held by the respective secretaries and proved very interesting. Miss M. Donaldson leading for C.G.I.T. girls and Connie Wagar for Mission Bands.

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, pastor of the convention church, presided during the evening session, and Rev. J. V. McNeely, chairman of the Presbytery brought greetings to the assembled W.M.S. workers, with many commendatory words.

The offering was taken by C.G.I.T. girls, and the beautiful offertory, "Worship the Lord in Beauty of Holiness," was rendered in splendid voice by George Street Church choir, directed by the organist, David Howat.

Miss Connie Wagar, who has acted as Presbyterial Secretary for Mission Bands during the past eight months, brought an interesting report of the work being carried on among the boys and girls, who number 333 in 11 different groups. These groups held a total of 164 meetings last year, with a total average attendance of 272. Nine names have been added to the life membership roll for 1932.

Of the 11 Bands who reported, the following five had evidently made a serious effort to meet all or most of the requirements: St. Andrew's, Knox (Peterborough); George Street, Havelock, and St. James' The Presbyterial Treasurer also reports that the majority of the Bands made prompt quarterly remittance.

Most of the Bands report real worship services in which the children participate in the prayer and the reading of the Scriptures. Many groups also tell of their most interesting meetings and of the exercises and pageants presented at these.

On the financial side, the reports were most encouraging, since every Band had reached its allocation for the past year. About 63 per cent of this money was raised through other sources, and helpful suggestions were sent in as to how this might be done. Autumn and Easter thankofferings also held a high place, being about one-seventh of the total givings, while $33.42 was realized from the mite boxes. The total givings show a slight increase of about seven dollars over those of last year.

In the Baby Bands the membership is now 87 from the four groups, Havelock, Lakefield (Knox), Mark Street, and St. James', with a total amount raised of $7.85.

The speaker was introduced in gracious words by the chairman of the evening and the splendid interest shown throughout her address was an unspoken compliment.

As special speaker at the evening session Miss Isobel McIntosh, W.M.S. Travelling secretary, gave in a series of vivid and interesting word pictures a survey of the work being done throughout Canada by nome missionaries. "Mission work," said the speaker, in introducing her subject, "has a world vision, a world purpose, and a world goal. If we go back to the days of Jesus we find Him lifting people to higher levels, and it is by His command that we carry on this same work. If we claim Him as Lord and Saviour we have a legitimate responsibility and behind it an ideal and a vision. We are thrilled when we hear the stories of what has been accomplished in the last fifteen years, when doors have been opened to us in Korea, India, Japan, and the other far-off lands. "To-night," continued the speaker, "I bring you a message from our missions in Canada — in the Oriental homes of the Pacific Coast, in the mining towns, and in the great agricultural lands. In each of these are our missionaries bringing love and companionship to the women and leadership and guidance to the youth."

Throughout her address Miss McIntosh gave many intimate glimpses into the lives and work of these missionaries, who either in the educational or evangelistic line reaped real results from their efforts. Work is being carried on among the Indians, both in the East and in the West, for although they live in peace to-day, yet they need Christian leadership. In their reserves, we find well-equipped schools, a little manse and church. At the latter we find an Indian woman at the organ, and the soloist, too, is a native Indian. Here, too, the women meet in their W.M.S. gatherings. In this part of God's vineyard the missionary serves you, bringing joy and light into the lives about her. Today we hear a great deal of the lure of the Peace River country, where many pioneers of British stock are building up new homes. These will be as great as we make them by sending in our missionaries with the Gospel of Jesus.

In outlining the problems of Western Canada, the speaker told of the great work being done by the W.M.S. through their supply secretaries. With various touching incidents she emphasized the great need for such service as well as the appreciation felt by those in need. As we go through the West we see many unpretentious buildings which are the mission hospitals, where a nurse is doing splendid duty and where some child's life may be saved because you were interested in missionary work. Canada is building up a nation from the seventy nationalities whom she has really invited to her shores. These will live in peace and harmony just so far as we make it possible. We do not want a little China or a little Italy scattered here and there through our lands, but we do want a united Canada. Because first impressions are so lasting we have missionaries at every port to welcome these strangers. The poor bewildered foreigners grow to look upon the missionary as their only friends, but always she points them to a Greater Friend. These people are followed up no matter where they go in Canada, and are linked up in some way with the church. Through our community centres of both W.M.S. and Home Mission Boards a great piece of work is being done from East to West in Canada. We are faced to-day with wide opportunities and many difficulties, but it is the women of the W.M.S. who have the vision and the ideal to meet these. This year let us concentrate our efforts toward the Kingdom of God movement. Let us accept our responsibilities and not only 'talk' of them, but 'do' as well, with the vision before us of the task at our doorway. As we think of our Master and Saviour, let us remember that the missionary work is the greatest enterprise of the whole world."

A hymn, "Wonderful Love," and the benediction by the pastor, Mr. Millyard, brought the day's activities to a successful and happy conclusion.

DUG-OUT CLUB BURNS.

GALT.—"No loss" is chalked up in the fire department books, but members of the Rinkey Dink Club here think there should be. The palatial dug-out of the Rinkeys, partly concealed in the banks of the Grand River, was totally destroyed by fire. The youthful clubmen will probably rebuild.

Will hogs eat snakes?

What animal eats bees?

Are all white Persian cats deaf?

Correctly Speaking—

When "as to", in regard to, or in respect to is used as a single preposition to govern a clause, the "to" should not be made to govern a substantive withtn the clause.

To-Day's Horoscope.

Persons born on this day have great executive ability, acute reasoning powers, and fine intellects.

Words of Wisdom

A single word often betrays a great design.—Racine.

Answers to Foregoing Questions

1. The bureau of animal industry says that hogs do consume snakes.
2. Skunks have the reputation of eating bees.
3. All white cats are deaf, provided they have been bred from white stock.

HASTINGS PAIR 34 YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson Observe Anniversary at Social Evening.

MARRIED IN 1899

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Jan. 18.—On Wednesday, Jan. 11, Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson observed the thirty-fourth anniversary of their wedding at their home on Front street. Many Hastings friends called during the day to wish them many more years of happy wedded bliss.

Both Mr. and Mrs Stevenson were born in Hastings district, Mr. Stevenson being born in the township of Percy, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson. Mrs. Stevenson whose maiden name, Ella May Beavis is a daughter of the late John Beavis and Mrs. Beavis now a resident of Hastings, formerly of Asphodel township.

The ceremony which took place on January 11, 1899 was performed by Rev. Mr. Johnson of Hastings Methodist church, Miss Etta Weldon of Lindsay was bridesmaid while Mr. Joseph Anderson who was manager of the Union Bank at Hastings at that time assisted the groom.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson settled on the groom's farm in Percy township, twenty-four years ago they moved into Hastings where the groom carried on a very successful business as a drover, retiring from this line of business to enter the grocery and butcher business for the past fourteen years.

To the happy union were born one daughter and one son, Mrs. A. Brubacher of Kitchener and Stanley who is connected with his father in the business.

Pneumonia Follows Accident To Child

Alma May Taylor, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Taylor, 225 George street, has developed pneumonia as a result of the shock she suffered Saturday afternoon when knocked down by a motor car. Her injuries were not deemed serious at the time of the accident, but Sunday she developed pneumonia, Dr. A. G. Howson, who is attending her, said today that while her condition is serious there is every hope for her recovery.

The child ran across George street from the east side just below Sherbrooke street and was struck by a car driven by John Welsh, of Otonabee. Welsh was driving north on George street and told police he did not see the child until she was right in front of his fender. She appeared to have suffered only a few minor cuts and bruises.

Water power installations in Canada at the end of 1932 aggregated slightly over seven million horsepower.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

TORONTO, January 18. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat 40c to 44c, oats, 20c to 24c; barley 32c to 35c; corn, 33c to 35c; rye, 30c to 32c; buckwheat, 27c to 29c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—With Montreal quoting easier prices on creamery solids, the local market was slightly easier yesterday as trading continued slow for both Ontario and Western makes. Local brokers lowered their prices to 21c to 21¼c for No. 1 Ontario solids and 20¾c for No. 2 re-graded solids were held fairly firm at 21½c, but there was small demand for this quality at the higher price. Quotations to retailers were steady at 25c for No. 1 creamery prints and 24c for No. 2.

Cheese

The demand for new makes of cheese was fairly good and prices were steady, though there were indications that fractionally higher levels would be asked this week. Yesterday brokers quoted new large at 10c, new twins at 10¼c and new triplets at 10½c. Quotations to the trade were unchanged at 11¼c for new large, 11½c for new twins, 11¾c for new triplets and 13¾c for new Stiltons.

Eggs

The supplies of fresh eggs were fairly well cleared, due to the lower levels in effect during the past few days, and further reductions were thought likely as receipts increase. Prices to country shippers were firm at 22c for extras, 20c for firsts, 18c for pullet extras, and 16c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. To retailers prices were steady with the week's decline at 30c for extras in cartons, 28c for extras loose, 26c for firsts loose, 22c for pullet extras loose, and 21c for seconds loose. Brokers held to 27c for extras, 24c for firsts, 21c for pullet extras and 19c for seconds, graded and in free cases.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—Egg prices continued lower on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Graded fresh eggs in car lots or less eased slightly, extras losing a cent at 29c, with firsts at 26c and pullets at 25c a dozen both holding unchanged. Storage extras in car lots or less lost half a cent at 22c, firsts gained a cent at 21c and seconds held firm at 19c a dozen. To retailers fresh specials in cartons at 36c to 37c, fresh extras at 34c to 35c, and fresh firsts at 31c to 32c a dozen were all off a cent. Other lines were unchanged. Receipts totalled 1,084 cases.

No. 1 butter in car lots or less lost ¼-cent at 21c a pound. Receipts were 27 boxes.

Current receipts of Ontario cheese advanced ¼c. Colored was quoted at 10c a pound and white at 8½c to 8¾c a pound. Early Ontario was steady at 10½c to 11¼c a pound. Receipts were only 11 boxes.

Potatoes were unchanged at 85c for New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag, 90c for Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 80-pound bag, and $1 for Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.— Lively upturns of wheat prices yesterday went hand in hand with unverified reports of a proposed 20,000,000 bushel purchase of Canadian wheat by Russia.

Considerable credence was given to word of Russian-Canadian negotiations. In a similar bargain last year, Russia took liberal quantities of Australian wheat for shipment to Vladivostok, a Russian port on the Pacific north of Japan.

Wheat closed unsettled, but little below the day's top, ½c to 7-8c above Monday's finish; corn, 1-8c to 3-8c up; oats, 1-8c to ¼c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5c off.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 18. — Renewal of export interest and reports that Russia was angling for the purhase of 20,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat gave a filip to the wheat prices near the close of an otherwise dull trading session yesterday. Reports of the Russian negotiations, which were unconfirmed, ran wheat values up half a cent in the closing minutes of trade.

The market closed steady, ½c to ⅝c higher, with May at 45c, July at 46½c to 46⅝c, and October at 47¾c.

More than 500,000 bushels were credited to export account, and the shippers reported an improvement noted in the demand for Canadian wheat. Inter-marketing spreading operations were light and very uninteresting, and outside support with the exception of a few scattered ordres from houses with Vancouver connections, was lacking.

Broomhall said Canada would enjoy unusually favorable marketing opportunities during the next six months because of the absence of competition from other sources, such as Russia.

Cash wheat and coarse grains trading was routine, with spreads practically unchanged. There was no improvement discernible in the flour situation.

The action was taken under a law which provided that a land owner, if he owned more than a certain number of acres, would face eviction and the land would be divided among the poor classes.

SNOWSTORMS IN ENGLAND

LONDON.—Winter has at last gripped England, snow has covered several parts of the countryside, and a frosty nip in the air has converted what was almost like summer weather into a more seasonable climate. The races at Birmingham were postponed due to snow, and the Lincolnshire Fens were a pure white, and the Peak country in Derbyshire was comparatively "snowed under."

ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL SET AT 3,319

Encouraging Reports Read at Grace Presbyterian Church Sunday School Meeting.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING

MILLBROOK, January 18 (Examiner Correspondence). — Grace Presbyterian Sunday School featured its annual meeting with a large attendance, encouraging reports and the minister, Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., presiding.

The secretary, Murray Belch presented the year's activities in an interesting manner, the total attendance being 3,319, an average of 67; the young men's class, T. W Belch, teacher, won the banner given quarterly for the highest average present at the weekly sessions, for the first three-quarters of the year, and the class taught by Miss Ruth Thorndyke held it for the final quarter.

Joe Thorndyke, treasurer, reported a substantial balance in the bank and all obligations fully met. Classes were reported individually by the teachers, gratifying results being observed in each case, and the superintendent, J. H. McKnight, in his brief address, expressed pleasure regarding the work accomplished in the past twelve months, and hopefulness for the year ahead.

The election, presided over by the slate for 1933:

Superintendent, J. H. McKnight; secretary, Murray Belch; treasurer, Joe Thorndyke; pianist, Ruth Thorndyke; assistant pianist, Miss Jessie Armstrong.

Teachers—Beginners, Mrs. J. H. McKnight; Primary, Miss Muriel Ball; assistant, Vanita Ingram; Intermediate Department, boys, Miss Ruth Thorndyke, girls, Mrs. S. E. Eakins. Young Ladies, Mrs. Nathaniel Belch; Young Men, T. W. Belch; Bible Class, Mrs. J. R. Thompson and Rev. H. R. Williams; Cradle Roll superintendent, Mrs. R. McMahon; auditors, N. Belch and S. E. Eakins.

W.M.S. Officers.

The officers of the Women's Missionary Society of Grace Presbyterian Church, as elected following the annual meeting, for 1933 are:

President, Mrs. William Deyell; vice-presidents, Mrs. Z. Seaton and Mrs. Kennedy; secretary, Mrs. J. R Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Eakins.

Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of Grace Presbyterian Church brought out a good attendance, was presided over by the pastor, Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., and was featured by reports that showed marked progress, a sound financial standing, and a year of constructive activities, with the promise of still higher attainment in the twelve months ahead.

The report of the Women's League showed a total raised of $621.52, the sum of $235.00 given to the church management, and a balance of $237.00 still in the bank. The funds were acquired largely through five major events: The annual strawberry festival, the dinner served at the Fair Grounds on Fall Fair day the annual fowl supper in November, and the sale of fancy work and hot supper served in December and the play by the Dramatic Club just preceding Christmas. The new officers for 1933 are: President, Mrs C Thorndyke; vice-presidents, Mrs J. H. Paul, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, and Mrs. H McLeod; secretary, Miss Ethel McKnight; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Deyell.

J. H. McKnight presented the report from the Sunday School which has a good balance on hand. Mrs. J. R. Thompson giving an account of the Bible Class activities, and the congregational treasurer, T. C Ingram reported a total raised of $1,720.93, expenditures of $1,861.96, leaving a balance on hand of $58.97. On motion of James H. Paul and C Thorndyke, the financial report was adopted. The W.M.S. report was also presented, showing excellent results for the year's study and activities.

The auditors' report showed the books of the Women's League and the church treasurer correct, and the following managers were reappointed for 1933: C. C Gardiner, E. L. Armstrong, H. W Ball, James H. Paul, T. W. Belch, R. J. McKnight, and Charles Thorndyke.

T. C. Ingram was re-appointed congregational treasurer, and C. C. Gardiner and E. L. Armstrong auditors. Ushers are: Joe Thompson Gordon Armstrong, George McKnight, John Thompson, Jack Armstrong, and R. J. McKnight Trustees include: J. R. Eakins, J. H McKnight, V. R. Hunter. On motion of A. Coulter and J. H. McKnight it was decided not to have any reports printed this year.

Rev. Mr. Williams warmly thanked the church officials, and the congregation generally, for their hearty co-operation in all the work of the church since he had become their pastor, and a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. J R Eakins and her class of girls for the handsome pulpit lamp given during the year. The pastor dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

COALITION OPPOSED

REGINA.—Definite rejection of any coalition move in Saskatchewan was approved in a resolution passed early this morning by the Provincial Liberal party at a caucas here.

After meeting all day Wednesday the Provincial Council of the Liberal Association passed unanimously a resolution declaring "Coalition is not in the best interests of the Province."

STEVENS' DAUGHTER TO WED

OTTAWA—The marriage of Miss Marjory Gertrude Stevens, daughter of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Mrs. Stevens, to James E. H. Lovick, son of the late Frank Lovick and Mrs. Lovick, of Vancouver, will take place this evening at the home of the bride's parents.

BIG BUSINESS

SAN FRANCISCO.—Barter has become "big business" in Utah, doing a daily business of as high as $6,000 without the use of a cent in real money.

Utah's barter experiment, which is being watched with keenest interest by economists and sociologists throughout the West, is embodied in the Natural Development Association, an organization with 10,000 members and branches reaching into California, Arizona and Southern Idaho.

TIME FOR PUZZLES

NORRISTOWN, Pa.—When "Big Jackie" Lehman was told his sentence for shooting Ralph Spanish had been commuted from death in the electric chair to life imprisonment, he rolled over on his bunk. "Thanks, Warden," he murmured, contentedly, "now I can finish my jig-saw puzzle."

RADIO LICENSE CASE DISMISSED

Windsor Magistrate Urges Amending of Law Governing Set Operation.

POORLY WORDED.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 19 (C.P.).—Need of an amendment to the law governing radio operation and license was stressed by Magistrate W. A. Smith in dismissing a charge against Archie F. Gignac for not paying the required fee.

"Under the wording of the Act, every person who turns the dial and tunes in on a radio set must have a license or be subject to a penalty," said the bench. "I am quite sure this was never the intention of the framers of this piece of legislation. There is no presumption under the Act a person in possession of a radio set has installed it or has been working or operating it, so there must be strict proof of the offence before a conviction can properly be made. An amendment to the Act, it seems to me, is long overdue."

The defence contended that if Mr. Gignac, solicitor for Sandwich West Township, was guilty under the Act, then every person in a home would have to have a license to operate a radio set.

URGE SEPARATE TRUCK-RAILWAY PARLEY LATER

Delegates Recognize Serious Condition Being Caused By Competition.

REVIEW BY MANION.

Debate on Dominion Control Over Insurance Field is Renewed.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 (C.P.).—Regulation of truck and motor services competing with inter-Provincial and National Railway facilities may be the subject of a separate conference between Dominion and Provincial representatives in about three months' time. This suggestion was thrown out shortly before the Dominion-Provincial conference adjourned for luncheon to-day.

Uniformity of truck and motor services throughout the Dominion of Canada would be one aim of the proposed parley. Methods would also be considered to deal with the situation caused by the inroads which these services are making on the revenues of Canadian railways.

Serious Condition

The condition is somewhat serious. From the brief discussion on the subject before adjournment, there appeared to be a recognition of this fact.

A review of the entire situation is understood to have been made by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals. Dr. Manion stressed the outline given in the report of the Duff Royal Commission of the amount of passengers and freight carried by busses and trucks. While this situation caused heavy losses to the railways, it was not as great as losses due by the privately-owned motor cars. The attitude in England towards the situation was briefly sketched by the Minister.

Quebec and Ontario are to follow giving their views on the subject.

Relative jurisdiction of the Dominion and the Provinces over insurance companies was considered. Ontario and Quebec in discussions this morning, supported somewhat by British Columbia, want to retain their present authority over such companies in the provincial field. The two central provinces have a number of these companies within their borders.

The Dominion, on the other hand, wants to control and supervise the operation of insurance concerns. For this purpose, a Dominion Department of Insurance was established some years ago to supervise the operation of such concerns to guard the public and have uniformity of operation.

WOMAN'S BODY EXHUMED AS POLICE PROBE DEATHS

TORONTO, Jan. 19 (C.P.).—The body of Mrs. Margaret Stainburn was exhumed from a cemetery here to-day as police extended their investigation to a fourth death in East York. Mrs. Stainburn, her daughter, Miss Edith Stainburn, Fred, her son, and Dr. E. C. Bryans all died during the past three years, and police had been quietly investigating the deaths for some time.

It was definitely announced yesterday the deaths of the three were under survey, and Mrs. Stainburn's body would be exhumed. The death of her son is the latest development.

Fred Stainburn died suddenly on December 28, 1931. Dr. L. C. Palmer, who attended the man, declared death was due to a stroke, aggravated by high blood pressure.

CHALDEAN RELICS SENT TO ONTARIO UNIVERSITY

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 19 (C.P.).—Chaldean relics, recovered by Leonard Wooley, famous explorer and excavator for British museums, will be presented to the University of Western Ontario, according to a cable received by Dr. Sherwood Fox, president of the University.

Mr. Wooley, while lecturing here three years ago, told Dr. Fox some of the relics from Mesopotamia were to be distributed to overseas universities.

"I wrote applying for some," Dr Fox said, "but was told those on hand had already been distributed. Our turn was to await some future expedition." He was very surprised but highly gratified to know the local university would receive the treasures.

An impacting machine developed in University of Toronto laboratories is claimed to greatly aid germination of clover seeds through its action in breakening or weakening their hard shells.

Rescued in African Jungle

Surounded by roaring African lions, lost in the jungle without food or water, and surrounded by natives is an experience that few would care to try. Yet Joan Page (above), daughter of Sir Arthur Page, Chief Justice of Burma, and Audrey Sale-Barker, two intrepid and pretty British girl fliers, had such an experience when they were forced down, on January 14, near Nairobi, Kenya, in Africa. Search parties by air and by foot finally succeeded in locating the two frightened girls after they had languished in the jungle for more than 36 hours. The girls, prominent socially in London, were returning from a London-to-Cape Town flight when they were forced down.

CRISIS NEAR, ULTIMATUM SENT JAPAN

League To Invoke Pacts Unless Lytton Report Accepted.

GIVEN TILL FRIDAY.

Clause Inviting Non-League Members To Sit In Is Omitted.

GENEVA, Jan. 19.—The League of Nations' committee of nineteen considering the Chinese-Japanese controversy over Manchuria last night served Japan with an ultimatum that the League will act as it sees fit unless Japan by Friday accepts, in the main, the original report on the crisis.

The committee expressed willingness to agree to Tokio's request that the clause inviting the United States and Soviet Russia to sit in on the proposed new committee on negotiations regarding the entire Manchurian problem be omitted.

Otherwise, the original draft is to be accepted. Japan threatened to quit the League unless her stipulations were met. The committee of nineteen decided she could quit if by Friday Tokio had not fallen into line.

The ultimatum said the League would proceed under paragraph 4, of article XV of the League covenant if Japan remained recalcitrant. That paragraph, in effect would tend to place the blame for the Manchurian problem on Japan, if the League acted as it permits.

The committee instructed Paul Hymans, of Belgium, its chairman to give the Japanese until Friday to reply.

Upholds Lytton Report

The draft resolution of December 9, which is the one referred to—and which so far had been kept secret—was made available in full last night.

It upheld the Lytton report and affirmed that a settlement, to be negotiated through the League,

DEATH PENALTY STANDS FOR SLAYER OF WOMAN

THREE RIVERS, Que., January 19 (C.P.). — When advised that commutation of the death penalty had been refused him by the Department of Justice at Ottawa Alfred Coulombe fainted in his cell here to-day. Coulombe is to be hanged to-morrow morning for the murder of Mrs. Marie Louise Valcourt. He was revived, but was reported to be weak and moaning in despair.

According to evidence at the trial Coulombe killed the woman by striking her over the head with an iron bar. They had quarrelled over financial matters.

Alberta seed grain exhibitors won a total of 68 prizes at the International Hay and Grain Show, Chicago, 1932.

Missing Aviatrix Reported Safe

PARIS, Jan. 19 (C.P.).—The Air Ministry to-day received a report by wireless that Lady Mary Bailey, missing on a flight to Cape Town, had been found in Nigeria.

The message said she had been found by French Army flyers 15 miles south-west of Tahoua, in the colony of Niger, French West Africa.

She made a forced landing there, and in doing so damaged the gasoline feed line. Apparently she was not hurt.

TOWN GOT RENT ON OWN HOUSES

Commissioner Finds Sturgeon Falls Made Properties, Seized for Taxes, Pay.

DUPLICATION REVEALED.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Jan. 19 (C.P.).—A number of cases in which the town of Sturgeon Falls collected rent on municipal-owned houses from the Government were uncovered here to-day as the Commission inquiring into relief expenditure checked the municipal "rent book" against the assessor's roll with the assistance of Assessor J. A. Portin.

In the past three or four years the town has taken in several houses at tax sales. It placed persons on relief in these houses and collected their rent from the Government.

Several cases of duplications, in which rent was paid on two houses for the same period, were also disclosed. The full extent of the duplications will not be known until a more complete check has been made, according to investigators.

No evidence was taken at the morning session of the Commission, presided over by Judge J. M. Hall of Sault Ste. Marie.

Wright's Lion Hunt Delayed By Rains

WOLF ISLAND, Mo., Jan. 19. — (C.P.).—Between the heavy rumblings of a thunderstorm and the roaring of two lions, the members of Denver M. Wright's lion-hunting party had little sleep last night.

Up to last night the two lions had been fairly passive in their cages, but when the lightning flashed and the thunder crashed across the sandy little island where the party are encamped, the felines set up a sleep-shattering hubbub.

Meanwhile Wright is firm in his decision not to release the lions until the willow growths on the island have dried out. He said there is danger of the animals taking cold and dying before he can kill them, if they are released in the rainy weather.

Members of the hunting party are spending their time shooting at crows on the island.

WOMAN SUFFERS SEVERE INJURY IS HIT BY CAR

Mrs. Caroline Milbourn Suffers Bad Fracture of Skull.

WALKING ON STREET.

Icy Condition of Streets Made Traffic Very Dangerous.

The icy condition of the streets to-day was responsible for an accident early this morning in which Mrs. Caroline E. Milbourn, aged 60, of 294 Aylmer street, suffered a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Milbourn, who is employed as charwoman at the city buildings, was walking to work at 6.40 this morning. She found the sidewalks slippery and chose to walk in the centre of the roadway along Charlotte street. In front of the White House Hotel she was knocked down by a car driven by William Driver, who operates a fleet of taxicabs.

Driver was proceeding east on Charlotte street with E. Graham, 450 Aylmer street, as passenger in his car. "I wasn't going more than 12 miles an hour because the road was so icy," he told police. "I noticed a man on a bicycle going along just ahead of me, and I was watching him. I turned left to go around him and struck Mrs. Milbourn. I didn't see her until she was right in front of my fender, and I stopped the car within its length."

Fracture of Skull

He said that it was sleeting at the time, but he had his windshield wiper going. He assisted in carrying Mrs. Milbourn into the White House, where she was attended by Dr. Herbert Young. The injured woman was removed to Nicholls Hospital. X-rays were taken which showed that she had a two-and-half-inch fracture at the base of her skull. Her condition was said to be serious, although she had not lost consciousness.

Driver told The Examiner that Mrs. Milbourn had been holding an umbrella over her head when his car struck her. The umbrella was left on the road for a few minutes, while the injured woman was given first aid in the hotel. When he went out to get the umbrella it was nowhere about. "Someone had stolen it," Driver said.

Streets Were Dangerous

Due to the dangerous condition of the streets and roadways, pedestrians and car drivers had to use every precaution and great care in moving along the streets. Cars skidded and turned completely around on the glassy surface of ice that covered the road, while pedestrians repeatedly lost their footing and fell upon the icy wet sidewalks. However, no other serious accidents or injuries were reported.

HEBREW TONGUE REVIVAL GREAT MODERN MIRACLE

Jewish Newspaper Editor Resurrected Language Of David.

USED BY MILLIONS.

By PIERRE VAN PASSSEN

Copyright

TEL AVIV, Jan. 19.—Mussolini said to me in October, 1927: "If you ever go to Palestine, be sure to look up my friend Itamar ben Avi. That man not only speaks Hebrew, he telegraphs in the language of Isaiah!" It so happened that I knew Avi quite well. He is the editor of a Hebrew paper in Tel Aviv. But even more than that he is "the son of his father," the great Eliazar ben Yehuda. Ben Yehuda was the first man to speak exclusively in Hebrew in Palestine. He dropped the Yidish and dared to employ the ancient sacred tongue in every-day life. He was ostracized and persecuted for his attempt. Yet he persisted. Today the whole of Palestine speaks Hebrew and many millions of Jews in the Dispersion have followed suit.

Pierre van Paassen

Hebrew is a living language today. Policemen direct you on your way in no other tongue in Tel Aviv. Little children talk it in the streets of the new Palestinian cities and villages. Books, masses of them on every conceivable subject, from the most abstract philosophic theses to the popular treatises on the use of incubators and the care of oranges exist in Hebrew and pour daily from the presses. There are seven daily newspapers published in Hebrew in Palestine and 67 magazines and other periodicals. A record for any country, taking into consideration comparative population figures.

"This language" said Renan, speaking of Hebrew, "will never be put to profane use. It is a quiver of steel arrows, a cable with strong coils, a trumpet of brass, crashing through the air with two or three sharp notes. Hebrew is a language not destined to say much, but what it does, is beaten out upon an anvil. It is to pour out floods of anger, and utter cries of rage against the abuses of this world, calling the four winds of heaven to the assault of the citadels of evil. Like the jubilee of the sanctuary it will never be put to profane use."

Young Man Slain By His Brother When Axe Slips

Wilfred McKague, Morganston, Died Almost Immediately When His Jugular Vein Was Severed When Axe In Hands Of His Brother Slipped.

TWO YOUNG MEN WERE CUTTING WOOD WHEN ACCIDENT HAPPENED ON WEDNESDAY.

Crosscut Saw Became Stuck In Limb And One Young Man Took Axe To Free It—In Doing So Axe Slipped Off Limb And Hit Brother.

MORGANSTON, January 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — Struck in the throat by a heavy axe, wielded by his brother, Wilfred McKague, 21, sustained terrible injuries from which he died almost immediately. Unable to speak, the stricken youth staggered a distance of about ten feet before he dropped dead.

The fatality occurred late on Wednesday afternoon, while the two brothers, Wilfred and Eric McKague, were at work in woods near their home, two miles west of here. It is stated the cross-cut saw, which the two youths were operating became stuck in the limb of a tree. Eric attempted to loosen the saw, and in doing so the axe he was using glanced off the limb o fthe tree and struck Wilfred in the throat with considerable force, severing the jugular vein.

Eric McKague summoned aid from neighboring farmers, and Dr A Armstrong was called. Later the body was removed to the funeral parlors, and arrangements were concluded for the funeral to be held on Friday at Castleton United Church at 2 p.m., with interment at Castleton Cemetery.

Of a bright and likeable disposition, the victim of the tragedy was well-known throughout the district. He had spent a year at Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers and four sisters. Two of the brothers, Clarence and Eric, attended school at Peterborough, the former having been a Normal School student, and the latter having been enrolled at Peterborough Business College.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., January 19 (C.P.). — Rev. W. G. Swayne, at present rector of Bath and Ernestown, has been appointed to the incumbency of Rawdon, with rectory at Bonarlaw, it was announced by Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, to-day. The new rector will succeed Rev. M. J. C. Tevason, recently named rector of Oxford Mills.

TERRORIST DRIVE HITS TIPPERARY

Cosgrave Supporters Are Unable To Conduct Campaign.

WARNED TO DESIST.

De Valera In Dublin Tells Great Crowd His Victory, Sure.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, January 19 (C.P. and A.P. Cables). — President Eamonn de Valera, speaking at Cork before one of the biggest audiences of his campaign, expressed confidence last night that his Republican Party will obtain a majority over all other parties in the election on January 24.

Meanwhile what Nationalists described as a veritable reign of terror existed in Tipperary and politicians owing allegiance to former President William T. Cosgrave said they were having difficulty in conducting their campaign.

J. J. Hassett, outgoing Nationalist member of the Dail Eireann for Tipperary, wrote the President yesterday and protested his organization could not hire help from the population because of threats from members of a secret body.

Widow Suffers.

In his letter Mr. Hassett told the story of a poor Templemore widow and a pound note with which she had hoped to buy food to keep herself alive.

The Nationalist campaign organizer went to the woman, who is known locally as a very worthy character in great need of money and offered her a pound note for rent of her room as campaign headquarters.

As the woman went happily about preparing the room, members of a secret organization called on her and told her to cancel the arrangement or it would be the worse for her. The Cosgrave organizer then rented two other rooms with the same result.

Mr. Hassett said the automobile owner who always drove him in previous election campaigns had been warned not to do so this time.

During the campaign, which has seen Republican speakers hold up J. H. Thomas, British Dominions Secretary, who attempted to negotiate a settlement of the land annuities dispute with President de Valera, attacked as a son of British bogey, caricatures of Mr Thomas have appeared on gateposts throughout the Free State.

Trouble At Kingston Is Denied By Warden

KINGSTON, Ont., January 19 (C.P.) — Rumors of renewed trouble at Portsmouth Penitentiary were emphatically denied to-day by Col W. Megloughlin, Warden of the institution. There had been reports of a disturbance on Wednesday night. Col. Megloughlin said there was nothing out of the ordinary.

Col. Megloughlin said to-day more than 375 convicts are back at their regular work in the prison shops. Since the October riots there has been little done in the shops, and much work had piled up for the machine shop, mail bag department, tailor shop, and other branches. Col. Megloughlin said matters are rapidly returning to normal, and he anticipated no further trouble.

EXCHANGE RATE OF NEW ZEALAND POUND RAISED

Government Inflation Move Made Despite Bankers' Objections.

IN OPERATION TO-DAY.

Currency Now Worth Half That of Canada Computed on Gold Standard Par.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (C. P. Cable).—The Government has put through a further measure of inflation by raising the exchange rate of the New Zealand pound.

It was announced to-day the Cabinet of Premier J. G. Forbes had increased the rate to place 125 New Zealand pounds on a par with 100 pounds sterling. This move was made despite strenuous objections from the banks.

The higher rate is to go into operation to-day.

In following out its own policies of inflation against the specific wishes of the banks, the Government accepts full responsibility for the consequences. The banks have officially stated they will co-operate, although, added an official it was "reluctant" co-operation.

Resignation Accepted

Hon. Downie Stewart, former Minister of Finance, was unable to countenance the inflation policy of the cabinet, and yesterday tendered his resignation. This was accepted to-day.

The exchange in London on the New Zealand pound has been around 111 to 113. To-day's important decision means roughly the New Zealand currency is approximately half the value of Canadian currency computed on the gold standard par, the New Zealand sterling discount being added to the present depreciation of the pound on Canadian exchange.

In view of the fact the increase in the exchange gives New Zealand exporters an even higher advantage in overseas markets over competitors—Empire or otherwise—who remain on more normal exchange, it is understood the Government will lower the scale of customs duties on Empire imports to New Zealand to ameliorate the effect to some extent.

Rush for British Funds

Just prior to the announcement there was an abnormal rush on the banks for British funds, it being known the Government would almost certainly raise the exchange.

Premier J. G. Forbes has kept

RUSSIAN BARTER URGED BY U.F.A.

Claims Ranchers, Forced Out of British Trade, Need New Markets.

SURPLUS OF CATTLE.

CALGARY, January 19 (C.P.) — Barter of Canadian live stock for Russian oil and coal was endorsed by the United Farmers of Alberta here to-day after details of the current scheme were disclosed. The Canadian Government was asked to give "immediate and favorable" consideration.

S. S. Sears, Nanton, prominent in discussions of the plan with G. G. Serkau, of Winnipeg, and others behind the scheme, said the barter would double the return to the farmer and rancher on the sale of his cattle. One hundred thousand head of cattle would be taken, 70 per cent. being beef cattle and 30 per cent. dairy cattle.

While no mention was made of the price of coal, Mr. Sears said the oil price would be regulated by the price at United States gulf ports.

Canada was forced out of the United Kingdom market when the United Kingdom went off the gold standard, Mr. Sears stated. Canadian ranchers were in need of a market. There were surplus beef cattle in the Western provinces and he believed the dairy cattle could be provided from Eastern herds chiefly Ontario.

GIVE TRIAL JOINING UP RAILWAYS

Might Be Worth While Attempting Gordon Declares.

DEPRESSION MEASURE. Employees Should Have Their Rights Respected.

"If as a depression measure a trial amalgamation could take place between the C.P.R. and C.N.R. during this period of hard times, in order to ascertain whether it would save on the cost of operation and save taxation, it might be worth while attempting," stated Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., today when interviewed concerning his views on the suggestions advanced by President Beatty, of the C.P.R, in an address on Monday before the Canadian Club, Toronto.

The large number of C.N.R. employees, who have been laid off during the last years, has had the effect of creating a considerable measure of suspicion in the minds of these employees as well as a large section of the public, Mr. Gordon commented.

An Equitable Basis.

"If however, on an equitable basis where the employees of each railway would have their rights respected equally, an amalgamation were to be made, the trial of Mr. Beatty's plan would not be objectionable," he stated. "The scheme is so gigantic, that it would require the best minds in Canada to develop this plan so as to eliminate hardship and injustice to various municipalities which are served by the two railways. If the plan did not work out satisfactorily, then the merger could be unscrambled"

Mr. Gordon went on to say that the two lines never competed with each other to any extent because rates were fixed by the Railway Board, and the only competition that existed, was the canvassing for business by one set of employees against the other. "Keeping the men employed alternatively instead of on the seniority system, which gives one man a job and eliminates a man who has not served as long, is creating a great deal of hardship and some measure to correct this system might be arranged with the Railway Executives and the Unions of Employees," he said.

"As a depression measure almost any course of experimenting is justified, and it is hardly a question of private or public ownership in principle that is at stake, but a question of saving the railways and saving the people of Canada some of their earnings," he declared. "It must be remembered that the people of Canada own a vast amount of stock in the C.P.R., and every person in Canada is a shareholder in the C.N.R. and is a sharer in its debts and liabilities."

Cattle From King George's Herds Prize Winners at Big London Show

By Central Press Canadian

LONDON, Jan. 19.—"George, the farmer," is the potential nickname posterity may hold for England's present ruler.

His Britannic Majesty will not be ashamed of the title. During the recent Cattle Show held in London His Majesty, to the dismay and joy of his fellow agriculturists, ran away with one championship prize, six firsts, two seconds and three thirds.

In case it might be thought that the judge's sense of loyalty outran his otherwise sound judgment it must be mentioned that the cattle were "judged blind."

His Hereford steer was awarded the championship prize as well as a first; his Sandringham Red Polls gained two firsts and one second while a heifer in this class was given the supreme breed award.

A highland steer took the blue ribbon of its breed while a first prize heifer from the royal herd was held as reserve. One other first prize and two thirds went to the Sandringham Highlanders.

His Lincoln Red Shorthorns were awarded a first and second prize but the sheep had to be contented with lower places. They obtained a third, fourth and fifth award.

From the farms of the Prince of Wales came two thirds and one second prize. The thirds went to Devon steers and the second went to a Shorthorn heifer.

Church Stops Taking Collections To Avoid Embarassing Congregation

BATLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 19.—Collection boxes at the Bedford Congregational church, near here, are collecting dust, not money, thees days!

The time-honored custom of passing the collection boxes, baskets or plates at services in the little church situated in the small village of Bedford, five miles northwest of this city, has just been discontinued by the Rev. August E. Johansen.

Many of his congregation, drawn from the village and the rural community surrounding it, were embarrassed by the fact that they were unable to put money into the collection plate when it was passed and there were many who stayed away from church to avoid this embarrassment, the young minister says.

For this reason and in view of the hardships of the present times, the practice of passing the collection boxes was stopped.

Not content with this innovation, the Rev. Johansen has gone a step further. He called a meeting of the church elders the other day to make arrangements to take part of his salary in farm produce, such as flour, dressed chickens, potatoes, an dother vegetables.

Each week the minister plans to prepare a list of the staple foods which his family can use and this will be turned over to the church finance committee. Church members in the rural community will then contribute produce from their farms and gardens. The market value of the foodstuffs will be deducted from the minister's weekly salary and the balance given in cash.

MIXED GRILL

(By URSULA BLOOM.)

"I don't mind betting that he's going next door; can't think what the fascination is; it fairly gets me beat," said Miss Jenkins, disappointedly.

"She's bad! That must be it. Looks such a mouse, and yet is deep as the sea." Miss Green flushed as she said it.

They peered through the glass door of Beechington's little general shop; they peered over the well-worn counter of the "habby" department. Surrounded by reels of cotton, by buttons tastefully displayed on cards, pins and scissors in glittering array. Yes, Miss Jenkins was quite right, he was going next door.

Mr. Cyril Sims travelled in wools. The girls in Beechington's thought that he ought to have been a film star. He looked more like that than someone who was just travelling in wools. He was so tall, so dark, he had such a taste in ties.

"When he looks at me with those eyes of his," giggled Miss Jenkins, "I go all squirmy inside."

"Reely now," said Miss Green.

She felt squirmy, too. Men were scarce, and Mr. Sims had to come once a week to Beechington's for orders; he was chatty, sometimes he was almost flirtatious. Surely, the two girls argued, if he were not attracted he would not linger so long, or say such things!

Miss Jenkins, when he first started lingering, bought herself a new frock, one of the saucier kind, with puff sleeves and "ribbins" at the neck. Miss Green had her shingle cut a new way. It gave her personality, the barber told her. Fate had been propitious, for Mr. Sims had looked kindly upon them.

"Nothing I like so much as a good looker," said Mr. Sims, "and in my mind you can't beat Beechington's for beauty!"

They giggled together. It was encouraging.

"I shouldn't know which of you to choose. Twin cherries, eh?"

"Oh, go along with you."

"It's leap year, and why don't one of you ask me? That would solve my difficulty."

Privately they had considered that quite seriously. Mr. Sims got three hundred a year and commission. He drove a little two-seater, a sports model, quite a smart affair. There was no doubt that he would be worth catching.

Suddenly the shop next door reopened. Ever since the imitation fur company had gone broke, the place had stood empty. Now a young widow had come there and had opened it up as an art needlework emporium. The girls were contemptuous of the effort. The widow herself was mously looking, anaemic, the insignificant sort.

"Nothing to fear from her," said Miss Jenkins.

"Not up to much," Miss Green observed. "She'll soon go bang."

Mr. Sims went into the needlework emporium for orders.

"Well, what do you think of her?" they asked.

"Not much," he said, "not my style at all. I like 'em with a kick in 'em," and he laughed.

The second time, however, he changed his views a little. It was lunch time. The shop itself was empty, and she came in from the little sitting room behind, and with her the exquisite smell of stewed steak and mushrooms. If there was one thing that Mr. Cyril Sims fancied more than another, it was a nice piece of stewed steak and mushrooms. The lodgings he was in were not finicky over cooking, and he had a hidden passion for food. It was a long time since he had smelt anything so tasty.

"Smells good," he said.

She flushed. "My poor husband was a one for his meals. I'm afraid I get slack only cooking for myself. Never fancy it when I'm all alone. It's poor fun."

"Not poor fun eating that, I reckon," he murmured and he sniffed the air appreciatively.

She said tentatively, "I suppose you wouldn't care to stay for a bite?"—and blushed.

Mr. Sims stayed. A prime juicy steak and small mushrooms curling round it; afterwards an apple tart with pastry light as love, a clove here and there just as he liked it best. He did not know when he had felt so pleasantly full, or so well satisfied. He got up from the table debating on it. He thanked her profusely and he meant it.

Next week he called purposely about lunch time. She said she had half expected him. It was little portions of liver curled neatly inside a rasher of bacon, and set on fried toast. After there were pancakes, thin and yellow with a snow of sugar and tiny portions of lemon. Well, a fellow couldn't do better than that!

"You should taste my jam omelette," she said.

He licked his lips appreciatively. "I will one day," he promised.

Getting up from the table for the first time he noticed Mrs. Dawlstone herself. She wasn't so mousy as he had thought. She was flushed with the eagerness of cooking for somebody who apreciated it. A pretty little thing, he thought, not painted up like those cackling hussies next door. He lingered over a perfect cup of coffee with a dash of brandy in it. He talked about her life. She had had a hard time, poor girl. In that comfortable mood he was intensely sympathetic.

It went on. Each week he visited the wool shop with a generous appetite for the lunch which always was so well worth eating. The girls next door did not understand what it was all about.

"So short as he is these days; lost all his nice ways," they said, "and in such a hurry to get next door, too!" and they cast vicious glances at the needlework emporium.

"You bet there's more in that than meets the eye," said Miss Jenkins savagely.

The needlework shop shared the fate of the imitation fur stores.

"I shan't be wanting you again," Mrs. Dawlstone told Mr. Sims a trifle tearfully on that last day. "I'm selling up."

"That's rough luck. Where are you going?"

"I'm going to live with a sister in Ialington."

"Why, why didn't you tell me before?" he inquired, for he was taken aback. This would mean that he must take some definite action.

The sitting room was filled with the perfume of mixed grill. There is something subtle about a mixed grill! The sausage so round and shiny, the squashy redness of the pulpy tomatoes, the fried potatoes fat and tempting, steak grilled to a nicety, plump kidneys! He sat down to it with a relish.

"Our last lunch," she ventured a little tearfully, "and I had meant to make you a jam omelette. You really ought to have tasted my jam omelette."

He was sure he ought. It was quite frightful to think that it was a joy he would never experience. Lately, the cooking of his landlady had become a positive menace compared to this.

The jam omelette decided him. He was going to taste it. "Need it be?" he asked. "I've got enough for two. Haven't you guessed why I have kept on coming here?"

She said quite innocently, "I thought it was the food."

He finished the last mouthful of that delicious mixed grill. "Then you thought quite wrong," he said gallantly, but untruthfully.

He took her into his arms and she sobbed on his shoulder. She felt relieved, for she had not wanted to go to her sister in Ialington. He felt supremely happy; mixed grill every day. Something subtle about a mixed grill.

And he would be tasting her jam omelette.

The girls next door as they took down the blinds after the dinner hour sniffed the air.

"Something pretty savory coming from next door," said Miss Jenkins, "wonder what it is."

"Oh, that's her dinner," said Miss Jenkins, "that's of no consequence."

But that was just where she was wrong.

RACE FRAUD IS EXPOSED

Electricity Employed To Make Horses Win, Police Claim.

TWO ARRESTS.

DETROIT, Jan. 19. —(OP)— If what the Detroit police suspect is true, followers of the ponies in Canada and United tates—as well as the ponies themselves— have received some shocks that were not in the form sheets.

With the arrest of Albert Frye, 26, and Joseph Sordman, the police uncovered what they believe is a wide plot to clean up on race tracks by means of an electrical device enabling jockeys to deliver a galvanizing shock to lagging mounts in the home stretch. The device, one of which the police said was in possession of the two men, fastens under an ordinary saddle and is operated by pressure of the jockey's knees.

Telegram Gives Clue

Evidence that the device has already been successfully operated was believed by the authorities to lie in a cryptic telegram, the police said they took from Frye's pocket. The telegram was sent from New Orleans. It read:

"4,000 set for Detroit, New York, Chicago, and Boston. Charm taken care of."

Checking through race results the police discovered that a horse named Charm galloped home ahead of the field in a recent New Orleans race, much to the surprise of everyone, and paid $19.50 for every $2 wagered The race was won a few days after the date on the mysterious telegram.

The authorities have communicated with the police in racing areas to see whether they want the men held. They are also investigating the possibility that Detroit gamblers may be involved in the scheme. The police said Frye was a former horse trainer, but had been barred from the tracks.

AIMEE WILL MAKE FILM

Consents To Part In Religious Picture After Her World Tour.

ENDS COURT ACTIONS.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, is to become the heroine of a religious motion picture.

Storm centre of several lawsuits, the evangelist yesterday settled two of the biggest court actions pending against her and aggregating $544,500 damages, by agreeing to fulfil a contract in motion pictures as held by J. Roy Stewart, film producer. The picture will be made after her return from a world tour.

After effecting the settlement, Mrs. Hutton decided to bid farewell to her Angelus Temple congregation last night, being carried to the rostrum by her husband, David L. Hutton, Jr. She has been ill.

Cromwell Ormsby, attorney who claimed he held a contract to act as business manager of Mrs. Hutton's film enterprise, said the litigation had been disposed of "to the mutual satisfaction of the parties involved."

The Weather

Some little time ago in conversation with a gentleman, he said: "I sincerely wish to see an old-time winter again—with about ten feet of snow, and with below zero temperatures every second day. The present generation does not know what a Canadian winter is, or what it can do, if it really tries." His wish is hardly likely to be gratified this year, but there is no denying his statement that our present day winters lack the severity of former days. The snowfall, too, is apparently becoming less. It is not so many years ago since the C. P. R. would be snowbound for several days at a time, and the Midland would be in an even worse condition. Now the snow-plows are seldom used. It is not necessary to go back 30 or 40 years to note a marked difference. Herewith are the days below zero in January, 1920, 13 years ago:

January 2	11	below zero
" 3	11	" "
" 4	16	" "
" 5	18	" "
" 10	9	" "
" 14	9	" "

" 17	9	" "
" 18	14	" "
" 19	11	" "
" 20	23	" "
" 21	7	" "
" 22	16	" "
" 23	3	" "
" 24	3	" "
" 25	24	" "
" 26	24	" "
" 28	6	" "
" 29	13	" "
" 31	28	" "

Here are 21 days below zero in one month. In January of this year of grace we have had but a single day below zero—the first day, with 5 degrees below. And while there has been some snow, it has been comparatively light. Whether the milder winter conditions that have prevailed for several years past are but of a temporary nature, and the old order will return again, is unknown. Have you noticed how the days are lengthening? The day is now exactly 30 minutes longer in the evenings. In the morning there is but little change—only five minutes.—W. P.

mus respect the provisions of the League covenant, the Briand-Kellogg treaty (Pact of Paris) and the Nine Power Treaty which provides respect for China's territorial integrity.

The section removed at Japan's request, referring to inclusion of America and Russia on the proposed new "negotiations committee" to prolong the inquiry and appease Tokio, said, in part:

"It is desirable that the United States of America and the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics should join in the efforts made in collaboration with the representatives of the parties . . . and it is proposed that the Governments of these two countries should be invited to take part in the negotiations.

"The negotiations committee will have all the powers necessary for the execution of its mission."

Jap Counter-draft Unsatisfactory

The committee of nineteen considered the Japanese counter-draft last evening, which it was tacitly admitted was unsatisfactory. After a three-hour secret session they decided to extend the period of attempting conciliation on Manchuria until the end of the week, by which time they hoped Japan would accept the draft, amended as they asked.

Meanwhile, Yosuke Matsuoka, chief Japanese delegate, said Japan still was ready to quite the League if the League "acts too hurriedly" in the Manchurian dispute.

Mrs Can't

The above lady is Mrs Can't. She is wondering for the seventeenth time this morning why she is not as attractive as Mrs Can—why her skin will come out in blotches, and her hair look so dull and stringy. The lady unfortunately is poisoned, though she would probably have a heart attack if you told her. And yet poisoned is the only word for what clogged and stagnant foodways do to you. If Mrs Can't would take Eno every morning, waste matter would be gone—before it got a chance to work havoc with her good looks.

Mrs Can

On the other hand, Mrs Can is looking at herself—because she likes looking at herself. She knows why her husband is so jealous of her. She knows why other men whisper to her, "If Jim hadn't married you, I would have." She knows, too, that a daily inner cleansing is worth all the paint and powder in the world. It's three years this month since she started taking Eno. And Eno, by keeping her clean inside, has kept her lovely skin and her bright eyes and her glistening hair—unspoiled. She's clever—is Mrs Can.

A clean inside is the only foundation of outward sparkle and beauty. To ensure real inner cleanliness is Eno's one purpose. And from the very moment you drink it, you know that Eno will succeed. Will do for your inner self what pure soap and fresh water do for your outward self. Will cleanse and sweeten and refresh your whole system—safely, surely, positively. Need you be like Mrs Can't? Of course not! Take Eno first thing each morning and before retiring at night.

Astronomy And Poetry, The Teachers And Guides, And Inspiration Of The Imagination

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

Astronomy and poetry are boon companions. The imaginative faculty of mankind needs both. Astronomy is the loftiest science. Poetry is the highest form of literature. The imagination is the creative faculty of the human mind. The reading of astronomy and poetry side-by-side is uplifting and inspirational. he imagination is an exigent faculty. It just must be supplied with material out of which it may create images in the mind. This is its task. The imagination is an active and constructive power. In its range and operation it is more important than any of the other physical sciences. By the imagination we form mental pictures of objects before we think them. And only by constant recourse to the pictures does the mind proceed to know and to comprehend. To see with one's eyes closed, objects and constellations, images and celestial movements, is to be a part of a vast universe. The best time to gaze upon the winter constellations is just after the soft shades of twilight have vanished.

Poets have rhapsodized over the twinkling of the stars. Every boy and girl has recited, "Twinkle, twinkle little star, etc." The stars do not twinkle. The scintillation is caused by disturbances in the atmosphere enveloping the earth. Another phenomenon is as interesting as the twinkle. The white stellar light which consists of all the rainbow colors, is broken up into its elementary colors in passing through the terrestrial atmosphere. The density and motion causes one color to prevail over another. This causes a star to lose its color and brightness incessantly. The atmosphere is ever restless. A star may have one color tonight and appear to have another the night following. The scintillation of the stars is very noticeable on clear wintry nights. In the months of January and February the twinkling is quite pronounced. Near the horizon the twinkling is noticeably larger than in stars higher up in the sky. Observers have concluded that the stars which appear red, and those in yellow scintillate the most. Astronomers with common consent have divided the stars into six magnitudes. The division has not been determined by the size of the star but by its brilliancy or radiance. The stars in the first magnitude are approximately two and a half times brighter than the next below it in rank.

All who decide to follow these letters may begin the study by securing a piece of cardboard two feet 6 inches by two feet 6 inches at one of the book stores. Draw a circle with diameter of two feet. Also draw a line from the north to the south through the center of the circle. This will be a little start.

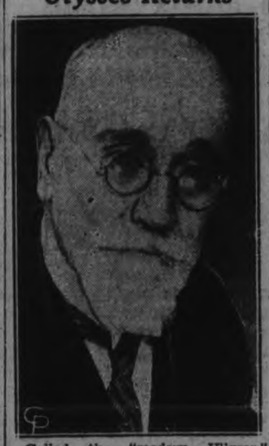
Ulysses Returns



Called the "modern Ulysses," Eleutherios Venizelos is once more premier of Greece. The renowned opponent of royalty, who has been premier of Greece many times in the last decade, won the post when the royalist coalition government was defeated on a vote of non-confidence. Venizelos gave up his post two weeks ago so that Panayoti Isaldaris, royalist party leader, could form the coalition government.

Work Reviewed At Havelock Meeting

HAVELOCK, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Thursday last a very interesting meeting of the W.M.S. Auxiliary was held in the United Church here.

The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. (Rev.) Kemp, the topic, the Woman of Public Spirit Deborah. Prayer was offered by Mrs. R. Bonney, after which Rev. Mr. Kemp installed the officers.

Reports of work for the past year were presented by the various secretaries and proved very interesting and satisfactory.

There are 34 annual members, 9 life members, 7 associate helpers and 9 baby band members. These contributed $276.10. The Mission Band of 38 members gave $40, its full allocation, making a total of $316.10 sent to the Presbytery treasurer.

Thirty calls were made by the Stranger's Secretary. Mrs. Bonney and Miss Williams were elected delegates to the Presbyterial to be held in Peterborough this week.

Twenty-six Missionary Monthly's the official paper of the society, and twenty-eight World Friends, are going into the homes each month. These papers are replete with information of the work at home and abroad and contribute much towards maintaining interest in Missionary enterprises.

The study, "Early Missions" His Dominion of Canada, was in charge of Mrs. Gould, assisted by Miss Williams, Mesdames Chiles, Cross and Wilson.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Bonney, at whose home the next regular meeting will be held.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples. If neglected, it can seriously impair health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Obituary

MRS. SAMUEL HUNTER

MILLBROOK, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence) — The death of Mrs. S. J. Hunter, following an extended period of ill-health, took place on Saturday, January 14, in her sixty-first year. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong, and was born and brought up on the family homestead ,Fourth Line, Cavan, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hutchison. Her mother's maiden name was Letitia Perrin.

The marriage of Blanche Victoria Armstrong to Samuel J. Hunter, which took place thirty-five years ago, marked the union of two members of pioneer families of Cavan Township, residence after marriage being on the Hunter homstead in the vicinity of Cedar Valley, one and one-half miles north-east of Millbrook.

Mrs. Hunter had a life-long connection with the Presbyterian Church at Centreville, and was actively interested in the welfare of her place of worship, and its various organizations, as long as health and strength permitted. Deceased is survived by her husband, two sons, Eric who lives at the homestead, and Aubrey, also of Cavan; and two daughters, Mrs. E. H. Brandon (Grace) of New York City, and Miss Alma, at home; also by one brother Mr. H. J. Armstrong of Millbrook, and one sister, Mrs. David Deyell (Mina), of Toronto.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the family residence on Monday, at 1.30 p.m., the pastor of the deceased, Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., having charge of the services. The pallbearers were: two nephews, Ivan L. H. Gray and V. R. Hunter; two cousins, John and Albert Hunter; and two intimate friends of the family, James Hutchison and James Roddy. Interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery, Millbrook. Among the beautiful floral tributes placed in the loving memory on the casket were wreaths from the Centreville Presbyterian Church, and from some near neighbors, as well as from the immediate family and many relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Brandon, who flew from New York in the early hours of Saturday morning in an endeavor to reach her mother's bedside before her death, left by plane for their home on the other side of the border line immediately following the service at the cemetery.

Others who were present from a distance included Mrs. D. Deyell, of Toronto; Mrs. Wesley Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnston, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore, of Port Hope; Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Alex Sage, of Peterborough; Mrs. John Hutchison and daughter, Miss Edna and Mrs. John Armstrong, of Peterborough.

dead language, fixed for all times. Today it lives, it is completely liberated from the mouldy biblical text, it undergoes transformations like any living tongue and . . . has even developed a certain slang accretion. The revival of the Hebrew language in our time is a miracle.

For two thousand years Hebrew was dumb. The Jewish people were dumb, for they spoke exclusively in alien tongues. They and their ancestral language had no names for things. They borrowed from the German and the Russian and that is the way Yiddish grew up to be a second Jewish language. They borrowed everywhere they came. Today the Jews of Palestine express themselves on every conceivable subject in the world in Hebrew. They have names for telephone and radio, for automobile and test tube, for lancet, scalpel, forceps, reaper-binder, electric stove, dynamo and for about 70,000 other modern things and conceptions.

When Eliazar ben Yehuda, the father of Mussolini's friend, came to Palestine 30 years ago and began speaking Hebrew he was received with outright hostility by the Jews then resident in the country. These were pious orthodox Jews who lived mainly on the charity of their fellow-Jews abroad. They were spending their lives in prayer before the Wailing Wall, hoping for the day when the promised Messiah should come to restore the Temple and the glory of David's Kingdom. These men—there are plenty of them in Palestine yet—looked upon anyone speaking Hebrew as a blasphemer of the sacred language. Eliazar was ostracized, ridiculed, even persecuted. Yet he went on. He began to work on a great modern Hebrew lexicon.

A son was born to Eliazar. He called him "Ittamar," a Hebrew word meaning "Branch of a Tree." The child was backward. When he was two years old the boy had not spoken a word. He was tongue-tied. It looked as if he would be mute forever. "God's punishment on the father," said the pious Jews, "God's punishment for blaspheming the sacred language."

And then one day, Ittamar was two years old, the child sat playing outside the house in Jerusalem when a billy-goat approached. Ittamar was frightened. His face became red with fear and excitement. In that moment his tongue was untied. In his great fear the child called out. And behold the first word he uttered was 'Abba! Abba!' (Father). Ittamar had spoken in Hebrew.

Eliazar had a long lone struggle, but he saw the day when tens of thousands of Jews in Palestine spoke Hebrew. The son, Ittamar, Mussolini's friend, has become a great orator, not only in Hebrew, but in French and English and German as well. In addition he is a distinguished writer on Palestinian questions.

And what Mussolini said: "He telegraphs in Hebrew" is literally true, for the despatches his paper receives and sends out are actually worded in that ancient language.

The curious part of the growth of the modern Hebrew tongue is that many of the new words and phrases do not originate in the philological department of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, but they originate in the streets, on the farms.

Little children are often the first to coin a pure Hebraic word, forming it instructively out of the association of ideas which a given object produces in their minds. They think in Hebrew. It is not an acquired language any more. It is a natural, spontaneous form of expression."

Spoken Hebrew is as melodious as Italian music.

CUT FOR GRIMSBY EMPLOYEES

GRIMSBY, Ont. — All employees of Grimsby are working for 5 or 10 per cent, less to-day, following a stormy meeting last night when the Council Chamber was jammed with ratepayers and others anxious to gain admittance.

The stairway leading to the Council Chamber was so jammed the lock on the outer door was broken off. The crowd became noisy despite the plea of the Mayor, and the situation threatened to become troublesome until the door was thrown open and the people crowded into the Chamber.

DEADLY AIM FOR GOLFER.

MYSTIC, Conn., January 19 (C. P.). — William Scroggins, Noank policeman, drives his golf ball with deadly vim.

Following up his tee shot in the old Mystic Course, he found the ball lying beside a dead rabbit. The animal's wound and bloodstains on the ball showed what happened.

SOMETHING TO BE CHEERFUL ABOUT.

When so many people are stressing the darker side of the present economic situation and the air is so full of lamentations over the unusual conditions, it is not a bad thing to look for the silver lining to the cloud and to endeavor to find some reason for rejoicing.

The Kitchener Record has been engaged in searching for a little cheerful information, and it has succeeded in uncovering some facts that should give Canadians some ground for feeling more optimistic about the outlook.

For instance, the Record has found that last year Canada retained world leadership in the export of wheat, printing paper and asbestos; was second in gold, platinum and cobalt; third in wheat flour; fourth in automobiles and wood pulp, and fifth in rubber tires.

In addition, the Dominion finished 1932 with a favorable trade balance of $50,000,000, as compared with an unfavorable balance of $10,000,000 in 1931.

And that, as the Kitchener paper remarks, is not such a bad record for a country that contains a population of little more than ten million people.

It gives good reason to hope that when the turn to better times comes Canada will be among the first countries in the world to reflect the changed conditions and to enjoy the benefits of a wide measure of prosperity.

THE RAILWAY SITUATION.

There is no doubt that President Beatty of the C.P.R. made the strongest possible case in favor of railway amalgamation in his address in Toronto the other day.

It is also equally clear that despite Mr. Beatty's summing up of the situation and an equally forcible declaration in favor of merging the two Canadian systems uttered by Sir Herbert Holt in his presidential address to the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada, the people of this country as a whole are opposed to the idea.

Public opinion in Canada is against both the plan of having the Canadian National Railways handed over to the Canadian Pacific to be operated as a private system, and to the suggestion that the Canadian Pacific should be absorbed by the Canadian National and the two lines run under public ownership.

Admittedly the railway problem is one of the gravest issues confronting the Canadian people at the present time; the operation of the Canadian National is costing the Dominion vast sums each year, and the whole situation is most disturbing.

Nevertheless anything in the nature of amalgamation for the present at least would seem to be politically impossible, and that being the case, the only alternative apparently is to give the Duff Commission's plan of voluntary co-operation a fair opportunity to show whether or not it is capable of remedying railway conditions and bringing a measure of relief.

MAYOR STEWART WAS RIGHT.

Mayor Stewart of Toronto told a deputation of unemployed who waited upon him yesterday that if they knew of a better country they should go to it.

The Queen City's mayor was probably provoked into making such a statement by the attitude of those who interviewed him, but nevertheless his remark was justified, inasmuch as the greater part of the disturbances being fomented in Toronto and elsewhere are the work of foreign-born residents of Canada, who seem anxious to take advantage of every opportunity to make trouble, to find fault with Canadian conditions and to ridicule those in authority in this country, and who at the same time nevertheless are quite satisfied to remain here and would bitterly resent any attempt to send them back to the lands from which they came originally.

A typical example was furnished by the coterie of foreign-born agitators who when convicted of Communism and marked for deportation took advantage of all the available legal machinery to keep the authorities from sending them back to their native lands.

These men and other disturbers of the same type cannot see anything right in the Canadian way of doing things, and are ever ready to condemn Canadian institutions and Canadian leaders, but when the pinch comes and they are threatened with banishment from the country in which, according to them, everything is wrong, they frantically appeal to Canadian justice to keep them from being sent away.

We agree with Mayor Stewart that all such people who know of a better country should go to it without delay.

BRITISH COAL.

Importations of Scotch and Welsh anthracite coal through the port of Montreal last year reached a total of 1,118,287 tons, we are told, which represented an increase of 377,484 tons above the best previous record.

This is a development that is of importance to both the Mother Country and to Canada, and there is every reason to expectthat shipments of British coal into this country will continue to increase, for the Scotch and Welsh fuel have made a very favorable impression upon those who have used it, and it is able to stand up against competition from any other source so far as quality is concerned.

The only obstacle that stands in the way of an even greater fuel trade with Great Britain is the feeling that there is too great a spread between the cost of British coal as laid down in Montreal and the price ultimately paid by the Canadian consumer.

It was understood that this situation was to be officially investigated, but at any rate no findings have been made public, and the Canadian people are unable to know definitely whether or not the prices charged are justified.

If the cost to the consumer can be reduced or even if it can be officially established that the present price is within reason, the future for the British coal trade in Canada will be bright.

We like the coal, we like to deal with our own folk over the sea, and all that is needed is an assurance that the situation is not being exploited.

STRAIN ON PUBLIC MEN.

English and American newspapers, commenting upon the death of Mr. Coolidge, conclude that Anglo-Saxon countries kill off their public men by overwork. They are probably right. Little doubt exists but that the work of Presidents and Prime Ministers has been so enlarged and intensified as to threaten to wear out all but those of the most robust physique. Even in Britain, where they have developed the technique of government to a more perfect degree than can be found in any other country, we find Mr. Ramsay MacDonald breaking under the strain, while those who know Herbert Hoover picture him as having aged twenty years in the four years of his presidency. "The burden of the presidency," said Theodore Roosevelt, "is infamous."

And what is true of Britain and the United States is true, and perhaps more so, here in Canada. In England Prime Ministers at least delegate a great deal of their work, helped by the system of parliamentary under-secretaries. In Canada, on the other hand, the burden of everything, from the framing of policies to the administration of routine, appears to fall upon the Prime Minister. To some extent, depending upon temperament, the fault is his own. It is probably a tribute to their sincerity and devotion, but, whatever it is, the fact is that very few of our Prime Ministers know how to preserve for themselves the time needed for study and consideration. Few of them have learned to say no to the unending demands for interviews, or to shut themselves against the unnecessary problems which are thrust upon them. The result is that a great deal of their time and energy goes into the least important part of their task. They spend a day or a night travelling somewhere or other to make a speech—this often to gratify the vanity of some selfish organization—and they have ten minutes between useless appointments to read some vital report. They are compelled—or permit themselves—to spend hours with bores, celebrities, and men who have "saved the party," and minutes with experts who could really advise them. Their offices are as private as the waiting room of a railroad station.—Ottawa Journal.

THE HISTORY OF SHOES.

When Canadian men, women and children put on their shoes in the morning do they realize that they may be exact duplicates of shoes once worn in ancient Egypt, Persia, Rome or Greece? asks the National Revenue Review. The smart sandals, for instance, worn by the well dressed woman of to-day, were designed probably from specimens taken from Egyptian mummies. It is the oldest footwear of which there is any record.

Sandals, the almost universal shoe of the ancients in warm countries, are still the favorite footgear of many races. Although there are 232 varieties in some countries, the simple type of shoe worn long before the Christian era is still used. The ancient Greek exchanged his sandals for shoes only in exceptional circumstances. Long boots lacing up the front were worn by Greek hunters. Besides sandals the Roman patricians wore shoes of black leather; red leather shoes were reserved for senators, and the long boot or buskin reaching sometimes to near the knee, and frequently supplied with a thick sole to add to the apparent stature of its wearer, was appropriated to tragedians and hunters.

In mediaeval times shoes with long pointed toes were worn by the high-born; and towards the close of the 14th century these points became ridiculously elongated, so that there appeared to be a long strap projecting from each foot. Half-boots were worn by the Anglo-Saxons and Anglo-Normans; and in the reign of Edward IV., if not earlier, the boot proper, with tops and spurs, was established as an article of knightly dress.

And so down through the years appear in succession the wide-topped boots of the reign of Charles I., the highly decorated French boot of the time of Charles II., the jack-boot worn by horsemen, the famous yellow-topped boots worn in England in the 18th century; the Hessian boot, once indispensable as an article of walking attire; and the Wellington boot which was finally superseded by the Blucher, a short ankle-boot somewhat after the style of the boots worn to-day.

Canada exports large quantities of boots and shoes, mostly of rubber or canvas. During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, total exports of boots and shoes amounted to 3,906,506 pairs, valued at $3,663,442. Boots and shoes of rubber constituted the greatest value, namely $2,102,683; number of pairs exported totalled 1,515,324. Canvas shoes exported were valued at $1,506,835, and the number exported totalled 2,372,796. Boots and shoes of leather numbered 17,386 pairs, valued at $51,926.

Canvas shoe exports went to 31 different countries, Argentina being the chief buyer with purchases amounting to 829,606 pairs, valued at $513,446. The United Kingdom, the next largest importer, took 756,936 pairs, valued at $486,329, and New Zealand, the third largest importer, took 224,927 pairs, valued at $145,947.

Rubber boots and shoes were exported to 11 different countries, the United Kingdom and Denmark being the heaviest buyers.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

One good feature about Mr. Bennett is that when he says "No" there is no possibility of it being mistaken for "Perhaps."

Judging by the failure of some of the witnesses to recall things, a good memory trainer should find Sturgeon Falls a profitable field.

A proposal that 39 states should secede from the American Union, leaving a financial "East," has been made in the North Dakota Legislature. Our neighbors often seem to be unlucky in their selection of representatives.

According to Mr. King, the trouble with Canada is that we are drifting away from "national sovereignty. "That being so, the theory of the technocrats cannot be the right explanation.

Hon. James Malcolm, member of Mr. King's last Cabinet, says that the duty of Canadians is to stand behind governments in these troublesome times. Apparently that idea has not been sold to Mr. Hepburn.

Another effect of the depression is that even the nudists are getting only a bare living.

THE TRAMP PROBLEM

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—"What will you do with the tramp—the man who will not work," asks the industrious hardworking mechanic who has spent the best years of his own life in an everlasting struggle to keep his family from starvation and who at the end of thirty years' of effort, finds himself still struggling with adversity, but who has been told that it is only loafers and lazy men who are in favor of the co-operative commonwealth.

Well, let us see: what the tramps? What are the men who will not work to-day? Who are the people in society at the present time who live from the products of the labor of others without work? The tramp, or "hobo" as he is sometimes called, is a product of the competitive system and the labor-saving machine. He at first became merely a victim of the progress of the age in his line of business and was only a mechanic or laborer out of work and looking for a job. After the little store of money has been consumed in railway fares, has been paid into the coffers of some corporation, he finds himself still out of a job and still looking for work. He now steals his way over the road on freight trains or walks on the public highway. In either case he is considered a tramp and an outcast from good society.

Being unable to send home the money necessary for the support of his loved ones, he becomes discouraged and from an idle working man seeking employment away from home he soon drifts down to the level of the common hobo. He soon discovers that the man who does not work is about as well off as the man who does work hard. He readily discovers that the workman with a family rarely finds it possible to lay away any part of his year's earnings for old age or the time of misfortune and he reasons that after all he is no worse off without work than the man who obeys the divine injunction to earn his bread by the sweat of his face. He has lost his friends and his reputation; he grows careless of himself and naturally drifts from bad to worse, only to land in the penitentiary at last. Here he finds himself in more sanitary habitat than ever before in his life; has more wholesome food, and it is better prepared than he enjoyed when in his own home, If sick, he is cared for tenderly and the best medical skill attends him; in short his environment in every particular is superior to that of the average laborer outside the prison walls and he concludes that honesty and industry are a poor investment under a system in which it appears to be the business of one portion of the people to live by exploiting their fellows of the other portion.

But there is another species of the genius hobo that calls for attention at this point—we refer to the tramp in broadcloth—the fellow who lives by his wits; who dwells in a brownstone house on the most aristocratic avenue and occupies one of the best pews in a leading church. His occupation is that of a broker or a dealer in stocks and bonds or possibly a promoter of business enterprises. He is the man selected to represent his community at a public event of some sort for the reason that he is one of the very best citizens of the neighborhood. He performs no useful labor, adds nothing to the welfare of the community in which he lives, yet he lives on the fat of the land and necessarily draws his sustenance from the products of others who create it. He is most bitter in his denunciation of socialism and characterizes socialists as anarchists and enemies to society. He is either a knave or a fool in this respect, for no man of ordinary intelligence can be excused at this time for confusing socialism and anarchy as synonymous terms, or their teachings as in any manner having similar objects in view. This is the man who to-day lives without work—at least he performs no useful labor of any kind. But he is able from the money filched from others to enjoy life to the full. His family can well afford to spend their winter in California if they so elect.

But the wives and children of the men whose toil produces the wherewith necessary to meet these extraordinary expenditures must remain at home all the year round with never a week's vacation nor a chance to seek relief from the sweltering heat of a tenement under a July sun by a day at the seashore.

With this large and growing class of tramps society will one day have to deal. No one can honestly deny that they are parasites on the body politic and a far greater menace to society and the welfare of the nation than are the hoboes in rags who infest the public highways. Our hard working mechanic friend has been taught to look upon the tramp in broadcloth as a gentleman and a useful member of society. Do you not think it would be a good thing to set every man to work at something useful, something which will add to the supply of those things needful for the support and well being of the human family?

The tramp dear reader, will willing go to work whenever he can see that he is thus better off than in idleness. Under a perfectly just distribution of the products of labor every man would enjoy the full reward of his effort. Neither the tramp in rags nor the tramp in broadcloth could exist except on the charity of their fellows. Whenever society gets ready to deal justly by those who toil the tramp question will have been settled. He is the product of the competitive system and with it he will disappear.

SIR FREDERICK WILLIAMS-TAYLOR
Vice-President, Bank of Montreal, Banker, Economist

This is the signature of a man whose personality is so rich and so highly developed that it can only be sketchily suggested here. This personality is decidedly composite of apposites. Aggressiveness, vitality, natural desire for activity and to excel co-exist with the visionary mind, the dreamer's mind. With this imaginative faculty are allied penetration and intuitive judgment. A passionate, artistic temperament, sensuousness, love of beauty and form, are under the restraint of breeding and a certain rectitude of disposition. All of this man's characteristics are of supernormal quality and strength. He is consequently self-contained, self-sufficient, self-assured, self-assertive; he has highly cultivated tastes and is discriminative in all things; his philosophy would be the highly intellectual one of enlightened selfishness—in short, here is an aristocrat in the best sense of the term.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

FORGETTING THINGS

We are frequently told to "use our brains" but sometimes the brain is like a wayward child or a stubborn man who refuses to take orders.

You meet a friend, some one you have known for years, and suddenly his name fades completely from your memory. You know his habits, know what he likes to eat, know what he does for a living, you know his name begins with a "t" and ends with a "y." But you cannot remember the letters in between. You fuss over it and struggle desperately and command your memory to restore that name to your tongue, but it declines.

Or you read one of those ghastly questionnaires whose purpose, supposedly, is to determine how much you know—and you come across a question that troubles you immensely. You know the answer. Of course you do. It is right on the tip of your tongue. It is somewhere in the darkness behind your eyes.....It goes away and comes again....You can hear the flap of its wings and almost feel them upon your brain cavity, like the soft, sudden rush of a bat in an old barn.....But it is elusive, as annoying as a little Cockerel Spaniel puppy that evades your ever effort to catch him.

So you pretend you're not trying to remember that answer, that puppylike bit of information. You sit down to your newspaper. You busy yourself with something else. You think of something else.... And suddenly when you are not trying, it comes back to you. That puppy of information comes right up to your knee and snuggles against it and wags his tail. You feel very silly indeed. You wonder if there's any way to train your brain so that it will do just what you order and function like a perfect machine.

But you're afraid there isn't. Your brain is yours. It's inside your own skull. You've known it fairly well for yours. But it plays "hookey" on us. And sometimes when you want to "use your brains" you discover that they want to do something else....It's mortifying, that's what it is. It's humiliating.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 20

There was no time to be lost. Death might not yet have claimed them.

He jerked open the door, rudely pushed the girl over onto the sagging form of the servant, climbed under the and backed the machine out of the garage.

O'Hara stepped to the side of the car and peered at the huddled forms, but in the darkness he could distinguish nothing.

"Chivington there?" he asked.

"Yes," shortly, "and a woman."

Kane snapped on the pocket lamp again and turned it on the faces of the two. But he did not stop to search his mind in an attempt to identify the girl. He placed his ear over her heart and listened.

Then, after considerable difficulty, he sought to ascertain whether Chivington was still alive. He listened for only a moment. Springing out of the machine he turned to O'Hara:

"Get them to a hospital as quickly as you can," he barked. "They're alive now and we haven't time to waste calling for someone to bring out a pulmotor."

O'Hara did not stop to ask questions. He climbed under the wheel, threw the car into gear and roared away. "I'll telephone from the hospital," he flung over his shoulder as he sped around the house and down the street.

Long after the car disappeared from sight Kane could hear its siren, screaming its warning to clear the streets. The detective had heeded his orders; he was darting through the crowded streets at a mad pace, taking his own life in his hands in a frenzied effort to save those two lives.

It seemed but a moment had passed before he brought the car to a sliding stop in front of the Hollywood emergency hospital. He raced into the building, obtained aid and went back and supervised the removal of the two from the car to a surgical room.

A nurse and doctor appeared as if by magic. They looked at Chivington and the girl, muttered something to the effect that it might be too late, but nevertheless brusquely ordered pulmotors and then set to work.

The detective hovered in the background, waiting for some word to flash to Kane, ready to lend any assistance needed. Hungrily, he watched every move made, the while he offered up a silent prayer that those live might be saved.

If the truth be known—for O'Hara was hardened by long years of service on the homicide squad—he was not so interested in the saving of those two lives as in the fact that should they die secrets which they now held locked within them might be buried with them.

He sensed, by Kane's blatant action, that they might possess the key which would open the door o a solution of Richard Bailey's murder.

As he stared at the little drama being staged before him a rather seedy looking individual, with slouch hat pulled down over his eyes, sauntered up to him and greeted him familiarly. O'Hara looked up to recoguize Parker, of the Los Angeles Blade.

"Who've you got?" the reporter asked.

"Carbon monoxide cases," the detective returned concommittally.

"Who are they?"

"Not sure," O'Hara lied. "Suicides, I guess."

"Where'd you get them?"

"Up on the hill."

Parker probed him with questions but got no satisfaction. O'Hara was as tight-lipped as the Sphinx.

When O'Hara drove away with the two still forms huddled in Bailey's car Kane went back into the garage. Focusing his pocket lamp, he studied the interior with keen eyes, but what he saw offered little to help him.

Some old tires hung at the back end. The ladder which he had found arlier that day was still there. The floor of the garage was greasy, but not actually dirty. In fact, it showed signs of having been cleaned very recently, perhaps within the last three or four days.

There was a box of tools in a back corner. A pair of soiled coveralls hung above them. Several cans which had contained a cheap grade of lubricant ranged along one wall. On the floor beside one of the cans was a wrench.

The story this scene told was plain enough to Jere Kane and confirmation of old Chivington's story: Richard Bailey was in straightened circumstances and either he or the servant had been doing what work was necessary on the automobile.

But there was nothing to provide the answers to three questions which were troubling him. They were, in the order of their importance to him:

"What was Chivington doing in the garage with the girl?"

"Who locked them in the garage?"

"Who was the girl?"

When he returned to the house he slouched down into a deep-cushioned chair and buried himself in thought. Chivington had told O'Hara that he would go down to the boulevard to get something for supper. Perhaps he had gone to the garage to get the car and ——

But where did the girl fit into that picture? What was she doing in the garage? Was she the woman who had telephoned Chivington that afternoon and whom he had declared to O'Hara that he hated? The thought that she might be some secret inamorata he dismissed as an absurdity. The servant was too old and too wise a man to fall for a woman so young.

If the old man had surprised her prowling through the garage what was she doing in the car? Was she a common automobile thief? Certainly, no one would be so brazen as to attempt to take a car right out of a garage at the owner's house—even if that owner had been murdered but twenty-four hours before.

But there must have been a third person. The lock which held the garage doors was not the type which would close by itself. Someone had to close it and snap its catch. Then ——

Kane started up with a cry of disgust. He berated himself unmercifully for being a bungling idiot. He visioned the interior of that garage and its measured neatness. The orderly row of oil cans, the hanging coveralls, the tool box—and the wrench out of place. Now he saw it plainly enough.

Chivington had been lured to the garage for the sole purpose of being put out of the way. The old man knew too much; his lips had to be sealed, and there was only one way to do it. As Kane visioned what went on in that garage he again sensed the cruel cunning of the murderer of Richard Bailey.

The director's death had been made to appear as though it came in a violent struggle with a prowler. But there had been one slip—when the murderer turned the den into a shambles he pushed the table to one side with such care—possibly for fear that he might be heard and discovered in his ruminations Kane used the universal "he" although he was convinced the slayer was a woman)—that the decanter and four glasses had not been disturbed.

There was the same Satanic artfulness in the attack on Chivington. The assailant had wanted it to appear as a double suicide. He used the girl as a lure to get the old man into the garage. There, in the darkness, he lay in wait with the wrench. When they had climbed into the machine and the motor had been started he crashed the wrench against the skulls, knocking them unconscious, dropped the wrench on the floor (there he slipped again), locked the doors and fled.

If Kane had realized before that he was dealing with a killer of demoniacal craftiness that fact was doubly impressed on him now. Like a spider, the fiend had spun his web well.

The telephone stirred him from his cogitations. He leaped to the instrument and answered it. O'Hara's voice came to him:

"Chivington's dead."

"Dead?"

"Yes, sir. And, you know, it seems kind of strange to me, Mr. Kane, but the doctor found a big lump on the back of his head, just like somebody had clouted him one."

"I expected that," Kane said slowly. "And the girl?"

"She's still alive ——"

"O'Hara—" Kane shouted in his eagerness "—tell those doctors that that girl must be saved at any cost."

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A POLITICAL MARTYR'S CAPTURE

On this date, in 1837 some residents on the shores of Lake Erie noticed a small boat floating around in the ice at the mouth of the Grand river, in danger of being crushed. Animated both by the desire to aid fellow beings in danger and by the "loyal impulse" that perhaps the occupants might be some of the refugees from the "army" of W. L. Mackenzie in flight from Toronto they set out from the shore with some planks rescued the occupants and set the boat adrift. On their failing to give a satisfactory account of themselves those rescued were taken before a magistrate at Chippawa where one of them was identified as Samuel Lount the "blacksmith who made the pikes" to quote from the official proclamation issued at Toronto) for whose capture a reward equal to $2,000 was offered. Lount had made his way to the lakeshore by devious ways and had managed to secure concealment for three weeks. Then it was decided that the time had come to attempt to cross to the States. A boat was secured and manned by three friendly to the cause. A violent storm drove them from their course to the mouth of the Grand, from which they made their way at midnight to a small tavern, where they were given food and shelter. The journey was resumed in the morning. Even after the rescue no one, except those in the boat party, had any idea of Lount's identity and but for a trifling incident he might have been freed. One of the rescue party noticed that one of the occupants of the boat had thrust some papers under the ice with an oar. These were recovered and found to be "rebellious"; the patriotism of the loyalists of Norfolk was aroused; the rescued might be innocent travellers; they might be rebels; to make sure they were taken to the magistrate where Lount was identified and his fate sealed. He was shipped back to Toronto under heavy guard, lodged in the York county jail, and in due course arraigned with his fellow "conspirator," Peter Matthews; both were found guilty of treason and sentenced to death by Chief Justice Beverley Robinson on March 29. No time was lost; the execution took place on April 12, and the twain were buried in the potters' field, whence their bodies were transferred 28 years later to the Necropolis, where their resting place is marked by a simple obelisk. There was no doubt as to Lount's 'guilt' from the loyalist standpoint; he was a militant reformer; but he was pressed on by his devotion to Mackenzie and sank his individualism in the political excitement. He was at heart a constitutionalist; had Mackenzie not forced the fighting Lount might have lived in history as a Liberal statesman rather than a 'rebel.' His grandson, William Lount, afterwards a judge, has the honor of being one of the few Liberals elected to the House of Commons for Toronto.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 19 (C.P.).—Firm overseas cables, together with fair buying for Eastern account sent wheat prices 1 cent over the previous close in early trading to-day. Except at top levels when scattered selling developed offerings for the greater part of the first hour were extremely light and values generally held close to the high points.

At mid-session, wheat prices were ⅝c to 1c higher. May was quoted at 46⅝c, July at 47⅝c, and October at 48¾c.

Other support was very thin and came chiefly from locals, while scattered offerings were credited to two or three different sources. Trading generally was dull and early reports indicate that only a small export business was worked in Canadian wheat overnight.

Liverpool wheat opened slightly lower, but scored fractional gains in the closing stages. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was ¾d higher.

Clearances of wheat from Argentina for the week are estimated at 4,250,000 bushels or nearly twice as much as was cleared last week. There was no wheat shipped from Black Sea ports last week.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.— (A.P.) — Upturns in Chicago grain values early to-day followed wheat quotations, showing considerable more strength than expected. Another bullish factor was that official reports indicated no important moisture relief for drought areas of domestic winter wheat territory. Opening ¼-⅜ higher, wheat continued upgrade. Corn started at ⅛-¾ advance and subsequently held near the initial range.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 19. —(CP)— A buying market developed on the Standard Mining Exchange today with traders reaching for the big and little gold shares and also Noranda in the copper group. Most of the leaders made gains.

McIntyre and Dome were the leaders in the high-priced group, the former gaining 40 to 23.25 and Dome 30 to 14.40. Wright Hargreaves climbed to 4.15, but held to 4.05. Teck closed 8 points higher at 4.23.

The trading spread to Noranda today and the big copper-gold stock advanced to 20.50. Nickel also picked up a few cents while Ventures, Sherritt and Coast Copper held steady.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, January 19 (C.P.).—Stocks maintained a fairly steady tone in to-day's operations, with minimum gains and losses appearing through the list. Prices stiffened slightly with the Wall Street board when wheat firmed.

Buying in the oil shares rose to fair volume. Imperial finished a fraction up at 9⅛ and B.A. Oil ⅛ better at 8. Interlisted shares showed a drop of ⅛ in C.P.R. and a pick-up of a point in Consolidated Smelters. Brazilian, Ford, and Nickel closed unchanged.

Bank stocks were strong, Imperial leading with a 5-point gain. Commerce was up a point and Royal 1¼.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (A.P.) — Prices edged forward quietly in the late stock market dealings to-day and many shares showed net gains of one to two points. Included in the group which advanced about two points were Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Santa Fe, Case, Eastman, and Union Pacific. American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Tobacco B, Dupont, International Harvester, Liggett and Meyers "B", New York Central, Westinghouse Electric and United Aircraft were up one or more. Lambert was soft, off one. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

C. N. R. ENGINEER SCALDED.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 19.—(C.P.)—M. "Mac" McLeod, Sarnia, engineer on Canadian National Toronto-Chicago express, was badly scalded when a steam pipe burst on his engine. He was removed from his train at Komoka and brought to hospital here where his condition is reported as fair.

The train was delayed 40 minutes while another engineer was called from London.

SETS FLIGHT RECORD

WINDSOR, Ont.—Eighty minutes for a 225-mile flight from Detroit to Buffalo was the record set to-day by Lieut. B. C. Moore, flying a passenger line plane carrying four passengers. The regular time between the cities is 2½ hours. Another record set to-day is 80 minutes for the 280-mile flight from Chicago to Detroit; the former record is 86 minutes.

SEEK WOMAN ATTACKERS

HAMILTON — Police today are searching for a man who last night attacked a 26-year-old woman as she was on her way home. The woman was thrown on a lawn in the southend of the city. The man was described as about 25 years old and was wearing a brown leather coat. The woman suffered slight skull bruises and her clothing was torn in several places. The man disappeared when the woman screamed for help.

IMPERIAL LIFE WILL INCREASE ITS DIVIDENDS

Over $27,300,000 in Assurances Written in 1932.

ASSETS INCREASED.

The year 1932 was an unhappy one for many, but in the case of the Imperial Life substantial progress was maintained and some pleasant surprises were presented to the policy holders by the President, G. A. Morrow and Managing Director J. F. Weston, during the proceedings at the annual meeting held in Toronto yesterday. The very substantial volume of over $27,300,000 in assurances written was reported. Cash income for the year from premiums was $10,197,000 and from interest $3,348,000, giving a total cash income of over $13,500,000. The disbursements to policy holders and beneficiaries during the year were nearly $8,900,000—a reservoir of help and security at a time of great need.

Of special interest to policy holders is the increase in dividends which they may expect during 1933 over those of 1932. Last year the Imperial Life felt it prudent to conserve their resources by substantially reducing dividends to policy holders. As a result in 1933 they find themselves able to make an important increase in such disbursements.

The assets of the company have been increased by the substantial amount of $1,300,000 and now stand at over $76,465,000. Valuation of securities has been made at a conservative figure, well within the limit allowed by the Dominion Insurance Department. This has been done without drawing upon a special contingency reserve of $1,000,000 which remains intact. The general reserves of the company stand at over $58,300,000, an increase over the previous year of over $1,400,000. The net surplus earnings resulting from the year's operations amounted to over $2,450,000. The company's net surplus funds at the end of the year amounted to over $3,300,000 and this after paying out dividends to policy holders of $1,803,000, revaluing securities and setting up ample provision for insurance and annuity liabilities.

himself pretty much out of the picture in the whole transaction. Asked for statements he generally responded: "The time is not yet ripe." It is known, however, that this measure is one of several plans he has been formulating with a view to bettering the conditions of the farmers.

The lowering of interests rates of all kinds and the reduction of the costs of production on lands are also schemes which the cabinet is said to harbor.

There was some talk other members of the cabinet, representing metropolitan districts, might follow Mr. Stewart out of office, but nothing definite was learned. There is a general opinion that the Forbes Government, a coalition supported by former Premier Coates, is strong enough to carry on even with another resignation.

Farming interests gathered here yesterday to discuss measures which might aid them in their attempt to recover stability and ensure their means of livelihood. They unanimously passed a resolution advocating the raising of exchange rates to a level at least equal to those enjoyed by Australia and the Argentine.

Time to Eat

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19. — (AP)—Guards in the federal building thought a jail break was in progress but found it was only Pattie Farren—hungry. When a din was heard emanating from the 200-pound prisoner's cell, they rushed to the scene prepared for trouble. They found Farren, awaiting extradition to the State of Washington, had torn steel mesh from his cell and bent some of the bars. "Hey, you guys," he roared, "when do I eat?"

GRAVENHURST. — Aylmer Lepard, aged 35, and his wife, Alice, aged 32, were charged in court here this afternoon with attempted extortion following investigation into a demand made upon Charles Mainprice, Sr., of Toronto, at the time of the drowning of his son in Lake Muskoka last October.

The letter which Mainprice received, while the search for the body of his son was in progress, demanded $5,000 for the safe return of his son.

FURTHER DEBT PAYMENTS IN GOLD IS IMPRACTICABLE, SAYS BANKER

Would Defer the Return of Britain and Other Countries to Gold Standard.

SAYS F. C. GOODENOUGH.

LONDON, January 19 (C.P.). — F. C. Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's Bank, in his annual report to shareholders to-day commented outspokenly on the war debt owed to the United States and decared that the payment of further sums in gold may be dismissed as impracticable.

This is true, he said, because if Britain handed over to America $120,000,000 in gold now held as backing for British currency it would defer for long and possibly for ever the return to the gold standard not only by Great Britain but by other countries whose currencies are linked to sterling. He said he thought America and the rest of the world would regard this as an international disaster.

"The only alternative to payment in gold is payment in goods," he asserted, and said that he felt that Britain should not pay a further debt instalment "until the whole matter has been discussed and an agreement for a final settlement has been reached."

Mr. Goodenough said there never was any question about Britain fulfilling her contract, and that he approved of the payment made last December.

It is unreasonable, however, he declared, that Great Britain should continue payments pending discussion and settlement of the war debts problem.

Agricultural Society In Lakefield Reveals Balance For Its Past Year

Albert Darling Re-elected President For Eighth Term —Higher Class Exhibit.

PRIZES PAID IN FULL.

LAKEFIELD, January 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual meeting of the Lakefield Agricultural Society was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon, with a fair attendance. Albert Darling, the president, was in the chair.

The secretary-treasurer, Howard W. Beavis, read the report of the society for the year. The total receipts were $1,209.40, and the expenditure $1,146.30, leaving a balance on the year's activities of $63.10. The gate receipts were $274.20 and the entry fees amounted to $86.95. There were 91 exhibitors and 933 entries. The itemized number of entries and the amount paid out in prizes was given, and was interesting, especially as the prize money was paid in full:

	Entries.	Prize Money
Horses	67	$134.50
Cattle	113	229 00
Sheep	66	65.75
Pigs	17	30.50
Poultry	143	49.75
Dairy	10	14.75
Grain	52	21.50
Root	97	15.25
Orchard	59	10.05
Garden	75	15.85
Art	15	3.75
Dom. Science	61	17.75
Ladies' Work	116	47.25
Flowers	42	9.25

Reports on the exhibits and the judges of last year in the live stock class brought out the opinions of the various committees that the Government judges were excellent; that while the number of entries was less, the quality was better, especially among the horses and the cattle.

It was decided to send the affiliation fee of $2.00 to the Fall Fairs and Exhibitions Association and that the usual number of Government judges be employed this year.

Albert Darling.

Mr. Darling was very brief in giving his address. He thanked the members of the society for the honor they had done him in making him president. He had held the office for seven years, and has been twenty-one years on the directorate, and can truly say he is on good terms with all the board. "We are gratified to report that we are ahead on last year's Fair, which in these times is a real achievement. Lakefield can carry on a fair yet if the directors will get behind it and boost."

J. E. Galvin was asked to take the chair for the election of officers and as the oldest director present he gave a brief and interesting resume of the society, which is in its seventy-eighth year. "We are not as big as the Canadian National," said Mr. Galvin, "but we are older." People say the day of small fairs is past, but Mr. Galvin was optimistic that the little fair will come into its own again. As a testimony to his many years' faithful service to the society, his wide knowledge of the rules and regulations, its scope and achievements, and his unwavering loyalty, Mr. Galvin was elected honorary president of the society.

Officers for 1933.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Albert Darling (re-elected for the eighth term); 1st Vice-president, Hugh Kidd; 2nd Vice-president, G. G. Connell; auditors, Messrs. A. H. Clark and G. H. Spence; directors, Messrs. J. W. Ridpath, W. Hawthorne, S. Harrison, R. Darling, A. E. Higgins, R. H. Alford, G. E. Mullen, W. H. Peacock, H. D. Coons, W. Tedford, G. Fairbairn, A. Graham, T. Garvey, C. L. Harrison, George Harrison, H. J. Abbott, T. J. Wood, and Miss B. Graham; Lady Directors, Mrs. T. Braden, Mrs. R. Garbutt, Mrs. G. A. Graham, Mrs. J. E. Gavin, Mrs. W E. Gillman, Mrs. A. Darling, Mrs. H. Beavis, Miss Shields, Miss M. Adams; secretary-rteasurer, H. W. Beavis.

It was decided to send a letter of appreciation to the Department of the work of J. Lockie Wilson, who had retired after many years of efficient and loyal service to the Fall Fairs and Exhibitions Branch of the Department.

During the past year the society lost one of its oldest directors in the person of Robert Garbutt, who was for many years on the active board, and of late years on the honorary board of directors. A letter of condolence had been sent Mrs. Garbutt at the time of her bereavement and a reply received.

Where Almost Perfect Murder Was Com mitted

Here is shown the scene of London's "Almost Perfect Crime." The book was closed, and the murder unsolved when Samuel Furnace died of self-administered poison after being jailed. Police have failed to solve the motive for the crime or how Furnace obtained the poison. A body was found in Furnace's blazing office, and was thought to be Furnace's Investigation, the discovery of a laundry ticket and two bullets proved the body was that of Walter Spachett, close friend of the murderer. Spachett's body wasp roppedup in the chair shown above.

Winners Announced For Sewing Contest

Mrs. Frank Nichol Conducts Roseneath Women's Institute Meeting.

ROSENEATH, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Frank Nichol held her Institute meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday afternoon when a large number of members and several visitors were present.

The program committee for February will be Mrs. Ednel Blodgett and Mrs. Orra Robins and held at the home of Mrs. John A. Nichol.

Mrs. E. Blodgett suggested that the old Women's Institute books in the hall be put with the later books. And on motion of Mrs. Delbert Brisbin seconded by Mrs. Ryan, the members of the reading club join again by buying a new book, and leave the already used ones, or if any wished to withdraw books they could have that privilege, carried. All W.I. members have the privilege of reading any of the books in the Town Hall library.

By request of Mrs. Nichol a large variety of articles were on display, and no article to exceed 15 cents.

The most practical gift, Miss Annie Brown was awarded first prize having a pair of pillow cases made from flour sacks) embroidered and tatting edge; second to Mrs. Thomas Sandercooks; third prize was given to Mrs. O. J. Robins and fourth was won by Aunt Mary Brown, who is now in her 88th year.

This display proved most interesting in bringing out ideas of what can be made at little cost. The judges were Mesdames S. Leach, G. Montgomery and C. Leach of Fenella and who were thanked for their kindness by the society.

The program was prepared by Mrs. M. Radley whose birthday is in January and consisted of the following: vocal solo by Gwendolyn Varcoe "The Church in the Valley"; reading, "The Little Red Rooster" by Mrs. Pacey; solo, "My Blue Ridge Mountain Queen"; recitation by Doreen Nichol, "I Wish I had." A splendid paper was given by Mrs. William Mouncey, "Making the best of what we have." This paper was full of facts and good understanding, simple to the average person, who may ever be cheerful and be always thankful for whatever little or much they may possess.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess, who after the close of the meeting served delicious refreshments that was enjoyed with social chat and laughter.

KNEES WOULD NOT BEND

Had to Slide Downstairs

BETTER AGAIN AFTER SEVEN YEARS OF PAIN

This woman—a widow—has a message of hope for every sufferer from rheumatism. She bore the pain of it for seven years—yet she is quite all right again now.

She writes:—"I am a widow, aged 55, and for seven years have suffered terribly with muscular rheumatism and rheumatic gout. Two years ago I could not bend my knees to walk downstairs. I had to slide down, and then pull myself up again by the rail. I had to have a stick to help me along. Then early in April last year I was advised to try Kruschen Salts. I got one bottle, and by the time that was gone, I began to feel brighter and better. I have gone on ever since, and am now able to walk with comfort."—Mrs. F. M. T.

Rheumatism, like gout and lumbago, has its origin in intestinal stasis (delay)—a condition of which the sufferer is seldom aware. It means the unsuspected accumulation of waste matter and the consequent formation of excess uric acid. If you could see the knife-edged crystals of uric acid under the microscope, you would readily understand why they cause those cutting pains. And if you could see how Kruschen dulls the sharp edges of those crystals, then dissolves them away altogether, you would agree that this scientific treatment must bring relief from rheumatic agony.

Moreover, Kruschen so stimulates the organs of elimination that every trace of uric acid-forming waste material is regularly and completely expelled. Kruschen keeps your inside clean and serene. Mischievous uric acid never gets the chance to accumulate again.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

THE MARKETS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Jan. 19. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track, shipping point: Wheat, 40 to 43c; oats, 20 to 22c; barley, 32 to 34c; corn, 33 to 35c; rye, 30 to 32c; buckwheat, 26 to 30c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 19. — (CP) Heavy volume of receipts and poor demand forced fresh egg prices down 2 to 3c on the produce and dairy market here yesterday. With the mild weather stimulating production, large quantities of eggs have arrived in Montreal in the last week. Today receipts totalled 2,198 cases. Fresh graded eggs in car lots or less lost 2 to 3c, extras being quoted at 26 to 27c, firsts at 23 to 24c and pullets at 22 to 23c. Storage eggs in car lots or less held unchanged at 22c for extras, 21c for firsts and 19c for seconds. To retailers eggs in cartons lost from 1 to 2c.

Car lots or less of No. 1 grass butter were steady at 21c. Receipts were 47 boxes. Cheese held steady at 8½ to 8¾c for current Ontario white, 10c for current Ontario colored and 10½ to 11¼c for early Ontario make. Receipts were 18 boxes.

Potatoes were firm, New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag being quoted at 85c, Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 80-pound bag at 90c, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag at $1.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 19. — With trading dull and mostly local, wheat prices received just enough stimulus from very moderate export business to close a quiet session unchanged to ⅛c higher here yesterday. Foreign advices offered no encouragement to local values. All three futures advanced fractionally in the opening flurry of trading, but soon turned lethargic and lost these gains.

Good inquiries were received for Canadian wheat, but actual sales were small and confined to the Pacific Coast. Reports from the United Kingdom said buyers there were withholding commitments in anticipation of large wheat shipments from the Argentine and Australia this week.

Traders discounted reports that Russia would purchase a large quantity of Canadian wheat. These rumors were officially denied late yesterday by the Amtorg Trading Corporation in New York, Soviet Russia's agents on this continent.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—Apart from the continued easy feeling in fresh eggs, local produce prices held relatively steady yesterday. Fresh eggs were forced down again by increased receipts at local points, due to heavier production, which has been stimulated of late by milder weather. So far as storage eggs are concerned, the only quotation available is that of seconds to the retail trade, which are marked down at 20c, indicating the fact that the supply is just about exhausted.

Ungraded eggs, cases returned, were off 2c yesterday at 20c for fresh extras, with fresh firsts at 18c and seconds at 16c. Graded eggs, cases free, were 24c for fresh extras, 22c for fresh firsts, 20c for pullets and 18c for seconds. To the retail trade, in cartons, fresh extras declined to 28c, with the loose at 26c, firsts at 24c and seconds at 21c.

Butter showed no price change in a quiet trade, as was the case with cheese and churning cream. Poultry, on the other hand, was a trifle firmer, the new scale of prices for the coming week, as issued yesterday, showing a better undertone. Turkeys were sharply higher than a week ago at from 15 to 19c.

YOU'LL find the practice interesting, helpful and profitable. You'll find in The Examiner many items that are helpful to you in carrying out your daily affairs . . . menus, household hints, fashion notes, health suggestions. And probably most valuable of all, you'll find that clipping items from the advertisements not only saves you shopping time but actually accomplishes important savings in your budget.

Make your shopping list from the ads . . . then go out and buy. Show the salesmen in the stores the items that interested you in their advertisements . . . they are anxious to show you the things you want. And they appreciate that they are wise shoppers and good customers who organize their buying through the advertisements.

THE . . . . . PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

The Story of 1932

The results achieved by The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1932 will be very gratifying to policyholders and others interested in the Company's progress:

	1922	1932
Assurances in Force	$140,025,954.00	$291,380,798.00
Assurances Issued and Revived	23,980,734.00	27,321,794.00
Total Assets	24,928,718.62	67,465,959.60
Policy and Annuity Reserves	20,897,214.21	58,314,104.00
Premium and Interest Income	6,122,338.39	13,545,712.00
Payments to Policyholders	2,049,324.13	8,971,333.33

The millions of dollars of Reserves held by The Imperial Life for profit sharing policies are calculated on so strong a basis that interest earnings of only 3% are sufficient to maintain them. The difference between this 3% and the 5.52% actually earned gives an exceptionally wide margin for policyholders' profits and security.

MRS. A. I. BROWN IS RE-ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY

United Church Presbyterial Closes Annual Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Year's Progress is Revealed in Interesting Reports.

Continuing the sessions of the W.M.S. Presbyterial being held in George Street United Church, with the president, Mrs. A. I. Brown in the chair, a large delegation was in attendance. The worship period on Wednesday morning was in charge of Mark Street Auxiliary, Mesdames Daniel, Wand and Andrus taking part. The sectional rallies held in the Presbyterial in September under the leadership of the various vice-presidents were reported. Mrs. F. J. Burgess told of the successful rally held in Lakefield for the north section, while Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings reported for the eastern district, and Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge for Fairmount, and Mrs. William Walt for the rally at Keene, which section includes the six United Church in the city. The year's progress was continued in very interesting reports of the various departments by their respective secretaries. In a splendid report Mrs. Hugh Robb of Norwood told of the excellent work being done in the Strangers' Department, and of its far-reaching effects. One of the very practical sides of W.M.S. work was outlined by Miss Fanny Dixon, secretary of supplies, in her effective report. Wonderful bales she said, were received from every society, and altogether valued at $400. These goods were all re-packed and sent to needy districts where they were most gratefully received.

The report of the press secretary, Mrs. Frank Stevens, showed an increase of reported W.M.S. meetings, and stated that this news was very much appreciated by the public, which looked eagerly for such news in the daily papers. The Literature Department, of which Mrs. J. H. Spencer is the enthusiastic secretary, reported a good year, increased interest and much literature was called for by organizations during the year. Another important subject was treated by the temperance secretary, Mrs. J. Sargent, who urged that there be more prayer, more interest, and more time given to temperance at the W.M.S. monthly meetings and also suggested that a temperance speaker be secured for the next Presbyterial meeting.

An address of great inspiration and missionary fervor was that on the work of the Associate Helpers, given by Miss E. Dunoon, a branch officer in this department, who presented it with a strong appeal to an interested audience.

Associate Helpers

Mrs. W. Stevens, Associate Helper's Secretary stated that there were 138 associate helpers, of these 9 joined the Auxiliary, leaving 129 with total givings of $79.37. St. James Church, Peterbrough, stands first in givings, namely, $23.52 from 12 members. Knox Church, Lakefield, stands second in givings, namely, $20.63 from 15 members; St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, third with $15.54 from 66 members. There is an increase in membership over last year of 31, but a decrease in Givings of $6.87. There are 6 more associate secretaries than in 1931. This truly indicates a growing interest in this particular branch of work.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard, secretary for the Missionary Monthly, gave a fine record of her work for the year. Although a total decrease of 21 in subscriptions was reported, 10 societies increased their subscriptions. There were 550 Missionary Monthlies sent out last year. This year there are only 410 subscriptions. There were also 215 subscribers to World Friends.

The report of the Nominating Committee was submitted by Mrs. S. H. Moyer. The election of officers followed, after which the officers were installed in an impressive installation service conducted by Mrs. Moyer. The following are Presbyterial officers for 1933:

Honorary Presidents—Mrs. J. K. Moore, Mrs. A. F. Bookhout.

Past President—Mrs. S. H. Moyer, Springville.

President—Mrs. A. I. Brown, Peterborough.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. F. J. Burgess, Lakefield; Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Hastings; Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge, Fairmount; Mrs. Wm. Watt, Peterborough.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. B. L. Barns, Peterborough.

Treasurer—Mrs. A. E. Porteous, Peterborough.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. Bradbury, Peterborough.

Press Secretary—Mrs. E. J. Wagar, Peterborough.

Sec. Christian Stewardship and Finance—Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Peterborough.

Sec. Y.W.A.'s and Circles—Mrs. W. H. Morton, Peterborough.

Sec. Affiliated C.G.I.T. groups—Miss M. Donaldson, Peterborough.

Sec. Mission Bands—Mrs. B. Tucker, Norwood.

Sec. Associate Helpers—Mrs. Wm. Stevens, Peterborough.

Strangers' Sec.—Mrs. H. Robb, Norwood.

Literature Sec.—Mrs. J. A. Spencer, Peterborough.

Missionary Monthly Sec.—Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Lakefield.

Supply Sec.—Mrs. Geo. Ingham, Peterborough.

Sec. Temperance Education—Mrs. J. Sargent, Warsaw.

Charles Lake On Lakefield Board

LAKEFIELD, January 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — Charles Lake was last night elected by acclamation for a term of office on the Public School Board. He was the only candidate who qualified, and will occupy the seat made vacant by the recent death of Dr. S. H. Lingwod.

Defends China

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, young Chinese war lord, was reported to be reforming his troops to stop the Japanese invasion of North China, following the defeat of the Chinese at Shanhaikwan.

STOMACH ULCERS

When you have too much acid in the stomach, causing indigestion, belching, gas, giddiness, and a "dead on your feet" feeling after meals — watch out, it may lead to stomach ulcers.

Four out of five people have acid stomach whether they know it or not and about one in every seven with acid stomach has reached the stage of ulcers.

Bisurated Magnesia, which you can get at any drug store, will neutralize stomach acid, coat over ulcers with an effective healing agent, and permit them to heal. If you have acid stomach or symptoms of stomach ulcers, you owe it to yourself to give Bisurated Magnesia a trial. Big package, small cost. Not a laxative.

SUCCSSFUL YEAR MILLBROOK SOCIETY

Women's Association Of St. Thomas' Anglican Church Holds Annual Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—The annual meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, on Monday evening, with a good attendance and reports presented covering the year's work showing continuous and constructive activities throughout the twelve months.

Twenty-two members were reported by the secretary, with an average attendance of eleven, eleven regular meetings, the annual bale containing an outfit for an Indian boy being shipped in April; also a Christmas bale to Miss Taylor, deaconess at Burnt River, Northern Ontario, containing groceries, toys for children, and knitted woollies, etc.; and five bales from the social service department, Mrs. Bonneville, convenor, two to Harcourt, two to a needy family at Coe Hill, and one to a needy family in the west.

Miss Margaret Simpson, superintendent of the Junior W. A., gave an interesting outline of the work among the boys and girls, the older ones meeting at the rectory in the evening, and the younger members in the afternoons at the parish hall; Winnifred Lord is the assistant to Miss Simpson. The treasurer of the auxiliary reported all pledges fully met and a balance in the bank; while the Women's Guild, an organization within the auxiliary membership which raises funds to help the church wardens with their obligations, reported a substantial sum handed over for this purpose.

The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott; vice-president, Mrs. A. J. Fallis; secretary, Miss Rose Macnamara; treasurer, and secretary-treasurer of the Guild, Mrs. J. E. Allen; Dorcas secretary, Miss Annie Armstrong; superintendent Junior W.A., Miss Margaret Simpson; secretary, Little Helpers, Mrs. J. W. Hilton; mite-box secretary, Mrs. T. G. Harkness; Leaflet secretary, Mrs. G. Howson. The honorary president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, and honorary vice-president, Mrs. E. J. Whyte, were reappointed to their respective positions.

After discussion it was decided to hold a St. Patrick's Day hot supper on Saturday, March 18, to add to the Guild funds. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the president, Mrs. Westmacott, for her faithful and energetic services during the year, and also to Miss Eva Howson who looked after the sale of church calendars at Christmas time quite successfully.

The first chapter of the new study book on "Honan," dealing with the people of that large province was taken up by Miss Macnamara, and at the close the hostess, assisted by Miss Macnamara, served dainty refreshments and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

St. Andrew's S. S.

A number of classes met for organization for 1933, following the regular session of St. Andrew's Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, the Men's Bible Class, Mrs. (Dr.) L. Rae, teacher, having its slate as follows: President, Thomas Douglas; vice-president, Fred McMahon; secretary, Wesley Brown; assistant, Jeffrey Powell; treasurer, G. E. Burnham.

The Tuxis Square, also known as the Young Men's Class, W. A. O'Brian, teacher, elected: President, Gerald Todd; vice-president, Grant Henry; secretary, Raymond Rowland (assistant, Nelson Davis); treasurer, William Byam. Social and Sports Committee: Kenneth Fallis (convenor), Gordon Davis, Ernest Powell, and Johnston Rowland. Membership Committee: The entire class with Gordon Muspratt convenor.

The Boneka Class, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones, teacher: President, Mrs. H. A. Earle; vice-president, Mrs. Ross Edmunds; secretary, Mrs. W. Theobald; treasurer, Mrs. W. A. O'Brian. Convenors of committees: Social, Mrs. Edgar Fallis; Devotional, Mrs. Wesley Brown; Missionary, Mrs. William West.

The "Sunbeams' Class," Miss Jean L. Burnham, teacher: President, Esther Might; vice-president, Marie Douglas; secretary, Bernice Smith; treasurer, Kathleen Smith.

The "Busy Bees' Class," Miss Margaret Luxon, teacher: President, Dorothy Smith; vice-president, Barbara Argue; secretary, Lenora Davis; treasurer, Beatrice McDowell; monitor, Audrey Garside.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SUNDAY SCHOOL'S ANNUAL SESSION

R. Stone Elected Superintendent St. Thomas, Anglican — Balance Shown For 1932.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—St. Thomas' Anglican Sunday School met for its annual gathering on Monday evening, at the home of Miss E. J. Grandy, the rector, Rev. William Simpson, B.A., taking the chair, and expressing warm appreciation, on his own part personally as well as that of the congregation and the church wardens, for the faithful and effective manner in which the superintendent and his staff have carried on the work of the school throughout another twelve months.

The report of the secretary-treasurer, Miss B. M. Turner, B.A., showed total receipts of $124.91, expenditures $113.00, leaving a balance on hand of $11.91.

Report was made that four members from Mrs. L. J. Morton's class, Winnie Lord, Nellie Miller, Marjorie Vance, and Gilbert Howson had tried the examination set by the General Board of Religious Education, Toronto, and passed successfully.

The election of officers gave the slate for 1933 as: Superintendent, R. Stone; librarian, A. A. Needler; secretary-treasurer, Miss Turner; teachers: E. H. Barnes, E. Budd, R. Stone, Cameron Vance, Mrs. Morton, and Miss Grandy, who has the primary children, with Miss Eva Howson as assistant.

Plans were discussed and completed for the annual hot supper, the plan for the past two or three years being to give the scholars and their parents a treat of a hot chicken supper, followed by a program by some of the younger pupils, and a Christmas tree at the Yuletide season, instead of preparing an entertainment and making a charge.

The hot supper early in January, which has been successfully carried through each season, adds to the school treasury and makes it unnecessary to give the concert of former years. The rector dismissed the meeting with prayer, and the hostess served lunch during the pleasant social hour which followed.

Wide Awakes.

The Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group met for its initial gathering of the new year on Tuesday evening at the leader's home, ten members being present, two new ones enrolled, and the president, Marian L'Brian, taking the chair.

Business items discussed included means for raising the annual contribution to the missionary fund of the church, the decision being to have a hot supper on Saturday, January 28, Mr. Ingram kindly giving the use of the vacant store formerly occupied by the late J. Steele, and a committee consisting of the president, Madeline McDowell, Jean Burnham, Elma Davis and the leader, to meet on Friday evening to complete the list of supplies needed. Friends of the group will be asked to assist with the contributions of food as the membership is hardly large enough to cover the whole undertaking successfully.

Correspondence read by the secretary, Mary Burnham, included a letter of thanks from Phyllis Kidd, who has been ill for some time, expressing appreciation of the dainty basket, and group 'round robin' sent her at Christmas time; from Miss P. B. Austin, superintendent of nurses at the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, thanking the girls for the box of scrap-books expressed at Christmas, and from the general secretary, Miss Jessie McPherson, Toronto, reminding the group that C.G.I.T. week this year will be February 5-12, and presenting plans for its proper observance.

Two girls volunteered to see that the shut-in member has the weekly remembrance of letters and 'treat' the group has been accustomed to send. After the offering the devotional period was opened with the usual ritual, the study centering round "Behold, I make all things new," as appropriate to the new year. The usual social hour was enjoyed at the close.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

SHE MADE THE WORLD LAUGH BUT DIES ALMOST UNKNOWN

Harriet Jay, Author of 'When Knights Were Bold' Battled With Blindness

FARCE STILL PLAYED

Ilford, Eng.—Two servants and a parrot were for many years the only companions of Miss Harriet Jay, author of the famous farce "When Knights were Bold," and other dramas and novels, who has just died here in seclusion.

Miss Jay wrote "When Knights were Bold" more than 25 years ago under the pen-name of Charles Marlowe and ever since it has been popularly supposed that the author was a man.

So persistent has been this belief that only a few people in this Essex town, where she had lived in extreme seclusion for the past decade, knew who she was or what she had written.

Miss Jay's life here was due to a decree of her doctors that if she did not give up writing and reading she would go blind.

She accepted the decree protestingly and left her home in central London, where playwrights, actors, novelists, and poets used to call on her, to live in the more rural surroundings of Ilford.

Two maids looked after her. Miss Jay's eyes gradually became worse, and some weeks before her death she was completely blind.

"When Knights were Bold," her last play, yielded royalties which gave her an ample income. It has been one of the biggest money-makers in British stage history, taking second place among the perennial farces only to "Charley's Aunt."

It made people in many parts of the world laugh. It was first produced in 1906, and the late James Welch, the famous comedian, was said to have made over £20,000 from his interest in the piece alone not counting his salaries from acting in it.

Miss Jay, before this piece brought her a fortune, had had a varied career. First she was a novelist, winning considerable success with her first book, "The Queen of Connaught," which was later dramatized.

After writing several other novels she went on the stage, appearing as Lady Jane Grey in "A Nine Days' Queen" at the Gaiety in 1880, and in several other London theatres.

Meanwhile, Miss Jay, in collaboration with her brother-in-law, the late Robert Buchanan, wrote a blood-and-thunder melodrama, "Alone in London," and such popular pieces of the day as "The Shopwalker" and "Fascination."

Since the death of James Welch "When Knights were Bold" has been presented and played regularly by Mr. Bromley Challenor, who was rehearsing at the Fortune theatre in London for the customary Christmas revival when news came of the author's death.

CHRISTMAS PARCELS SWAMP THE CUSTOMS

Plymouth Officials Say Those From Canada Worst Packed

Plymouth, Eng. — Ten thousand Christmas parcels from overseas were opened here and examined by customs men, who said that the worst packed parcels with the highest percentage of breakages were, on the whole, from Canada.

The amounts payable were varied from a few pence up to £7 on an expensive silk dress, and the sender had computed its value in dollars. The customs men figure 6s. 2d. to the dollar, and the duty on silk is 50 per cent.

Among the parcels from India were 400 tins of tea and an assortment of Ghurka knives.

BRITISH BELLES ON A HOLIDAY CRUISE TO SPAIN

Holiday cruises have been extremely popular with the folks in the Old Country this season.

NEW STEERING ORDERS ON ALL BRITISH SHIPS

A Starboard Command Now Means Starboard and Not Port

London.—A sweeping change in a traditional custom of Britain's ships—the alteration by law of the steering orders—has just taken place.

Always previously the helmsman who heard the command, "Starboard your helm," swung his wheel to port, and the ship swung to the left.

Now the order is "Starboard the wheel," and the helmsman will obey the instruction literally, swinging the wheel actually to starboard, so that the ship swings in that direction.

This change in one of the oldest regulations of the sea destroys one of the last surviving links between the modern ship of steam and motor engines and the old sailing vessels, which were guided by a massive tiller.

In old times the helmsman was ordered to "port" the helm, which he did literally. In pushing the tiller to the port side of the ship the rudder was swung to the starboard side, and the ship turned in the opposite direction of the command.

When steam steering gear and the telemotor were invented sailors still clung to the traditional command.

Proposals were made first to abolish the old words port and starboard in favor of the terms left and right now used in American ships. British shipping interests opposed any change but they finally agreed with other nations to alter the indirect helm orders to the direct command. For six months the command will be "Starboard the wheel," or "Wheel to starboard." Then the order will simply be "Starboard" or "Port."

RAJAH'S GREAT NEW PALACE DESIGNED BY BRITISH FIRM

Maharajah of Jodhpur's House to Cover Six Acres and Cost £300,000

THEATRE INCLUDED

London.—A London firm has designed a modern palace for the Maharajah of Jodhpur, India.

Building has begun. The palace will cover six acres and stand on a 120-foot hill overlooking the capital of the state.

It will contain a circular swimming bath, 60 feet round; ballroom, theatre built on modern lines to hold 200; a bathroom to every suite of rooms—40 in all; and a zenana, or part of the house for the women of the family, with a two-acre walled garden overlooking the city.

The palace will cost £300,000. It would have cost much more in England, but labor and materials in Jodhpur are cheap.

There will be accommodation for 50 women in the zenana—but the maharajah has only one wife. The zenana will be used for her relatives and guests.

As the women in this state are kept in strict seclusion, other parts of the palace will be accessible from the zenana by concealed galleries, so that the women may look on without being seen.

MAN VANISHES JUST BEFORE HIS WEDDING

Brighton Ship Engineer Goes to London and Disappears

Brighton, Eng.—A handsome young officer of the P. and O. Line has vanished on the eve of his wedding to a Brighton girl.

He is Frederick Charles McEwen, aged 30, a third engineer, who signed off from the P. and O. liner Ballarat when it arrived at King George docks from Australia recently.

McEwen came then to Brighton to make arrangements for his wedding, and buy a business here. He intended to leave the sea after his marriage.

One day he went to London and he wrote from there to his fiancee, telling when he would return to Brighton. Since then nothing has been seen or heard of McEwen.

FAMOUS PREACHER SAYS HE BELIEVES IN FLAMING YOUTH

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan Back in London After 13 Years in America

IS FREE LANCE

London.—Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, the famous preacher, has returned to England from the United States, where he has been preaching since 1919.

Dr. Campbell Morgan was formerly for 13 years minister of Westminster Congregational church, Buckingham Gate, S.W., London, and he has accepted an invitation to be associated in the work of the church with the present minister, Dr. Hubert L. Simpson.

He is to work with Dr. Simpson for six months in the year, and during the other six months he will give his services to churches throughout the country.

When asked by London interviewers for a message to the Congregationalists of Britain, he said:

"Read your Bible. The Bible is the only answer to our present problems. Read it, and listen to its exponent. It does not need defending against modern attacks. It only needs properly explaining."

Dr. Campbell Morgan's general views on religion were striking.

"I am a great lover of flaming youth," he said. "I refuse to believe that there is anything wrong with them.

"I think that perhaps we have become a little lazy in religious matters. We have no right to expect the church to make Christianity easy for us.

"Rather I wish that the invitation of the church should be, 'Come with us and join a crusade.'"

RICHARDSON, SHY V.C., DIES IN LIVERPOOL

Served Some Time in Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Liverpool, England. — Remarkable stories are told of Sergeant Arthur Herbert Lindsey Richardson, the "Shy V.C.," who has just died in a Liverpool hospital.

Richardson won the Victoria Cross at Wolversprult in the South African war, and afterwards, rather than call attention to himself by admitting his identity, he refused to contradict a cable announcing his death.

He allowed a man to pose as "Sergt. Richardson, V.C.," in Scotland, at the King's garden party to V.C.s and kept silent when this man was buried with military honors. Richardson then was living in poverty, working at odd jobs. He went to Canada and joined the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. It was only when friends asked him to attend a dinner to V.C.s given at the suggestion of the Prince of Wales that his identity was made known and he became reunited with his relatives.

Sergeant Richardson won his V.C. by rescuing a wounded trooper under heavy fire.

LORD CONGLETON DIES FROM KICK OF HORSE

Simple-looking Bruise Becomes Infected in an Unusual Way

London. — Unusual circumstances were related at the inquest at Westminster on Lord Congleton, who died following an accident in the hunting field.

Lord Congleton, who was 40, was kicked by a horse and bruised on the leg.

A Harley St. doctor said that after being seen by his local doctor Lord Congleton came to London feeling ill.

His temperature suddenly rushed up to over 105. Blood cultures were taken. The bruise was perfectly simple-looking and gave Lord Congleton practically no pain, but several days later it swelled rapidly.

Sir William Willcox, the bacteriologist, was called in, an operation was performed and Lord Congleton was given a serum. Complications later set in and the cause of death was septic pneumonia following blood-poisoning due to the accident.

The doctors said it was a most unusual case and that two of his children had the same thing and one died, seeming to show a family tendency for this infection.

CONVICTS SEND WREATH

Parkhurst, Eng. — When Captain Joseph Woodhouse of the Church Army, for twenty years assistant chaplain at Parkhurst convict prison, who died suddenly in his office at the prison, was buried, the wreaths included one from the prisoners, bearing this inscription:

"With respect and affection from the inmates of his majesty's prison, Parkhurst.

"For all of us he did his best;
We hope in heaven he'll find sweet rest."

GAVE 800 BABIES A PARTY SO NOW THEY GIVE HIM ONE

They're All 25 But They Haven't Forgotten Sir Robert Clough

KEIGHLEY MAYOR

Keighley, Eng.—Sir Robert Clough, former member of parliament for the Keighley division, will be the central figure in a novel gathering on February 8 in the municipal hall here.

It will be a huge party of "babies," all 25 years of age, and behind it lies an interesting story.

Sir Robert was mayor of Keighley in 1908. He was Keighley's youngest mayor up to that year, and, being specially interested in infant welfare work, decided to mark his year of office by entertaining all the babies born in the borough during that period, along with their mothers.

The event took place on Oct. 28, 1908, when 800 out of 953 eligible infants were his guests and received souvenir mugs. On June 3, 1919, Sir Robert entertained in Victoria Park 700 survivors, who were then 11 years of age.

And now it becomes the turn of the "babies" to entertain Sir Robert and Lady Clough at a supper, concert and dance. It is said at least 500 will attend.

Many of the 1908 Keighley babies are married and have families of their own, but children are not to be taken.

END LONG DISPUTE IN LANCS COTTON TRADE

Each Weaver Will Work Six Looms Instead of Four at New Wages

Manchester, Eng.—A new era of peace in the Lancashire cotton industry has been opened by representatives of operatives and employers signing the "more looms to a weaver" agreement.

Thus ends a four-year controversy during which there have been innumerable stoppages, disturbances, negotiations and disagreements. Last August and September the whole manufacturing section of the industry was idle for four weeks. Now peace is virtually assured for the next three years.

The new agreement provides that the operative shall work six slowed-down looms instead of four ordinary looms, as at present. The average wage will approximate 41s. per week of 48 hours against 36s. per week on four looms.

The weavers will have a fall-back wage of 66 2-3 per cent. of the normal wage or 28s. per week, whichever is the higher, when employed with four or less looms under this system.

Concessions have thus been made on both sides. The new system will apply almost wholly to the export trade, and is expected to have very beneficial effects in that direction. Lancashire should now be able to sell cheaper cotton goods in foreign markets.

MAYOR JUMPS FULLY DRESSED INTO POOL

Saves Life of Diver Giving Swimming Demonstration at Shoreditch Baths

London.—A mayor presiding at a public function, threw off his chain and robes of office, and dived, fully dressed, into a swimming bath, to rescue a drowning man at Shoreditch.

The rescuer was the mayor of the borough, W. J. Fudge, who was officiating at a school swimming gala at Pitfield St. baths.

Mr. H. G. Smith, of Hoxton, was giving a diving display, and was seized with illness and began to sink.

Then the mayor jumped into the water and brought him back to safety, while 500 schoolboys cheered.

He said afterward "Strangely enough, my old master, who coached me as a schoolboy in swimming and life-saving thirty-eight years ago, had organized to-day's gala, and was present when I dived in."

The mayor holds the Royal Humane Society's certificate and medal, which were awarded to him when he was 17 years of age for saving a boy's life in the Regent's canal at Dalston.

He was one of the first London schoolboys to receive these awards.

BURIED IN TOMB WITH A LIFE-SIZE LIKENESS

Viscountess Maidstone Often Took Friends to See It in Cathedral

London. — Augusta Viscountess Maidstone, who died at her home Douglas, Parabola Rd., Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, at the age of 83, was cremated at Birmingham and buried in a tomb in St. David's cathedral, Pembrokeshire, which she had constructed because of her horror of being buried underground.

On top of the tomb is a life-size replica of her herself which she often took intimate friends to see if they thought it was a striking likeness of her.

Viscountess Maidstone married first, in 1876, Viscount Maidstone, only son of the eleventh Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham.

She chose St. David's cathedral because she was a niece of Bishop Jenkinson, who was Bishop of St. David's many years ago.

She was left a widow three years later and did not marry again for 38 years, until 1917, when she became the wife of Lieut.-Col. F. J. Ashburner, who is seriously ill.

SPAIN IMPROVES LAND SEIZED FROM GRANDEES

Plans Irrigation Works to Reclaim 75,000 Acres Near Seville

Madrid.—The work of preparing the organization of the scheme of Agrarian reform voted by the Cortes is being pushed forward at high speed. Despite the technical difficulties involved, hopes are held of settling 12,000 families on the land early next year, advantage being taken of the estates expropriated by the republic from the Grandees after the August rising.

At least 1,600,000 acres should be available free of cost to the state as a result of these expropriations. The estimated value is about $50,000,000. Accurate figures are not available, firstly, because it is possible that the land of some of the Grandees will be exempted from expropriation in recognition of services rendered to the state; and, secondly, because only half of Spain has been officially surveyed to the present. The biggest sufferer is the Duke of Medina-Celi, estimated as likely to lose land valued at about $5,000,000.

In conjunction with the scheme, irrigation works are being pushed forward also. It is hoped to irrigate in the near future 75,000 acres near Seville in the valley of the winding Guadalquivir. Seven acres of rich, irrigated land will maintain one family.

The gigantic task of getting the reform scheme in operation is being superintended by Don Marcelino Domingo minister of agriculture, a former schoolmaster. One of the principal difficulties foreseen is that of working the large estates co-operatively in districts where the subdivision of land would be uneconomic. Possibly the Socialist National Landworkers' Association, numbering 400,000 members, may play a large part in this, as providing the largest organized body of agricultural laborers and also the trade union with the most numerous membership in Spain.

FOIL BOMBERS' PLOT AT HAMBURG DOCKS

Communists Blamed as Police Seize Weapons

Berlin.—The capture by two Hamburg policemen of a large packing case crammed with rifles, hand grenades, bombs and ammunition has revealed the existence of a band of Communist terrorists who, it is believed, were planning a series of bomb outrages on the Hamburg docks.

The Hamburg police, who have succeeded in arresting eleven of the organization, are withholding full particulars of the case, as they have hopes of getting on the track of the Communist terrorist organization.

They believe that it is spread over the whole of Germany.

STRIPPED TO SOCKS BY CHINESE BANDITS

Priest Then Forced to Run Through Snow to Camp

Mukden. — Father Julian Roland, a priest who is the son of Col. Roland of Lille (France), has given a vivid account of his experiences during three days in the hands of bandits, from whom he escaped.

Captured near Changchun, the capital of Manchukuo, he was stripped of all clothing except his socks, despite there being a temperature many degrees below freezing-point, and forced to run in the snow behind a bandit's pony as the party made their way hurriedly back to their camp. He was frequently beaten ruthlessly.

In his presence the brigands cut off the ears of Chinese prisoners in the camp for dispatch to their relatives. In spite of his attention to them many of the captives so mutilated died.

CHARGE DUCE FOSTERS HATRED OF JUGOSLAVS

Serb Leaders Reply to Mussolini's Remarks — Will Defend Rights

Belgrade.—An accusation that a deliberate attempt had been made "to arouse hatred of Jugoslavia throughout Italy" has been made in the senate here by M. Jevtitch, minister for foreign affairs.

M. Jevtitch's speech, delivered in calm, measured tones, was intended as an answer to Signor Mussolini's recent speech in the Italian senate.

The Italian premier had referred to acts of violence which resulted in the destruction of the historic Venetian lions of St. Mark outside the cathedral of Trau (Dalmatia), and in the death of an Italian in the islands of Veglia.

Signor Mussolini had declared that responsibility could be traced to "these elements in Jugoslavia that guide the dominant policy of the state with a propaganda of hatred and calumny against Italy."

There has been considerable tension between Italy and Jugoslavia recently, and demonstrations have been made in Rome before the Jugoslav Legation and the French Embassy.

"Jugoslavia will remain calm in the face of provocations," said M. Jevtitch, "but his does not mean that she will sit with folded arms and refuse to defend the most sacred rights of the country."

The Jugoslav government, added the minister, deplored the lion incident, but, as no Italian interests had been involved, there was no cause for an Italian diplomatic step in Belgrade.

USE RUSSIANS' HAIR TO MAKE FELT BOOTS

Soviet Orders Development of Industry

Moscow.—Hair swept up in Russia's barber shops is to be used for making felt boots.

Orders have gone forth from the commissariat of light industry to the trust called "Union Rubbish" that it must: Develop the storing of human hair in the big cities—Moscow, Leningrad, Razan, Odessa and Kharkoff.

The trust must get together the first 3,000 tons within a few weeks, as the commissariat is sending a "brigade of scientific workers and specialists" with a consignment of hair to Factory No. 6 of the Felt Boot Trust in Nijni Novgorod.

By this new Bolshevik scheme every adult Muscovite ought to get a new pair of felt boots every year from his own hair-cuts. If the 450 barbers' shops in Moscow "store" the hair swept up from their floors it will provide up to 1,500 tons annually, which can be made up into 1,500,000 pairs of boots.

RAISE SCHOOL COST AT ARMY EXPENSE

Italy Cuts War Budget, Spends More on Education

Rome—A deficit of 3,087,941,920 lire (about $160,572,979,840) is provided for in the official estimates of the Italian budget for the financial year 1933-34.

Despite these discouraging figures Signor Mussolini's government is boldly budgeting for higher expenditure next year. The total expenditure for 1933-34 will be 20,815,0[illegible],000 lire as compared with 20,060,000,000 lire.

More money is to be spent on education, land reclamation, agricultural development, relief work for unemployed.

There will be less money spent on army, navy and air force, ministry of communications, ministry of corporations, ministry of foreign affairs.

BLAMES TAX IMPOSTS FOR MURDER, ROBBERY

Slayer of U.S. Visitor in Paris Gets Life Term in Prison

Paris. — Penal servitude for life was the sentence passed by the Versailles Court on Albert Guy Davin for the murder in December, 1931, of Richard Wall, a rich American living in Paris.

The plea of insanity influenced the jury to recommend a life sentence rather than the otherwise inevitable condemnation to the guillotine.

The murder of Richard Wall attracted widespread attention; for he was stated to be something of a mystery man, and was believed to carry large sums of money with him.

Davin, who was arrested thirty hours after the finding of Wall's body in a wood, was alleged by the police to have confessed that he first shot his victim, after he had lured him to the wood in a motor car, and that he then removed his clothing and threw his body into the river.

When the French police reconstructed the crime Davin, while admitting the crime and pointing out exactly where he had fired both shots, sobbed bitterly, and explained that he had been driven to the deed by the claims of the tax collector.

Black and White Flower Pinned on Gate Near Her Body

Cobham, Eng.—A black-and-white artificial flower pinned to a gate led to the finding of a dead woman, dressed entirely in black and white, with a poison bottle by her side, in Chatley Woods, Surrey.

A gamekeeper named Arthur Ivy, walking along a path leading into the wood, saw the flower attached to a wooden gate and tear it a woman's handbag, which contained five shillings.

He entered the wood and found the dead woman.

Everything she wore, including her gloves, were black and white like the flower.

A letter bearing the name Johnson was found in the woman's handbag with a cloakroom ticket issued at Waterloo station, London, and a bus ticket from Kingston to Cobham.

She was a complete stranger to the village.

City Council Seeks to Prevent Influx

Bombay—Bombay is in danger of becoming known as the capital of Leprosy.

When a resolution was moved in Bombay city council calling for steps to prevent the influx of lepers from all over India into the city, it was estimated that there were 40,000 lepers in the streets alone, begging from passers-by.

In spite of agitation in the press and on the platform, the authorities have done nothing to eradicate the peril to public health.

The lepers travel in trams and buses and often obstruct the entrances to shops and temples.

AIRSHIP MERCHANT MARINE MAY BECOME REALITY IN FEW YEARS

Private Interests Hoping to Obtain Mail Contracts.

PLAN GIANT LINERS.

BY JAMES C. KINKAID
Central Press Writer

AKRON, O., Jan 19.—Fighting to overcome two barriers that lay in their paths, legislative and financial, Zeppelin interests now are looking forward to the establishment within the next five years of an airship merchant marine connecting America with Europe and Azia.

Two bills ready for consideration by congress provide for the letting of air mail contracts to dirigible transport operators, and to put the lighter-than-air craft on the same limit of liabilities as that now enjoyed by surface vessels.

One of the measures makes it possible for the postoffice department to let air mail contracts paying up to $20 a mile. The other places the airship in the merchant marine service and gives the operators protection similar to that affecting all American steamship companies.

Overcome Financial Burden

With the legislative barrier passed, Zeppelin interests believe they can overcome the financial hurdle with little difficulty, although millions of dollars are required for the establishment of the routes.

Officials of the Zeppelin transport corporations already organized do not pretend to believe that their systems would be competitive to steamship operation. Nor do they believe that they would enter a race with heavier-than-air lines. They feel that theeir lines would operate for a purpose, not now filled by these two means of transportation.

They also hope that they can be ready to start construction on their first commercial air liner by next spring, when the U. S. S. Macom, new sister ship of the U. S. S. Akron, is delivered to the navy department. If work is begun then, J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of the International Zeppelin Transport Corporation, which is engineering a transatlantic route, declares the first flight to Europe would be made in three years.

To Orient, Also

The Pacific Zeppelin Transport Corporation, a similar organization, will endeavor to establish a route to the Orient shortly thereafter. Neither line, however, intends to cut deeply into the traffic carried now by surface craft.

Hunsaker reports that a two-and-a-half day schedule from the east coast of the United States to a point near the centerof population in Europe could be maintained at least 80 per cent of the time. The round trip schedule of these ships would be completed in a week.

Thousandsof passengers traveling between the continents could not afford to pay the extra fare demanded by Zeppelin transports. However, Hunsaker does believe that air mail, express and passenger service will soon be a reality. The passenger fare is expected to be between $600 and $1,000. The air mail tariff will be somewhat similar to present costs for land plane mail in North America, and express rates will be aproximately $1 a pound.

On this basis, with an air mail contract with the postoffice department of the government at $20 a mile, carrying several tons of mail, the revenue of a voyage would be as follows:

Mail	$40,000
Express	2,000

This total deducted from operating costs of nearly $23 a mile, leaves a difference of about $26,000. This difference could be made up from a passenger listof about 30. As the craft will be designed for the carrying of about 80 passengers, of which a 60 per cent full capacity is expected, the line could be made to pay a fair rate of interest on the investment.

Larger Than Akron

As planned, the shipcoperating on the new lines will be larger than the two military rigids which will be operating within the next year, the Akron and Macon. The overall height and maximum diameter will be the same as the military ships. However, the length will be increased from 785 feet to about 859 feet. This added length will provide the necessary space for the installation of gas cells needed to bring the gas volume of the ship to 7,500,000 cubic feet, one million more than the martial craft.

The "pay load", that burden from which revenue can be obtained, will be about 44 tons. This includes 12 tons of mail and express, and nearly 32 tons for passengers.

Mooring these ships would be accomplished largely by mechanical means without the necessity of great man power such as now required in maneuvering ships such as the navy craft to earth. Experiments with mooring masts for the stern of the ships as well as the bow are now being conducted, which will enable the ground crew to be reduced to a minimum.

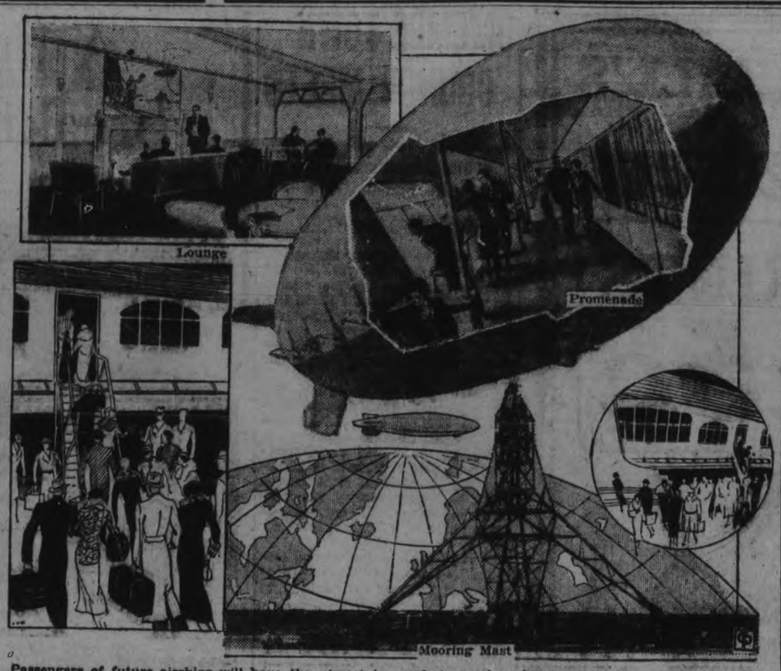
Enclosed Promenades

Other changes in the ships from the military craft are the removal of certain features necessitated in warships. The airplane hanger in the Akron and Macon will be replaced by dining halls and salons in the commercial ships. Along each side of the Zeppelins will be promenades, enclosed, for about 200 feet on each side, near the bow of the craft. The staterooms will be located inboard, along each side of the ship. Officers quarters and those of the crew will be situated forward, near the front control car.

Lessons have been learned from the flights of the Graf Zeppelin on its Germany-South America voyagees. More room must be given passengers. They can not sit in a chair all day. Therefore, 400 feet of exercising space is given, with open windows on both sides.

Diesel engines, using crude oil as fuel, may also be an innovation in the new commercial ships. This, engineers believe, will show the way to more economical operation of the dirigibles. And perhaps give a quarter pay load or greater cruising radius without refueling than now possible.

Even the fondest dreams of the Zeppelin interests refuse to picture competition with the surface vessels. Two commercial ships, carrying near capacity loads on each trip throughout a year, could only take care of four per cent of the first-class traffic now handled by steamers, and at the most fifty per cent of the first-class mail now being carried by transatlantic ships. And the first-class mail between the United States and Europe is only about ten per cent of the total mail clearing from the port of New York.



Passengers of future airships will have the utmost in comfort—spacious lounges, and promenades to exercise. Mechanical mooring masts are to be employed to cut down the large landing crews now necessary.

Alp Forest Region Surveyed For Signs Of Bert Hinkler.

PARIS, Jan. 19 (C.P.). — More than a dozen French aeroplanes were enlisted to-day in searches over French territory in Africa and the Alps region for Lady Mary Bailey and Bert Hinkler, two of the British Empire's foremost flyers.

Planes were starting from various points in Algeria and Morocco to search for Lady Bailey, wife of a South African millionaire, and mother of five children, who has been missing four days on an England-South Africa speed flight. At least a dozen planes, mostly military, were engaged.

French authorities said other planes would explore forest regions in the vicinity of Dijon and the French Alps for Bert Hinkler, missing 12 days since he began an attempt to recapture the England-Australia speed record.

Captain C. D. Barnard, Lady Bailey's instructor, left England for Northern Africa yesterday to join in the search for his pupil.

Captain Barnard was chartered by the Daily Sketch and left Heston Aerodrome at noon yesterday for a 1,200-mile dash to Baroud or Oran.

In the northern part of Africa a foot expedition is being conducted as well as in air search. The French expedition leaves Tamanrasset to-day consisting of Col Desserre, Col. Weis and Captain Sailly.

No Traces

It is also understood that airmen from Colomb Bechar, Morocco, have searched the Atlas Mountain passes without success and that others from Dakar, Senegal, have made long flights into the Sahara Desert without seeing any trace of the missing aviatrix.

The Paris newspaper Le Journal said the British flyer, Capt. W. L. "Wally" Hope, who has been in Switzerland several days looking for his friend, Hinkler, had discovered a new clue. He believed the Australian flyer may have fallen in mountains south of Wetterhorn, one of the most imposing of the Bernese Alps, having three peaks, each more than 12,000 feet high. He planned to explore there to-day.

The Paris paper also said Amy Johnson Mollison, the noted aviatrix and wife of Captain Mollison, had offered to help in the searches. Lady Bailey was attempting to beat Mrs. Mollison's record of four days, six hours and 55 minutes for the London-Capetown flight.

BIOGRAPHY OF YOUNG PRINCESS BEEN WRITTEN

John Murray Has Completed a Biography of Little Princess Elizabeth.

ONLY SIX YEARS OLD.

(By Thomas. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Not many are deemed of sufficient celebrity at four years of age to warrant the writing of a biography. Princess Elizabeth of York attained this distinction two years ago, and now, when Her Royal Highness has reached the mature age of six, a new edition of her "Life" has been issued by John Murray. The author is Anne Ring, and the story, which has some references also to Princess Margaret Rose, is told "with the sanction of their parents." Perhaps the Royal and parental sanction has been induced in the belief that the book may act as a corrective to some of the more exuberant Press stories about the Royal Children, for one or two of them are quietly demolished in the course of the tale.

The author opens with a pleasant little comparison between the infancy of the Princess Elizabeth whose mother was the tragic Anne Boleyn, and the Princess Elizabeth "whose future holds possibilities as richly romantic as those of the first of her name." The Princess was less than 12 months old when her parents, the Duke and Duchess of York, left for their Australian tour. "Queen Mary was enchanted to have her granddaughter living in those airy rooms in the north wing of Buckingham Palace which for her would always be fragrant with memories of her own small sons and daughter, and Her Majesty must often have thought of the day when, as Duchess of Yorkherself, she had to make the same sacrifice as her daughter-in-law and say goodbye to her children in order to accompany her Royal husband on their tour of India."

We learn that from time to time some of the Princess's possessions are sorted, mended, packed, and sent as gifts to children's hospitals. "It is noticeable that among Princess Elizabeth's playthings there are none of those nightmare, ugly toys that some mothers, for some foolish reason, buy for their little ones. The Duchess knows how brightly receptive in its early years is the mind of a child, and so, in these nursery days, it is the Duchess's anxious care to surround her daughter only with loveliness." Certain phrases, we are told, are barred in the Royal nursery. "My Goodness," Princess Elizabeth remarked one day in the hearing of her mother, and was at once told that this was not pretty and must not be repeated. The sequel may appear even more interesting to the respectful reader. "It does sometimes occur that Princess Elizabeth hears some grown-up person who ought to know better exclaim, 'My Goodness.' Then up go her small arms in a gesture of mock amazement."

This wholesome little story of life in a Royal Nursery is brought to a close with some pleasant references to Elizabeth's baby sister, Margaret. Queen Mary's verdict upon her grandchild's small career is given. "I don't think any child could be more sensibly brought up. She lives a simple life, and she is always punished when she is naughty."

If Ruptured Try This Free

Apply It to Any Rupture, Old or Recent, Large or Small, and You Are on the Road That Has Convinced Thousands.

Sent Free to Prove This.

Every ruptured man or woman should write at once to W. S. Rice, 1016-E Main Street, Adams, N.Y., for a free trial of his wonderful Method. Just put it on the rupture and the opening closes naturally so the need of a support or truss or appliance is eventually done away with. Don't neglect to send for the free trial of this Stimulating Application. What is the use of wearing supports all your life, if you don't have to? Why run the risk of gangrene and such dangers from a small and innocent little rupture, the kind that has thrown thousands on the operating table? A host of men and women are daily running such risk just because their ruptures do not hurt or prevent them from getting around. Write at once for this free trial, as it is certainly a wonderful thing and has aided in healing ruptures that were as big as a man's two fists. Try and write at once to W. S. (Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, January 19. — The town council met in the council chambers last week, with Reeve Magee and Councillors Fee, Burgess, Parker and Race present.

The following accounts were ordered paid on motion of Fee and Burgess:

Street lights for December, $77; lights for hall, $2; lights for Coronation Hall, $7.64; election supplies, $1.48; election expenses, H. Lamb, $6; insurance on Coronation Hall, $52; F. Pickett, meal tickets, $3; R. Morton, meal tickets, $1.75; D. Deyell, charity, 80c; McLaughlin, Fulton, Stinson and Anderson, $130.46; R. James, stove for jail, $7.

It was moved by Parker and seconded by Race, that the statement of unpaid taxes by the collector, be received.

J. J. Williams was appointed weed inspector for 1933.

It was moved and carried that communication from Ontario Good Roads Association be fyled.

S. D. Vaughan was re-appointed a school trustee.

Bylaw 580 appointing R. Bradley and H. Hill auditors for 1933 at $6 each, was passed.

Moved by Parker and Burgess that a half cord of dry wood be bought from Walter Magee for the jail.—Carried.

Bylaw 581 to authorize the head or acting head and treasurer of the Village of Omemee to borrow the sum of $5000 from the Bank of Toronto at 6 per cent., was passed.

The council will meet the first Monday in February.

PROF. J. D. WATTS IS GUEST SPEAKER

Men's Association of Trinity United Church, Omemee, Holds Annual Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, January 19. — Another very interesting and instructive gathering was held by the men of Trinity United Church, Omemee, on Friday evening. It was the annual banquet of the Men's Association. The tables were attractively decorated and the good things were nicely served by the younger men of the association.

Following the community singing a quartette composed of Messrs. Brooks, Stinson, Marshall and Vaughan, under the direction of M. D. Earle, favored the audience with two sections, and Harvard Reddick sang a solo which delighted the gathering.

The speaker of the evening was Prof. J. D. Watts, of the Department of Science of Queen's University, and his subject was "This Wonderful Universe of Ours."

Messrs. F. Parker and Harrison, expressed the thanks to the speaker and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

King's Workers' Band Meets At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence) — The King's Worker's Mission Band held their first meeting of the New Year in the church on Saturday afternoon and was well attended with seventeen members. Mrs. Ednel Blodgett the newly appointed president was in charge of the meeting assisted by Mrs. Albert Halstead and Mrs. Andrew Brown.

The society decided to try for the Mission Banner this year with Dorothy Tucker and Rosella Taylor as captains, one side to collect small coppers and the other side large ones.

Olive Sherwin and Leila Taylor favored the gathering with singing a duet.

Mrs. Blodgett spok e briefly in planning the work of the society and suggested a few New Year resolutions to abide by.

Mrs. Halstead gave a very interesting story entitled, "The Christmas Message."

Membership pins and a study book "Missionary Heroes" are to be purchased in the near future.

Brewers Are Aiming To Stop Homebrewing

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (C.P.).—The brewers are hopeful of having the Interprovincial Conference take steps to stop homebrewing, it was learned here to-day. Records of the Department of National Revenue show that approximately 200,000 persons have notified the Department of their intention of brewing their own beer.

The claim advanced is that the Excise Act and the Provincial Acts clash. One allows private brewing and the other forbids it.

Several provinces have laws that no person may have in his possession intoxicating liquors other than that purchased from the Liquor Commission. The general practice for the provinces having such a law has been not to enforce it against persons unless they sell the homebrew.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — The Dairy and Economic branches of the Federal Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Rural Economic Service and the Dairy Division of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph and the Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, are conducting a study of management problems in 250 cheese factories in Quebec and Ontario. The collection of data is now complete. The purpose of this study is to provide information on operating costs, methods of management, and organization which will be of value to farmers and factory owners. Some of this data was gathered from factories in the Campbellford district.

In order to avoid payment of high Italian duty on butter, experiments are being carried on in Sweden to ship cream overland in hermetically sealed containers from Sweden to Italy. One of the largest dairies in south Sweden, upon the invitation of a leading Italian dairy in Milan, is now experimenting with such shipments to Italy.

Milk "the most nearly perfect food" is brought still nearer perfection by a simple treatment with ultra violet light, according to a statement by Dr. H. Russell of the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation on the occasion of a recent demonstration of the newly developed process and equipment for irradiating milk.

The irradiation process is based upon the discovery by Harry A. Steenbook of the University of Wisconsin, and is protected by patents assigned to the foundation.

In this treatment the milk is exposed by ultra violet light while flowing in a thin film over the inner surface of a large cylinder, the lamp being suspended in the centre so that all milk is equidistant from the light, hence the treatment is uniform and controllable.

Vitamin D milk, prepared either by addition of Vitamin D extract to the milk, or by feeding irradiated yeast to the cows, is already on the market in several cities. The direct irradiation process by reason of its simplicity is likely to come into general use.

Weddings

STINSON—CURRY

HAVELOCK, Jan. 19. (Examiner Correspondence). — A very pretty wedding took place here on Saturday afternoon last, when Pansy S. Curry, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curry, became the bride of Mr. Oliver Morley Stinson, South Dummer, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Stinson, Rev. Mr. Beaton officiating.

The ceremony took place in an evergreen bower, decorated with pink and white tulips. The bride was attired in a princess gown of white georgette, with bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and baby breath. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mildred Rogers of Norwood, who wore a gown of pink georgette, with matching jacquette trimmed with white fur, carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Ford Stinson a brother of the groom acted as groomsman. Miss Barbara Watson, cousin of the bride played the wedding music.

After the ceremony and reception to about fifty guests, all repaired to the dining room, which was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of pink and white, with tulips and other flowers, where a sumptuous dinner was served. Later in the evening the happy couple departed for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will take up residence in South Dummer, where the groom is a prosperous young farmer. The groom's gift to the bride was a brown tooled leather handbag. To the bridesmaid he gave a manicure compact set. The groomsman received a handsome gold trimmed pouch, and the pianiste a coral necklace.

Warm Enthusiasm On Ice

There's a touch of elan, verve, about this picture that makes it seem almost alive, breathing the very spirit of winter sport. The dashing skater is Melitta Brunner, former British professional skating champion. She is pictured as she practised some of her spectacular ice gymnastics at the rink in St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the season is now in full swing.

FRACTURES RIGHT WRIST.
While hanging a picture at her home at 249 Dalhousie street yesterday afternoon, Mrs. D. Lane had the misfortune to fall off the chair on which she was standing, and break her right wrist.
She was attended by Dr. C. D. Hewett and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

CHINESE TROOPS PERISH OF COLD

Jap Scouts Find 380 Soldiers Besieged On Mountain, Dead.

NO FORCES MOVING.

(By the Associated Press.)

Waiting for a break in the weather, the armed forces of China and Japan remain inactive, and for two days there has been no report even of minor skirmishes.

Japanese scouts in the mountains of South-eastern Manchuria have reported the discovery of 380 Chinese soldiers frozen to death on a mountain top where the Japanese besieged them for two weeks.

The League of Nations, having made another effort to effect conciliation of the dispute, is awaiting word from Tokyo on the offer to reconsider its proposal that the United States and Soviet Russia be asked to join in the process of conciliation.

In Tokyo government representatives said unofficially that Japan will demand still further modifications of the League's plan.

TOKYO SATISFIED.
TOKYO, January 19 (C.P.). — Japanese officials expressed satisfaction to-day on receiving reports that the League of Nations Committee of 19 agreed to drop its plan to invite the United States and Soviet Russia to join in conciliation of the Manchurian controversy.

German Battleship Given First Test

KIEL, Germany, Jan. 19.—(A. P.)—Flying a mercantile flag, the "vestpocket" battleship 'A,' or the Deutschland, left port to-day on its first trial run in Kiel Bay. It was to return to its dock this evening.

The Deutschland was launched May 19, 1931, in great ceremony. It is scheduled to depart Feb. 27 via the Kaiser Wilhelm canal, which connects the North and the Baltic seas, for Cuxhaven, where it will be turned over to a naval commission.

The Deutschland will unfurl the naval flag during the launching the second "vestpocket" battleship "B," or the Wilhelmshaven, April 1.

CAR HITS TREE ONE MAN KILLED

Five Others Injured, One Perhaps Fatally, In Crash Near Hull.

SKIDDED ON CURVE.

HULL, Que., Jan. 19 (C.P.).—One man was killed instantly and five others injured, one perhaps fatally, when the car in which they were driving left the highway early today and crashed into a tree.

Curry Chipper, 49, Ottawa, was killed, and Ethel Martel, also of Ottawa, was injured seriously Annie Desjardins, Eva Clarke, Archie Rollin and Louis Chimiri, all of Ottawa, are in hospital suffering from bruises and shock.

The accident occurred at a curve on the highway one mile north of here. In some way, as yet unexplained, Louis Chimiri, driver of the car, lost control, the car swerved into the ditch crashing against a tree.

N. Z. INFLATION UNLIKELY TO HIT CANADIAN TRADE

OTTAWA, Jan. 19. (CP)—Trade experts in Ottawa did not expect the action of the New Zealand Government in further inflating the currency in that dominion to have any important effect on Canadian trade. According to the understanding here, this makes the exchange on New Zealand currency the same as on Australian money.

Canada's chief exports to New Zealand, newsprint, automobiles, rubber goods, canned fish, are for the most part goods New Zealand must import and therefore Canada is in much the same position as it has been in the past. It is the value of the currency of the countries competing with Canada rather than the value of New Zealand's currency that counts.

Dairy experts to-day were convinced that the inflation would no affect world prices of cheese and butter in London.

British Schooner Drifting Rudderless

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)— The British tern schooner Dawn Wilkie, bound from Barbados, British West Indies, to Saint John, N.B., is drifting rudderless off Jeffery's Bank in a rising south-east storm. The coast guard was notified today.

The Dawn Wilkie was sighted yesterday, flying a distress signal, by the schooner Ruth Lucille inbound to Boston. The master told Captain Thomas Dunham of the Ruth Lucille that he had a cargo of molasses aboard and had been out a month from the Barbadoes when his rudder gave way several days ago.

The cutter Ossippee, cruising not far from the position of the Dawn Wilkie, 120 miles north-east of Boston, was directed by wireless to speed to the assistance of the helpless craft.

"Quilt" Suits

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—The thief who took two suitcases containing sample suits from the automobile of W. F. Meyer, St. Louis salesman, may be all dressed up for a funeral, but with no place to go.

"And were they one pants or two pants models," inquired the sympathetic policeman to whom Meyer complained.

"Oh, just one," said Meyer, "and they were unfinished in the backs, too.

"They were to be used for burial purposes."

PIRATES LOOT COAST VESSEL

Safe Yields 200,000 Mexican Dollars—400 Passengers Stripped.

IN SIGHT OF SHANGHAI.

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 9. (AP) A tale of how 15 Chinese pirates plundered the Chinese coastal steamer Tahua almost within sight of Shanghai Tuesday night was received here to-day by Vernacular newspapers from Ningpo, where the vessel, which does not have a wireless, arrived.

The reports were that 400 Chinese passengers were robbed of money, jewelry and clothing, the ship's safe was looted of 200,000 Mexican dollars being shipped by a local Chinese bank to Ningpo and that the Captain was forced to steer his ship to a nearby island where the buccaneers escaped.

All was accomplished without the firing of a single shot.

Obituary

CECIL HUBERT BOORMAN

Cecil Hubert, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Boorman of 243 McDonnel street, died early this morning, after an illness of two week's duration.

Besides his parents, the child is survived by one brother, Lester, and three sisters, Muriel of the Salvation Army Training College Toronto, and Faith and Ruth at home; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leader also of this city.

The funeral is to be held on Saturday at 2 p.m. with services at the Salvation Army Temple, conducted by Adjutant E. M. Falle. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS VERA BENNETT.

HAVELOCK, January 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — The death occurred at Toronto on Saturday last of Miss Vera Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bennett, of Toronto, formerly of this village. The young woman, who was in her thirty-second year, had been ill for more than a year, and though the best medical aid was obtained failed to respond to treatment.

Miss Bennett was born in Havelock, and educated at the Public and Continuation Schools here. For some time after the family's removal to Toronto, she attended the business college, and afterwards was employed in a clerical position with the C.P.R. at Toronto.

She leaves to mourn her passing two sisters, Miss Jewel Bennett at home, and Mrs. McGiverin of Hamilton, also one brother, Ernest Bennett of Montreal.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, from the family residence Geoffrey Street to St. Vincent de Paul Church, where Requiem Mass was sung. Interment was made in the family plot at Mount Hope Cemetery, Toronto.

J. H. MOORE ELECTED PRESIDENT HAVELOCK HORTICULTURAL GROUP

Financial Statement Shows Balance of $56—20 Members Pay Fees.

PROGRAM LINED UP.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—J. H. Moore was elected President of the Havelock and Belmont Horticultural Society at the annual meeting held in the council chamber Monday evening.

In the absence of the president, R. W. Bonney, Mr. Moore occupied the chair. L. A. Gould, secretary-treasurer, read the financial statement for the year. This showed a credit balance of $56, with total receipts for the year of $183.47. The number of paid-up members was 88. Teh greater part of the money expended was used for premiums, work on the plots around the town hall, printing and stationery. T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., was asked for a report from the board of directors.

Some Suggestions

Mr. Lancaster: "Our report must of necessity be very meagre, due to the late organization last Spring and our very limited knowledge of how things should be done.. We overstepped the bounds of prudence in giving premiums last season. We should arrange the amount expended on these so as to equal about two-thirds of the members' fees. Taking the handsome discounts into consideration this would bring the amount handed out in premiums equal to a retail dollar's worth. The balance could be used for local improvements. Take for instance the Memorial Gates at the entrance to the park. They are very bare looking. Evergreen plots on each side would require but little attention and would greatly enhance the general appearance. Then, again, look at the east and west entrances to the village on No. 7 Highway. They would be greatly improved by flowers or shrubs of some kind. I have taken the matter up with the department and they instructed their patrolman to prepare the soil and make it ready for any work we might see fit to do. There you have two concrete suggestions; also the new entrance to the town hall could be more attractive if something was planted along the railing. We must get away from the idea of getting out of the society the dollar we put into it. No doubt each year we should get close to that amount back in premiums; but we should devote more of our time to improving the village as a whole. There was a big improvement 'last year and we had many fine compliments paid us by tourists and visitors. We should be able to do even more this coming year."

Officers Elected

The following officers were elected:

Honorary President, T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P. President, J. H. Moore. 1st Vice-President, Mrs. T. P. Lancaster. 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. George Smith. Directors (two year term), Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Hubel, Mrs. Bush; (one year term), Mrs. Johnston, R. J. Peoples, Mrs. Curtis, Miss Morrison, and Mrs. Bonney. Auditors, J. R. Bedford and Miss Morrison.

The following were appointed to make a drive for new members: Messrs. T. P. Lancaster, L. A. Gould, J. H. Moore; Mesdames. Bonney, Vansickle, Curtis, Wilson, Johnston, Hoffman; Misses Munro and Morrison.

Mr. Lancaster, together with the president and all the directorate will be a committee to assist the secretary in the distribution of premiums. Mr. Lancaster generously offered the use of an unused garage at the back of the Standard office.

J. H. Moore urged all the members to get at least one new member. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore will be official delegates to the Ontario Horticultural Society convention to be held in the King Edward Hotel February 9 and 10. Incidentally Mr. Lancaster will be present and will be among the prominent speakers on the very extensive program.

At a meeting of the board immediately after the regular meeting, L. A. Gould was re-elected secretary-treasurer for the ensuing year.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Nobody thinks nowadays that he is ever going to get smallpox. And this is justified, because in most cases if he does, it is a reflection on his intelligence.

But smallpox is still around, and we see a few cases of it every year. It is distinctly a disease of winter. Somebody gets it and begins to feel an aching in his bones, crowds in with some other people around a stove, or huddles with some old bums near a doorway where there is some heat. And the result is, inevitably, three or four cases.

In an unvaccinated community this would cause an epidemic. Every once in a while in a community where vaccination has been neglected such an epidemic occurs with disastrous results.

For instance, what occurred not so very long ago in one large city is typical of what might happen in any community which has not paid attention to vaccination. For many years, that city had been free of smallpox. This had created a feeling of security which had lulled people into a forgetfulness of the value of vaccination. A large part of the population at that time was opposed to vaccination.

Into this serene and apparently secure community a Pullman car conductor got off the train at the end of his run from Chicago. There had been a sporadic epidemic of smallpox in Chicago. The Pullman conductor came down with the disease and was treated at the municipal hospital. Two months later an attendant in the hospital died of smallpox. Then, with a negligence almost criminal, the authorities of the hospital dismissed all patients presenting no symptoms of the contagion, who could go home. "The disease," according to report, "spread like fire in dry grass, and within nine months there died in the city of smallpox 3,184 persons."

The lesson is perfectly plain. No one need fear smallpox now because it is preventable by vaccination, and vaccination should certainly be carried out on all persons at the age of at least two years. It should be repeated about every five to seven years—five or six times during the life of the individual.

Smallpox is one of the most contagious of all diseases, and it is virtually certain that anyone exposed, who has never had the disease or never been vaccinated, will take down with it.

In my own city a few years ago we had an epidemic of so-called black smallpox. The name comes from the fact that hemorrhages occur under the skin in the pocks. This is a fatal form. The news of this epidemic frightened the population, and for several weeks the doctors in our city did virtually nothing else except vaccinate people who had never been vaccinated previously. I was surprised to find how many people, 20, 30 and 40 years old had never been vaccinated.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

When the short hair styles recently came into vogue this season, the charming Sylvia Sidney decided to have her hair bobbed. Sylvia had never had bobbed hair before, and one of the first things she noticed was the fact that her hair was much easier to treat when bobbed than it had been when long.

That nightly brushing that is so essential for beautiful hair, especially is much easier to administer when the hair is short than when it is long. And any female who wishes to have hair as luxiriant and glossy as Sylvia's simply must give her locks a good brushing every night. For brushing is an excellent conditioner for the hair. And it not only is stimulating to the scalp and good for the health and appearance of the hair, but it is a beneficial tonic and relaxer for the entire body as well.

Too many women today neglect their scalp health because they are fastidious about the appearance of their coiffure. They have the idea that brushing will ruin their waves, and as a consequence fail to give their tresses this necessary treatment. And they're all wrong, of course, for brushing, if properly done, does not have any detrimental effect on a wave at all. Indeed, since it distributes the natural oil evenly over the hair, it tends to keep the waves more smoothly in place.

The hair should never be brushed in downward direction. It should always be brushed with an upward and outward stroke. Both the hair and scalp catch and hold a great deal of dust and other substances between shampoos. And brushing upward will loosen these substances and carry them away from the scalp.

When brushing the hair, always begin at the hairline in front of the head, and brush with an upward and outward motion. Continue this around the entire head, paying particular attention to the back of the head. After having gone around the entire head, pick up the hair at the crown and brush it in the same manner, strand by strand, until the whole head has been gone over. And as the final step, comb your hair down smoothly and push

Healthy and Happy with FRY'S Cocoa

Give your breadwinner a lunch kit treat tomorrow—a vacuum bottle of piping hot Fry's Cocoa. Men like Fry's for lunch because of its pleasing, chocolaty flavour, and also because it is a sustaining food. Unlike some other drinks which change in taste when kept in a bottle even for a short while, cocoa has the same enticing flavour when he drinks it at noon as when you made it in your kitchen.

The nourishing food value of Fry's Cocoa provides quick warmth and strength in wintertime.

To Make One Cup of Cocoa with Fry's

Mix one half to a teaspoonful of Fry's Cocoa with sugar to taste. Add three teaspoonfuls of cold milk and mix into a smooth paste. Pour on boiling water or water and milk brought to the boil. Stir briskly while pouring.

To Make "Hot Chocolate" with Fry's

Take one heaped teaspoonful of Fry's Cocoa with an equal quantity of sugar to each cup. Mix into a paste with 3 teaspoonfuls of milk. Pour on hot milk stirring all the time. Put mixture thus obtained into a pan and bring to boiling point.

Mr. and Mrs. Mordecai Blewett of the 2nd line of Smith township celebrated on Tuesday the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding day. The immediate members of their family were present for a quiet home gathering. Both Mr. and Mrs. Blewett are in good health. They were married on January 17th, 1872 and have lived all of their lives in Smith township and the district. Both are natives of Smith. Mrs. Blewett was formerly Miss Mary Rosborough, daughter of pioneer residents of the township. Mr. Blewett will be eighty-five years old on April 4th next and his wife will be seventy-nine on June 3rd. There are three children: Mrs. Sidney Middleton of 653 George street north, Mrs. George Hendren of North Monaghan and Mr. Stanley Blewett of Smith township. There are also eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The young women from the city and district who are attending the January short course in Home Economics being held in the South Central School under auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, were entertained very pleasantly at afternoon tea in the spacious showrooms of the A. Comstock and Sons establishment on George street. In line with their tuition in home furnishings and interior decoration, the young ladies make annual visits to such establishments and the splendid array of handsome hangings and furnishings at Comstock's afforded them a fine opportunity to study color effects this season. After their inspection, they were guests of the firm at tea, served from a table arranged very prettily with a lace cloth, a centerpiece of spring flowers and yellow candles in silver holders. Miss Mary Comstock, Miss Gertrude Comstock and Miss Grace Comstock were in charge of arrangements.

FASHION SERVICE

As well as for normal figures, this model is delightful for more matronly ones.

It is the wrap-over type of dress that lends such elegant height to the wearer.

For all its simplicity, it has a great deal of chic and charm.

The diagonal bodice is especially slenderizing. The sleeves are close-fitting with a little puff above the snug cuff effect. It will add length to arms possibly plump enough to benefit by it.

Black woolen, so exceedingly smart with a touch of white pique, made the original. The belt was black suede.

Style No. 3265 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 2⅝ yards 54-inch with ⅝ yard 27-inch contrasting.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

There are certain things which can be done without cost for the comfort of an invalid or aged person, which so smooth the wrinkles away from life that they react to the actual good health of the one cared for.

* * * * * * *

It will be found that everything mentioned is a trifle in itself. These same things mount to the size of large ones if one cannot change them and has to endure or add to the work of others by asking to have them altered.

* * * * * * *

One trifle is in shutting bureau drawers so that there is no little line of opening through which contents of the drawers are visible. How one can be bothered by such a trifle!

* * * * * * *

Instead of the decorative front of the bureau being presented to view a gaping front devoid of beauty stares one in the face.

* * * * * * *

Another trifle is in the noiseless shutting of doors, especially those into the room of the invalid or aged person. Sudden sounds are distressing, yet there are many invalids who have to endure them silent or be called querulous.

* * * * * * *

If an invalid once gets catalogued as impatient or exacting, such characterizing clings. One must learn to close doors silently and it can be done, if not absolutely silent, with a minimum of sound. A little practice will prove this.

* * * * * * *

Turn a knob as far as it will go before opening or shutting the door. Hold the knob firmly. Close or open the door before releasing the grip and then do it slowly.

* * * * * * *

In a short time this can be done almost as quickly as carelessly opening and closing the door with noisy results.

* * * * * * *

Oil hinges which squeak—and by the way, rub the edges of drawers with soap when they stick or squeak.

* * * * * * *

To have to remind a person leaving a room to please close the door bothers the one making the request almost as much as the one asked to do it.

* * * * * * *

Whatever disturbing sights or sounds can be avoided in a sick room, then, should be eliminated both for the comfort of the invalid and the one who is looking after her.

Married 61 Years On January 17

Mr. and Mrs. Mordecai Blewett, of Smith Township, quietly celebrated the 61st anniversary of their wedding, on Tuesday. They were married on January 17, 1872, at Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church parsonage, by Rev. Mr. Doyle, and have lived practically all their lives in Smith Township.

Cow's Freedom at Stake

LANSING, Mich., January 19 (C.P.). — Up in Grand Marais, Mich., they're going to hold the November election over again.

As Attorney-General Patrick H. O'Brien understands it, there is no dispute about the election of Mr. Roosevelt, but a projosal to bar cows from the streets is causing all kinds of trouble.

The proposal carried at the election, but opponents contend visitors were permitted to vote.

Streamline Lingerie Latest Paris Vogue

(By Adelaide Kerr.)

PARIS, January 19 (C.P.). — Streamline simplicity is the rule for new lingerie this season in marked contrast to the lacy elaboration in vogue last year.

Night dresses, chemises, and slips are cut on the bias to cling close to the figure without a distracting wrinkle and elaborate lace inserts are giving way to tiny lace edgings and fine embroidery. Valenciennes and fantasy laces dyed to match the fabrics which they trim are more in favor than th eheavy ecru laces formerly used.

"Little girl styles" have laid their mark on the newest night dresses. Short cap sleeves, higher necklines, and even "button up the back" models suggestive of pinafores are shown by the smartest designers. Soft pink or peach rema in the favorite colors, although white and soft blue are also used.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

The best cough remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and saves two-thirds of the money a family usually spends on cough medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MINSTREL SHOW AT ALL SAINTS' WELL RECEIVED

Watercraft Minstrels Make First Appearance in All Saints' Hall.

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

Before a very appreciative audience the 1933 edition of the Canadian Watercraft Minstrles had its premiere for the season in All Saints' Parish Hall last evening under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. Its tuneful mirth, gags, songs and music presented good entertainment to the audience and bore testimony to the skilled talent of the troupe and to the splendid directorship and showmanship of Delbert Lucas and Homer Lundy.

Opening in the first act in a broadcasting studio, the announcer, Delbert Lucas, gave Canadian Watercraft boats smart publicity in true radio announcer fashion. Then, as interlocutor, he introduced the end men and the show was off in wave after wave of funny "gags" shindigs and songs. "California, Here I Come," sung in zippy style was the opening chorus. Homer Lundy, clever end man, then took the boards with "I'm Nobody's Sweetheart Now" and Miss Beatrice Gash sang in a sweet voice, "Dawn of To-morrow". Jack Smith sang "There's Oceans of Love by the Beautiful Sea". Then Byron Smith almost stopped the show with his performance of a colored reverend preaching a sermon. The entire ensemble swept into two rollicking songs, "Shine on Your Shoes," and "Louisiana Hay Ride". Little Peggy Leonard then sang "Daddy Dear" and gained much applause. There was no depression in the manner in which Ray Leonard sang "On the Sunny Side of the Street," which was followed with the minstrel finale of "The All Canadian Girl."

During the intermission, Ray Leonard and Homer Lundy came "out front" and did some laugh-raising magician tricks. The Peterborough Liftlock Mountaineers, a five-piece band that has broadcasted over C.F.C.A. then entertained with some feet chasing old and new-time numbers, having as their theme song, "In the Good Old Summer Time". Mel Leal is the Mountaineers' director and the band ran through "Goofus", "Arkansas Traveller", "Dream of Love", "Irish Washerwoman", "Home" and "Over the Waves". Dorothy Cottingham, juvenile violinist, played several solos with fine technique.

The funny men then returned with the laugh-provoking farce, entitled the "Coon Rehearsal" the principals being, Delbert Lucas as the playwright, Ray Leonard as the coon and Byers Smith as the awesome ghost. The show closed with "Our Home Song" as the grand finale.

The end men were: Homer Lundy, Ray Leonard, Byers Smith and Jack Smith. Ladies of the chorus: Misses Beatric Gash, Helen Lucas, Hazel Barry, Wilma Hall, Sybil Hall, Bernice Leonard, Louise Thompson and Eva Stevens; boys of the chorus, Reg McGraw, Cy Thompson, Hank Clancy, and Earl Gilman.

Tom Taylor was piano accompanist throughout the whole program and his smart work did much to make the show the success it was. Adding to the musical part of the entertainment were Harold Kane who played two fine numbers on his Hawaiian guitar and Charles Evans, the wandering minstrel, who song in splendid voice, "St. Louis Blues" and "Singing in the Rain."

THE OPENING TWO-BID.

In both one-over-one and the more modern suit-over-suit procedure, an opening bid of two of a suit (but not 2-No Trumps) is a demand that partner respond, regardless of the fact that he has a complete bust. You know that your partner will respond to an opening bid of one if he holds as good as two Kings, or even a K and a Q, bidding no-trump, and allowing you to play the hand at that make, or at two of some suit. To force partner's response when he may be void of honors means that you should be very strong—several tricks stronger for an opening two bid than for an opening one bid.

The more biddable suits you hold the fewer certain tricks your hand needs to force partner, because the greater chances you have of finding him able to support you, at least with considerable trump length in one of your biddable suits. If you set too high standards you lose game opportunities. If you set too low standards for your two bids you go down too frequently. The rules given here are what my experience and caloulations have found most satisfactory.

A single biddable suit requires a hand reasonably certain to win within one trick of game. Two biddable suits require ability (to win within two tricks of game. Three biddable suits require five quick tricks and seven playing tricks.

You miss the point of opening two bids if you think that a certain number of quick tricks are needed always. Both single suiters and two-suiters may not need more than one or two quick tricks. The number of probable tricks is the vital factor, as you will note in some of the hands that follow.

The first hand shown is not strong enough for an opening bid of more than one. The second hand should be opened with a bid of four, as the hand has little defensive strength, it cannot be played at any other make, and you want to shut out adverse bidding.

♥ A 10 6 3	♥ 6
♦ A K Q J 8 6 3 2	♦ 9 5
♣ 6 3	♣ 6

When you have more than one biddable suit first bid the longest suit. If the suits are of equal lengths bid them in order of rank, the highest suit first.

In each case bid two on the following hands:

♠ 8	♣ A Q 9
♥ A K Q 7 5 3	♦ K Q J

Sometimes strategy must be considered, with the effect upon opponents of an opening bid of two. For such reasons the next hand may be bid 2-Diamonds, rather than because you expect to go game on it.

INTERESTING TALK GIVEN AT OMEMEE

Lecture On Economics Given By Mr. Scott In U.F.O. Hall.

OMEMEE, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—A real treat was enjoyed by about 30 persons who were present in U.F.O. hall, Omemee, on Monday evening to hear Mr. Scott, who was the first lecturer in a course of Economics continuing this week.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by F. G. Sandy, who, in a few well-chosen remarks, outlined the objects of the course.

Mr. Scott referred to history as proving the different systems under which mankind had labored. First we had the system of slavery, then the feudal system, and for the last 150 years the competitive or capitalistic system. As this system became more perfect and useful and productive machinery invented the two contributed almost equally to the civilization we enjoy to-day.

One result of our monetary system, with the aid of labor-saving machinery, is that mankind is assured of an abundance of the necessities of life where formerly at different periods the people suffered great want. The speaker emphasized as to how agriculture stood in a different position to highly organized industry, in that industry controlled volume and prices of their goods.

It is generally believed that the law of supply and demand is a very fair regulator of prices, but it was clearly proven this was not the case. You have only to witness the effect of mergers and monopolies to see how prices are regulated and our civilization in danger of being destroyed.

That much-lauded element of efficiency which is so desirable was clearly shown to be accomplished either at the expense of some other department, individual or perhaps another nation.

Mankind was released from a severe depression in 1921 by the advent of the radio and motor car production. But to-day is payday for the tremendous debt incurred at that period. We believed the building of the highways to be justified as they were an outlet for construction materials and unskilled labor and true they solved one difficulty, but they created two more, namely, more debt, and destroyed our railways.

The speaker believed saving will not get you out of a depression; rather, you should spend freely and give the other fellow this money to spend on necessities.

When Mr. Scott finished his address he asked for a discussion or questions on matters which were not clear to all present. After about 30 minutes' discussion on different questions, the meeting adjourned.

At Washington, DC., in January, 1922, 25 inches of snow fell in 24 hours—a record greater than any at New York, Chicago, Boston or St. Paul in any day since the U.S. weather bureau began to keep snow records.

MRS. D. EWART IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PRESBYTERIAL OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Annual Meeting of the Presbyterial is Held in St. Paul's.

WELL REPRESENTED.

Encouraging Reports Are Delivered by Department Secretaries.

Return to office of the entire 1932 executive featured the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada held at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in this city yesterday. Sixty delegates, officers and visitors representing twenty-six communities of Central Ontario were present at the meeting.

Returned to their posts by acclamation, the following will officiate during the present year:

Honorary President, Mrs. C. Read, Colborne; President, Mrs. D. Ewart, Cobourg; 1st Vice-President, Miss Flora Galbraith, Bowmanville; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. C. C. Armstrong, Warkworth; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs A. T. Barr, Peterborough; 4th Vice-President, Mrs. G. T. Dickson, Campbellford.

The secretariat was appointed as follows: Miss G. Harvey, Cobourg, corresponding secretary; Miss E. McVannel, 172 Antrim street, young women's and girls' organization secretary; Mrs. J. Eakins, Millbrook, recording secretary; Mrs. F. H. Rowan, 549 King street, mission band secretary; Mrs. H. W. Morgan, 61 Robinson street, treasurer; Mrs. G. F. Clark, Brighton, finance secretary; Mrs. W. R. Turner, 715 Water street, Home Helpers' secretary; Mrs. Jean Porter, Norwood, welcome and welfare secretary; Mrs. D. Jordan, 815 George street, exchange and life members' secretary; Mrs. W. N. McDougall, Lakeport, library and literature secretary; Mrs. D. Bland, Colborne, supple secretary; Miss Nina Davidson, 563 Aylmer street, Glad Tidings secretary; Mrs. E. E. Cox, 183 Lock street, press secretary.

Well Represented

The meeting convened yesterday morning at 10 a.m. with the registration of delegates. The many auxiliary units which comprise the Peterborough Presbyterial were well represented with a general representation of two members from each community. Along with the senior auxiliaries, young women's auxiliaries and a Canadian Girls in Training group had members on hand. There are twenty-three senior auxiliaries, six young women's auxiliaries and one C.G.I.T. group in the Peterborough Presbyterial. Total membership of the organization at present stands at the figure 1,192.

The final business of the 1932 organization had been discharged at an executive meeting of the organization during the evening preceeding the general meeting. After the registration of delegates, the morning session was opened with praise and intercession exercises answered by prayers by five members of the executive. A hymn was sung by the assembled delegates and devotional exercises were led by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Church.

In a brief address by Dr. Barr, the delegates were heartily welcomed to the city and to St. Paul's Church. He conveyed greetings from the Peterborough Presbytery to the Presbyterial and expressed great satisfaction with the service which the Women's Missionary Society has been giving to the work of the Presbyterian Church. It is gratifying, he declared, that, as the years go on the service of the Presbyterial is becoming wider and deeper in its range and that the steady progress and growth in the organization and its work has not been impeded even by such difficut times as those which are now being experienced.

Strong Position

Speaking of the Presbyterian Church itself in Canada, Dr. Barr pointed with pride to the fact that the church has never in the history of Canada been in a stronger or more stable position in relation to organizations of the other denominations. He stated that at the end of the current year the Presbyterian Church will have a balanced budget, with the probability of a surplus. This, he said, is a condition which few, if any, other churches in the Dominion can boast.

Referring to the relations between the Presbyterian Church and other denominations, Dr. Barr reported with gratification that "evidence of a much finer spirit between the denominations and particularly in the relationship with the United Church of Canada" is to be seen. At a recent meeting held in Toronto between representatives of the two denominations a conciliatory attitude and a desire to overcome the difficulties between the two organizations were manifest, he said. Take 2 Presbyterial—Send for head

The morning session continued with the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting by Mrs. J. Eakins of Millbrook, the recording secretary. Committees to design and carry out the business of the meeting were appointed; reports from Senior Auxiliary, Young Women's Auxiliary and Mission Band groups were heard.

In a general discussion, the delegates exchanged ideas and discussed means of advancing the work which is being done by the Peterborough Presbyterial as a whole and by the various units in the different communities. It was generally agreed upon that an extra effort will be required in the coming year if the Peterborough Presbyterial is to meet the allocation of $5,300 which has been assessed by the Provincial board of the W.M.S. However, the delegates expressed unanimity in the desire to overcome the difficulties of present hard times and maintain the same rate of progress as in better times. It was pointed out that, although the W.M.S. has never been faced with more difficult conditions in the history of its existence, the admirable total contribution of $4,929.29 was raised in the Peterborough Presbyterial during the past year.

Recruiting Work

The necessity of continued recruiting work was agreed upon. The fact that the organization now boasts a record membership of more than eleven hundred in the Peterborough Presbyterial must not be accepted as an excuse to rest on the oars, it was declared. The extent of the service which the organizations can offer depends largely on the number of workers in the organization. The encouragement of the six Young Women's Auxiliaries which now exist and the formation of new units of this nature were advocated. Delegates expressed satisfaction with the success which has attended the Canadian Girls in Training group since its organization and considered the possibility of further such groups in the larger communities.

A valuable exchange of ideas on methods employed by the various W.M.S. groups in raising their contributions during the past year took place among the delegates. Several delegates reported considerable success in sponsoring plays as a source of revenue, and the Centreville delegates reported a worth-while profit from the serving of a supper at a plowing match. The importance of seizing all opportunities and the importance of utilizing new ideas in raising the contributions was agreed upon.

The morning session was closed with a prayer for the work of the Peterborough Presbyterial by Mrs. C. C. Armstrong of Warkworth, and a further prayer offered by Mrs. D. Jordan.

Following a scripture reading and a prayer offered by two delegates from Lakefield which opened the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Barr, on behalf of the Peterborough Auxiliary, expressed again a greeting and welcome to the delegates. She regretted that a larger delegation was not on hand, but expressed confidence that the program of the meeting would prove an inspiration which would enable the delegates on their return to their own communities to carry on their work in the coming year with renewed vigor. Mrs. Ewart, in the chair, read a letter of greeting from the Peterborough Presbyterial of United Church, which held its annual meeting the previous day in this city.

Reports of the departmental secretaries were read. Mrs. W. R. Turner, secretary of the Home Helpers' department, reported a favorable progress during the past year in the work of the department. At the same time she deplored a lack of interest manifest in certain cases indicated in unsatisfactory reports from several auxiliaries in regard to the work of this department. She pointed out that some auxiliaries have not yet appointed their own Home Helpers' secretaries and urged that all groups which have not chosen members to lead in the Home Helpers' work do so as quickly as possible that the work may go ahead.

Library Service

Mrs. D. Jordan, secretary of the Exchange and Life Membership department, presented a report which compared well with those of other years. In the report for the Library and Literature department, Mrs. W. M. McDougall stated that two missionary lending libraries have been established in the Presbyterial during the past year and are providing a service which justifies their existence. She reported a tendency in the case of several groups to neglect the library service offered by the department, and urged that the service be used by all to the fullest advantage. She cited the supplying of reading matter to one of the lumber camps in the north country, in reviewing the working the various W.M.S. units during the year.

Mrs. Jean Porter, secretary of the Welcome and Welfare department, urged that prayers be offered more frequently in the future for the welfare of the missionaries of the church on service in far lands. She spoke of the importance of a friendly attitude on the part of all the W.M.S. members towards strangers and visitors in the congregations of the church. Not all auxiliaries have yet appointed Welcome and Welfare secretaries, she reported; expressing the hope that by the time the next annual meeting arrives each group will have its leader in this work.

In presenting the treasurer's report, Mrs. Morgan revealed that the total contribution from the senior auxiliaries during the year amounted to $4,254.32. St. Paul's Auxiliary contributed $1,177.34, and Fraser Auxiliary contributed $525. Keene, Port Hope and Cobourg ranked high, with totals amounting to $270.34, $259.69, and $244.95 respectively. Contributions from the six Young Women's auxiliaries and the C.G.I.T. group of St. Paul's amounted to $312. The eleven Mission Band organizations in the Presbyterial contributed $362.65. In presenting the Finance secretary's report, Mrs. Clark asked that each auxiliary adopt the plan of making their personal contributions systematically by envelope.

Secretary's Report

The Corresponding Secretary's report, read by Miss Harvey of Cobourg, provided a wider review of the year's work of the Presbyterial on the whole. iMss Harvey's report in part follows:

"The achievements for the year 1932 are to-day being reviewed together with a looking forward into 1933. After studying the reports of the different branches of our society, we find some do not measure up to previous years in dollars and cents, but this does not reflect upon the faithfulness, devotion and new interest that is shown on the part of many members of the W.M.S. throughout the Presbyterial.

"The membership, in so far as figures count, shows a decrease where the senior auxiliaries are concerned. In most cases this can be accounted for by changes of residence and the passing to higher service of several valued members.

"The average attendance, which to my mind, shows the real missionary interest, is practically as high as ever, and for that reason I dislike reporting the decrease. Yet the decrease shows that there is need for diligence on the part of the active members and that they must go out and interest others. There is an urgent need for more laborers in our Master's vineyard. We regret that the activities of the Millbrook auxiliary were suspended during the year on account of the resignation of several officers, but interest is not lacking and we have assurance that the society will be flourishing again before the end of this year.

"In the twenty-three auxiliaries we have a membership of 509, showing a decrease of 30. There are six Young Women's auxiliaries and one C.G.I.T. with a membership of 165, a decrease of 4. Mission Bands number 11, with a membership of 279. This is a decrease of 94 Home Helpers number 229, a gain of 69. Total membership in 1932 was 1,192 compared with 1,259 in 1931.

"A Young Women's rally in Peterborough during October was not attended as well as a similar one the previous year; however, benefit has resulted, a number of girls voluntarily linking up as a direct result of attendance at this rally.

In response to the question, 'What has your auxiliary done to encourage Young Women's work?' several auxiliaries have confessed making no effort. Others, including Havelock, Cobourg and Norwood, have held joint meetings. Fraser Auxiliary sent two girls to summer camp.

Mission Bands

"In response to a question regarding interest in Mission Band work, Colborne, Keene and Omemee report that they have recently organized bands. Cobourg appoints two members to visit their Band each month and they also presented five dollars to the Band for a seal.

"Gleanings from reports of the auxiliaries are as follows: Twelve auxiliaries report having special prayer services on the Presbyterial day in January. Ten report that they observed the World Day of Prayer. About one-half of the auxiliaries report an Easter thankoffering, and all observed the Autumn Thanksgiving season with a special offering.

"The study has chiefly been 'The Tide of Opportunity,' and items from the 'Glad Tidings.' Some auxiliaries follow the current news in missions. This seems important as it keeps their information up to date and therefore more attractive. Fraser Auxaliary reports a varied and attractive program of studies—work and duty of the General Assembly, the lives of John Galvin and David Livingstone, the Oxford Group Movement, and, at their thankoffering, stories by auxiliary members illustrating the value of giving.

"Peterborough City had the privilege of acting host to the Provincial meeting which was held in St. Paul's Church. Fifty-six delegates from fourteen auxiliaries represented our own Presbyterial. The annual meeting in Port Hope was well attended with 90 members present. The bi-annual meeting in Campbellford during June had a registration of 61 delegates.

"Contributions during 1932 were, as usual, mostly voluntary. A few new methods of raising money for mission expense were mentioned, such as an afternoon social and program and dinner and supper served at a ploughing match. Cobourg had two open meetings. The attendance was trebled at an outdoor meeting on a lawn at the home of a Home Helper in the country, and the contributions were more than trebled. The adoption of monthly envelopes has doubled the offering in several cases.

Many Speakers

"This year the Peterborough Presbyterial was well favored with special speakers at thankofferings and on other occasions. Among the speakers were Miss Pelton, our field secretary, who gave noteworthy addresses to four auxiliaries; Mrs. Ewart, our president, who spoke at four thankofferings; Miss Stringer of India; Mrs. George Mason; Dr. Barr; Mrs. Williams; Mrs. Schroeder; Mr. Hawlin of India; Miss Freda Matthews, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. McWilliams of Japan; Mrs. Todd; Mr. Mowat, and Rev. Z. A. Cheshes.

"We would express appreciation to all who have assisted in the work of our Presbyterial and to those auxiliaries which have been host on occasions of special meetings. To all who have suffered bereavement in the loss of loved ones, our heartfelt sympathy goes out.

"The closing words of our Lakeport auxiliary secretary's report seem fitting for the conclusion of this Presbyterial report: 'Could we have done better? Have we sometimes, like Martha, been too busy with our household cares to spare an hour to listen to the message of Jesus? Have we all felt the privilege of being co-workers with Him who said to the woman at the tomb, "Go and tell"?

A feature of the afternoon session of the meeting was an address to the delegates by Mrs. J. A. Hilts of Toronto, first vice-president of the Provincial board. She took as her subject, "The Three Good Cheers of Jesus," shaping her remarks and making application to the work of the W.M.S.

"Is this cheering up business not the business of the Christian church to-day?" she asked. "Centuries ago, on three distinct occasions Jesus bade his hearers, 'Be of good cheer' and that same message comes ringing down to us to-day, and not to us alone but to all the nations of the world.

"The world is full of lonely, burdened hearts that need more than anything else a word of good cheer. Christianity could never fulfil its claim of being the gospel for the whole world if it did not have in it this dominant element of good cheer. The Christian religion is one that wipes away teams, that inspires hope and nerves its disciples with courage."

Objective First

Directing her remarks toward the relation between the work of the Women's Missionary Society and the great work of Christianity, Mrs. Hilts said, "There is no limit in God as to what he might accomplish through us for our church, for first of all we are church members and as W.M.S. members we belong to an organization which we feel is the best means of helping promote the objective of our church. We know that organization is useful only when it is the best way of doing a piece of work. The objective is first, the organization a means to that objective.

"The ancient faiths and restraints and social orders of non-Christian nations are being weakened and abandoned. Will our faiths be sufficient to fill the void? The solution of the problems so complex and difficult as those vitally related to the extension of the Kingdom of Christ can be attempted only in a spirit of penitence and prayer. Penitence is due for the arrogance of the past, for the lack of sympathy and insight by which all of us have helped to create a situation which retards advancement.

"The grain of sand was a trouble that pushed into the home of the oyster. It could not push out, so the oyster covered the trouble with beauty and turned it into a pearl. Likewise our W.M.S. may turn the burden and hapdicap of the present world condition into a jewel to deck the walls of our organization. We hear so much these days about sacrifice. Sacrifice taken in its literal meanings is a loss incurred or endured without return. Missionary activities do bring reward — there is a joy in serving, joy in doing.

"At the beginning of each Presbyterian year, we, the members, are in a new cradle of possibility. Failure and disappointmetn can be overcome. Troubles can be turned into blessings. The drawing power, the uplifting power of God's love is discovered in the fierce testing times. The Psalmist refused to surrender his faith in the face of many difficulties. He kept believing. What then did he believe? He had faith in his church, found strength in the worship and service of the sanctuary. He believed in prayer. He declared with quiet confidence, 'Wait on the Lord, be of goor courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart; Wait, I say, on the Lord.' Jesus, you will remember, spoke a parable 'to the end that men ought always to pray and not to faint.' In the garden He gave Himself to prayer and won the fight. His disciples came to their ordeal prayerless and for that reason came to it powerless.

Faith

"Here is a little merchant vessel that has been for weary days and nights the plaything of the storm. All on board have fainted except one. 'All hope,' says the story, 'that we should be saved was taken away.' Then comes a man of prayer to cry, 'Be of Good Cheer.' Through the faith born of prayer, he refused to faint and thus saved both himself and those that sailed with him.

"It is with the same faith that Jesus seeks to inspire us, so in bringing you these good cheers of our Saviour, it is with the hope that we may together make of them a threefold cable, to help draw mankind out of darkness and doubt up to the solid rock of perfect confidence in Christ."

French Airplane Establishes New Atlantic Flight Record

A recent picture of the French aeroplane Arcenciel (Rainbow) which started on a flight across the South Atlantic from St. Louis, Senegal, with its destination Natal, Brazil. The aeroplane was piloted by Jean Mermoz (inset), veteran air mail pilot, who previously has flown the Atlantic by the Southern route. Besides Mermoz the big aeroplane carried a crew of five as well as its builder, Rene Cousinet. Mermoz established a new record, completing the flight from Africa to Brazil in 14 hours, 21 minutes for a flight of 1,962 miles.

BRIDGENORTH.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Millage, of Smith, on Monday evening, when they entertained the B.Y.P.U. of Gilmour Baptist Church. Four tables of progressive lost heir and crokinole were played, after which games and contests were enjoyed. The serving of dainty refreshments by Mrs. Millage and the girls brought a pleasant evening to a close.

This party was to take the form of a skating party, but owing to the inclement weather was held at the house.

A number of members of Gilmour Memorial Church were at Murray St. Baptist Church on Tuesday evening and enjoyed the lecture, "Growing Up," by Rev. J. Gordon Jones of Parkdale Baptist Church, Toronto.

Mr. Clarence Mann, of Smith, is in Guelph attending the poultry short course.

Miss Morvel Hughes spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Jean Fowler, of Smith.

The many friends of Mrs. Allen B. Mann are pleased to hear that she has been removed to her home in Smith from Nicholls Hospital.

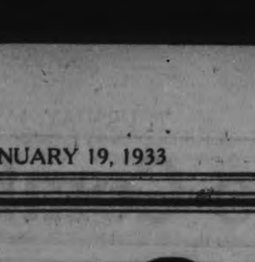
A COMMUNITY EFFORT TO RAISE $20,000 FOR PETERBOROUGH'S UNEMPLOYED



CIVIC PRIDE

To those of us who are fortunately able to give to a fund of this kind, sympathy for the unfortunate condition of others of our citizens, the realization that if we have prospered in the past all the citizens have contributed in some measure to this prosperity. Civic Pride in doing for our community what others in a position are doing for their communities should be incentive to all of us to see that the objective of this campaign is realized in Peterborough.

(Sponsored by the City Council and Citizens' Committee)

Announcement From the Mayor

In setting the figure of $20,000 as an objective, this amount was looked upon as the minimum sum that will be required to assist in taking care of our relief problems this year, and it was felt by the committee that this sum should be realized from the present campaign.

Don't underestimate this necessity. While Peterborough has been very fortunate so far in as much as it has asked of its citizens only a small percentage of what other places of similar size have obtained for relief, the necessity of securing $20,000 in Peterborough is just as urgent as it was to secure $35,000 in Oshawa, $125,000 in Brantford, $180,000 in Ottawa, $500,000 in Toronto and proportionately larger amounts in other places, to what Peterborough citizens are asked to give.

From its inception Peterborough's Relief Problem has been sympathetically and economically managed, and your dollars will go as far and do as much good as it is possible to get out of them.

Please don't delay. Funds are being received daily; but if you have not done so, send in your subscription at once to Frank Adams, Treasurer of the Fund.

WHAT THE FUND WILL DO

It will help to keep alive with food, shelter and warmth between seven and eight hundred fathers and mothers and their dependents, in all, more than three thousand people who are now on the registered list.

This is the largest number ever to receive relief in Peterborough. Many of these families have not seen a dollar in months, and in reality with the relief given them week by week are only existing in the hope that times will change for the better. By contributing to the relief fund it will strengthen that hope, and faith in the future that in many instances is the only thing that is keeping many of our people throughout the land from abject despair.

To hundreds in the city it is only when they have been up against the need of the absolute necessities of life that they have reluctantly registered for relief.

Your dollar will be supplemented by a dollar each from the Provincial and Dominion Governments. Send in your subscription now—it is greatly needed, and will be wonderfully appreciated.

FARMERS

Possibly you have more vegetable produce, etc., than you have immediate need for; if so, contributions of this kind would be gratefully received at the Relief Store and would be apportioned to needy families.

CLOTHING, Furniture, Etc.

While food and money is absolutely necessary, warm clothing and in some cases furniture is required, consequently the committee appeals for discarded or new clothing for old and young; also beds, stoves, etc. These, too, should be sent to the Relief Store.

SPYING ON SPORTS

"Gossip and Such"

TITLE GOES TO U.S. SECTION

The records of the National Hockey League, Canadian section, on the half-way mark are unusual in that, none of the five teams, Toronto, Maroons, Americans, Ottawa and Canadiens have been able to score more goals than were scored against them. The American division teams, on the other hand, had the accruing advantage of an impressive scoring record.

The observation might be qualified, but, sadly the figures show that the American division is generally stronger, both defensively and offensively. Therefore, right now the indication is that it will produce the Stanley cup winner.

And the contest lies between the New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings, at least, that's what the current dope indicates.

"DUDE" NAMES MISLEADING

Oftimes you hear of "'dude" names in the more rougher sports that tend to make you tilt the schnobble and raise the eyebrow before exploding forth in some verbal brickbat to show your disgust or such. Take for instance in professional hockey, you have a flock of Clarences and Reginalds, not to mention some Aubreys, Percys, and Cecils.

But wait. You couldn't call these hockey ginks anything but he-men. The way those guys crash, smash and sock in the fury of battle stamps them as real red-blooded virile he-men. There's "Taffy" Abel, the giant defense man of the Hawks. He is uncouth in action and lusts for the taste of blood in battle. And what is his first name—"Clarence."

"Happy" Day of the Maple Leafs also has the handle of Clarence but it's a misnomer. Clarence swings a mean fist when the spirit moves. Then there are a pair of Reginalds in the big time—Horner, of the Leafs and "Hooley" Smith of the Maroons. And if there is any tougher pair in the business, the Messrs. Smith and Horner are ready to dispute with them for the honor.

"Red" Dutton, the American defense ace, signs his checks Mervy. A classy moniker, but hardly descriptive of the man. Dutton would sooner fight than eat and oftimes passes up a meal. "Billy" Burch of the Bruins first name is Wilfred and in case it don't suit your taste it is not worth while to argue about it with him.

Those Bruins have about the classiest collection of front monikers as ever graced a hockey roster. There is Aubrey Clapper, Percy Galbraith, Lionel Hitchman, Cecil Thompson, Nelson Stewart and Orville Heximer. But don't be fooled by the names and start anything.

Boxers, jockeys, baseball players and even sports writers are not the only ones that believe in superstition. Along comes a story of Joe Jerwa of the New York Rangers. When the western Canada player first joined the Patrick squad he never shaved before a match—always after. Joe was superstitious and believed a stubbled face saved him many a battle scar. One Patrick persuaded him to shave before a game and before it had gone very far, Joe was mopping the blood from a gash in his chin. "Never again," says Joe. But that was all before he became a family man—now the missus has a thing or two to say and she is much more successful than Patrick. Joe shaves before every game now.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

COMBINES' GOALIE IS GAME STAR

Beavis Plays Big Part In Norwood's E.P.L. Win Over Clockmakers.

OUTPLAY LOSERS

Alex Kempt's Norwood Combines threw the Westclox outfit for another loss at the Brock last night, beating them 4-1 in a good E.P.L. contest. They notched one counter in the first frame and added three in the second while the local squad was chalking up one. The Combines' forwards outplayed the losers, while good network by Beavis aided materially in the win.

Beavis saved some hard ones. Both Norwood forward lines worked hard and turned in clever stickhandling rushes, with spots of neat combination as well as hard shooting. Young Bill Calladine went good while he was on, with Rogers, McConnell, Pat Calladine and the Cripps' brothers all having a good share of the spoils of war. Doxsee let no easy ones by him in the other net, and his defence went fair. Epps, Dinesen and Milliken were dangerous around the goal and also showed good backchecking.

Bill Cripps drew a penalty for charging. Pat Calladine got a goal but play was called back. Westclox threatened for a space and play was hard and even. Finally, Fred Cripps scored in close on neat combination with Pat and Stevenson. The Norwood goalie was lucky twice and the Alarm boys tried hard to get it back before the frame ended.

Calladine Again Scores.

Starting the second session, Pat Calladine's wicked drive from the boards picked off a corner of the goal. Bill Cripps was chased again for using the knee. Milliken got the Westclox counter when he rapped in Epps' rebound, but Bill Calladine got it back on fine teamplay with Rogers. Bill Cripps pulled off a classy rush but his shot was blocked at the goal-mouth. Near the end, Bill Calladine's pass was converted into the last goal by McConnell.

Bill Cripps ambled off once more for holding and play was fast and rougher. Fred followed his brother then for tripping, leaving Norwood two men short, but their goalie was good and saved several times. Westclox put on the pressure but couldn't counter. Bill Cripps took the air for slashing. White dittoing shortly for the same thing, and play was slower and more even at the final bell. The teams

Norwood—Goal, Beavis; defence, Webb and W. Cripps; centre, F. Cripps; wings, Stevenson and P. Calladine; alternates, W. Calladine, McConnell, Rogers and Scriver.

Westclox—Goal, Doxsee; defence, H. White and Whatley; centre, Epps; wings, Driscoll and Dinesen; alternates, Wood, Thirnbeck, Milliken and Tuck.

Referee, Jack Sabatino.

Victor Ripley On Boston Club Roster

TORONTO, Jan. 19. (CP)—Old errors presented themselves to annoy Jack Adams and his Detroit Red Wings to-day. Situated precariously atop the American division of the National Hockey League the Wings are idle to-night as New York Rangers and Boston Bruins—each a single point back of the border sensations—seek to take over leadership.

The reason this regretful survey of the past is that it has taken Detroit 26 games in which to pile up their point-total. Rangers have earned one point less in 23 games and Boston in 25. Now the Blueshirts and Bruins do some catching up.

Rangers, virtually unbeatable on home ice, play there to-night against a Montreal Canadien team that Coach Newsy Lalonde hopes is moving at last. He should find out definitely about that at New York.

Bruins take on a somewhat more formidable job, facing Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto. Only charge in the Ross collection is at centre on the second line where Vic Ripley, secured in a trade with Chicago for the aging Billy Burch, makes his first appearance as a Bruin.

Burch willp lay with the Hawks who are at home to New York Americans.

LAUDABLE AMBITION.

In order to earn money enough to get a degree in physical education at Tulane university, Jack Holland, southern A.A.U. light-heavyweight boxing champion, is to become a professional.

England Wins Third Match By 338

Greek Adonis In Mat Comeback

Jim Londos, one of the horde of claimants to the world's wrestling title, is shown as he tangled with Abe Coleman in New York in his first bout at the Metropolis since he refused to wrestle Strangler Lewis for the championship last summer. London (right) pinned the Jewish grappler, after 39 minutes of mayhemish calisthenics, with an airplane spin and a body slam.

M. C. C. NEEDS ONE WIN TO RECAPTURE "ASHES"

Winners Compile 341 In First Innings and 412 In Second While Antipodeans Muster Only 222 And 193.

ENGLAND'S BATTING STRENGTH EXEMPLIFIED IN 2ND INNINGS—"LEG THEORY" PROTESTED.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 19 (C.P. Cable).—After nearly six days of stolid, uninspiring cricket, England to-day emerged victorious over Australia in the third test match by 338 runs. With two wins to their credit and one loss the touring players now need one more victory to recapture the mythical "ashes."

While England won by a large margin, keen bowling and fielding by both teams made the batsmen fight hard and long for their runs. The winners compiled 341 in the first innings and followed this up with 412, while the Antipodeans could muster only 222 and 193.

Protest "Leg Theory."

The match was marked by criticism arising out of the tactics of England's fast bowler, Harold Larwood, which culminated in a protest being cabled to the Marylebone Cricket Club, the governing cricket body in England, by the Australian Board of Control. Larwood at various time during the game resorted to the formidable "leg theory" and from one of his deliveries W. A. Oldfield, the veteran Australian wicket keeper was hit on the head, suffering a lenear fracture of the frontal bone. While the injury brought about his retirement from the game at a critical time for the men from "down under," it is not regarded as serious, and he is expected to play again later in the season.

The Board of Control protested on the ground that bodyline bowling was "unsportsmanlike" and "likely to upset the friendly relations existing between Australian and English cricketers."

Batting Exemplified.

While no centuries were compiled in the game, England's batting strength was well exemplified, particularly in the second innings. Herbert Sutcliffe, the famous Yorkshire first wicket player failed to play up to his usual high standard, but the breach was well-filled by less notable members of the team.

Maurice Leyland did exceptionally well, getting 83 and 42, while R. E. S. Wyatt, the vice-captain of the team, came a close second with 78 and 47. In the first innings Edward Paynter, the Lancashire professional who was playing in his first international game, came through with a sparkling 77, while in his second turn at the wickets Walter Hammond of Gloucestershire showed a welcome return to form, being high scorer with 85. L. E. G. Ames got 69. Hedley Verity, included in the team on account of his bowling prowess, surprised the critics by obtaining 45 and 40.

Meritorious Score.

W. H. Ponsford returning to the Australian team after being dropped in the first test scored a meritorious 85 in the first innings, while the second attempt of the home players served to give the spectators a glimpse of W. M. Woodful at his best. When wickets were falling around him like ninepins, the Antipodean captain put up the stubborn defence for which he is famous and was unbeaten at the close, having scored 73 runs. Don Bradman, the world's premier batsman, failed in the first innings, but at the second try batted brilliantly for 66.

Holds Bowling Honors

While Larwood attracted most attention, G. O. Allen, the Middlesex amateur, captured bowling honors, having the fine average for the two innings of eight wickets for 121 runs. Larwood's seven were obtained at a cost of 18 runs apiece.

T. Wall and W. J. O'Reilly again stood out as Australia's best trudlers, the former obtaining six for 147, while O'Reilly captured a similar number for 161.

Large crowds atetnded the play on the first four days and following the injury to Oldfield, Larwood was subjected to considerable jeering. The wicket became rough for the last two days of the game, giving the bowlers a slight advantage.

Woodful's great innings to-day was followed by the captain being carried shoulder high from the field while the English players joined in the applause.

Third Match Scores

The score card of the third cricket test match, concluded to-day, was as follows:—

PORT COLBORNE SAILORS GAIN FIVE POINT LEAD IN SENIOR O.H.A. RACE

Cuthbert's Goal In Third Period Wins 1-0 Decision For Westerners Over Kitchener—Twin City "B" Team Also Suffers Defeat.

(By The Canadian Press)

Gradually strengthening their hold on that precious fourth-place position the last play-off position in the Senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association group—Port Colborne Sailors today are five points ahead of their nearest rival, following a 1-0 victory over Kitchener Empires last night.

The victory gave the Ports a 2-1 edge over Kitchener on games between the two teams to date but, the difference in scoring is absolutely nill, each having bulged the other's net six times.

Voluble "Dinty" Moore, who guards the nets for Port Colborne, besides managing them, was the big factor in his team's win. Empire's stormed his citadel during most of the game but failed to find a single opening.

Scores Winner

Jack Cuthbertson, rangy centre, caught Berner the Kitchener goalie, flat on the ice after he had stopped Vern Upper's shot, and flicked the puck into the net for the solitary goal.

Kitchener's team in the "B" series suffered a similar defeat when Stratford Indians downed them 1-0 in a rugged, close-checking game. The victory enabled Indians to advance into a tie with Brantford for third place in the group.

In another "B" series game in the other end of the province, Queen's University plastered a 5-1 beating on R.M.C. The winners combined better to earn the verdict.

BELLEVILLE CLUB LEADS IN GROUP

Doherty Defeats Trenton 3-1 With Sherry Shooting Two Goals.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 19.—Belleville Doherty A. C. gained undisputed possession of first place in their O.H.A. intermediate group last night, by defeating Trenton 3 to 1. A fight between McMeekin and Utronki enlivened the game in the second period.

"Pete" Morgan scored the first goal on a pretty play, taking a pass from McMeekin, and outskating the Trenton team.

Sherry counted the second goal in theo pening session and the same player made it 3-0 on a beautiful rush, near the close of the middle perod, stick handling past the entire Trenton team.

In the third Belleville had the better of the play until the closing minutes, with McDonald and Nicoll making dangerous rushes. With one minute to go, Bohan batted in Trenton's lone goal, from a scramble from in front of the net, giving Tice no chance to save.

326 GEORGE STREET

PAYNE CREW HOLDS EDGE THROUGHOUT E.P.L. TILT

Forward Lines Of Homesters Show Plenty Of Classy Hockey

FOLEY GOOD IN GOAL.

Opening the E.P.L. season at the Brock last night, the Carters whitewashed Lakefield, 5-0, before a small crowd. The Payne crew had an edge throughout, scoring two goals each in the first and second periods and one in the third. Faster skating, better shooting and superior defensive playing marked the local outfit as a strong contender for league honors.

Foley in goal was unbeatable, and he had a powerful defence in front of him in Swanger and Lackey George turning in a fine offensive game as well. The main forward trio of Maudsley, Williams and Magee flashed plently of classy hockey, but the alternating players were just about as effective. For Lakefield, Babe Wanamaker, Northey, Jewell and Stewart all were extra good, and the whole team from goalie out worked hard.

Magee went off for tripping early, followed shortly by Jewell for the same thing. Halfway through, Williams' hard shot from defence beat Hamlin, and play was hard and even. Carroll got the next one on a nice bit of combination with H. Jones. Lackey got the gate for tripping at the close.

Carters Are Three Up.

Early in the middle canto, Lackey lifted a mean one from the board to put the Carters three up. Play was fast from end to end. Later, Magee shoved the rubber over to Williams in close and the count was 4-0. Wanamaker went off for boarding, and Lakefield showed some smart backchecking to hold their opponents A few seconds before the end, Northey was hurt and Babe Wanamaker's shot entered the side of the net, and was not allowed.

Magee was chased again for tripping in the third and just got back when B. Jones had to perch on the fence for a similar offence. A three-man combination almost Fooled Foley, and then the other goalie pulled a beautiful save. B. Wanamaker got tired so he drew a penalty for slashing, and Carters had all the play with Lakefield tiring. One minute to the finish and Hank Jones drew the goalie out on a clever bit of work and notched the fifth counter. The teams:

Lakefield—Goal, Hamlin and G. Wanamaker; defence, Stenner and Wingett; centre, Northey; wings, Jewell and Stewart; alternates, Walker, B. Wanamaker, Kennedy and R. Wanamaker.

Carters—Goal, Foley; defence, Swanger and Lackey; centre, Maudsley; wings, Magee and Williams; alternates, B. Jones, H. Jones, Carroll and Meagher.

'ATHLETICS' HURLER HAS NOT BEEN TENDERED CONTRACT AS YET,' SAYS VETERAN MANAGER

"Will Be a Job With Philadelphia Club Next Year For Earnshaw if He Wants It."

SAYS CONNIE MACK.

Hinted Another Ace of Last Season's Pitching Staff to be Traded.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19. (AP) Informed that George Earnshaw was reported in Los Angeles to be considering quitting the Athletics because of a 75 per cent salary cut, Connie Mack, manager of the A's, said last night the hurler had not been tendered a contract but will receive one shortly.

"There is a job here for Earnshaw if he wants it" Mack said. "It is entirely up to him."

Quitting the Team

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19. (AP) George Earnshaw, ace pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, has written a letter to a Los Angeles friend it is learned here saying he is about to quit the team because of a 75 percent salary cut for 1933.

Earnshaw wrote he had just received notice of the slice from Connie Mack, manager.

"It's next to telling me I'm not wanted with the A's this season" the pitcher continued, adding that Mack had declared, "he will take the cut or not play ball."

The letter hinted that another ace of last season's Mackmen pitching staff is to be traded or sold before the season opens.

City League Twin Bill This Evening

A City Hockey League doubleheader will be played at the Brock to-night, showing four strong and well-matched junior outfits in action. The first game starts at eight, P.C.I. playing Rangers; while at nine o'clock, Rotary tangles with Normal. Despite the wet and mild weather, a fair sheet of ice is promised on the indoor arena at Brock street, and two good games should draw quite a following.

The Collegiate crew is unusually strong this year and may be the team to lick for the league honors. Rangers should make it an interesting battle, as Manager Murphy has a promising lineup this season. The strong Rotary team, champs last year, is out to repeat, and will be heard to beat for any of them, but the Normalites have served notice to other outfits that they too figure on going places. Some smart hockey is dished up by these City League teams.

District Bonspiel To-Day Called Off

Lack of ice was given as the reason for the calling-off of the District Curling Bonspiel that was to have been played here to-day, while too much ice was the cause which prevented the representative rinks of Lakefield Curling Club from undertaking the journey to this city to participate in the proposed contests.

Anticipating colder weather and favourable playing conditions, J. W. Mayneord, umpire of District No. 13, had called the district bonspiel for this morning, but the change in temperature over night had reduced the rinks to a state of extreme stickiness. Outside atmospheric conditions were such that the roads and sidewalks were coated with glare ice, making driving or walking extremely hazardous. Before being told that the game was cancelled the Lakefield curlers intimated that they would not attempt the journey to Peterborough under the circumstances.

Dog Musher Leaves For World's Fair

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Jan. 19.—Claude "Slim" Williams, en route from Copper Center, Alaska, to Chicago, driving a team of eight wolf dogs, left here yesterday. He expects to reach Carcross to-day and then continue to Atlin and along the Government telegraph line to Hazelton, B.C., from Hazelton, Williams will take the shortest overland route to Montana, and hopes to reach Chicago with his dogs and sled in time for the World's Fair.

Williams arrived here three days ago and remained until yesterday to give his dogs a rest.

Silverthorne Stars In Toilers Victory

WINNIPEG, January 19 (C.P.)—In a thrilling overtime battle, which witnessed the return to play of the veteran Al Silverthorne, the Winnipeg Toilers, Dominion basketball champions, last night defeated Robertson Memorial 35-31 in the senior series.

With 30 seconds to go and Robertson leading 31-29, Silverthorne snatched a pass from Ian Woolley, scored a basket to tie the count, and run the match into extra time.

Battersby's Outfit Wins "Y" Cage Title

Battersby's team won the "Y" House League basketball championship last night from Williams' by the huge score of 60 to 11. The losers were without the services of their scoring star, Cadd, and this accounted for their one-sided loss. At that, the winners showed fine cage playing and it was a walkaway from the start. Their teamplay, shooting and checking was much too good for the losers, who never quit trying.

Eccles was the point-getter with 26, followed by Kitchen with 20. Burleigh found the hoop for the remaining points, getting six baskets. Hewart starred with nine points of his team's eleven; Francis getting the other two. The teams:

Williams'. — Hewart, Leggitt, Francis and Williams.

Battersby's.—Eccles, Kitchen, Burleigh, Finlay, Davern and Batersby.

Referee.—Jim McClenaghan.

Thomas Has "Kink" Taken From Elbow

CHICAGO, January 19 (C.P.).—American League batters can expect some stunts from Tommy Thomas of Washington next season.

The husky blonde from Baltimore, who was traded by the White Sox to the Senators last season, has had his trick pitching arm operated upon and insisted to-day that he was ready to hurl the best baseball of his career.

Thomas was bothered with a kink in his right elbow and blamed it for his ineffectiveness. However, he had a fairly good season after joining the Senators.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla.—Texas Kid, Newark, N.J., outpointed Baby Manuel, Tampa, Fla., (10). Jimmy Leto, Tampa, knocked out Billy Beck, Chicago, (5).

Gene Sarazen Only Kidding The Public

CHICAGO, January 19 (C.P.).—Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers' Association of the United States, refuses to get excited over Gene Sarazen's proposal for eight-inch cups.

"I think Gene is just kidding the public a bit," Gates replied, when asked for an official opinion. 'If cups were widened to eight inches, the game would lose a lot of its thrill and the pros would lose a lot of prestige to countless duffers who would putt 'em in from all distances. It's too big a step to take at once anyway."

BOY PAINTER, famed British race horse, arrives at Agua Caliente, Mexico, where the five-year-old star will compete in the $50,000 Handicap classic, scheduled for March 26. Pillow Fight and Sea Trader, New Zealand nags, are also entered in the race.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C.J.P.)

While the Newmarket Juniors cannot come down Friday for a game, still we'll have a junior fixture, and a regular O.H.A. one at that. Cobourg juniors have agreed to play their game here tomorrow, instead of next Wednesday as scheduled. The Cobourg squad lost by one goal to the smart Port Hopers, so they should give the Petes a fight down here. The local lads are out in front with three wins and no losses to date, and they will battle hard to make it four in a row. Should be a classy contest if the weather's okay.

• • • • • •

Lots of folks yelping around these fine days that the great winter sport of hockey is going into a decline around here because of mild weather. There's some truth in it, but quite a few of the yelpers whom we know weren't up at the Brock last night to see the four E.P.I. teams in action. Weather was okay, ice good, nothing much in the way of rival attractions, two good hockey games promised—and a doggone slim crowd under the circumstances. What do you want, fans, Detroit Red Wings versus N.Y. Rangers for two bits at the Brock?

• • • • • •

Carters walloped Lakefield in the first tussle, hanging up five numerals and presenting the out-of-towners with a horse-collar. They looked better all the way and have a team that will be heard from plenty around the time the playoffs begin, or we're dumber than usual. A stellar goalie, husky defence and fast, tricky forwards—it is a team well-balanced as far as speed and experience goes and that goes quite a long way toward the playoff objective. The veteran George Lackey is still as dangerous as small-pox to opponents while Maudsley, Magee and Williams are one combined headache to any rival goal-guardian.

• • • • • •

Don't class that Lakefield bunch as helpless either. They're coming, and may make a splash yet this year. At any rate, this bunch of fast-skating and boring-in juniors will make up a real hockey team in any man's league by another season. Wingett had just time to shake the confetti out of his hair, but he did very well everything considered. The whole crew never eased up till dog-tired at the last. They could stand more beef as it takes a heavy squad to weather the storm in this loop.

• • • • • •

Westclox could do no better than get the wizened side of a 4-1 count with Norwood, but they made a fight out of it, boys and gals. Doxsee looks like a smart goalie, they have a strong defence, while both front lines are dangerous all the time Dineen worked hard, while Epps did his ghosting again around centre with his usual effective back-checking. The white-sweatered lads from Ashburnham way are a long way from being through and we want to see them when they tangle with Herb Payne's Carters. That'll be a scrap.

• • • • • •

Nearly half the Norwood team was made up of local players last night, a brother act with the two Calladines and Bill and Freddy Cripps—all going exceptionally well. Beavis had a large night in the Combines' cage, while Webb, Stevenson, Rogers, Scriver and McConnell all worked hard too. That includes them all, and that's the way it should be, living up to their name of Combines. Alex Kempt's team is the one to lick for the laurels again this year, and they wont be anything like hi-jacking candies from a slumbering babe, if you could even compare that bunch of huskies to babes at all.

• • • • • •

Two City Hockey League games will be played but a bunch of southend and Church Loop ones will be rained out for this evening, unless the mercury dives lower than the stocks ever went, through the afternoon. But as this is being written, early in the morning, looks like all hockey for the next week or so will be washed miles down the swollen river. It's just a chance if there'll be ice for the junior affair here Friday. What a life for those that play or follow hockey in natural ice centres! They say Whitby hasn't had an O.H.A. game yet this season.

• • • • • •

Along about this time of year, especially if it's raining or otherwise acting quite shameless for the season, we get thinking of hot summer days and balmy evenings in late June. We get thinking of base-runners digging in their spikes in the turf and rounding first at top speed. We see again in one breathless flash a shortstop scoop up a grass-scorcher with one hand and fling underhand to beat the runner at first. We hear against the solid "crack" of ball on bat that marks the extra-base blow. Forgetting the dust, perspiration and the discomforts that go with summer, we remember only glimpses of ball games, thrilling hoss races, cool swimming and other silly pictures to be seeing in the middle of winter.

Cantonwine Injured When Toronto Fans Stage Wild Riot To End Wrestling Show

TORONTO, Jan. 19 (C.P.)—Chesty Howard "Hangman" Cantonwine, burly Portland, Ore., grappler, is to-day recovering from a scare and a pop-bottle wound, both of which he received last night in his wrestling bout with Count George Zarynoff.

Neither are serious, but the element of luck was responsible for this. Cantonwine, showered with pop-bottles when his "hangman" tactics aroused the fans to a high state of frenzy, was forced to seek refuge underneath the ring to escape serious injury.

The deluge came when Cantonwine, after nearly strangling his opponent with the aid of the ropes, punched him as he tumbled into the centre of the ring, following his release from the ropes by Referee Jack Forbes.

Cantonwine received his injury when being escorted to his dressing room by four husky policeman. One fan, who was able to reach him, cracked him on the cheek with a pop-bottle and caused a deep cut.

Zarynoff was awarded the bout, Referee Forbes disqualifying Cantonwine for punching the Count as he dropped into the ring from the ropes.

Mollison Prepares For Atlantic Flight

LONDON, Jan. 19 (C.P. Cable).—Captain J. A. Mollison to-day flew to Ireland to prepare for a trans-Atlantic flight to South America, a duplication of his brilliant feat in making the first solo westward crossing of the Atlantic to North America.

Captain Mollison had intended yesterday to join in the wide search in Northern Africa for Lady Bailey, but changed his mind after a conversation with her mother, Lady Rossmore.

COBOURG HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Junior Petes Fully Confident They Can Take Lakeshore O.H.A. Team.

WILL BE CLOSE BATTLE.

Another good O.H.A. junior game is promised local fans, if the weather is right, to-morrow (Friday) night at the Brock. The Cobourg juniors play a league fixture here against the Petes, the Lakeshore outfit being the only one in the loop which the locals have not yet met. While Port Hope shaded Cobourg a week ago by one goal, yet the same Port Hope crew gave the Blue and Whites a mighty battle right here at the Brock before losing a tough 2-1 decision.

Cobourg will probably be ready by this time to give the locals their most serious threat so far this season. It will be the last league game for the juniors, the next home fixture being a group play-off one. The Petes have taken three in a row and figure on making it a clean sweep of home contests if not of all their scheduled games. They had a stiff workout last night, and the manager announces the squad will be at full strength for probably their hardest battle of the year.

Regina Capitals To Move To Vancouver

VANCOUVER, January 19 (C.P.)—Arrangements have been practically completed whereby Kenny MacKenzie, manager of Regina Capitals in the Western Canada Professional Hockey League will move his club to Vancouver to finish the balance of the schedule in the Western circuit, Guy Patrick, local hockey mogul, informed the Canadian Press last night.

The move, occasioned by poor attendance at games in Regina, is designed to test out the feasibility of re-introducing professional hockey to the coast after an absence of three years. If the experiment is successful, Mr. Patrick added efforts will be made next year to form a four-club Western circuit, including Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma, and Calgary.

GOLF NOTES

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Johnny Dawson, perhaps the best amateur golfer in the United States, has survived the Golf horizon with a critical eye and failed to see a single young amateur of outstanding promise.

The soft spoken Chicago player has just finished a series of three open tournaments in California and Mexico in which he was low amateur in each.

"Is there an outstanding young golfer in sight?" he was asked. "None with possibilities of approaching Bob Jones' performances as an amateur?"

"Not one" was the reply. "A year ago I would have said Gus Moreland of Dallas, but Gus has not come along as I thought he would."

Veteran War Writer Weds News Woman

LONDON, Jan. 19 (C.P. Cable).—Much interest was taken in newspaper and in literary circles generally in the marriage in London today of Henry W. Nevinson, the veteran war correspondent, to Miss Evelyn Sharp, also a well-known newspaper writer. Bride and bridegroom are friends of more than 30 years' standing. Both were prominent in the women's suffrage agitation of 20 years ago. Miss Sharp went to prison twice as a militant suffragette.

Mr. Nevinson's former wife, Mrs. Margaret Wynne Nevinson, mother of C. R. W. Nevinson, the painter, died in June last. Since the Greco-Turkish War of 1879, Mr. Nevinson, as war correspondent, has seen nearly every war and has had many a narrow escape from death.

CHARLEY ROOT, famed Chicago Cub pitcher, and his family arrive on the Pacific coast after having spent a vacation in Australia where the Reds sailed shortly after the world series in which he played.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

SPECIAL VAUDEVILLE AND "THE DEVIL IS DRIVING"

"The Crazy Quilt Revue" is the title of a gay vaudeville divertissement that accompanies the picture showing at the Capitol Theatre today. Last night, the performers put on a snappy show that was evidently thoroughly enjoyed by the house, at least, as far as Peterborough crowds go in showing their enthusiasm. A visiting lecturer made the statement recently that local audiences are extremely chary applause. The ten members of the troupe probably thought that last night, but they gave their best, just the same, and a lot of excellent entertainment resulted.

They are a snappy bunch. There is a quintette of pint-size dancing girls, gay and pretty and young, with cute outfits; there is a tenor singer who also play a silver piano accordeon; there is a dainty lady tap dancer, and a tall coon in a ginger suit who turns a wicked foot; there is a juggler who has some absolutely new ideas with rainbow rings and colored Indian clubs; a fat comedian and his lady friend; and a unique damsel with rubber joints who gives the crowd an eyeful with her muscular agility. They start out with the Neapolitan street song and the famous "Funiculi, funicula" song and progress to castanet dancing and quick-fire gags and stunts. They are splendid entertainment.

The comedy, "You Call It Madness," is a scream from start to finish, showing just what can happen to a practical joker when his victims get together.

And the feature is just as peppy as the rest of a very entertaining program. "The Devil is Driving" features Edmund Lowe in the type that made him famous; a devil-may-care, wise-cracking, dame-loving gent with a crooked hat and a way with the girls. Wynne Gibson is the blonde charmer of the piece, Lois Wilson has a characteristic part, James Gleason is in the cast, and Dickie Moore is the clever little child actor.

It's a whiz of a picture, all about New York crooks of a new type, with a deaf and dumb "Higher Up" and a new slant on the racketeering game.—Jeanette.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

I took my little boy to see
The pretty little chimpanzee;
But chimpanzee just turned his back
So we walked off and saw the yak.
—Shadow Sayings.

A great noise of shouting, and screaming and clapping of hands rose from the little grass plot in the garden. But you wouldn't have heard a thing, and even if you had looked (and looked carefully, too) you wouldn't have seen anything but five little specks of shadows. Those five little specks were Mij, Flor, Hanid, Yam and Knarf, who had made themselves as small as the head of a pin, and were hunting wild animals. They were going to bring the animals back alive, and keep them in a zoo which they had built out of match sticks and threads and toothpicks.

Scare Up the Animals

Well, Knarf had sent his four companions each in a different direction, and when he gave the signal they all began running towards him, making all the noise that they could. Knarf had heard that this was the way to scare up the animals. He waited for them to appear, so that he could catch them. You mustn't forget that because the shadows had made themselves so small, the grass was like a forest to them.

Nearer and nearer to Knarf came his four companions. Then, all at once, Knarf heard his companions shouting: "Watch out! Here comes something!" Knarf instantly began turning round and round for he didn't know from what direction the something was coming. Finally he got so dizzy, and his knees began to shake so much that he had to hold onto a blade of grass (which was like a tree trunk to him) to keep from falling.

"Come here," cried Knarf to the others. "I've caught it."

Meanwhile the something (whatever it was) began scampering around Knarf and in among the blades of grass and the daisy stalks. Knarf was too dizzy to make out what it was, and the other shadows were too frightened to look. How was he going to catch it? That was the question that kept running through Knarf's mind. He should have dug a deep hole, or built a trap, or borrowed the tin soldier's musket.

Knarf thought and thought and finally (dizzy as he was) he thought of a plan. He slipped off his jacket and holding it in front of him, waited for the animal to show itself. He waited for a second or two, then out it came and—zut, Knarf clapped his coat right atop of it. Then he shouted: "Come here Mij, Flor, Hanid and Yam! I've caught it!"

Knarf's Catch

So the four shadows came running over (for now they weren't frightened any more), and they asked Knarf what kind of an animal it was that he had caught. Knarf felt very proud of himself now. "It's a great big animal, with a mouth full of teeth. It wanted to eat me up but I showed it that I wasn't afraid of it." Knarf kept talking more and more. He forgot about holding down the coat. Just as he was repeating for the tenth time how big and fierce the animal was, and how brave he was to catch it, out it came from under the coat. "It's an ant!" the shadows cried. Knarf couldn't believe his ears. He looked. That's all it was; just an an ant. Can you imagine!

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

RHEUMATISM, CAUSES AND TREATMENT

"Rheumatism, or arthritis as it is now called, is the oldest disease on record and is the cause of more illness for which a pension is paid than any other condition except the heart and bloodvessel diseases of old age."

A group of 200 physicians interested in rheumatism met in New Orleans last year for the single purpose of trying to learn from one another what each had discovered in his investigation and treatment of rheumatism.

Some points stand out. Dr. John H. Musser, New Orleans, stated that since he had been in New Orleans he had seen practically no cases of arthritis in contrast to his experience in Philadelphia where 50 percent that is one half, of patients in hospital wards had arthritis. In other words climate is a factor causing rheumatism.

Another point definitely proven is that the diet, the food eaten, is a big factor in causing rheumatism. Meat is not at fault; starches are really most to blame.

Other causes are infections from teeth, tonsils, intestine and gall bladder; injuries such as back strain; constipation; overweight.

Just as there are many causes so are there many forms of treatment—vaccines; climatic—hot dry climate, such as is found in Arizona; colonic irrigation, that is using enemas that completely fill the large intestine; gland treatment, particularly the use of extract of the thyroid gland in the neck; heat and electricity in various forms; surgery—cutting nerves supplying the painful part.

The main thought in treatment of any kind is to improve the circulation about the joint, and that is why heat in any form is so helpful.

In addition to the special treatments above mentioned, trying by all means to improve the general health of the patient. It is thought by many that some general condition in the body, perhaps wrong diet, may cause teeth to decay and the infection thus lodged in the teeth causes arthritis. Sometimes the infected teeth are left in the mouth so long, so much damage is done before their removal that it is too late to prevent severe arthritis.

These points from the discussions of 200 physicians interested in rheumatism should be of great help in fighting this old, old, ailment.

YOUTH IS GIVEN MONTH IN GAOL

Douro Farmer Charged With Failing to Send Children to School.

CASE IS ADJOURNED.

One month in the county gaol was the sentence passed to-day by Magistrate Langley upon Jack Hesmond, local youth, who had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of securing an aged citizen's Old Age Pension, forging it and cashing it in a downtown store.

Magistrate Langley said that he was showing leniency to the youth because it was his first offence and because of his physical disability. He considered one of the most serious aspects of the case consisted of an impertinent letter Hesmond sent the aged citizen informing him that his cheque had been cashed and wishing him a Merry Christmas.

John P. Condon, douro farmer, faced a charge of not permitting three of his children, under the age of 14 years, to attend school during the past four months. Condon pleaded not guilty, and his counsel, A. L. Elliott, explained that his client had had his farm and most of his goods and chattels seized in July for debts and that he had not sufficient money to clothe or feed the children so that they might attend school. He charged that the Douro relief officials had refused relief to Condon.

Unable to Give Relief

Relief Officer Allen told the court that he could not give Condon relief because he refused to sign the official papers without a proviso that he must be permitted to retain some of his chattels and that Condon had said he could provide for his own children.

Condon said that if he were not permitted to retain the chattels allowed him under the bankruptcy exemption he could not continue farming next summer. He said he had ten children, one of whom is employed in the city and sends him $20 a month. "If it weren't for that we would all starve" he said.

Provincial Constable Silvester stated that when he visited Condon's farm to serve the summons the house was in a deplorable state and the family had only beans to eat.

The case was adjourned for a week, Magistrate Langley declaring that the Douro relief officials must display more humanitarian principles in their actions toward the family, but also warning Condon that whatever his situation might be his children were not going to be permitted to suffer by missing their schooling.

Midway through the case, Chief Newhall said that if Condon would supply him with particulars about the size of clothing the children needed, he would see to it that sufficient clothing was sent out to them within 24 hours. Condon did not supply these particulars.

A BUYING POWER OF $20,000,000

Stores Within the Superior Stores Group Now Enoy This Advantage From Their Wholesalers.

Thrifty shoppers for better foods will find good news in the announcement to-day that the York Trading Co is now affiliated with the Laporte, Hudson, Hebert Company, Ltd., of Montreal, Quebec. There are now over 600 Victoria stores served by the latter firm, and over 900 Superior stores served by the York Trading Co., and affiliated wholesale houses. The combined purchasing power of the 17 distributors of first grade groceries and provisions now associated will exceed $20,000,000. The Victoria and Superior Stores are not chain organizations in the real sense of the term, for each business is individually owned and operated. Each store has, however, the advantage in prices and selectiveness which the $20,000,000 buying power of their combined wholesalers makes possible. In this way each of the stores linked up with the Superior and Victoria stores organizations is able to effectively compete with the big incorporated chain stores, while retaining that personal neighborhood contact which makes shopping a pleasure as well as profitable in extra service.

Star Sees Films Made In England

The blonde ond lovely Esther Ralston has the distinction of being the first American film star who had to come to Canada to see herself in a British picture. While making a vaudeville appearance in Toronto, a private "pre-view" was arranged whereby Miss Ralston might see herself in "After the Ball" and "Rome Express" two films which she made in England but could not stay to see.

HERMIT OF BIG CARIBOU LAKE VISITS TOWN ONLY ONCE YEAR

Former Paris Baker Loves Solitude—Has No Companions.

INDIANS AFRAID OF HIM.

WAKO, Ont., Jan. 19 (C.P.).—The hermit of Big Caribou Lake is due "out" almost any time now. Just about once a year, Joseph Rossel, old country Frenchman, makes his way to the distant railway, collects his mail and supplies, and without loss of a day returns to his isolated home on the Big Caribou. He is the only white man who lives in the district the year round.

Rossel comes of sturdy peasant stock. He was a baker in Paris originally, but came to Canada and went West. He didn't like the Prairies, and came to the Northern Ontario bush.

He has been there for 25 years, a stockily-built man, middle-aged, with a rosy cheek and steely blue eyes as straight as his rifle barrel.

He "holds truck" with no one, owes no man a dime, cares not a hoot how the world wags. Banks, nations, kings may fall, but he stands firm on the few acres he has cleared. Seeking solitude, wishing no one near him—not even Indians who are afraid of him—his life suggests complete self-sufficiency.

Why does he live like that? "It suits me," is all he answers. His sandy loam grows everything he needs from the seeds he produces and with which he experiments every year. Moose, deer, fish, are at his door.

"A man need not starve in this country, if he knows how," says Rossel.

Job Too Big

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 19. — (A.P.)—Here's a man who admits his job was too big for him. George W. Lewis, elephant keeper at the municipal zoo resigned. The reason; Tusko, once billed in a circus as the largest elephant in captivity, became a city ward last fall after eating several private owners out of houses and homes. Tusko smashed up his quarters during a stay in Portland, Ore. and Lewis thought he had a reckless look in his eye again.

Each Letter In Sign Weighs One Ton

The proprietors of Oxo, the world famous beef extract have won a high reputation for enterprise in the matter of advertising. Many of the publicity schemes initiated by this company have won world-wide fame, and recent achievements add still further to its record in this regard.

Perhaps one of the most striking achievements was the construction of the tower of their Blackfriars warehouse on the River Thames in London, England, in such a way that the windows spell OXO and thus provide what is in effect a gigantic sky sign, yet complying with regulations regarding outdoor signs. In addition to this and as a further means of advertising to the hundreds of thousands of people who daily see the warehouse, Oxo Limited have erected what is beyond doubt one of the largest gilt wood letter signs in the world. This huge sign has display frontages on three sides of the warehouse. On one side the word "OXO" is shown in letters measuring 24 feet by 12 feet, each letter weighing one ton. Another side shows the name "OXO" in letters measuring more than 19 feet in height with the words "Beef in Brief" in letters over 8 feet high. The third side of the huge sign carries the name "OXO" in letters 10 feet by 10 feet and "Beef in Brief" in 5 feet letters.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF POLITICS NEW PLAN OF LIBERAL PARTY IN CENTRAL ONTARIO DISTRICT

Hon. Vincent Massey Says New Problems Must Be Faced.

MEETING AT COBOURG

Zeal for Reform Must be Applied to Present Needs.

(By a Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Jan. 20.—Plans for a summer school of politics in Central Ontario next August were outlined by Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the National Liberal Federation, in an address that seemed significant of the party's orientation to the new national problems at an open anniversary meeting of the Central Ontario Liberal Association's executive here yesterday afternoon.

"We purpose taking a leaf from the books of the political parties in Great Britain, and there is a great deal that we might learn from the Old Country," Mr. Massey said. "They hold summer schools of three weeks at which the politicians confer with economists and other leaders of thought in discussions of the problems that have to be faced.

The National Liberal Federation is considering a summer school to be held somewhere in Central Ontario, probably next August, at which Mr. King and other members of the party would be present and discuss with economists, sociologists, university professors and other leaders of thought such important questions as public ownership, international law, inflation of the currency, unemployment, the railway question and other problems which have to be faced.

Within the next four or five weeks we hope to be able to make a definite announcement in regard to this innovation. It is planned to obtain some place with sufficient accommodation where this

C.C.F. IS HANDED INITIAL DEFEAT

Independent Candidate Endorsed by Conservatives is Elected in Calgary.

VOTE 14,128 TO 12,306.

CALGARY, Jan. 20. (CP)—Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, the Dominion's newest political association, to-day had met its first defeat in the Provincial field.

Miss Amelia Turner, first candidate to have the endorsation of the C.C.F., was defeated in the by-election here yesterday when Norman Hindsley, Independent nominee endorsed by the Conservatives, was elected to represent Calgary in the Alberta legislature. The final vote was: Hindsley, 14,128; Turner, 12,306. Voting was under the proportional representation system.

While the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation as a Dominion-wide organization did not endorse Miss Turner, all units of the organization swung under her banner after she had been nominated by the Canadian Labor Party. National leaders of the C.C.F. took part in the campaign.

Strong critic of the administration of Premier J. E. Brownlee, Hindsley is a Calgary business man. The by-election was necessitated by the appointment of Dr. H. W. McGill, Conservative M.L.A. for Calgary, to the post of Deputy Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

Victory for Hindsley came on the fifth count and after the other four candidates in the contest had been eliminated and lost their deposits. The other candidates were D. R. Crichton, Independent; John O'Sullivan, United Front; A. C. MacKay, Independent, and R. H. Parkyn, Independent and former Independent-Labor member of the legislature.

FOR LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 20 (C.P.) — Inadvertent callers left a cargo of liquor right at the front door of the United States Coastguard base.

It was one of those social errors due to a mistake in navigation. A speed boat trying to slip by the station to enter New River Inlet ran aground just at the wrong place.

Boatswain E. T. Turcotte walked out of headquarters to pay respects but the visitors left without presenting cards. He found 10 sacks of liquor in the boat.

STORY BRANDED ROTTEN ACT BY INFAMOUS MAN

Mr. Justice Trueman Creates Sensation at Stubbs' Inquiry.

DENIES STATEMENT.

Justice Trueman Declined Invitation to Testify at Hearing.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 20 (C.P.). — Walking into the quiet court where an investigation was being conducted into charges of judicial misconduct against Judge L. St. G. Stubbs, Mr. Justice W. H. Trueman created a sensation at noon to-day in an indignant attack upon the accused jurist.

The Judge strode into the court almost unnoticed until he interrupted the evidence of witness and told Mr. Justice Frank Ford he wished to deny a statement made by the accused.

Referring to Judge Stubbs' announcement that he intended to move for an impeachement against him for "gross interference in the administration of justice" in connection with a shooting affray between two officers at Tuxedo Barracks, Judge Trueman branded Judge Stubbs' charge "as an absolute falsehood," and described it as "a rotten act characteristic of a rotten, infamous man."

"It is an unseemly wretched statement," he declared, as he glared at witness standing silently in the witness box holding a bundle of papers in his hand.

Mr. Justice Trueman declined an invitation to testify at the hearing regarding this charge. "It is not necessary for me to do that," he said. "Everybody will believe me."

Justice Trueman expressed the hope newspapers would not publish it.

Stubbs Speaks Up.

The accused himself interrupted and suggested if his references had not already been published they be struck from the record and he would issue a "public statement."

Turning to Mr. Justice Trueman, the Commissioner assured him the references by the Judge would not have been allowed had he known what they were.

"I trust witness will not be permitted to make any further reference to the matter," said Mr. Justice Trueman as he bowed his thanks to the chairman and left the court.

The Commissioner told Judge Stubbs he had no power to order

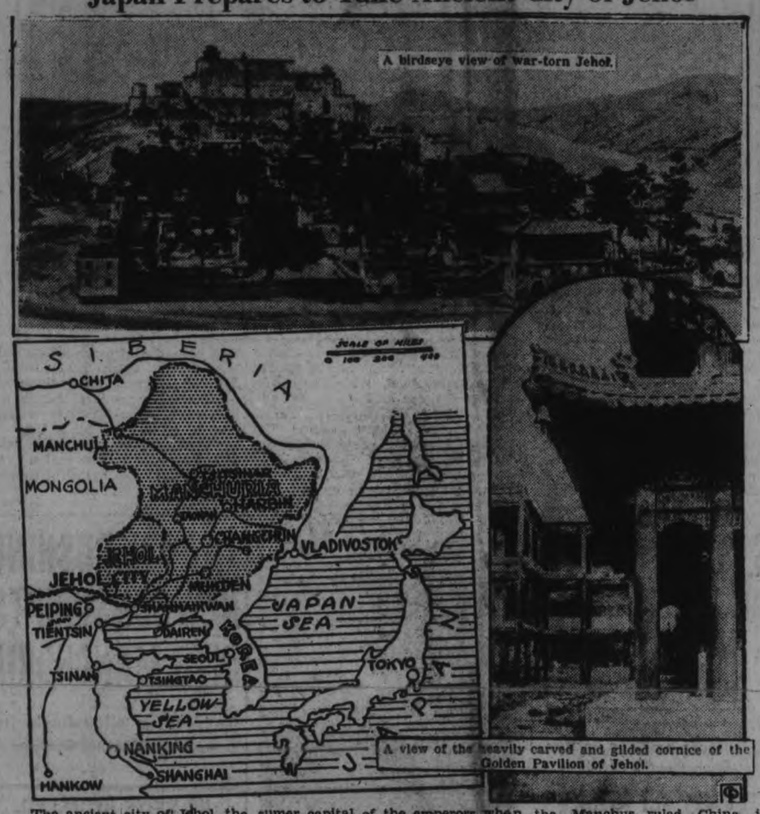
19 Sailors In Peril As Schooner Grounds

EUREKA, Calif., Jan. 20 (C.P.).—Aground a mile south of here, the lumber schooner Tiver, with 19 men aboard, was lashed by a heavy sea early to-day as coast guardsmen attempted to render aid.

Distress signals sent out by the craft, a 336-ton wooden vessel, owned by the Christenson - Hammond Line, were seen shortly after midnight by the Eureka coastguard station and rescue efforts were started immediately. Launches and small boats were sent to the scene and the coastguard cutter Cahokia started a 300-mile dash from San Francisco.

The Tiverton, commanded by Captain Ahlin, left San Francisco Wednesday for Eureka.

Japan Prepares to Take Ancient City of Jehol



The ancient city of Jehol, the sumer capital of the emperors when the Manchus ruled China, is likely to fall into the hands of the Japs as they continue their assault upon the Chinese armies in the province of Jehol. An old tradition says that whoever gains Jehol gains North China and will dominate all China. Shaded section of the map represents where the Japanese have based military operations.

YOUNG COUPLE NEARLY BURNED IN THEIR HOME

Ray Lynch is in St. Joseph's Hospital Suffering From Burns.

HOME IS DESTROYED.

Both Ecape in Night Clothes From Home on Edison Avenue.

Barely having time to grab a couple of dressing gowns to throw on over their scanty night attire a young married couple residing on Edison Avenue in North Monaghan Township had a remarkable escape from being burned to death in an early morning fire that caused the complete destruction of the two-storey frame dwelling they tenanted and loss of the entire contents.

Ray Lynch, the young husband was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from extensive burns and is under the car of Dr. G. R. Scott. He sustained his injuries in a frenzied attempt to remove the blazing stove from a room in the house which was at that time a mass of flames and smoke. His wife, with her feet cut and bruised in her barefooted dash for safety was to-day staying with relatives on Braidwood Avenue. She was badly shaken up by the harrowing experience of the fire, and was extremely concerned over her husband and the loss of everything they possessed.

Although the property is situated in the Suburban Area, the alarm was put through to the City Fire Department, and a prompt response was made. The firefighters laid a long line of hose from the corner of Park and Lansdowne Streets, and were successful in preventing the fire from spreading to adjoining property. The danger to the other houses in the neighborhood was great, big glowing embers from the

STORM WRECKS HAND OF CLOCK

Five Foot Minute Hand on City Clock Must be Replaced.

HAD TO STOP CLOCK.

The weather-beaten city clock in the market hall tower fell victim to the vagaries of the howling guests of wind that swept this district last night. The five-foot minute hand on the north face of the clock was all but torn off. The hand was bent over with the wind and twisted so badly that today it was held together by a mere shred of metal.

Bert Wainman, caretaker, climbed the tower to fix the clock but found the work too perilous in the face of the small gale that whirled about the top of the tower. Alderman Dan Holland, chairman of the Property Committee of the City Council, said that an attempt will be made to repair the damaged hand by reinforcing it, but in all probability a new hand will have to be secured. The clock was stopped to-day.

Both the Bell Telephone Company and the Utilities Commission reported that the wind had caused minor interruptions to their rural service, long the Keene road a tree was blown down and the limbs caught in the telephone wires, snapping off two poles. Telephone wires were crossed in several places and trouble developed on the rural power lines. All were quickly repaired.

Gale Prevents lowering of Lifeboats to Attempt Rescue.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (C.P.).—The British freighter Exeter City battled heavy Atlantic season to-day in a storm that cost the lives of her master, third officer and two members of the crew, damaged her considerably and caused her to flash an S.O.S. in the early dawn.

The loss of life was reported in a radiogram to his owners by Captain Giles C. Stedman, master of the liner, American Merchant which reached the stricken freighter after a dash of 15 miles that, because of the weather, required three hours.

Capt. Stedman, reporting his ship 1,573 miles east of Ambrose Lightship, gave the following description of the plight of the Exeter City:

"Bridge, chartroom, forepart bridge deck and saloon accommodations carried away. Master, third officer, apprentice and seaman lost. No. 2 hatch stove in. Water also believed in No. 3 hatch. Rigged up emergency steering gear."

Apparently Capt. Stedman found it impossible to lower lifeboats, as he reported the weather "considerably unfavorable, strong westerly gale, high seas, rain and hail."

Ask Permission For $50,000,000 Issue

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(C.P.)—The Bell Telephone Company's directors are asking the shareholders for authority to issue $20,000,000 of new bonds from time to time as the capital is required. The matter will come up at the annual meeting of the company on Feb. 23rd.

A feature of the proposed new issue is that the bonds will be payable in Canadian or United Kingdom funds only. This will be the first large industrial issue of recent years excluding the option of payment in U.S. funds, the purpose evidently being to avoid the risk of meeting heavy exchange penalties in the future.

Hoover, Roosevelt Set Date of Parley For Early in March

Conference, After Change Of Administration, Will Include Economic Problems Of World—Diplomatic Quarters Immediately Note England Alone Mentioned.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS WELCOMED IN BRITISH POLITICAL CIRCLES, BEST NEWS IN WEEKS.

WASHINGTON, January 20 (C.P.). — President Herbert Hoover and President-elect Franklin Roosevelt, in today's White House conference, agreed upon a discussion of war debts with representatives of Great Britain to take place early in March after the change of administrations.

In a statement issued at the White House following the hour and a half meeting, it was said the official talks with Great Britain would include also the economic problems of the world and "ways and means for improving the world situation."

Secretary Henry Stimson of the State Department was instructed immediately to initiate negotiations with Great Britain arranging for the projected conference.

Mr. Roosevelt made no statement when the White House session was over, but let it be known he planned to do so after leaving the city in mid-afternoon for the trip to Muscle Shoals.

White House Announcement.

The White House statement follows in full:

"The conference between the President and President-elect this morning was attended by Secretaries Stimson and Mills and Messrs Norman Davis and Moley.

"The discussions were devoted mainly to a canvass of the foreign situation and the followng statement covering the procedure to be followed was agreed upon:

"The British Government has asked for a discussion of the debts.

"The incoming administration will be glad to receive their representative early in March for this purpose.

"It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested, and therefore that representatives should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation.

MISSING PILOTS FOUND IN ALPS

Landed in Valley to Climb Mountain-side on Foot, Seeking Hinkler.

FRENCH CRAFT LOST.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—Captain W. L. Hope and his companion, Lieutenant Hinley, who were reported missing on a search through the Alps for Bert Hinkler, British flyer, who dropped out of sight 13 days ago, were located today at Vetrox in the Simplon Valley.

They landed there yesterday and started up Diablerets Mountain afoot, looking for some trace of Hinkler or his plane. When they were not heard from a search for them began.

Meantime Paris newspapers received a report from Africa that one of the four French army planes which set out from Oran yesterday to look for Lady Mary Bailey has been reported missing. The pilot was a French army sergeant and his companion another non-commissioned officer.

Lady Bailey Suffers of Thirst

Lady Mary Bailey, found yesterday in French West Africa suffering greatly from thirst after facing the terrors of the desert four days.

She was forced to land, it was learned to-day, just when she was "running even" in her attempt to break Amy Johnson's record of four and one-third days for the London-Cape Town flight.

Although Lady Bailey, famed aviatrix and mother of five children, failed to beat Amy Mollison's record when it was almost within her grasp, her flight of 1,500 miles over the Sahara Desert was acclaimed as a splendid achievement. It was learned she strayed 250 miles off her course; otherwise she would have had an excellent chance of success.

She was found uninjured, 15 miles southwest of Tahcua, in Niger Colony, French West Africa. She had left Oran, Algeria, her first stop after leaving England, Sunday night.

ALL WHO ASKED, PUT ON RELIEF STURGEON FALLS

Assessor Admits 700 Flocked Into Town From All Over During Year.

NONE DISAPPOINTED.

Find Owner Living With 3 Families, Getting $10 Monthly for Each from Town.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Jan. 20 —(CP)—With an increase in population of more than 700 between October, 1931, and October, 1932, houses were at a premium in Sturgeon Falls and "any kind of an old shack could be rented" declared J. A. Fortin, assessor, during the enquiry into relief disbursements today.

"For a while Sturgeon Falls was the only town giving direct relief and people flocked in here from North Bay and towns for miles around," Mr. Fortin said.

"There were not enough houses for all, so they lived in sheds and stables, and old tumble-down shacks that no one had lived in for years," he maintained.

"I suppose they were put on relief right away?" asked W. H. Williams, K.C., commission counsel.

"Yes sir, they were put on relief right away," said Fortin. "That is what they came for and they got it. Many of them had never lived in Sturgeon Falls."

His explanation came when it was discovered the owner and three families numbering 19 persons lived in one shack assessed at $650. The town paid $10 a month rent for each family, $30 a month altogether, to the owner, Joe Fourneur.

"That is what I call a wonderful investment in real estate," commented Judge Hall.

Douro Farmer Finds Snake Sunning Itself

M. J. Moher found a good-sized snake sunning itself on the weather side of a large post, on his farm, this week.

Snakes vanish during the cold weather and hibernate like the bears and frogs and flies. Never in Mr. Moher's memory has he seen a snake above ground in January; and this fellow, according to him, wasn't stupid at all. He was very brisk and wouldn't let anyone get near him.

JAPAN PREPARES ASSAULT UPON CITY OF JEHOL

Summer Capital of Emperors When Manchus Ruled China.

"A MAGIC CITY"

Peasants Have Been Bled by War Lords and Bandit Chieftains.

By LESLIE EICHEL,
Central Press Canadian Writer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—One really has to come to Chicago to gain an idea why Chinese are so shocked over the prospect of Japan's invasion of the province of Jehol.

One sees, in Chicago, already erected for the 1933 world's fair, a reproduction of the Golden Pavilion of Jehol. One beholds at a glance the religious and sentimental significance of Jehol for the Chinese. Jehol was the summer residence of the Manchu emperors of China.

Jehol, now called Chengteh, only a short distance from the already captured port of Shanhaikwan, was a sacred city.

Opium Is Its Wealth.

Likewise, as a more practical consideration, it is the centre of an opium market, whose product used to flow toward Japan, to mutual profit, and whose trade now flows toward Peiping, ancient capital of the emperors, in return for a military deal made some years ago.

Jehol province is twice as large as Nova Scotia. Amidst its poverty are the temples and other remains of the summer playground of emperors. But in recent times, war lords and bandit chieftains have bled the peasant there.

One part of the province rests against the Great Wall. Another part abuts the new Japanese-dominated state of Manchukuo (Manchuria). This part forms a wedge between southern Manchuria and Mongolia proper.

If you will look at a map you will observe that Japan is consolidating those Chinese eastern provinces against Russia. The Great Bear has been remarkably complacent so far. (One is almost led to believe that if such conquest had occurred in Europe, there would have been another world war.)

A Chinese Tradition.

Whoever gains Jehol, gains North China and will dominate all of China, the Chinese say, in fear. All conquests of China have been from Mongolia.

Chinese leaders in Tientsin predict their city will be the next large city to be attacked and invaded by the Japanese in the purported attempt to take all of North China and the ancient capital city of Peiping. A noted Chinese leader

BANK WILL LOAN CALGARY FUNDS

Will Take Treasury Bills on $300,000 Needed to Meet U.S. Exchange.

COUNCIL CONSIDERS.

CALGARY, Jan. 20. — (C.P.)—Bank of Montreal has agreed to lend Calgary the $300,000 necessary to meet United States' exchange rates on $2,135,000 in debentures which matured at New York January 1. Mayor Andy Davison received a letter to-day to this effect from the Bank's head office in Montreal and he will place it before the City Council for its decision.

The letter said the bank was willing "to lend the city the amount necessary to meet exchange costs, taking one year 5½ per cent. treasury bills repayable 50 per cent. by the end of 1933, the balance to be renewable for a further year."

Another stipulation in the offer was the bank's statement that the city should be given specified protection on disposition of treasury bills for waterworks bonds, against which the city borrowed $2,000,000.

How the council will meet the offer is doubtful. Mayor Davison and the council have consistently refused to pay for the debentures resulting in the bank cutting off the city credit.

Direct Relief Plan Continues in Force But Details Change

Some Provinces Urging Bigger Federal Grants For Assisting Jobless—Ottawa Contributions Go On Per Diem Basis.

FEW RELIEF WORKS—ONLY WHERE NECESSARY RAILROADS' TROUBLES CONSIDERED LATER.

OTTAWA, January 20. — Unemployment insurance and jurisdiction over fire, life, and other insurance companies were left undecided, but further conferences on taxation and company law were ordered last night as the Dominion-Provincial Conference finished its three-day session.

Several resolutions were made public last night as the Conference broke up just in time to permit the Ontario and Quebec delegates to catch midnight trains back to their homes.

Provincial Responsibility.

Results of these resolutions were as follows:

1—Unemployment relief remains a Provincial responsibility. It was frankly stated that some of the Provinces are dissatisfied with the measure of financial aid they are receiving from the Dominion. This statement is made without any declaration of policy directed to improvement.

2—Direct relief to be continued as at present with public works to create employment to be considered only where profitable.

3—A "limited expenditure" for the destitute may be classified as unemployment relief.

4.—The Dominion should set some definite amount per day which it would pay to any province for each unemployed person, subject to local conditions.

5.—Single men, living in boarding houses or with their families will come within the category of "unemployed and destitute" and will be entitled to draw relief.

6.—Views to be exchanged between the various provinces and the Dominion and a further conference to be held later to consider recommendations regarding the re allocation of taxation.

(a) Further conference shall be called by Premier Bennett to draft a companies bill, which the Dominion Parliament and the Legislatures will pass.

(b) Information to be collected from the provinces by the minister of railways and canals (Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion) regarding truck and bus services, and after the answers to this questionnaire have been considered, a conference to be called on the subject.

SOVIET BARTER DEAL EXPLAINED TO ALBERTANS

Head of Canadian Syndicate Reveals it as $7,000,000 Proposition.

CREDIT NEEDED.

Points Out Farmers Would Get Their Return in Dominion Currency.

CALGARY, Jan. 20.—The Canadian-Soviet barter proposal last night was disclosed as a $7,000,000 proposition.

Endorsed here yesterday by the Alberta Live Stock Growers' Association in a hurriedly called gathering, and by the United Farmers of Alberta, in annual convention, the scheme in almost its complete details was revealed. Negotiations with the Live Stock Association were conducted by G. G. Serkau, Winnipeg lawyer, and leader of the Canadian syndicate sponsoring the deal, while the U.F.A. endorsed the scheme in resolution form.

Payment in Currency

Canadian ranchers and dealers in the stock yards would receive Canadian currency when their sales were made, and the 100,000 head of beef and dairy cattle would be taken by the Soviet within one navigation season after the arrangements were completed, Mr. Serkau said. Export of oil and coal from Russia to Canada in exchange for the cattle would be spread over two or three years, meeting Canadian demands as they rose.

Mr. Serkau outlined the proposals to the Live Stock Association meeting, and it was said the demand for Canadian cattle would increase the price to approximately double the amount now being paid.

Mr. Serkau admitted that approximately $7,000,000 would be involved, while ranchers foresaw distribution of this amount to live-stock breeders in both Eastern and Western Canada.

Because the Soviet purchases

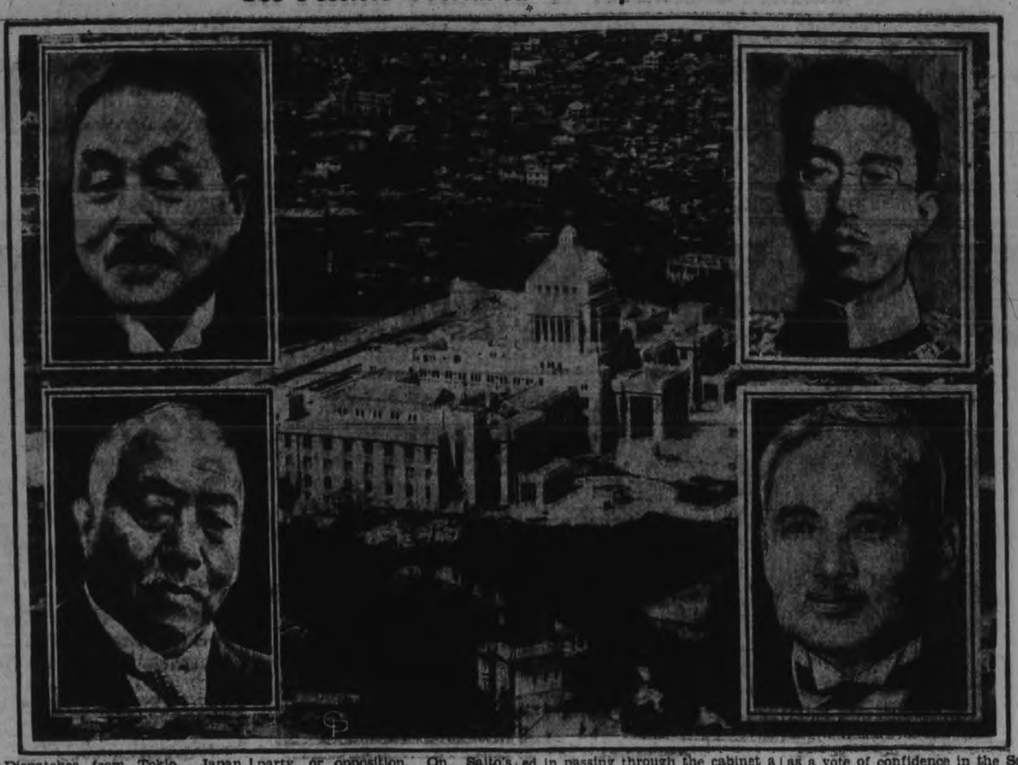
See Possible Overthrow Of Japanese Government



Dispatches from Tokio, Japan, are predicting the defeat of the present government administration at the 64th session of the Imperial Diet, which opens Saturday, January 21. The government, now headed by Premier Admiral Viscount Makato Saito (lower left), is being harshly criticized for their policy in China by the Seiyukai party, or opposition. On Saito's side, however, is the minority party of the Minseito, headed by former Premier Baron Reijiro Watatsuki (upper left), who declared the present government should be allowed to continue as long as the nation is menaced abroad. Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Yasuya Uchido (lower right), has succeeded in passing through the cabinet a modification of proposals by Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations, for settling the Sino-Japanese dispute in Manchuria. Japan claims the United States is holding back reconciliation. Youthful Emperor Hirohito also approved the move by Uchido which is seen by observers as a vote of confidence in the Saito government. If the government is defeated it seems likely there will be internal trouble in Japan and that the Sino-Japanese troubles may be cleared up for a time at least, providing the new party gains sufficient power. The centre illustration shows the beautiful government buildings at Tokio.

STUDY WISDOM OF DEVALUATING CANADA DOLLAR

Ottawa Considers Inflation Effects by Drop to Par With Pound Sterling.

MAY AID TRADE.

Menace to Butter Tariff Seen in New Zealand's Action.

OTTAWA, January 20. — While the Dominion Government has taken a firm stand so far against the urgings that the Canadian dollar be depreciated to a par with the pound sterling, a great deal of study is being given the matter.

In Government departments data is being prepared and the advice of foremost world financiers has been sought. Not only in Government circles, but outside, the line is sharply drawn between those who favor inflation and those who do not. Accordingly the action of New Zealand yesterday in further inflating its currency was very important news and may figure largely in future discussions.

The action taken by New Zealand will without doubt be seized upon by those opposed to tying up the Canadian dollar with the pound sterling as supporting their position. Their contention is that such an action by Canada would just start a ruinous competition in inflation

LAD SHOT DEAD BY FATHER'S GUN

Youngster Carrying Weapon in House Pulls Trigger Shooting Playmate.

THOUGHT IT UNLOADED.

WATERLOO, Jan. 20 (C.P.).—An accidentally discharged gun last night instantly killed eight-year-old Jimmy Kuntz. His playmate, Louis Boehm, nine, held the gun when it exploded, striking Jimmy from close range.

Herbert Kuntz, father of the boy, had returned from a hunting trip and allowed Louis to carry the gun into the house. Jimmy was carrying the shells. The father believed the gun was unloaded.

The gun discharged as Louis touched the trigger, the bullet tearing a hole in the left side of Jimmy's head. The boy is survived by his parents, a brother and six sisters.

Rush Point

On Thursday evening the Rush Point young people met for their first regular meeting of this year. The election of officers, which was to have been held on the previous Thursday evening, had been postponed because of the absence of the Rev. Mr. Kemp.

About thirty-five members were present. After the opening hymns, Miss Marjorie Newton took charge of the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Corinne McArthur.

Archie McMillan sang "Twenty-one Years," with his guitar accompaniment.

The officers elected for the new year were as follows: President, Rev. Mr. Kemp; Assistant President, Earl Pollock; Secretary, Miss Luella Keating; Treasurer, Miss Esther Menzies; Organist, Miss Cora McArthur; Assistant Organist, Miss Luella Keating; First Vice-President, Gavin Buchanan (Assistant, Carl Barton); Second Vice-President, Marjorie Newton (Assistant, Esther Menzies); Third Vice-President, Miss J. Taite (Assistant, Miss M. Brown); Fourth Vice-President, Miss Mae Seeney (Assistant, Mrs. Fred Toms); Fifth Vice-President, Reg. McQuigge (Assistant, Murnie Barton).

GUSTFUL WIND PLAYS PRANKS

Farmer Lifted From Wagon, Hurled to Highway—Brick Walls Fall.

PLOWING, STONEY CREEK.

TORONTO, Jan. 20 C.P.). — A gustful wind which is blamed for—or credited with—chasing robins to refuge in police courts and bodily lifting a man from the seat of his car onto the highway, had tempered its velocity somewhat to-day, but Ontario's residents were cautious as they ventured outdoors.

Western Ontario, which bore the brunt of the gale's pranks, reported such incidents as establishment of an aeroplane speed record; the dismantling of a brick wall, causing injury to a by-stander; the razing of implement sheds, and the felling of trees and telegraph poles.

The temperature itself remained unchanged, but was contrasting in different parts of the Province. In the north, Timmins and North Bay reported snow; around Stoney Creek spring plowing was in progress, and at Simcoe a woman picked a pussy willow.

At London a half-dozen red-breasted heralders of spring sought shelter in the police court but were chased by unsympathetic police. C. Burtch, a Tillsonburg farmers, while driving with a horse and democrat wagon, received a shaking-up when caught in a gust and promptly deposited upon the highway. Wheeling a barrow beside a Brantford foundry, William Robbins was showered with bricks, dislodged when a brick wall fell before the assaults of the wind.

JAPAN RUSHING NEW CONSCRIPTS INTO MANCHURIA

Rookies for 1933 Begin Reporting at Army Station To-day.

NO UNITS RECALLED.

Move Increases Man Power Fifty Per Cent. to 40,000 at Front.

TOKYO, Jan. 20. —(A.P.)— The army has decided to dispatch a majority of that portion of the 1933 conscripts, plus auxiliaries, composing General Nobuyoshi Muto's command to Manchuria immediately. Throughout Japan rookies began reporting to army stations today.

At the same time, 1931 conscripts and veterans in the Manchurian forces will remain in service, a war office spokesman said, despite the expiration of the two-year conscript terms.

Competent military opinion was that this means, although the number of Japanese units in Manchuria will be unchanged, the man power in the next few months will be enlarged 50 per cent. A third of these, it was said, will be raw recruits.

It was suggested, however, the rookies shortly would be available for garrisons in quiet sectors, releasing the veterans for duty in the "trouble sectors."

The present command of General Muto, Japan's supreme military chief of Manchuria, was estimated at 40,000 soldiers.

ELECTORS OF IRISH FREE STATE GET VOTE OF MANY PREFERENCES

Returning Officer Advises Going Right Through List on Ballot Paper.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 20 (C.P. Cable).—The Irish Free State elector has a vote of many preferences. When he enters the polling booth on Jan. 24 to elect a new Dail Eireann, he will not be limited in choice to one vote, one member. He gives first preference to his favorite. But, voting under the proportional representation system, he may, if he wishes, give second, third or other preferences right through the list.

He can "plump" by just voting one preference, but the "plump" vote under proportional representation lacks the virtue it has under straight majority voting.

"Vote all your preferences," the voter is advised.

For, if the voter "plumps" for just one or two candidates, his vote may not count at all.

The Irish Times explains it this way:

"Take, say, the County Dublin, electing eight members, as an example. The returning officer finds that 80,991 valid votes—that is, valid first preferences—have been cast. He divides this total number of valid votes by nine—that is, by one more than the number of vacant seats. That gives him 8,999, to which he adds 1, making 9,000, or the quota. Each candidate receiving 9,000 votes must be elected. Eight of them receiving 9,000 each, account of 72,000 of the total poll, leaving 8,991, or less than one quota, for all the remaining candidates.

Dividing the Vote

"Having ascertained the quota at 9,000, the returning officer declares elected on the first count any candidate receiving 9,000 votes or more. Suppose that candidate X has received 10,000 first preferences—he has 1,000 more than the total required for his election. The counters go through all the 10,000 ballot papers again, sorting them out according to the second preference, or choice, marked on the paper.

"In this second count it is found that Candidate A has been marked as second choice on 5,000, or half, of X's 10,000 papers. He, therefore, will be entitled to half of the 1,000 surplus votes of X. Similarly, B, who is found to be marked second choice on 3,000 of X's papers, will be entitled to three-tenths, or 300, and so on, as the other candidates are given second preference."

The vote is transferable so long as preferences are shown on the ballot paper in order and without a break, when the number of preferences is exhausted early ,the ballot-paper becomes a non-transferable vote and ceases to affect the election.

"Therefore," says Dr. Lorean Sherlock, returning officer for Dublin City, "my advice to the elector is to vote right through the list on the ballot paper, according to his preferences for the individual. If a voter who goes to the poll does not record his preferences to the full extent, he may as well stay at home."

Strong Evidence

DETROIT, Jan. 20 (C.P.)—A court hearing was adjourned here when the evidence exploded and a United States attorney retired to change his attire.

The evidence was a bottle of beer. The beer stood on a table. In emphasizing a point the Attorney thumped the table. "Pop" went the beer, and the Attorney was struck with the full force of the evidence.

FARMER DIES UPON GALLOWS

Coulombe Found Guilty of Murdering Mrs. M. Valcourt in Quebec Village.

STRUCK IN ARGUMENT.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Jan. 20.—(C.P.).—Alfred Coulombe, middle-aged St. Leon farmer, died on the scaffold here at dawn for the murder of Mrs. Marie Valcourt. The condemned man dropped through the trap at 7 a.m., and was pronounced dead six minutes later.

Sentence of death was passed on Coulombe following his conviction for murdering Mrs. Valcourt at Maskinonge on July 20, 1932. The woman was struck down with an iron bar during the course of a fierce argument over financial matters.

Coulombe went to his death calmly to-day. Yesterday his wife and several relatives visited him in his cell at the common jail. Coulombe took farewell of his family then and spent his last night in company of Abbe Verschelden, chaplain of Montreal jail.

Sonw was falling as Coulombe mounted the scaffold at dawn today. He steadfastly repeated prayers after Abbe Verschelden as Arthur Ellis, the hangman, adjusted the noose about his neck. Coulombe was still praying as the trap was sprung.

It will pay you to read this one

THE other day a friend gave my wife a recipe for a new Frozen Orange Pudding. We had it last night for dessert.

"This is something new," I said. "Where did you get it?"

"Mae gave me the recipe yesterday. She clipped it from an advertisement."

My wife didn't read that advertisement. If her friend hadn't read it what a treat we would have missed.

Do you read the advertisements? It will pay you many times over to do so. From them you may learn about all sorts of new things. New foods, new ways to use them, new recipes that will add variety to the daily menu.

Right in the advertisements in this paper there are countless things to interest you, to save you money, to bring you the most value for what you spend. And now as a reward for reading this advertisement here is the recipe that inspired it.

Recipe for Frozen Orange Pudding

Ingredients. 2 egg yolks (beaten); 1 cup orange juice; 1 cup cream (light cream or top milk will do); 4 teaspoonfuls flour; 1/8 teaspoonful salt; 1/3 cup sugar; 1 teaspoonful grated orange rind.

Blend thoroughly egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt and add orange juice and cream. Put in double boiler until thick. Add orange rind, cool and pour into freezing tray of refrigerator—or three or four hours on ice. When ready to serve, top each dish with meringue made by beating two egg whites stiff and adding 1/4 cup sugar. Garnish with orange segments.

Unrest at Night

THOSE who suffer from backache, possibly swollen ankles and feet, dizzy spells, dull, heavy feelings and are frequently disturbed at night, would do well to try this newest remedy of Dr. Pierce's, called "Anuric." T. A. Berney, 645 Wellington St., West, Toronto, Ont., stated: "I would have to get up two or three times at night. I would get a soreness across my kidneys especially in the morning and my back would be lame and sore. But Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets straightened me up in great shape, drove away the backache and regulated my kidneys."

Obituary

JAMES C. CUMMING

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Jan. 20. — A link with the pioneer days of Northumberland County has been severed by the death at Montreal of James C. Cumming in his 90th year. He was the son of the late Cuthbert Cumming of Colborne, Ont., chief trader with the Hudson Bay Company, who resided at Colborne in the seventies. The son also saw much service with the Hudson Bay Company in the north. He married Catharine A. Strong of Colborne, who died in 1894, and besides his daughter leaves a son, Cuthbert Cumming of Toronto.

The funeral service was held in Trinity church, Colborne, conducted by Rev. A. J. Fidler, Toronto, and Rev. P. B. Roberts, rector, at Colborne.

OSCAR WANNAMAKER

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 20 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Oscar Wannamaker was held on Wednesday afternoon from the family residence, Chippewa Ave. with Rev. W. R. Archer officiating, assisted by Rev. W. J. Creighton. Two hymns were sung, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages." Mr. Archer addressed the friends, who had gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to a highly respected resident of the village, comparing the deceased to Abou Ben Adhane as "a man who loved his fellow men," quiet and reticent he had an abiding faith in God and faced death with high courage in which was no trace of fear.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Keith, Enith, Fred, Glenn and Roger Wannamaker (all nephews) and G. Warren Payne nephew-in-law). Interment was made in the Lakefield cemetery.

Although the late Mr. Wannamaker had lived in the village for close to half a century he was not as well known as other members of his family he was a sufferer from asthma for years and was able to go out a great deal, but to those who were privileged to know him, he was a kindly man who had a high ideal of friendship and of citizenship. He is survived by an aged mother, two sisters, Mrs. John Waldon and Miss Nancy Wannamaker and three brothers, William, Harry and Alexander all residing in Lakefield. His father predeceased him about three years ago.

GEORGE LEGROW.

STIRLING, Jan. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—A life-long resident of Stirling passed away on Tuesday morning in the person of George Legrow, at the age of 76 years. The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Legrow and was born in Cornwall. His first wife was Miss Jane Sweetman of Frankford, who passed away 18 years ago. To this union was born two children, James of this village and Lena, who died 16 years ago.

In 1922 he married Miss Josephine Kennally of Keene, who survives him. In religion he was a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and in politics a Liberal.

Besides his wife and one son, he leaves one brother, William, of Watertown, N.Y., and three sisters: Mrs. Bamber of Belleville, Mrs. Bellnap of Vancouver and Mrs. McCauley.

Catarrhal Deafness Can Be Relieved

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness or head noises due to catarrh will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected relief after other treatments have failed.

Secure from your druggist one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add ¼ pint hot water and a little sugar. A tablespoonful four times a day should stop distressing catarrhal head noises, improve hearing, make breathing easier and dry up mucous discharge. All catarrh sufferers need Parmint.

SOVIET BARTER DEAL EXPLAINED

would be 70 per cent. beef cattle, the larger amount would go to the prairie and foothills breeders, while the 30 per cent. demand for dairy cattle would prove of greater benefit to the Ontario and Eastern Canada breeders, said Mr. Serkau.

Importation of oil into the Dominion would be on the basis of Texas Gulf prices, explained to cattlemen as being the same to th oil industry as Liverpool prices are to wheat. Importations of coal from the Soviet would be the smaller part of the value, probably only $1,000,000. The coal imports would be a minimum of 10,000 tons monthly. The ratio of oil imports was not set, but would be regulated by the syndicate on consultation with Canadian refineries so as not to depress prices.

Chief detail yet to be completed was stated to be the matter of credit, for which endorsation by the Dominion Government was necessary. Ranchers were informed the Canadian Government was not being asked to extend the Soviet Government any credit, but that the credit would be extended to the syndicate negotiating the deal.

Soviet bonds would be given the syndicate, which would in turn place them with a Canadian bank, with Dominion Government endorsation, for currency advances with which to pay the cattle-breeders in cash. The bonds would be held by the banks, and, as the oil and coal from Russia were sold, repayment to the banks would be made. No money would leave the country, the ranchers were told.

Sketch Of New Crash-Proof Airplane

An engineer's sketch of the airplane that it is claimed will revolutionize aviation. It is of a design hitherto undreamed of b yairplane designers. The airplane, no wbeing built in Berlin under the supervision of Dr. Adolf K. Rohrbach (inset), will have revolving wings, something like the paddles of old river steamers. At all times, the inventors claim, the craft will be under perfect control of the pilot, and it wil lbe able to ascend or descend vertically, or even to stand still in mid-air. In the event of anything happening to the pilot, the airplane would land itself so softly as not to jar, which makes it fool-proof and crash-proof.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat 40c to 44c; oats 20c to 23c; barley 32c to 34c; corn 33c to 35c; rye 30c to 32c; buckwheat 27c to 29c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—Egg prices again dipped lower on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Light demand, coupled with heavy receipts, forced fresh graded eggs in carlots or less down 2c a dozen. Extras were quoted at 25c, and firsts and pullets at 22c to 23c a dozen. Storage eggs in carlots or less were also lower, extras at 21c and firsts at 20c were both off a cent, while seconds at 19c a dozen held unchanged. To retailers all lines except seconds declined 2c a dozen. Receipts totalled 1,978 cases, bringing the week's receipts to 5,922 cases as compared with 5,629 cases in the corresponding period of last week.

Current receipts of Ontario white cheese gained ¼c at 8¾c to 9c a pound, while colored ruled steady at 10c, as did early make at 10½c to 11¼c a pound. Receipts were 30 boxes.

Butter was unchanged at 21c a pound for carlots or less of No. 1 grass make. Receipts were 24 boxes.

Potatoes held fir mat 85c for New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag, 90c for Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 80-pound bag, and $1 for Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag.

TORONTO PRODUCE

Supplies of fresh eggs yesterday were far too heavy for the local demand, and prices to country shippers and to retailers were much lower than quoted at the first of the week. Brokers reduced prices considerably, but were not able to move all supplies.

Country shippers were offered 20c for extras, 18c for firsts, and 16c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, while retailers were quoted extras in cartons at 26c, extras loose at 26c, firsts loose at 24c, and seconds loose at 21c. Brokers offered graded eggs in free cases at 23½c for extras, 21½c for firsts, 19½c for pullet extras, and 19c for seconds.

Poultry

There were new prices for poultry delivered to this market. Local dealers made the spread in weights much greater than previously in chickens and fatted hens, and prices were about steady, though heavier weights were required. Young turkeys found a better demand, and prices were a few cents higher.

Butter

Trade in creamery solids was slow, and prices were unchanged. Brokers quoted fresh Ontario solids at 21c to 21¼c for No. 1, and 20¼c for No. 2, while prices on creamery prints to the trade were steady at 25c for No. 1 and 24c for No. 2.

Cheese

New cheese moved fairly well at the steady levels of 10c for large, 10¼c for twins, and 10½c for triplets. Prices to retailers were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Signs of big foreign purchasing of October delivery wheat contracts at Winnipeg helped bring about a decided advance of Chicago grain values yesterday.

Winnipeg messages said the foreign buying of October wheat had been in progress several days. Reports of rust storms in Nebraska and Kansas were also a strengthening factor, together with advices of extensive winter killing of wheat in parts of the Pacific Northwest.

After climbing in some cases 1 to 1½ cents, wheat closed firm at ⅝ to 1 over Wednesday's finish; corn ¼ to ⅜ up; oats ¼ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 20. — Upturns at Chicago, induced by unfavorable reports from the United States winter wheat belt, led firmness in other markets and fair export of Canadian wheat as factors in registering gains of 1¼c to 1⅝c in wheat prices at the close of the trading here yesterday.

May closed at 46⅞, July at 47¾c, and October at 49c.

Chicago traders offered a little support from time to time, but it was impossible to determine whether it was investment buying or in connection with spreading operations. Offerings here light No estimate of export was available.

Estimates place Argentine exports this week as high as 4,500,000 bushels over last week's total, but Russia and the Balkan countries did not ship any grain this week.

Good demand for all grades of oats appeared in the cash coarse grains market, but interest in other grains and in cash wheat remained very indifferent.

MISSIONARY WORK IN WEST DESCRIBED

W.M.S. of Roseneath Church Hears Address From Rev. George Empey.

ROSENEATH, Jan. 20.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — The Women's Missionary Society held its first meeting of the New Year in the town hall on Tuesday afternoon with forty-three in attendance.

The new president, Mrs. Lily Turner opened the meeting with silent prayer, followed by the Lord's praper in unison.

Tower Heralds were appointed, Mrs. Leslie Sherwin takes Japan; Mrs. A. Tucker, India; Miss Jennie Smith, China, and Miss Annie Brown Canada.

A pleasing feature on the program was a talk from Mr. George Empey, (minister in charge), about his work as missionary in Western Canada, Peace River district, Manitoba, Sask., and Algoma. Evidently Mr. Empey had a wide experience not only as a missionary but a cook, housekeeping, riding horseback and many things that were very humorous as well as interesting.

Mrs. A. J. Campbell read the devotional leaflet, "Public-spirited woman—Deborah. Study book leaflets were read. No. 1, Early Missions of Canada by Edmund H. Oliver, D.D., and read by Miss Gladys Blodgett. No. 2, Congregational Missions, by Mrs. A. Halstead; No. 3, Methodist Missions, Mrs. A. Tucker; No. 4, Presbyterian Missions, the story of Western Canada, with a questionnaire on same and read by Mrs. John A Nichol.

Lunch committee appointed for February were Mrs. Albert Tucker, Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. Wilbert Smith and Mrs. George Mouncey.

Mrs. C. W. Varcoe favored the audience with a solo, "Just For Today," her sister, Miss Joy Morrison, plyaing the piano; a duet by Mrs. John Coyle and her sister, Miss Jessie Smith with Mrs. Turner, accompanist.

The Mizpah benediction in unison brought the pleasant meeting to a close, after which a dainty lunch was served by the community in charge.

On Monday the Young People's Union will meet with Group 5 in charge and on Wednesday the mid-week fellowship hour will be held, the theme being "The Man of Faith."

Services on the Seymour United Church circuit will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. G. MacTavish, and will be as follows: Zion at 11 a.m., Stephens at 3 p.m., and Tabernacle at 7 p.m.

The local fire brigade was kept busy last evening when four calls were turned in at the same time, a few minutes after six o'clock. They first dashed to Ernest Dunk's residence on Church Hill to extinguish a chimney fire. While there, they were called to the residence of T. L. Diamond on Front street to contend with the same trouble. Following these calls came others from Frank DeCarrol's residence on the west side of the river, and Earl Haig's on the east boundary of the town; all of which proved to be from the same cause. All four fires were successfully combated in quick time with no damage suffered.

Featuring the annual meeting and election of officers of the junior auxiliary of Christ Church, Campbellford, the following slate of officials were chosen for the year 1933: Superintendent, Mrs. T. H. Floyd; Dorcas secertary, Mrs. D. E. Tait; missionary instructress, Miss Helen Bygott; president, Lottie Poulton; vice-president, Elizabeth Free; secretary, Belinda Smith; treasurer, Vera Wood; pages, Elsie Sutton and Joyce Pryke; pianist, Marie Hollings.

The meeting, which was held in the Parish Hall, was largely attended; all reports being excellent. A balance is shown for the year and activities include a bale sent to the W.A. House, Toronto, at Christmas.

STUDY WISDOM OF DEVALUATION

among nations competing with Canada in the world markets

New Zealand's pound has been below sterling all along. Formerly it took 111 to 113 New Zealand pounds to buy 100 pounds sterling. Now it will take 125, which is the same as it takes in Australian currency.

The argument those Canadians opposed to inflation will advance is that if Canada brought her dollar down to a par with the present rate of sterling or somewhat under 70 cents in gold, Australia and New Zealand as well as other nations competing with Canada in the British market would meet this by further inflating their currencies to maintain the margin of advantage they now hold. A vicious circle would then be established that would be ruinous.

Favoring Point Of View.

Those favoring inflation, discussing the matter to-day, did not admit that the action of New Zealand in bringing its currency to a level with Australia was a black eye to Canada going in for inflation. Before Canada committed herself to tying up her dollar with the pound, her principal competitors within the Empire, namely, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, would have to reach an understanding that the pound sterling must be the par for all and means devised to protect markets against countries which did not keep their currencies up to the value of sterling.

It had been expected the premiers from the prairies would raise the inflation question at the interprovincial conference now in progress, but so far it has not been broached. It is explained by those supporting inflation that it would not entail Canada departing from "sound money." If it is sound money at 13 cents below the gold value, it could be sound money at 30 cents below.

Most Intricate Question.

The whole question is a most intricate one with the weighing of the advantages of inflation against the disadvantages. The farmers would get more Canadian dollars for their products and the debtors who pay their interest in New York funds would have to pay more Canadian dollars to fulfill these obligations.

Regardless of whether New Zealand's action is an argument against or for inflation it is regarded here as adding further pressure to the situation because it gives New Zealand an added advantage in competing for the butter market in Canada and the difference in currency values will about meet the five cents a pound tariff Canada imposes on New Zealand butter. It will also make it slightly more difficult to sell to New Zealand.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS' GROUP FOR NORTHUMBERLAND

Meeting at Campbellford Endorses Idea and Forms Organization.

GEO. H. BARR SPEAKS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 20 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The formation of the Northumberland County Cheese Factory Patrons' Association became an established fact yesterday when a meeting of all cheese factory officials and others interested went on resolution as favoring the project and adapted a constitution and by-laws. The meeting, which was held in the Campbellford Public Library, was largely attended and was addressed by George H. Barr, director of dairying in the Provincial Department of Agriculture, and presided over by Walter H. Smith, of Brighton, district agriculture representative.

The association will consist of every patron of each factory in the county which associates itself with the association. The constitution calls for a board of directors, which will consist of the president of each factory, this board electing its own president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. The membership fee will be one-half cent per thousand pounds of milk for the season based on the previous year's record, and to be paid before the first of August. The directors will meet at a later date to elect their officers and transact other business, and if possible arrange for meetings at the factories with the object of obtaining a full membership of all factories in the group.

In a very interesting address Mr. Barr stressed the need of such an organization among the cheese factory patrons of the county. When he took over his present job eight years ago he stated that he first tackled what he considered the weakest place of the dairying industry. This he considered was creamery butter, for he thought that there was more impure butter in Ontario than any other province.

Compulsory Grading.

His first move was to make compulsory grading of cream at the creameries necessary, which had proved very beneficial. He was proud, however, he declared, that Ontario turns out the finest cheddar cheese in the world. But despite this fact, the farmers were losing between twenty and thirty thousand dollars a year through second and third-grade cheese.

During the past eight years the speaker stated that creamery men, cheesemakers, powder men and others had organized and he could now get from them all information he required regarding any legislation that was necessary to improve their end of dairying. But if he wanted to know what was best for the cheese group, there was no group from which he could gain information.

The first country to organize had been Glengarry, about one year ago, and with the establishment of a cheese board at Alexander it was figured that patrons had obtained last year one-half cent more for their cheese. In the speaker's estimation the county organization was the best idea.

An example of what such an organization could do was to be seen in the accomplishments of the cheesemakers groups. These Mr. Barr stated had done more during the past four years to improve the quality of cheese than other organizations had done in the past fifteen years. They had met together and pooled their knowledge and so given the poorest makers the advantage of the success of the best makers of the district. Farmers never got together to talk about their problems he stated and are not doing it now, and that was the reason they are likely to get licked.

Approves Provincial Counsel

In finding a basis for the new dairy policy the department had taken the principles of the county of Glengary patron's organization and adapted their aims and objects. It approved of the three cheesemakers associations now in existence and approved the idea of the patrons forming similar groups. It suggested the idea of an Eastern and Western Dairy Council which would be comprised of presidents of county organizations and it thought that a Federated Dairy association comprised of all branches of the industry should be formed. "The department" he said "would co-operate and assist in the formation of all these groups."

It would also assist the patrons to increase their milk flow by enabling them to obtain well bred bull and bull calves. This was the bull policy advocated and which livestock men had heartily endorsed. It suggested that bonuses would be granted to the purchasers of the right type bull calves and the government would also assist in the matter of cow testing.

The Department would also endorse and assist all cheese plants to operate twelve months in the year, which if all plants were not equipped for this work, could be taken care of by several centrally located plants. This was to take care of all milk the whole year round.

Speaking regarding the Ontario Marketing Board, Mr. Barr stated that it was not in the export business but its job was to find proper markets for the produce of the province. It was true that it had shipped one car lot of cheese to Great Britain, but this was as an experiment, the cheese having been pushed higher than the market price and the profit from this venture being $900. Its object had been to find the best channels through which to ship cheese.

The patrons job he declared was to work at the question of putting the cheese on the market for sale. The farmers' responsibility did not end when he delivered his milk to the factory. He had to see that the milk was delivered clean and sweet and above all not to cut the wages of the makers, for he declared that it was often false economy in the long run to hire a cheap maker for the money was doubly lost in undergrade cheese.

H. B. Somerset, chairman of the Ontario Market Board who was scheduled to speak was unable to attend. Acting pro tem hTomas Rowe occuped the secretary's chair.

DEAN SCANLON IS LAID TO REST

His Excellency Bishop O'Connor Officiates at Pontifical Requiem Mass.

31 YEARS AT GRAFTON.

At 10.30 o'clock on Wednesday morning, in the presence of the majority of the priests of Peterborough diocese, a clerical delegation from the neighboring Archdioces of Kingston and Toronto and a congregation that taxed the capacity of the church, the Rt. Rev. Bishop sang the high mass of Requiem for the repose of the soul of Very Rev. Dean Scanlon in St. Mary's Church, Grafton, where the deceased had officiated as pastor for the past thirty-one years. On the previous evening the body had been brought to the church. After the recitation of the office of the dead by the priests present; members of the congregation kept watch until the hour of the funeral mass.

The officers of the mass were: High Priest, Rev. J. V. McAuley; Deacons of Honor, Very Rev. Dean O'Sullivan, Very Rev. Dean O'Leary; Deacon and Sub-Deacon of the Mass, Rev. C. J. Phelan and Rev. Dr. Masterson; Thurifer, Rev. P. Butler; Book Bearer, Rev. V. G. McFadden; Candle Bearer, Rev. J. Garvey; Mitre Bearer, Rev. C. J. Begley; Acoylytes, Rev. V. Corkery and Rev. J. C. McCarney; Masters of Ceremony, Rev. J. Finn and Rev. K. Corkery. A number of the diocesan priests sang the plain chant of the mass.

At the conclusion, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl who was the first priest ordained in the parish of Grafton, preached the funeral sermon. Taking as his text the words of St. Paul, "We are therefore ambassadors for Christ" he explained how the priesthood continues the mission of Christ, to teach the truth, to give and sustain the supernatural life, and to wash away sin. This, he said, the deceased priest had done in a quiet but efficient way for more than a third of a century, and was for that reason worthy of double honor. After the absolution the remains of the deceased pastor were interred in the parish cemetery, in the midst of his people whom he had served so well.

Dean Scanlon was born in the city of Halifax on Oct. 28th, 1857. He studied Philosophy at the Grand Seminary of Montreal and Theology at Laval University, Quebec. He was ordained priest in the Basilica of the latter city on May 26th, 1892. His first appointment was assistant to the late Monsignor Laurent in Lindsay, where he remained three years. He afterwards served for a time in Douro and Downeyville, and on the Cathedral staff. On August 8th, 1901, he was made parish priest of Grafton by the late Bishop O'Connor, succeeding the first pastor of that parish, Rev. Father Larkin.

The oldest priest in the diocese, Dean Scanlon has left behind him the memory of priestly virtues and an humble, kindly and affable personality, which will be treasured by his parishioners and clerical confreres for years to come.

THE ABILITY TO PAY.

"My idea of administration," Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, is reported as saying, "is to find out what the people can pay in taxes and then refrain from spending more than that amount."

That view is so eminently sensible that it is a pity that Mr. Macaulay cannot have it translated into action, not only by the Government of which he is a member, but by all other public spending bodies, municipal and otherwise.

Most municipalities work on the reverse of the principle set forth by the Highways Minister.

They draw up a budget containing all the items of expenditure they contemplate making during the year, and then tax the people accordingly, counting on the taxpayers to see them through.

In lean years they often make a bad guess, and the result is a percentage of the civic taxes are not paid.

If for a change the Macaulay idea were followed —incidentally Sault Ste. Marie was one municipality which did adopt such a plan last year—a municipal council would consider the amount of taxes actually collected last year, shave a little off that figure for a possible greater decrease in the current year, and then scale its expenditures in accordance with the amount arrived at, on the theory that the taxpayers could not possibly be expected to raise a larger sum.

NOT IN EARNEST.

If any evidence were needed to show that these hunger-marchers' demonstrations are organized simply for the purpose of fomenting as much trouble as possible, it is to be found in the fact that one of the first demands made by the delegation which waited on the Premier at Ottawa on Tuesday was that the Government should immediately resign.

No deputation really concerned with attaining its aims and seeking reforms in which it was genuinely interested would prejudice its case by asking those from whom it was demanding concessions to hand in their resignations.

It is surely evident that Tuesday's visitors to the capital did not expect to have their requests granted, and they asked for an interview merely for the opportunity it gave them of creating a little disturbance and making a few irresponsible statements.

There are individuals so constituted that they delight in any chance that may offer itself to flout those in authority, and who at the same time like to bask in the publicity that their trouble-making efforts sometimes afford them.

The latest corps of hunger-marchers practically framed their "demands" so that they could not be seriously entertained, and now they will proceed to tell anybody gullable enough to listen to them how badly they were treated at the Dominion's capital.

THIS IS A WARNING.

Municipal councils mght well be advised to take note of a recent judgment delivered by Mr. Justice Wright rejecting the claim of Renfrew County that the former county auditors should be held responsible for the defalcations of the former county treasurer.

The Council took action against the auditors, declaring that they should have detected the thefts.

Mr. Justice Wright, however, found that having regard to the experience and qualifications of these officials they must be regarded as having used reasonable care in their work.

The judgment added that as the auditors were not chartered accountants, it was not reasonable to expect the same degree of skill from them as from "a thoroughly qualified accountant."

That decision apparently puts the responsibility for engaging capable auditors squarely upon the shoulders of municipal councils.

If they are willing to take a chance upon appointing men who are not thoroughly trained in accounting they cannot expect to hold their auditors liable should a loss eventuate.

The precedent now established, as the Ottawa Journal expresses it, should make distinctly unpopular the old practice among county and township councils of appointing as auditors ex-councillors, retired business men, farmers with a taste for figures, estimable citizens who are as honest as the day is long, who do their best in a task for which they have not special training, but who unfortunately can be fooled by a clever crook.

MR. MACKENZIE'S SPEECH.

That was an interesting and significant speech that Hon. Ian Mackenzie, former Minister of Immigration in the King Cabinet, delivered in Vancouver the other night.

Mr. Mackenzie declared that parity between the Canadian dollar and the British pound must be established at once, argued for the cutting of savings banks' interest to one and one-half per cent., urged that all tax-free bonds be made to pay interest to the state, and that all outstanding internal Canadian loans be converted to 3 per cent.

Furthermore, the former Minister stated that the Liberal policy in regard to unemployment was to regard "this whole problem as a primary responsibility of the nation."

These suggestions are of interest in themselves, but much more so when compared with the views so often expressed by Mr. Mackenzie's leader, Mr. King.

The opinion of the member for Vancouver Centre in regard to currency inflation as voiced in this address is at variance with the position Mr. King has always taken on the same question.

Does the Vancouver speech mean that the Liberal leader has changed his views, or does it indicate that Mr. Mackenzie has gone independent?

Similarly it is surprising to find an ex-Liberal ex-Cabinet Minister stating that the unemployment problem is a primary responsibility of the nation.

Mr. King has repeatedly declared that unemployment is primarily a municipal responsibility.

The striking variance between the ex-Premier and his former Minister of Immigration will not escape the notice of political sages, and there will be considerable speculation as to what the next move will be.

CANADA'S GOLD.

In his ever interesting Ottawa column, as published yesterday, our Mr. Morden told of Canada's increased gold production and wrote this significant sentence:

"Inflation, seemingly a certainty some weeks ago, fades into the realm of doubtful probability in view of the new-found wealth."

Mr. Morden accompanied his observations with some striking figures. Canada's mines, during the 11 months ending in November, 1932, came, he said, to the rescue of a depression-harassed country. They had a production of 2,777,416 ounces of gold, as compared with 2,453,459 ounces for the same period of 1931. At 20.6178 per ounce this meant an increase of $6,717,446 in the value of the product in the time mentioned—an agreeable state of affairs at a time when gold is so much sought after and playing so large a part in the world's affairs.

* * * *

A day or two ago we quoted an editorial from the New York Times commenting favorably on a statement of the Hon. Charles McCrea with regard to the gold production of Canada. It is very evident that New York financial interests are keeping a close eye on this phase of the present situation, for the Times and other important American newspapers are devoting considerable space to it. In a lengthy news article published in the Times recently, many figures were given showing the production of various Canadian mines. Among other things it is noted that Ontario mines produced, in November alone, bullion to the value of $3,934,193, or $25,783 more than the $3,908,400 reported for October.

Production for the 11 months ended with November had a value of $42,637,616, an increase of $3,804,044 over the $38,833,574 for the same period of 1931, according to the Ontario Department of Mines. With the addition of the foreign exchange premium, averaging 13 per cent., the companies received approximately $48,160,000 for production in the 11 months.

* * * *

Advocates of a thousand and one new theories for lifting the world out of depression may scoff at gold, but there isn't the slightest chance that the world will drop the yellow metal as the basic standard of all value. Furthermore, the production of additional gold plus a vitally necessary redistribution of the article will mean the restoration of confidence, buying and, eventually, good times.

"Unfortunately," Mr. John A. Moffitt writes in Barron's publication, "gold is not the sole factor in establishing the level of commodity prices. There are a host of other monetary and non-monetary influences, each of which has an important bearing on the problem. Gold is merely the most basic, and, in the unusual conditions of to-day, the most potent factor of them all. It operates through cumbersome machinery, and much time is lost before it gets under way. But it is extremely powerful, and there is little doubt that it will succeed in stopping our apparently endless deflation. It will succeed where artificial methods have failed. In fact, its operations have probably been hindered by the monetary experiments of certain countries which have sought to escape the effects of the deflation."—Border Cities Star.

DANGEROUS PROCEDURE.

There are still a lot of people in this world who believe that secrecy is an aid to the proper administration of public affairs. In Orillia, it is announced, newspapermen and the general public will in future be barred from the business sessions of the Public Welfare Board. In spite of the fact that the board is spending public funds, it wishes everything to be kept under cover.

Under such conditions the wise legislator would not only welcome, but also insist upon, the presence of newspapermen, so that the public would be fully informed regarding the conduct of their business. In connection with the transactions of any board, when there is a natural tendency for suspicions and discontent to arise, the presene of a newspaperman as the representative of the reading public, is a source of strength to such board, and a guarantee that everything is done above-board, with nothing to hide.

The other day it was announced that the mayor of Richmond, Va., considered that the newspapers of his town had been criticizing him too severely, so he decided to "sever relations" with the press. As a result, obstacles were placed in the way of reporters who endeavored to get news about the operations of the Richmond city government.

It goes withoutout saying that the newspapers there are continuing to publish the news they go after. It is sometimes difficult to get the information, but there is no mayor of any city who can throttle an institution that has a duty to perform towards the reading public. The press is the only means through which the citizens can get reliable information regarding their public affairs. A public representative who keeps things away from the reporters is keeping these things away from the people who elected him—and the natural suspicion is aroused in the public mind that such representative is trying to conceal something that should not, in the public interest, be hidden.—Chatham Daily News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Your subscription to the Relief Fund is needed now. And remember, every dollar donated means three dollars in relief.

Toronto "hunger marchers" rolled up to the City Hall in motor cars. In other words, they were neither hungry nor marchers.

If solving our economic problems were only as simple as getting a body of people together to pass resolutions calling upon the Government to endorse this, that and the other fantastic proposal.

Senator "Kingfish" Long certainly lives up to his name, inasmuch as the length of his speeches is concerned.

"Everybody's doing it," seems to have been the favorite song of the people in Sturgeon Falls since the distribution of relief began.

LAZY MAN'S LOAD

A man with a load of wood used to drive up in front of our house and dump it on the sidewalk.

Sometimes they were pine blocks. Sometimes they were 14-inch sticks of oak. We did not welcome that man. Because when he dumped the wood on our front sidewalk, it was our job to pack it around the house and stow it in the barn.

We earned a nickel doing that, but we felt abused. It was hard work carrying all that wood around the house, even in a wheelbarrow. We tried to delay it, to get out of it, and finally to do it as easily as possible.

Our way was to make each load a big one, to decrease the number of trips. So we piled the wood high, far above the side-pieces. When we ran over a rock, some of the wood fell off and we'd be forced to stop and pick it up.

Sometimes, too, it wasn't balanced properly and the entire load tipped over onto the ground. And we'd be so angry that we wanted to cry.

We didn't get any sympath, either. Our father would look at us and smile quietly and say something about "a lazy man's load." He reminded us how many times he'd told us that you never gain very much by packing "a lazy man's load." He'd wonder when we were going to learn the foolishness of that.

We didn't answer him. We sulked and plied the wood higher than ever. Kept on packing "lazy man's loads."

He died before we answered that question, and were he alive now I'd tell him that we never did learn any better. We are still packing "lazy man's loads." Still carrying so much wood in our arms that a couple of sticks fall off before we get them into the house and we must bend over awkwardly to pick them up or must take a second trip to recover what we've lost.

Still carrying too much Pride, too much Vanity, too much Selfishness, too much Fear, as well.

Father, we never did grow up. We've always been overestimating our powers. Our eyes, as you observed also, are still bigger than our stomachs, our dreams still greater than your dreams. We're still going back to pick up what we, in our foolishness, have dropped.

Experience hasn't taught us very much. We're still much as we were when you knew us so well.

And you didn't really expect us to change, did you?

Presentation Made To Bonarlaw Pair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Jan. 20. — On Wednesday evening of last week a large number of friends and neighbors gathered in the Orange Hall, Springbrook and presented Mr. and Mrs. Simon Matthews of Bonarlaw with a purse of money and other gifts.

Early in the evening the gathering was called to order, and the address was read by Mr. J. F. Baker —the presentation being made by Mr. Isaac McInroy.

A bountiful lunch was provided by the ladies in the basement of the hall and a real social time was enjoyed by all. Guests were present from a distance to show their respect and esteem for the bride and groom, and the hearty manner in which all sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," and gave three rousing cheers and a tiger, attested to their great popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will reside on the homestead near Bonarlaw.

Who's Who in Ottawa

By CHARLES ROSS, Jr.

HON. E. B. RYCKMAN

When Sir John A. Macdonald held forth with his usual eloquence at an open air meeting in a grove just outside London Ontario, way back in 1884, in outlining his party's accomplishments in bringing about Confederation, establishing the national policy and maintaining British connections, it was for him no doubt just another political meeting. But his words bore unexpected fruit when they fired with enthusiasm for the Conservative cause a young student, who up to that night had had no political convictions whatever. This young man championed Sir John in debate at Victoria college, then at Cobourg, and was chosen to give Sir John an address of welcome. Three years later Sir John met the young man on the street and called him by name. The process of conversion was complete. The very next election young E. B. Ryckman stood as Conservative candidate for Glengarry. Victory went to the young man whom the great Sir John had enthused—in the face of a Liberal campaign conducted by the veteran Sir William Mulock. In over forty years in politics Mr. Ryckman has refused as many nominations as he has accepted. He was one of Senator Arthur Meighen's key men, and after taking the ministry of '26, he cheerfully resumed his role as front bencher in the Opposition. A veteran, he could afford to wait. As minister of national revenue in the Bennett administration he is faced with problems which challenge the best brains and courage in Canada. As one of Canada's acknowledged leaders in scholarship, commercial enterprise, at the bar and on the stump, Mr. Ryckman is as qualified as any for the post. As my friend Grattan O'Leary once said, "Here is a man who has walked with kings yet kept the common touch." That is a fine tribute.

MEN'S CLUB

MARMORA, Jan. 20 (Examiner Correspondence)—Despite the epidemic of colds prevalent in this district, a good attendance of the members of St. Paul's Men's Club was seen at the regular meeting held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening. W. R. Reynolds, presided for the business session while S. B. Cheeseman took charge of the program.

This was opened with a banjo solo and song by Glen Sayers. L. R. Rundle then cleverly recited Rudyard Kipling's "Gunga Din." M. J. Corigan sang "My Wild Irish Rose" after which a story telling period ensued. A splendid reading "Do unto others" was given by W. L. Rigg. Don Robertson's enjoyable shanty song "Three leaves of Shamrock" made a good prelude to some community singing. First class refreshments and a social hour wound up a jolly evening. The meeting on February 1st will take the form of a minstrel show.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 21

"The reporters are pestering me to death," O'Hara growled complaingly. "What shall I tell them?"

"Tell them Chivington was murdered," Kane snapped. "Tell them anything you wish, only, for God's sake, get back to those doctors and tell them that that girl's life must be saved."

"O. K.," the detective assented and hung up.

Kane, instead of returning to the drawing room where he had been sitting in thought when O'Hara called, went into Bailey's den. He gazed about and wondered if he might not find something that he had missed, something which might give some hint, some clue, to the identity of the murderer.

He had had a premonition that an attempt was to be made on Chivington's life; it was because of that that he had determined to remain in this house that night. But he had not dreamed that the fiendish killer would adopt such cunning tactics.

Experience had taught him that murderers who exact their toll with a gun seldom use other tactics. Strangulation, perhaps, but not other methods.

Almost unconsciously, he dropped down into the director's favorite chair. Automatically, his eyes roved about the room, but there was nothing that he had not gone over thoroughly, nothing to lend him further aid.

His hand sought his pocket in search of a cigaret and touched the diary. An oath escaped his lips. If he had not stopped to read that diary he might have returned here in time to save the old man's life. But, on the other hand, had he not read it so thoroughly he might not have known the importance of Chivington to the solution of the affair.

"Chivington knows everything."

That meant that Chivington was in Bailey's confidence; it meant that Chivington knew the murderer. It provided the motive for the servant's murder.

But that girl! Who was she? What was her role in the tragedy? Was she an innocent participant in the vicious attack on Chivington, a "cover up" to divert suspicion from the guilty one? Or was she the "Buddy" to whom Bailey had referred often in his diary?

Kane was convinced now that his near-accident had been carefully planned. The murderer of Richard Bailey had purposely laid in wait for him and he had played into his hands by refusing to allow O'Hara to summon a cab for him. Only mere fortune had saved him.

While he thus ruminated he heard a car drive up and stop in front of the house. It wasn't, however, until Chief John Lee walked in on him that he roused himself from his cogitations.

Lee stood in the door glowering at him. His face was flushed, his eyes were alight with a gleam of anger. He said gruffly, "Hello, Kane."

Jere Kane scrambled to his feet and returned the greeting.

"Another murder, eh?" the chief snorted.

The other nodded.

"Kane, you have bungled this case from start to finish," hotly. "We had the murderer in our hands and you let him go——"

"Is that so?" dryly.

"You know it is," Lee answered. "I'm convinced it was one of the three persons who came in last night when they heard of the murder—or at least, that was their story."

"You mean Weldon and those two women?"

"Yes."

"You're wrong, chief," slowly. "Not one of them is guilty——"

"Oh, bosh! They're just as guilty as hell, and you know it——"

"Look here!" Kane cried, and for the moment he shed his shroud of suavity, "You yourself asked me to handle this case——"

"On MacQuarrie's recommendation,' with a sneer.

"—— Never mind on whose recommendation it was. You are the chief of police of Los Angeles. You asked me to take charge of this case. I didn't ask you to let me do it. I've been on the hop around the world for the past year and I was anxious to get back to New Orleans."

"I'm taking charge from here on out," Lee growled.

"That suits me just fine," Kane returned. "I've had enough of this affair. It's nearly cost me my life, and I'm young enough to want to live a while longer, yet. Life is too good to throw away and——"

"What are you talking about?"

"Never mind about that. It's my own affair. I went into this with my eyes open and I'm not whimpering like a whipped dog. But I know when I've had enough."

But John Lee was persistent. He demanded to know what Kane meant by his statement that he investigation had nearly cost his life. At first Kane was adamant, but under the heated questioning of the police official he finally told of his "accident."

The chief smiled in an amused sort of way as he heard the story and when Kane finished:

"You're a lover of the dramatic. You should have been an actor."

Silently Kane admitted that. He was a lover of the dramatic. Time and again he had demonstrated it. He knew that it got results.

"Why, even the way in which you told Nanette LeRoi last night of Bailey's murder was enough to turn the stomach of any thinking man," Lee went on. "Imagine going into a fashionable dining place and interrupting a dance to have the orchestra leader announce that someone everybody knew had been murdered!"

Kane grinned. "You're bound to admit that it created a sensation," he tantalized.

The chief blustered disgustedly in an effort to find words that would adequately express his feelings. But in that he was not successful. So:

"Who was the girl with Chivington tonight?"

"That's your problem," sardonically 'You know just as much about it as I do."

Kane secretly was enjoying the situation. He liked to bait the police; that was a hangover from his old reportorial days. It was because he wanted to show them up as much as because of his love for criminology that he had devoted his days of leisure to a study of crime and criminals.

This situation was not unexpected. Jere Kane knew from the start that a break between him and the police was inevitable. He had sensed it as he first looked down on the dead form of Richard Bailey in this very room; he had sensed it from the moment that he had clashed with the wizzened little coroner before the body had been taken away.

Lee asserted heatedly, "What's the use going on with this farce. I know, and you know it, too, that Richard Bailey was shot down by some intruder he surprised in this house. Why try to——"

"Then," quietly, "you don't tie up the assault on Nanette LeRoi with this case?"

"Of course not. It's merely a coincidence. That's all."

"And how about Chivington's death?"

"An accident——"

"Look here, chief," Kane broke in, "do you mean to stand there and try to tell me that you actually believe that old Chivington's death was accidental?"

"Wasn't it?" the other countered.

"You know darn well that it wasn't. In the first place, do you think he would have locked himself in and—"

"It's entirely possible."

"Not with the lock that was on those doors it wasn't possible. Chivington was murdered and——"

"You wait until you read the papers," Lee snapped. "You'll see whether it was murder or an accident."

That was too much for Jere Kane. He looked the other man straight in the eye and his lip curled contemptuously. Lee glared at him.

"Chief," Kane said ominously, "if I find that you have given out a report that Chivington's death was accidental I am going to make it my life work to show you up. I'll make you the laughing stock of the whole country."

With that he turned away abruptly and stalked out of the house.

One-Minute Pulpit

When I would comfort myself against sorrow, my heart is faint in me.—Jeremiah 8:18.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A BOGUS GOVERNOR GENERAL

On this date, in 1856, the good people of Guelph were made the victims of an audacious hoax, unrivalled in our political history. The occasion was the formal opening of the Grand Trunk Railway from Toronto; an official party of parliamentarians and others travelled down in the special train, which was well equipped with refreshments. On arrival at Guelph the welcoming crowd cheered; the visitors bowed, and made their way to a hotel, soon appearng on the balcony. There, Mr. Ramkin, member for Essex, took the arm of James Shaw, the member for Lanark, pressed him to the front, and introduced him as Sir Edmund Head, the governor geenral.

Shaw protested not; indeed, he accepted the role assigned and, with an accent designed to be as English as possible, told the cheering crowd how proud he was to be there, surrounded by his legislators, and assured them that the legislators would go back to their duties impressed by the beauties of Guelph and determined to do all possible for its prosperity. Mr. Turcotte, one of the representatives of Lower Canada, followed in a speech in which he preached national unity and denied that his people were "an inferior race" (a sentiment which had wrongly been ascribed to a governor); but he was not permitted to continue; M. H. Foley, M.L.A., for Waterloo, rushed forward in a great state of excitement and tried to tell the Guelphites that they were being imposed upon; but he was dragged back and not permitted to finish his address. The historian of the event does not tell what was done to him but he could hardly have been present at the subsequent banquet or he would have renewed his protest at the hoax. It was carried through to a completion; the Guelphites cheered the departing "viceroy" and his legislators and did not know they had been hoaxed until the Toronto leader arived the next day with a complerte story of the "joke."

There is no record of what Sir Edmund Head said, or did, about "the conduct of these legislative clowns," who, as Acton Burrows had pointed out, were "under the influence of champagne which flowed abundantly that day"; "but it was in miserable taste that the men who had been selected to represent the people in the legislature should be so politically immoral as to impose a broad lie on the people, or a portion of the people, and laugh at the vulgar and criminal deception played on the credulty of an audience, which had no means of detecting the imposture."

Mr. Shaw had an interesting time upon his return home from the capital to Smith's Falls. He was met by a big crowd of his constituents and a band and presented with an address to "His Excellency James Shaw, M.P.P., Governor General of Canada, etc., etc.", in which his conduct was pilloried and he was compared to Don Quixote. It was a sorry day for "His Excellency," who never heard the last of his joke.

14 FARMERS FACE TRIAL

ARBORG, Man., Jan. 20.—(CP)—Fourteen farmers, alleged to have been participants in the tax sales riots here two months ago, have elected to be tried by judge and jury. The men are charged with rioting and being members of an unlawful assembly.

ANOTHER MANSE BURNS

LONDON—Fire continues its ravishes upon fine old English homes. Last week-end and several days this week have witnessed the burning of five well known homes and today Rothwell Manor in Northamptonshire was suriously damaged by flames.

CONFEDERATION LIFE IS STRONG

Financial Position Reveals Every Obligation Met Fully When Due.

ASSETS $92,232,305

Maintaining its strong and unimpaired financial position, and meeting every obligation fully and promptly when due, the 61st annual report of the Confederation Life Association announces payments to policy holders and beneficiaries amounting to $12,517,960 in the year 1932, an increase of $2,532,080 over the amount so paid in 1931, and $3,867,052 more than in 1930. The dividends to policy holders in 1932 amounted to $2,151,042.

Since its establishment in 1871, the Confederation Life Association has paid to policy holders and beneficiaries well over one hundred millions of dollars—$107,098,474—of which sum policy holders have received $69,712,352 and the beneficiaries of policy holders $37,382,122.

The new assurances issued durng the year amounted to $43,464,515, and the total insurance in force as at 31st December was $374,071,320.

The company's total net income for the years was $21,089,314, an increase of $1,024,924, and the excess of receipts over expenditures was $5,302,645.

After a revaluation of all its invested assets at less than the values authorized by the Insurance Department of Canada, the Confederation Life, at 31st December, 1932, held total assets of $92,232,305, an increase of $3,742,056 for the year.

The surplus earned during the year was $3,456,786, and the total surplus at the close of the year was $8,171,805.

C. S. Macdonald, president, acting as chairman of the meeting, expressed the satisfatcion of the directors with the results obtained during an unusually difficult year.

"It is, perhaps, not necessary," said Mr. Macdonald, "to enlarge upon the serious world-wide conditions which have existed during the last three and a half years, and which seemed to reach their greatest intensity during the year that has just closed. It seems reasonable to expect that, within the next few months, steps will be taken to call a conference to deal with the war debts situation. Something must be done, and must be done soon, to wipe out these debts entirely, or, what seems more probable, to agree on a scaling down of debts, coupled with a lowering of tariff barriers, thus allowing a freer interchange of goods between countries, which will surely result in gradual improvement in economic conditions throughout the world.

"The citizens of every country have had to face the constantly-increasing burden of taxation, at a time when the decreasing prices of commodities and services has made it difficult, if not impossible, to make both ends meet. Unemployment, with the consequent necessity for the providing of relief, has added additional burdens to the already heavy load." In view of such conditions, it was not surprising, added Mr. Macdonald, that there was a shrinkage in the total amount of life insurance in force in Canada, as compared with the total in force at the close of the previous year. Nevertheless, Canada ranks third among all the countries of the world, in the total amount of life insurance in force, and second on a per capita basis, the United States ranking first in volume, with $107,948,278,000; the United Kingdom next, with $12,624,879,000, and Canada third, with $7,382,706,000, at the end of 1930, the last year for which world-wide life insurance statistics are available.

R. S. Waldie, vice-president, paid tribute to the men who so well and truly laid the foundation of the Confederation Life Association in past years that the company had no special troubles in these strenuous times. The directors and officers would continue the conservative policy which has characterized the administration of the affairs of the company for sixty-one years and which, in 1932 resulted in the company maintaining its surplus at practically the same figure and maintaining as well, a contingent fund of $1,000,000.

V. R. Smith, general manager and actuary, pointed out that the Confederation Life is the first of the Canadian companies to hold its annual meeting each year, and that the presentation of the financial statements of the life insurance companies is always awaited with interest by the public because of the stabilizing influence which the business exerts upon the national economics and because of the manner in which the companies have met the tests of the present day, and have demonstrated their strength and integrity. The interest of the public in life insurance steadily grows and with this increased interest there has come steadily increased confidence in the companies transacting this class of business.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20 C.P.). — Losses were in the majority as the Montreal Stock Exchange ended a fairly active session to-day. Prices were irregular all day in face of steadiness in New York and Toronto. Interlisted stocks were active but were confined to a narrow price range.

Brazilian eased to 9 1-8, off 1-8. International Nickel was down ¼. Canadian Pacific at 15 and Consolidated Smelters at 58, closed unchanged.

With two exceptions, the utilities were lower. Power Corporation conceded a full point at 7, while Montreal Power closed at 30½ for a net loss of ⅝. Shawinigan declined ¼ to 11¾. Canadian Hydro-Electric Preferred lost a point at 37.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (C.P.)—A buoyant tone ruled in the Standard mining market to-day with the improved feeling embracing golds, silvers and base metals. Noranda was the only stock of the copper group to show special strength and it may have been moving on its standing as a gold producer. Mining Corporation of the gold-silver group advanced 12 to 1.71, and Eldorado of the Bear Lake section picked up 6 points to 1.53.

Dome was the feature of the high-priced gold shares. It advanced to 14.75 on news of the dividend with extras. Lake Shore held its ground and McIntyre was steady at 23.25. Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves were each a few points up.

Noranda advanced steadily at $21 for a gain of 50 in active buying. Falconbridge was also strong at 1.90 and Nickel improved a little to 9.15.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.— (C.P.) — While volume, outside of the oil shares and C.P.R. was light on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, the active issues maintained a firm price level with gains scattered through the list. The interlisted section was helped by the Wall Street rally, Brazilian, Nickel and C.P.R. finishing with fractional gains. Ford "A" closed unchanged and Smelters off slightly.

Trading was heavy in both British American Oil and Imperial, but they were unable to make any headyway on the upside. A lot of Imperial traded at 9 but it weakened to 8 7-8 before the close.

Bell Telephone starred for the Utilities with an advance of 1¾ to 97 on news of a possible new stock allotment. Montreal traded moderately weak. In the beverage group Distillers, Brewing Corporation and Canada Bud registered small gains while the Walker stocks closed unchanged.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP) — Stocks lost much of early gains ranging up to a couple of points to-day, but held steady in the late trading at approximately the level of yesterday's close. The market was stagnant on the afternoon sell-off, whereas it had been fairly active during the morning advance. New York Central, Corn Products, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Du Pont, U.S. Steel and Union Pacific retained fractions of their advances. Allied chemical, American Tobacco "B" and U.S. Steel Preferred halved two point gains. Consolidated Gas, General Foods and International Harvester turned a little heavy. Sales approximated 700,000 shares.

TORONTO CHEESE.

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (C.P.).—The Toronto wholesale cheese market was steady to-day, with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and government grades at 10c steady.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following prices: New, large 11¼c, twins 11½c, triplets 11¾c; old, large 17¾c, twins 18c; medium, large 15¼c, twins 15½c, triplets 15¾c.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (C.P.)—Trading on the Toronto Livestock Market was moderate during the week with a few loads of cattle left unsold at the close. After brisk trading on Monday and Tuesday, with prices 10c to 15c higher than last week's close the market weakened on Wednesday, however, with coolers becoming overloaded. Prices dropped fully 25c per cwt on all grades of cattle. Veal calves were firm on all grades, although the feeling was easier at the close. Hogs were firm but also showed an easier feeling at the close. Lambs were steady with sheep stronger.

Exporters took several hundred cattle during the week paying $3.50 to $4.25 for weighty steers and $4.50 for one load. Good cows and bulls also sold for export at $2.75 to $3.00. Closing prices on weighty steers were $3 to $4 with a few at $4.25. Choice butcher cattle closed at $3.85 to $4, with common downward to $3. Butcher cows closed at $2.50 to $2.75 for tops with best bulls at $3.50 to $3.65. Fed calves were draggy towards the close, selling at $4.25 to $6 according to quality. Milkers and Springers were unchanged at $40 to $45 for tops. Exports to Great Britain totalled about 25 loads, with some held for later shipment.

Bull prices are expected to drop next week as no more will be wanted for export for a couple of weeks.

Choice veal calves sold at $6 to $6.50 with a few tops at $7. Common calves sold downward to $3.50 and the bulk of the supply sold between $4.50 to $5.50 per cwt.

Hogs opened at $3.35 f.o.b. for bacons, at $3.60 off truck and at $3.85 off cars. Wednesday's market was generally 10c lower. There were no rail hogs offered on Thursday, but bids on truck hogs were down to $3.35 for bacons.

The sheep and lamb receipts included 1,200 good lambs from Western Canada. Prices opened at $6 to $6.25 for good ewes and wethers but closed with most good lambs at $6. Two decks of Western lambs of outstanding quality sold at $6.35 per cwt; heavy and medium quality lambs ranged from $4.50 to $5.50 with culls mostly $4 per cwt. Sheep prices were stronger at $2.50 to $3 per cwt for good light ewes, with culls at $1 to $1.50.

No Dramatics

OSSINING, N.Y., Jan. 20 (AP) —The etiquette of death meant no more to Alexander Nunes than the law protecting life.

As guards came last night to lead him to the electric chair for killing his 14-year-old stepdaughter, they told him it was the custom to say good-bye to the men in the other death cells.

"Never mind the dramatics," he said, scowling bitterly. "I've no friends here and I want none. Let's get this walk over with."

He entered the execution chamber at 11.07 p.m., and was pronounced dead four minutes later.

YOUNG COUPLE NEARLY BURNED IN THEIR HOME

blazing home being driven in all directions before a strong, gusty wind.

Smelt Smoke.

"I don't know how the fire started," Mrs. Lynch said when interviewed this morning. "My husband and I had gone to bed at about one o'clock, and it seemed that we had only just got to sleep when we were awakened by a strong smell of smoke and intense heat."

Mrs. Lynch continued to describe how her husband had leaped from bed, and after going into an adjoining room on the ground floor, she heard him yell "fire." Going from the bedroom into the living-room, Mrs. Lynch said, she was driven back by a great sheet of flame which seemed to be sweeping from the front of the house through to the rear.

She could see her husband vainly struggling to remove the stove in an effort to save the house from destruction. In doing so he fell on some broken glass and was badly burned. Immediately after he joined his wife, in a dash from the doomed house. "I can't say how we managed to get out of the house," Mrs. Lynch remarked. In their bare feet and just clad in their night clothes, the young couple ran across the gravelled roadway to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keatings pulling on their dressing gowns as they ran.

It is learned that the couple, who have only been married a short time, tenanted the rear downstairs portion of the house, which they had rented ready furnished from Mrs. Lynch's grandfather, J. Birgensau, who lives at Port Dalhousie. The remainder of the house was closed up.

Mrs. Lynch did not know if the furniture was insured. "I lost everything, including my linen, clothing and dishes," she stated.

Checked Fire.

Up to a short time before retiring to bed, Mrs. Lynch said, she and her husband had entertained some friends. After the company had gone, the fire was checked off for the night as usual. It was not a very large stove. Wood was the fuel that was being burned.

Other residences in the immediate vicinity of the blazing house, which were saved only by the work of the City Fire Department, were those tenanted by Mrs. M. J. Copson, James C. Guerin and Mrs. M. Barrette. They were in continual danger of catching fire from the huge shower of sparks that was blown about on the wind. The department was out on the call from 1.43 a.m. until 6.37 a.m.

Dr. Scott this afternoon stated that Mr. Lynch's injuries were regarded as serious. They consisted, he said, of burns across the shoulders, under the left armpit and on the sole of the right foot, and also both hands.

the newspapers not to publish the facts, and all he could do was rule them from the record and ask witness not to mention the matter again.

The court then adjourned for luncheon, and Judge Stubbs, apparently unaffected by the attack on him, descended from the box to his waiting, pale-faced wife, who expressed horror at the names her husband had been called.

"Oh, that's nothing," the Judge said lightly. "Keep cool," he smiled to his wife and they walked from the court room together.

FIVE MEN FLEE DETENTION PEN

Cut Way Through Doors, Window, Steel Bars With Hack-saw, Pliers.

AWAITING DEPORTATION.

BOSTON, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—United States immigration officers and State police to-day sought five men who escaped from the dentention pen at the immigration station in East Boston. They cut their way through doors, windows and steel bars last night with a hacksaw, screwdriver, glass cutter and a pair of wire cutting pliers.

The escaped men, all of whom were awaiting deportation, were:

"Dr." Joseph Jackson, who came here from Montreal with Miss Olga Vaisanen, was arrested with her for violation of the Moral Code and was being held for deportation to Canada;

Nicholas Ferum, 30, awaiting deportation to Poland.

Morton M. Baker, 25, detained for entering the country illegally from Canada.

Donald B. Willis, 24, an Englishman who immigration authorities hoped to send back to England for illegal entry into this country.

Antonio Gaugioso, 35, detained by the Immigration Department.

THREE MISSING COAST BLIZZARD

Storm Sweeping From Alaska Fills Roads, Isolates Town.

PLANE UNREPORTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20 (A.P.) —Three persons were reported missing, highways were blocked and a Nevada town was snowbound as a new storm was reported sweeping down from Alaska to-day.

Searchers set out to look for Jack Blackmer, 20-year-old Dorrington, Calif., trapper, believed to have caught in the Mother Lode country of the Northern Sierra by heavy snows.

Harry Clark and E. M. Moore, last seen flying over Las Vegas, Nev., in an open-cockpit airplane, were feared lost in a blizzard between that city and Ely, Nav., reports here siad. Ely was reported completely snowbound with all highways blocked by deep drifts.

HOOVER, ROOSEVELT SET DATE OF PARLEY

"It was settled that these arrangements will be taken up by the Secretary of State with the British Government."

England Mentioned Alone

In diplomatic quarters, note was taken immediately that the statement referred to Great Britain alone. At the very time it was issued, criticism of the French default on payment of its December 15 debt instalment to the United States were being sounded.

Senator Robinson, Indiana Republican, had set it off with a scathing speech, in which he termed France "thorough ingrate." He was joined by Senators prominent in both parties.

Great Britain met its December 15 installment, thereby causing a favorable reaction here. Prior to doing so, however, the British emphasized in strong language that the payment was considered there the last to be made under existing arrangements.

Hailed in London

LONDON, Jan. 20. (A.P.)—The agreement between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt to discuss the war debts with Great Britain in March without delay was characterized in political quarters here this evening as the best news in weeks.

British opinion, official and unofficial, is largely agreed that solution of the war debts problem would provide the key to solution of the larger economic problems, but the government itself will await official notification of the decision at Washigton before commenting.

The cabinet already is assembled in London preparing for the opening of parliament on Feb. 7. And at its meetings scheduled for next Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, discussion of the debts undoubtedly will dominate other matters.

Obituary

WILLIAM DARLING

The death occurred this afternoon of William Darling, retired farmer, at his residence Wolsey street, following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Darling was well-known and highly respected by a large number of friends. For many years before his retirement he had farmed at Lakefield. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Clifford (sister of Walter Clifford, Otonabee). Funeral announcement later.

Couple In Lighthouse Marooned For Winter

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 20.—(C.P.)—Isolated by shifting ice that makes passage to the mainland by foot or boat hazardous, Robert Graves and his wife are marooned in his lonely lighthouse home on Gallop Island, 18 miles off Sackett's Harbor.

An open winter means little to Graves, for the 36 mile trip to the mainland and back in a day is one of the things that can's be accomplished at this time of year, and the light must be kept burning at any cost.

Yesterday the radio carried to Graves the information that a visitor at his lonely home had reached the shore in safety. Two weeks ago he was cheered by the news that one of his children in care of his sister-in-law of Fairhaven had recovered.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, January 20 (C.P.).—Grain prices went upward early today, influenced by continued drought in domestic winter wheat territory south-west and by prospective thawing and freezing in the Ohio Valley. There were also reports locusts had destroyed half the corp crop of Cordoba Province, Argentina. Opening 1¼ to 1⅝ higher, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ¼ to ½ up and subsequently altered little.

18 YEARS SINCE KIWANIS CLUBS FIRST FORMED

Eighteenth Anniversary of Kiwanis Celebrated by Local Club.

ELECT NEW DIRECTOR.

Rev. E. A. McCutcheon, Belleville, President, is Guest Speaker.

"Kiwanis means just whatever you make it mean", the definition which the Rev. E. A. McCutcheon president of Belleville Kiwanis Club gave of what he described as one of the most significant and outstanding movements of the present generation. He was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the local Kiwanis Club at Empress Hotel, and his eloquent address was his contribution to the 18th anniversary program.

The speaker was introduced by President J. B. Nelson, and at the close of his talk was accorded a vote of thanks on motion of J. A. O'Brien.

The meeting was well attended, there being an 83 per cent attendance recorded. The special anniversary program was further augmented by the appearance of Gerald Perks, boy soloist, who sang "Sylvia", and an encore "Rosebud" very acceptably. He was accompanied at the piano by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

W. A. Richardson was elected to the directorate of the club, to fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of one of the directors.

Anniversary Day gave an opportunity to look back and review the grand achievements of the past, said the speaker. It also gave the opportunity to bespeak again the virtues and ideals and the opportunities of the club to which one might belong. The Kiwanis movement was not a small and superficial organization, it was a deeply serious movement that was beginning to make an impression on the national life of Canada and the United States, the speaker said.

He recalled that eighteen years ago, to the date the Kiwanis movement was founded at Detroit. At that time it was purely a commercial movement, for the purpose of stimulating business relationships. It was barely born however, before it began to manifest its greatness and to assume as its motto "We Build". From a small beginning it had now grown to embody 1873 groups on the continent of America.

It had made tremendous strides forward during the past eighteen years, he said, and had made one of the greatest contributions for good to the present generation. It was a history that was replete with achievement.

Touching upon the trend of world events at the present day, the speaker said it could not be denied that the world was going through an almost unprecedented period of stress and difficulty. "Conditions are desperate and the end is not yet" he said. The world was irritated and restless and the speaker was of the personal opinion that war in the near East was inevitable. And yet in the light of past history, he was hopeful and optimistic. History had shown in the past that all great periods of stress were followed by a renewed spirit of hopefulness and activity. This was a period, he believed, when the world was passing through a great major transition, out of which would come a new religious and social order.

He stressed the point that the spirit and ideals of Kiwanis were more than ever needed at the present time, pointing out that if "we can only hold on and play the man a better time will come." One of the greatest needs of the day, he thought, was that of simple friendship, and he appealed to Kiwanians to live up to the slogan that had been handed down to them as the slogan of the present year, namely: "more friendship".

The Kiwanis movement, he said, was a spiritual force which had played, and which was yet to play a large part in the building of character and citienship.

During the course of the meeting President Nelson expressed the sympathy of the Kiwanis Club, to Chris Graham, manager of the Empress Hotel in the bereavement of his sister, and instructed the secretary to send a message of condolence to the family.

Acetylene Lighting Inventor Passes

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (A.P.) — Augustine Davis, who invented and manufactured acetylene lighting and welding apparatus, is dead. He succumbed yesterday at his home in his 82nd year.

At Chicago in 1896 he invented the acetylene lighting generator which was widely used for illumination. A native of Elkader, Ia., in his late years, he became publisher of the National Journalist in Chicago and still later, in Lewiston, N.Y., organized and published The Lewiston searchlight and The Depew Herald. He took a leading part in the construction of the Niagara Power Canal.

DELEGATES ARE APPOINTED AS PRESBYTERIAL CLOSES

Final Reports Are Read By Secretary at Annual Convention.

IN ST. ANDREW'S IN 1933.

Upon motion of Mrs. Wall and Mrs. Stevens of Knox Church, Mrs. S. H. Moyer was re-elected to her office as nominating committee for the coming year, at the Wednesday morning session of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the United Church.

Following the election of officers, delegates to the Bay of Quinte branch meeting in Cobourg were appointed, Mrs. T. Jackson of Bethany and Mrs. E. Sargent of Westwood being the choice of the convention, with Mrs. R. Bamforth, Peterborough as alternate.

Mrs. B. L. Barns was also chosen as delegate from Peterborough Presbyterial to the School of Missions in Whitby, to be held in the early summer.

During the noon hour several committee meetings were held. The meeting of the new executive and the Business and and Courtesy Committees to finish the convention business.

A sub-executive was also appointed and included the president, Mrs. A. I. Brown; the two secretaries, Mrs. B. L. Barns and Mrs. J. Bradbury; the treasurer, Mrs. A. Porteous, and Mrs. William Watt, fourth vice president.

The report of the Business committee was given by the convenor, Miss Fanny Dixon. The question re life-membership, was left with the secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance. On behalf of St. Andrew's W.M.S., Miss Dixon extended an invitation for the 1934 Presbyterial to meet in that church, which was accepted.

The devotional service opening the last session of this successful convention, was in charge of the Bensfort W.M.S., and was led by Mrs. E. Wood, assisted by Mesdames S. Robinson and G. Whittington.

The remaining reports of the Presbyterial were continued, as follows:

The report of Mrs. W. H. Morton, secretary of Mission Circles and Evening Auxiliaries was one of much interest to the younger women and girls, and in Mrs. Morton's absence was read by Mrs. B. L. Barns. The report follows: We have closed the year 1933 and our hearts are filled with love and thankfulness for the privilege afforded us in knowing a kind and loving Saviour. But we have a burning desire that our sisters in other lands as well as those within our gates may also know this God whom we worship.

We have in our Presbyterial Y.W.A.'s in Trinity, George Street, St. Andrew's, Knox, Norwood and Hastings, with a membership of 166, averaging 112, and Circles in St. James', St. Andrew's, George Street; St. Andrew's and Westwood, with a membership of 90, averaging in attendance 69. Sixty-nine Missionary Monthlies are taken by the societies. A total of $1,374.38 was given by Y.W.A.'s, and Circles $375.84. This being a decrease in Y.W.A. but increase in Circles.

In September we held a rally in Trinity Church, with Mrs. J. H. Rush as guest speaker. An efficiency contest was held during the year and Trinity Y.W.A. won the banner for the second year; St. James' and Norwood following closely.

In our Presbyterial the girls have chosen one or two missionaries to remember in prayer and by letter. Beginning with 1933 the Y.W.A.'s are to be known as Evening Auxiliaries. I am sure if there are any present or any mother present who has a daughter not linked up with a Misionary Society of any kind, we know if they join and attend the Evening Auxiliary or Circle in their churches they will find an interesting group of girls and instructive meetings. The Evening Auxiliary is for those not able to attend an afternoon W.M.S., while the Circle looks after the younger ones between ages 18-25.

Miss M. Donaldson, reporting as secretary of C.G.I.T. groups said: "At the end of 1931-32 season, report forms were sent out to the four affiliated groups of C.G.I.T. in the city and the returns were as follows: Membership, George St., 36; Knox, 30; St. Andrews, 33; Trinity, 16; with a total of 107. Average attendance: George St., 25; Knox, 20; St. Andrews, 26; Trinity 12; total, 85. George Street held four missionary meetings, Knox 6, St. Andrews 12, and Trinity 8, with a total of 30 meetings.

Several organizations contributed to their respective W.M.S. auxiliaries—George Street, $5; St. Andrews, $25; Trinity $15, making a total of $45. A general summary of the missionary activities and methods of study used by these various groups was also given with many helpful suggestions.

Courtesy Report

The following report of the Courtesy Committee was presented by the convenor, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings: "On behalf of the officers and members of Peterborough Presbyterial we wish to convey our appreciation and thanks to the ladies of George Street Church for the warm welcome we have received; to the ladies of the other churches who so kindly opened their homes to delegates; to our speakers, Mrs. (Dr.) Scott, Miss McIntosh and Miss Dunoon; to Miss Pearl Carruthers and Mrs. Scott Wildman for their beautiful duett; to the choir, organist and pianist, Mr. and Mrs. D. Howat, and soloist, Miss D. Sager, for their splendid service in the musical part of our meeting; to Mr. Millyard who so ably presided over our Tuesday night meeting; to Mr. McNeely who brought the greetings of the Presbytery of which he is chairman; to the girls of George Street Mission Circle for their greatly-appreciated playlet; to the janitor who has kept the churhc so comfortable; to our very efficient press secretary and to all who have in any way helped to make our Presbyterial so great a success.

Greetings Received

During the afternoon kindly greetings were received from the Presbyterian W.M.S. in session in St. Paul's Church.

Greetings were also received from Mrs. W. L. Smyth, M.A., Bay of Quinte branch president of Pembroke and from Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., a former president of the Presbyterial.

A feature of special interest to Mission Band workers, was the award of the "poster contest". This was won by Havelock Mission Band for work done by its children.

The Efficiency Banner went to St. Andrew's Mission Band. Mrs. R. Bamforth and Miss M. Moir were the judges, while Mrs. B. Tucker, new Band secretary, made the presentation in the absence of Miss Wagar.

Miss Lancaster, in summing up the fruits of this wonderful two-day convention congratulated the president and the executive staff upon its success.

She said at the close of such a meeting, there comes a feeling of relief. Sadness in parting and relief, that after all, the work, the responsibility of presiding, of reporting, of entertaining, had been well done and well worth-while.

To many, the greatest business of life is the accumulating of memories and many happy memories are always carried away from such a gathering.

She commended the work of the various departments but had a special word of cheer for the Temperance secretary. In a little story she recently read that Prince Edward Island has a population of 80,000 people who live under most peculiar conditions in this age of depression. There is no unemployment, no crime. They have thirteen policemen, who have no duties to perform. There are no jails and though there has been a divorce court for forty years, they have had no divorces, here is more money in the banks and more prosperity than in any other province. The answer is "40 years of prohibition."

Prayer offeredd by the president, Mrs. Brown, closed the convention of 1933.

HON. H. C. NIXON

WM. J. GARDHOUSE

Here are three Ontario provincial politicians who, it is claimed, are putting new "pep" into the Ontario Liberal party. At a meeting in the historic West York riding, before a great gathering, Mitchell Hepburn, leader of the provincial party out of the House, assailed the policy of the present administration; Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Progressive leader, announced allegiance to the Liberals; Wm. J. Guardhouse was again unanimously elected to represent the famous hot-bed of politics for West York.

Family, Of 3 Nations In Border Dispute

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Canadian and American immigration officials today were considering the puzzle presented by George Jones, 43, and his family of seven, representing three nations.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones are natives of England, United States immigration officers said. Three of their children were born in Canada in three in the United States.

Jones said he served with the Canadian army during the great war and wished to get treatment at a hospital in London, Ont., but when the family appled for admission at Windsor, Ont., Canadian immigration officials turned them back on the ground that only the three children were entitled to entry. Then the parents were found to have entered the United States illegally.

Warsaw

Lenore McIlvena celebrated her eighth birthday on January 9 with a party of eight little girl friends.

Warsaw United Church will hold its annual congregational meeting in the Sunday school room on Wednesday evening, January 25.

Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Wilkinson entertained the members of the quarterly board and their wives at the parsonage on Thursday evening. The board met in the Sunday school room at eight o'clock, and the ladies spent a happy time in social converse and games until the men joined them after the board meeting, when all joined in games or conversation. Mrs. Wilksinson, assisted by some of the ladies, served a sumptuous supper. The gathering dispersed, the better for the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson are a charming host and hostess.

At the annual business meeting of the UnitedChurch choir, Henry Batten presided. Until the closing business of 1932 was completed, when Rev. J. W. Wilkinson took the chair for election of officers. The officers for 1933 are: President, Henry Batten, re-elected; Mrs. George G. Taylor re-elected organist and choir leader; secretary-treasurer, David Miller, re-elected; roll-call secretary, Mrs. Arthur Rayne, re-elected; Mr. Wilkinson again appointed honorary president; committee for new members, Mrs. George G. Taylor, Messrs. Wilkinson and Batten; social committee, Mesdames John Brethour, John Payne, and George Weller.

On motion it was decided to hold a picnic at the lake instead of a quarterly social evening in the summer.

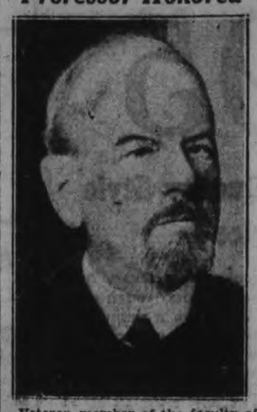
Professor Honored



Veteran member of the faculty of Trinity college, University of Toronto, Prof. A. H. Young, M.A., D.C.L., was signally honored by the faculty, pupils and friends when he was presented with an oil portrait of himself by Evan Macdonald. The presentation commemorated Professor Young's forty-fourth year with the institution. Mr. Young is one of Canada's foremost authorities on Canadian history and when he recently announced his retirement, he stated that he intended to continue his research work in that sphere. Letters and subscriptions were received from all parts of the world for the presentation.

CANADIAN WINTERS

Cold, cold, is the morning, for winter is here,
So cold, I can scarcely say "Happy New Year."
The frost on the window is coated so thick,
And close to the fire, is where I will stick.

The old clothes reel, it gives a loud screech,
I, down to the box, for another stick reach,
Glad that I have a warm spot to stay in,
And that there is still some coal in the bin.

The taps they are frozen, the pump it is, too;
I'll have to get busy and thaw them all through.
This cold, winter weather, it has some flaws,
I would like to do little outside till it thaws.

As people grow older, the winters seem long,
They are glad when they hear the robins first song;
And even Black Crow, though the rascal can't sing,
His shrill, caw, caw, caw, is a herald of spring.

But for young folk indeed, the winter is great,
For then they get out their ski and their skate;
With ice on the river, and snow on the hill,
Sure skating and skiing it gives one a thrill.

The men like the curling, but hockey for boys,
The snowshoe and toboggan, they give many joys,
Though it's hard now for children to find a safe hill,
When the coasting is good, the danger seems nil.

The ice it is cold, and the snow may be deep,
That suits them the better, they jump in each heap,
And when they come in at the end of the day,
Their cheeks are like roses that don't fade away.

Our Canadian winters are cold, indeed, as a rule,
But if we have that climate, we also have fuel.
And what indeed is better or gives one more delight,
To sit by an open fire on a cold and frosty night.

With logs piled high before us as it crackles and roars with glee,
We sit with friends together and wonderful visions see;
We need no entertaining, just a few good things to eat,
Oh, they're great our Canadian winters, but Spring we'll gladly greet.

MABEL DARLING.

Mrs. Lawless Heads St. Luke's Guild

The annual meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Luke's Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the guild room, the president, Miss E. Stewart, in the chair.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read, showing a satisfactory year's work under existing conditions.

The rector, Rev. G. J. Bousfield, then took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. John Scott.
Hon. Vice-President — Miss C. Graham.
President—Mrs. L. R. Lawless.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. T. B. Maniece.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Wm. J. Davies.
Secretary—Mrs. Alex. I. Butcher.
Treasurer—Mrs. Mark Burnham.

With the new president taking over the meeting, the first effort for the present year is a military euchre to be held in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, January 31st.

Vanderbilt Linked In Romance

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR. MISS ADONELL MASSIE.

Although the parents of 19-year-old Adonell Massie of Dallas, Texas, have denied any knowledge of a possible engagement between their beautiful daughter and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., friends say a romance between them has blossomed. Both now are passengers aboard the Empress of Britain making a world cruise. Vanderbilt, a journalist, is shown writing on deck.

ANNUAL MEETING OF KNOX CHURCH

Reports Submitted Reveal Marked Progress During Past Year.

OFFICIALS APPOINTED.

The annual congregational meeting of Knox United Church was held in the Lecture Hall on Wednesday, with a good attendance, when after the devotional exercises, Rev. William McDonald and J. W. Buyers were elected chairman and secretary respectively, of the meeting.

Reports were received in connection with all activities of the church and Sunday school, showing marked progress and success in all branches, but a decrease in revenues. Despite decreasing financial assistance, the church is holding its membership, while the Sunday school attendance is greater.

A. Pitchford expressed the thanks of the congregation to Rev. William and Mrs. McDonald for their leadership during the past year.

The report of the Women's Association was generously applauded by the men, showing their appreciation of the ladies' work.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the official notice of a legacy which had come to the congregation and Womens' Missionary Society from the will of the late Mrs. Helen Roger, who in past years had been actively engaged in women's work at Knox Church. This was gratefully acknowledged by a resolution of the congregation.

Following the reading and adoption of reports, the various officers and representatives were elected. The five retiring members of the Board of Managerment, J. Allen, J. Gerrard, S. Thexton, J. W. Buyers and J. Jackson were re-elected for three-year terms. A. K. Whyte was elected to complete a two year term of office as manager vacated by H. A. Trotter.

On recommendation of the Sunday School, Miss K. Benson and G. Wallace were appointed representatives on the Peterborough Council of Christian Education. D Charlton was elected to the office of Press Secretary for the congregation.

Other appointments by the congregation were representatives on the Anson House Board, Mrs. W. McDonald; Charity Board, R. Mulligan; Bible Society, J. F. Morrison and A. Sanderson. William Watt was re-elected Missionary Fund secretary for the 21st consecutive year.

The auditors of last year, A. Pitchford and H. Clegg were re-elected. They will be relieved of some of their work, it having been suggested that the Sunday school appoint its own auditors.

During the evening the work of the different members of the congregation was praised by the minister and chairman of the Board of Management, John Allen.

Alex Gilles gave a short address on the work of the Sunday School of which he is superintendent.

At the close of the business period refreshments were served by members of the Women's Association and an hour of fellowship followed.

This is the situation that is reaching very serious proportions and we must face it and do all we can to save our community from the fate of others by donating funds or materials.

Other cities with apparent ease have rallied and supported similar efforts above their set objective and Peterborough will surely raise this amount, which is much smaller than asked for elsewhere. Consider yourself in the light of those in need and your contribution, large or small, will be gratefully received by the City Treasurer, Frank Adams.

The Relief Clothing Bureau

Has been opened and is receiving daily quantities of produce, groceries, clothing, stoves, furniture, bedding, etc., but a great deal more is needed, so if you can spare anything of this nature send it to 391 George Street (formerly Eaton's Groceteria), or 'phone and it will be called for.
